SAINT JOHN, NB, Jan. 20 — (CP). — Defence Minister Claxton said here Friday that men are badly needed in both active and reserve forces "and these men will be obtained one way or another." He did not elaborate. Mr. Claxton was addressing a luncheon meeting of the Board of Trade, reserve force officers and others.

Spend $180,000 On County Roads

County council this year are going to ask the Department of Highways to approve an extra $20,000 for the county roads system. This raises the appropriation from $160,000—the figure for the last several years—to $180,000.

At the same time the Suburban Area Commission will have their grant from the county raised from $14,000 to $18,000. The Commission hope to raise an equal amount from the city.

Jack Kean, county engineer and road superintendent, explained to council that one of the main reasons for the higher appropriation for county roads was the increased cost of maintenance. He also said the Suburban Area Commission would have asked for the increase a couple of years ago but they were aware of the County's poor financial position at that time.

Council also decided to drop the county road rate from seven to six mills. This is expected to raise more than $67,000. In 1950, a year of austerity, 6¾ mills were allotted to maintenance and a quarter mill was alloted to construction.

County Engineer Kean estimated that now the $22,000 deficit on the county roads system has been wiped out, the usual rate of six mills would be sufficient. Another consideration is the fact there is a higher assessment this year.

Norman Wilson, reeve of Burleigh-Anstruther, questioned the necessity of levying the usual half-mill for bridges. He felt the northern townships with their increased assessment would be particularly hard hit. However Mr. Kean persuaded him to give it a trial for this year.

At Gannon's Narrows

Council was informed that the Department of Highways and Public Works was taking soundings and core drillings at Gannon's Narrows. This is preparatory to estimating how much rock fill would be required if a causeway is built there.

Mr. Kean said that, according to his latest information, the drillers had found a limestone bottom.

"It looks very good so far as a solid bottom is concerned," he commented.

Council also passed a motion asking the Department of Transport to include in its 1951 estimates provision for a possible swing span in the causeway. The alternative is an overhead bridge.

Confiscate Tub

NEWMARKET, Jan. 20 (CP)— Joseph Sule and ihs wife have used the same "tub" since they came from Hungary 28 years ago —she to do the washing, he to make liquor. Defence counsel said it is perfectly legal to make liquor in Hungary and that Sule believed it permissible in Canada. Sule was fined $225, or three months—and the "tub" was confiscated. "Your wife will have to find another to boil her wash in," said Magistrate O. S. Hollinrake.

Price May Go Up

Forum Discusses Marketing Quality Products

HAVELOCK, Jan. 20—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Simpson opened their home Monday evening to the Trent River West Farm Forum.

After listening to the broadcast "Marketing Quality Products," the discussion was continued in the local forum under the leadership of Fred Taylor, discussion leader for the evening. The forum came to the conclusion that consumers should be willing to pay a premium for high quality produce.

The question on the service of the middleman to the producer was that the middleman could be practically eliminated if there were co-operative marketing centres operated on a cash and carry basis. Also, fewer grades would reduce the price between the producer and consumer.

Another topic discussed was the problem of taxation and assessment in rural areas, and members asked why it is necessary to have a county assessor, when there is a township assessor.

After the discussion euchre was played, followed by lunch served by Mrs. Simpson assisted by Mrs. Harl Miles.

Union Official Gets Fine Back From Judge

TORONTO, Jan. 20 (CP) — A union official convicted of causing a disturbance during a strike at a Toronto can company last July will have his $15 fine and costs refunded, Mr. Justice J. H. King ruled Friday in Supreme Court in upsetting the conviction.

Howard Conquergood, welfare director of the United Steelworkers' Union of America (CIO-CCL), had been convicted of directing strikers to obstruct the company's entrance gate.

Defence counsel E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the CCF opposition in the Ontario legislature, said Magistrate Earl Hand had said there would be a conviction before he asked for defence evidence to be presented. Mr. Jolliffe contended the magistrate had thus prejudged the case.

See Good Year For Fleets On Great Lakes In 1951

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que., Jan. 20 (CP)—Representatives of major shipping companies on the Great Lakes have been told that demand for space is expected to tax the capacity of the Canadian and United States lake fleets this year.

Capt. Norman Reoch, president of the Dominion Marine Association, made that forecast in his annual report to a meeting of the association and the Lake Carriers Association of the United States. The three-day meeting ended Thursday.

Capt. Reoch said the prospects in the industry for 1951 "are very bright indeed."

In 1950 there was a heavy demand for lake space during the entire season, particularly for iron ore. The United States again relaxed its coasting laws so Canadian ships were permitted to engage in the iron-ore trade.

Several large freighters were commissiond in 1950 and Imperial Oil is expected to commission two large lake tankers this year.

Other Building

"Also, it is understood that the building of other large lakers is projected for the season 1951-52," said Capt Reoch.

He said Colonial Steamships has launched the 7,000-ton lake vessel Scott Misener and Imperial Oil is building two large upper-lake tankers. Other large lake vessels are projected for 1951-52, said Capt. Reoch.

Association members re-elected Charles Faessler of Toronto a vice-president and George R. Donovan, Toronto, secretary. The executive: G. H. Shanks, Sault Ste. Mari; G. M. Davidson, Brockville; W. F. Fletcher, Montreal; Capt. Scott Misener, Port Colborne; Capt. George Hindman, Owen Sound; George Porter, Jr., Toronto; J. N. Patterson, Fort William, and W. E. Collison, Montreal.

Members of the association and the U.S. Lake Carriers' Association planned steps to stop the smoke nuisance from freighters in Great Lakes communities.

Britain's Export Drive Reaches Peak Levels

LONDON, Jan. 20 Reuters) — Britain's export drive reached peak levels in 1950 with goods worth £2,170,000,000 (about $6,076,000,000) shipped. This was 21 per cent more than 1949 in value and about 15 per cent up in volume.

Imports of £2,602,900,000 were £347,900,000 in excess of exports, but the export-import deficit was £82,100,000 less than in 1949. Higher world prices accounted for part of the jump in value.

Exports to Canada in December, 1950, valued at £9,900,000, showe d a lower daily rate than October or November, but equalled the rate of the third quarter of 1950.

Get Signals Mixed Canadian Helps Out

VANCOUVER, Jan. 20—(CP)—The Canadian destroyers in Korean waters are a fine go-between for the British and U.S. naval forces there, a Canadian Navy information officer said Thursday.

Lieut. Al Plosz, who flew here from Tokyo, told this story:

U.S. and British ships were exchanging messages to no avail. They could not understand one another's signals.

A Canadian signals officer stepped in. "I'm a Canuck," he said. "And I can understand you both".

He then cleared messages for the fleets.

Lieut. Plosz, en route to Ottawa to report, said United Nations forces continue to dominate the seas around Korea.

"We shelled west coast ports of Korea at will," he said. "The Communists have hardly any fleet and our main job was destroying Russian-made mines and searching junks".

MacArthur Raps Homer Bigart For Reporting

NEW YORK, Jan. 20—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur has accused Homer Bigart, New York Herald Tribune war correspondent, of "biased and inaccurate reporting."

Bigart recently wrote an article for Look magazine entitled "Why We Got Licked." Among other things, he accused MacArthur of unsound military tactics, gross miscalculations concerning the enemy and a "momentous blunder" in Korea.

The general's reply was contained in a cablegram to Robert Montgomery, American Broadcasting Company radio commentator, who had asked him to comment on the article. Montgomery read the reply on his program Thursday night.

"I believe such charges are so completely belied by the record that they will be fully recognized as but a phase of the irresponsible propaganda campaign against the command, and fall wide of the intended mark," MacArthur said.

Not First Time

"This same writer has repeatedly written off the army as lost and by his biased and inaccurate reporting held up to universal contempt the courage and fighting qualities of the gallant American soldier and the leadership of his officers."

The Herald Tribune reported Bigart was out of town and unavailable for comment. A Herald Tribune spokesman said the newspaper had no comment.

Bigart won a Pulitzer prize for his reporting of the Second World War in the Herald Tribune.

Movie Column

Glamor Boys Advised Forget Toupees

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20 (AP)—Slick-topped character actor Fred Clark today called on Hollywood's glamor boys to toss away their toupees.

"You're making it tough on the millions of bald-headed Americans," Clark advised. "They may get inferiority complexes because they see every male film star with a full head of hair, whether it's his or Max Factor's.

"The baldies of America are in danger of feeling socially and romantically inferior because of how they are pictured in the movies. There's no reason why Hollywood can't have at least one romantic star who is bald."

Clark himself has had a fine head of skin for many years, but he is no oldtimer. He shields his exact age because he fears producers will think he is too young for the character roles he portrays. (My spies report he is in his 30s.)

The actor is living proof that a shiny-domed male can be successful socially and professionally. He is one of the film town's most popular escorts, his current date being Benay Venuta. He is also one of the busiest actors, with or without a toupee. He has appeared on the screen both ways, but shuns the hairpiece in his personal life.

"The toupee is just as dishonest for the male as the falsie is for the female," he reasoned. "I think it is much better to look bald than phoney. Most women can spot a toupee at 10 paces. The movies may be able to trick audiences with fake hair, but it's too easily detected in person."

Clark cited science to support his argument. He observed that studies in recent years have shown that baldness is a sign of virility. The fact that baldness occurs infrequently with women adds to that belief, he said.

Training For Princess Patricias Now On Round-the-Clock Basis

By WILLIAM BOSS

MIRYANG, Korea, Jan. 20 — (CP)— Training for the Patricias now is on a round-the-clock basis.

The 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricias' Canadian Light Infantry, is working hard 24 hours a day in preparation for the day when Lt.-Gen. Matthew Ridgway, commander of the United States Eighth Army, calls it into action.

One company of this first unit of Canada's special force raised to fight for the United Nations in Korea or elsewhere already has seen action. Maj. Vince Lilley of Hamilton, who led the company against a guerrilla stronghold last weekend after two New Zealand soldiers had been killed and two wounded in an ambush, said he believed his men killed two Communist guerrillas and wounded three. The company was supported by 300 South Korean police.

After two months lost in transit and another fortnight spent in preliminary conditioning and making the acquaintance of their weapons, the men have swung into company manoeuvres—soon to be followed by battalion workouts.

Toughening-Up Process

The first part of its period at Miryang was given over to toughening-up: route marches, mountain climbing. Rifles and automatic weapons were tested, and the boys with the fancy weapons put them to work for the first time.

Flame-throwers squirted on to ice of the Miryang River convulsed patches into boiling water.

The first mortar bomb fired by the platoon commanded by Capt. Lloyd Hill of Kentville, NS, landed square on its target (but not all those following did as well.)

It was a tough routine, but the boys pitched in. Up at 6 a.m., they were off to the surrounding hills by eight o'clock and stayed out until 5 p.m. Some days a hot meal was taken out to them, others they lived on field rations.

Companies spelled one another off at five-hour-long periods of sentry-go, imposed as part of the conditioning. They were periods of stand-to before dawn and at dusk for the same purpose.

Now it's all-day, overnight and 24-hour exercises, with generally at least one company out on a scheme.

Returning Home

First company to complete its platoon drills and plan a company exercise was commanded by Maj. John Firth of Paris, Ont., who returns home this weekend for compassionate reasons. He sent his men out into a daylight attack after which they consolidated positions on their objective.

Snipers and scouts under the intelligence officer, Lieut. A. P. P. McKenzie of Vancouver, observed the operation from the hills and during the night attempted infiltration of Firth's position.

Main results of the overnight and 24-hour schemes were authorization of a rum issue of an ounce a day a man and a decrease in the amount of money the men spent on firewood for their tents.

Rum had to be drunk when issued and could not be saved up.

Practising moves on short notice, Maj. Lilley was able to get his company packed and under way in 30 minutes. "We'll get it down to 20 minutes before I'm satisfied," he said.

Is He a Valuable Conservationist?

Yes! The setter has been specially trained to co-operate with the hunter in conservation.

The natural instinct of the setter is to hunt. By developing this instinct and learning to retrieve, he becomes a valuable conservationist. In the field he seeks out lost and wounded birds for his master. The setter helps prevent needless loss and unintentional over-shooting.

Conservation of our wildlife is a must if we are to enjoy it. Nature unspoiled is yours to enjoy . . . yours to protect.

Find Villages Buried As Avalanches Kill 177 In Alps' Slides

GENEVA, Switzerland; Jan. 22.—(AP)—The death toll stood at 177 with many still missing today as rescue workers in three Alpine countries dug through snow and debris left by disastrous weekend avalanches. Switzerland had more than 67 dead, Austria at least 62 and Italy 15 as a result of great slides crashing down Alpine slopes for the last three days. Whole villages were buried, houses broken like kindling wood and families entombed by the thundering snow.

The avalanches appeared to be decreasing, but officials warned of the danger of new slides.

Thousands of Britons and Americans were temporarily isolated at swank ski resorts. None of the resorts were believed to be in any danger, however. They were said to have ample food stocks.

The slides resulted from heavy snows last week. Avalanches are not uncommon in the Alps, but the weekend number was believed a record.

Hardest Hit

Hardest hit of the three countries was Switzerland, where the slides brought tragedy to dozens of quiet valleys.

Throughout the night rescue workers toiled feverishly in an effort to save 14 men and women still buried at the Swiss village of Vals, 4,000 feet up in the Alps.

A great mass of snow roared down into the little hamlet Saturday night, knocking over five houses and burying 31 persons. Twelve were brought out alive Sunday and five dead, including three children.

The village was cut off from communication with the outside world most of Sunday, but the army of rescue workers reached it late in the day.

At Safien-Neukirch in Graubuenden, a family of six was buried beneath a mass of snow Sunday. The parents and two children were later found dead. One child still is missing. The other lived, badly injured, to describe the terrible experience.

More than 500 workers managed to free one track of the mainline railroad from eastern Switzerland to Italy, through the Gotthard Pass.

Freight Rates Increased In Ont., Quebec

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP) — Increases in freight rates for Quebec and Ontario, amounting to about $1,000,000 a year, were announced today.

George F. Buckingham, general traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, told the Board of Transport Commissioners the railways hope to put the increases into effect before the end of February.

They will be applied on "pick-up-and-delivery" shipments in the two provinces and on special "all-commodity" rates between Montreal and Toronto.

Don't Need Permission

These are depressed "competitive" charges which the railways can increase without applying to the board.

Mr. Buckingham said the "pickup-and-delivery" rates on less-than-carload shipments of under 3,000 pounds will be increased 11½ per cent and for shipments over 3,000 pounds the increase will be 10 per cent.

The special Montreal-Toronto rates will go up 10 per cent.

Mr. Buckingham said these rates had been agreed on at a conference of the major railways Friday.

Try Water Diviner In Search For Stone

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP). — A mental telepathist and a water diviner have joined the quest for the missing stone of scone.

The baffled sleuths of Scotland Yard have been searching vainly for the highly-prized Scottish relic, stolen from Westminster Abbey last Christmas. So far the new clues haven't helped the Yard much.

The telepathist is 39-year-old Peter Hurkos, a Netherlander who says he can solve crimes by thought transference.

It's a science young Copen invented. It works on the water-discovery principle, but instead of using a twig which bends when it passes over water, Copen holds a pendulum over a map. The vibrations, he says, tell him where certain valuable stones are located.

Boulder Hits House Crushes Woman

LESAGE, W.Va., Jan. 22 (AP) —A huge boulder weighing tons plunged down a hillside today into the home of an elderly spinster and crushed her.

Miss Bess Christy, about 60, still was conscious but apparently in great pain when frantic rescue workers got the big rock off her several hours later. She was taken to a hospital.

Police and others released her after struggling with the boulder more than two hours.

Food Problem Besets India

NEW DELHI, Jan. 22 (AP).—Prime Minister Nehru returned home today to face the pressing problem of finding enough food for India's 350,000,000 people.

Foreign affairs have been absorbing much of his time recently, but now he must deal with a food shortage which brought a 25-per-cent cut in food rations during his absence.

India has arranged for imports from the United States, Canada, Australia, Burma, China and Thailand, but for the time being will have to get along on short rations.

Nehru is expected to issue a statement on the food crisis, perhaps before India celebrates the first anniversary of the declaration of her status as a sovereign democratic republic Jan. 26.

Obviously fatigued upon his arrival here, he was asked by a reporter: "What are the chances of war or peace?"

"What a question," Nehru snapped.

Has Diamonds Hidden In Hollowed-out Heels

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP). — Leister Weitman 31, was arrested today on a charge of smuggling diamonds valued at $280,000 hidden in the hollowed-out heels of his shoes.

Weitman, of Brooklyn, was held in $100,000 bail following araignment on the smuggling charge.

Customs officials said Weitman was seized Sunday at New York International Airport when he alighted from a plane from Brussels. Inspectors said they found 11 small packets—each about the size of a five-blade package of razor blades—in the elevated-heel shoes Weitman was wearing.

Colossal Hoarding Makes Hong Kong Inflation Worse

HONG KONG, Jan. 22 (AP)—As usual, it's Mr. Average Man who's feeling the pinch as Hong Kong slides down the road from riches toward rags.

This British colony has been caught in an economic squeeze between Communist China and the United States. Exports of strategic American goods which might find their way into Chinese Communist hands have been embargoed by the United States. Hong Kong, an export-import centre, is suffering.

A survey conducted by the British-owned South China Sunday Post-Herald reported that prices of foodstuffs and other essential consumer commodities in Hong Kong have risen between 20 and 50 per cent.

"Colossal hoarding" was only one of several factors cited by the survey.

Speculators, blamed for much of the prices, were grouped in two categories by the Post-Herald:

"The normal predatory type, who take advantage of any such commercial upsets to cash in on commodities in short supply and hold them for a profit," and "another set of office men who wish to have their assets in goods rather than in currency."

Whatever the motives, it is clear that hoarders are playing hob with what was a well-heeled economy only a month ago.

Even Hong Kong's industry is beginning to come apart at the seams. Another newspaper reported that more than 50 per cent of the colony's 150 metalware factories have closed since December.

About 1,000 persons have been thrown out of work by these closures, caused by the lack of aluminum and tin-plate waste from the United States.

Red 5th Column Prepared Seize West Germany

BONN, Germany, Jan. 22 (Reuters).—Alleged Communist plans to take over key posts in West Germany, blow up bridges and stop electric power, railways, telephones and factories until the arrival of East German "People's Police," are described in a report issued here by anti-Communist groups. The report says "a secret and fanatical network of agents, liberally supplied with cash," is standing by for "X Day" if the Kremlin decides to seize power in West Germany.

Trained agents, it says, are pouring in at the rate of several hundred a month. They are described as mainly skilled workers who have been schooled in the art of "individual resistance."

The report, to be circulated to German members of parliament, was prepared by the anti-Communist "First Legion" organization and the "Action Group Against Inhumanity," with which some German members of parliament are closely connected.

It is based partly on information put out by the government and evidence from Communist deserters and "private sources."

Building Powerful Nucleus

Andreas Palitschka, an official of the Communist "Free German Youth," recently told a secret meeting in West Germany that the movement was building up powerful cells in the post offices, railways and leading steel factories, the report says.

Other evidence advanced in the report includes:

1. British police found a powerful short-wave transmitter in action in a raid on Communist party headquarters in Dusseldorf last autumn.

2. A huge quantity of propaganda material was found recently hidden in a barge carrying newsprint from East to West Germany.

3. Communists demonstrating in the Ruhr have been found carrying West German currency equivalent to as much as $46,000.

Boucher Favors Enlarging NHL

MONTREAL, Jan. 22 (CP).—Frank Boucher of New York Rangers, came out here during the week-end with the suggestion the National Hockey League be enlarged as a means of boosting attendance.

He was discussing possible reasons for the decline in attendance in United States crowds.

"The crowds are holding up in Montreal, Toronto and Detroit," he said. "But they are down in New York, Boston, and Chicago. Hockey needs a lift in those cities and enlarging the league to include 12 teams may be the answer."

He said he believes it would be a step forward if the league were divided into two divisions, East and West. In Boucher's Eastern division would be New York, Boston, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa. The Western division would embrace Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, Buffalo and St. Louis.

"An interlocking schedule could be drawn up and you can see the advantage of it," he said. "The fans would see twice as many teams in a season as they see today."

Battle-Tested Huron Sets Sail For Korea

HALIFAX, Jan. 22—(CP))—The battle - tested destroyer Huron, fifth Canadian naval vessel to sail for the Korean war, began her long voyage in bitterly cold weather from this old port today.

The Huron, with 11 sinkings of enemy ships to her credit during the Second World War, is under command of Cmdr. E. T. C. Madgwick, 34, of Halifax and Ottawa. She will replace the destroyer Cayuga in the war zone.

A band was drawn up on the jetty but when the musicians began to play their instruments froze. A heated bus was rushed to the rescue and the band played from inside.

4 Columns Probe Deep In Red Lines

Security Blackout On All News Along Western Front

TOKYO, Jan. 22. — (AP) — Four powerful Allied motorized columns with tanks and artillery ranged deep into Communist-occupied areas today along a 50-mile span of the Western Korean front. They found the Chinese Reds — reported building up strength in the area for a new drive — wary and apparently unwilling to fight in force. On the central front, a powerful Allied patrol seized the Wonju airstrip again Monday. It also pushed Reds off a nearby height. The four-pronged Allied thrust in the west was termed officially a "reconnaissance in considerable force." After failing to flush out Communists in strength, the four columns returned to the main Allied lines.

One column drove straight through Osan and prowled north of the town. Osan, 28 air miles south of Seoul, is the place where the first American soldier of the Korean war was killed.

A second column ranged through Kymyangjang, 10 miles northeast of Osan. A third unit drove north between these two colmns.

Battle Near Ichon

The fourth column ran into an hour-long fight shortly after noon Monday (10 p.m. EST Sunday) near Ichon, along the lateral road from Kymyangjang to Wonju.

Then the U.S. Eighth Army clamped a security blackout on all news stories mentioning action on the western front. It banned reporting of any movement after noon Monday in the area west of Yoju, a town 18 miles west of Wonju.

Sure U.S. Air Defence Can Avert Disaster

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (CP)—Gen. Omar Bradley told Congress today that United States air defences, "combined with the efforts of the Canadians" could avert "complete disaster" to the U.S. He added that "if a determined enemy is willing to expend the effort, some bombers will get through."

Testifying before the Senate Preparedness Sub-committee, the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff said bombing of American cities might be possible but "there is little real danger now of the continental United States bieng invaded and over-run so far as we can see."

He gave the committee a briefing on how the services plan to meet any attack.

"The initial retaliation against an enemy by strategic bombing will be provided if the air power and the necessary army and navy support to seize and hold the bases from which to operate are in our hands the moment an emergency arises," he said.

Stage Lion Hunt

ROME, Jan. 22 (AP). — Rome's riot police had a lion-hunting party Sunday night in the stairway of an apartment house. An occupant found a lion at the door when he was leaving. He called the riot police, who shot the lion, which had escaped earlier from a circus nearby.

Boiling Lava Kills 23 In New Guinea

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea, Jan 22 (Reuters).—Boiling lava spewing from erupting Mount Lamington has killed a British missionary and at least 22 natives. The death toll may well be higher.

The missionary, the Rev. Dennis Taylor, died when the lava swept over the Anglican Sangara mission in one of the wildest parts of New Guinea. Anxiety was expressed for 34 other Europeans.

News seeping through today told of volcano eruptions at Lamington that turned a huge area into a bubbling devil's cauldron.

There was no news of Taylor's wife and four children, or of an Australian woman teacher and two other whites known to have been at the mission.

Lamington is more than 100 miles from Port Moresby. It is the first time eruptions have been reported there.

70 Tremors a Day

The eruptions are said to have started Thursday and were followed each by as many as 70 earth tremors.

Pilots flying over the exploding mountain area reported hundreds of natives, bewildered by the "night in daytime" atmosphere created by the huge ash cloud, were crawling away from the volcano on their hands and knees.

Apparently they were exhausted or were keeping close to the ground to avoid dangerous gases.

Ash clouds, spreading over a vast area, reached Port Moresby

CanadaRequests More U.S. Steel

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP)—Canada has made another bid to obtain increased shipments of steel from the United States, needed for freight-car and lake shipping vessels construction programs.

The request was made by Kenneth Harris, steel administrator, while conferring with U.S. officials in Washington last week. A decision is expected within a fortnight.

The United States already has made a spot allocation of 32,000 tons of steel for Canada's freight-car program for the March-June period. The new bid is to continue shipments in later months to help Canada achieve a target of 11,000 new freight cars in 1951.

A small allotment also has been made for the construction of such vessels as ore carriers and tankers. The new request is for steel to cover other lake shipping building programs as well.

Stage Holdup As Bank Opens Doors

Passing Motorist Notices Robbery And Turns In Alarm

TORONTO, Jan. 22.—(CP)—Four armed men, directed by a leader who called signals like a football quarterback, today robbed a branch of the Dominion Bank of $5,000.

Police said they believe the same four robbed a Bank of Commerce branch of $10,000 last December. In both cases, the robbers wore coveralls.

The leader stood near the bank door during today's holdup, shouting a series of numbers, said police. His three companions acted promptly on each number. When he called "six" they turned and fled, making their escape in a new model car. The bank is at Dovercourt and Davenport Roads in West Toronto.

The bank staff said three men wore dark glasses, the other a white handkerchief over his face. Two brandished guns as they vaulted the counter and took money from the tills. No attempt was made to enter the vault.

Earlier Holdup

In 1942, the same bank was the scene of one of Ontario's most sensational bank holdups. A man bored a hole in the roof and let himself into the bank with a fire-escape rope stolen from a hotel. As the bank staff arrived, he tied

Alberta Quirk Upsets Weather

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (CP)—"Alberta lows" is the term weather men used today to describe the cold shivers running across Canada.

One rippled to the Atlantic ocean during the week-end, plunging the mercury down as it came along the U.S. border and in general playing hob with weather forecasts across southern Canada.

Alberta lows are caused by Pacific storms getting lost in the Rocky Mountains. They filter through to Alberta and regroup. Then they send alternate waves of warm and cold air eastward. The variations are confined to southern Canada.

The latest Alberta low originated in the Saturday storm that hit the Queen Charlotte Islands. While it caused little temperature change in British Columbia—which continues in the upper 30s—once over Alberta the disturbance turned cold.

The prairie provinces shivered under temperatures as low as zero and Ontario thermometers fell from 50 to zero overnight. Today, in the wake of the low, temperatures in Ontario are due to reach a high of 25, but in Quebec and the Maritimes falling temperatures will continue for several days.

From Ontario west the mercury will rise—until Alberta dumps her secnod low later this week.

Poor Civilians Haven't Chance

Nothing Sacred On Patricias' Battlefield

MIRYANG, Korea, Jan. 22—(CP)—The training program of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry today has reached the stage where it's "pity the poor civilian".

The Patricias are beginning to get the training the Canadian army in England went through during exercises Spartan and Tiger in 1942-43 when it was turned loose across the country to accustom troops to tactical movements in war.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton's forces at that time drove tanks through fences and barns in cross-country manoeuvres, deployed infantry through grain fields and practised field engineering along the Thames. The Patricias in Korea are following a similar routine.

One company under Maj. Jack George of Edmonton returned to camp Sunday after a week in the area allotted the battalion for field exercises.

With order to prepare the site as though it actually was to be used, Maj. George's men dug into the terraced and rice-paddied landscape for a solid week.

Only One Complaint

Only one Korean complained as at platoon under Lieut. Robert Whittaker of Saint John, N.B., was about to incorporate his rice pady into th escheme. Whittaker, after indicating he regretted that it had to be done, carried on with the work.

Generally Maj. George kept the neighboring communities in the picture as to what his work involved regarding their property. He found most were appreciative of the fact that the Canadians had come a long way to defend them and wanted only time to make necessary personal plans.

To enable proper fields of fire, the men were forced to shoot down a centuries-old "spirit" tree, supposedly frequented by the spirits of the dead. It had a little shrine at the base and was surrounded by an old stone wall. Explosives were used to demolish the shine wall.

The largest undertaking was to clear an apple orchard of 100 trees and bulldoze roads across paddy fields almost 2,000 years old. At the scheme's end the work was pronounced "first rate" by the United States colonel in charge of the site.

A company under Maj. George Flint of Montreal went through a 24-hour workout. It was so cold that water bottles froze. Lieut. Harold Hayes of Vancouver had to heat a tin of frozen fruit for breakfast and Sgt. Alex Shearer of Vancouver, in charge of Vickers machine guns, had to heat parts of the weapon to get it working again.

Several soldiers, tired of digging into the rocky hillsides, hired Korean woodsmen working nearby to dig slit trenches for them. Pte. Ron Bourgon of Ottawa was one. He said he paid his Korean 75 cents for the job—then "rented him out" to some of his soldier buddies and recovered 50 cents from them.

Say Formosa Vital To U.S., Back Chiang

Submit Proposal Asking UN To Condemn Peiping

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 22.—(AP) — A declaration that American security needs dictate United States policy on Formosa confronted United Nations delegates today.

UN diplomats, who have been trying to work out a new formula for peace in Korea, also were told that:

1. The US wants Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese government represented at any conference on the future of Formosa, last-ditch island stronghold of that regime.

2. The US will continue to oppose seating the Chinese Communists in the UN.

The declaration of US policy was made Sunday night by Ernest A. Gross, Deputy US Representative to the UN in a formal statement.

Expects Support

It came on the eve of a meeting of the 60-country political committee at which Russian and Asian delegates were expected to oppose a US resolution condemning Communist China for aggression in Korea.

Gross also said that a survey by the U.S. delegation indicated that a majority of the committee would vote for the U.S. proposal, which asks the U.N. to consider means of punishing the Peiping Reds. A U.S. spokesman said a vote is expected by the middle of the week.

In a move which observers here interpreted as rejecting in advance any new peace appeal to Peiping, Gross said:

"We have reserved and continue to reserve the right to make certain that the question of Formosa will be handled in a way completely consistent with our national interest and security.

"We believe that if there are discussions of these matters there should be appropriate participation of directly-interested governments, including the Nationalist government of China."

Informed quarters in Washington said this did not represent a new American policy, but was the most forthright public statement of that policy yet made.

Cross' statement did not say the U.S. would refuse to discuss the future of Formosa with other U.N. members. It made clear, however, the conditions under which such discussions must take place and the attitude the U.S. would bring to the conference table.

Find Husband Slain Wife May Be Charged

MOUNT BRYDGES, Jan. 22.—Clubbed to death with the blunt edge of an axe, the body of tobacco farmer George Lawrence, 43, was found in the bedroom of his farm home, three miles west of here early Sunday.

His wife, Elizabeth, about 41, was found unconscious in a downstairs hall with both wrists slashed. She was taken to Victoria Hospital, London, and had not regained consciousness late Sunday night.

Provincial police said it was a case of murder and attempted suicide and said that Mrs. Lawrence would be charged with murder if she lived.

Lawrence, police said, had been struck at least five times over the head. They believe he was in bed sleeping when he was attacked. They said Mrs. Lawrence used a razor blade to cut her wrists.

No Inconsistency In U.S. Policy

MONTREAL, Jan. 22—(CP)—There has been and will be "no inconsistency" in United States foreign policy, Stanley Woodward, U.S. ambassador to Canada, told the Canadian Club today.

In an address prepared for delivery, Mr. Woodward referred to criticism in the U.S. of that country's policies. He said President, Truman, who is charged with the conduct of foreign relations, will continue as head of the state until at least the next general election, at the end of 1952.

"Under our constitution," he added, "right of freedom of speech is guaranteed . . . On the other hand, I am afraid that a good deal of the criticism is of the irresponsible variety. This probably makes for greater confusion abroad than it does at home. Even in Canada, which can hardly be called 'abroad,' I find references to our hysteria, our excitement, our confusion.

"I only wish that all of you—and this goes for my fellow citizens too—could be as familiar as I am with the day-to-day work in the government and with the men who are directing this work from Washington.

"I can only assure you officially and personally that there has been, that there is, and that in my opinion there will be—no inconsistency in our foreign policy."

An Australian pilot reported the cloud covered 100 square miles and reached upward 40,000 feet.

Base Metals Dominate Trading On Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP).—Base metals dominated trading as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The group climbed strongly in extremely active dealings. The base metal index of 15 selected stocks jumped about 2¾ points to a new 16-year peak for the third successive session.

Steep Rock, a feature last week, again held the spotlight. Amid heavy trading it jumped 72 cents to a new all-time high at 105. Labrador was up 85 cents and Sherritt Gordon traded briskly for a 30-cent increase. Quemont and International Nickel went against the trend and dipped fractions.

Calgary and Edmonton was the feature in the higher Western oill ist. It added 1⅛ to reach a pew peak at 11⅞.

Industrials eased in dull dealings. Price changes were mostly fractional and steels, papers, agricultures, constructions, foods, liquors, refining oils and banks showed a majority of losses in the groupings.

Strikes, Influenza Delay Burial Of Dead

SHANNON, Republic of Ireland Jan. 22 (Reuters).—A combination of strikes and influenza is delaying burial of the dead in Limerick, third largest city in the Republic of Ireland.

Influenza has multiplied the death rate. Grave-diggers will no longer work Sundays and a rail strike now five weeks old has caused a holdup in timber supplies for coffin-making. Only plain, unvarnished coffins are being used.

Four Columns

The ban covered the entire area where the four strong Allied motorized columns were operating.

There was no explanation. A memorandum said the order would remain in effect until further notice. Such a ban usually covers important troop movements.

For days field dispatches have told of a Red build-up in the western Korean area southeast of Seoul.

An accident routed Allied troops in one forward village. An exploding gasoline stove ignited eight ammunition-loaded trailers Monday and within minutes destroyed half of the Korean town.

United Nations troops fled their bilelts. Some hadn't even time to put on heavy clothing needed in the zero cold.

No Serious Injuries

No serious injuries were reported, most of the exploding ammunition was white phosphorous which burns at intense heat. Fire spread along the thatched roofs of huts. Abandoned machine-gun and rifle shells crackled. An engineer detachment lost trucks and other rolling stock in the fire.

South African planes struck hard Monday at the Ichon area where the Reds continued their brisk fighting on Saturday and Sunday. Other Allied planes hit both the east and west coasts.

Dump Tons Of Bombs

The sky raiders dumped 100 tons of bombs each at Chongjin on the Sea of Japan and Yonan on the Yellow Sea.

Eighth Army reconnaissance-in-force units bucked Sunday into Chinese Reds around Osan and Inchon. They pulled back before the enemy could overpower them with superior numbers. Strong Allied patrols swept in and out of Wonju in the same way.

The clear, cold Korean day brought out air power in strength on both sides. The U.S. Fifth Air Force and its Australian and South African allies roamed the skies all along the battle line and far behind the Red front-line forces.

Twelve Russian-made MIG fighter jets made a half-hearted swipe at four U.S. F-84 jets over North Korea and then turned tail for home when the Americans showed fight. No damage was inflicted on either side.

But fighters, including F-86 Sabre jets, and bombers pounded at enemy supplies and concentration points. They scored hits on some camouflaged tanks and rockets and fire-bombed Red villages.

Stronger Enemy Air Raids

An increase in enemy air power was noted during the weekend. A total of 54 MIGs were sighted in the air Sunday. A few scattered Allied areas were bombed ineffectually by night raiders.

One MIG was shot down and another damaged Sunday in five air fights.

Ichon, 30 miles southeast of Seoul, was taken by the Reds in a series of attacks that began Saturday noon.

Another Allied raiding party captured and held the pock-marked Wonju airfield for three hours Sunday but pulled out for the night under a rain of Communist fire from the hills.

The U.S. Eighth Army communique said aggressive Red elements of the Chinese 42nd Army Corps drove allied scouts out of Ichon Sunday. The Reds also made it too hot for the allied patrol in the town of Wonju. But the allied troops were back Monday hammering at the gateway of both cities.

Associated Press correspondent William C. Barnard said the Wonju fighting took place in 10-below-zero temperatures with a cold wind whistling off the icy mountains.

An Eighth Army spokesman said both civilians and prisoners told of a Chinese Red build-up of additional thousands of troops in the west below fire-blackened Seoul, the abandoned South Korean capital.

Hundreds of Red infiltrators trying to get behind allied lines and wreck supply convoys, were reported 21 miles southeast of Chechon in the Tanyang-Yongwol-Chechon triangle.

Simulaneously, Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri proclaimed "civil defence week" in the city.

Two Hurricanes Strike B.C. Coast

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 22 (CP) —British Columbia's barren, sparsely - populated northern coastline was hammered Saturday by two hurricanes sweeping in from the Pacific Ocean.

Wind gusts reached 140 miles an hour in the Queen Charlotte Islands, 500 miles north of here, but the winds decreased in intensity as they sped southward to the northern tip of Vancouver Island.

Although one life was lost, a count Sunday showed the storm hurled its most potent punches at a wilderness target, diminishing the damage toll.

The storm struck Saturday morning, diminished, then struck once more late in the afternoon.

Winds whipped up to 70 and 80-foot waves, driving ships to sheltered coves. Walter Bremner, 50, was the only fatality. He was swept overboard from the Island Mariner.

It was BC's second storm blow within a week. Hurricane-force winds pounded Victoria Monday in a wallop extending to southern Oregon. Damage reached $100,000 here in that storm.

Gale warnings were also displayed in the southern coastal areas of Canada's Atlantic provinces Sunday night as the centre of an intensifying storm moved along the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Railway Crippled

The mountain railway connecting Davos, St. Moritz, Arosa and other resorts with the outside world still is badly crippled. Officials hoped to open the line from Arosa today, but said that it would take several days to get through to St. Moritz.

Tragic casualty stories filtered in over disrupted communications lines.

Fresh slides made rescue hazardous. At Zernez, a road worker was buried. Six other men lost their lives trying to dig him out.

Fears were expressed for the safety of the occupants of a small hotel at Oberalpsee, central Switzerland, which was completely covered by mountainous slides. It was not known how many persons were in the hotel.

Car, Engine Collide Three People Killed

LEVIS, Que., Jan. 22 —(CP)—Three persons were killed today when their auto collided with a Canadian National Railways locomotive at Carrier-Junction between this St. Lawrence River south shore town and St. Henri.

All three occupants of the auto, who were on their way home, were killed instantly.

The auto was demolished and remained entangled with the locomotive. Workers using acetylene torches worked several hours before they were able to extricate the bodies from the wreck.

Stage Holdup

them up one by one. He escaped with $15,000.

Three years ago, Harry Duguid was held as a suspect in the robbery when he was arrested in connection with a bank holdup near Niagara Falls. He escaped from Welland county jail by sawing his way out. He is still at large.

Roy A. Jennings, who was the branch manager at the time of the earlier robbery, had just opened his office this morning when four men entered. One covered him with a gun and another lined up the two customers. Caretaker John Perry, who had been polishing brass at the front of the bank, was marched in at gunpoint ahead of the four.

Robert Kennedy, a Toronto hydro inspector, spotted the holdup as he was driving by in his car. He stopped to take a better look, then drove to a service station and asked the attendant to call police.

He walked a block back to the bank but by that time the four had fled and police were arriving. John Nimmo, inspector of detectives, said it was one of Toronto's fastest robberies.

Mr. Perry shouted a warning "look out" to the bank staff as he went into the bank and then ran downstairs to ring an alarm which sounds in another branch of the bank. He gave police a description of the car and its licence number. Police said the licence plates had apparently been stolen during the night from a 1935 model car.

In the chase which followed, police said the holdup car was seen on Lansdowne Avenue, several blocks west of the bank.

One-Hour Boat Trip Takes 8 Hrs. On Ferry

BEACON, N.Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—Seventy-six ferryboat passengers arrived weary-eyed Saturday when the one-mile trip across the Hudson River from Newburgh turned into an eight-hour ride.

They boarded the ferryboat Orange at about midnight. The ship encountered fog, however, got stuck on a mudbank, and was unable to free itself until about 8 a.m.

3 Powers Will Ask Russia About Talks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP).—The United States, Britain and France will call on Russia this week to state her attitude toward sitting down with them to talk over a wide range of world problems.

The western powers' note, carefully worded, will be delivered in Moscow probably Tuesday. It will be the fourth in a series of exchanges between Russia and the west on the idea of holding a big four meeting.

The curious thing about this exchange is that none of the governments involved seems to feel that a big four session actually would result in substantial agreements and thereby lessen world tension. On the contrary, some authorities here feel that tensions at the end of any such session might be worse because of its failures.

MONTREAL, Jan. 22—(CP)—The market rate for United States funds as reported by the Bank of Canada at noon today, EST, was $1.05 3/32. Friday's noon rate was $1.05 3/16.

The pound sterling was $2.94¼ against $2.94½ Friday.

Loves Freedom Defiant German Ruins Red Trial

BY THOMAS A. REEDY

BERLIN, Jan. 22 (AP)—An 18-year-old German's defiant cry that he would rather die than bow to Communist rule stirred his countrymen today on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

"I love my freedom more than my life," Hermann Joseph Flade shouted to a Communist court in Russian-controlled Dresden.

Fired by this outburst, West Berlin youth organizations scheduled a mass demonstration tonight against the death sentence imposed on Flade as an enemy of the Communist state.

Similar rallying reaction to the youth as an anti-Communist symbol has erupted throughout West Germany. Rias, American-licensed German language radio, is spraying Russian-zone listeners with the story of the Communist propaganda maneouvre that boomeranged.

It is possible the uproar may be a factor in keeping young Flade alive.

Execution Delayed

Although sentenced to be beheaded 10 days ago, eastern-zone authorities report the execution has been delayed. There has not been such a long interval between judgment and execution in previous cases in East Germany. Execution usually follows sentence in a day or two.

The report on how the 18-year-old youth upset the Red propagandists was related by several of his friends who slipped into Western Berlin.

He was seized on a charge of distributing leaflets last fall urging the people to vote against the Communist-controlled "National Front" ticket. This was the only slate permitted on the ballot by the party bosses. While being arrested, Flade knifed and wounded a policeman.

An "enemy-of-the-state" trial was ordered and Communist Party followers were directed to be present, Flade's friends said. A public address system was set up over which the court proceedings were broadcast to those outside the building.

A Roman Catholic from Bavaria, Flade was told he faced harsh punishment, even death. He replied, his voice echoing through downtown Dresden: "I love my freedom more than my life."

Flade admitted that he handed out anti-Communist pamphlets, asserting that he opposed the Communist system and that he thought his action was part of the democratic system. The chagrined prosecution flipped off the loudspeakers, and the court imposed the death sentence.

Three Youths Held In Milk Money Thefts

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 — (ENS)—Three youths, one a juvenile, were picked up shortly after midnight on Saturday morning after police received reports of money missing from milk bottles in the north Front Street area.

The old racket of stealing money from milk bottles has been going on for some time, and the thieves usually seem to pick a Friday evening when money is put out for tickets, and for extra milk owing to the fact there is no delivery on Sunday.

The youths, reported to be 14, 16 and 18 years of age, were using a 1949 model truck to make their rounds. Chief Constable Geo. H. Hardy stopped one youth for questioning after receiving a call missing from a bottle. The youth from a resident that money was admitted the thefts, as did his two accomplices who were picked up later in the night.

The case is being investigated further, to find out just how far the activities of the offenders went, and charges will likely be laid when this investigation is completed.

Fire Hall Siren Fails Use One On Fire Truck

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 — (ENS)—Firemen were called to the home of David Foster in Campbellford on Sunday evening to extinguish a chimney fire that threatened to become serious due to high winds in this area. The fire was quelled with no damage.

Some difficulty was experienced in getting the firemen to the fire hall when the call was received, as the siren would not work. This has happened previously, and steps are being taken to have the siren repaired. The attendant at the fire hall on Sunday evening, however, was able to sound the alarm by rolling the fire truck outside and sounding the siren on the truck.

Discuss Study Changes At Norwood Meeting

NORWOOD, Jan. 22—(ENS)—Teachers of Lakefield, Havelock and Norwood public schools held their regular monthly meeting in Norwood public school on Friday.

After a short program, which included a duet by Janet Burtt and Gail Baker, and a folk dance by room 5 girls, the teachers separated into three groups, primary, junior, and intermediate to discuss proposed changes in the course of studies for public schools.

Mr. K. O. Birkin, district inspector, was present and led the discussion in the intermediate group.

Lunch was then served by Norwood lady teachers assisted by Mrs. Walter Bitten.

Falling Tree Cuts Power

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 22 — (ENS)— Power was disrupted, leaving the entire town in darkness for about a half hour late Friday night, when a falling tree severed a main power line on Centre street.

Frank McAvoy, who is building a house on Centre Street, was cutting down a large elm tree, when the tree fell in the wrong direction.

Fallen wires hissed in the snow by the roadway, while brilliant green flashes lit up the sky as the few remaining cables on the poles short-circuited when they came in contact with each other.

Workmen from the Public Utilities arrived after cutting off power in the area, and had the damage repaired and power restored within a half hour. Citizens used their cars as road blocks to stop traffic from entering the danger area.

The tree was later removed.

Car Hits Truck

The power failure was indirectly responsible for a traffic accident, when David Morgan of Campbellford crashed into the rear of an auto owned by Gerald Adamson.

A Public Utilities truck was parked with the lights on facing south, while the Adamson car was parked facing north. David Morgan was driving north along the roadway, and did not see the Adamson car until he had crashed into it, causing damage to the front of his own auto as well as the rear of the standing car. Mr. Morgan said he was blinded by the bright lights of the Public Utilities truck, and did not see the other auto parked on the highway.

Chief Constable Geo. H. Hardy investigated.

Car Crashes Tree Two Arrested

COBOURG, Jan. 22—(ENS)—Four Toronto youths, driving in what police said was a stolen car, crashed into a maple tree on the outskirts of Port Hope at one o'clock Sunday morning. Taken to hospital were the driver, Virgil Gingrich, age 17, with broken leg and facial lacerations, and Jack Clarke, 17, broken foot and fractured ribs.

Bill Bateman, 17, who suffered concussion, was found wandering two hours later in Port Hope Union Cemetery by Corporal Douglas Wilson of the Provincial Police. Bernard McCormack, age 17, was picked up near the scene by Provincial Constable W. Baluk of Cobourg. Gingrich and Clarke were taken to Toronto hospital.

Charged with car theft are Gingrich and McCormack.

According to police, Gingrich was driving at a high rate of speed when he took both hands off the steering wheel to light a cigarette. The car is reported to have clipped a bus near Port Hope and to have skidded from side to side on the wet pavement, just missing a telephone pole and some pine trees before smashing into the maple tree.

Mr. Bartlett's other Life...

John B. was dependable. It was a bit of a shock, then, to Mrs. B., when one evening after the children were in bed, John said—"Muriel, I think you ought to know about my other life".

His wife, half-jokingly, half-fearfully, said—"Not you, John—not another woman!" Bartlett laughed—"Yep, it's a woman all right, but the same one—YOU!"

"I've just rounded out a program which makes sure that you and Bob and Janie are looked after . . . housed, fed, clothed, educated and summer-vacationed, if anything happens to me. You will be able to go on living here, with the mortgage paid and enough money for special or emergency expenses, as well as day-to-day living. I've also planned that there'll be money available to send the children to University when the time comes. And for you, there'll be a regular monthly income for life, so you need never depend on the children or relatives, or friends. Sounds good, eh? And if I live to 65, the same 'Plan for Security' will provide us with a private income at retirement!"

Muriel Bartlett looked at her husband. Yes, John was dependable—so dependable.

The Century Belongs to Quebec!

The President of one of the largest French-Canadian banks in the province of Quebec said in a recent address to shareholders that "if it has been said that the twentieth century belongs to Canada, the second half which we are now entering belongs particularly to Quebec." That statement should make Ontario sit up and take notice.

* * *

The face of Quebec has changed greatly in the last thirty years; the change has been very rapid during and since the late war. Quebec tourist-industry promoters harp sweetly on "the old world charm", "the rustic simplicity", the hand-crafts, the courteous, kindly peasant-like people, the simple villagers along the St. Lawrence following time-honoured pursuits; the fisher-folk in the Gaspe; the village cure with his faithful flock; the Laurentians with their picturesque quiet villages and auberges for skiers. That is a lot of shrewd window-dressing for one of Quebec's best-paying industries: tourist-luring.

* * *

The old-world charm really does exist in many spots, notably in the old section of Quebec city, but everywhere the charm is cross-cut by modern highways, big stores, luxurious hotels and busy factories. Hand-crafts are organized, the country-folk are taught good modern design and actually how to do the work their mothers had forgotten. The people may be kindly and agrarian, many of them, but they know rates of pay, how to turn dollars, and how to farm and market economically. The simple villagers along the St. Lawrence keep shops, take in lodgers, have radios and electricity, and dress as smartly as townspeople. The cure's flock belong to trade unions. The fisher-folk in Gaspe are brought out on parade for tourists; they make their money out of human fish.

* * *

The picturesque villages in the Laurentians are made picturesque by Montrealers and other city-folk who have built cottages, cabins and some very posh summer and winter homes there; not by natives following the callings of their venerable forefathers. The natives in the Laurentians get their livelihood not from scrubbing the rocks for bits of soil and hunks of firewood, but by catering, at good fat prices, to the skiers, the summer holiday-makers and the otherwise idle people from the cities, the other provinces and the States. The auberges in the Laurentians are fitted with fifteen-dollar-a-day suites, elaborate cocktail bars and all the comforts of a New York hotel.

Quebec is no longer a slow, simple farming, fishing and lumbering corner of the New World. It is humming with business and industry. The bank president reminded his shareholders that:

> The value of field crops is estimated at 218 million dollars, as compared with 193 million dollars for 1949. The increase in production which is general, has been especially marked in regard to oats, barley, buckwheat, potatoes and sugar-beets, the crop of which has reached 140,000 tons. It seems of some interest to point out that the sugar-beet industry, which for half a century has been the subject of several unsuccessful attempts in various parts of the Province, is now established at St. Hilaire . . . . The mining industry is entering a period of unusual development . . . the increase has been particularly marked in the extraction of gold, silver, copper, zinc and asbestos. The development of the Ungava iron-beds and of the ilmenite deposits at Lake Allard and Lake Tio will give further scope for the profitable operation of the sub-soil of Quebec . . . more than half of the water-power resources available in Canada is located in our Province where it has been developed by private enterprise."

Ontario had better look to its laurels; the new Quebec, industrial and commercial, may indeed bite off a goodly part of this half of the century which has been labelled Canada's century.

Fifty Years Since Victoria

It was fifty years ago today that Queen Victoria died — that death which Lytton Strachey has described in one of the most moving passages of English prose to be written in our time. She was in her 82nd year, honoured and loved as few monarchs have been in the world's history. She had outlived the dislike of the monarchy which was widespread when she came to the throne; she had outlived the contempt which the British people had never quite been able to conceal for her beloved German husband; she had outlived the unpopularity which had been aroused by her long mourning when he died. She had demonstrated, as many other great people have done that to outlive one's enemies is even better than to defeat them. A shy, unworldly but determined girl; an impetuous, domineering, self-willed woman; the idol of an Empire — she had been all these things and it was her great good fortune to know the peak of her personal influence at the very end of her life. Her life was not an easy one, but it can truly be said that she was a lucky woman.

There were few ages in history which saw so great a flowering of native talent as did hers. Great soldiers, great statesmen, great poets, musicians and actors —yes, and great painters, though their style does not please the present taste— lived their lives contemporaneously with her, and felt the deep influence which was called Victorian. In certain ways it was a narrow and repressive influence; in other directions it was astonishingly liberal and sometimes, by modern standards, contemptuous of morality. It was an influence under which talents of many kinds were able to reach a high pitch of realization. And as well as the great men and women of the Victorian era there were hundreds of lesser figures who flourished in one way or another. Even Victorian criminals were an ingenious, colourful pack of scoundrels.

To what extent did Queen Victoria herself set the tone of the age which bears her name? When everything has been considered that it is possible to know about, we must still allow that she dominated the age in a remarkable fashion, and particularly the last twenty-five years of it. Her patronage and approval meant much, whether it was extended to a statesman, a churchman or an artist. Her tastes and her political opinions were as decided as her ideas about personal conduct, and all her subjects felt them, however indirectly, and had to respond either for or against them. The great liberal movements of her age may have owed much of their fervour to the opposition which her intransigency stirred in many breasts. And yet she could herself be adventurously progressive, as her stand in favour of anaesthetics at childbirth showed. She was not a woman whom it was possible to overlook.

She has been dead for fifty years, and most of those people who today declare themselves to be Victorians mean that they were born toward the end of her reign, and nothing more. But not the least of her creations was our own Dominion of Canada, which still retains some of the best and some of the worst of the characteristics of Victorianism. We Canadians are, in a special sense, indebted to the great Queen, and today it becomes us to do some honour to her memory.

Division of Power in U.S. Government

An outstanding example of the division of actual power between the administrative and legislative arms of the United States Government became apparent in the recent debate about sending United States troops overseas. Senator Taft of Ohio had contended that the President did not have the power to send troops overseas, in peacetime, without Congressional approval. Senator Connally of Texas noted that U.S. troops have been sent abroad on the authority of the President more than one hundred times. The debate ended, apparently, when President Truman declared he would consult with members of Congress before sending troops overseas, although he placed emphasis on the power of the Commander-in-Chief to send U.S. forces anywhere in the world.

On the question of nominal power, it would seem that President Truman is authorized by treaty to send U.S. forces to Western Europe. Senator Connally's point seems not too well taken, since he referred to orders given to protect the lives and property of U.S. citizens abroad, authority for which is settled constitutional doctrine, and the provision of such protection is not the issue in this instance. The issue is found in the authority conferred by the North Atlantic Treaty, which calls upon all signatories to defend any signatory, and commits all to "develop their . . . collective capacity to resist attack." Impartial interpreters in the U.S. read this as meaning that the President may seek to make this policy effective by any available means.

Conceding that interpretation as settling the question of nominal power serves but to underline the fact that Congress can make it impossible to exercise such power. It can undermine any Atlantic Treaty army the President may order formed. Furthermore, it can in varying degree, hamper or prevent the formation and use of armed forces units of other Atlantic Treaty nations. For Congress controls the purse-strings, and a vote to withhold funds would destroy a U.S. Atlantic Treaty army, while denial of funds to supply arms and equipment to units of other nations would preclude formation by them of an international defence mechanism. This division of power clearly outlines the manner in which Congressional action may be diametrically opposed to Administration policy.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

IT is a great pity that an immediate start on the Memorial Centre was not made, for it appears now that it might have to be postponed indefinitely on account of the international situation. Meanwhile the city continues to grow, and the auditorium of the Collegiate is becoming increasingly inadequate for big attractions. So it looks as though we shall have to make the best of things for the time being. There is another factor. Operating costs have gone up, and the fees for performers are also slightly on the up-grade. This means that prices of tickets have to be raised. Now the average Peterborough concert-goer is loth to spend more than a dollar for a seat. With a larger auditorium it is possible to clear expenses at a lower admission charge than for a smaller hall. I am afraid that audiences will have to get used to the idea of dearer tickets!

✧ ✧ ✧

HERE is a new idea for programmes that is being tried out in the States with some success. That does not necessarily mean that it would work here, but it could at least be tried. The old idea was to put the "heavyweight" numbers in the first part of the programme, while the audience was still fresh, the latter half being of a somewhat lighter character in order not to tax the mind overmuch and to stimulate applause and encores at the conclusion of the programme. The new idea is to reverse the order and to gain the sympathy of the audience at the outset with something fairly light, working up to more serious items in the second half. This is not entirely new, inasmuch as the average orchestral concert will quite often start with a sparkling overture to put everybody in a good humour before proceeding to weightier matters.

I WOULD like to see more made of the intermission at concerts. At present they are rather gloomy little functions, too short to meet ones' friends yet too long to sit down in the auditorium. When I was in Italy the concert or opera usually started at about 9 o'clock. This seemed rather late. I was even more surprised to find that the intermissions usually lasted about half an hour apiece! This seemed a scandalous waste of time to me at first, but I soon came to enjoy it. It gave just enough time to meet friends and converse with them over a cup of coffee. The only drawback to this leisurely Latin design for living was that performances seldom ended before midnight. I doubt whether intermissions of such length would prove popular here. For one thing the Italian is a voluble conversationalist, while the Canadian is usually the strong and silent type: the Italians have little sense of time, while we are continually worrying our heads over timetables and schedules. In spite of this I feel that more could be done by way of serving light refreshments and allotting a little more time at intermissions. It would do us good to savour our pleasures rather than gulp them down.

✧ ✧ ✧

CONCERT-GOERS have always been swept off their feet by feats of virtuosity, but this is probably truer today than at any other time. I do not wish to decry technical prowess, but there is a certain type of flashy fireworks of little musical value that attracts undue attention. Performers cultivate a "slick" style with little depth. Audiences tend to judge the value of performers by the number of notes they can play in one second. This is probably due to the fact that most members of present-day audiences are listeners to music, no more. Seeing music from the outside they are attracted by its superficial aspects. Radio, gramophones, easy and rapid transport, and now television have made tremendous inroads into music-making in the home. The increased amount of organized entertainment, including of course concerts, makes it very difficult to organize a group of music-makers to gather together in the evening for the sheer joy of doing something for themselves, however imperfect. The great strength of Germany as a musical nation resided not so much in their great composers and brilliant performers as in the innumerable small gatherings of music-makers in private houses. It needs a broad base to raise the apex of the pyramid of music. There is a poem by the German poet Hugo Salus, "Chamber Music", which describes one of these gatherings. It tells of the poet from the metropolis being invited to dine at the house of the magistrate in a typical small town—so horribly provincial, you know! Also present are the local chemist, the merchant and the doctor. After dinner, they sat down for a smoke, and then the Hausfrau brings out the music stands, whereupon the magistrate, the chemist, the merchant and the doctor play a Beethoven string quartet.

HERE is a suggestion to pianists who would like to venture a little off the beaten track. Try some Bartok. What, Bartok? He was that Hungarian fellow who wrote such weird music. It must be frightfully difficult, and then it will be so "modern" that I shall have to stop my ears while I play! Well, yes, he did write some very difficult music, and some of his music takes a good deal of getting used to. However I am addressing myself to those who would honestly like to find out something about the way that present-day composers are writing, and whether you like Bartok or not there is no denying his passionate sincerity and his close-knit logic. He wrote a collection of 153 short pieces in six books in ascending order of difficulty. The first book starts with simple tunes in five-finger position. He soon introduces such typically modern devices as bi-tonality—the right hand in one key, the left hand in another. Unusual rhythmic patterns are also introduced quite early on. This work, which he calls "Mikrokosmos", is not a piano tutor, inasmuch as there is no instructional material, but it can be used in conjunction with one. The beauty of it is that anybody can find a volume in the series which corresponds with their technical standard. Thus Grade 5 would find book 3 within their powers. Not all the pieces by any means are uncompromisingly cacophonous — many of them are founded on Hungarian folksongs of appealing charm.

Dobbin Knew The Road

(Hamilton Spectator)

Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, says hat the horse and buggy was much better for courting than the automobile is. Old Dobbin would at least not head for the nearest ditch when the reins went slack.

QUEEN VICTORIA IS FAMILIAR to most people today through the many portraits and photographs made during her old age. Above we reproduce a painting by S. P. Denning which was painted when the great Queen was a little princess of four. Not only does it present an unusual aspect of a famous figure, but it shows us what a well-dressed little girl might be expected to wear for a winter walk in 1823. An editorial recalling that it was just fifty years ago today that Victoria died, appears elsewhere on this page.

Letters To The Editor

SWEEPSTAKES HELP HOSPITALS

Sir: Autocratic laws hurt democracy. Here, we are told, we have free press action, and speech etc.—some of the vitals which make up our democracy—and we go on expecting, that the rest of the world will follow our example. Yet with all this, we are told that you cannot enjoy your own hard earnings, as you see fit.

In many respects, this is autocratic—for we are told, that supporting sweepstakes is illegal, yet the general public are sport-minded, and like to "take a chance"—when "taking a chance" means the support of hospitals, or some other good cause—then one should feel free to do so.

I like the attitude of the Rev. R. Crookshank, a Devonshire rector, who offered to serve as chaplain to any organization set up by sweepstake or football pools players, to defend their liberties—in which he says—

'The rector who admitted being an "irregular pools investor" said he would like to know, "To what ludicrous nonsense" anti-gambling forces were reducing intelligent ethics and morality—and went on to say—In his opinion, gambling was not necessarily a moral danger.'

Do the puritans seriously wish us to believe that a father, or mother, or children doing a puzzle for a small prize, are miserable sinners.

Do they suggest, that a gentle minister at a bazaar, guessing the weight of an iced cake made by a spotless spinster, is a wicked little man.

Declaring such views were born in a "spirit of bigotry", had a tendency to turn young people away from the churches—and this minister advises the sporting public to form a society for the protection of their liberties.

Every man, woman and child, is now being asked to (not play the horses) but a war—and their is no limit to the taxes being enforced to do this. How much better to play our hospitals, where they will benefit all mankind. We here in Peterborough have a hospital second to none—an institution a credit to the city. Peterborough needed something to place it on the map. Yet, there has been too much criticism of the same. Everything possible is being done to economize—how would some of the critics like to work six days a week, and receive a take-home pay of around one hundred twenty dollars for the same. It will provide (after all other necessities) a bread and butter diet—but no luxuries.

I like to take note of the letters from patients who speak in glowing terms of this fine hospital, of services given by the staff—which is better form, than criticizing the cost of this or that.

Experienced help cannot be held at wages that the average would not accept—so that given help from sweepstakes — the board could do what they would like to do—without criticism from anyone.

Hospitals do not exist for profit—but take on the task of healing the sick. Some critics some day may become a patient, then will realize that the previous reading was all wrong.

So let's be democratic, not autocratic—and let's have sweepstakes where the majority will get behind the issue, and hospitals get support they so sorely need to carry on.

Yours very truly,
H. GILBERT.

BAD LANGUAGE AMONG CHILDREN

Sir: The lady who, in Tuesday's paper, was expressing grave and perfectly justified concern over the bad language of some school children, I believe she doesn't know the half of the bad talk that seems to go on (if things haven't improved greatly since fall or before Christmas) in groups playing a little apart where they are not closely supervised at their games.

During November or December it was truly heart-breaking and shocking to pass where some groups of children were playing. The odd time one would hear the blasphemy, or dirty talk or both. I pity the younger or any children never used to such talk having to mix with such ring-leaders. Such language must be very offensive to the good God who loves children with a special love.

I've heard bad talk on the corner of Donegal and Parkhill—south on Rubidge near All Saints—north on Caddy St., East City, and even on the corner of Rubidge and Brock, in the latter case so close to one of our blessed Lord's homes upon earth. I am naming the places so that the parents who see this may take heed and warn the children about their language.

It's only lately that one can't watch a children's game for a few minutes without being liable to get one's ears full of some objectionable language. That's been my experience when listening to them a little when passing.

If our children would only read or listen more to the events of our Saviour's life on earth, I'm sure they'd come to love Him to the extent that they would not dare blaspheme Him. Of course they are inclined to pick up what they hear. It's we grown-ups who have to watch and see that they're never scandalized.

If the immoderate use of beer is at the bottom of it, well then the beer should be cut out completely.

Tell me what is the use of our cracking our brains planning and building a beautiful city if we allow ourselves or our children to blaspheme and go on to the point where God's anger is enkindled so that we may all be wiped out. One atom bomb could do the job very nicely. If we don't discipline ourselves better through love of God (and we have every reason) let us at least do so through fear.

A CASUAL OBSERVER.

Sir: I understand there are some person or persons in Peterborough who give instructions in car driving to teen-age boys and girls. I would like to know more about this, as I have been unable to get any more information as to what it is all about.

Yours truly,
BILL WHITE.

All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name. For thou art great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone.

Lumber Supply Situation More Favorable

QUEBEC, Jan. 22 — (CP) — Although serious shortages of lumber existed during the summer, supplies now are much more favorable, the Committee on materials reported today to the Canadian Construction Association.

The report, presented by chairman Robert Drummond of Toronto, who is also association president, stated that it is expected that lumber production in Canada this year will reach the record level of more than 6,000,000,000 board feet, compared to roughly 5,750,000,000 board feet last year.

While demands for Canadian lumber abroad are also expected to increase, the supplies available in Canada should be greater during the coming year than in 1950. This will be especially true with regard to lower grades and dimensions as a result of the decrease in the American demand for lumber to be used in home building. It is hoped that efforts will be exerted to increase lumber production over current demands in order that supplies of well-seasoned lumber may be available in the future.

The committee noted that steel producers have large-scale expansions under way.

No Production Increase

"However, there will be no appreciable increase in Canadian steel production until late 1952 . . .

"It seems likely that the situation will grow worse before it grows better . . .

"While cement is in reasonably-good supply, the heavy demands ahead and the possibility of a reduction in imports will likely alter the situation later in the year. It is accordingly hoped that cement manufacturers will consider further expansion of their facilities."

The report notes that Canadian cement manufacturers have more than doubled their production since the end of the war.

The production of brick also increased in 1950 and a further rise in output is expected this year. The Brick and Tile Manufacturers' Association of Canada anticipates that its members will be able to bring about a reduction in the present backlog of orders.

The committee recommended that manufacturers try to expand their production to meet current demands and bear in mind that the large expansion in the steel industry will permit the execution of an appreciably-larger volume of construction in a couple of years. And producers of other construction materials should plan now so that they will be able to keep pace.

Suggests Benefits

DETROIT, Jan. 22 (AP)—Walter Reuther proposed Saturday that workers laid off during the conversion to defence production be given their full pay in the form of jobless benefits. The United Auto Workers (CIO) president in a letter to President Truman, said Congress should appropriate enough funds to provide the workers made idle, with the difference between their wages for a 40-hour week and what they get through state unemployment compensation.

Demand Increases

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (CP) — The first post-war survey of the Canadian machine-tool industry, released Sunday, shows a marked increase in Canadan demand for certain types of tools in the last four months. The survey, conducted by the National Machine Tool Builders' Association, an American organization, said some Canadian manufacturers are seeking to increase sales to American buyers because of excess inventories.

Predicts Election

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 (CP)—Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, forecast a provincial general election next June and a sweeping Liberal victory and promised drastic government economies. In an address Saturday to the Carleton County Liberal Association, he attacked the "high cost of government policies" of the present Conservative regime, and added: "When my party comes into power the spending spree will have come to an abrupt end; of that I can assure you."

First Canadian Buried In Korea

PUSAN, Korea, Jan. 22 (CP)—RSM James D. Wood of Calgary, the Patricias' first major casualty in Korea, was buried Saturday with full military honors.

The body of the man who died of wounds suffered in a mine demonstration was laid to rest in the United States military cemetery here after a committal service conducted by Capt. the Rev. James J. Vallely of Montreal, Roman Catholic padre of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Before the burial, the body rested overnight in the regiment's camp. A detail commanded by Lieut. Ned Page of Edmonton escorted it from Taegu to the camp so Wood's comrades could pay their last respects.

Almost the entire battalion turned out, for the low mass of requiem. Father Valleley asked all to pray "to the Great Commander in Chief, regardless of denomination each in his own way, that his spirit . . . might in death be an example."

Canadian Writers Capture Share Of Prizes

SYRACUSE, NY, Jan. 22 — (CP). — Canadian writers captured the lion's share of the prizes in the 1950 International League Baseball Writers' Association best story contest, L. J. Skiddy, president of the group, announced today.

A piece by Lloyd McGowan, Montreal Star baseball editor, was the unanimous first choice of the judges.

Dink Carroll, Montreal Gazette sports editor, was awarded the second prize, and William V. Reddy, Syracuse Post-Standard sports editor, was third.

McGowan's winning story was on Branch Rickey, as the then president of Brookyln Dodgers watched a game at the Montreal ball park. The Star writer described the thoughts probably running through Rickey's mind as the Brooklyn boss watched Pitcher Carl Erskine beat Jersey City 3-1.

A special prize for French-language reporters was won by Charles Mayer, Le Petit Journal, Montreal. Bert Souliere, Le Canada, and Gerry Champagne, La Presse, both of Montreal, received honorable mention.

Judges of the contest were Ford Frick, National League president; J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, and Frank J. Shaughnessy, International League president.

Red-Trained Witch Doctors Stir Up Natives In Africa

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON — (NEA). — Moscow-trained Africans, masking as witch doctors, are playing on ancient superstitions and modern grievances to foment discord among the workers mining uranium in the Belgian Congo for A-bomb production.

This sabotage activity was reported by French anti-Communist labor leaders who recently made a study of conditions in Central Africa. It is confirmed by sources in Washinnton in a position to know the facts. It is confirmed also by J. Van Bilsen, editor of the Belgian-African Review, and Father S. J. Van Wing, Colonial Advisor to the Belgian Government.

By paralyzing production of uranium, Moscow would hit the North American Allies at a vulnerable spot. President Truman recently said that the Congo was America's biggest supplier of uranium ore. It also supplies 43 per cent of US cobalt, needed for heat-resistant metals used in jet planes.

Last year 60 Congo natives were reported to have received instruction at the Lenin University in Moscow, famous training school for Cominform propagandists and saboteurs. They work under instructions from the Soviet legation at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, alleged headquarters for the Cominform espionage apparatus in Africa.

Native sorcerers and witch doctors, actually trained in Moscow or in league with Red agents, are organizing a network of secret sects among the natives through which they feed anti-European and anti-white propaganda to the local population.

The managers of the Shinkolobwe mines have repeatedly been confronted by a new pattern of labor demonstrations believed organized by Russian agents. These take the form of seemingly spontaneous native gatherings, where syncopated music and plaintive melodies played on the flute exalt the natives to disobedience.

Belgian security police have been singularly unable to lay their hands on the witch doctors who instigate these demonstrations among native uranium miners.

The pro-Commie World Federation of Trade Unions is active at the Katanga mines, where strategic pitchblende is mined, and at Leopoldville, principal seaport of the Congo from which uranium ore flows to the United States.

Members of the French delegation said the Reds were exploiting native superstitions, abject poverty, and the rigid color bar. Stringent measures taken by the Belgian Service of National Security had failed to prevent the development of a vast political - religious movement among the natives.

Uranium ore from the Katanga district is of high grade and furnishes about 90 per cent of the world's radium. The rich Shinkolobwe mine, 100 miles north-west of Elizabethville, produces most of the uranium ore for the US. No figures are available on current uranium production in the Congo, but in 1945 production was estimated at 10,000 tons.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The puck classics of the week here are those Petes-Eagles' clashes, commencing tonight at 8.30 in Civic Arena. This will be another of those grand OHA senior "B" battles by a couple of the better clubs in the province. After all, the Eagles were provincial finalists last year, while the Petes are now leading them by a game and a half. That lead could be cut to half a game this eve if the Eagles—who have dropped only one decision this season to the Petes—take the verdict. Or it could be lengthened considerably if the Petes blow hot enough to take the duke. It will be a swell game between these old rivals, and should pack 'em in.

* * * * * *

As the standing is now, Petes have 33 points and Eagles 30, with the third-place Nylons (a pretty hot club lately) having but 21. Belleville have 18 and Queen's just six. Eagles will be minus one or two regulars, while Petes may still be minus Gus Leonard—no word lately as to how he's recovering from his injury. But you'll find two well-matched squads out there giving it all they have in an effort to humble the other. They step fast, check hard and never coast when playing against each other. Yes, sir, it's first-class hockey of playoff calibre at this time of the year when Petes and Eagles faceoff.

* * * * * *

Schedule Grinds Along

Fans may not realize it but the schedule is grinding along fairly rapidly now and will be over in another month. Out of 10 remaining games for the Petes, just three are way from home, two in Belleville and one at Gananoque. Of 11 games left for the Eagles, five are on the road, two with Queen's, a pair with the pesky Nylons and one in Bella Villa. Knowing that they have the tougher prospect, the men of Magee realize they must win most of their home tilts now or they can't finish atop the heap. This, the Jopling gents will do their darndest to prevent. The many local senior "B" puck fans appear pretty evenly divided, and we'd like to see the Peterborough teams finish in a dead heat. It could be, at that.

* * * * * *

We were mighty sorry to hear of the serious flying accident Bob Parnall suffered in Trenton last week. A fine centre and team player for Eagles, popular Bob will be missed plenty by the club the rest of the campaign. We hope his injury is not too serious and that he'll be around again ere long, as you couldn't hope to know a better fellow. He backed up from no one on the ice—well, you must have moxie to enlist twice—but he was a clean and hard-working puckist. Also a smart one. That's why he was named playing manager of the team this season. Opposing players all respected Bob plenty.

Concerning The Cagers

A few notes on the male basketeers. The local intermediate "B" Marines of the lakeshore loop rolled merrily along their winning trail Saturday here by trouncing Whitby 73-33, but the intermediate "A" Clapper Bruins suffered a surprising 45-43 setback at the hands of the Cobourg "B" boys. We're told that Bowmanville is protesting a previous loss to Marines here, on the grounds "floor under regulation size and officials over officious." Wednesday sees Marines in Oshawa to play the Grads, same clubs being back here Saturday eve at the "Y". At nine tonight in the PCVS gym, Fred Allore will demonstrate a cage skill test for aid in rating and selecting players as taught at Colby College, Mass., where he took a coaching course. Anyone interested may attend.

* * * * * *

Some hefty bowling the other evening in the men's City League. Bill Boon smashed a mighty 407 single with nine straight strikes in a total count of 823. Shockey's showed their heels in pinnage with a swell 3650 total and top single effort of 1357. They're now tied for first place with the Cavanagh crew at the halfway mark. Other neat singles by individuals were rolled by Frank McCormack, Bill Harris, Irvin Hanes, Gene Reynolds, Roy Lewis, Bill Miller, Ray Clifford, Walter Firth and Doug Abraham. There's a list in tonight by Secretary Mel Akers of the averages as the second half of the schedule starts. Bowlers are busy nightly now on alleys all over town.

Mr. Wm. Northey also presented them with watches and the Forum entertained the threesome, and other sports folk, at dinner before the game.

Amateur Sport Organizes New Council

OTTAWA, Jan. 22 — (CP). — Canada's sport governing bodies, after three years of effort, have designed a new central organization to speak with one voice in unravelling the problems of amateur sport—particularly the financial problems.

At the close of a two-day meeting Saturday, 25 representatives of the sports bodies agreed on a constitution setting up the Canadian Sports Advisory Council. Its powers will be limited to the advisory and it won't become official until May 1 and then only if a majority of the 46 sports governing bodies in the country support it.

The sports men decided its objects should be:

1—To promote the physical, intellectual and moral development of Canadians through participation in amateur sport.

2—To act as a liaison between sports governing bodies and any government agencies which could lend assistance — particuuarly from their purses.

3—To provide an annual forum for an exchange of views on the wide problems besetting amateur sport in Canada.

4—To correlate the efforts of all sports bodies in the stimulation of interest in amateur sport.

James Worrell of Montreal, representing the Amateur Athletic Union Canada, was elected the first president. He immediately declared that even if a majority of sports governing bodies didn't join up and pay the $10 annual enrolment fee decided upon, the council will try to carry on anyway.

Canada Direct Scores Twin Win

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (CP). — Canada Direct, owned by M. Storey of Peterborough, and driven by Wilmer Hillock, scored a double victory over a good field of mixed trotters and pacers in the fifth and featured race at muddy Dufferin Park Saturday.

In the first heat he was steadied back of the pace, moved very fast in the backstretch to get within striking distance of the leader, Billy Stout. Turning for home Hillock sent him to the outside and he wore down the leader to win.

Canada Direct was away with the leaders at the start of the second heat. Turning into the backstretch he took a short lead from the pace setter, Billy Stout, and rounding the final turn he increased his margin and won easily. Peter K. Lee and Billy Stout were second and third respectively.

The fourth and secondary feature was a split affair between Dannie Rocket, owned and driven by W. Madill of Flesherton, Ont., and Skipper, owned and driven by Floyd Milton of Hamburg, N. Y. Each won a heat.

Marines Take Cage Tilt As Bruins Lose

Peterborough Marines have still to meet tough opposition in the Intermediate "B" lakeshore basketball league. They won their third straight league game Saturday night in the YMCA 73-33, defeating Whitby.

Clapper's Bruins met unexpected opposition in the preliminary game with Cobourg Legionnaires. The lakeshore intermediate "B" team edged the intermediate "A" Bruins in the exhibition game 45-43. This game was definitely an upset, Cobourg taking the decision in the last few minutes of play.

The Marines enjoyed a free-scoring night. In the first half they all scored at least one field basket to run in 36 points against Whitby's 18. Jim Thorburn with one-hand hook shots, his specialty, sank the ball for 10 points as Fred Plato had six and Doug MacPherson eight. Gaine and Mowat each came through with six-point efforts for Whitby.

Ted Payne, who scored only four points in the first half, made nearly all his field and foul shots in the second half as he ran up a scoring tally of 20 points. Jim Thorburn matched his first half effort. Fred Plato's five and Bill Trimm's two brought the second half total to 37. Whitby's Haire scored six in the second half and Anderson four.

Ted Payne's 24 points was enough to give him the top scoring honors. Jim Thorburn followed up with a close second with 20 points. Gaine, Mowat and Haire each had eight points for Whitby.

Close Play

The Bruins-Cobourg game was featured by its closeness in play and scoring. Bill Edger sent in five points, Gord Burns, Fred Plato, Hugh Dibben and Warren Smith, each four points, in the first half when the Bruins were up two, 23-21. B. Bevan scored 11 points in the half for the Legion.

Curling News

The men's open three-day bonspiel for the Ostrander Trophy, got underway this morning at 9.00 o'clock.

All Saturday afternoon Dr. McKee, O. Price and R. Dawson were busy decorating the rink for this big event. Nice work, boys—quite an improvement.

The prizes for this big 'spiel are on display in Richard Hall's window. They're worth looking at and worth playing for.

That was a "sweeping" gesture on the part of the committee. We refer to the new brooms supplied for the ladies' bonspiel.

The silver ice tubs won by Mrs. L. E. Woolley's rink were donated to the ladies' club by Warne Jewellers, and the scatter rugs won by Mrs. Selkirk's rink were donated by the Brinton Carpet Co.

Dr. M. McCartney, Dr. C. McKee, Dr. R. Morgan and Dr. O. Price are leaving this Saturday to take part in the all-week Quebec city bonspiel.

Do you curlers realize that the curling season has reached the half-way mark?

The winning skips on Saturday afternoon were T. Ryan, J. Lowes, A. Aitkenhead, R. Dawson and B. Grant.

At night R. Bastable and J. Dutton were the successful skips.

HONG KONG, Jan. 22 (AP).—A British cricket team flattened an American amateur team by seven wickets Saturday. Then, adding insult to injury, the Britons walloped the Americans 23-17 today in a seven-inning softball game. Both teams were made up of Hong Kong residents.

Terry Sawchuk of the Red Wings took over sole possession of top spot among the goaltenders, turning in his seventh shutout of the year, one better than Gerry McNeil of Montreal.

Gus Mortson of the Leafs, with 96 minutes spent in the penalty box, is the most penalized player in the league.

WELCOME McMASTER

Vic Obeck, director of athletics at McGill University, said Saturday he would welcome McMaster University of Hamilton into the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union.

Obeck made this comment upon being told that Ivor Wynee, director of athletics for McMaster, had declared McMaster would make formal application this spring following last fall's unbeaten campaign in intermediate ranks.

Bill had nine strikes in a row but took out the deuce in the 10th to finish with a spare and a strike.

Lindsay Scores Win

LINDSAY, Jan. 22. — The cellar-dwelling Port Hope Panthers forced the top rung Lindsay Kinsmen to go all out for a 9-7 victory in a bruising Central Ontario Junior "B" game here. The Ports hustled to a 3-1 win in the first period but the locals came back to take a 5-4 lead in the second. Centreman Darcy Campbell tallied twice in 92 seconds to give the Panthers the lead briefly, but Lindsay, led by Vic Corley's hat-trick, forged back to take the lead.

Closing with a 73 for her fourth straight sub-par round, Babe Zaharias won the Tampa women's open golf tournament Sunday with a 288 that clipped three strokes off the women's world record.

The leader all the way, Mrs. Zaharias finished seven strokes ahead of Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga., who had shared with her the previous record of 291 for a 72-hole tourney.

By her four brilliant rounds of 71, 70, 74 and 73 over the 6,093-yard par 75 Palma Ceia course, the Babe, now a resident of Tampa, took down $1,000 prize money in the fifth annual $3,500 Tampa open. She also won the inaugural event.

Two former United States open champions, Lloyd Mangrum and Cary Middlecoff, and a scrappy newcomer from North Carolina, Julius Boros, finished in a tie Sunday at the end of the third round of the $10,000 Lakewood Park open golf tournament.

They will lead the par smashing field into the final round of 18 holes today.

The three wound up at the 54-hole mark with total scores of 203. Mangrum climbed into the co-leadership with a six-under-par 65; Middlecoff gained a notch with a 69; and Boros, the pacesetter through the first two rounds, fired a 70.

Members of the Alouette-Canadien-Royal Club, a rooters' band of 350 Montrealers, announced Saturday plans are fast rounding into shape for a "Maurice Richard Night" Feb. 17 at the Montreal Forum.

On that night Canadiens will play Detroit Red Wings in a National Hockey League game, and the rooters' outfit plans a great contribution of gifts topped off by a sleek, new automobile.

The money—$10,000 is the objective—will be obtained from club members and fans generally.

Coach Lew Hayman of Montreal Alouettes Saturday confirmed a report that the club's all-star quarterback, Frank Filchock, will be given his release if he can obtain a coaching job with either Regina or Winnipeg in the Western Canada Football Conference.

Hayman, in Toronto for the Big Four Union's annual meeting, said he had talked with Filchock several times since the 1950 season ended and had told him to go ahead and try to land a playing-coach job with either of the western clubs.

Bobby Locke, who has won many United States professional golf tourneys, took the £300 ($900) first prize in the Stanley 1,000 guinea (about $3,000) tourney Saturday.

He toured the Royal Johannesburg layout in a 68, despite rain, for a 273 that gave him a nine-stroke edge.

Lethbridge Maple Leafs Sunday trounced a combined German hockey team 8-3 for their fifth straight victory of their German tour.

Bill Dixon scored four goals and Hec Negrello three as the Canadian entry to the world hockey championships walked all over a German all-star squad recruited from the S. C. Riessersee team, German champions, and the E. V. Fuessen aggregate, last year's titlists.

Saturday night Lethbridge defeated Fuessen 5-2. It has posted two wins over the Riessersee outfit.

The triumph gives Leafs, attempting to retain the world title won last year by Edmonton Mercurys, a record of eight wins to five losses in their 60-game pre-championship tour of Europe.

Watson Claims He'll Take Eric

Whipper Billy Watson, who is not ordinarily given to complaining, preferring to do his battling by actions in the wrestling ring, is determined to wipe out last week's disqualification, which he claims was erroneously ruled by the referee, by winning decisively over Yukon Eric, the mighty Alaska lumberjack, in the Brock Arena on Tuesday night. Watson has the support of many fans in his contention that he wrongfully disqualified. Quite a number of Yukon's supporters were in accord with the disqualification. It will a real battle Tuesday night.

In the outstanding semi-final Fred Atkins, the Australian champ, will oppose Seelie Samara, the sensational colored natman. Both men are tops.

The opening match will feature Kaye Belle against hardy Abe Zvonkin. This is the best wrestling card offered here in quite a spell and will undoubtedly draw another capacity crowd.

Leafs, Wings Scoreless, In Evenly-Matched Tilt

By MEL SUFFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A tall, slim right winger came back to haunt his old team-mates Sunday night and enjoy the pleasant task of helping them continue the longest winless streak of the National Hockey League season.

The culprit was Bert Olmstead, and he played a major part in extending to 17 games the number in which the last-place Chicago Black Hawks have been without a victory.

Olmstead, a native of Sceptre, Sask., having his best NHL season, was wearing the red, white and blue sweater of Montreal Canadiens. He scored two goals as the Flying Frenchmen downed the Hawks 3-1.

Olmstead, who played for Chicago last year and in 1948-49 and was traded to Montreal this year, had the added enjoyment of sinking the Hawks on their home ice before 10,433.

He continued to a victory which helped the Canadiens hold on to third place.

Well Out In Front

Detroit Red Wings are still well out in front, their lead maintained by a scoreless tie Sunday night with second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

Toronto picked up a couple of points at home Saturday night by defeating Boston Bruins 2-1 before 13,650 fans, while the New York Rangers were playing a 2-2 tie with Montreal. The Bruins dropped Rangers into fifth place Sunday night, defeating them 5-1 before a home-town crowd of 9,097.

One of the interesting points of the weekend was an indication that Chicago hockey fans are attracted to a losing team. When the Black Hawks were winning regularly earlier in the season, attendance was usually around the 7,000-mark. Now, in the midst of the mammoth winless streak, it's up around 10,000. The Hawks have apparently become an interesting oddity.

For a while it looked as though they might break the jinx. They had a 1-0 lead in the first period on Roy Conacher's goal. But Olmstead's first goal tied it up a while later. Elmer Lach got the second goal for Montreal during the third period and Olmstead clinched it.

At Toronto Saturday night hockey fans were treated to the unusual spectacle of seeing one team score all the goals and still lose. The two goals credited to Toronto went past goalie Jack Gelineau after bouncing off a Boston player. Danny Lewicki got credit for one which went in off a skate and Flem Mackell got his off the stick of Bill Quackenbush. The one Bruins got for themselves was scored by veteran Milt Schmidt.

Fight To Draw

At Montreal, 14,342 fans saw Rangers lose Nick Mickoski because of a dislocated shoulder, while the teams fought to a draw. Alec Kaleta and Zellio Toppazzini scored for New York while Olmstead split Montreal scoring with Floyd Curry.

The Sunday night game at Boston saw the Bruins come back with five straight goals after Don Raleigh had sent the New Yorkers into a first-period lead. Lorne Ferguson and Dunc Fisher sent Boston ahead in the first period. Max Quackenbush got one in the second, and Woody Dumart and Ross Lowe put it away in the final frame.

A couple of fights provided additional excitement. Bill Ezinicki of Boston, who got four penalties in Toronto Saturday night, came back with a major for fighting with New York's Jack Evans. Gus Kyle, of New York, and Johnny Peirson got the same treatment after mixing it up in the third period.

A crowd of 14,130 came out Sunday at Detroit to watch the scoreless draw between the two top teams. It was the first 0-0 score in Olympia Stadium since 1939.

There were plenty of penalties to offset the lack of scoring. Toronto's attack was hampered by the 10 they received, including a major to Ferne Flaman and three minors to Lewicki.

Leafs threw all they had at young Terry Sawchuk who posted his seventh shutout of the season, first against Toronto. He made 15 saves. Al Rollins in the Toronto net handled 26 shots.

The tie leaves Detroit with a record of four wins, three losses and three ties with Toronto this season.

Indianapolis Scores Twin Weekend Victory

By The Canadian Press.

Indianapolis Capitals were the only weekend double winners in the American Hockey League as they took both ends of a home-and-home series from Pittsburgh Hornets.

The Capitals collected a 4-2 victory Saturday night and followed through with a 6-4 triumph Sunday. To add insult to injury the Caps also displaced the Hornets from their third-place position in the league's western division.

In other Sunday games, Cleveland Barons edged Providence Reds 9-8; Buffalo Bisons decisioned Springfield Indians 3-2; and Cincinnati Mohawks protected their second place spot in the west section by tripping Hershey Bears 4-2.

Saturday, Cincinnati and Hershey tied 1-1; St. Louis trounced Buffalo 10-4; and Cleveland and Springfield deadlocked 1-1.

Seven Directors Elected Marmora C of C

MARMORA, Jan. 22 (ENS)—The election of seven directors to serve for a two-year period on the Marmora district Chamber of Commerce was announced by H. W. Sabine at the annual meeting of that organization held in the Royal Hotel Marmora on Thursday evening.

They are Rev. G. D. Young, T. J. Bateman, C. R. Whittemore, F. R. Loveless, R. Young, C. T. Nicholson and G. Forestell. They will meet with the other seven directors who have another year to serve at a meeting shortly to elect the officers for 1951.

Presiding over the gathering, A. F. Fraser, welcomed members and visitors and called upon Roger Young to introduce a newcomer to the village, Harry Bowen.

Telephone Service Discussed

In the unavoidable absence of Ralph Neal, the secretarial duties were carried out by Rev. G. D. Young. Arising out of minutes of the last directors meeting was the matter of an improved telephone service which the directors had taken up with the Belleville representative of the Bell Telephone Company. It was disclosed that the village council at their January meeting had also taken action in the matter, results of which will be awaited before further action is deemed necessary on the part of the Chamber.

James L. Shannon, chairman of the membership committee, reported that the membership drive was already bringing results. He mentioned that 46 had paid membership fees for 1951 with more remaining to be collected. Floyd R. Loveless in giving the treasurer's report, indicated that there was a slight deficit at the end of the year.

W. J. Cottrell in his report for the Chamber's monthly publication said he had been given good support in his first year as editor.

Brief reports were given by Carl Heath for the agriculture committee and Vaughan Glover for the retail section.

Membership fees will be changed to one rate, namely four dollars annually.

H. A. McNally of the high school Board and L. Begley, principal, commented on the progress in the erection of the new high school.

Street Name Signs

Carl Heath suggested that the Chamber might undertake to erect signs indicating the names of the village streets. This street naming has been recently carried out in Stirling and in this discussion, it was agreed by all present that it would add to the appearance of the village.

Frank Bobyk was named chairman of a committee of three to go into the matter. Attention was also drawn to the new bylaw passed by Marmora village council at its last meeting prohibiting parking on Madoc St. from the Royal Hotel to St. Paul's parish hall and regulating the parking on Forsyth St.

The remainder of the meeting was spent in a discussion on ways and means of boosting attendance at the rink in skating hours and at hockey games. This ensued from a talk by the chairman on the affairs of the rink commission in which he pointed out that quite a debt still has to be met, partly due to unfavorable weather occurring in the 1950 hockey season.

Marmora Library Board Re-elected At Meeting

MARMORA, Jan. 22 (ENS)—Marmora Public Library Board was re-elected for 1951 at its annual meeting held in the library Thursday evening.

Its personnel is: chairman, C. T. Nicholson; vice-chairman, J. R. Reynolds; secretary, Mrs. J. H. English; treasurer, Mrs. J. Murray; board members, Miss M. Savage, Mrs. J. M. Brownlie, Mrs. A. Deans, Mrs. A. M. Jones, T. J. Smith and H. G. Sabine; librarian, Mrs. B. Robson; assistant, Mrs. P. Eamer.

The chairman, during routine business, expressed thanks to the officers and members for support given in the past year.

Circulation increased in all but the juvenile classes, and the overall increase was 101.

Home Building Worry

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP) — William Dadie, secretary of the Toronto Contracting Plasterers' Association, Friday said a shortage of steel lath may hit the building of homes unless quotas are increased. "We are working on a hand-to-mouth basis," he said. Ability to go ahead on two Toronto hospitals depended on the availability of metal lath.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CII. No. 18 — MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1951 — PRICE FIVE CENTS

Songs Are Made Intelligible By David Lloyd

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

David Lloyd, whose recital on Saturday night was the second in the present Community Concert series, has a robust tenor voice and governs it with fine dramatic instinct. He has not the golden tone which is a tenor's special glory, and there were times when his intonation was not as true as it should have been. He has, however, qualities of musicianship for which we cannot be too grateful. His attention at all times to the rhythm of what he was singing, and his desire to make every song he sang intelligible to his audience as a poetic thought, rather than as a mere pattern of sound, marked him as one of the musically sensitive younger singers whom we are hearing today, and who are displacing the glorious yellers of the past. Mr. Lloyd quickly put himself on good terms with his audience, and his concert was received with enthusiasm.

Some Excellent Songs

He sang a number of familiar songs, but he gave us some that were unfamiliar and excellent. It was good to hear Beethoven's setting of Goethe's "Song of the Flea," instead of the familiar one by Moussorgsky. (When will a singer give us Carl Loewe's "Erl King," which is fully as fine as Schubert's?) And it is some time since Handel's "Sound an Alarm" from "Judas Maccabaeus" was in the usual tenor repertoire—perhaps for lack of tenors to sing it with the fire and technical skill which Mr. Lloyd brought to it. At this point it may be well to point out that a considerable part of the effectiveness of this and other taxing selections sung by Mr. Lloyd was owing to the understanding accompaniments of James Payne. Mr. Payne could produce a big tone when it was wanted, and Mr. Lloyd could easily surmount it; there was no understatement in this recital.

Gifts As An Actor

Special mention must be made of Mr. Lloyd's gifts as an actor. He has made a reputation as an unusually gifted player of such operatic roles as Albert Herring in Benjamin Britten's opera of that name; without being namby-pamby, he is not so broad nor, if we may use the term, hammy, as the majority of opera singers. He illustrates his singing with gesture and movement which is always governed by a discriminating dramatic taste. Many singers gesture, but too often we feel that they have learned to do so from a not very skillful dancing master; Mr. Lloyd gestures because these movements are a true and appropriate extension of what he wishes to express. In "Don Giovanni," and in "Elucevan" from "Tosca" he showed us romantic acting on a high level; in an aria from Strauss' "Gypsy Baron" he gave a brilliant, beautifully-timed, witty performance.

It is a good thing that Peterborough has heard Mr. Lloyd at this time. He is headed towards a notable career, as singer or actor or both, and it may be that he will not come here again. Once more we repeat our conviction that Community Concerts does us a great service by making it possible for us to hear first-rate artists while they are still young.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

ATTEND COUNCIL

Lieutenants T. E. Duffield and J. D. Rolandson, WO 2 Jack Parry and Bdr. Trevor Davies, all of the 50th Heavy AA Regiment, RCA, attended a projectionists' course in Kingston over the weekend.

BUTTERFLY SIGHTED

A butterfly with a wing spread of three inches was sighted by Miss Nellie Hearns near Roseneath, during the recent mild spell. Miss Hearns who lives on Concesion 1, Alnwick township caught the butterfly which was flying near the house on Friday.

TARDY TAXPAYERS

The Assessment Act should be amended so municipalities can impose a four-per cent penalty on those who have not paid their taxes by December 15. That was the contention of Reeve Ross Harrison of Smith who introduced the motion on Saturday at the session of county council. It was seconded by Loyola Maloney, deputy reeve of Douro, and passed without dissent. Mr. Harrison contended that some people are taking advantage of the present method and are, in effect, borrowing money at the county's expense. The four-per-cent penalty was repealed about four years ago.

ALL HANG TOGETHER

County council have endorsed two resolutions dealing with administration of justice that were sent to them from other municipalities. One was from the town of Simcoe advocating that all hangings take place in a central location rather than in the county where the crime occurred. Councillors felt that penal executions could be carried out more efficiently this way. They also endorsed a Hastings county resolution requesting an amendment to the Jurors' Act. This would prevent litigants in civic actions where the claim did not exceed $500 from electing trial by jury. The cost to the county of a jury trial was excesive considering the amount of the claim, council contended.

Reeve Demands Resignation County Assessor--"No Value Ridiculous Idea"--Chairman

Reeve William E. Griffith, Belmont-Methuen, Saturday noon asked his fellow county councillors to support a resolution he introduced demanding the resignation of Stewart G. Sparling, county assessor. There was no seconder and the only other comment came from councillors who opposed such a move. Mr. Griffith's attempted resolution came in the closing minutes of the inaugural session that had run on since Tuesday afternoon. Just before a motion to adjourn was in order, Mr. Griffith got the floor, reached into his pocket and produced a pencilled statement that contained a long pre-amble and finally the resolution demanding Mr. Sparling's resignation.

He reiterated a statement he made in 1948 before the county council: "that the darkest day this county ever saw was when they appointed a county assessor."

"I have not changed my mind one bit," he added.

"The sole purpose of the whole matter is to draw more money out of our over-burdened taxpayer to keep a high-collared gentleman drawing a good fat salary and giving no value for it." Referring to the appointment of the county assessor he said: "It was not compulsory then to appoint such an officer, nor is it now. . ."

"Therefore," concluded Mr. Griffin, "I will move that we ask for the resignation of the county assessor. I cannot see that he is of any value to this county as there is nothing yet the County Council cannot do themselves in the way of arriving at a proper equalized valuation of one municipality to another for county purposes."

"Borders On Ridiculous"

Reeve James Gifford, Ennismore, chairman of the 1950-1951 committees on equalization and assessment, struck back sharply.

"This resolution borders on the ridiculous—if it isn't completely ridiculous," he said.

Mr. Gifford said the problem of arriving at a fair equalized assessment—so each municipality paid its fair share of the county's expenses — had always been a difficult one. In years past judges had to make the decision if there was a dispute; and on other occasions the only solution was a two per cent or five per cent levy on all municipalities.

County Assessor Fairer

Neither of these methods was as fair as having a county assessor, said Mr. Gifford. He also pointed out that it was the trend of the times—more counties were hiring assessors every year. And this year the province contributed $1,500 toward the assessor's salary.

"I wonder if this matter has been shown to the electors of Belmont-Methuen in the proper light?" queried Mr. Gifford. "In the final outcome of the matter those now carrying the burden of taxation will find themselves in a better position as a result of the assessment.

Mr. Gifford said he also strongly resented the statement that Mr. Sparling "isn't doing anything."

"There isn't a county employee who takes his job so seriously. Sometimes we think he takes it too seriously."

"I'm not saying our assessment in Belmont-Methuen is out of line," said Mr. Griffin. "But I object to the expense of the assessor and the way he is conducting the valuation. He has estimated on property he never saw."

"Grave Doubts"

Mr. Griffith said his whole point was that assessment for county purposes could have been raised without hiring a county assessor.

He also intimated he had "grave doubts" if the electors of five municipalities in the county would have returned the men they did had the issue gone to a vote.

When Mr. Griffith said he heard that Smith "had been hard hit too," Reeve Ross Harrison replied: "We're not kicking a bit."

Warden Peter Pearson said that in Galway-Cavendish the assessment was raised about 500 per cent, from $62,350 to $325,000. Despite this there had been only one hearing in front of the Court of Revision, and he felt the electors were satisfied the assessment was fair.

Kicked In Face During Brawl So Police Told

Albert Young, 296 McGill St., was charged in police court today with assault following a Saturday night brawl involving his estranged wife, in which he was alleged to have kicked Orville James, 268 Aylmer St., in the face and sent him unconscious to St. Joseph's Hospital.

James was released from hospital Sunday evening.

Police were called to James' Aylmer St. house about 9:45 p.m. Saturday night. They found James lying on the dining room floor bleeding from the nose and forehead.

No Euchre

In the house were Young and Mrs. Hazel Young, 80 Ware St., his wife. She told police she had not been living with Young for about 13 weeks. She said that she had come to James' home that evening rather than go to a euchre game with her husband.

About 9 p.m. Young came to James' home. James' son and daughter were sent to a movie. When they had left the house, police say, Young asked James to take off his glasses.

The two men clinched and wrestled and fought until Young kicked James in the face and knocked him out, it is alleged.

Constables Douglas Farthing and Donald Mackay arrested Young and brought him to the police station. He was remanded on $500 bail to Jan. 29.

Wolf Hunters See 3 Wolves, All Get Away

Fifty members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association held on Saturday their first wolf hunt of the year in an area about two miles south-east of Warsaw. Three wolves were flushed out of the block, were fired at, but got away. One animal was said to have been wounded. Not a fox was seen during the hunt.

The club had secured a pair of dogs trained to hunt wolves and used them without success. Hunters who had promised to participate from the Newtonville district did not show up. After a cold lunch and hot coffee "break" the hunters moved to an adjacent area. It too, was a dry run.

48 Degree Drop In 30 Hours

Peterborough's thermometers dropped 48 degrees during the weekend for a low of four below zero early this morning.

The weather is a veritable virtuoso in its week by week and season by season performance. Those last two weeks of January set records of mildness, two weeks out of middle of winter that lightened the drain on fuels. Then the bottom dropped out of the fine weather early Sunday, after the rain of Saturday night.

The thermometer climbed to 44 degrees Saturday and was still 36 at 10 p.m. Saturday night. The high for Sunday was 22 degrees, on the way down to the low of zero, not to mention that west wind which greeted morning church-goers.

Hasty-Pees Veterans Honor Old O.C. Lord Tweedsmuir

By DOUGLAS HOW

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 22—(CP).—The 1st Division's Hasty-Pees and their favorite British lord finally got together Saturday after six long years. The result was an exuberant triumph and an unfolding of mutual affection by veterans of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment on one hand and Lord Tweedsmuir on the other.

The celebration, said the son of the former Governor-General of Canada, was well worth coming 3,500 miles for.

For the regimental association and the reserve battalion, modern version of the 1st Division's beloved Hasty-Pees, or plow jockeys, shot the works, formally and informally, for this Scottish noble who endeared himself to them to a remarkable degree in three months in Sivily and Italy.

The reunion had only one purpose, to honor the man who came to the battalion shortly before it sailed to Sicily in 1943, was badly wounded in commanding its assault on the Nissoria Cliffs, returned to command in Italy and was forced out again by illness.

Several hundred veterans showed up from Ottawa, Peterborough, Owen Sound, Hamilton, Toronto, as well as from the Eastern Ontario farming areas, around Belleville, which produced the bulk of the men who fought in the unit's ranks.

Guiding star of the celebration was Angus Duffy, president of the association, the man they used to call the most famous sergeant-major in the Canadian Army. Now he's a lieutenant, a successful Belleville business man, and alderman, a Boy Scout leader, but still Angus Dufffy.

They gave their "Colonel Tweedsmuir" a dinner, the key to the city, and a plaque bearing the regimental crest worked by a former sniper. They gathered together the reserve battalion from towns as far away as 85 miles and put on a smart parade which he inspected and then told them his proudest days were those when he commanded their unit.

They got the Queen's Own Band down from Toronto and had 83-year-old Jamie Clark out in his kilts and bagpipes to supplement the music.

It was a big day, replete with wisecracks and reminiscences, like the corporal's advice to Angus Duffy at the dinner. Mr. Duffy apologized because there was no microphone and asked if he could be heard at the back of the room—he who could put an entire brigade through its paces by voice unaided. "Don't worry, sir," cracked the corporal, "just speak in a regimental whisper."

Prof. I. E. Martin Dies At Picton

Director of Studies at Royal Military College, Kingston, for 31 years, Professor Iva Everhard Martin died at Picton last Wednesday in his 88th year. He was stepfather of Mr. Ralph Standish of Peterborough. The funeral took place Friday to Cherry Valley cemetery.

Prof. Martin was born in Hungerford township, Hastings county, son of George Martin and Mahala E. Roblin. In his course at the University of Toronto, as reported in The Picton Gazette, he won a scholarship each year, concluding with a gold medal in his final year. Engagements with the University and the Auditor-General's Department, Ottawa, were followed by his appointment as mathematical master at R.M.C.

Eventually the post of Director of Studies was created for him and his special abilities. A presentation to him on the occasion of the visit of the Prince of Wales attested in part to his sound instruction and great helpfulness to the Cadets in and out of hours for more than 31 years. Many men who distinguished themselves later in military and public life came under the guidance of Prof. Martin.

He left his wife, formerly Louisa Eleanor (Wilson) Standish and her sons, Ralph of Peterborough, and Robin of Toronto; and by a step-daughter, Mrs. Elkins, wife of General Elkins, Kingston, who was a daughter of his first wife who was Angelique A. (Carruthers) Shortt of Kingston.

Close 2-Day Festivities Of Lenin Anniversary

MOSCOW, Jan. 22. (AP)—Russia today brings to a close a two-day mourning period commemorating the 27th anniversary of the death of Vladimir Ilich Lenin, founder of the Soviet state.

All traffic was halted in Red Square as thousands of Soviet citizens trooped to pay tribute to the father of the revolution in his mausoleum before the Kremlin walls.

Buildings throughout Moscow and other Soviet cities were draped with mourning flags — red banners edged with black.

A distinguished assemblage of mourners, including Prime Minister Stalin, gathered Sunday night in Moscow's Bolshoi Theatre to hear Peter N. Pospelov, head of the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute and leading party theoretician, unleash a blast against the United States as part of the celebration.

Need More Space At Incinerator

Repairs to the interior brick walls of the combustion chamber, arches and fire boxes at the incinerator may be extended to enlargement of the storage section as suggested at a meeting of the property committee of the council last week.

The necessary work in the consuming and main section of the plant suggests that the increase of garbage storage space be done at the same time. Growth of the city has been more rapid than was contemplated when the incinerator was built. Volume of garbage that is being collected is heavier than was expected.

Mr. J. E. Pierce, sanitation superintendent, reports that the plant is still capable of burning the flow of garbage, but that more storage space is required for the holding of material that has to be kept for burning at night.

Ald. H. F. Waddell is chairman of the property committee. The project has not yet come before the council, and it is understood that estimate of the cost is around $10,000.

IODE Assists Peace Garden

TORONTO —(CP)— The Imperial Order Daughter of the Empire has contributed $1,300 to the International Peace Garden project near the Turtle Mountains astride the international boundary between Manitoba and North Dakota.

The province of Manitoba gave free title to 1,300 acres and North Dakota gave 900 acres to establish the garden after the project was conceived by the late Henry J. Moore of Toronto as a method of commemorating more than a century of peace between Canada and the United States. Huge crowds attended its dedication in 1932.

Considerable development and landscaping of the area has taken place since then under International Peace Garden, Inc., whose directors are chosen jointly from Canada and the United States. An attractive lodge has been erected on the US side of the property and plans are being made for erection of an international peace tower.

Mrs. W. G. Hall Lends Home For Delightful Tea Honoring I.O.D.E. Officers

A delightful climax to three busy days for members of the IODE in Peterborough was Sunday afternoon tea at the home of the head of the local chapters, Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, regent of Municipal Chapter.

In the displaying of Queen Mary's beatiful carpet to more than 2,600 citizens, from Thursday afternoon until late Saturday evening at the Richard Hall Store, the carpet fund in charge of Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was increased by a sum close to $950. This is one of the largest sums realized from the carpet's tour of all major Canadian cities and many towns, exceeding the capital city Ottawa by $250.

Local treasurer for the fund Miss Mary Curry expects that Peterborough's contribution may reach $1,000 as donations are still being received and the booklets, post cards and pictures will be kept on hand for those desiring to have souvenirs and mementos of the carpet visit.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

DOROTHY DIX

Tyrannical Mother Says Daughter Shall Never Marry

DEAR MISS DIX: Although my father loves my mother and is very good to her she feels that marriage is a terrible thing and is determined that I shall never marry. Her plan is for me to work in an office and earn my own living all my life. But I have other ideas. I want to work a few years. Then I want a husband and children and a home. I have a sister who is 40 years old and an old maid as a result of Mother managing her life. She drove away all of my sister's suitors and now she is lonely and unhappy and feels very bitter toward Mother.

Dorothy Dix

I don't want this to happen to me, but I don't know how to avoid it as Mother has begun the same tactics with me. I love my mother, but I wish I could make her see that I have a mind and some right to decide things for myself. CLARIBEL

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I wish I could tell you how to go about making your mother see what a terrible thing she has done to your sister and is planning to do to you, but it is easier to make the leopard change its spots than it is to change the nature of a tyrannical woman.

Thinks She Knows Best

You see, one reason why mothers are so impervious to any argument about their right to dominate their children's lives is because they are so self-righteous about it. They are so certain that they are wiser and know better than their children do, and that what they are doing is for the children's good. They utterly ignore the fact that their children may be of an entirely different temperament, have different tastes needs and desires, that the things that would make them happy would make their children miserable, and that Nature fitted them for a different career from theirs.

Your mother, from your account, evidently is a celibate by nature. Although she has a good husband, she looks upon marriage as a sort of purgatory from which she wants to save her daughters. You and your sister, on the contrary were cut out for wives and mothers, and you will never be happy outside of your own homes.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a brother whom I love dearly. I am also very fond of his wife. I know that my brother is not true to her and that he is having an affair with another woman. I know that other people have tried to quietly relay to my sister-in-law what is going on, but either she is very blind, or else she wants to give the impression that she is. I am at a loss to konw where my duty lies. Shall I tell my sister-in-law or not?

WORRIED SISTER

ANSWER: Certainly you should not tell her. It is a cruel and useless thing for any one to tell either a husband or a wife of the unfaithfulness of their mate, because it does no possible good and only precipitates trouble.

If your sister-in-law does not know of her husband's disloyalty why rouse her from her dream of bliss? She will waken from it soon enough, and you should not shorten her happiness by even an hour. It isn't as if her knowing about it would do any possible good. If a woman's husband has ceased to love her and is having an affair with another woman, there is nothing that she can do that will bring him back to her. So her knowledge of his infidelity is valueless to her.

Perhaps your siter-in-law is pretending ignorance. I do not believe there is any woman in the world so stupid as not to know to almost the exact minute when her husband ceases to care for her. But often she shuts her eyes to what she knows because it saves her dignity to pose as a wife who is ignorant of her husband's sidestepping.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am of one religion and the man I am going to marry is of another. His family want me to change to his and my family want him to change to my religion. Which should?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I cannot enter into religious controversies in this column, but I see no reason why when people marry they should change their religion, nor why each should not follow his or her own faith in peace and happiness. All religions, if they amount to anything at all, are just different roads that lead up to God and it does not matter which path one takes so long as it satisfies his spiritual needs and helps him lead a better life. But unless a man and woman can feel this way about it and that creeds are unimportant, they are wise not to marry one of a different faith. For there are enough things in marriage to fight over without making it a holy war.

Divorce Campaign Costs Friendship

LONDON —(CP)— Lord Mancroft, bachelor, says that if you want to do a lot of good try to reform the divorce laws here—but it may cost some friendships.

The 36-year-old peer is going slow in his campaign to reform Britain's divorce laws because he is losing friends and failing to influence people.

"When I bring up the subject of divorce among friends, the room is split into two camps," he told the Authors' Club. "There is a great division and it's all my fault. Now I don't bring it up very often."

Mancroft introduced a bill for divorce reform last year but it made little headway. One of his chief aims was to abolish the law which prevents a divorced man from marrying his wife's sister—a ruling, he said, causing much hardship and immorality.

Male In Kitchen Notes Handicaps

LONDON —(CP)— A doctor who has to do his own housework inserted an angry article in the Medical World asking why the kitchen sink is always in the darkest corner.

He also wanted to know why kitchen drains are still uncovered and how much illness is caused thereby.

Of his gas cooker, the doctor said: "It has four gas rings arranged around the corners and I defy anyone to have four saucepans cooking at one time."

Teacher Enjoys Visit To Spain

KINGSTON —(CP)— Margaret E. Garnham, Havana-born Spanish teacher at Queen's University here, recently toured Spain on only $150.

She told a woman's group here that her train fare was about $40 for the trip that took her through most of the country.

Food is strictly rationed in Spain and a black market flourishes at prohibitive prices.

She and a woman companion were told that in drought-ridden Spain there is a shortage of electricity in the north and that drinking water is in short supply in the central and southern sections.

Roadbeds of the railways lines are so bad that it is a "near miracle" when a train runs on time, she said.

But she found the country extremely interesting, the food good, the hotels clean and the people friendly and helpful.

What's Right

You are invited to a party and wonder if one of your friends has been invited.

WRONG: Telephone her and ask: "Are you going to the Jones' party Saturday night?"

RIGHT: Resist the impulse to ask others if they have received the same invitations you have, since you may create hard feelings if they have not. You may also get a reputation for bragging about all the places to which you are invited.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"You're in luck, not much waiting—the boss is making quick decisions today!"

Woman Architect Enjoying Work

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (CP).—Mrs. D. J. Harrison takes pride in being called a "designing woman"—she is one of the comparatively few women career architects in Canada.

"Watching a building grow under your hands is quite an experience," she said in an interview at the convention of the Ontario Association of Architects, where she was the only woman delegate.

She admits she may have been influenced in her choice of a career by the number of architects in her family. She had listened to several architect uncles "talk shop."

"Their work sounded so interesting I decided to go to McGill after high school and take the architecture course."

When she was graduated in 1947—she now is 25—she joined a Toronto firm of architects.

"My work is drawing up the designs worked out by the older architects," she explained. "But many friends who are planning houses like help with their plans."

Park Street Baptist Church Annual Meeting

The annual business meeting of Park Street Baptist Church was held on Friday evening with a good attendance of members and adherents, under the leadership of Mr. Paul Wicks, chairman of the board of deacons.

The meeting opened with a short devotional period, followed by a few remarks by the chairman and the reading of a letter from the pastor, who has been ill for several weeks. The congregation were greatly encouraged when the pastor was able to make a brief appearance, and it is hoped he will soon be able to resume his ministry.

The reports of the various organizations were given, and showed that good progress had been made during the year.

The outstanding project of the year that was more than reached was for the Baptist extension fund, and the redecoration of the church, both interior and exterior, and the installation of a complete new lighting system. All of this work has been completed and the church edifice much improved.

Thanks were expressed by the chairman to all the ministers who have so graciously assisted in the filling of the pulpit while the pastor has been ill, especial mention being made of Rev. Ivan C. Morgan of Murray Street Baptist Church, who has been very helpful, and Dr. R. F. Aldwinckle of McMaster University.

Church Clerk G. Herzog reported a membership of 208.

The financial reports revealed that approximately $11,700 had been raised for all purposes in 1950, of which $2,550 was for missions.

Floods In Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 22. — (AP). — Heavy rains and melting snow sent many small streams surging out of their banks in Western Germany today. Many highways and a few rail lines were blocked by flood waters. The only big river to burst its banks was the Danube, near Ulm. There was no flood threat on the Rhine.

Big Four Want More To Say About Football

TORONTO, Jan. 22 — (CP).— The Big Four football union wants more to say about how the game is to be operated in Canada.

At its annual meeting here on Saturday the wealthy Eastern four-team league decided to consult with its Western counterpart on possible joint action to seek more power in the Canadian Rugby Union, governing body of football in this country.

The plan was announced by Big Four secretary D. Wes Brown of Ottawa following the closed meeting. He said the league had also decided to establish a players' waiver system which would force teams to put on the selling bloc any players above a limit of 35. The waiver system would apply to Canadians only and would allow other teams to buy their contracts.

The leagues decision to go after more control of football in Canada was prompted, said Past President Eric Craddock, by the fact that the Big Four and the Western Interprovincial Union are the strongest in Canada.

Need Bigger Voice

At present the Big Four, the Western Conference, and the Ontario Rugby Football Union have two votes each in the CRU affairs. The Eastern College League and the Quebec Rugby Football Union have one vote each.

Feeling in the Big Four is that this arrangement does not give either the Big Four or the Western Conference a voice equivalent to their importance.

The meeting of the two leagues will probably be held in February and it is hoped to have definite proposals for the CRU meeting in Winnipeg in March.

C. C. Lawson of Hamilton, elected president of the Big Four at the meeting here, and Craddock will meet the Western officials.

Other officials elected Saturday are: J. R. Welch of Ottawa Rough Riders, first vice-president; C. C. McFadden, Toronto Argonauts, second vice-president; and Leo Dandurand of Montreal, third vice-president.

Robert Moran, Toronto, J. P. McCaffrey, Ottawa, Ralph Cooper, Hamilton, and Lew Hayman, Montreal, were elected to the executive committee.

Other decisions reached at the meeting:

1—The league will no longer recognize the right of a player to appeal a league decision in court.

2—The league will suggest a "Hall of Fame dinner' at which outstanding football players past and present would be honored to be held on the eve of the annual Grey Cup final.

Counties Council Appoves $349,600 For Roads In 1951

COBOURG, Jan. 22 (ENS). — There has been little for the snowplows to do so far this winter but unseasonal thawing caused considerable breakup on the Brighton-Carrying Place road, the report of road superintendent Jack Jordan, revealed at the January session of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council. Council approved a road appropriation for 1951 of $349,600.

The road appropriation, about the same as last year, is made up of $129,600 for construction; $154,000 maintenance; $31,000 for machinery and repairs; $20,000, miscellaneous and $15,000 for the Trenton suburban road.

Gravel roads were a headache to the department, Mr. Jordan told counties council when he presented his report. Good gravel roads entice motorists to drive fast on them and when they did the roads deteriorated quickly. Mr. Jordan advised that bituminous paved roads be increased as soon as possible.

The road superintendent advised against any more roads being taken into the counties road system. Road commissions in recent years had tried to spread the work among as many townships as possible, patching and fixing, here and there. However a more effective system would be to concentrate on one or two-mile projects in each of three townships at a time.

Reeve Frank George of Brighton township said that he would like to learn why the road commission called for tenders for more equipment than was recommended at the November session. Reeve Art Wartman of Percy township, member of the Road Commission, replied that no purchases had been made. Tenders had been called and opened, subject to the decision of the 1951 Road Commission. It was good business to get prices by tender early than to wait until they went up, Reeve Wartman said.

The road superintendent reported that it would cost about $20,000 to instal a new bridge, known as the Factory Bridge, on King street west, in Cobourg. Cobourg had applied to have the bridge taken over as a county bridge.

Council was addressed on Friday by E. F. Marsten, district engineer of the Dept. of Highways. Referring to the matter brought up by Reeve George regarding equipment tenders, he said it was sometimes better to get orders early so long as no delivery was received until orders had been given an o.k. by the incoming council.

Insofar as the 1951 road appropriation was concerned he honed it was a reasonable amount because at the conference earlier in the week of the department engineers in Toronto it had been observed that last year certain reductions had been made to by-laws submitted to the department so as to make the amounts comparable to other years. Certain concessions were made in connection with urgent work. He said he hoped that municipalities will appreciate the necessity of definite budgets for this work.

H. O. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the Cobourg Chamber of Commerce addressed council on the tourist work of the Chamber of Commerce and said that any financial assistance would be appreciated.

Deputy-Reeve George Galbraith of Cobourg, advised council that the town of Cobourg had got prices on the cost of repairing the basement of the town hall for use by the corporation in order to release rooms on the ground floor needed by the counties. The county property committee had indicated that the counties might be willing to help to the extent of 50 per cent in the cost of the work, which was estimated at from $18,000 to $20,000. Reeve E. Scott of Hope township said he would favor a grant but not to the extent of 50 per cent.

On motion it was left to the county property committee with the understanding that if the county property committee found that it was going to cost an excessive amount, to call in the finance committee.

A bylaw was passed which added Alnwick and part of Hamilton township to the Cobourg high school district. Another bylaw added part of Manvers township to Victoria county high school district. A bylaw authorized the assumption in the counties road system of the Victoria county boundary road. Elected to the county road system were Elmer Scott, Mervin Greer, J. H. Lowery, Art Wartman and Warden Walton. Appointed to the board of management were L. H. Giddy and A. B. Billen. D. McLaughlin was appointed to the special schools committee; George Broadworth and C. Nichols to the Children's Aid Society; A. W. Hayes to the Board of Health. Other appointments, G. F. Jamieson to Bowmanville Hospital Board; W. Roche to Port Hope Hospital Board; Rod Dodge to Cobourg and R. J. Locke to Campbellford Hospital.

Woman Seeks Family Separated Since 1872

MONTREAL, Jan. 22 (CP) — Mary Hughes of Carlsbad Springs, Ont., Saturday appealed to Montreal police to help locate her family she last saw in 1872 when she was 12 year old.

The 91-year-old woman's only clue was that one of her sisters, either Maggie or Lizzie, was married to a blacksmith named Dunne here years ago. Police could not locate any blacksmith by that name.

Born in Wheatfield, county Kildare, Ireland, Miss Hughes was brought to Canada by her parents when she was a child. Before her father died, several other children were born. Finally, their widowed mother placed them in an orphanage and took a job as housekeeper.

Timber Cutting Left Up To Committee

Countl council have now left it up to the reforestation committee to decide how much lumber should be cut in the 4,600-acre forest area north of Norwood.

This decision, arrived at Saturday in open council, rescinds a resolution passed Wednesday afternoon in council limiting the cutting this season to 100,000 board feet (log measure).

After long debate Wednesday the matter seemed settled but Thursday morning Loyola Moloney, deputy reeve of Douro, brought it up again. He said that John McColl, superintendent of the project, thought it a wise move to go ahead and cut additional timber now that he had the combined advantages of good weather, a good six-man crew, and a good potential market.

Termed A Gamble

Reeve William E. Griffith, Belmont-Methuen, termed the whole project of cutting and marketing the timber on the county forest area a "a gamble".

"We should first make a tryout of 100,000 board feet and if it's a success then we can cut more another year," said Mr. Griffith. "But right now I'm not in favor of cutting more than 100,000 feet."

Reeve James Gifford, Ennismore, said he didn't think it was a gamble but that the county was almost certain of showing a profit on the project. As long as favorable weather lasted and council was assured by Mr. McColl that only the proper trees were being cut then there was no purpose in limiting the operation to 100,000 feet.

Reeve Ross Harrison, Smith, said, "I agree with Mr. Gifford 100 per cent." Reeve Fork Ferguson, Norwood, said he too felt the cutting shouldn't be limited to the previous figure.

Must Wait 24 Hours

Council was then informed by Mrs. J. A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer, that they had to wait 24 hours before rescinding their previous motion. Discussion started again Saturday after a motion of Mr. Gifford and Dave McIntyre, deputy reeve of Otonabee.

The whole matter of cutting was left to the judgment of the committee in consultation with the committee's chairman, Mr. McColl. Council also recommended that a district forester from the Department of Lands and Forests be called in to look the situation over and make a report.

Both Mr. Griffith and Reeve James Humphries, Asphodel, again said they were not in favor of cutting more than 100,000 feet.

The No. 1 problem, agreed Reeves Norman Wilson, Burleigh-Anstruther, Stewart Clysdale, Dummer, and Roland Tedford, Douro, was getting a sawmill into the area before spring. By June piled pine timber begins to get wormy.

Hot Hurricanes Dump Stratford In 4-3 Overtime

By The Canadian Press

Waterloo Hurricanes, a mere 73 points out of first place in the OHA Junior A standings, have suddenly emerged as one of the hottest teams in the loop.

Granted, Bob Kinnear's freshman entry have dropped 31 of their 35 starts. But at the moment they're riding a two-game winning streak.

In a weekend that followed the Biblical prohecy that the last shall be first, the Hurricanes won their third game of the season, defeating Stratford Kroehlers 4-3 in a gruelling overtime session. The ninth-place Toronto St. Michael's College club knocked off the first-place Toronto Marlboros 6-4.

Just to make things crowded, Windsor Spitfires blanked Barrie Flyers 2-0 to join the Flyers and Marlboros in a three-way tie for the top spot. Galt Black Hawks edged St. Catharines Teepees to take over sixth place from the losers and Oshawa Generals closed in on the fourth-place Guelph Biltmores by shading them 5-4.

No Crowd Here

By contrast to the crowded conditions in the top brackets of the junior circuit, Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs walloped Toronto Marlboros 6-1 to open a nine-point margin over the second-place Dukes in the four-team major loop.

Goalie Glen Hall, rapidly becoming a pay-off guy for the Spitfires, kicked out 40 shots to earn his shutout against Barrie, virtually duplicating his feat when Windsor blanked Marlboros by the identical score last weekend.

Erwin Grosse took care of the essential offensive scores, passing to Eldor Thomas for one goal and scoring the second himself on a solo breakaway.

Saturday night was bargain night in three OHA cities as the Waterloo - Stratford, Oshawa - Guelph and St. Catharines-Galt tussles all went into extra time.

Stratford cast-off Murray Dunnette sent the victory-starved Hurricane fans home happy when he scored the tying goal against his old mates with barely two minutes' regular time left, then passed to Paul Oliver for the winner 40 seconds after the extra period started.

On The Job

The league's top-scoring line—Alex Delvecchio, Lou Jankowski and Stan Mills—was in evidence as usual in Oshawa's win with scoring-leader Delvecchio and his linemates getting a goal apiece and Delvecchio setting up overtime tallies for Jankowski and Herve Dejordy, Generals' only two-goal man.

Ron Murphy counted two for the Biltmores, who spotted Oshawa three goals at the end of two periods, evened it up and then had to come from behind once too often.

The Marlboros-St. Michael's junior clash produced convincing evidence that the two Toronto Maple Leaf farm clubs aren't overly fond of each other.

Bill Lee, a two-goal man for the Irish, drew a match misconduct penalty and seven others were assessed majors for a wild outbreak of mayhem in the game's dying minutes.

The Donnybrook halted a last-ditch Marlboro rally, during which they rattled home three goals in 79 seconds.

The comparatively-tame major game between the two clubs saw Johnny Arundel and Dusty Blair spark the Monarchs with two goals apiece against the off-color Dukes.

General Vanishes

PARIS, Jan. 22. — (AP). — French officials Sunday said German Gen. Hermann Rancke, whose trial on war-crimes charges was to come up before a Paris military court in a few weeks, has disappeared. At the end of the war Rancke commanded German troops in a pocket around the French port of Brest, which the Allies had by-passed some time before. Last October he was permitted to live at a boarding house in Corbeil, Paris suburb, after giving his word he would not escape.

12 Fatalities Death Toll Over Weekend

By The Canadian Press

Twelve persons, of whom half were killed in traffic accidents, died violent deaths in eastern Canada during the weekend.

Six of the fatalities occurred in Ontario, three in Quebec, two in Prince Edward Island and one in Newfoundland.

Mrs. Julien Paul Collard, 33, of Ste. Rosalie, Que., and her daughter Celine, 3, were killed near St. Hyacinthe, Que., Sunday night when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by an autobus.

Gordon Begley, 10, was killed in Toronto Sunday when a truck backed over him while he was playing in a narrow lane. Another Torontonian, John J. MacDonald, 46, was fatally injured Saturday night at suburban Etobicoke when he walked into the side of an automobile.

At Montreal, Alexander Beaton, 31, was killed early Sunday when his car crashed into a tramways pole after skidding off the road. Three other persons including his wife suffered lesser injuries.

Hit By Truck

Patrick Moore, 30, died in hospital Saturday in St. John's, Nfld., after being hit by a truck on the Conception Bay highway. Stanley Joseph Glynn, 29, of Portugal Cove, Nfld., was charged with manslaughter and failure to remain at the scene of an accident in connection with the fatal mishap.

A fire at Morell, PEI, Saturday night claimed the lives of Mrs. Gordon Robbins, 39, and her son Haldane, 1½. The fire which destroyed their home is believed to have started from an explosion in the kitchen stove.

G. Albert Scharfe of Ottawa, a Canadian Pacific engineer, was killed Saturday morning when his engine was derailed after striking a truck stalled across the tracks. Twenty-five persons were injured.

At Mount Brydges in western Ontario, a tobacco grower, George Lawrence, 42, Sunday was found bludgeoned to death in an upstairs bedroom of his farm home.

Derry Nesbitt, 17, was found dead Sunday in his automobile in his father's service station in Ottawa west, apparently the victim of carbon monoxide fumes.

In Toronto Jean Marie Dube, 22, of Lac Megantic, Que., was killed Sunday when struck by a moving coal car in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards. Dube was working in a coal chute beneath the tracks.

MISS LAURENTIAN OF 1951, a pert little lady of 17, arrived in Montreal recently on her return from New York after facing 11 lensmen at one time, apearing on TV six times, interviewed by 3 columnists, and seen, heard, read about by 175,000,000 people. The brown-eyed Garbrielle Chalifoux was chosen Miss Laurentian over a number of contestants and received the trip to the "Big City" as a prize also to promote several carnivals in the Laurentian Mountains this winter.

Newspaper Too Successful Bulletin Ends Publication

EDMONTON, Jan. 22 (CP) — The Edmonton Bulletin, Alberta's first newspaper, ended publication Saturday.

Rising costs of materials and labor, restricted newsprint supplies and limitations on building and mechanical expansion were given by Publisher Harold L. Straight as reasons for the death of the paper founded in 1880 by Hon. Frank Oliver who carted a press and type by oxcart 700 miles from Winnipeg.

In an interview, Mr. Straight said the Bulletin had been "too successful." In three years it had increased its circulation 66 per cent and its advertising linage 88 per cent. but the plant, designed for a 16-page paper, was obsolete. A new plant and a new press, at a total cost of $1,000,000 were needed. The paper recently had averaged 27 pages and a circulation of 30,100.

Disposition of the Bulletin's assets remained uncertain Sunday. W. A. MacDonald, publisher of the Journal, Edmonton's other daily newspaper, said: "We have not bought the Bulletin."

Startling End

The end came with startling suddenness for 179 Bulletin employees who each received two weeks' salary.

With the last edition "put to bed," W. J. (Bill) Power, at 81 the oldest active printer in Canada, walked out of the cramped two-storey brick publishing plant for the last time. He had left the Ottawa Citizen at the behest of Mr. Oliver and had worked for the Bulletin almost 45 years, 12 of them as foreman of the "back shop."

Mr. Straight said he has no personal plans for the future. Formerly managing editor of the Vancouver Sun, he came to Edmonton three years ago when the Bulletin, an evening newspaper, was purchased by a group of Calgary and Edmonton businessmen. They included G. M. Bell of Calgary, publisher of the Calgary Albertan, a morning paper. The previous owner was Charles E. Campbell of Edmonton.

UN Command Has Answer On How Chinese Reds Fight

By STAN SWINTON

TOKYO, Jan. 22—(AP)—How does Communist China's army fight?

The United Nations command believes it has the answers.

Officers have questioned hundreds of infantry veterans of Chinese attacks, correlating individual experiences. The pattern of Chinese Communist combat tactics thus has become clear.

Results of the study are being distributed to UN troops in Korea through mimeographed bulletins. They explode many misconceptions on how Peiping's Red legions fight.

For instance, the Chinese almost never make the banzai-type attacks which the Japanese made so familiar during the Second World War and which some North Koreans were reported to have tried early in the Korean war. Instead, the numerically-superior Chinese first try to start a heavy gun duel.

They even order Red soldiers to expose themselves just to draw fire. The Chinese try to encourage this longe-range exchange of shots until UN forces exhaust their ammunition. Only then do the Reds storm the positions, the study said.

Intelligence Poor

Chinese intelligence on UN front-line positions isn't particularly good. There's nothing to the front-line legend that the Reds have pinpointed every foxhole and machine-gun.

Peiping's Reds are fighting intelligently. They are not just swarms of peasants. Just as UN commanders study Red fighting methods, the Reds study the UN tactics. A captured combat bulletin carefully evaluated how the 1st U.S. cavalry division fought, pin-pointing what the Reds considered American combat weaknesses.

If you were out in the foxholes at night and the Chinese attacked, here's what you could expect, the study indicated:

Out of the darkness would come three to five groups, each five to six men strong. Their mission: to draw fire so UN troops would disclose their positions.

Suddenly the brassy blare of bugles would sound from half a dozen points.

Thirty to 40 enemy would attack the rear of the company line and a skirmish line of 60 to 70 men strike at the front platoon.

The assault waves would throw themselves on the ground about 50 yards from the foxholes, hurling small potato-masher-type concussion grenades and firing rifles. Behind them machine-guns would tear at the UN line.

As Reds died or were wounded, more would move up, firing "burp" guns, rifles and more grenades.

The battle would go on—either untly Chinese casualties were so heavy they would withdraw or until Chinese casualties were so out and the defence troops were forced to withdraw.

Solves Double Bed Problem With Bottle Of Nembutal

By JACK SCOTT

When a man has lived with a woman seventeen-and-one-half years he gets to know her pretty well—the little danger signals that wives hoist aloft with their eyes, the imperceptible freezing in the glance, the subtle change in mood that spells Trouble—and Henry Pludge was no exception.

Blindfolded, in the same room with his wife, Henry, by some extra-sensory process of mental telepathy, could tell when Emily was angered. And he knew it when, at long last, he brought up the subject of twin beds.

It was desperation that drove him to it for Henry sensed that the transition from double to twin bed was a sort of milestone in marital affairs, much the same as the first forgotten anniversary or the first time a wife decides to march home to mother.

Getting No Rest

The fact was he was getting no sleep and hadn't had a decent night's rest in many months. Emily was an uncommonly restless sleeper. She muttered and gyrated about and occasionally flailed an arm heavily across Henry's face with much the same effect of a stocking full of buckshot. Henry spent most of nocturnal hours cowering.

More than that, Emily was a robust 30 pounds heavier than her husband. Because of this Henry's half of the bed was forever on a slant of some 30 degrees. It was like trying to sleep on the side of a hill and Henry had had several nasty nightmares in which he was struggling ever onward up a mountain slope that never ended.

The idea of twin beds began as a furtive little thought and ballooned to an obsession and one night, marshalling his courage, he came right out with it.

Reaction Alarming

Emily's reaction was instant and more alarming than ever Henry imagined.

At his elaborately offhand remark—"What would you think about trying twin beds, dear?"—Emily had glanced sharply at him. A stranger could have read nothing in that look. A thousand-word statement before a notary public. Emily was Deeply Hurt.

She had agreed, with far too much heat, that twin beds were long overdue; in fact, it was just too bad that they couldn't have separate rooms, wasn't it? Henry cursed himself for having brought the subject up.

In the next week Emily missed no opportunity to remind Henry that he had introduced a new and ominous note in their happy home. Each night, on retiring, she took up a position at the extreme edge of the bed, remarking that she could hardly wait until pay day when Henry was to purchase the new beds..

Continued Cool

The continuing coolness of his wife baffled Henry and he took his problem to one of his oldest friends, Terrance Muldoon. Muldoon had had two wives and was thus considered an expert on the unpredictable behavior of females.

"Twin beds can be a pretty severe crisis in any marriage," Muldoon said, speaking with the wisdom of a man who has had two spectacular failures in marriage. "Where you made your mistake was in originating the suggestion. If you'd played it cleverly you'd have dropped a hint here and there, planted the germ as it were, and let Emily think it was her idea."

"But, Terry," Henry said, "why should she be so angry?"

"It is that mysterious thing known as a woman's pride," Muldoon said sadly and with the air of a man who has painful memories. "When you have bruised a woman's pride there is nothing left to do but flee to the hills."

Solves It

Henry pondered his friend's advice and viewed with increasing concern the formidable air of his wife.

When the day came on which he was to purchase the beds he had made his decision. Emily reminded him at breakfast that he was to do the shopping that day. Henry nodded dully. It was going to be an expensive day.

That afternoon in the furniture shop he put a payment down on a double bed of solid walnut. It was a beautiful piece of furniture. Henry had arranged that it would be delivered before his arrival home. He then visited a florists' establishment and purchased a dozen American Beauty roses, which he carried away with him.

Henry made one further purchase and boarded the bus for home. As he rode along he was pleased to feel a sense of elation, of having overcome some immense problem. He smiled secretly to himself, took a small package from his coat pocket and studied the label on it.

"Nembutal," Henry said to himself, still smiling, "Science's answer to the double bed."

List 10 Tips On Writing New Song Hits

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22 (AP)—Latest reports indicate there are 146,347,568 frustrated song writers in the United States.

I'll confess that I just made up that statistic, but it shouldn't be far from wrong. Nearly every citizen has some time harbored the notion that he could write a hit song. But each of us is frustrated by knowing that the field is virtually monopolized by a few professional tunesmiths.

How can a person break into the song-writing business? I put that question to Ray Evans and Jay Livingston, who scored with such tunes as "To Each His Own" and "Golden Earrings" and won Oscars with "Buttons and Bows." Their "Mona Lisa" is a leading contender in this year's Academy race.

10 Secrets

The boys came up with 10 secrets of success:

"1. Be sincere. Write words and music the way you feel; don't try anything phony or it will sound just like that.

"2. Go against the trend. If everybody is writing novelty tunes, write a ballad, and vice versa.

"3. A tricky title will help sell a tune.

"4. Learn the technical aspects of the trade. If you want to compose, learn to play the piano well, so you can present your song well.

"5. Avoid song sharks. There are a lot of crooked outfits that try to swindle budding song writers. Always beware of any company that asks you to send it money. If a publisher is legitimate, he sends you the money.

"6. Don't send your songs to music publishers. Songs are seldom if every accepted that way.

"7. Try to interest stars in your songs.

"8. Record your songs if possible. Artists will more readily consider a song if they can hear it.

"9. Collaborate. Two heads are better than one in song writing.

"10. Don't be discouraged. Keep working at it and luck may bring you a hit."

Will Speed Up 60-Cycle Change

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (CP). — Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, Sunday night announced a new program to speed up the changeover to 60-cycle power in the districts of the province now having 25-cycle power.

He said the conversion work, especially in homes, will be spread out among several hundred electrical contractors and dealers. Hitherto the commission and one company has done the conversion work.

Another phase of the program is that local hydro commissions in cities and towns will have some 60-cycle power made available for distribution to factories and domestic consumers.

St. Catharines will be the first city to adopt the changeover for domestic users. The conversion will start within three weeks on a trial basis and affect 15 domestic consumers.

Sadlier and Yorke To Take Canadian Plays To Bermuda

By JOHN PATERSON

TORONTO, Jan. 22 —(CP)— It's a bit complicated, but an adventurous Australian and a footloose Irishman are taking a series of plays to Bermuda in order to put acting in Canada on a year-round paying basis.

Bruce Yorke, formerly of Sydney, NSW, and partner Michael Sadlier of Dublin, have contracted for a nine-month series of plays in the newly-completed theatre at the luxurious Bermudiana Hotel, Hamilton, Bermuda. They will use Canadian actors and technicians.

The venture, an outgrowth of several years' effort to put Canadian acting on a profitable basis, is part of a comprehensive plan which includes summer stock in two cities and a winter subscription series of plays in 25 Ontario towns and cities.

A yen for travel took Yorke to Shanghai where he landed with $25 and no return ticket shortly before the outbreak of the Second World War. After a brief fling at selling tobacco in troubled north China he joined the intelligence corps of the Indian Army as an interrogation officer of Japanese prisoners.

A post-war holiday in New York resulted in his meeting Canadian producer Brian Doherty and getting a job with him. He was advance agent for two cross-Canada tours with "The Drunkard" and "Arsenic and Old Lace." Later, he started a summer theatre at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Sadlier's wanderings, meanwhile, had landed him in Peterborough. He had left Dublin for school in England. He was in a few English films and stage plays when the Second World War broke out. He joined the RAF and, transferred to Canada, switched to the RCAF. After discharge he studied acting in New York on DVA. Then followed a United States tour with Cornelia Otis Skinner.

Joined Forces

Last Summer the two combined their summer theatres at Niagara Falls and Peterborough. The companies alternated, playing week about in the two Ontario cities.

Yorke, anxious to put the business on a steady basis, visited 150 towns and cities in southern Ontario in an effort to sell them a plan for a winter subscription series of plays.

"We got a good reception and eventually signed up 25 centres," he said. "In many we found there hadn't been 'live' professional theatre for 25 or 30 years."

The partnership—called the Theatre Series—also has scheduled six weeks of theatre-in-the-round at Burlington, Ont.

"We will use 40 to 50 actors in the three companies," Yorke said. "In addition we need a number of technicians."

The Ontario season opens in Cornwall in Mid-February. Bermuda starts in April. The companies will be rotated each spending three months in Bermuda. It will be a sort of holiday with pay for them.

Yorke, the energetic "promotion" half of the team—Sadlier is the production manager—was enthusiastic about what he called a "showcase for Canadian talent, presenting them before visitors from the United States and Europe."

The Ontario cities get two plays a winter. In each centre, the play is underwritten by a local service club or similar organization as a money-making venture for their community work. The series has been planned to ensure a profit regardless of the size of the theatre or auditorium.

"We have geared the productions to operate on a close margin, assuring a decent profit for the sponsor, a little for the partnership and a steady, year-round job for a lot of Canadian actors," Yorke concluded.

4,000 Killed, Hurt As Volcano Blasts Side Off Mountain

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea, Jan. 23 (CP).—Officials said today that 4,000 persons were killed, injured or missing in the wake of a mighty volcanic eruption which blasted out an entire side of Mount Lamington, New Guinea's "extinct" volcano. Australian officials in Sydney said the eruption which spread seething lava and red-hot ash over a wide area may have caused the century's worst disaster in this section of the globe.

The casualty figures were issued by an Australian government official at the scene. They may increase or decrease, he said, as terrified natives creep out of hiding from the humid jungles to which they fled.

Mount Lamington began to erupt Thursday. Six major blasts were reported between then and yesterday. The main eruption appeared to have taken place on Sunday.

At least one European was killed and 34 others — traders, missionaries, and government officials — were missing following eruptions which, since last Thursday, have blasted into dust part of the four-peaked mountain 100 miles north-east of Port Moresby.

With poor communications on their big island north of Australia retarding reports and rescue operations, the only other known dead officially reported were 22 New Guineans.

The eruptions produced an "atom bomb" effect, one eyewitness said, and layers of volcanic ash hampered efforts of the rescue workers to reach the scene. Airline pilots said an ashen cloud 100 miles in diameter flattened out at 40,000 feet. Ashes sifted one inch deep on the streets of Port Moresby.

Ivan Champion, director of district services in New Guinea who estimated the 4,000 casualties, said the entire northern face of the mountain was blown away. Though steam and smoke were still pouring from the gaping hole today, he believed the volcano was cooling off.

The mountain is in the heart of the jungle, not far from the Kokoda Trail, over the Owen Stanley Mountains, along which the Australians and Americans fought the Japanese early in the Second World War.

Around its base were a few dozen New Guinea villages and a few mission stations—Church of England, Roman Catholic, and Seventh-Day Adventist. Survivors were brought out from an airstrip nine miles from the volcano.

Sixty-eight Europeans were reported in the area when the mountain blew up.

White settlers know Lamington's four peaks as the "Marx Brothers." To the New Guineans it is known as "The Spirit" Mountain because of a tale handed down through generations that it once belched smoke. The eruptions of the last few days, however, are the first in the memory of whites in the area.

All aircraft in New Guinea were taken over by the government to fly supplies to the stricken.

St. Laurent Move Brings Chinese Cease-Fire Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 23 (CP)—United Nations delegates today studied Communist China's statement—the result of intercession by Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada—that a Korean ceasefire could be arranged at the first meeting of a proposed conference on major Far Eastern problems.

Peiping's "clarification" of its previous answer to the UN ceasefire call was read Monday night to the 60-member political committee by Indian delegate Sir Benegal N. Rau.

The Canadian Prime Minister, a government source in Ottawa said, had asked for clarification of Red China's previous reply and thus paved the way for this latest communication. The Indian government relayed the St. Laurent request to Peiping because Canada, who does not recognize Communist China, has no representative there.

Red China's reply said:

1. A limited cease-fire could be agreed on at the first meeting of the seven-power conference which would then proceed to discuss the political problems of the Far East.

2. The problems would include steps for withdrawal of all foreign troops, including Chinese, from Korea and withdrawal of the U.S. Seventh Fleet from the Formosa Straits.

3. "The legitimate status of the People's Republic of China in the United Nations must be ensured."

Rau considered this new Red Chinese declaration, delivered to India's ambassador in Peiping, satisfied the American and U. N.

Won't Evacuate Ontario Cities

TORONTO, Jan. 23 —(CP)—Provincial Secretary Welsh said today that, in the event of air attack on Ontario, there will be no mass evacuation of cities.

Mr. Welsh, provincial defence co-ordinator, told a meeting of Toronto metropolitan area civil defence officials:

"Many people think some welfare organization would evacuate them to some safe place where they would be clothed and fed. That is not the case.

"In the past two wars, when soldiers in the trenches were attacked by mortars, they stayed and fought it out. That is what we will do."

Mr. Welsh said provincial authorities regard Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Windsor and Sault Ste. Marie as the "most vital targets" in the event of war.

He personally believed there were three other potential targets which must be protected: Niagara Falls, with its huge hydro-electric power plants; Sarnia, where synthetic rubber is made, and Sudbury, the world's greatest nickel-producing centre.

"If they (an enemy) were lucky enough to put Sudbury out of existence, it would affect not only our own country's war effort but the war effort of the western world," he said.

CHETICAMP, N.S., Jan. 23. —(CP).—Some 15 persons will begin a search for new homes today following the worst fire in this Cape Breton Acadian village's history.

A building housing a general store and a Royal Bank of Canada branch and two homes were levelled Monday night and a half-dozen other homes were threatened. Latest reports set the damage at $90,000.

Some records from the bank were all that were saved.

The Rev. Patrick Leblanc, parish priest, said it was the worst blaze in Cheticamp's history, although the village of 600 was threatened by a forest fire three years ago which burned so close that rescue vessels stood off shore ready to evacuate the residents if necessary.

About 130 villagers formed bucket lines Monday night in near-zero weather to battle the flames that were whipped to a fury by 35-mile-an-hour winds.

Cabinet Postpones Meeting One Day

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP)—The Federal cabinet has put off until Wednesday the first of a series of meetings to plot the government's legislative program.

The council was to have opened the first stage of the meetings this morning but it was decided to defer the first session 24 hours because some ministers are tied up with departmental duties.

In lieu of a full-dress meeting, the cabinet's defence committee will get together today.

The cabinet sessions, once they get under way, likely will be the most important in months, with the government taking decisions on much of the legislation which will come before parliament this year.

Cloak-And-Dagger Operator Helps Crack Dope Ring

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—(AP).—A dozen men whom police described as major dope distributors in transactions running into "millions" of dollars were arrested early today.

Manhattan district attorney Frank S. Hogan, in announcing the arrests, said two were "top-level distributors" and the others were "uper-bracket dealers."

Hogan said the arrests followed 10 months of work by his office, the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and the New York City police department. Forty agents, including 16 undercover men, tracked the peddlers, he said.

A young Negro federal agent, the district attorney said, jeopardized his life several times by posing as an interstate narcotics distributor. His information produced the tips that led to the mass roundup, according to Hogan.

During his cloak-and-dagger existence, Hogan said, the unidentified agent established himself as a "character" who wore a trench coat with a fur collar and a Parisian beret, and who smoked big cigars.

Hogan said the 12 prisoners are being questioned for information leading to other peddlers. Recent raids had netted 10 other persons, who are awaiting trial on various narcotics charges.

Anthony Granza, 35, and Jacob (Nat) Pettigrew, 49, (a Negro) were identified by Hogan as the major dealers who allegedly handled dope in the Broadway area and Harlem, respectively.

U.S. Airmen Win Biggest Jet Sky Battle

Four Red Planes Shot Down In Dizzy Tangle

TOKYO, Jan. 23 (AP).—American Thunderjets streaking over northwest Korea shot down four Russian - made MIG-15s today in history's biggest jet air battle.

The F-84s also scored one probable kill and damaged four more of the Russian speedsters with the back-swept wings.

AP correspondent John Randolph, at US Fifth Air Force headquarters in Korea, said all the American planes returned safely.

On the ground, Allied combat teams Tuesday re-occupied the central Korean road-rail hub of Wonju and its airstrip. They also seized two nearby hills, ousting a force of nearly 100 Communists from one with an artillery barrage. A spokesman said at 10 p.m. (8 a.m. EST) Tuesday that United Nations forces were "in control in all Wonju."

Thirty-one miles southeast, Allied forces were battling Red Koreans in Yongwol. Heavy fighting also raged southeast of Tanyang.

In the air fight, 33 U.S. Thunderjets tangled with 18 to 28 MIGS over Sinuijiu, just across the Yalu River from Manchuria.

Real Commotion

"There was a real commotion, a real mixup," said one airman.

Soon after daylight Tuesday the Thunderjets struck at Sinuiju airfield where photographs had showed a number of enemy planes.

Then the jets in flights of four rocketed and machine-gunned the field while others flew cover.

For 30 minutes the air battle flamed as the roaring jets streaked from high altitudes to low and swooshed upwards again at dazzling speeds.

"I'll say this for the MIG pilots," one American jet captain commented. "They are damned good and they aren't afraid of us."

In a companion raid, 46 F-86 Shooting Star jets screamed down

Cowboy Scares Customs Staff

WINDSOR, Jan. 23 — (CP).—A lanky Detroit cowhand with a western complex is back in the United States today after forcing his way into Canada at the point of a toy six-shooter.

Armed with a realistic revolver and fortified with liquor, Tex Jones put on a wild west show for immigration officials at the Windsor-Detroit tunnel exit on Monday night.

Windsor police, called by the frightened immigration officials, disarmed the drawling intruder, and kept him overnight in the lockup before releasing him to immigration authorities for deportation.

Tex, when last seen, was heading back to the ranges of Detroit wearing his cowpuncher's chaps and checkered shirt, but minus his six-shooter.

Giant Avalanches Continue Alpine Death Toll 234

VIENNA, Jan. 23 (AP).—Giant avalanches thundering down Austria's mountains brought new peril today to isolated villages and towns as estimates of Alpine Europe's death toll reached 234 persons. In Switzerland, lessening of the snowfall and a temperature drop cut the avalanche danger sharply, but reports from all areas in the Austrian Alps said the slides still were roaring down, carrying boulders and uprooted trees with them and demolishing farms, hunting lodges and haystacks.

Between 112 and 27 persons had been buried by the snow in Austria during four terror-filled days. The number of missing was unknown as an estimated 45,000 persons — including thousands of foreign tourists — remained isolated from the rest of the world.

In Switzerland 68 bodies had been recovered and at least 11 more persons were believed dead. At least 20 were listed as severely injured and scores of families were homeless in the icy winter.

Italy Toll

Italy reported 25 dead, 30 injured and 20 missing following huge slides in the Livigno valley, on the Swiss-Italian border, and in the Venezia Tridentina region, near the Austrian border.

Three were dead in France.

Innsbruck, capital of the Austrian Tyrol, and its 100,000 population was isolated except for a one-way path cut through the mountain passes to the east. Lack of drinking water, caused by slide destruction of most waterworks, threatened the city with epidemics.

Hundreds of men still were at work everywhere in the stricken Swiss area trying to dig out the remaining victims, to clear blocked roads and rail lines and to restore the most important of the telephone and power cables cut by mountainous masses of snow.

Eisenhower Prepares For Return To U.S.

PARIS, Jan. 23 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower arrived from Germany today, homeward bound after speedy stops in 10 European countries from which he hopes to draw the bulk of his Atlantic Pact Army to defend Western Europe against Russian Communism.

After two day in the French capital, Eisenhower leaves Thursday by air for Iceland and Canada—the only two Atlantic Pact signers he still must visit—and Washington.

Eisenhower began his survey of West Europe's readiness and plans for defence with a look two week's ago at France's situation. During his visit now he is expected to work on arrangements for setting up his headquarters, in Paris or its vicinity.

Eisenhower wound up his military appraisal of Western Europe in Frankfurt Monday night, holding private talks with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, German generals and other German leaders.

May Recruit Women Again

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 — (CP) — Canadian women may soon get a chance to return to uniform.

The expanding navy, army and air forces have recommended that women—approximately 47,000 of them served during the Second World War—once again be recruited.

An informed source confirmed this Monday night and said the matter is slated for a cabinet decision shortly. Defence Minister Claxton will bring the recommendation before his colleagues and it is expected to be approved and an announcement authorized for the session of parliament opening Jan. 30.

Lending weight to the belief Canada again will open the ranks of her forces to women is the fact that recent purchases of textiles for the services has included materials earmarked for the manufacture of women's uniforms. Whether these will be similar to those worn in the last war has not yet been decided.

Other questions unanswered include whether the women will be recruited into the reserve or active forces and whether married women will be accepted.

15,000 Men Needed Monthly

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) —Defence Secretary George C. Marshall said today the United States troops under Gen. MacArthur need 15,000 replacements a month and it will be April before his divisions are built up to "normal strength."

Marshall testified at hearings by the House of Representatives Armed Services Committee on the defence department's request for universal military service and training for 18-year-olds.

The department also asks that the length of service by drafted men be extended from 21 months to 27.

Marshall, noting the military manpower goal is 3,462,000 by June 30, said "we will have to increase our forces beyond this strength if the situation worsens."

Tough Firefighting

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 23 —(AP). — Firemen laboring in 50-below-zero temperatures battled flames in downtown Fairbanks early today. They estimated damage at $500,000. A bakery and a drug store were destroyed before firemen reported the blaze under partial control.

Police Nab Four Men After Holdup

Less Than Six Hours After Bank Looted Suspects Arrested

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP).—Four men wearing white handkerchiefs and dark glasses Monday robbed a branch of the Dominion Bank of $5,000. It took them two minutes to pull off the precision holdup.

Toronto police were equally swift. Less than six hours after the robbery they had arrested four men, recovered $500 which they said was part of the bank loot and seized an arsenal of guns, ammunition, explosives and safe-cracking tools.

Stavroff and Brunet were remanded today without bail to January 30. Ellnor and Forgette, remanded to the same date, were admitted to bail of $5,000 and $1,000 respectively.

They were arrested after a brief scuffle with police in a bar were Leonard Ellnor, 21, also was picked up. He was held on a vagrancy charge. A fourth man, Albert Forgette, 30, was arrested at his home and charged with having unregistered guns and explosives.

Police said Stavroff was free on $10,000 bail while appealing a three-year sentence for safeblowing at Milton, Ont.

Raided Home

The arsenal was seized by police in a raid on a west-central Toronto home. Police claimed one of the nine guns was a .38 revolver stolen from the bank during Monday's holdup.

Police said one of the four windbreakers they found there was worn by one of the thugs who held up the bank. Colored glasses seized were the same as worn by the bank bandits.

Police said it is likely the same gang was also responsible for the $10,000 robbery of the Bank of Commerce branch here in November. On both occasions the thugs were dressed in overalls.

Within two minutes Monday morning just after bank opening,

Pearson Silent On Peace Offer

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson declined comment today on Communist China's latest word on a possible cease-fire in the Korean war.

He told reporters as he arrived from New York that he would discuss the situation with Prime Minister St. Laurent before making any public comment on the Chinese "clarification" of their earlier cease-fire proposals.

A reporter asked if he had noted any improvement in the possibilities of peaceful settlement of the Korean situation since the week-end.

"Well, we're still talking," he answered with a grin.

Attlee Refuses Give Up Hope Of Korean Peace

LONDON, Jan. 23 (CP). — Prime Minister Attlee declared today Britain refuses to give up hope for a peaceful settlement with Communist China in Korea.

In an apparent reference to American demands that the United Nations formally brand the Peiping government an aggressor Attlee told the House of Commons:

"We are of the opinion that the United Nations should not at this stage take a new and important decision.

"We do not believe the time has come to consider further measures. To do so implies that we have abandoned hope of reaching a peaceful settlement, and this we have not done."

Attlee spoke in response to a request by Conservative leader Winston Churchill for a statement on the policy toward Red China now being followed by the UN's political committee.

Parliament Reconvenes

Parliament reconvened today after its 39-day holiday recess.

"We have not lost hope of negotiating a settlement in Korea," Attlee said, "nor have we lost hope that China may . . . live on friendly terms with other members of the world community."

He praised the UN political committee for showing "the utmost patience and perseverance," after Red China rejected the first proposal for a cease fire in Korea.

Attlee said his Labor government welcomes the US proposal "to set up a committee of good offices" to explore the possibility of a negotiated settlement. Attlee said Britain also "recognizes the stark facts of the situation in Ko-

Conditions were exceptionally bad Monday night on links between the Far East, Europe and North America and they are not expected to improve for three to five days.

Thrown 22 Ft. By Impact As Car Hits

Say Marguerite Beatty Struck As Car Attempts To Pass

Miss Marguerite Beatty, 19, of Rink St., was struck and instantly killed by a car while she was walking to work at the CGE about 7:15 this morning.

Driver of the car, Frank Spring, 66, 167 Prince St., was driving south on Aylmer St., on his way home from work.

Spring appeared in court later and was charged with careless and dangerous driving. He was remanded without plea to Jan. 30. Bail was set at $2,000.

Police said he started to pass a car ahead of him, but the car ahead began to make a left turn into Rink St. Tracks showed that Spring swung his car further to the east and put on his brakes at a point just north of Rink St.

Miss Beatty was standing just off the end of the sidewalk at Rink St. At that point Aylmer St. has a paved portion and the east side is mulch mixture on top of packed dirt. She was standing well off the paved section.

The girl was thrown 22 feet and hit the east sidewalk of Aylmer St. where a blood smear marked the spot. She was rushed to Civic Hospital, but she was dead on arrival.

Fire Bill High Urges Volunteers

OWEN SOUND, Jan. 23 (CP)—Faced by a demand from the Owen Sound Firefighters Association for higher wages and shorter hours for city firemen, Mayor E. C. Sargent said today he will investigate the possibilities of a volunteer fire department. He declared that he could save "at least half" of the city's present $60,000 a year fire protection bill by replacing the 25-man paid force with volunteers.

The mayor said he would go to Toronto today to interview officials of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Department as to the feasibility of such a plan for this city of 17,000 persons.

The city's fire and street lighting committee recently met the Firefighters Association in an attempt to negotiate a wages and hours agreement for 1951. On hearing the report of the preliminary meeting, Mayor Sargent remarked: "I would like to know how long we are going to be subjected to present pressure for increased wages and shorter hours."

Charges Canada Ships Aluminum To Reds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP). —An American manufacturer told a Congressional investigating committee today that Canada is shipping aluminum, now in short supply, "almost continuously to Russian-satellite countries."

Richard Reynolds, Jr., president of the Reynolds Metals Co., made the assertion before the House of Representatives monopoly committee. It is holding hearings on defence plans to expand aluminum production to meet American military and civilian needs.

Reynolds presented figures, which he said were based on official Canadian government reports, showing the Aluminum Company of Canada had sent 11,217,000 pounds of aluminum to Red China, Poland and Czechoslovakia during the first 10 months of 1950.

"As recently as October, 1950, it shipped 3,613,400 pounds to Czechoslovakia and Poland," he testified.

Reynolds told the committee Canadian exports to satellite countries was not large. "It isn't the quantity, but the principle," he said.

At Ottawa, Bureau of Statistics figures showed that Canada shipped a total of about 11,000,000 pounds of aluminum to Russian-satellite countries in the first 10 months of 1950. The shipments were valued at $1,700,000.

Yukon Leading Canada For Coldest Spot Title

WINNIPEG, Jan. 23 (CP) — The Yukon was the coldest spot in the Dominion Monday. And it probably will be again today.

The mercury dipped to 53 below at Dawson Sunday night and only rose four degrees Monday. An overnight low of 55 below and high today of 50 below were forecast by the weather man.

But some 1,275 miles south, in the Vancouver district, there'll be a difference of about 100 degrees in the temperature. A high of 44 above is forecast for Vancouver today.

The storm, which caused heavy damage on the Pacific coast during the weekend, hit Saskatchewan and Manitoba Monday, causing tie-ups in highway, rail and air transportation. The fury of the Pacific storm, however, had abated by the time it reached the prairies.

Regina received the brunt of the storm, with winds up to 50 miles an hour reducing visibility to zero. Air traffic through the Saskatchewan capital was halted and nearly all highways in the province were blocked by the heavy blowing snow.

Some trains ran as much as 1½ hours late.

Farther north, at Prince Albert, conditions were much the same, with most transportation held up.

However, clear and cold weather is expected throughout most of today at both cities.

Winnipeg also received its share of blowing snow Monday. But forecasters said the storm will not likely reach blizzard proportions. Three inches of snow is forecast for the area.

The lakehead cities of Port Arthur and Fort William had wide ranges in temperatures—an overnight low Sunday of 21 below and a high Monday of 23 above.

Hannam Says Price Controls Shared Equally

CALGARY, Jan. 23 (CP). — H. H. Hannam said today that if price controls are imposed by the government they should be made effective "clear across the board on all prices, profits, fees, salaries and wages."

No one should be favored or exempt, the Canadian Federation of Agriculture president added in a speech prepared for delivery before the 15th annual meeting of the 400,000-member organization. He said the CFA has given no thought of asking for farm-price exemption from such general controls.

He made these other points:

1. The Korean war and its danger of spreading have temporarily solved the problem of farm surpluses, but this does not mean the problem will not recur at some future time. Therefore the handling of suryluses under international supervision is "absolutely essential."

2. He has no sympathy with those who suggest "we are in the grip of a fateful destiny which is leading or pushing our society towards its inevitable doom." Man-made problems can be solved by man, he contended.

Need Super-government

3. Possibly the best way out for a distraught world is to create a "super-government with authority to make international laws and have power to police them."

Mr. Hannam touched on the state of Canada's farm economy and noted that on the whole the gross farm income for the last eight years constitutes "one of the best periods Canadian agriculture has ever enjoyed."

But the public should not be misled into thinking that farmers were enjoying highly lucrative returns. A steady rise in farm costs was resulting in a decline in purchasing power from 1948 peaks.

Ashburnham Sub-Division Presses for Service

With reference to the statement in the January 16th edition of the Peterborough Examiner re: the rejection of request for bus service through the Cadverley sub-division, we, the undersigned, respectfully, and without prejudice, offer the following suggestions:

The main objection appears to be the quality of road over which the buses must be routed—To anyone familiar with the individual routes followed by the buses this objection is groundless. The streets in this district, while gravel, are much smoother than some of those used on the Charlotte West, Monaghan Road and Ashburnham South routes.

If, as suggested, the Ashburnham bus was rerouted off Armour Road up Caddy, across Ludgate and down McFarlane the service would be greatly increased for the majority of residents in the area, and create no inconvenience for those served by the existing route.

In view of the fact that the district is a new one and some distance from the centre of the city, we feel that such a change would create a patronage, financially feasible from the bus operators' point of view. Thus we do not hesitate to press for the change.

on the flak defences of Pyongyang to clear the way for a massive B-29 strike on that Red Korean capital.

Bolstered By Tanks

The Allied patrol that pushed through Wonju was bolstered with tanks. UN forces withdrew from the town a week ago after a fighting stand there but returned last Friday and have poked into the road centre almost every day since.

Communist resistance there has lessened steadily.

Prisoners said two Chinese regiments were moving 17 miles west of Wonju.

In the fighting 10 miles southeast of Tanyang, U.S. 7th Division soldiers had cornered nearly 3,000 Red infiltrators and were hammering at them.

Sharp Action

Artillery and mortar blasts reverberated against the lofty mountains. Field reports said 400 of one group of nearly 2,000 Red infiltrators had been killed in the sharp action. Another group of 1,000 North Koreans and 200 women also was in the area.

There was little fighting in any other sector. Intelligence reports to U.S. Eighth Army headquarters said the Chinese armies in the Seoul area were moving across the Han River south of the burned-out former capital.

AP Correspondent Tom Bradshaw said the Reds were using pontoon bridges across the half-frozen river. He said also that aggressive Allied patrols had pushed well into normal Communist sectors in the west and central areas without contacting the Communists.

The battle in the steep mountains south of Tangyang started at 2:30 p.m. (12:30 a.m. EST) Monday. Tangyang is 37 miles southeast of Wonju, the road hub which Allied troops walked away from again Monday night after holding its tiny airstrip unopposed for several hours.

No Casualty Figures

The Eighth Army gave no casualty figures for the American troops fighting south of Tangyang. Neither had there been any word from a platoon reported ambushed Monday in the east central sector. One report said the platoon, about 40 men, had been wiped out.

AP Correspondent John Randolph at Eighth Army headquarters said Allied patrols knifed Monday into Communist lines all across the Korean peninsula from the Yellow Sea on the west to the Sea of Japan on the east.

Randolph said Allied patrols rolled up to seven miles into the lowe-level land bordering the main road that leads to Osan and Suwon and on to Seoul.

Patrols that were six miles southwest, five miles south and six miles southeast of Suwon had not encountered any enemy troops. One prisoner taken near Osan, which the hard-hitting U.S. 27th Wolfhounds combat team piled into last week and then abandoned, said he was a member of the North Korean 8th division. About 90,000 Communist Chinese and 10,000 North Korean have been reported pouring south from Seoul.

Randolph said the prisoner reported a force of several hundred Communist Chinese about seven miles west of Osan.

The patrols in the Suwon area were a heavily-reinforced task force that shot four steel columns in the direction of Suwon and Kumyangjang 12 air miles farther east.

Air Force Strikes

The Far East air forces hit at Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

Bombardiers dropped 672 individual 500-pound bombs over landing strips and nearby buildings. Results were described as excellent.

The Tuesday attack was made to deprive the Communists of possible use of the airstrips. Air force observers had reported some repairs and reconstruction work on the airfields by the enemy since withdrawal of UN forces.

A Fifth Air Force summary said Seoul was the prime target of 200 sorties (single flights) flown up until noon. Two warehouses probably containing ammunition were destroyed in an attack on six buildings by Sabre jets.

Raises Voted Senior Officers

Chief Constable John Thompson, Deputy Chief Constable John Naples, the two detective-sergeants and the forces four sergeants were all given raises ranging from $195 a year for the chief to $308 a year for the sergeants.

As with the constables of the police force, the sergeants and officers will be given a one percent increase for every one point increase in the cost of living. The cost of living rise will be considered every three months.

Chief Thompson's salary has been raised from $3,665 to $3,850. Deputy Naples will now get $3,400 a year, a raise of $200.

Detective- Sergeants John Stevenson and W. A. (Bud) Clarke were given raises of $302 each which increases their salaries from $2,898 to $3,200. The four sergeants Gordon Puffer, Percy Sexsmith, Leo Murphy and identification officer William Aggas were raised from $2,767 to $3,075.

This completes negotiations for salaries of the police department for 1951. All men were represented by a negotiating committee except the chief constable in accordance with the Police Act. Members of the committee were Constables Donald Mackay, Harold Mesley, and Douglas Farthing.

RCAF Learns To Fly In 50 Below Zero

WATSON LAKE, Yukon, Jan. 23—(CP)—The RCAF is learning how to fly, fight and maintain aircraft at this tiny Yukon air base where 50 degrees below zero is considered "a good day."

Centre for Commonwealth research into cold-weather problems confronting the armed forces, the winter experimental testing unit here is manned by personnel from the RCAF, RAF, RCN, RN, and the British Ministry of Supply.

Their duty is to iron out the many headaches presented to both air and ground crews by the extreme cold temperatures.

At 50 degrees below zero, for instance, aircraft tires and tubes made of synthetic rubber become hard, and planes bump away to take off with their wheels flat on one side. Other synthetic rubber parts may shatter like glass. Oil becomes as thick as molasses.

But American delegate Warren R. Austin disagreed and termed it "a transparent effort to divide the free world and to . . . postpone, delay, procrastinate."

Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb said the Peiping proposals, as reported by India, "appear to come closer to saying 'yes' to the cease-fire proposals." He urged that they be given the closest consideration.

Jebb voted with the majority, including Canada, to delay for 48 hours—until Wednesday—consideration of the American demand that the Chinese Communists be denounced as aggressors in Korea. Many delegates regarded this 27-to-23 rejection of Austin's appeal for immediate action the worst defeat the United States has suffered in the five-year history of the U.N.

American sources disputed this view and said they are still confident their policy eventually will win overwhelming support. Agreeing, most diplomatic informants said that after token consideration of the new Peiping communication, the majority probably will vote for the American resolution.

Labor members cheered his remarks but Churchill warned against permitting any "serious divergence" to occur between British and American policy.

Churchill warned Attlee to be on guard against manoeuvres by China "which are obviously to the interest of Soviet Russia."

At this point a Labor M.P. cried "We are not going to be dragged into war."

Attlee said Britain is "on guard" against atempts to split the United Nations.

Conservative Leader Winston Churchill and his followers are reported to feel that the Labor government has no idea how much it will spend for arms or how many reserves it will call up.

Unless the government can satisfy the Conservatives that rearmament now is to go ahead adequately and speedily, it is believed the opposition is certain to offer a motion of censure. Adoption of such a motion would mean resignation of the government and probably a general election.

Prices Irregular On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP). — Prices were irregular on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Industrials were mixed with narrow price changes following yesterday's declines. Papers, agricultures, and liquors showed a majority of gains. Constructions, foods, utilities, textiles and retail stores were lower and gains and losses were about balanced in steels, refining oils, manufacturing companies and banks.

Golds, the only decisively higher group on the board, showed a wide list of moderate advances. Senior producers added fractions with Giant Yellowknife, Kerr Addison, and McIntyre ahead. In the junior list East Malartic, Newlund, Sullivan, San Antonio, McLeod Cockshutt and Madsen climbed pennies.

Base metals, like industrials, were mixed. Steep Rock, a big gainer for the last three sessions, encountered profit-taking and dipped 50 cents. Falconbridge, Noranda, Waite Amulet and Golden Manitou western oils were irregular.

Volume for the first three hours of 1,360,000 shares was 169,000 shares less than the same period yesterday.

the robbers cleaned out the cashiers' cages of $5,000 and escaped with the money in a white bag. The leader directed the action by numbers.

As the leader shouted "six," the men turned from the building and fled in a stolen automobile.

Face Wall

They had forced the bank staff to face the wall and made two customers lie face down on the floor. Two of the men leaped over the counter and looted the cashier's tills. No attempt was made to get into the vaults.

Branch manager Roy A. Jennings said he was talking on the phone as the robbery started and was unable to give the alarm.

"The men forced us against the wall," he said. "I didn't see much of them, it happened so quickly."

Mr. Ford was in Moscow from September, 1946, to November, 1947, acting as charge d'affaires part of that time. He is a son of Arthur Ford, editor-in-chief of the London Free Press.

The fire started in the basement laundry shoot sending a pall of smoke to the two upper floors.

Say London Widow Has Chance To Live

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 23 (CP). —Mrs. Elizabeth Lawrence of Caradoc Township, has a "good chance of recovering," hospital authorities said today.

The 41-year-old widow of a tobacco farmer is under police guard in hospital charged with manslaughter.

Her 42-year-old husband, George, was found dead in a bedroom in their farmhouse west of Mount Brydges early Sunday. His skull had been smashed by repeated strokes with the blunt edge of an axe head.

Mrs. Lawrence was found lying in a downstairs hall with her wrists slashed. She was unconscious when admitted to hospital and had suffered extreme loss of blood.

Monday white powder particles found about Mrs. Lawrence's lips were sent to London for analysis along with contents of the woman's stomach, blood stained clothing, blood samples, and other items.

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP)—An unprecedented buying surge by Canadians in the markets of the world has virtually ended Canada's traditional favorable balance of trade.

For years Canada sold more to the world than she purchased. But in the first 11 months of 1950, the Bureau of Statistics reported today, the shoe was on the other foot.

While exports increased about 5 per cent to $2,863,600,000, imports climbed 14 per cent to $2,908,000,000, making for an 11-month deficit of $44,400,000.

This compared with a surplus of $186,400,000 in 1949 when exports totalled $2.734,200,000 and imports $2,547,800,000.

The trade report showed three other realignments in the trading pattern:

1. A sharp climb in exports to the United States, driving down the long-time bulky balance in United States favor.

2. A drop of one-third in exports to the United Kingdom, bringing Canada's trade with the U.K. into near balance.

3. Canada's over-all total trade in value, has reached boom levels.

By far the largest factor accounting for the 1950 deficit was November trade. Imports of $327,900,000 were up from $320,600,000 in October and 37 per cent higher than $239,600,000 in November, 1949.

Exports Down

Exports at $296,400,000 were down from $318,900,000 in October and only slightly higher than the $295,500,000 a year previous.

The effect was that the deficit, which had been running only about $12,900,000 in the 10 months of 1950, was increased by $31,500,000. In November, 1949, Canada showed a monthly export surplus of $55,900,000.

Imports from the United States in November rose to a high of $214,800,000, up from $208,300,000 in October and $162,700,000 in the year previous. Exports were valued at $195,100,000, down from $207.400,000 in October, but up from $173,600,000 a year earlier.

November's trade with the U.K. showed imports of $40,200,000, compared with $26,500,000 a year previous and exports of $39,800,000, against $57,200,000.

The monthly import surplus of $1,400,000 was in sharp contrast with an export surplus of $30,700,000 in 1949. In the 11 months, imports of $372,200,000 were 30 per cent higher than the $286,700,000 in 1949.

Exports of $432,000,000 declined one-third from $659,100,000.

This resulted in the traditional trading surplus in Canada's favor dropping to $60,400,000 from $372,400,000.

Charge Freight Rates Strangling Agriculture

CALGARY, Jan. 23 —(CP)— Western farmers, in a resolution to the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture now in session, charge that "oppressive" freight rates on the railways are "strangling" agriculture.

They urge the federation to do all in its power to prevent possible further freight-rate increases until after the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation has been placed before parliament.

It is contended that high freight rates have reduced the movement of Canadian farm products to domestic and export markets, encouraged and increased import of farm produce, increased production costs and restricted farmers' proceeds. Another rate increase would have a "disastrous economic effect on Canada's agriculture."

The west requests that the railways re-introduce a more favorable rate for seed grain, and asks the Federal government to re-introduce freight assistance for seed grain moved for seeding in the western provinces this year.

Purchased Car From Friend Discovered Lien

A charge of false pretences against Glenn Northey, 165 Fradette St., was dismissed in police court Monday when Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, judged evidence that Northey told Harold John Heffernan that a car he sold Heffernan was clear of liens was not strong enough for a conviction.

Magistrate Philp warned that if he were to get a clear-cut case of false pretences in such a charge he might very well send the accused to Guelph reformatory for two years. The charge was as good as theft, he said.

He said that there was an office in the county court buildings where men buying cars can check whether there were any liens against a car they were thinking of buying.

In Northey's case, he said, either Northey or Heffernan were lying, but there was no evidence to show which was. On such evidence, he said, he could not convict a man.

Heffernan, who had ben a chum of Northey's for about three years, paid Northey $50 Aug. 21. The next day, when he had cashed some bonds, he paid Northey $400 and bought the car outright.

He said when he paid the $50 to Northey he asked him if there was any money owing on it. Northey told him there wasn't. He said his father had borrowed money on the house furniture to pay for the car.

Heffernan later learned $292 was owed on the car to the Industrial Acceptance Corporation. He said the car was seized by the finance company Oct. 1 after Northey told him he would make the payments due.

Heffernan, who had been a the finance company and got the car.

Northey testified Heffernan had asked him to sell the car to him. He said Heffernan knew there was a lien against the car. He added that Heffernan said he would buy the car as long as Northey would see the lien was paid off. This conversation took place about two weeks before Heffernan bought the car.

He said he intended to make the payments, but he bought another car and then dealed it in for another car which was to be a taxi. He admitted that at the time he sold the car to Heffernan he was pressed for money.

Head-on Crash Driver Fined $15

Found guilty of a charge of careless driving, Gerald Schweir, RR 6, Peterborough, was fined $15 and $9.75 costs in police court Monday.

Schweir crashed head-on with a panel truck driven by Francis Anthony, 738 Payne St., on George St., north of Dublin St., the evening of Jan. 6.

Anthony said as he was driving south, he saw a team of horses and sleigh coming toward him near the east curb. Behind the team was a car and coming up behind them, Schweir.

He said there was a parked car on both sides of the street. The team pulled out to pass a parked car. At the same time, the car directly behind it turned out to pass the team, and the Schweir car started to pass the other car.

About the same time Anthony was passing the car, parked on the west side. Anthony and Schweir met head-on.

Car Was Stopped

Seeing the accident coming, said Anthony, he put his car into second gear and had it stopped when the crash took place. He had not put on his brakes because the surface of the road was slippery. He said Schweir had been drinking.

When he first saw Schweir, the accused was 200 feet away, travelling, it seemed to Anthony, over the speed limit.

Constable Andre Dalton testified the right front wheel of Schweir's car was two feet six inches west of the centre line of George St. He said loose snow on top of packed snow made the surface very slippery. He saw no evidence Schweir had tried to stop.

Denies Drinking

Schweir, taking the witness box in his own defence, testified he had not been driving more than 22 miles an hour because a repair to his car made any greater speed impossible.

He said as he drew in line with the car following the horses and sleigh, the car, driven by Jack Beatty, who lived only a few doors away, turned out to pass without warning.

He turned out to avoid Beatty, and was confronted with the headlights of Anthony's truck. He said he tried his brakes, but started to skid. He said he too put his car in second gear and had almost stopped before the impact.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, KC, said the distances given by Constable Dalton and Anthony showed that Anthony stopped in 87, but Schweir failed to stop in 85 feet.

Take 2 Cakes To Hold 94th Birthday Candles

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 23 — (ENS)—More than 50 guests called at the Beaver Hall Convalescent Home in Campbellford on Sunday, to attend a birthday party for Mrs. Phoebe Bedford, who was celebrating her 94th birthday.

Two cakes were required to accommodate the 94 candles, and these were decorated with mauve icing and silver leaves. Mrs. John McKibbin poured tea while others assisted in serving.

Mrs. Bedford has been at the convalescent home for seven years, and the birthday party is an annual affair. The grand old lady is quite spry and alert for her age, and reads and sews a great deal.

Police Find Car On Wrong Side

Alex Riel, 417 Glengarry St., was fined $10 and $15.75 costs when he was found guilty in police court Monday of a cnarge of careless driving in starting to make a left turn from Stormont St. into Glengarry St. the afternoon of Dec. 9.

Traffic Officer Claire McGillen reported he found Riel's car on the wrong side of Stormont about eight feet from a car driven by Cnarles Meyett with which Riel had collided.

The rear of Meyett's car was about four feet south of Glengarry St. Riel's car was facing in a north-west direction. At the point of impact, the left front wheel of Riel's car was six feet six inches from the west side of the street.

The constable said Riel's car had apparently been backed up some eight feet, so that it was then nine feet ten inches from the west side to the left front wheel. The width of the street, which had no curbs, was 23 feet, 10 inches.

Road Slippery

Meyett's car showed skid marks about 40 feet long near the center of Stormont. Glare ice covered most of the area.

Kenneth Whatley, an eye witness, had just walked out of a house at the south-west corner of the intersection. He saw Riel wave to him and then try to make a left turn, but he did not see Riel signal a left turn. He didn't see the other car coming until the impact.

He placed the impact near the center of the intersection.

He said Riel backed up after the crash.

Meyett, a deaf mute, testified through interpreter Ralph Parnell, that Riel attempted to make a left turn and turned into the path of his car. He put on his brakes but couldn't stop quickly because of the ice. He placed his speed between 15 and 20 miles an hour.

Riel said he pulled to center of the road, but stayed on his own side approaching Glengarry St. He saw Meyett approaching the intersection at a "fair rate of speed" on the wrong side of the road. He said the other driver didn't seem to see him.

He said his car was knocked back three feet by the impact. He said he was stopped before hit by the Meyett car. He denied moving his car before Constable McGillen arrived.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said he believed "unquestionably" Riel was well over on the west side of the road when the collision took place.

Company Fence Within Street?

If the land lying east of the CNR between Lake and Perry Streets is an extension of Bethune St., city council is prepared to close it for the purpose of clearing the title of Canadian Sealright Company to the property they bought from the city.

There are several houses on the west side of a roadway south from Perry St., and west of the CNR (Port Hope line), but it was said that they were in no way affected by the proposed action.

Canadian Sealright bought from the city the land and buildings previously occupied by Canadian Nashua Paper Company.

The company got the deed in 1949, and last year looked into their title. A survey by J. G. Pierce left considerable doubt as to whether the land east of the CNR to the fence line of the Sealright was a street, specifically part of Bethune St.

Assuming that it might be a gore of the original Bethune St., considered as extended between Lake and Perry Streets, the board of works asked City Solicitor W. F. Huycke to prepare a bylaw for its closing.

Mr .Huycke remarked that the solicitors for Sealright were quite capable of looking after their client's interests, but as a fact the fence enclosing the plant had been in existence for 45 years, from the time of the old Canadian Cordage works.

The motion by Ald. Braund was seconded by Mayor Swanston.

Scout Commissioner Speaks To Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 23 — (ENS).—Commissioner Art Jackson of the Boy Scouts was guest speaker at the Monday meeting of Campbellford Rotary club.

In answer to the question "Will scouting produce the goods," the speaker pointed out that in groups like the British House of Commons and in the House of Lords, there are groups of men who have formerly been scouts, and in their elevated position prize this background so much that they have formed organizations among themselves to encourage scouting.

The Boy Scout movement is the largest service club in the world, with 5,000,000 members in 42 countries.

The Commissioner said "Boys are our business—they are our only source of manpower. They will go where you go but not where you tell them. Example is their only inspiration and teacher."

The 5,000,000 Scouts are governed by a 12-man commission elected by representatives of the body in 42 countries. These are elected each year.

The Rotary Club is the sponsor of the Campbellford Scout Troop. The town has about 30 Cubs and 30 Scouts. Commissioner Jackson thinks this number should be tripled.

Rotarian Austin Putnam thanked the speaker. Scout Master Jack Connor of the local troop presented C. H. Davidson with a Scout award for the services he has rendered the boys.

Campbellford Choir SponsorsFiresideHour

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 23 — (ENS)—A fireside hour sponsored by the choir was held in the basement of St. John's United Church following the Sunday evening service. Rev. Dr. D. M. Smith presided.

The group sang hymns, accompanied by Mrs. Chas. Howie at the piano. Bruce Barnum played his "solo-box" and was well received by the guests. Mr. Barnum was prevailed upon to play a number of encores.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nicholls entertained the gathering with a couple of piano duets, after which the group enjoyed a lunch.

Picket Hydro Crews

STAFFA, Ont., Jan. 23.—(CP).—The farmers of this Western Ontario district continued today to picket crews of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, who now are stringing a power line. Farmers are waging the cold war because they don't like the price the commission is paying for their land and trees. The Hydro men are carrying on the job. Provincial Police are standing by.

Fears Dream Of Bullfighting Fading Fast

VANCOUVER, Jan. 23 (CP)—Spunky Johnny Freeman — alias John Gilbert, bullfighter—has 61 strikes against him before he starts.

The 20-year-old native of Hamilton, says his dream of crashing into the bullfighting business and being the first professional Canadian bullfighter is all but shattered.

The first strike: Vancouver pilot Jim Foster is in Colombia, South America, to meet his first bull sometime this month.

The other 60 are dollars which Freeman needs to get to Mexico and round out his training as a toreador.

Now, he's selling everything from magazine subscriptions to brushes for these 60 strikes.

Gilbert, or Freeman, is no stranger to the business. He's already fought four bulls in Lima, Peru. "They were small ones," he said. He goes by Johnny Gilbert in the ring.

He came back to Canada six months ago to retain his Canadian citizenship.

Spain is his ultimate objective. That's where he hopes to study under the greatest torero of them all—Luis Miguel Gonzales.

"I've gotta make tracks, fast," he said.

Meanwhile, Foster is in training in Colombia and will undergo his baptism of horn during a big bullfighting spectacle in Medellin.

Born in Southey, Sask., he has been training under Marco Gomez, top Colombian bullfighter and some of Gomez' toreros.

Bus Route Paving Jobs Before Board

A petition for extension of the city's bus service on Lansdowne St. east of Lock St. to the Lock's Bridge was referred by the board of works Monday night to Peterborough Bus Lines and also to the special traffic committee.

Signed by 150 residents of that area, it was left at the home of Ald. Norman Graham. It draws a suggestion that with Lansdowne St. paved, the proposed service might form a loop by way of Morrow St.

Board of works approved an application from the C.P.R. for permission to install a 2,000 gallon gasoline tank on the north side of the station for the convenience of the trucks of the C.P. Express Co. The motion by Ald. E. C. Braund was seconded by Ald. Graham.

Payment of a $25 annual municipal membership fee to the Good Roads Association was authorized in a motion by Aldermen Miller and Young.

Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman of the board, and City Engineer A. E. Chalmers were authorized to attend "if they desire".

Paving

Bennett Paving Co. of Oshawa will be permitted to finish the Monaghan Road and Rogers St. sections of their 1950 contract, an alternative recommendation by City Engineer Chalmers.

The motion by Ald. P. J. Anglesey withdraws the proposed paving on Townsend and Perry Streets, from Park St. to Aylmer St., and also Lock St. south of Lansdowne St. These strips may be transferred to the program the council has in view for 1951.

The other proposal of Mr. Chalmers was that Bennett Paving be permitted to complete their original contract. Part of the contractor's job is completion of the paving of Monaghan Rd., particularly between Chamberlain and Frank Sts.

Ald. Graham commented that the south part of Monaghan Rd. pavement, in the vicinity of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. was "in bad shape and full of holes".

City Engineer Chalmers said he considered the quality of the Bennett work was good.

Ald. Graham remarked that Mr. Chalmers could not have seen recently the lower stretch of Monaghan Rd.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP)—A contract under which Bing Crosby's four sons will receive a collective royalty of three cents on each disk sold of the recording, "A Crosby Christmas," was approved by superior court Monday, and it was disclosed each of the boys now is worth about $200,000. The last accounting of their assets showed a net worth of $194,157.

Statements Of The American State

The statements made by the United States over the week-end have stirred the democratic world; it is expected that the Communist parts of the world are at least equally disturbed. Do these statements mean that the United States is heading straight into war with China and possibly Russia? There are four main points in them: 1. The U.S. has called on U.N. to declare Communist China to be guilty of aggression. 2. The U.S. has asked U.N. to consider additional collective security measures against Communist China. 3. The U.S. has told U.N. that American foreign policy towards Formosa would be dictated by U.S. national security needs. 4. The U.S. has told U.N. that in any conference about Formosa, Chiang Kai-shek and his rump of the Nationalist Government should take part. These four points, on their face value, do not look as disturbing as the headlines put over them in many newspapers, and an analysis of them in relation to previous American policy shows them to be logical extensions of that policy, with a notable stiffening.

* * *

The United States says that Communist China, in coming to the aid of the North Koreans, already labelled aggressors by U.N., is therefore also an aggressor. That is perfectly logical. Most U.N. nations would probably agree to the proposition. The next point deals with what to do about the aggression by China. That is a realistic sequel; if Communist China is an aggressor and U.N.'s purpose is to foil aggression, something should be done, if it can be done. The U.S. proposes "additional collective security measures" — economic sanctions, for instance, perhaps even more — a blockade of China and her communications. Therein is the problem. How far would the United States go in applying sanctions? Are sanctions of any use unless they are to be followed up to the hilt? Under the old League of Nations, sanctions were applied against Italy. Did they achieve any good results? Was Ethiopia redeemed short of war? Did Italy stay out of war? Was a world war forestalled? It is all very well to nobly determine to punish aggression, but does the punishment fit the crime? Is the punishment (to the punisher as well as the aggressor) worse than the crime?

* * *

The third and fourth statements, which suggest that the U.S.A. is adamant in its determination to keep Formosa, even at the price of supporting Chiang Kai-shek, are very serious matters of policy which are dividing the Western world now. Many people, Canadians among them, have yet to be convinced that Formosa is so important to Western security that general war is preferable to losing Formosa. And many people have to be convinced that a sensible way to conduct international affairs is to exclude from the councils the actual government in firm control of China, and to deal with a defeated, discredited government which controls none of the country.

* * *

It does not follow as the night the day that Canada, any more than Britain, will approve the American policy in all its points or give her support to them. Canada must believe that the U.S. intentions are good and honourable; it need not believe that its methods are the wisest and best.

The U.S. Faces High Taxation

It is not necessary to examine President Truman's budget for the fiscal year which begins on July 1 of this year in detail in order to discover what it will mean to the people of the U.S.A. It is necessary only to realize that the budget for the current fiscal year is $47 billions, and that the President has asked that next year the budget be $71 billions. In the current year $21 billions from the total budget is being spent on defence; next year it will be $41 billions. These are staggering sums and we may wonder what they will mean to the people of the U.S. in taxes.

We must realize that the President has asked for this money, but he has no direct method of getting it; Congress must decide if the budget is a valid one, and how the money is to be raised. Very probably Congress will try first of all to reduce the budget by six or seven billions, and the cuts are likely to be in the money which the President has requested for social security, welfare, education and health services. But even if the budget is sharply cut, a great sum of money must be raised.

The Americans have a prejudice against the taxation of food, and it is unlikely that Congress would consider a range of food taxes as a solution to their problem. It has been suggested that there may be a general sales tax on all retail goods which are not foods; it is reckoned that the Americans spend about $80 billions a year on such goods. But a general sales tax of this sort would simply result in an increase — perhaps as much as fifteen per cent. — in the cost of living. Such an increase would be very unpopular with the general American public.

It cannot be expected, however, that any new taxes will be popular. The people of the U.S.A., compared with ourselves, for instance, have not had much experience of really stern Income Tax measures. The middle and lower income tax groups have had a fairly easy time of it, and the rate of Income Tax on the rich has been high. But when taxation is really severe, taxes on the rich are not enough, for there are not enough rich people; the middle and lower income tax groups have to contribute sums which are substantial parts of their income, and when such measures begin they are always resented.

Taxes on business will probably be raised, as well, for they have been mounting rapidly during the past two or three years. At present corporations are paying double the taxes they paid in 1949-50, and they are expected to increase their production, as well. It seems likely that corporation taxes will rise again, and that personal Income Tax will increase by something like thirty per cent.

We in Canada must watch these changes closely, for there is no doubt whatever that our own budget will show increases along the same lines. But as our taxes have for nearly ten years been markedly higher than those of our neighbor it can hardly be expected that our increases will be so great. We think that the American people are convinced, as we are, that the increased taxes are part of the price of freedom in an uneasy world, and that they will pay them, not in silence, but with an inner recognition that they are necessary.

Theatre Canada

In pursuance of our policy of supporting the arts in Canada in every way possible, we are happy to call the attention of our readers to a new magazine, Theatre Canada, which is being produced under the auspices of the Dominion Drama Festival, and the first issue of which is now on sale. The magazine is bilingual, as its title suggests, and it covers theatrical activity, French and English, amateur and professional, in this country. Its editors are Father Emile Legault, the creator and director of Les Compagnons de St. Laurent, which is undoubtedly one of the finest professional companies in Canada, and Herbert Whittaker, who is well known as a drama critic and theatrical director.

The first issue is handsome in form and promises well for the future. Anyone who has tried it knows how difficult it is to start a new magazine; there are a thousand details to be decided, a policy to be arranged, and a format to be designed. Theatre Canada is plainly the product of much thought and taste, and it should have the support of everyone who is interested in the growth and advancement of the theatre in this country. It is to appear every second month; it costs $2.00 a year; subscriptions may be sent to 78 Bank Street, Ottawa, made payable to the Dominion Drama Festival.

A magazine devoted to the artistic and practical side of the theatre should have a large public in a land where there are as many Little Theatres and amateur societies as there are in Canada. But a magazine cannot exist on vague enthusiasm; it must have subscribers who have paid their money in order to support it. We therefore urge anyone who is interested in Theatre Canada to subscribe at once, in order to make their interest tangible. The magazine is not published for profit, but in order to advance work which has already taken firm root in Canada, and the first issue is evidence that it offers good value for the money asked.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Winnipeg cook died at dawn on Tuesday, on the gallows. His offence was not his cooking. In this country bad cooks are not hanged, as bad cooks.

An Oklahoma judge gave a divorce on grounds of "cruel and inhuman treatment" to a woman whose husband made her use margarine instead of butter. The judge will certainly receive a firkin of the very best butter from our Canadian dairy enthusiasts.

A rabbit has lived without a head for seven days in Michigan, under experimental conditions. All the recorded utterances of the Easter Bunny (about whom we should be thinking soon) convince us that all rabbits live without their heads, and just wear them as a form of ornament.

The French screen star, Denise Darcel, says: "Men who stare at women in low-cut gowns are uncultured; a truly refined man, a cultured man, a man with a real background, does not stare". Quite true: a really cultured man can take a good stare while seeming to look at something elsewhere in the room. We are extremely cultured, and have mastered this trick to perfection.

Russia And Germany

by
RICHARD LOWENTHAL

A LAST attempt at four-Power negotiations on Germany is now likely to take place before any final decision on West German rearmament. The Soviet Government is vitally interested in a four-Power conference on this subject. The Western Powers will no doubt wish to raise the whole complex of related European questions. But—whatever else may be discussed — they cannot reject any genuine chance of a German settlement. The strength of French and German reluctance to the arming of German troops, the German desire for genuine national unity, and the European fear of Russian military action in the absence of negotiation, make that certain.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN working to bring about this conference, the Russians clearly have one minimum and one maximum objective. The minimum objective is to prevent the raising of German manpower for Western defence. The maximum aim is to wreck the wider plan for establishing a forward Western defence line on the Elbe, of which the raising of German troops forms a part. To concede the Russians' minimum demand may be possible under certain conditions. To grant their maximum demand, to renounce the Elbe line, would in the present state of international tension be suicidal.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE most vital purpose of the West in Germany is to prevent a potential aggressor from getting hold of the West German industrial potential, either without war or even in the event of war. Control of this potential —in practice likely to be followed by the speedy conquest of the rest of Western Europe's industries—would make a decisive difference to the total war capacity of the totalitarian world. All projects for putting an unoccupied and demilitarized Germany as a "neutral" buffer between East and West are bound to founder on that rock. It should, therefore, be recognized at once that there are two things to which the West cannot afford to agree in any circumstances. It cannot agree to turn Germany into a military vacuum. And it cannot agree to any form of "joint rule" by the East and West German regimes which would give Stalin's German stooges a share of the power of command in the Ruhr.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE recruiting of German troops for Western defence, on the other hand, is an important but not, I believe, an indispensable part of the Western plan. It could be renounced by the West—if Russia showed herself willing to take genuine steps to make possible that German unity which she has always demanded and always prevented hitherto.

✧ ✧ ✧

SUCH steps would have to begin with the disarmament of the mobile formations of the East German "People's Police" (in return for which the Western Powers would have to disarm their recently armed "German labour squads"). But the decisive step would have to be a Russian agreement to hold free elections under four-Power control in the whole of Germany—without the previous formation of any joint organs by the present East and West German regimes.

✧ ✧ ✧

BOTH the freely elected Western and the imposed Eastern regime would have to go back into the melting pot; election rules, including the freedom of party formation in the Eastern Zone and the free circulation of speakers and propaganda material, would have to be agreed by the Powers; and German unity would be restored on terms exactly similar to those on which Austrian unity has been preserved so far. The freely elected Parliament could work out a Constitution and form a provisional all-German Government; the Powers would then have to grant this Government a status free from further Allied controls except in military matters, and they could then start preparatory discussions for a German peace treaty.

THERE is nothing inherently impossible or even improbable in such an agreement, modelled as it would be on Austrian practice, except that in the German case it would require Russian abandonment of the virtual one-party State already built up in the Eastern Zone. But nothing short of this will genuinely restore German unity; and nothing short of genuine German unity in freedom would make it worth while for the Western Powers to renounce a German contribution to Western defence.

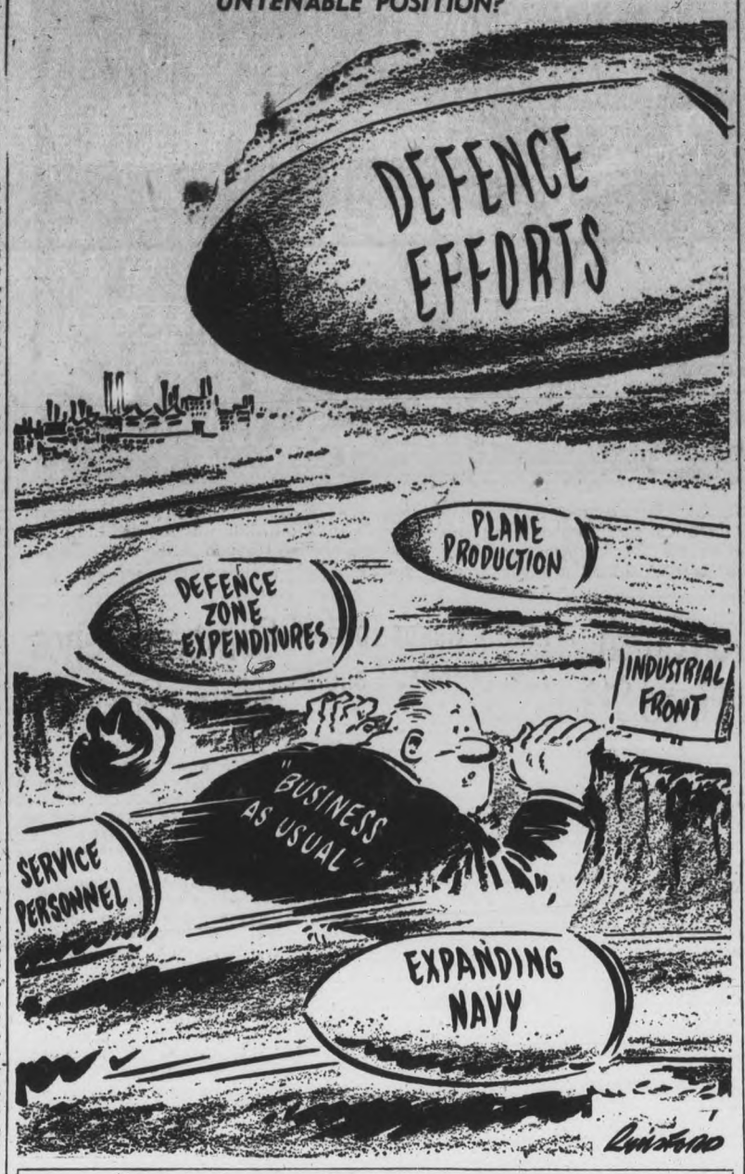
✧ ✧ ✧

ON the basis of past experience, the hope that Russia will agree to such a procedure is small indeed. Yet she should reflect that such an agreement might be the first step towards an all-round relaxation of European tension. Peace negotiations with Germany would offer the best basis for exploring the prospect of a wider settlement. They would be likely to progress all the more speedily if Russia proved her good will by at last putting her signature to the virtually complete Austrian treaty. Progress with the German treaty, and the withdrawal of troops from Austria, would at least make it possible, after some time, for the Powers to consider withdrawing their troops from Germany in a different atmosphere.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHATEVER the Russian attitude, the Western Powers should make it clear that they are ready for this type of settlement. They should also state plainly that the alterative is for them to go ahead with the integration of Western Germany, as a free and equal partner, into the political community and the military alliance of the West. The choice would then lie with Russia, and so would the responsibility.

✧ ✧ ✧



A CLEAR anouncement of Western policy for the four-Power conference would be highly desirable also as a means of steadying the confused public opinion of Western Germany. The proposal made by Herr Grotewohl's East German regime for round-table talks with Dr. Adenauer's Government on the formation of a "Constituent Council" was at first received much more favourably by Western Germans than it would have been under less anxious world conditions. And although it has now been clearly rejected by the West German Government, with the support of the principal party leaders, many West Germans still fail to understand that such talks with East German appointees would strengthen the Eastern case for an immediate "mixed Government," and would thus compromise the principle of unity in freedom from the start.

A STATEMENT of Western policy could help to dispel these illusions simply by offering a better hope. The Western Powers should say now, in advance of the four-Power conference, that they are not prepared to withdraw their troops, but are determined to end the occupation regime and restore German freedom—for the whole of Germany if possible, for the West alone if necessary.

UNTENABLE POSITION?

Letters To The Editor

BOARD OF WORKS ACCUSED OF NEGLECT

Sir: I think it is about time someone shook up the Board of Works of our fair city. How are the motoring public supposed to get by from 4:30 p.m. each day till 7:00 a.m. of the next day? Now on January 9th, the weather was very mild, streets sloppy, but at 6:00 p.m. it started to freeze and at 8:00 p.m. it was very treacherous. About that time, on the hill of Parkhill Road, east of the Inverlea bridge, the hill was blocked off while some unfortunate motorist was having his car pulled back out onto the road after going over the embankment in an effort to stop.

These conditions have existed for some time. Are the employees too good to render service at night? I remember when a good many of them would have been glad to go out at night. Could they not have one driver and two men on a night shift to take care of bad hills and busy intersections down town, instead of turning the whole staff out with their sand in the morning when the good Lord is giving us the benefit of the sun? They are not needed then.

Why not concentrate on a small favour like this to the motorist, instead of spending all their time trying to figure out where to put some more meters to gather in more money and why not take a look at some of the meters that are installed and see if they will stand law? I am sure some of them will not. Whoever the gentlemen are, responsible for locating some of these meters, they should hang their heads in shame if they do not know the traffic act better than that.

Take a look around you men, let's have some sand at night.

Yours truly,
HEAVY TAXPAYER.

(The Manchester Guardian)

A new old man's guide to "health by exercise" is discussed by Sir Leonard Hill in this week's "British Medical Journal," with something of the enthusiasm of a man of 84 who finds his body "supple and fit in all parts" and who knows just how it is done and why.

It should set many of us running a good deep bath in the morning, to test the new notion of doing the "daily dozen" under water, where a ten-stone man weighs a mere ten pounds and muscular development calls for correspondingly little energy.

Mr. T. R. Togna, whose system Sir Leonard has been testing, is a man of 77 who finds no difficulty in running 81 yards in 12 seconds. His exercise and self-massage in the bath, to which he attributes his fitness, have been found to give him much the same oxygen intake for every pulse beat as that of a marathon runner with a pulse of 118, but Mr. Togna's pulse frequently in the bath goes no more than six beats above his basal frequency of sixty.

The question of oxygen consumption, taken in conjunction with the blood-pressure reading, is Sir Leonard Hill's test of the value of under-water exercise.

During a standing-run exercise in the air, however good the oxygen consumption, there is a marked rise in both pulse rate and blood pressure; under water the increase in pulse rate is slight, while the blood pressure actually drops.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him. That which hath been is now: and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past. (Eccl. 3: 14, 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter? Can the fig tree, my brethren, bear olive berries? either a vine, figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh.

Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom. (James 3: 11-13.)

Rejoice in the Lord, O ye righteous: for praise is comely for the upright....For the word of the Lord is right; and all his works are done in truth....

Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him. For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast. (Ps. 33: 1, 4, 8, 9.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"Your singing surprised me," said the critic.

"I spent $100 learning to sing," proudly replied the soprano.

"I'd like you to meet my brother," was the critic's comment.

"Is he a singer?"

"No, he's a lawyer. He'll get your money back."

✧ ✧ ✧

He: "Remember, darling? Last night you said there was something about me you could love?"

She: "Yes, but you spent it all."

Crime Thrillers

(H. Nicholson in London Spectator)

I have often wondered why some busy people enjoy detective novels, whereas others do not. Mr. Asquith and Lord Curzon derived much solace from the works of Mr. P. G. Wodehouse; Mr. A. J. Balfour took a medicinal view of detective novels, believing that they served as a counter-irritant and diverted blood from the congested cells of the brain. Yet I have encountered other men of energy or erudition who have not hesitated to say that they were bored by detective novels, regarding them as a waste of effort, a symptom of infantilism, or an indulgence unworthy of man's unconquerable mind.

I cannot but feel that such ascetics are both denying to themselves a pleasurable indulgence and limiting the range of their experience. It is quite agreeable, in this age of constantly renewed menace, to enter for an hour or two a dream world of impersonal danger, knowing that whatever else may happen it is improbable that one will oneself be either murdered or hanged.

It is pleasant, in this epoch of cruelty, to observe Justice, with her calm, slow feet, pursuing the antecedent criminal, to find that virtue is in the end triumphant and that vice after many misunderstandings and much fumbling, receives the final retribution.

Koussevitzsky Concert Wins Applause

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (CP). — The Israel Philharmonic Orchestra played its first Canadian concert Monday night to a packed Montreal Forum.

No definite estimate of the crowd was available, but the Forum, home of the Montreal Canadiens, has a seating capacity of more than 14,000.

Conducting the orchestra on its Canadian tour that will take it to Ottawa next was Serge Koussevitzsky, who left his conductorship in Boston to organize the world tour of the orchestra.

The Montreal Gazette drama and music critic, Thomas Archer, wrote in his review of the presentation:

"Here was some of the most intense playing we have heard in years. It is true that the program was calculated to produce a dramatic impression. But the orchestra, it was felt, might very well have done the same with any program. These men play with a will and an enthusiasm which is all too rare among orchestras heard during the last decade or more."

Among the compositions heard was Serge Prokofieff's Fifth Symphony, which according to Mr. Archer, was "an exceptionally well chosen item for demonstrating the orchestra's technique..

"Dr. Koussevitzsky and these gifted musicians, if they could not make us all in love with Prokofieff's music at first hearing, most certainly emphasized its color and incipient drama."

Asks Long-Range Policy

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23 (AP) —Harold E. Stassen called Monday night for an American long-range foreign policy aimed at "a victory for civilization and freedom, over Communist imperialism, without a world war. "The victory should be for civilization and freedom of mankind, not narrowly for America or our own selfish interest," the University of Pennsylvania president said. Stassen spoke at a dinner of university trustees marking his return from a recent round-the-world trip.

Omemee Legion Backs Compulsory Training

OMEMEE, Jan. 23—(ENS)—At the January meeting of the Omemee branch of the Canadian Legion, held at the home of Clinton Endicott, the retiring president, a motion was passed supporting the Legion's Dominion Command in its effort to convince the federal government that action is needed immediately in national registration, mobilization of industrial resources for defence production, and a plan of compulsory training in reserve forces.

The meeting decided to send a copy of this motion to the local member of parliament, asking his support for the Legion in this program.

Another feature of the meeting was the installation of their 1951 officers, as follows: President, Scott Young vice presidents, Gordon Bocock; Reuben Reeds; secretary-treasurer, William Wedlock; chaplain, Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt; sergeant-at-arms, James Brooks; executive council, J. A. Hayes, Elwood Faulkner, Bill Acreman, Dick Vaughan and Garnet Mitchell.

May Go To Montreal

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP) — Resources Minister Winters said Monday Montreal has been considered as a possible location for the National Film Board, now scattered through eight different buildings in Ottawa. Mr. Winters, who has jurisdiction over the government-owned film board, said consideration has been given to what would be the best location for the film board. Montreal was among the places considered.

Duplessis Gives ConstructionMen Dose Of Truth

By WILLIAM STEWART

QUEBEC, Jan. 23 — (CP) — Premier Duplessis, Quebec's outspoken premier, appeared last night before representatives of a $3,000,000,000-a-year Canadian industry, to give them what he called "a little dose of truth."

The Quebec premier was guest speaker at the annual banquet of the Canadian Construction Association, whose 810 members are the leaders of the country's building industry.

He said the "plain truth" about the "turmoil, confusion and instability" abroad in the world is that public "apathy, indifference and lack of common sense" are to blame.

The premier noted that the Construction Association is celebrating its 33rd anniversary and said the time has come to "form an association of citizens, of people doing their duty every day, every week and every month in every year."

Apart from the serious note on which he delivered his 45-minute address, the Union Nationale government leader, dapper in his dinner clothes, was in fine humor.

Try Out French

The men and women, overflowing the Chateau Frontenac ballroom where the banquet was held, sang "O Canada" in French from printed slips set at every place and association president Robert Drummond also used French in his introductory remarks.

The premier also spoke a sentence or two in French which he said is "one of the two languages official everywhere in Canada."

Then he switched into English out of "courtesy for the audience, English-speaking in the majority."

The premier noted a reference by President Drummond to an article in a national magazine about the possibility that Quebec might outstrip Ontario in industrial development and become Canada's No. 1 province.

"Canada and especially Quebec are going through very prosperous times," said Premier Duplessis. "I don't think progress anywhere is as great as in Quebec."

Premier Duplessis said that if Canada is well off today it is due to its development under the system of free enterprise.

Canada's future offered the "brightest possible prospects" provided its citizens showed "continuity of action, perseverance, public-spirit and daily interest in affairs."

Premier Duplessis said his experience in the administration of the "big province of Quebec" gave him this message:

"Please, fellow - Canadians, wake up!"

French Government Bans Demonstration

PARIS, Jan. 23 — (AP) — The French Government issued Monday a stern order forbidding a Communist-planned mass demonstration Wednesday against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The demonstration has been scheduled for 5:30 p.m. outside Eisenhower's temporary headquarters at the Astoria Hotel, it would coincide with the general's return to Paris after a quick tour of western European capitals.

If the demonstration should be attempted in defiance of the government's ban, the interior ministry made it clear that force would be used.

Urges School Boards Get More Authority

DUNDAS, Ont., Jan. 23—(CP) —Return of authority to the municipal government and to the school boards was urged Monday night by Walter C. Thompson, recently-elected Provincial Liberal leader.

Speaking to some 200 Liberals of the Hamilton-Wentworth riding, Mr. Thomson advocated a return to the little red school house. Modernization and centralization of schools, he said, is taking the children away from their parents.

"The municipality is next in importance to the people of the community after the home and the school," he said. "The municipality gives a greater opportunity for service at the doorstep of the community."

Appoint Psychiatrist

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP) — A fourmonth old controversy was settled Monday night when Toronto city council voted 13-8 to appoint a psychiatrist as director of the mental health division of the public health department. The council's action overrode the recommendations of the board of control, the board of health and the medical officer of health, all of whom favored appointment of a doctor as director with two part-time psychiatrists working under him.

Fine Youth $50

BRANTFORD, Jan. 23 (CP) — An 18-year-old boy was fined $50 Monday because he refused to stay home between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. The fine was imposed on Robert Patrick who was given a suspended sentence last Friday on a wilful damage charge provided he remained home after 11 p.m. each night. He was picked up at 11:30 p.m. Sunday night driving his father's car on the highway six miles from home.

FIRST IN ACTION—First Canadians to see front-line action in Korea were these three members of the Special Force advance party. Now back at Fort Lewis, Wash., they were attached to the 29th British Brigade near Seoul and saw action, though not personally taking part in the fighting. Pictured at Pusan in this Army photo, they are, left to right: Sigmn. Ross W. Deehn, Windsor, Ont.; Sgt. Norm Stammers, Transcona, Man.; and Sigmn. RCAF 2nd Draft Flies To Britain

CHATHAM, N.B., Jan. 23 (CP) —The second draft of No. 421 Red Indian Squadron of the RCAF left Monday for Odiham, England, where the entire group of jet pilots and their ground crews will continue advanced training in co-operation with the RAF.

With two big RCAF North Stars to a draft, the movement of the unit overseas will near conclusion next Sunday when the third group takes off. The first draft left last week.

The second half of the first draft, dogged by poor flying conditions, arrived in Odiham Monday. The first group arrived last Thursday. When the air-lift of No. 421 squadron is completed, the unit will be outfitted with new Vampire jets, of a late model, and will train with the RAF for a year.

Mild Postal Clerk Admits Strangling

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 23—(CP) —Theodore Dewitt Pearce, 61, a tidy mild-mannered postal clerk, confessed that he strangled his wife because she neglected his underwear.

"I've lived in that hell and with that hellish woman long enough," Pearce told assistant prosecutor Joseph A. Rashid.

Pearce said 10 years of nagging quarrels came to a head Monday morning as she was leaving for work.

"I asked her again and again to mend my old underwear, but she wouldn't," Pearce said.

He said he took a towel "with the express purpose of strangling her," and held it around her neck for 20 minutes "until I achieved the desired result".

Accept Scout Offer

REGINA, Jan. 23 (CP) — The Saskatchewan government announced Monday it has accepted an offer from the province's more than 5,000 Boy Scouts of "the service and facilities of its organization to Saskatchewan civil defence." Premier Douglas in a message to the Scouts expressed the government's "deep appreciation of thir willingness to help in any emergency."

Limit Union Work

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP)—City council Monday night passed a by-law excluding its employees —except the firefighters—from the provisions of the Ontario Labor Relations Act. Mayor Hiram McCallum said there had been some raiding of the municipal employees' unions. "It was felt it was much better to deal with three unions than 10 or 12." The bylaw, in effect, sets up the Municipal Employees Union as the exclusive bargaining agency for the city employees.

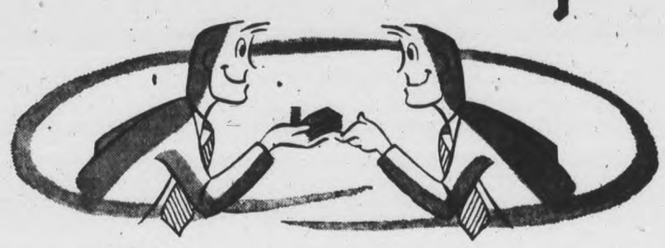
Paradise Plan Draws Hundreds

LONDON—(CP) — A London industrialist working on plans for a boating, swimming and fishing "paradise" in British Honduras has been swamped with applications from men who want to join him.

The response to the organizer who wants to get away from "crackpot politicians" followed a call for men "who are not bossed by women and don't have to wear wool next to their skin." He also invited those people who are "fed up with filling in government forms."

Organizer of the scheme, T. Rhodes Disher, was for years director of a Camberwell, Surrey, industrial plant, before it was expropriated to make room for a park site.

After an abortive effort to have the order rescinded, Mr. Disher bought 8,000 acres of land in British Hoduras. He has already cleared ground for planting fruit trees and later plans to erect a power generating plant and sawmill.



"Here is an opportunity," he said, "to do something important free from endless restrictions, form-filling and far from crackpot politicians."

To keep him and his colleagues company until his "paradise" is properly developed, Mr. Disher is taking with him more than 1,000 classical phonograph records.

Personal Planning

HERE'S WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING ABOUT Personal Planning

The B of M featured Personal Planning on a test basis at the Canadian National Exhibition last autumn. In two weeks, 27,000 people asked for a copy of the B of M's booklet on Personal Planning. Here are some of the comments these people have volunteered:—

"A very workable budget. Your service is appreciated."

"... wish we had started the plan long ago."

"Thank you so much for showing us the way to make a budget work. Have tried for a year with no success, but now I think we can really live and save with Personal Planning."

"The best yet."

"... appreciate commonsense method of handling money."

"Swell idea."

Most people leave themselves out in the cold on pay-day. They pay the grocer and the baker... the milkman and the landlord. Everybody and his uncle dig into their pay envelopes but themselves.

Result — they're usually in a financial strait-jacket ... and they worry. They worry about bills on hand. They worry about bills to come. They worry about unexpected bills. Money is always on their mind — souring their pleasure in living. And cobwebs gather on their plans for tomorrow.

What's the answer? There's only one...

... Personal Planning ... WHY?

Personal Planning is much more than just drawing up a budget. Budgets are often frustrating dog-collars. They usually tie you down and make life a very monotonous affair.

No, Personal Planning shows you how to live within your income and enjoy it. It's a complete financial program, cut from the pattern of your particular needs and problems.

Personal Planning won't help you make millions. But — given an honest chance — it will cure your 'day-after-pay-day blues.'

You'll learn how to make your budget work for you, instead of you working for it. And you'll also find that Personal Planning helps you realize your plans for tomorrow much sooner than you have dared to hope.

Eagles Edge Petes, 4 To 3 In Nifty Senior "B" Game

Eagles nosed out a 4-3 OHA senior "B" win over the Petes before a big crowd at Civic Arena last night to creep to just half a game behind the group-leading Petes. It was another sizzling scrap all the way, with the Petes appearing to have more of the play. Referee Wally Wilson took no chances on an outbreak between the old rivals, handing out 20 penalties (some of them pretty cheap) with each side getting 10.

IN ON TWO—Doug Mortimer helped Eagles edge Petes 4-3 in senior "B" hockey here last night by hustling all the way and assisting on two goals in the tight scrap before a big crowd.

DOES HIS PART — Junior West of the Petes did his part last night with a goal and an assist, but the team dropped a 4-3 decision in scrappy going. The Petes still lead the loop by half a game over the Eagles.

Play was quite fast all the way and fairly even most of the route. Some stiff checking and a bit of roughing cropped up as the tilt progressed. Petes were minus Gus Leonard, and the Eagles were without the services of Bob Parnall, Bert Hill and Al Burns—the latter two side-lined for possibly a week with puck injuries. Lally Lalonde returned to the Eagles' lineup. It was 2-1 for the Petes in the first frame, but 4-3 for Eagles going into the scoreless third heat.

In On A Pair

Joe Rochetta had two goals and Doug Mortimer two assists to lead the Magee men in scoring. Single points were notched by Andy Milne, Dootch Vitarelli, Bill Crowley, Jim Munroe and Johnny Godfrey. Junior West topped the Jopling squad with a goal and an assist, as Freddy Garvey, Jake Wade, Don Floyd and Ron Horton had a point apiece. Both goalies were hot in this fray, there being no soft goals scored. Every man on the opposing teams gave all he had in stiff travelling, with frequent penalties putting an extra burden on teammates in every period.

Rochetta scored one "off his ear"—ala Rocket Richard style—to open play, taking a forward pass from Doug Mortimer and backhanding in as he was knocked over. Dugan was gated for interference but was back when West's sharp angle shot in close hit the corner to tie it up. Horton returned from a charging penalty and Vitarelli got it for tripping. He was no sooner back than Freddy Mortimer got the nod for interference and Nicholls had to be good as the Petes pressed. Near the end of the frame, Garvey batted one home with a slap shot at the corner of the crease on neat combination with Floyd and West to put the Petes up 2-1. Lalonde was waved over then for boarding.

Lots Of Action

Tompkins got it early in the second for interference and Crowley was thefted by Harding as Eagles poured in. Then Crowley was chased for interference, followed by Lalonde for boarding to leave Eagles shy two. The Petes were all around the other net but couldn't beat Nicholls. With all back and both sides roaring, Rochetta tied it up on a return pass from Crowley after a feed-up from Munroe at close range. Fryia was penalized for tripping and Horton drew a similar sentence to leave the Petes short two. One was back as Harding kept kicking them out, but Milne took a passout at point-blank range from a Petes' defender to sink the disc. Horton was waved over again for interference and Vitarelli scored inside from Doug Mortimer and Godfrey. With Horton out of the sin bin, Doug Mortimer climbed in for roughing as a fight threatened. Wade put the Petes back in the hunt on a rebound from Horton as the Petes tore in hard and it was ended 4-3 for Eagles.

Some miraculous saves were made by Harding and Nicholls through the speedy but scoreless third chukker. The Petes pressed more, though Eagles fought back fiercely and Milne almost tallied early. Mason was gated for high-sticking and Vitarelli followed for interference. The Petes threw five forwards out but Crowley and Collins mixed it and got the finger for roughing. That pair was still off when Garvey climbed the wall for tripping. Later Mason and Fred Mortimer mixed it and drew roughing penalties as the pace got hotter. They were all back and Coombs drew a hooking penalty. The Petes did everything but tie it up but couldn't beat Nicholls. In the final minute, Harding was pulled and the Petes fought furiously but didn't make it, and Eagles hit the empty net just after the gong sounded. Teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Tompkins; centre, Wade; wings, Dugan and Mason; alternates, Fryia, J. Mortimer, Collins, Garvey, West, Floyd, E. Leonard and Jopling.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and D. Mortimer; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Milne, Stewart, F. Mortimer, Coombs, Greenlaw, Lalonde, Montgomery and Munroe.

Farewell Dinner Honors Tommy Henrich

By JACK HAND.

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP). — Tommy Henrich, the new Yankee coach, talked about Tommy Henrich, the "old reliable" of the New York ball club as a man he used to know.

The occasion was a party thrown by the New York baseball writers for Henrich—a retirement party, just like the one they threw for Charley Keller last year. Only Keller "unretired" later and almost knocked the Yankees out of the pennant in a Detroit uniform.

There were broad hints from the early speakers that Henrich's retirement because of a bad knee might be only temporary. Somebody said he'd probably be playing first base by the fourth of July.

"Last year when you gave the party for Keller," said Henrich, "little did I think a year later I'd be tossing in the towel.

"As far as playing next year, it's nice to hear. But my knee feels the same as it did last March. And that's not the way to go into Yankee Stadium and play ball."

Tells Best Story

It fell to Red Patterson, the Yankee publicity man, to tell the best story about Henrich. How Casey Stengel decided it would be for the club's best interests to use Johnny Hopp in the world series instead of Tommy. And how George Weiss was elected to break the news to Henrich who already was on the series scene at Philadelphia.

"Weiss called up Tom," said Patterson. "He told him what Casey had said. All Henrich said was 'do you have an extra ticket? I brought a friend with me."

Henrich, who got a $25,000 bonus for signing with the Yanks as a free agent in 1937 after Judge K. M. Landis, then baseball commissioner, freed him from the Cleveland organization, was given a humidor loaded with cigars. He told the secret of his success in getting along with the baseball writers.

"When I first came up I asked the other fellows how to do it," he said. "Johnny Murphy said 'Don't read any of them.' Tony Lazzeri said 'To hell with all of them.'

"I took Murphy's advice. But only when we lost."

Brintons Beat Marmora 8-5

HASTINGS, Jan. 23 (ENS) — Brinton Carpet retained their hold on first place in the TVL Monday night defeating Marmora 8-5 in a fast, clean game at Hastings arena.

Marmora, starting the game as underdogs, surprising everyone as they battled all the way and it was not until the third period that Brintons sewed the game up.

Stewart, Lavender and Trumble carried the mail for Marmora and their kid line showed plenty of promise. Both goalies made some fine saves.

Brinton Carpet: Goal, Byers; defence, Riches and K. Anderson; centre, Eakins; wings, Lawson and Richlark; alternates, Reid, B. Anderson, Evans, McIndoo, Huard, Crowder, Berardi, McCaig.

Norwood Triumphs

NORWOOD, Jan. 23 (ENS)—Norwood defeated St. Peter's 5-2 in a lively TVL contest here last night before a so-so crowd. It was a clean tilt with but one penalty handed out, Wilson getting it in the first. Webb counted two goals and Gilbert and Peterson one each in the initial inning, Gilbert having one assist and Griffin two. Webb added one next heat from Griffin as Foster scored for the Saints on a pass from Mongraw. Foster tallied the only third-period marker. Fennell and Thompson each suffered three-stitch cuts in the face. Teams:

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Ontario Hockey Association explains the setup as it regards our senior "B" groups. There are four such groups playing senior "B" hockey, the eastern one consisting of Kingston, Queen's Belleville and the two local teams. Central circuit has entries from Toronto, Owen Sound, Stouffville, Markham, Woodbridge and Alliston. Then there's an interbounty or peninsula setup of Woodstock, Brantford, Port Colborne, the Falls, St. Kitts and Dundas. Over to the west are Sarnia and Chatham, who also play in an international loop. The Gans in our group are actually intermediate "A".

* * * * * *

The champ in each group has its choice of going senior "A" and entering Allan Cup playdowns against other group representatives or of continuing into senior "B" playdowns. As we get it, should the champion team decide to go senior "B", then the runner-up may step up to the "A" classification and go after the Allan Cup, the playdowns commencing about March 9. As our group finals won't be over by then, some sort of arrangement must be made soon to see which team steps up to "A" and which ones remain "B" and go after that trophy, presently held by Brantford. Perhaps the top two teams at schedule's end could have a short playoff series to settle the Allan Cup part of it.

* * * * * *

Eagles And Petes Again

Don't forget the senior "B" game here Wednesday night. Yes, it's Eagles vs. Petes again at 8.30 in Civic Arena, this being the Petes' home game. Second last meeting of these clubs during the schedule. And there's always the possibility that they won't meet in group playoffs, so don't pass up the few remaining scheduled clashes between the old rivals. Sure to be hot hockey, regardless of the outcome, with both sides shooting the works in a desperate attempt to upse tthe other. It should draw another big crowd as all the Petes-Eagles games do.

* * * * * *

Following last night's game here, the Eagles were quite jubilant and figure they'll take over first place Wednesday. While the Petes were downright peeved, claiming they had more of the play but no luck. Neither side spoke too highly of Referee Wally Wilson, though he called 'em in strict manner simply to keep things under control. As each side drew 10 minor penalties, we can't see where either squad has too much kick. Let them blame the rival goalies for holding down the score despite so many penalties—Harding and Nicholls turned in a swell chore in the opposite cages. It was a dandy duel to watch between the well-matched enemies, speedy, rugged and close, and with some good hockey dished up.

* * * * * *

Injuries Taking A Toll

While the Petes are missing one of their aces, Gus Leonard, the Eagles are crippled up plenty, too. They won't have Bob Parnall again this season, and they're minus Al Burns (a fine defenceman) and Bert Hill, an all-around handy guy, for a few more days, anyway. Bert has a leg injury and Al a bad shoulder. We thought the Petes had more of the play but the Eagles cashed in better on chances, especially that unusual first goal by Joe Rochetta. He was nearly standing on his head when he backhanded a pass home after being checked. Two chaps who didn't get shirts as prizes for their efforts were the penalty timers—they being so busy they didn't see much of the melee. Ah, well, maybe they'll do better Wednesday. But, come to think of it, they probably won't.

* * * * * *

The IOOF-ers were back in form last e'en in Port Hope to down the Panthers 4-2 in a good junior "B" joust. Without hearing the result of the Lindsay-Oshawa tussle, the standing to hand has Belleville atop with 22 points, with Lindsay and Oddfellows tied right behind with 21 each, Oshawa having 18 and Port Hope four. And here are the group's top 10 snipers with points: Etcher (O) 35, Wyatt (P) 30, Campbell (PH) 28, West (P) 26, Corley (L) 23, Medhurst (PH) 23, Downey (PH) 20, DeGray (O) 19, McKeen (PH) 19, Desjardins (B) 19. Most actual goals goes to Downey of Port Hope with 19, one more than Corley of Lindsay. The Kingdon crew clicked well last p.m. in a keen contest. Oshawa Bees play the IOOF-ers here on Friday.

Local Curlers Stay In 3-Day Bonspiel

By HERB MARTIN.

After playing all day Monday in the big centennial bonspiel, only four of the 16 local rinks remained undefeated. T. Doughty, H. Baptie, R. Best and G. Braund were the ones to reach the eights.

There were many upsets, as always, in a bonspiel like this, but as there are four events, those who did lose in the main trophy have yet a chance to make a comeback.

Some Close Ones

Some of the games were very close and interesting. On the late draw last night the McKee-Doughty (C. Giroux skipping) game was a dandy, and then on ice three the famous Peter Gilbert and his three sons of Chatham (British Consols winners) had a real fight with Ray Best. The game held the crowd, and was well played. Another game that caught the crowd's fancy was the Braund-Laidley one on ice five. This was a close one all the way, with the local man coming out on top.

The ladies did their part toward the success of the bonspiel. They were serving hot meals up on the third floor, and were well patronized.

The bonspiel continues until Wednesday night.

Stirling Winners

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 23 — (ENS)—The Campbellford TVL puckists took a beating at the hands of the Stirling squad here Monday, 7 to 2.

Campbellford were outplayed and outskated at every turn. The Stirling team played a close, back-checking game, and depended on break-aways to sink their goals. The local team could not seem to get started, due to the close checking tactics of the Stirling squad.

Blake of Campbellford was injured during the game, when a stick caught him on the mouth, but he returned to the game after being patched up. Cole also received a head injury, but it turned out to be minor. About 400 fans saw the game.

Keene Victorious

KEENE, Jan. 23 (ENS).—In a wide-open EPHL tussle here last night before a fair-sized crowd, Keene took an 11-8 win over Millbrook. Whalen, Heafield and Burns scored for the homesters in the first with Burns, Stock and Whalen getting an assist each. Edmunds, McDowell and McGill counted for Millbrook, with Agnew aiding on two. McGill counted a pair and Guthrie one for the visitors in the second, Edmunds having two assists, as Burns got the lone Keene marker. In the third, McDowell got both Millbrook goals, McGill helping once. Keene ran wild to rack up the count, Stock scoring twice, with singles notched by L. Sellaby, Whalen, Burns, Cowie and Brown, an assist apiece going to Davidson, Whalen, McGill, L. Sellaby and Heafield. Play was fairly clean. Teams:

Millbrook: Goal, D. Edmunds; defence, R. Edmunds, Dawson; centre, E. Hutchison; wings, A. Hutchison, McGill; alternates, Agnew, McDowell, Bryans, Bell, Guthrie, Pinch, Powell.

CONACHER IN SKIRTS—Latest Conacher to don hockey "uniform" is Diane, daughter of the famous Lionel. She is shown taking either advice or criticism from her father with a smile. Although the Big Train couldn't cheer on his offspring—he was refereeing a game between Havergal Old Girls and Bishop Strachan School in Toronto—it's a safe bet he felt mighty pleased when Diane scored. Havergal won, 2-0.

IOOF Juniors Gain Win, 4-2 To Move Closer To The Top

Bun Kingdon's Oddfellows were flying again last night at Port Hope as they defeated Panthers 4-2 in a fast, clean junior "B" hockey struggle before a good crowd. It was the 10th victory of the season for Links who now trail Belleville Rockets by a single point.

Play opened fast as the teams battled hard in an even first frame but Links came strongly in the second to outplay their plucky rivals. Ray Douglas scored a beauty from just outside the crease on a quick passout from Bob Wyatt following a ganging attack, to open the scoring.

Dean West, centre star of the limplighter trio (leading scoring line of the league with 73 points) put his team two up as he flipped a nifty backhander close in past McGregor on a breakaway with Wyatt. Army Armstrong drew an assist on the play as well.

The Hodgett crew led by Harris McKeen and the strong first line centre star D'Arcy Campbell, broke into the scoring column at the three-quarter mark as the former dribbled an ice-cutter past Wasson from 15 feet out on a mad scramble through a maze of legs. In fairness too it must be noted that Panthers were shorthanded when IOOF scored twice in this frame. Play was fairly even in the second as a whole.

Wyatt Scores

Bob Wyatt, who led his team with a goal and two assists to creep closer to top spot among the league's leading scorers, combined with West near the halfway mark in the final stanza for number three with a low drive to the far corner from short left-wing as Goody and Flesh warmed the penalty pew. Miscues proved costly to Panthers though Wyatt scored what looked like a fine tally a few minutes earlier on a play with West when the teams were equally strong, only to have referee Crombie disallow the marker. Thus the breaks evened up.

D'Arcy Campbell put his team back in the game late in the chapter on a passing play with Bud Downey, league-leading sniper, as he worked close in to give Wasson no chance. Brian Robinson flew back seconds later to outfox the defence and rifle his 11th goal of the campaign past McGregor to ensure final victory in a hard-fought tussle. It was a thrilling crowd-pleasing game with but eight minor penalties meted out as the boys stuck strictly to hockey all the way.

For Oddfellows, every man played in his best form after a slight recent slump with Clare Ferguson, a juvenile replacing Jim Morrow, turning in a splendid performance. Jim should see action Friday here against Oshawa. For Port Hope, it was Campbell, Medhurst, Downey, McKeen, Flesh, Pilsworth, Goody, J. Fisher and Wilcox for first honors.

IOOF: Goal, R. Wasson; defence, Armstrong, Clapper; centre, West; wings, Wyatt, Stewart; alternates, Douglas, Floyd, Buckton, B. Robinson, G. Robinson, Ferguson, D. Wasson, Bigford.

Port Hope: Goal, McGregor; defence, Goody, Flesch; centre, Campbell; wings, Medhurst, Downey; alternates, Wilcox, McKeen, D. Fisher, Pilsworth, J. Fisher, Lawless, Harnden, Hanson.

Referee, Jim Crombie, Bowmanville; linesman, Dit Rowden, Port Hope.

Second Period

IOOF—West (Wyatt, Armstrong) 7:35
Port Hope—McKeen (Campbell) 14.17

Big Four Won't Withdraw From C.R.U. Lawson Says

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP). — C. C. Lawson, newly-elected president of the Big Four Football Union, said Monday his league "won't withdraw" from the Canadian Rugby Union.

The statement was made in reply to a demand that the Big Four and Western Conference pull out of the CRU to allow the return of the Grey Cup and the Dominion football crown to non-professional competition.

William Fry, head of the intermediate section of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, said his group feels the Big Four and western leagues no longer are representative of Canadian football and that they should get out of the CRU.

He said the annual meeting of his section Saturday passed a resolution that the ORFU sponsor such a proposal at the CRU annual meeting in March at Winnipeg.

Closed Door

The policy of the Big Four and Western Conference in importing coaches and players from the United States has closed the door to Canadians for football coaching jobs and their rightful places as players, Fry added.

He criticized the big leagues for dominating the CRU and said "our understanding is that the CRU is made up of all Canadian unions and its function is to encourage football in all its branches and departments."

Joe Ryan, one of Montreal Alouettes' delegates to the Big Four annual meeting here Saturday, commented that "if they want to cut their own throats, I'm sure it would be all right with the Big Four."

Howe Continues To Lead NHL Scoring

MONTREAL, Jan. 23 (CP). — Big Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings continues to have his own way in the National Hockey League scoring race.

League statistics released today reveal that the Floral, Sask., right winger added three goals (all in one game) and two assists last week to bring his point total to 50. His 19 goals and 31 assists—tops in the latter department — give him a 10-point lead over Montreal Canadiens' Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Max Bentley of Toronto Maple Leafs, both tied with 40 points.

However, Richard is the top goal scorer with 28 in 44 games this season. Bentley with 15 goals leans heavily on his 25 assists to keep within the select scoring trio.

Maple Leafs' two goalies—Turk Broda and Al Rollins—are tied with Terry Sawchuk of Red Wings for the top netminding honors. Only 88 goals have been scored against the two NHL teams to date.

Rollins, a rookie, has a 1.71 goals-against average in 17 games while Sawchuk has been charged two goals a game. Sawchuk leads in shutouts with seven and Montreal's Gerry McNeil follows with six.

Bad Boy

Most penalized player in the circuit is defenceman Gus Mortson of Toronto. He has spent a total of 96 minutes in the penalty box. New York Rangers lead in team penalty totals with 554 minutes charged against them.

During last week Red Wings retained their eight-point lead over Maple Leafs in the league standing. Montreal Canadiens are in sole possession of third place, Boston holds down the fourth spot. New York Rangers are fifth and Chicago Black Hawks remain in the cellar.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press

A National Hockey League record for most goals scored by one team in one period was set by Detroit Red Wings, eight goals in the third period, when they defeated New York Rangers 15-0 seven years ago tonight. Red Wings also had 22 assists for a record team total of 37 points.

Council Starts Fund For 5 Injured Players

WOODSTOCK, Jan. 23 (CP).—Making the first contribution, Ald. D. A. Thomson at council Monday night suggested that a fund be set up for the five local hockey players and the car driver, severely injured in an accident while en route to play a hockey game at St. Catharines Friday night.

Ald. Thomson, with council's unanimous approval, named Mayor Fred Childs, city treasurer J. D. Hill and Gordon S. Harper, president of the Woodstock Athletic Association, as a committee to administer the fund.

Injured in the accident were Gil Robertson, James McKay, Don Thrower, Vic Anstett, Bob Bowman and the driver, Kenneth Loosley. They are still in the Brantford hospital with the exception of Bob Bowman who has been released.

"Some of these boys were seriously hurt and I understand that Loosley will not be able to work for at least two years," Ald. Thomson said. Suggesting that the fund would help them pay their hospital bills.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Connie Mack, 88-year-old former manager of Philadelphia Athletics, Monday was re-elected president of the American League club at the annual meeting of the board of directors.

Roy Mack was named executive vice-president and treasurer and Earle Mack, vice-president and secretary.

Gordon M. Burlingame, vice-president of the Bryn Mawr (Pa.) Trust Co., was named to the board. Burlingame represented the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co., last summer when Roy and Earle obtained money from the insurance company to purchase the stock of Connie Mack, Jr., his mother and the Shibe interests.

Fear that the United States Senate Crime Committee hearings may result in a ban on interstate movement of racing news was expressed Monday by the National Association of State Racing Commissioners.

At their annual convention, the commissioners adopted a resolution asking Congress not to prohibit filing race information to "legitimate publications."

Ashley T. Cole, chairman of the New York Racing Commission and head of the committee that wrote the resolution, said he believes the Senate crime probers headed by Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.) would ask Congress for such a law.

While the Kefauver group believes that the big-time bookie racket would perish if its race wires were cut off, Cole's committee said interference with legitimate news wire services would "discriminate against racing as a national pastime."

Art Larsen of Sanfrancisco, US singles champion, and Dick Savitt of Orange, N. J., gained the round of 16 in the Australian national tennis tourney Monday with straight set victories.

Larsen mastered Adrian Alle, a youngster, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3 while Savitt got by Barry Green of Queensland, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Frank Sedgman, Australian Davis Cupper who is defending the title, beat Jack Mehaffey, 8-1, 6-1, 6-1.

It announced that forward Johnny Sullivan of a local commercial league team has been suspended for 13 games. Sullivan was charged with striking referee Max Hackett in the face during a game Jan. 13. The referee was attempting to separate Sullivan and another player who were wrestling at the time.

Phil Rizzuto, 32-year-old shortstop of the world champion New York Yankees, received a $10,000 belt Monday night as the winner of the first annual Hickok "professional athlete of the year" poll.

The donor, Ray Hickok, handed Rizzuto the belt at the annual paralysis fund dinner of the Rochester Press and Radio Club.

The Yankee shortstop nosed out Ben Hogan, the United States open golf titleholder, by six points to win the jeweled alligator leather belt with a diamond-studded gold buckle.

Hard-hitting Joe Miceli of New York Monday night scored a technical knockout over Arthur King of Toronto in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round bout in Milwaukee.

King, the British Empire light-weight champion, was hit with a series of damaging hooks and was hardly able to defend himself when referee Julius Fidler stopped the bout with 50 seconds of the round gone.

King, the pre-fight favorite, weighed 138 to Miceli's 144¾.

A 27-year-old lightweight boxer collapsed and died during a workout Monday night in a Chicago athletic club.

He was Neleigh Walker, a Negro meat packing worker, who last fought as an amateur in Kansas City in 1942.

Dr. Alexander B. Terrill said he was told the boxer collapsed without being hit.

He said Walker and Wesley Morgan, 16, both were shadow boxing in the ring at the Capital Athletic Club when Walker suddenly walked to his corner and collapsed.

MONTREAL SPARK PLUG — Bert Olmstead, Montreal Canadiens' new left winger, is largely responsible for recent success of Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Canadiens in general. After Olmstead came to Montreal from the minors in a deal with Detroit Red Wings, Richard's goal production climbed. In 11 games the Rocket scored 15 goals, compared with only 13 in the previous 31 games. Olmstead got assists on seven of the 15, fed passes for two other scores and scored three himself. Olmstead is 24, stands six feet, two inches and weighs about 175 pounds. From Sceptre, Sask., he was one of the league's outstanding rookies last season when with Chicago Black Hawks.

Demarco Tops For 14 Weeks

NEW YORK, Jan. 23 (AP) — Ab Demarco, ageless playmaker of the Buffalo Bisons, today tops the American Hockey League scoring parade for the 14th straight week.

Demarco collected seven points during the last week to boost his lead to a commanding 79 points. Demarco's linemate, Grant (Knobby) Warwick is second with 66 points.

Demarco and Wally Hergesheimer are tied for the lead in goal-getting at 30 each. Demarco and Warwick are deadlocked for playmaking honors with 49 assists each.

Little Gil Mayer of the Pittsburgh Hornets continues to show the way for goaltending honors. Mayer has the best goals-against mark, 2.19 and has turned in the most shutouts, five.

Joan Caulfield Wants To Play Dramatic Roles

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 23 (AP)—Joan Caulfield, a girl with dramatic ambitions, is faced with this disconcerting fact: she has won her greatest attention by appearing before the public in next to nothing.

Joan actually is a conservative girl from a staid and social family. She wants to do roles like "Claudia," which she performed in summer stock last year. But it's the pin-up roles that gain her notice.

"It all started with my first Broadway role," she sighed over her lunch, which consisted of a large hunk of raw hamburger. "I was hired for a show called 'Beat the Band,' in which I played a chorus girl who lived in the room behind an agent's office. While the other actors were talking, I walked across the stage in a bra, panties and a diaphanous dressing gown.

"My family thought, of course, that I was playing the lead in the show. They saw it opening night at New Haven, where the Yale boys whistled as I walked across the stage. The family was shocked, and had trouble explaining to friends who saw the show."

Play A Flop

The play was a flop, but led Joan to a fine part in "Kiss and Tell," which brought her to Hollywood. She had a successful but not sensational career—until "The Petty Girl."

"The results were quite amazing," she admitted. "Never did I get so much publicity. I got all kinds of offers — to play a hotchy-kootch dancer in one picture, a jungle princess in another, plus some fantastic offers for television. But each of them required that I bring my petty girl outfit along.

"I don't want to be the petty girl; I want to be Claudia."

Capsule Review

"The Mating Season" gives Thelma Ritter fourth billing, which is one of the sillier aspects of the Hollywood system. She is obviously the star of the film, and Gene Tierney, John Lund and Miriam Hopkins give her good support. It's the story of a down-to-earth woman who poses as the cook in the home of her socially-rising son. The plot is somewhat fabricated, but is played delightfully. Miss Ritter (remember her as Bette Davis' maid in "All About Eve?") looks like an important film personality of the future.

A LAKE WITHIN A CITY is what DeMontigny street, in Montreal's east end, looked like on Saturday as water from a burst water main surged over pavements and roadways for blocks. It was one of the worst floods which have occurred in the city in many years. Cellars of houses and shops were soon flooded and many families had to be hastily evacuated as police and firemen brought jeeps and boats to the scene. The entire area was awash with the swirling water. The water main burst between 5,30 and 6 a.m. Photos sow the flooded street.

Britain, Respected By Russia To Lead Way In World Politics

Belief that the "clear vision" of Britain will resolve present world difficulties was expressed Monday by Canon J. D. Paterson, speaking to members of the Rotary Club.

Although the situation in Britain is "tragic" and the country is "hungry and impoverished," Canon Paterson said he felt that the United Kingdom would lead the way in world politics, partly because she is respected in Russia.

Similar to After Waterloo

Canon Paterson said the world situation of today was much like the situation of Europe after the Battle of Waterloo, and he quoted a remark by Pitt made in the House of Commons then: "Britain by her energy, has saved herself, and by her vision has saved Europe."

The feeling in Britain toward the United States, he said, was that of a father toward a young son. They feel that the US is sowing its wild oats, and if it makes mistakes, it has to make something, he said.

Britain, he said, was preparing for defence, and has set a deadline at March 1, when all defensive measures must be ready. In other years he had seen the Lord Mayor's show, usually a mile-long parade of nonsence. This year, it was a mile of men recruited for defence.

Different In France

In France, he said, there is a different feeling. There, they feel that after three invasions by the Germans, they do not want another, and are almost willing to "knuckle under" to anybody.

He declared there is a great lack of understanding for Europe's problems in North America.

He cited the example of the $1,500,000,000 loan for rearmament to be made by the US to Britain. "This was made only when the United Kingdom committed itself to a $10,000,000,000 rearmament program."

With all its mistakes, Britain has an "inward strength, born of high ideals and sacrifice," he declared.

Of the people in England, he said "nobody has any money — the way they spend it, it doesn't seem to be any good." Only 86 people in the country have more than $18,000 after income tax, and only 349,000 have $3,000 or more after income tax.

Of the Labor Government's management of national affairs, he quoted a story that was going the rounds of the country during his recent visit there.

According to the story, the Labor Government was founded by Christopher Columbus. He started out and did not know where he was going. When he arrived in America, he did not know where he was, and when he got back to Spain, he did not know where he had been. And it was all done on borrowed money.

Canon Paterson was introduced by Charles Cummer and thanked by the Rev. Ivan Morgan.

CAPE TOWN (CP). — South Africa now stands sixth among the world's leading wool producers. Statistics here placed production, in millions of bales, at 1,190 for Australia, 480 for Argentina, 372 for New Zealand, 310 for Russia, 254 for the United States, and 220 for South Africa.

Truman Names Commission Study Supplies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP). —President Truman Monday named a new materials policy commission to study the vast supply problems of the United States in the years ahead—and keep the growing defence effort from throttling economic growth.

Truman emphasized the long-range aspects of the materials problems as distinct from "immediate defence needs."

Appointing William S. Paley, board chairman of the Columbia Broadcasting System, to head the group, Truman said:

"We cannot allow shortages of materials to jeopardize our national security nor to become a bottleneck to our economic expansion. By wise planning and determined action, we can meet our essential needs for military security, civilian welfare, and the continued economic growth of the United States."

Asking the group to make its report in six to nine months, Truman selected these men to serve with Paley:

George Rufus Brown, Houston, Tex., businessman; Eric Hodgins, author and editor of New Milford, Conn.; Arthur H. Bunker, New York banker; and Edward S. Mason, head of the Harvard University School of Economics.

Specifically the President asked the commission to study:

(1) The long-range requirements outlook; (2) the long-range supply outlook; (3) the prospect for and estimated extent of shortages; (4) the "consistency and adequacy of existing government policies, plans and programs"; and (5) the "consistency and adequacy of private industry practices."

Die From Drinks

REGINA, Jan. 23 CP) — A man and a woman died, and two other persons are in hospital here after drinking what police believe was methyl hydrate. The four attended a party Friday at a hotel in Indian Head, 40 miles east of Regina. Emily Cardinal, 32, of Indian Head died Saturday and Alan Dewar of Winnipeg, a travelling salesman, died several hours late at Moosomin, Sask.

Donate Books

OTTAWA, Jan. 23 (CP) — A set of the latest books on industrial design has been distributed to some 40 public libraries, the gift of the National Gallery. The gift was made on the advice of the National Industrial Design committee, sponsoring a contest for better designs in wood and aluminum products. A total of $10,000 is the prize at stake.

Brantford Market Square Claimed By Indians

BRANTFORD, — (CP). — The Indians and local business men are skirmishing over property here with a $1,000,000 scalp likely the victor's spoils.

Aided by their allies, the Six Nations are whooping for retention of Brantford's City Hall Market Square. They claim the land —once a trading post—still belongs to them.

City Council has a different slant.

"The city has rights to the square by a City Bill passed by the Ontario Legislature in 1920," opines City Clerk E. J. Campbell. "It's right in the heart of Brantford, the most valuable property in town."

"Think of the taxes we can get if we sell it," says Ald. Reg. Cooper.

"We can get $1,000,000 for that square," says council.

"Sell it," says the Board of Trade, perhaps overlooking that the 1920 treaty stipulates that an alternative market approved by the taxpayers must be found before the City Hall and square can be sold.

Applies War Paint

In the Iroquois' camp artist Charles W. Jeffries of York Mills is applying war paint. He sees the old ivy-covered hall built in 1853 of hand-made brick as both an historical and an artistic treasure.

Squatters' rights appear to be the basis of the market gardeners' demand for retention of the square. For years every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday they've brought their produce to the famous open market. Besides, it's a great tourist attraction, they feel.

It may be involved geometry, but with so many angles involved it's safe to predict that Brantford residents will be going around in circles about their square for some time to come, even though city council is determined to solve the problem this year.

HOW DO YOU SCORE ON THESE HELPFUL WAYS TO SAVE?

How to save your glamour after peeling onions?
☐ Wear cologne ☐ Try salt ☐ Use Kleenex

When you need a tissue, do you—
☐ Find one handy ☐ Fumble with a handful

Last two answers are right. Banish onion odour from hands by rubbing with dry salt . . . soothe "weepy" eyes with Kleenex! To save your complexion—after cold creaming, let Kleenex gulp up the grease. (A special process keeps this sturdy tissue extra soft.)

Next to your bed, you'll like Kleenex best—to check a sneeze or sniffle! Keep a box on the night stand. No fumbling; no need to turn on the light to find a Kleenex tissue. Only Kleenex serves one at a time—not a handful!—and another pops up, ready to use. Saves tender noses, during colds!

Only Kleenex* has the Serve-a-tissue Box

1,454 Drawing Unemployment Insurance Funds

In spite of a sharp increase in the number of persons drawing unemployment insurance since November, Peterborough's winter unemployment situation is about the same as last year, William Mellis, manager of the National Employment Office, said today.

A year ago 1,500 men and women were drawing funds as compared with 1454 on January 18 this year. The office has 1,184 men and 293 females registered.

Since November the number of person on benefits has nearly doubled. Then 795 persons were drawing claims, an increase of 105 over the final day's figure in October. The unemployed continued to increase in December when 1,058 drew money.

Supplementary Benefits

Mr. Mellis said that the increase so far this month is probably due to the supplementary benefits. These claims are made by employees who lose their employment in the winter months and have either exhausted their benefits to which they are entitled or cannot yet qualify for it.

This form of payment was introduced by the government last February and continued until April 15. This year these benefits will be paid only between January 1 and March 31.

Mr. Mellis said that construction work is almost closed down and will remain so until late March or April.

On Part-time

Three factories in Peterborough are now working on a part-time basis. These employees are mostly drawing funds on the short-time claims. Shortage of orders and materials are given as reasons for this action.

Most of the unemployed drawing money are of the laborer variety. Skilled help such as toolmakers and machinists are in demand.

Soft Drinks Up From 6c to 7c

TORONTO, Jan. 23 (CP). — A soft drink price increase from six to seven cents a bottle was announced today by several large manufacturers.

Drinks to which it applies include Coca Cola, Orange Crush and Seven-up. Canada Dry Ginger Ale in small bottles also goes up to seven cents but the price of large bottles is unchanged. However, most brands will sell at six bottles for 36 cents.

The seven-cent price includes one cent federal tax.

Spokesmen for the manufacturers said that the increase, which they believed was general and country-wide, was due to rising costs of materials and labor. One said the 30-per-cent federal sales tax imposed several months ago reduced volume sales more than the government expected and the drop narrowed the margin of profit.

14,099 Licenses Cars, Trucks Issued In 1950

Totals released by James J. Dorris, local issuer of licence plates show that 14,099 passenger and commercial vehicle licenses were issued in 1950. The complete total for Peterborough County for last year will not be known until the 1951 edition of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce publication, Facts and Figures of the Automobile Industry is released in January, 1952.

2,144 Commercial Vehicles

A breakdown of the 1950 totals show that 11,955 licences were issued for passenger and doctors' cars and 2,144 for commercial vehicles.

The 1950 edition of Facts and Figures recently released give the 1949 total for the county as 13,096—an increase of 877 over the 1948 total of 12,219. This 1949 total included 11,014 passenger vehicle licenses and 2,082 motor truck licenses.

The city total for 1949 was 8,000 licenses—an increase of 481 over 1948.

Other cities in Ontario of Comparative population had the following number of licenses issued in 1949: Kingston, 7,735; Oshawa, 8,100; St. Catharines, 9,268; Brantford, 9,172; Fort William, 6,112.

Coal Price Rise Still "Rumor"

An increase in the price of both hard and soft coal is certain now that new wage increases are being granted miners in the United States coalfields. However, local dealers report no official information on how much the increases are going to be or when they will go into effect.

At present anthracite is retailing in Peterborough at $25.25 a ton and soft coal, depending on quality, between $15 and $20.

A Toronto coal exchange official predicts an increase of 50 cents a ton on soft coal, with hard coal about the same or a little more.

"It's still in the rumor stage as far as we're concerned," was the comment of one of Peterborough's largest coal dealers. "We'll probably know by the end of the month."

TB Stamp Sale Below Objective

A total of $5,826 has been realized by the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association through the sale of Christmas seals. This information was reported by R. B. Arnold, treasurer, at an executive meeting of the association held Monday afternoon.

The members of the association hope to reach and pass last year's total of $6,672 before the campaign ends February 28. Mr. Arnold reported that money is still coming in for payment of seals.

It was decided at the meeting to further the project of contacting patients released from sanitoriums for rehabilitation work. A discussion also took place on new methods of spreading tuberculosis education in the county.

What Facilities Be Provided For Market?

"Arrangements for the new market" are in the hands of City Clerk Outram and Market Clerk Harry Gabbutt as instructed in a motion by Ald. E. C. Braund and Ald. A. B. Burrows at the meeting of the board of works Monday night.

Ald. J. E. Gillespie told the board that the meters "are here and the City Engineer is ready to go ahead, but what about down below?"

What Will Be Cost?

"How much will it cost us to move the other place?" Ald. Harold Rehill asked.

"Practicaly nothing," Ald. Braund said.

It was apparently assumed that the provision of facilities had been sketched for the new place, and as for any definition of detail they were still in a sketchy state.

Ald. Gillespie said he and City Engineer Chalmers "feel that hell will break loose if there isn't something for them down there."

Not Serious Problem

That something is up to Mr. Outram and Mr. Gabbutt to devise and set to hand.

City Clerk Outram said the problem would hardly be as serious as some might anticipate.

"The producers who sell eggs and poultry should be upstairs now," Mr. Outram said. "I think they'll go upstairs and some of the other vendors will move up too".

Seats For Court Gallery, Swivels For Council Magisterial Suites In New City Hall Plans

Cushier days are ahead for the regulars of the gallery who sit in with Magistrate Russell Philp when his court precincts settle down in the new city hall in the shaded block of Water St. opposite St. Paul's Church.

No more will they have to put up with benches. In the new premises they are going to be provided with individual seats in keeping with the dignity of the court and modern ideas of comfort.

That was one of the trends of the thinking of members of the council Monday night as they approached the responsibility of choosing furnishings for the city hall.

It may be swivel chairs for the councillors themselves, instead of the fixed footing of their present seats, used by their predecessors of many years. They even took a vote on that Monday night—to swivel or not to swivel. The swivellers were a majority.

There will be suites for the Magistrate, Crown Attorney, the office of the Mayor and other suitable appointments throughout the building. Lockers will be provided for the staff, and probably the Bell Telephone Company's system of communication between the departments.

Nothing has been bought or ordered yet. Enquiries in the furniture trade have been made by Mr. R. Winter, the council's adviser on various details of the building. It was decided Monday that he and City Clerk Outram draft furnishing plans and get prices.

GUEST SPEAKER at the dinner to former secretary of the YMCA, G. H. Roper, on Wednesday night will be R. S. Hosking, general secretary of the National Council of YMCA's of Canada. Mr. Hosking is a former judge of the Toronto family court.

Disposal Plant Not Ready Until May 1

Completion of the sewage disposal plant is expected by May 1, as reported to the board of works Monday night by Gore and Storrie, Toronto, the city's consulting engineers.

When the contract was let, the completion date was to be 40 weeks from Sept. 8, 1949, or about last July 1. The recent letter from J. G. Powell of Gore and Storrie outlined the progress of work, and quoted a communication from the George Hardy Construction Company, explaining circumstances of delay "beyond our control".

Approximately 75 per cent of the contract is already finished. Remaining work is largely in the secondary treatment section of the plant.

The time estimate was given in good faith, the contractors affirmed in their letter to Gore and Storrie. "Delays have been disappointing to us, as they have been to you and to the city, and have been costly to us".

Series Of Delays

They wrote that the actual award of the contract was six weeks later than they expected, and delivery of reinforcing steel was another set back of nine weeks. Soil conditions were so adverse, that blasting had to be adopted, and well drills used. That preliminary took more time than was anticipated. Further delays occurred in receipts of cement and reinforcing steel.

The contractors outlined the details of work that are planned for February and March, but the grading job will have to be postponed until the frost goes out of the ground in April.

"The extra work exceeded what you and we expected," the contractors wrote "Progress has not been to our satisfaction".

This contract was let on a firm price bid.

Case Also Adjourned

City Solicitor Gets Raw Deal Ald. Miller Says

Another nominee for the embarrassed company of those who plead they were misreported is Crown Attorney John Bradshaw.

In a recent police court story The Examiner reported Mr. Bradshaw as having aspersed the quality of the city bylaws which are drafted by City Solicitor W. F. Huycke.

The city's traffic bylaw was under discussion in police court last Thursday. The Examiner quoted Mr. Bradshaw as having said: "Its a poorly drawn bylaw, as most of the city bylaws are."

To the board of works members Monday night Mr. Huycke said: "Mr. Bradshaw called me up and told me he did not say it."

Ald. Doug Miller said the report was not fair to Mr. Huycke, and also that "every once in a while The Examiner gives some one a raw deal, and I think in this case it was a raw deal."

Mr. Huycke philosophized that in public life one had to wear a thick skin. He said he appreciated the assurance he had received from Mr. Bradshaw that he was incorrectly quoted.

Tired of Being Kidded

The solicitor explained that he "got tired of being kidded" about his bylaws.

He recalled that the traffic bylaw was chiefly a series of accretions from time to time. Much of it was drafted by John R. Cosgery, KC, when he was city solicitor, and the late G. N. Gordon, as member of the Council, had kept an eye on many of the amendments.

"It follows the model bylaw on highway traffic, and I think it is a pretty fair bylaw," Mr. Huycke said.

"If it had been poorly drawn, this Council would have been in a lot of difficulties," said Mayor Swanston.

His worship referred to a recent Examiner item in which the city was assessed $2,508.02 costs in the expropriation of the O'Connell property for a housing subdivision. It was suggested that the city might save itself considerable money in costs if formal tenders were made in the beginning of expropriation proceedings.

"The Examiner killed that one for us," said Mayor Swanston in regard to the Council's offer of $24,000 to Thomas Hughes for his property on Monaghan Road south which is now the subject of expropriation.

The solicitor for Mr. Hughes told The Examiner that he had known the city was going to make an offer before it was brought up in Council and for that reason he decided not to be present with Mr. Hughes when the offer was formally made.

U of T Student Fined $71 In Traffic Case

Found guilty of a charge of dangerous driving, John T. Ward, of Ottawa, an engineering student, at the University of Toronto, was fined $50 and $21.26 costs in police court today.

A charge of careless driving against him was withdrawn by the Crown.

The dangerous driving charge was laid as a result of an accident in which Ward, driving a light English car, crashed into the rear of a stopped dump truck on Highway 7 six miles east of Havelock.

Provincial Constable Jack McKendry testified that the afternoon of Nov. 25 he arrived at the accident about half an hour after it happened. Ward and his three companions in the car had been taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

One passenger was seriously hurt. The other escaped with less serious injuries.

Almost Demolished

Ward's car was about 12 feet behind the truck on the north side of the highway. The front end of the light car was almost demolished.

The stretch of highway was under construction, but the surface was in good condition, and, in both directions from the scene the road is straight and level.

The truck had been stopped waiting to turn left across the highway to the south. He said the driver admitted he gave no signal.

Saw Ward's Car

Edward Post, Marmora, a flag man for the construction company working on the highway said he was stationed at the out-going lane from the gravel pit. He said it was his job to watch traffic on the highway and signal trucks coming onto the highway when it was safe. He saw the Ward car pass him, but didn't signal it. That was not part of his duties, he said.

He said he heard Ward say "I don't know how I could be so stupid to drive up this highway and run into this truck."

George Wellman, another construction worker, said he traced the tracks of Ward's car back 150 feet and found "no indication of the application of brakes." He said the truck would be visible for one quarter of a mile up the highway.

He added that a truck was coming in the opposite direction about 400 feet away.

Said "Whoa!"

George Wannamaker, foreman, said he saw the truck stop on the highway and then looked back and saw the Ward car coming. He said he realized immediately there was going to be a crash and stepped out onto the highway waving his arms and shouted "Whoa!"

Ward said he was driving about 35 miles an hour just before he saw the truck. His memory of the events leading to the accident was imperfect, he said.

When he was about 125 feet from the stopped truck, he saw it, immediately jammed on his brakes and swung his wheel to the right.

The car lurched, but it didn't decrease its speed or change its direction. He skidded straight on into the rear of the truck.

He said a film of clay on the wet road, made the surface very slippery. He agreed that he had seen many warning signs along the way before the accident.

His two passengers, Dalton Cross and Edward Spencer, both university students corroborated his story.

The county solicitor, F. D. Kerr, K.C., will be consulted on the apportionment of costs in transferring prisoners from municipalities to the county jail.

(This was introduced by Reeve Ernest Seeney, of Havelock, who said that the village was at the junction of Highways 7 and 30, as well as being a railway centre, and thus had an unusually large number of seeming vagrants. It is an expensive proposition for the municipality to bring them into Peterborough by taxi, he pointed out, and he would like to know if the county could work out some way of assisting the village financially.)

The Administration of Justice committee—composed of Warden Pearson, Reeves Grant, Gifford and Wilson, the county clerk and county solicitor—have been given power to act to look after the county's interests in any arbitration proceedings that may arise between the county and the city over the apportionment of administration of justice costs.

Look Into Costs At Jail

At the March session that committee will also bring back to council a report on jail costs and how these are divided between the county and the province. The finance committee will look into the setting up of a pension plan (approved in principle by council) and will bring back their recommendations, also at the March session.

Association of Rural Municipalities, membership fee, $10.

Association of Assessing Officers of Ontario, membership fee, $10.

A request to the Department of Highways for an increased appropriation of $20,000 on roads and bridges expenditure. And that $18,000 be approved for Suburban Area purposes.

The road rate set at six mills for 1951, and a half mill levied for bridge purposes.

County fish, game and tourist committee, $100.

Payment of fee for the Ontario Municipal Association and the warden and county clerk to attend.

To the city of Peterborough for the upkeep of Victoria Park, $100.

Apsley Outpost Red Cross Hospital, $250.

To the village of Lakefield, a retainer fee of $50 for use of the fire fighting equipment should it be needed at the Old People's Home.

Dental Health committee, $30.

County's share of maintaining Family Court, $2,000.

A half mill to be levied this year towards hosoital deficits. Two thirds of the levy will go to the Civic and the remaining third to St. Joseph's. If necessary the committee will consider further the indigent patient deficit at the March session.

The property committees and the chairman of the finance committee are to see if the acoustics in the courtroom can be improved. They are given power to act. The property committee also has power to act in erecting parking signs in front of the Courthouse building.

Says TC Highway Should Be Built For The Future

QUEBEC, Jan. 23 (CP).—The Trans-Canada highway should be "built for the future" so that changes or improvements will not have to be made almost immediately after it is finished, J. M. Wardle urged today in an address to the Canadian Construction Association.

Mr. Wardle, director of the engineering and water resources branch, Department of Resources and Development, Ottawa, added:

"Highway standards keep improving. Are we going to build sections of this highway this year or next year that will be just right for 1956 (the year it is scheduled for completion) or even a little obsolete, or will we build to a standard that will be right in 1965. The latter is the objective that I think every federal and provincial authority must keep in mind."

Let 100 Contracts

So far, federal-provincial agreements in connection with trans-Canada highway building have been made with eight provinces (all except Nova Scotia and Quebec). One hundred contracts with a minimum total value of $22,000,000 have been let in these provinces, with federal approval, for grading, gravelling, paving and bridge work.

For the fiscal year beginning April 1 next, Mr. Wardle stated, provincial programs for new construction alone will involve expenditures of some $50,000,000, with the federal government contributing half. In the case of prior construction, the eight provinces expect to submit claims in 1951-52 of approximately $17,500,000.

"To what extent world conditions may affect this program, no one can say at this time."

Eton College ToBeModernized

ETON, England —(CP)— Eton College, one of Britain's oldest and most exclusive institutions of learning, is to undergo a costly face-lifting under a £1,000,000 ($3,000,000) re-building and modernization scheme.

To help defray the bill more than 12,000 letters are being addressed to graduates all over the world, appealing for contributions to the fund. Among the graduates are men of great wealth, including sons of royal families and aristocracy of many countries.

One building alone, to accommodate 45 pupils, will cost approximately £100,000 but the program provides for reconstruction of nearly all the boys' houses associated with the 500-year-old college.

The plans also call for modernization of the science school as well as restoration of the 15th-century chapel and other ancient buildings.

For centuries the boys of Eton have done their bathing in the Thames. Because of river pollution, however, the authorities are considering installation of a large college swimming-pool.

Chinese Resurrect Grenadiers But Short Throws Ineffective

By STAN SWINTON.

TOKYO, Jan. 23 (AP). — The Chinese Communist army has resurrected a colorful figure out of the military past—the grenadier.

He is not working very well, UN evaluation reports disclose. His grenades are no good.

Chinese grenadiers do not carry rifles. Their only weapons are small potato-masher concussion grenades.

Red officers either use the grenadiers as a first wave or pass them through the first wave as soon as possible.

When they are less than 50 yards from UN lines the Chinese start tossing grenades. The trouble is the weak-armed enemy has muscles training for lifting and pulling instead of throwing.

Most of them, throwing an underhand loop, can't heave a grenade more than 20 to 25 yards.

The average American infantryman can throw hand grenades accurately 30 to 40 yards on the flatlands. In the heat of combat he often throws up to 50 yards.

US soldiers express contempt for the Chinese grenades and grenadiers. The grenade makes a lot of noise but almost never kills or seriously wounds anyone. Not being the fragmentation type, it throws only light splinters.

Casualties are tremendous among the Chinese grenadiers. They have no rifles to defend themselves and have to expose their bodies to throw grenades.

After 44 Years In Business H. T. Millard Has Retired

A little more than 51 years ago, a young man came to Peterborough to work for the CGE. He stayed with that company seven years, and then bought a bicycle repair business.

Since 1906, when he bought the bicycle shop, H. T. Millard has moved twice, both times into larger stores. He made a third move last Saturday, and retired from the sporting goods business.

Bicycle Repair Shop

In December, 1906, Mr. Millard bought Metheral's bicycle repair shop on Hunter St., and started into the sporting goods business in a small way. He kept that store until 1929 when he bought White Brothers store on Charlotte St.

While there, he went into the sporting goods business in a bigger way, specializing in fishing tackle. In 1948, he moved to new quarters, farther west on Charlotte St., opposite the clinic.

Recently, he concluded the sale of his store and stock to two brothers from Toronto—George and Ralph Hutchison. Last week, Mr. Millard retired after 44 years in the sporting goods business.

"When I first went into business there were no autos in Peterborough," he said. "The first ones were owned by a man named Robert Hicks, a Dr. Halliday and Mr. Eastwood of the Bank of Commerce."

The fishing situation has changed since then, too, said Mr. Millard. Not uneil 1908 were the first pickerel caught in district waters. He said that a load of pickerel fry was being taken to water east of here by a provincial government truck.

"They were told not to dump them in Rice Lake, but they did because they didn't want to go any further." After a while, said Mr. Millard, the pickerel were being caught in the Otonabee within the city limits and only a few men knew the fish were in the river.

"I only had one customer who knew the pickerel were there," he said.

Mr. Millard calculated that the sale of fishing tackle has increased 200 to 300 per cent in the past 20 years. "I'm fond of fishing myself," he said. "That's why I've taken such an interest in it."

New owners of the store are George and Ralph Hutchison, both of Toronto. George Hutchison worked in Toronto for six years with sporting goods firms—Cole's and Harry B. Kennedy. Ralph was a traveller, not connected with sporting goods.

United States Demands Russia Return Two Films

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP). —The United States has demanded that Russia cease showing and return two American movies which have been exhibited in a mutilated or "distorted" form.

The State Department announced Monday that the demand was served on the foreign office by the Moscow embassy. The pictures are "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

Both are pre-Second World War productions.

In Russia they have been shown recently with distortions which show conditions in the United States in a more-unfavorable light than the originals.

In the case of "Mr. Deeds," the State Department said the ending was cut off so that the hero — played by Gary Cooper—was shown being committed to a mental hospital because he wanted to use his money to help farm victims of the depression.

Reporters were told that "Mr. Smith" also was distorted. Jimmy Stewart played the lead on this film, which was based on the efforts of a newcomer to Washington to remedy political corruption.

Delegates appointed to the Fairs Convention, District No. 3, to be held in Belleville, January 26 are: Mrs. Flex McMillan, Mrs. Ray McCracken, Mrs. C. W. Varcoe and Mrs. Neil Sherwin; Clarke Sandercock, Isaac Skuce, James Thompson.

The president, F. J. Slade, presided over the business period with C. W. Varcoe, secretary. The treasurer, Bart Thackeray reported a substantial balance on hand in spite of adverse weather conditions on fair days, 1950.

C. W. Varcoe was presented with a purse of money from the fair board in the form of a bonus in recognition of efficient service as secretary during the past years.

A vote of thanks was tendered Delbert J. Varcoe as supervisor of the merry-go-round.

Charlton Grigg and Harry Doxtator were appointed a committee to act in conjunction with the junior farmers to sponsor a calf or swine club in connection with the fair.

The society will sponsor three field crop competitions in connection with the fair. The crops will be fall wheat, barley and oats. The committee in charge are A. J. Campbell, Charlton Grigg and Bart Thackeray.

Correspondenec was received and read by C. W. Varcoe regarding a fifty-lent admission wee for rural fairs. Members of the Fair Board were in favour of that admission fee.

This will be voted on at the district meetings.

All Work For Nothing

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 23 —(AP) —Seven prisoners in solitary confinement at the Idaho State Penitentiary sawed their wayy out of their cells and were digging out of the cell block when caught about midnight Monday night, Wardes L. E. Clapp said four men used a hacksaw blade to cut the bars of their cells and then freed three others in adjoining cells in the block.

Snow, snow..the gang's all here

Snow usually brings lusty cheers from the children. For them, it's a signal of happy hours ahead, filled with fun and sport.

But grown-ups, with a walk or driveway to shovel, don't always burst into "Bravo" when they look upon a heavy snowfall.

Shovelling snow can be healthful exercise—if you are in good physical shape. Don't go at it too grimly. Take it easy—rest often—let the children help, too. If the fall is too heavy or you are beyond the snow-shovelling age, better turn the job over to a husky youngster.

LUNCH IS A QUICK, CHEAP AFFAIR for Louis Solomon as he drinks a glass of water in his office. The Montreal businessman has completed his 17 days of fasting, living solely on warm water. His 30-day fast has become an annual affair and he says he finds it no problem not to eat. Solomon thinks dieting is much more difficult than a full fast. Mahatma Gandhi had nothing on Louis Solomon, of Montreal, when it comes to fasting. Solomon reached the 17th day without food a few days ago and felt fine. A 56-year-old businessman, he started to fast Jan. 3rd and since that time has existed solely on warm water. He plans to continue to fast until nature tells him to eat, a matter of some 30 days in the Solomon experience.

An account of the annual Christmas gym party was read and showed this to be the co-operative work of many people in an effort for its success. The decision was made to hold a large gym pageant again this year, as many people now look forward to it as an annual event where they may see and enjoy the result of the winter months of ballet and gym instruction. A "health frolic" on February 1st is to open health week.

President Mrs. T. J. Carley conducted the meeting.

CUTTING THE CAKE at the reception following their wedding on Saturday are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Potter. The bride is the former Louise Jarvis.

Velma Lewis Wed Donald Anderson

At the Full Gospel Pentecostal Church on Saturday Miss Velma Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Lewis, 151 Park St., became the bride of Mr. Donald S. Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Anderson, also of Peterborough.

Setting for the ceremony was pink and white snapdragon with ferns and the Rev. Fred H. Parlee officiated. Mrs. Cunningham played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was gowned in white satin made with lace front and fingertip sleeves. Her veil in fingertip length was nylon net caught with a white feather headdress and she carried a bouquet of red roses. Miss Shirley Anderson, sister of the groom, was her only attendant. She wore a green taffeta frock and matching headdress and carried pink carnations.

The groomsman was Mr. Jack Gibson and the ushers Robert Scriver and Norman Jones.

The reception was held in Hooper's Palm Room where the bride's mother received, dressed in navy with black accessories. She was assisted by the groom's mother who wore a royal blue dress with hat to match. Each wore a corsage of pink roses.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left for Ottawa. The bride travelled in a navy suit with rust accessories. On return they will live in Peterborough.

Lovely Colors Featured In New Gowns

By DOROTHY WADDINGTON

LONDON, Jan. 23 (Reuters).—"Washing day" was the name of one of the most glamorous models in the new spring collection shown by Norman Hartnell, Queen Elizabeth's dressmaker, for the first time Monday.

It featured Hartnell's new winged lapels, ending in a halter neckline leaving the back bare. Designed for evening wear, it was made of stiff white pique which appeared to have come straight from the laundry. A suggestion of youth was given by large patterned "Broderie Anglaise" on the lapels and on the skirt below the kneeline.

The outstanding characteristic of the collection was a beautiful blending of colors, especially for evening gowns—deep violet with turquoise blue, pastel shades of blue, green and pink combined with white in a harlequin pattern picked out in irredescent pearls, syringa green tulle with sprays of white flowers.

More Vivid Colors

Daytime colors were more vivid. A beautiful suit appropriately named "moss rose" was in dark green, silky-finished wool with a small waistcoat in old rose. Yellow in various shades, often with greens, black and royal purple, red and vivid blues, were other color combinations for the daylight hours.

Suit jackets generally were longer and tight-fitting; skirts were shorter, slender and hip-moulding, but giving sufficient freedom of movement. Raglan sleeves gave way to the more-conventional inset shoulder line.

Dots of all sizes dominated the printed summer fabrics for garden parties with large flat-crowned cartwheel hats in transparent straws, pique and other materials.

Sodality Makes Plans For Dance

After the Sunday evening Holy Hour, St. Peter's Senior Sodality adjourned to St. Mary's School. Prefect Miss Helen Strano opened the meeting.

All other business was set aside so that final preparations for the sodality's formal could be made. The "Snow Ball" dance will take place Friday evening, in the Nurses' Residence of St. Joseph's Hospital. The prefect asked the sodalists to make all their returns on tickets by Wednesday. Every sodalist and every committee chairman was asked to give her utmost co-operation towards making the "Snow Ball" a huge success.

The monthly panel discussion centred around "Catholic Education." Director of the forum was Miss Marion Downer. The panel was composed of Miss Anne Walsh, Miss Helen Cummings, Miss Marion McTeague and Miss Pat Eggleton. Questions such as "Why are we, as Catholics, interested in having our own schools? Does the church by keeping her own schools set up a division? What are the problems facing our city schools today?" helped to clarify many points which were debated in a recent news item.

Production-Line Cookies From Sturdy Cookie Press

A not-too - expensive sturdy cookie press may be purchased in Canadian hardware stores and departments. For those who go into the cookie making business seriously it is a fine piece of equipment.

There is a definite knack to using a cookie press, and those who make the investment must practise a little to perfect their technique.

The butter content of the cookies is of major importance and the recipe must not be tampered with. If you do not have all of the ingredients on hand that are required, do not try to substitute. Wait until you can shop for them.

Cookie Press Cookies

One cup butter, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, 2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, pinch of salt. Cream the butter for at least 5 minutes, before slowly adding the sugar. Continue creaming until these two are a fine creamy blend. Add the egg yolks only and mix well. Sift the flour, baking powder and salt together and sift them into the first mixture and mix in well. Shape through cookie press using various shaped discs and place on unbuttered cookie sheet. Brush with egg whites, unbeaten, and sprinkle top with coloured sugar. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes watching very closely.

Molasses Spice Cookies

One-half cup butter or very best quality shortening, ½ cup sugar, 1 egg, ¼ cup molasses, 2½ cups sifted cake flour, ¼ teaspoon baking soda, ¼ teaspoon each salt, allspice, cloves, mace, ½ teaspoon each cinnamon, ginger. Cream the shortening very well, then gradually cream the sugar into it. Add the egg and beat it in. Add the molasses and beat it in. Sift the flour, baking soda, salt and spices together and sift them into the creamed mixture. Fill the cookie press and form into desired shapes. Bake at a little under 400 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes.

Variations of Cookie Press Cookies

Chocolate: One-half cup best shortening or butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 squares melted unsweetened chocolate, 1 beaten egg, 2½ cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon baking soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons cream, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Mix same as above, adding the melted chocolate to the sugar-butter mixed with the egg.

Cinnamon: One-half cup butter or best shortening, 1 cup sugar, 4 well-beaten egg yolks, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Mix same as first cookies.

Peanut Butter: One cup shortening or shortening and butter half and half, 2 tablespoons peanut butter, 1 cup powdered sugar, 1 well-beaten egg, 2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Almond Wafers: Grind through fine knife of grinder ½ cup blanched almonds and 5 unblanched almons. Mix with 1 beaten egg and ¾ cup sugar. Cream ¾ cup butter and mix with first ingredients. Mix in 2¼ cups sifted cake flour.

Presentation Made Organist

CAVAN, Jan. 23 (ENS). — On Thursday evening the congregational meeting of Cavan United Church was held in the Sunday school room. A pot luck supper was served at 6:30 and there were 55 members present.

Highlight of the meeting was the presentation of a rocking chair to Mrs. A. B. Kennedy, who has been organist of the church for 30 years. A committee has been appointed to engage someone to take her place.

The Rev. T. G. Husser, pastor of the church, was in the chair and conducted the business meeting.

Reports of the various organizations of the church were read and the secretary, Mr. O. V. Carley reported the receipts for 1950, including the balance from 1949 of $1,378.00. The expenditures for 1950 amounted to $1,361.00.

At the election of officers Milton Wright and Lloyd Sutton were appointed as elders and added to the existing membership of seven. The stewards were reappointed for 1951.

Honorariums were granted to the organist and secretary-treasurer for their services during 1950 and a vote of thanks was tendered to the minister following a report of his pastoral work in 1950.

A plan was adopted changing the hour of public worship from 7 p.m. to 2 p.m. with the lesson period of the church school from 3 to 3:30 p.m. This change takes place January 28 and continues until the end of March.

DOROTHY DIX

Smart Girl Often Finds Difficult to Get Mate

DEAR MISS DIX: I don't want a career. I don't prefer single blessedness to married life. But, at the same time, I feel that I would not be satisfied with husband less well educated than myself. So what am I to do Boys are afraid of intelligence in girls and I have that handicap. Also, while I am not ugly I am no Miss America. Another disadvantage is that boys do not like to go with a girl who has not a waiting list for week-end dates unless they are unattractive themselves, and I would not want to go with a boy no one else wanted to dote. So what is there far a girl who wants to be popular? So far my sense of humor has saved me, but even that is getting low. L.F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, my dear, if you have a sense of humor, you have at least one charm to conjure with, and it is the most enduring one and the most potent one in any woman's bag of tricks.

It Won't Fade

Moreover, a sense of humor does not fade as beauty fades. It is good for the long pull of matrimony. If you will notice the old married couples who are joggling along comfortable together toward their golden wedding day, you will find that in almost every instance the wife is a jolly woman who is cheerful and easy to live with and who has laughed off her husband's little faults and peculiarities instead of making tragedies out of them.

It is a good policy to take what you can get, and like it, rather than waste your life in longings after the unattainable. Many a man who never saw the inside of a college has acquired the highest and broadest and most profound of all educations in the University of Hard' Knocks. Many a man whose grammar is rickety is all there when it comes to love and tenderness and kindness to his wife. If no woman married until she found her ideal the wedding bells would cease to ring.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am deeply in love with a young girl whose parents are divorced. Although her mother has legal custody of her, she loves her father the most and blames the mother for the separation. She has had a pretty hard road to go and hence is down on matrimony. Although she loves me, she is afraid that if we were married it would end unhappily. What can I say to her that will make her change her mind and realize that because her parents' marriage was a failure ours need not be?

A. C. W.

ANSWER: You can tell her that marriage is like everything else in life—an individual experiment—and because one person does not make a go of it is no sign that another will not do so. The world would stop still if we were all afraid to undertake any adventure because someone else had failed at it.

It is natural that a girl who has been the victim of an unhappy marriage should look upon marriage with apprehension, but for that very reason she is the more likely to make her own marriage a success. She has seen the bitter end to which family quarrels can come and that will make her the more careful to keep her own home peaceful. She has seen how a husband and wife can antagonize each other until they kill love and so she will take the more trouble to placate her husband and do everything to retain his affections.

Most of all, she has known the misery of a child uprooted from its home, torn between its parents, its little life blighted by their feuds, and so she will be very careful to shield her own children from such a fate.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I have been married a year and a half. We have incurred debts. eH earns a fair salary, but not enough for us to live in a halfway decent way, so I am working. My husband thinks that I should pool my salary with his and pay our debts. I am willing to do this, but after they have been paid, should I put the money in a general fund or have my own bank account? I know if I want to keep my salary and keep mum about its use my husband would feel that he had the same privilege. What about it?

BETWIXT AND BETWEEN.

ANSWER: Why not compromise on a joint bank account? But I don't see how you can mingle business with marriage. If you don't trust your husband enough to believe he will deal fairly with you about money, you have not much faith in him.

Marriage Bureau In Great Demand By Czech Couples

PRAGUE—(AP)—The municipal marriage bureau, Prague's gift to the lazy bridegroom, is catching on with people bent on matrimony.

"Svatka," as the office is called, was set up at the end of 1949 to handle all wedding details from sending out the invitations right on through the honeymoon trip.

In its first year, "Svatka" has just announced through the newspaper Lidova Demokracie, the bureau took care of 1,700 weddings. The total of Prague marriages in 1950 has not been made public, but in a normal year they run around 30,000.

The marriage bureau also answered 10,500 questions, got 780 cars for weddings and arranged special low airplane rates for 131 honeymooning couples.

About 2,000 of the questions were about the 36,000-crown ($720) loan that every pair of newlyweds can get from the Communist-led government. The couple is given 10 years to pay it back. Meanwhile, 6,000 crowns are knocked off the debt for every child born.

Civil Marriage

The family code of Jan. 1, 1950, requires a civil marriage ceremony before a local governmental body called a national committee. The bride and groom can arrange a church wedding later if they like. The bride, if she chooses, can keep her maiden name.

The marriage bureau provides each couple with all necessary documents and arranges for special food and clothing rations and furniture allocations.

It sends out invitations, announcements and acknowledgments, gets cars and lodging for the wedding guests and flowers for the bride; arranges the wedding breakfast and sets up the honeymoon trip.

"Svatka" set a speed record one day when a would-be bridegroom showed up at eight in the morning and announced he wanted to get married right away. The wedding was performed an hour and a half later at a district national committee headquarters.

The bureau's youngest bride of 1950 was 16. Its oldest groom was 71.

Pioneer Midwife Aided By Friends

MINNEDOSA, Man. — (CP).—Mrs. Karolina Johnson, 97 this month, rallied around her neighbors in pioneer days.

As midwife and doctor's assistant, in days when doctors were few, Mrs. Johnson was called on whenever sickness struck the community.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Johnson fell and fractured her hip. Now the neighbors are rallying around her.

Dozens of people now in middle-age, at whose birth Mrs. Johnson was present, were among friends and neighbors who beat a path to her bed in Minnedosa District Hospital.

Mrs. Johnson came here in 1886 from Sweden. She lived in a sod shanty and helped her husband clear bush and put land under cultivation.

Life As Artist Commenced After 73 Years

STUTTGART, Germany—(AP)—Life as a painter began at 73 for an American great-grandmother in Germany.

Mrs. George L. Erion came here from Litle Rock, Arkansas, to join her son, George L. Erion, Jr., who is employed by the U.S. high commission in Germany.

That was three years ago. Up to that time her art activities had been limited to weaving rugs. But she had always wanted to paint. So Mrs. Erion began taking lessons at the age of 73.

She proved more than an apt pupil. She soon began turning out landscapes and still-lifes of professional calibre. Many of her canvasses have been shown in public exhibitions.

Now, at 76, she wishes only that she had begun painting a few decades earlier.

Likes Planes Too

Mrs. Erion's enthusiasm for new adventures is not limited to painting. She took her first airplane ride recently.

"My son George wanted to see if I would be as perky on an airplane," she smiled. "So he accompanied me on the plane from Frankfurt to Berlin. It was a test flight for me but I stood the trip better than he did".

Now she plans to fly back to the United States soon for a visit.

Mrs. Erion plans to continue her art studies in Munich, where her son is being transferred as chief of the U.S. high commission's economic affairs division for two German states.

There she will be near her two great-grandchildren. Their father, George L. Erion III, is a U.S. air force pilot at a base near Munich.

Since coming to Germany, Mrs. Erion has toured France, Switzerland and most of Germany. She plans to tour Australia next.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"My dear, I think you held out your hand at the wrong time!"

What's Right

Your young child does something that is both naughty and funny.

WRONG: Tell about it in front of him.

RIGHT: If you tell the story for a laugh, be sure the child is not within earshot.

BRITAIN GROWS

The number of school-children in Britain in 1953 will be 1,000,000 more than in 1947.

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 23 (CP) —Salary increases of $300 a year were granted approximately 52 secondary school teachers by the board of education last night.

The increase climaxed seven months of negotiations between the board and teachers' representatives.

Last November, spokesmen for secondary teachers had refused an offer of a $200 increase and asked an $800 raise. Representatives of city public school teachers acepted a $200 boost at that time.

Chairman Gavin H. Young said he expected the new offer would be accepted. It is retroactive from Jan. 1, and will be effective until salary schedules for the new school term are drawn up next fall.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 23 — (AP)— Argentine railroad workers went out on strike at midnight for the third time in three months. Strike leaders hoped to gain control of the railway union, which is now controlled by the government-sponsored General Labor Federation. The previous strikes were in support of pay demands.

Expect Eisenhower Will Give Informal Report Next Week

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (AP) —Administration leaders told Congress Monday Gen. Dwight E. Eisenhower will report formally on the outlook for reinforcing the defences of Western Europe Tuesday or Wednesday next week.

The report will follow his return from a European inspection tour in his capacity as supreme military commander for the Atlantic pact countries.

What Eisenhower says is expected to bear compelling influence on the attitude of Congress toward committing more American troops to duty east of the Atlantic.

It appears now that a majority of the 531 Congress members will support the dispatch of additional American forces abroad to join the international army of the pact allies. The big question now appears to be how many, and under what conditions.

Even Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, the Republican policy leader who favors placing the country's main dependence on absolute control of the sea and the air, conceded during the weekend that he is willing to send some U.S. troops to Europe. He emphasized, however, that he will insist on some sort of a limit.

Speak Informally

The prospective Eisenhower report to members of Congress was disclosed by Democratic leaders after a conference with President Truman Monday. House Speaker Sam Rayburn said Eisenhower would not address a formal joint session of Congress, but instead probably would speak informally to the members of House and Senate in the auditorium of the Library of Congress, at a session open to the press.

The Senate has agreed to vote tomorrow on what to do with a proposal by Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican floor leader, to forbid sending any further U.S. troops to Europe until Congress acts on the policy involved.

President Truman claims the power to dispatch troops to aid Europe's defence buildup, but has said he will consult Congressional committees about it.

Senator Brien McMahon (Dem., Conn.) renewed a proposal he made a year ago for a $50,000,000,000, five-year program of economic aid, financed by the U.S. and open to all countries, including Russia, as a means of promoting peace. In return, he would insist upon acceptance of effective international control of atomic energy, and an agreement that all countries earmark two-thirds of their present armament budgets for peaceful and constructive purposes.

McMahon, chairman of the joint committee on atomic energy and a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said that unless the United States acts boldly, "war is inevitable."

New Artificial Hands EvenHaveFingerprints

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (AP) —Artificial hands so amazingly lifelike that they even have fingerprints were described Monday at a conference of makers of "spare parts" for the human body.

The hands, made of a new plastic, are encased in soft plastic gloves which have the texture of living skin and are moulded from the hands of live models.

These gloves carry fingerprints, scars or other peculiarities of the model's hands, therefore the fingerprints are registered with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Experts can detect the difference between glove prints and natural fingerprints.

The hands are said to be 70 per cent efficient compared with 22-per-cent efficiency in the best artificial hands made in 1945.

An automatic "clutch" gives the amputee a finger touch so delicate that he can hold an egg witthout crushing it, or enough power to crack the bones in a human hand.

He Wasn't Worried

The second cup game saw the Legion No. 7 and Fire Hall No. 9 as opponents. The fire fighters started off like a house afire and were leading 5-0 going into the 5th frame, but that was all for them and they lost 7-5. The second game was Legion all the way by a score of 11-3.

The balance of the cup games should be played at once as they are holding up play in the second round.

The draw for the second round of the President's Cup is: Winners No. 4 and 10 vs Winners No. 8 and 5 Glens No. 6 vs Legion No. 7 Winners of No. 1 and No. 2 a bye.

Marines Go Well

Peterborough Marines, as a team and as individuals, have a fair record to meet Oshawa Grads with Wednesday night. The Oshawa game will be the Marines' first away tilt, two out-of-towns games being postponed.

In the three home games to date the Marines have won three, totalling 192 points for an average of 64 a game, and 92 points against, 30.6 a game. The locals brought the axe down on the Grads in the first fray 64-19, Bowmanville the second 55-40, and Whitby the third 73-33.

Jim Thorburn, the one-hand-hook artist, and Ted Payne, an opportunist, are two reasons why the Marines have been winning by such large scores. Both players boast a 16-point average for the three games. Fred Plate, a newcomer to local basketball this year who sank between 20 and 30 points a game in YMCA house league before Christmas, has an average of 11.3. Guard Doug MacPherson has stood out on the defensive plays as well as having a scoring average of 7.3 points a game.

Saturday night the Marines are hosts at the YMCA gym to Cobourg.

Unearth Information On Antiquity Of Falls

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 23—(CP)—Maybe a prehistoric man dragged his mate here on a honeymoon millions of years ago.

Engineers from the United States Army Corps don't go that far but they do provide some information bearing on the antiquity of the falls.

The engineers reported the rock formations underlying Niagara Falls are sedimentary rocks of the silurian period. And the silurian period is a geological term for a formation of limestone formed hundreds of millions of years ago, before the ice age.

The U.S. engineers are studying the falls wth a view to beautifying them and increasing their power output.

Frenchman Far From Home Fights Because Belief In UN

By TOM BRADSHAW.

ON THE CENTRAL FRONT IN KOREA, Jan. 23 (AP).—At the moment Pte. Gilbert Hubert is a long way from the little book shop he once operated in the French alpine skiing resort of Val Disere.

Being absent from his beloved show is not to Gilbert's liking, but it is a separation of his own choosing.

Gilbert is a Frenchman—but beyond that he is an ardent believer in the brotherhood of man. That's why he shouldered arms to fight against German and Italian aggression in the Second World War. And that's why he volunteered to accompany the French detachment to Korea.

Back in Val Disere, Gilbert Hubert was a man of no little consequence. He was a respected business man and something of a scholar. Moreover, he loves to ski and in Val Disere there is much skiing.

Why does a man such as Gilbert Hubert leave his wife, his books and his favorite skis to journey half way around the world in search of trouble?

"I believe in the United Nations," explains Gilbert. "I came to Korea to fight against the ignorance of so many people."

Gilbert's sacrifice becomes all the more remarkable when you examine the schedule of his every-day duties.

He is the personal orderly to the commanding officer of the French detachment, Lt.-Col. Ralph Charles Montclar, a four-star general who took a considerable reduction in rank to come over.

As the commander's orderly, Gilbert cooks, sews, sweeps, chops wood and last—but far from least—absorbs the explosive and frequent wrath of the man he serves so well.

Montclar, former inspector-general of the French Foreign Legion is not a hard man to get along with, but there are moments when the situation affects his temperament. Gilbert usually is the handiest target.

Gilbert accepts such outbursts philosophically and merely says, "Oui, mon General."

That's the sort of guy Gilbert Hubert is.

Winnipeg Guards Power Terminal

WINNIPEG —(CP)— It cost nearly $200,000 and the work of scores of men to save hydro's main power terminal during the 1950 spring flood.

Now Winnipeg is spending $300,000 on a steel and concrete rampart to ensure lasting protection of its River Avenue station. The rampart will protect the station to a flood level of 36 feet—almost six feet higher than last spring's peak.

Crews have worked since early November driving sheets of steel into the frozen ground around the station.

Wooden piles will help support a heavy concrete slab which, in turn, will carry the weight of a concrete wall 10 feet above ground level.

When completed in March, the city-financed dike will actually form a secondary line of defence for the station. Primary protection will be a dike built by the Greater Winnipeg Diking Board to shield the entire area.

Find Red Pamphlets In Cargo To Britain

HULL, England (CP) — When the freighter Katy docked here from East Germany, stevedores unloading her cargo of lumber uncovered a new technique in "iron curtain" propaganda. Hidden among the timber they found several parcels, addressed to the dockworkers of Britain.

Inside were bundles of leaflets urging their support of "Port Wismar peace committee." Sketches of bombed houses, captioned "war and misery" were also included.

In large block letters, the leaflets urged: "Refuse loading and discharging of ammunition and arms and you will give the best assistance to all those who are endeavoring to avoid a new war. Be on your guard for the imperialists are trying to find a way for a new fearful conflict. Defend with all means the peace of the world."

Jay Whittington Elected President Of Millbrook Agricultural Society

MILLBROOK, Jan. 23 (ENS)—Jay Whittington, of South Monaghan, was elected president of the Millbrook Agricultural Society at the annual meeting. He replaces Gordon Staples, of Cavan, who has been president the past two years. Vice-presidents elected were Roy Ferren, of Cavan, and Harry Young, Peterborough.

It was decided that the positions of secretary and manager, left vacant by the resignation of Bruce Sargent, of Ida, should be filled at a later meeting to be held at 8 p.m., Jan. 27. At this meeting the treasurer also will be selected. Whether or not a display of photographs taken at the 1950 fair is to be sent, as in other years, to the convention of Agricultural Societies in Toronto will also be decided then. On a motion by J. Rickard and L. McNeil it was voted that on this board all associate directors as well as the 12 directors, who ordinarily are the only ones voting,d have votes. The 12 directors appointed at the agricultural society meeting for the following classes were: Clydesdales, L. W. Smith and C. Brackenridge; Percherons, Elias White and Gar. Robinson; heavy harness, L. W. Smith, Millbrook; standard hackney, J. J. Powell, Millbrook; saddle horses, J. Whittington; light harness, J. J. Powell; Jersey cattle, Harry Young; Shorthorns, John Rickard, of Newcastle; Aberdeens, Ted McDowell, Millbrook; Herefords, Mervin Smith, R.R. 1, Cavan; Yorkshire swine, Leonard McNeil, R.R. 1, Fraserville; director of work among juniors, Gerald Larmer, Millbrook; associate directors, Gordon Staples, S. Donaldson, J. H. McKnight, Bruce Sargent, Garnet Whitfield, Eric Fallis, R. O. Larmer, E. Kelk, Lloyd Hooton, Heber Downes, P. I. Bentley, R. Hanbidge, Clarence Johnston, Delbert Olan, Harold Bradburn, Roy Ferren, Russell Darling, Rev. T. J. Husser, Leonard Henderson, J. J. Strange.

It was decided the 1951 fair should be held on Wednesday, June 6.

The retiring president, Mr. Gordon Staples, thanked those who had helped to make the two years of which he had been president a success. He did not take the credit for the success himself. The centennial year, 1949, had broken all previous records for attendance. 1950 was down a little in attendance and prize list, but was still better than other years. He felt that this was a good livestock district and that there was a definite place for a fair. More good publicity was needed.

P. I. Bentley, the treasurer, reported total receipts for the year to be $3,306.30, and bank balance on hand to be $820.86. One year ago at this time it was $295.45.

A prize list of $1,430.00 had been offered, and of this $914.50 had been collected in prizes.

Bruce Sargent, the secretary, moved that the certificate of merit which had been awarded to S. S. Staples before his death, but which had not been presented, should be sent to Mrs. Staples. Leonard Smith moved that a letter of condolence be sent to Mrs. Staples and her daughters, expressing the feelings of the society in the loss of the organizer of the show, Mr. Staples. Both motions carried.

It was decided that the incoming president and secretary should be the society's delegates to the convention of Agricultural Societies being held Feb. 8 and 9 in Toronto.

It was decided the chief weakness lay in lack of entertainment for children. Public school children are admitted free. It was decided that a merry-go-round should be provided; a tractor rod o was suggested by Leonard Smith, and bicycle races by Rev. T. G. Husser. It was recommended t at any director who found it impossible to attend should secure a reliable substitute.

Leonard McNeil moved a vote of thanks to the executive of St. Andrew's United Church W.A. for serving refreshments, Mrs. John McKnight, W.A. president, replied.

BC Male Nurse Is Just "One of the Girls"

VANCOUVER, Jan.— (CP) — James Bullen says he's just "one of the girls."

The 32-year-old native of Victoria, B.C., is the first male nurse to graduate from a British Columbia hospital.

Bullen, a member of the Canadian Army Medical Corps during the Second World War, recently received his nursing diploma along with 45 girls.

He is the great-grandson of British Columbia's first doctor—Dr. J. S. Helmcken—and studied nursing "because it would have taken me so long to get started as a doctor."

He sums up his occupation thus: "I'm just one of the girls."

To the "girls" he's a "real gentleman."

Why Do Americans Want Canada To Join United States?

By JACK SCOTT

Hardly a week goes by that some American magazine or newspaper doesn't come forth with the Jim-dandy, peachy idea that Canada become a part of the United States.

Life, among others, has done it. Look has done it. And now the Sunday magazine of the influential Portland Oregonian has done it.

"Canada and the United States Should Become One Country" is the title of a piece by Richard L. Neuberger, one of the more Canada-conscious of American writer, and a compelling chunk of argument it is, too.

The Oregonian's editor has invited me to reply, as a Canadian, to Neuberger's essay (for a small pile of those precious American dollars) and I have been going about in a vest made from a Union Jack, humming "The Maple Leaf Forever" and getting up a head of righetous indignation.

The first selfish thought that occurs to me is that a large number of journalists, including little old me, would be out of pocket if the two countries ever welded.

The American writers would no longer be able to improvise on the theme of wiping out the border. The Canadian writers, on the other hand, would be unable to go into their buck and wing about what's wrong with "the Yanks". This would be a very heavy blow to Bruce Hutchison. It dismays me, too, to note that Neuberger and company always take the same attitude. Not the least of my personal objections to joining the States is the jaunty American assumption that the whole world is just crazy to be a part of it. I mean, you never see articles by English writers suggesting that the U.S. come into the British Commonwealth of Nations. Now do you?

In cold fact, most Canadians are stimulated and even dominated by the American way of life and forever and ever appalled by it.

Win And Lose

The strongest of Neuberger's points is that we look and, in many ways, act the same.

"Canadian women wear clothes styled in the United States," he writes. "On Canadian streets appear cars familiar to every American—Fords, Buicks, Chevrolets. Neon signs are the same, and so are dishes in the restaurants. Safeway grocery stores advertise in Canada, likewise all the standard American canned goods. The language is identical—indeed, increasing so, as U.S. movies exert a subtle but constant influence on the culture of America's huge neighbor".

All true. And perhaps there's some merit in the idea that since we're alike we shouldn't be cleaved by any such artificial barrier as a border. But it overlooks the psychology of human nature. Would we get along because of similarities? You might as well say that your child would be as happy living over at the neighbor's. Touche, eh, Neuberger?

Of course, it's perfectly true that there might be certain advantages for us in becoming a kind of extra state.

We would get cheaper automobiles. Our per capita total of Mixmasters and pop-up toasters would show improvement. We could have our egos flattered by comedians making jokes about us, as they do about Texas. We might even have a higher standard of living, although, judging from our recent trip across the States, I'd say the two countries were about the same.

What we'd lose, apart from any economic consideration, is that sense of independence that makes the Canadian an honest-to-God individual and not just a sort of unofficial American, as so many Americans seem to think.

The outlook may be a luxury, but it's one that's jealously guarded in this country. We have a few enlightened citizens who would be in favor of eliminating all the borders of the world, but precious few who see much advantage in merely rubbing out the 49th parallel.

Our Riches

The most frightening aspect of Neuberger's case — and of others who have tackled the subject — is the feeling that they are breathing hotly on our necks, that when they talk about 'joining" they really mean "absorbing."

Neuberger, himself, may be observed looking over our fence with greedy gaze, rubbing his pudgy hands together, and eyeing the goodies in our yard.

He speaks of the massacred forests of the States and looks with covetous eyes at our virgin timber. He talks about the iron ore of Minnesota running short and swivels his head in the direction of our vast deposits in Labrador. You don't know whether to shout a neighborly hello or run to load the shotgun.

Indeed, the Canadian may wonder if he's loved for his own sweet self or just for his pitchblende, pulp and paper, Alberta oil and military bases. Naturally, we'd hate to be married for our money.

I will have to do a little digging into the facts and figures to answer Neuberger's argument that we need closer economic and military ties, but on the surface it would seem we're as close as we can get without being smothered.

Richard, himself, points out that Americans bought $300,000,000 worth of Canadian securities in the last four months, which would seem to be pretty cosy economically, and he notes that he, as an American, served with Canadian troops in the Yukon in the last war, which would seem to be pretty cosy militarily.

Defense rests.

REDS EYE RICH PLUMS — Symbols on Newschart above show important natural resources of strategic Indo-China, target of stepped-up aggression by Ho Chi Minh's rebel Communist troops. In addition to resources on map, it is known that iron, tungsten, manganese and many other useful minerals are to be found in virtually unprospected areas of the country.

Train Army To Stand Cold Weather

By ARCH MACKENZIE.

CAMP SHILO, Man., Jan. 23—(CP). — Pack-and-parka-clad soldiers tugged laden toboggans through the hillocks and scrub of this 100-mile-square army area today, learning how to live in and defend themselves against cold.

In one of the several three-week winter indoctrination courses held here during the last three years, 83 men from the army's Prairie Command stay alive outdoors in below-zero temperatures and do it comfortably.

They have no weapons. Their tools are the axe, hatchet, machet and snow shovel.

But when they are returned to their reserve and permanent-force units in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, they will be ready for full-scale winter training if necessory.

There has been no major change in syllabus, equipment or clothing since the first course given. It's mostly the type used in the Arctic "Exercise Sweetbriar" last year and now used by the 2nd Battalion Princess Patricia's Light Infantry in Korea.

The same course—this is the second of three to be run off here this winter — is given at other training camps, including Wainwright, Alta., Valcartier, Que., and Petawawa, Ont. It does not produce instructors as such, but it sprinkles Canada's army with men who are potentially-competent fighting personnel for advanced work in cold-weather operation.

About 1,000 men in all will have been given the course here at winter's end. To date, there has not been one case of frostbite.

Strapping Capt. Robert Firlotte of Winnipeg and Campbellton, NB, is officer commanding the school.

Iturbi, Dilling In Music Film

Jose Iturbi, famous pianist, and nine other instrumental artists, comprise a concert group in the special program Harry Yudin has arranged for music lovers at the Centre Theatre Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The main film is "The Magic Voice" with Beniamino Gigli singing tenor arias from Rigoletto, Martha, Mignon, Lohengrin and so on.

People have often asked why concerts were not arranged for the films. Here is one entitled "Adventure In Music" with Iturbi, pianist; Mildred Dilling, harpist; Coolidge string quartette; Vronsky and Babin, pianist duo; Emmanuel Feuerman, cellist.

Iturbi plays Liszt and Chopin

These are some of the program details which Mr. Yudin is offering in this concert with full confidence to the music lovers of the city and district. These occasional films at the Centre, off the routine of movie attractions, have gained quite a following here.

Remembers Basciano

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 23—(CP) —Tony Basciano of Peterborough, Ont., walked up to the colonel at the regimental reunion.

"I guess you don't remember me," he said.

Lord Tweedsmuir, wartime commander of the Hastings and Prince Edwards, looked for a minute.

"Yes," he said, "I distinctly remember the face and—correct me if I'm wrong—your name is Basciano."

He remembered his last meeting with Tony, too—in Italy in 1943. The regiment was short of water and needed an interpreter to help get it. Basciano spoke Italian.

But there was something else.

"I remember you," said Lord Tweedsmuir. "When you reported, there was a hand grenade in your belt—with the pin partly out!"

Car Breaks Through Ice Contractor Lost In Lake

CHIEF GEORGE COPPAWAY, left, and Dow Taylor, both of Curve Lake in TOP Photo, are marking the spot where a car lies in 15-feet of water. Police believe it contains the body of Charles Martin, 58, 203 Crescent St. The driver apparently did not know that the strong current in the narrows between Upper Chemong and Buckhorn lakes keeps the ice dangerously thin. At this point the ice is only about an inch thick, but further east, in the direction of Selwyn, it will bear the weight of a heavy truck. LOWER, shows Gordon Taylor, 36, discussing with Chief Coppaway, how he saw the reflection of headlights on the lake Tuesday night and then heard the fatal crash as the car broke through the ice. He is carrying an ice pick so he can venture out on the lake, testing his way step by step.—(Parks Studio Photos).

New Message Received From China

Contents Good News Rau Declares No Details Disclosed

LAKE SUCCESS, NY, Jan. 24 (AP).—Communist China has sent another message to India relating to United Nations efforts to obtain a cease-fire in Korea, an Indian spokesman said today. He described it as "reassuring" but would not disclose its contents at this time.

In Ottawa, external affairs minister Pearson said today he has heard officially that Red China has sent a new note to the United Nations in connection with efforts to establish a cease-fire in Korea.

He quoted Sir Benegal Rau, chairman of the UN's cease-fire committee, as saying the note contained "good news." Mr. Pearson is a member of the committee.

He told reporters he understood the note now was in the process of being deciphered at New York.

Prior to the new report further delaying action threatened a United States drive in the United Nations Political Committee to have Communist China branded formally as an aggressor in Korea. A lukewarm attitude by other big powers, outright opposition by the Soviet bloc and another "last hope" peace plan by 12 Asian-Arab countries stood in the way of a quick, decisive vote by the committee to support the American proposal.

Warren R. Austin, chief United States delegate, was ready to take the floor again to condemn the Peiping regime's latest words — transmitted informally through India's ambassador to Peiping and Sir Benegal N. Rau, India's delegate to the UN—as a trick to split the non-Communist world. Peiping's latest communication was in response to a request by Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada for clarification of an earlier message from the Reds.

A delegation source said it was highly likely that Austin would speak at today's meeting, but he predicted that debate possibly would continue through Friday. The delegation still foresees more than 40 members of the 60-country committee ranging alongside the United States on the final vote.

Go Ahead

This, despite Prime Minister Attlee's London pronouncement Tuesday in the House of Commons against any step to condemn Red China now as an aggressor.

This, despite the agreement of 12 Arab-Asian members Tuesday night to try for the fourth time to draft a Korean truce, cease-fire or peace plan that Communist China, Russia and the majority of the United Nations will accept.

Rau said the Arab-Asia group agreed Tuesday night to try again on the basis of the latest informal Peiping offer. This calls for a seven-country meeting to

Bank Clerk Jailed

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 24—(CP). — Convicted last week of theft and retaining stolen currency, Clarence McKenney, 20-year-old London bank clerk, was sentenced today to two years concurrent on each charge. The youth faced the court on three counts arising out of a daring $10,000 street robbery Oct. 14. An employee of the east-end branch of the Huron and Erie Mortgage Corporation, McKenney was carrying the money from a bank when it was "snatched" from him by an unidentified bandit.

Nehru Lashes U.S. Policy, Asks Conference

NEW DELHI, Jan. 24 (AP).—Prime Minister Nehru of India, in a broadcast bristling with criticism of the United States policy in Asia, called tonight for a conference of major powers to discuss world problems, "instead of talking at each other across thousands of miles.'

"It is clear that enough has been said on both sides for negotiation in a conference to be the next fruitful step," Nehru said.

The Indian leader contended the American proposal to name Communist China an aggressor in Korea—a policy backed by both Houses of the US Congress — "cannot lead to peace." He said:

"It can only lead to itensification of conflicts and might perhaps close the door to any attempt at solution by negotiation. It is a tremendous responsibility for any person to take such a step. At no time should this door be closed, for if we close it, we also close the door to a civilized approach to any problem."

Made Mistake

In reference to American opposition to the seating of Red China in the United Nations, Nehru said:

"For the past year or more we persistently urged New China should be given a place in the councils of the world at Lake Success. Yet this has not been done, and most people realize now that the fate of the world might well have been differnt if that obvious fact had been recognized.

Haven't Accepted Change

"There has been a reluctance and hesitation to accept the great change that has come over Asia. There still is an attempt sometimes to treat the great nations of Asia in the old way."

Changes in Asia have upset the balance of power, Nehru said, adding:

"Because the United Nations did not recognize it, the difficulties arose and continue to trouble us.

"Again there was the question of crossing the 38th Parallel in Korea.

"Adequate notice and warning was given, but it was not heeded, and further complications ensued.

"Can we not say now, wiser after the event, that this is a major error which should have been avoided?"

Teachers Get $500 Raise At Sudbury

Dispute Settled As 62 On Staff Cancel Resignations

SUDBURY, Jan. 24 (CP).—The wage dispute between 62 secondary school teachers and the Sudbury high school board was settled today.

The teachers are to receive a salary increase of $500, retroactive to Jan. 1, plus the yearly increment of $200 next Sept. 1.

The teachers, who had handed in resignations effective Dec. 31, voluntarily withdrew them.

This was announced by a three-man provincial board of reference headed by Judge J. M. Cooper of Sudbury, which heard the case Monday and Tuesday. Other members of the board were Dr. W. L. Whitelock, of Hamilton, the High School Board's appointment, and Herbert Orliffe, representing the teachers.

Sixty-two of Sudbury's 60 secondary school teachers sent their resignations to the school board in November when salary increase talks bogged down. The teachers agreed to carry on after the new year on a day-to-day basis.

Power Limited

In addition to obtaining an amicable solution to the salary dispute, the board of reference found out that jurisdiction of such boards was "limited and restricted" under the teacher's boards of reference act to consider only the question of severance of employment.

According to the act, the board had no authority to deal with matters such as salaries which led up to the dispute between the parties and the resultant severance.

"Such being the case," the reference board stated, "it was further the opinion of counsel and the members of the board that the decision of the board of reference, being so limited, would not satisfactorily solve the local differences or serve any good or useful purpose in the local situation."

The board of reference and consel for both parties expressed the opinion that the act should be clarified and that the regulations, or if necessary, changes in the statute itself, should be undertaken in order to remove the restrictions and limitations of the act and to broaden its scope so that the necessary procedure will be known to furture boards of reference.

2 Brothers Held

HAMILTON, Jan. 24 (CP) — Two young brothers, one 20, the other 17, appeared in magistrate's court today on charges of robbery with violence in the brutal Saturday evening attack on Mrs. Mary O'Brien, 82. They were remanded for one week. The question of bail was not raised. The two charged are Frank Leslie, 20, and Mike Leslie, both of Hamilton. They are reported to have given statements to police.

5 Burned At Plant

WINDSOR, Jan. 24 (CP)—Five men were burned—two of them critically—in a fire at the incinerator of the Ford Motor Company plant early today. Ignacy Klinkowsky, 53, and Joseph Bullock, 62, suffered extensive burns and both are in critical condition. Company officials said the fire was caused by fumes from paint cans which had been thrown into the incinerator. When trash in the incinerator was lighted, the fumes exploded.

Ottawa Silent On Nehru Plan, Statement Soon

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 (CP)—Prime Minister Nehru's call today for a conference of major powers to discuss world problems was received with interest but without comment in official circles in this capital.

Spokesmen for the external affairs department said they had no prior word of Mr. Nehru's proposal, made in a broadcast from New Delhi, and that no formal approach had come through from the Indian capital.

New Delhi dispatches reporting the broadcast came over news services wires while the Canadian cabinet was in session and there was no immediate reaction from cabinet spokesmen.

Pearson Remains

External Affairs Minister Pearson, Canada's key figure in the diplomatic skirmishes at the U.N., came up from New York yesterday and to attend the meeting. He had planned to fly back to New York at noon today, to reach there in time for the U.N. political committee meeting opening at 3 p.m., but now has put off his departure until this evening.

No reason was given for the change in plans, but it was considered possible that he and Prime Minister St. Laurent might be considering issuing a statement dealing with the east-west manoeuvring for a cease-fire.

Such a statement, if issued, might deal with Mr. St. Laurent's part in the obtaining from the Chinese Reds a clarification of their terms for a halt to the Korean fighting.

Locate Car In Water 15 Feet Deep

Chas. Martin Missing, Seen To Start Across Chemong Lake

Charles Martin, 58-year-old Peterborough contractor, was believed drowned at dusk on Tuesday when his car crashed through the thin ice at the Curve Lake narrows.

Provincial police started dragging operations shortly before noon today. Indians from the nearby reserve located the car by probing with long sticks. It is lying on the mud bottom in 15 feet of water and some 300 yards from shore.

Positive identification has not yet been made, but it is known that Martin had started off across the lake at 5:40 p.m. Tuesday on his way home to Peterborough via Selwyn. His sister Mrs. Emily Martyn, who lives with him at 203 Crescent St., reported to police Tuesday night that he had not arrived.

Martin was said to be alone at the time.

Working At Reserve

He had been working all day at the Curve Lake reserve. His car was last seen by Chief George Coppaway starting out across the lake toward Selwyn. The chief recalls that the car spun round several times on the ice, but then he paid no further attention to it.

What caused Charles Martin Martin to veer northwest up the narrows instead of heading southeast across Upper Chemong lake is not known. Because of the strong current between Chemong and Buckhorn lakes the ice is always thin and treacherous.

"It's never safe for a car," said Chief Coppaway, "and right now it isn't even safe for walking". The ice thickness varies between

Report Bevin Has Pneumonia, Shinwell Sick

LONDON, Jan. 24 — (AP) — The foreign office disclosed today that Foreign Secretary Bevin has pneumonia.

Bevin, who has been in poor health for the last two years, came down Tuesday with what was first diagnosed as influenza.

A spokesman for his office said today that the minister's physician has now found "a patch of pneumonia on one lung".

He had just recovered from a severe cold which he contracted last week.

Bevin will be 70 in March. He long has suffered from asthma and heart trouble.

Cobourg Woman Dies In Crash

TRENTON, Jan. 24 — (CP).—Mrs. Irene Patrick, 43, of Cobourg, was killed early today when the automobile in which she was riding collided with a Smith Transport Company truck three miles east of here.

Stewart Lidstone, 34, of Cobourg, driver of the car, suffered minor injuries. The transport driver, Harland J. Hansford of Toronto was uninjured.

Mrs. Robert Martin, who formerly lived in Peterborough, is a sister.

Two Children Die In Flaming Cottage

MONTREAL, Jan. 24—(CP)—Two children—one a four-year-old boy and the other a nine-month-old girl—died in their flaming three-room wooden cottage on Gouin Boulevard East Tuesday while their mother was next door having a cup of tea with a neighbor.

The mother, Mrs. Leopold Desjardin, was taken to hospital with multiple cuts and burns suffered when she dashed into the burning home in a futile effort to save her children. She succeeded in picking up her daughter—but by the time she fought her way through the smoke and flames to the street the baby was dead in her arms.

The charred body of the second child was found after the fire died down.

Tank-Led Allied Force Smashes Into Hoengsong

TOKYO, Jan. 24 (AP).—A tank-led Allied force smashed into Hoengsong today and then pushed to within 33 miles of the 38th Parallel. Hoengsong is 10 miles north of Wonju on the central front. It was the farthest northward advance by UN forces since the South Korean capital of Soeul fell Jan. 4.

After passing through the town and going onwards, the armored patrol withdrew to friendly lines over perilous roads criss-crossed with narrow snow-covered mountain passes.

The patrol which included 100 troops and four tanks tangled with a complete company three miles south of Hoengsong.

For more than 40 minutes it engaged in a heavy fire fight with the enemy who were finally dispersed after sustaining heavy casualties.

United Nations forces suffered three casualties and damage to two motorized flak wagons, but through daring tactics, captured a complete enemy anti-tank crew. It an earlier battle the Allied troops routed 20 Communists with machine gun fire.

Meanwhile American planes fought and won another jet battle

Drastic Change In U.S. Air Force

WIESBADEN, Germany, Jan. 24 (AP)—The United States Air Force today announced a drastic reorganization placing its air power in continental Europe, England and the Mediterranean under a single, unified command.

The reorganization places the units in Europe under the direct control of Lt.-Gen. Lauris Norstad, new commander of U.S. air forces in Europe.

High-ranking air force officials indicated at the same time that UNSAFE's headquarters, which previously has not controlled units in England and the Mediterranean area, would be moved from Wiesbaden to "conform with requirements" of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's supreme headquarters of the Allied powers in Europe.

The air force move follows a similar reshuffle in the command of U.S. ground troops in Germany.

Too Much Criticism

Dutch Government Resigns Over New Guinea Policy

THE HAGUE, Jan. 24 (Reuters) — The Netherlands government resigned today.

The government, headed by Labor Prime Minister Willem Drees, took collective responsibility for policy on western New Guinea — which Holland disputes with Indonesia.

Stikker had been foreign minister since August, 1948, and was one of the architects of the agreement which set up the Netherlands Indonesian union.

The resignation was announced by Premier Willem Drees in parliament. He said the cabinet would meet immediately to consider the situation. There was speculation the full cabinet might resign.

Stikker, only Liberal member in the Roman Catholic-Labor coalition government, had announced earlier that he would resign if the Liberal parliamentary group joined with others in a vote of censure against the government.

A resolution disapproving of the government's handling of the dispute with Indonesia over the future status of New Guinea was supported by eight members of Stikker's party. The motion was defeated.

Indonesia demands full sovereign powers in Netherlands New Guinea. The final Dutch proposal was to place the disputed territory under a joint Netherlands-Indonesian administration within the Netherlands union. The opposition assailed this as too much of a concession.

Observers here said the resignation of Stikker as foreign minister would not make any difference to his work as chairman of the organization for European economic co-operation — to which he had been appointed independent of his work as a member of the Dutch cabinet.

This means he will almost certainly carry out his program — due to begin this week — of visits to a number of European countries and the United States to discuss the vital problem of the distribution of strategic raw materials.

Austria Faces More Avalanches

VIENNA, Jan. 24 — (CP) — Aviators dipping perilously into misty valleys and thousands of men on skis and afoot carried out rescue missions in the avalanche-stricken Alpine Europe today.

In Austria, Switzerland and Italy more than 200 persons are reported dead or missing.

Officials in Switzerland said the death toll had reached "about 80," and it was expected the figure might go higher. President Eduard Von Stiger called it a "white catastrophe."

In Austria it was still impossible to make an accurate survey, but officials said that 68 are known to be dead and at least 44 are missing. Sixty-two have been rescued after having been buried many hours under snow masses.

In Italy the total number of deaths rose to 20.

Rescue efforts went forward as reports came in from hundreds of tiny communities isolated by the worst avalanches of the century.

The danger was still great in Austria, where bright sunshine warmed the great masses of snow clinging uncertainly to the slopes.

UK Papers Support Go-Slow China Policy

LONDON, Jan. 24 (CP). — British editorial opinion today overwhelmingly supports the Labor government's reluctance to adopt a stronger policy towards Communist China.

Almost all newspapers are in accord with the go-slow policy outlined in the House of Commons Tuesday by Prime Minister Attlee, even though they clearly recognize the risk of offending the United States.

"That the United States does not approve of the present trend of British policy in the Far East is admitted," the Conservative Yorkshire Post says in a front-page story. "But it is felt here that the U.S. is pursuing a policy based on emotion rather than on reason."

The Liberal News Chronicle says Attlee's statement—"we do not believe the time has yet come to consider further measures against China"—means that Britain is playing for time because of the extreme gravity of the situation.

Rescue Workers In Tears

Hundreds Of Dead Bodies Hang From Scorched Trees

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea, Jan. 24 (CP)—Hundreds of dead bodies are hanging grotesquely from the black, scorched branches of trees in the New Guinea jungle at the foot of volcanic Mount Lamington.

The grisly tale of wholesale human slaughter by fire was told today by the first government official to reach here from the scene of disaster where more than 3,000 persons—including 34 Europeans—are believed to have died in weekend eruptions of the 6,000-foot-high volcanic mountain.

Trembling with the horror of what he had seen, his voice choked by sobs, Claude Champion, an assistant government secretary described how terrified natives had clambered into trees when the ground became too hot to stand on after Mount Lamington's thunderous eruptions.

As the temperature rose and showers of flaming coals continued, they slowly burned to death among the branches. Roads in the area, about 100 miles northeast of here, were lined with dead.

Champion is a man hardened by years of government service in the New Guinea jungle. But he collapsed in tears after narrating his story.

Volcanic ash is hardening over the New Guinea wasteland—the once-fertile jungle home of thousands.

"Horrible, grey devastation is all that remains," said the newspaper correspondent who flew over the area. "The entire area is feet deep in pumice ash, which is gradually hardening and coating everything with a rock-like surface.

"Once a fertile district, it may become a rocky desert."

Meagre medical supplies and air transport facilities have been mobilized to meet the pressing need of burned and maimed Papuans who staggered—shredded flesh hanging from their bodies—into emergency aid stations established at the base of the "extinct" volcano.

In the memory of white man Lamington had been only silent. Sunday—after three days of mild rumblings—it blew away its north side and rained an atom-bomb-like cloud of searing ash over the surrounding area.

French Premier Visits Ottawa February 2-3

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent announced officially Tuesday that Prime Minister Rene Pleven of France will visit Ottawa Feb. 2 and 3.

Mr. St. Laurent said in a statement that Mr. Pleven is expected here at noon, Friday, Feb. 2, and will remain in Ottawa to confer with members of the Canadian Government until afternoon of the following day, Saturday, Feb. 3.

Mr. Pleven will visit Ottawa in conjunction with a trip to Washington.

Reds Down Plane Crew Rescued

US FIFTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Jan. 24 (AP) —Communist troops shot down an American T-6 Mosquito control plane today after luring the craft low by trampling an SOS sign in the snow.

The Mosquitos two crew members were speedily rescued in a tricky helicopter operation.

Maj.-Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commander of the Fifth Air Force, said in a special statement that the plane was forced to crash land after being hit in the left-wing gas tank while investigating the distress signal 10 miles north of Anyang.

But flights of Mustangs and Navy Corsairs flew to the area and protected the grounded crew members with low-strafing attacks. Red troops surrounding the plane had opened fire.

Thirty-five minutes after the crash landing, a helicopter of the Third Rescue Squadron lifted the Mosquito crew to safety.

Finishes 40-Day Fast Ahead Of Schedule

MENLO, Ga., Jan. 24 (AP) — Luther Ratlift, who set out upon a long fast to cleanse his body for a longer life, said today he was able to accomplish his purpose 2½ days ahead of schedule.

The 65-year-old bachelor salesman announced he ended a 40-day fast Saturday night. He had planned to continue it into yesterday.

He remarked that it was well that he was able to break it off when he did, for, "I had reached the danger point—my heart had begun to hurt me."

Ratcliff said he lost a lot of weight—he didn't know just how much. He weighed only 100 pounds when he started his ordeal.

He broke his fast with orange juice. He said he expects to eat only raw food from now on.

Defence Job In Europe To Be Tough

Eisenhower Tour Shows It's Possible But Won't Be Easy

By PRESTON GROVER

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP). — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has completed his tour of Europe's Atlantic Pact countries with one sure finding. The job of building a defence will be brutally hard — but possible.

This correspondent has made the same tour, covered the same countries, and has talked to some of the people Gen. Eisenhower has seen and to some he has not.

Eisenhower, pausing now in Paris before he flies tomorrow to Iceland, Canada and Washington, so far has presented to each country roughly the same proposition. He has told each one:

1. The risk of Russian aggression either by diplomatic pressure or troops, is great. Russian aggression means the end of everything western civilization represents.

2. The United States is arming, expensively and fast.

3. The United States will help Europe arm. What is the maximum Europe can contribute?

The answer in each case—with the possible exception of Britain—has not been enough to satisfy the man who must make western defence work.

Hanging Back

The hard fact is that most of Western Europe doesn't want to spend money and most of it is scared.

It knows war may start before the United States, Britain and France — the countries which really can do something—are strong enough to act.

Officials of the little countries say any rearmament they may get going now would only invite retaliation from Russia if the Reds decided to sweep over Europe soon.

Eisenhower has answered that each country must do its utmost. If one hangs back, another will use that as an excuse to hang back. And here is the kicker:

If they all hang back, the United States Congress will not vote the money to send arms and troops to Europe.

Argument Has Sting

That argument has a sting in it.

A sample of the real fear Europeans have is given in a story told to one of Eisenhower's party by a Dutch official.

"People here, including intelligent people I know, don't want to put their savings in the bank," he said. "They know that in case of war their savings won't be worth much, especially during the coming two years when they know Holland would be overrun in the first few days. So they buy clothes and automobiles."

And what has Eisenhower's visit done to counteract this fear?

There is no hard answer. A fair estimate is that it has helped much. Long before Eisenhower was appointed, this correspondent talked to a number of European leaders about the war scare and their answer was mainly this:

"When the United States names a commander to direct rearmament and send troops to Europe, then we will begin to have confidence."

That commander now has come. He is known to everybody. His buoyancy, his established success as a general and his big smile have had a noticeable effect.

SCORCHED ROOF POLICY—UN infantrymen watch as a Korean home in the Chungju area is destroyed to prevent the Communists from using it. As the Allies withdrew southward, they destroyed entire villages.

Believe Winter Blow To Chinese

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24—(AP)—The man-killing Korea winter may be the strong ally which holds the Communist enemy there in check until Gen. MacArthur's divisions can be built up to normal strength next spring, a high army officer said today.

Asked why the military here and in Korea appears to be taking a more optimistic view of the war, he replied:

"Winter is fighting for us".

He said battlefield checks show an increasing mortality among enemy troops from he bitter weather of Korea, a rate great enough to have significant military importance.

The officer estimated that the ratio of frostbite casualties to the Chinese and Korean Red soldiers as against those of UN forces might be as much as 21 to 1. Such a rate, if long continued, could help considerably in evening the manpower advantage the Reds had when they started their offensive early last month.

11-State Manoeuvre To Test Air Defences

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24—(AP)—What's to prevent an enemy from blasting the western United States by air, from an audacious mass raid by long-range bombers or from a desperate sneak attack by a single plane—laying atomic eggs?

Maj.-Gen. Hugo P. Rush has an answer. Rush is a 50-year-old veteran of bombing campaigns in North Africa and Italy. Now his job is command of the western air defence force with headquarters near San Francisco.

For its protection job, WADF has a network of radar installations and volunteer civilian ground observers to spot aircraft—plus jet fighters ready 24 hours a day to investigate unidentified planes. With these tools are combined the help of the army and the navy and co-operation from Canada and Mexico.

Within a matter of days, the west's air defences will be given a "dry run". Rush said a vast 11-state manoeuvre—the biggest of its kind in the west—will begin about Feb. 1. The manoeuvre will involve all elements of the air defence system.

Limit Tag Days To One For Year

SUDBURY, Jan. 24 — (CP).—City Council Tuesday night passed a motion which would eliminate all tag days except Poppy Day in the city for one year.

The motion provided that a tag day pool be established in the United Welfare Fund as part of their general canvass and to which organizations which have had tag days in the last two years would be eligible.

Canada Needs Skilled Workers

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 (CP)—Employment in Canada is considerably better than a year ago, the Labor Department said Tuesday in reporting that the number of registered unemployed jumped 33,000 during two weeks.

Unemployed registered at National Employment Service offices Jan. 4 was 248,100, some 50,000 fewer than at Jan. 5, 1950. Canada's manpower pool totals more than 5,000,000 persons.

The department, which once again stressed the immediate need for more skilled workers, said there were several reasons for the improvement over last year.

The mild weather in most areas during the early part of the winter enabled a greater degree of activity in a variety of seasonal industries. Higher production targets of pulp and lumber operators caused a demand for more woods workers. There also was an expansion in some branches of manufacturing.

By regions, this was the unemployment picture at Jan. 4, with figures for Dec. 21, 1950, in brackets:

Newfoundland, 4,400 (3,900); Maritimes, 26,500 (23,000); Quebec, 75,700 (66,200); Ontario, 59,400 (51,000); Prairies, 41,700 (36,400); Pacific 40,400 (34,600); Canada, 248,100 (215,100).

Want Negotiations

Supporting what he called Communist China's desire for a peaceful settlement, Nehru said:

"The information I received from our ambassador in Peiping convinced me that the People's Government of China are eager to have negotiations for a settlement of Korean and other problems of the Far East. Their reply to the resolutions of the political committee of the United Nations embodying certain principles was considered by some people as a rejection of those principles. After the closest scrutiny I was totally unable to understand this criticism.

"That reply was a partial acceptance of those principles and certain further suggestions were made which were obviously meant to be discussed."

Won't Meet In Paris

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 24 (AP)—United Nations officials indicated today they had dropped their plan to hold the 1951 general assembly in Europe and decided to keep it in New York. An announcement is expected within the next few days. The assembly voted last fall to hold its next session in Europe. It was tacitly understood that Paris would be chosen.

Raps Ignorance Of South Ontario

KIRKLAND LAKE, Jan. 24 (CP)—Ann Shipley, outspoken municipal head of this gold mining community, struck out Tuesday at what she called Southern Ontario's lack of knowledge of the northern part of the province and its possibilities.

Reeve of Teck township, which takes in Kirkland Lake, she told delegates from 10 northern municipalities at the opening of a two-day Northern Ontario industrial promotion conference: "If the province of Ontario paid for a complete tour throughout the province for each new legislator, it would benefit everyone."

Samuel Nash of the Municipal Planning Branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, which sponsored the first day of the conference of Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, said that community planning efforts after the First World War failed. He proposed a planning system built around the home, providing all facilities needed for supporting the home.

In a panel discussion, delegates claimed that community planning is being set back by erection of residential and shopping sections outside municipal areas. They cited Kapuskasing and Iroquois Falls, paper mill towns, as examples. Mr. Nash replied that zoning by-laws would cover a sufficiently large area around a municipality to make this workable.

Five hundred women riflemen were spotted in a North Korean force of 1,500 seven miles south of Yongwol.

F-84 Thunderjets shot down one Russian-made MIG-15 and damaged three others in a 15-minute dogfight over the Anju-Sinanju sector near the Manchurian border.

Between 16 and 20 Russian-type jets swooped across the Yalu river and attacked 16 U.S. F-84s. They came off second best as they did Tuesday in the same area when three and possibly four MIGs were shot down and three were damaged.

In neither fight was an American plane lost or damaged.

Two Austin, Tex., pilots, Capts. Allan J. Gilbert and Richard T. Rutherford, were credited with inflicting most of the damage Wednesday on the enemy planes. Gilbert was credited with downing the shot-down MIG and Rutherford was credited with damaging two. The Fifth Air Force in Korea said a third Russian-type plane was damaged.

Jet Toll

Lt.-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commander of the Far East Air Force, lauded the American jet victories. He said 17 Russian-made MIG-15 jets have been destroyed in air-to-air combat with U.N. aircraft since Nov. 1.

Six other enemy jet planes were probably destroyed and 37 damaged, he said in a statement.

Stratemeyer said Tuesday's battle—the biggest ever—"demonstrates the Thunderjet as a first-line jet in air-to-air combat."

He added:

"Our F-84 Thunderjet has exceeded all expectations, both as a close-support tactical weapon and as a fighter."

Other American planes ranged across the peninsula, with B-29s dropping 200 tons of bombs on the north-eastern supply centre of Komu, 20 miles north of the Changjin reservoir.

This was the first time the Superforts had hit Komu, an important rail junction and supply centre just 20 miles south of the Manchurian border.

Other Allied bombers hammered at targets in northwest Korea. Throughout Wednesday light bombers and Allied fighters pounded the Seoul area, where three Chinese armies of 90,000 men and 10,000 Red Koreans have been reported massed.

Strong Artillery Support

The Allied troops who entered Yongwol across the frozen Han River had the support of roaring artillery barrages and a 20-plane bombing attack. Yongwol is 31 miles southeast of Wonju, the central Korean road-rail hub which UN combat patrols also reentered Wednesday.

Yongwol, which had changed hands three or four times recently, was well fortified on the southeast side, but the attack caught the enemy by surprise.

All along the battle front, Allied hunter-killer patrols flitted in and out of Red lines but turned up few Communists. Prisoners reported the Communists hard pressed for supplies and ammunition.

Red infiltrators far behind allied lines shot at U.N. troops. The force seven miles south of Yongwol included 500 women bearing rifles. Only infrequently have women been reported fighting with the Reds.

Civilians reported 1,000 Red Koreans in the area nine miles north and northwest of Chechon, 21 miles southeast of Wonju and 14 miles west of Yongwol.

AP Correspondent Tom Stone, in the Yongwol sector, said there was fighting Tuesday between infiltrating Reds and U.N., troops. The U.S. 7th division has been in that general area.

CNR Reports 1950 Finances Best In Years

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 (CP).—The Canadian National Railways today reported its 1950 finances were the best in several years.

Presenting evidence in the railways' application for a general five-per-cent increase in freight rates, it told the Board of Transport Commissioners it had net railway operating income of $32,138,000 on Canadian lines.

This was about $29,500,000 better than 1949 and the largest since 1946.

(Railway sources said the company is expected to just about break even for 1950 on its over-all finances. Revenue from United States lines and other operations will pull the income to approximately the $46,000,000 needed to meet the fixed interest charges of the CNR debt.)

The Canadian Pacific Railway already has reported to the board its net railway earnings for 1950 are estimated at $36,000,000.

All-time High

Testifying for the CNR today, comptroller T. J. Gracey reported gross 1950 rail revenues of $478,872,000 on Canadian lines — an all-time high mark.

Operating expenses were $436,022,000. Tax accruals of $7,659,000 and some smaller deductions left a net of $32,138,000.

Had year-end freight rates and labor and material costs been in effect for the full year, Mr. Gracey said, that figure would have been cut down by another $8,000,000.

Basis of the freight-rate application is the additional cost of a seven-cents-an-hour wage increase obtained last year by the railways' non-operating employees—those who do not actually run the trains.

The CNR told the board it expects to get about $13,000,000 a year from the proposed rate increase. The CPR's estimate for its yield is about $10,000,000 a year.

Mr. Gracey said the 1950 cost of the wage increase to the Canadian National was $7,400,000. It went into effect Sept. 1. The CNR witness also said his company's wage bill in 1950 was $104,000,000 more than in 1940.

In Bevin's absence from the Foreign Office, direct handling of Britain's foreign policy has been taken over—as is customary—by Prime Minister Attlee.

Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell also went on the sick list today. A member of his household said he had gone to bed with a severe cold, but hoped to be back on the job Thursday.

A third Cabinet member, John Dugdale, Minister of State for Colonial Affairs, also was reported ill with influenza.

Equally important issues domestically, regarding the manpower situation, defence measures and price and wage controls, need to be dealt with before the Governor-General next Tuesday reads the speech from the throne outlining the government plans for the new session opening Jan. 30.

Apart from this difficult question, the cabinet faced issues sufficiently difficult to make its agenda extremely onerous between now and Tuesday.

Defence matters and a defence budget estimated unofficially at around $1,600,000,000 will be a major problem.

Manpower policies, hemmed by a need for increased labor in the production field and higher recruiting rates for the three armed forces, will be another.

In addition, the government faces numerous demands for action on two major and contentious questions — compulsory military service and imposition of price and wage controls.

Industrials, like yesterday, were slightly higher but mostly mixed. Steels, utilities, foods, refining oils, textiles and retail stores showed a majority of gains in the groupings. Agricultures, constructions, and manufacturing companies were lower and papers, banks and liquors tended mixed.

Base metals posted a wide list of gains that ranged to 50 cents, Hudson Bay, Waite Amulet, United Keno Hill, Sherritt Gordon, Falconbridge and Labrador paced the list ahead.

Senior Golds were mixed and narrow, while Junior Producers added pennies.

Home Oil, Royalite and Anglo-Canadian headed the firm Western Oils.

one and four inches. Long dark streaks in the snow show where the water has seeped through cracks in the ice.

Possibly Confused

One theory is that Martin became confused when he drove onto the ice and the car spun round. As it was dusk and he was not well acquainted with the district, he may have become mixed up and driven in the wrong direction.

Chief Coppaway discounts this theory, pointing out that Martin could have followed the car track which it was still light enough to see. He thinks that Martin, unaware of the thin ice, was going to make a last-minute visit to the Taylors who live a short distance further up the narrows.

There were no eyewitnesses to the accident; but Gordon Taylor saw a glare of lights as Martin drove northwest up the narrows and heard the crash as the car went through the ice.

Saw Reflection

"I was just coming home from hunting," Taylor told the Examiner. "It was about 10 minutes to six. Through a clump of bushes I could see the reflection of headlights. At first I thought they were coming from a car making the regular crossing from the Selwyn side."

"Then I heard a crash and the lights suddenly went out."

Taylor went to his home nearby and informed his cousin Oswald of what he saw and heard. The two of them got a light and started out across the ice. They saw tire marks leading up to a large hole, about 20 feet across, 300 yards from shore.

Taylor told his story to Chief Coppaway, and the chief informed provincial police. Constable David Coffey investigated but was unable to do anything about it because of the darkness and thin ice.

Use Boat

Early today Chief Coppaway and Dow Taylor borrowed a boat from Cliff Whetung and started to probe for the sunken car with long sticks. They found it in 15 feet of water.

In places the ice is only an inch thick and was a hazard to the 50 or more members of the Curve Lake community who walked out on it to get a close-up look. Because the ice will not bear the weight of heavy equipment a channel will probably have to be cleared through it to the shoreline. And the car will be dragged along the bottom after lines have been attached to it.

This operation is expected to last all day.

Born In Lakefield

Martin was born in Lakefield but moved to Peterborough when he was still a boy. Apart from a few years in Omemee and Toronto he has lived in Peterborough all his life.

He was an electrical contractor and worked for himself. He has been doing several contracting jobs at Curve Lake recently. Today he was going to wire the house of Amos Johnson.

His wife, Grace, lives in Toronto. He has three sons—Ross, Charles Jr., and Earl; one daughter, Mrs. Don Caldwell; three sisters—Mrs. Kenneth McInnes, Mrs. Emily Martyn, and Mrs. Olive May. All but Mrs. May live in Peterborough; her home is in Montreal.

35 Resolutions Remain On CFA Agenda

CALGARY, Jan. 24 (CP).—The Canadian Federation of Agriculture headed today into the last public session of its 15th annual convention with an imposing list of 35 resolutions still on the agenda.

They were highlighted by a statement of policy by the Dairy Farmers of Canada. It urges:

1. An excise tax be imposed on cheaply-produced foreign oils used in manufacture of margarine, sufficient to enable butter to compete on fair terms.

2. Continuation of the federal price-support program for butter, but at a minimum price of 62 cents a pound and provision for a raised price in the event of shortages.

3. Disposal of any cheese surpluses in the British market and, if necessary, a support price at a level in line with the price of other manufactured dairy products.

4. Wider powers for provincial milk control boards for setting prices, thus maintaining adequate returns to producers and guaranteeing supplies of fluid milk at fair prices to consumers.

Would Share Burden

The dairy farmers of Canada join CFA president H. H. Hannam and the Western Agricultural Conference, made up of representatives of the agriculture federations in the four western provinces, in requesting that any price-control program adopted by Canada should fall with equal weight upon all classes of the national community.

Two resolutions were passed Tuesday. One asked more active and more general use by the federal government of price-support powers over agriculture products. The other urged the government to govern its future economic policy by a more-practical recognition of the need for maintenance of a parity price system for agricultural products.

Butter Imports Require Permit

CALGARY, Jan. 24 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner Tuesday announced that in future anyone desiring to import butter to Canada will require a permit from the federal government.

Addressing the annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, he referred to the decision of four Canadian butter dealers to import 4,500,000 pounds of butter from New Zealand.

He said the government believes it has made "arrangements" which will render unnecessary such action as taken in 1933 by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, then prime minister, when butter imported from the same source without consent of the Canadian Government was put in bond for 30 days after it arrived. The New Zealand Government paid a dumping duty penalty to have the butter released. Mr, Gardiner said, from that time until this year no butter has been shipped into Canada without the federal government's consent.

The minister declared that if such action becomes necessary the government has the authority to proceed with it.

"We believe that this market must be retained for the Canadian farmer so long as he supplies it".

Two Languages Giving Trouble Among Belgians

BRUSSELS —(Reuters)— Belgium is having language trouble because the country has two official languages—Flemish and French.

In the northern provices, Flemish is used by the authorities in their relations with the public. Instruction in schools is given solely in Flemish and French is taught as a second language. Flemish alone is used for street names, sign posts, traffic and police notices.

In Wallonia, the highly-industrialized French-speaking provinces in southern Belgium, French is the official language.

But the two areas are not sharply defined. Many towns and villages such as Brussels itself, have people from both areas among their population.

Under Belgium law, if a census shows that in a normally Flemish borough 30 per cent or more of the residents consider French their mother tongue, or in a normally French borough 30 per cent of the residents use Flemish as their first language, biligualism is the rule. Both languages must be used for official purposes.

The present trouble springs from the fact that municipal language rules today are based on the results of a census taken 20 years ago—although the last census taken in Belgium was in 1947.

Population Shifts

Since the 20-year-old census was taken war, housing difficulties, a drift to the towns and industrial development have all caused considerable movement of the population.

As a result, the French-language press claims, the country's linguistic "demarcation line" has rolled back several miles to the detriment of the Flemish.

To the north of Brussels, in dozens of towns still considered Flemish as a result of the 1930 census figures, more than half the residents now are said to be French-speaking. But because of the language rules based on the old figures, French - speaking children in these towns have to travel several miles to find a school where they can be taught in their own language.

In the bilingual capital itself, the French language press claims that an even larger percentage of the population expressed preference for the French language at the last census than the 60 per cent recorded in the national count 20 years ago.

But the results of the 1947 census have not yet been announced, although it was taken amid a flurry of form-filling Dec. 31, 1947.

Today, three years later, the results are still buried somewhere in Belgium's national statistical office.

The Problem Of Controls

The United States has appointed a Defence Mobilization Director, Charles E. Wilson, formerly head of General Electric. Mr. Wilson is now czar of the entire American economic program. Under him is the Economic Stabilization Agency which has two divisions, one for price and the other for wage control. Until last week there was uncertainty about the rate of stabilizing prices and wages, and the extent to which controls would be applied. Now there is not. The Economic Stabilization administrator, Alan Valentine, whose policy was to go slow on controls, has resigned; he has been replaced by the former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S.A., Eric Johnston. Last Wednesday Mr. Wilson delivered his first important address since his appointment, and said:

> "What about our economy * * *? How do we keep it from running away? There is only one answer—controls. I hate the word—so do you. But there is no other way. Voluntary methods will not work. That has been proven. The power of law must be invoked. It must be used for allocation of materials, for prices, rents and wages * * *. We must proceed with courage, speed and forthrightness."

It is clear that the U.S.A. is committed to prices and wage controls at least as rigorous and comprehensive as those under O.P.A. during the last war.

* * *

This is no easy road. Political and social pressure for and against various types of controls and regulations will be heavy. Commercial and industrial dislocations will occur. And there is the job of finding enough capable men to devise and administer the controls. Even before Mr. Wilson's speech, the Economic Stabilization Agency, with only 470 employees, was planning to expand by June to 15,000, and by June 1952 to 50,000. So, in this one department of controls, will be needed at least 50,000 employees. It is a drain on the available labour and technical force of the country at a time when men and women are needed in industry and the armed forces. Further, can the right men be found with sufficient economic training and sufficient experience in the special branch of the industry or business they are setting out to control?

* * *

Controls in the States will have a direct effect and an osmotic influence on Canada. The pressure for controls in Canada is already insistent in certain quarters. There are these considerations: First, that wage controls must come with price controls. Second, Canada is not involved in economic and military turmoils to the same extent or degree as the U.S.A. Third, controls worked fairly well in Canada during the war for a limited period. But now Canada is not at war, and to impose full controls now is quite a different matter from 1940. The present tension and drain on resources for military purposes may continue for twenty-five years or fifty. Is it proposed to put Canada under controls for a generation or two? Is that the way Canadians want to live and work?

* * *

Controls are an emergency measure, of a temporary nature. They do not cure a condition; they control it for a limited period. It is nonsense to believe that an economy can be bottled up for ten or twenty-five years and not burst the bottle. Controls will not work over a long period, except in the way they were made to work in Nazi Germany and now in Communist Russia, or, in the mildest form, in Socialist Britain.

How Do Loyalty Oaths Work?

The State of New York, we observe, now demands that all workers in the civil defence organizations within its borders must sign a pledge of loyalty. This document declares that the signer is loyal to the Constitution, is not a member of any group which advocates the overthrow of the Government by force, and will not join such a group while working for civil defence. People holding jobs of special responsibility are investigated more thoroughly, for they have access to information which could be of use to an enemy.

We are inclined to question the usefulness of such oaths. Most people who want to do unpaid civil defence work are moved by a wish to help their country which is in itself the best assurance of loyalty. Those who are trying to get into civil defence in order to do harm would not stick at signing an oath. Perjury is the first lesson that such a person learns.

An oath has no magic in itself which raises it above the ethical level of the man or woman who signs it. Deeply religious people will swear in the name of God that they will be truthful and loyal; irreligious people with a high ethical standard will swear simply by their own honour to do the same; both oaths will be carefully observed. But there are great numbers of people whose religion is of variable strength, and whose honour ebbs and flows, and an oath which they have signed is of slight value. In court the fear of a punishment for perjury keeps them in check; where there is no punishment, what importance can be attached to their oath?

To compell someone to swear that he is loyal to his country seems to us to be an ineffective procedure. Only the most honest and scrupulous dissenter will refuse to swear under such circumstances, and no country has much to fear from honest and scrupulous dissenters. Loyalty appears to be a matter which must be taken on faith, or proved by thorough investigation; the value of oaths as evidence of loyalty is slight.

St. Laurent Peace Move

While Canada is heart and soul in favour of measures to unitedly strengthen the western democracies to defend themselves against alien rule, Canada is also in favour of peace. It is said that to be in favour of peace is as effective an attitude as being in favour of fine weather. Mr. St. Laurent has shown otherwise. He has done something about it.

He examined the Peiping rejection of U.N.'s cease-fire proposal last week and with his keen, orderly mind, saw it to be not as blunt as the Americans did. He asked, through the mediation of the Indian Government and its ambassador at Peiping, that the Chinese explain certain ambiguities in their reply. Thus the door was opened again for negotiations.

The three ambiguities on which clarification was asked were: what Peiping meant by withdrawal of foreign forces from Korea; what it meant by negotiations to precede a cease-fire, and what it meant by its proposals for discussion of membership in U.N. The Chinese have made it clear that a cease-fire could be agreed on at the first meeting of the seven-power conference, and before political negotiations were made; that the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea would include the Chinese troops; and, as regards membership in U.N., what China wants is an assurance of "legitimate status" in U.N.

Thus the difference between the U.N. proposal for a seven-power conference and the Chinese proposals have been lessened to such an extent that a conference, and a cease-fire may occur. Canada is well-fitted to act as intermediary in these matters. She is western and closely related to the U.S.A., but sufficiently aloof to take a detached view. And she has an able Prime Minister, of great mental capacity and experience in external affairs.

How To Be Happy Though Stupid

Ever since Christmas we have been fiddling with a clipping from the Windsor Star which tells about a case encountered by a Windsor social worker at that season. We have not printed the story because we do not quite know what to make of it. However, here it is:

> Prize story of the season—or of any Christmas season—concerns the member of a local union who, a bit down on his luck, applied to the local for relief. Groceries. Coal. So forth. He had six starving kids, all right—dirty, running around in unwashed underwear—also a brand new $400 television set. "You see," explained the Fond Father, who admitted paying $45 a month for the thing, "it keeps the kids at home. They don't have to wear anything but underwear."

This is a type of reasoning which drives social workers to an early grave. And yet it is by no means uncommon. It is encountered among people whose level of solvency is far above that of the Windsor economist. It is the type of reasoning which cannot distinguish between a luxury and a necessity.

How often, though, one man's necessity is another man's luxury! There are people who do not mind living in uncomfortable and poorly furnished houses if they can drive a better car than their income might seem to warrant. There are people who do not mind living very quietly and perhaps meagerly for most of the year if they can splurge on travel once in a while. There are people who buy more books, or gramophone records, or bottles of whisky, or flowers, or concert tickets than they can really afford, because they want those things more than they want some of the other and duller things of life. And everybody who sees another man spending money on things which he himself does not value thinks that his neighbour is stupid. It rarely occurs to him that this supposed stupidity is a way to happiness.

The Windsor man who gave his children television rather than clothes was carrying a human failing to an extreme length. But there is a kinship between this original economist and all the rest of us.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Tobacco products may rise sharply in price, we are warned, and the Ottawa Journal points out that, after all, nobody is compelled to smoke. Yes, but if they stop smoking, how is the Government to get any benefit from the increased taxes? When the Government taxes a commodity, it becomes the duty of the good citizen to use as much of it as he can.

ON THE MARGIN

Writing In The Forties

CLASSICS AND COMMERCIALS, by Edmund Wilson (Farrar, Straus). This book, described as "a literary chronicle of the 'forties" is the work of a man who is, in the opinion of this reader, the ablest literary critic now on this continent. I have been reading Edmund Wilson's criticism for a good many years, and think myself reasonably familiar with it. It is distinguished by the fact that Mr. Wilson's standards are very high, and that he permits no compromise with them; that he is not connected with any university or school and has no academic axe to grind; that he is a man of learning and true cultivation, and cannot be fooled by advertising campaigns or the excitement which lesser critics can whip up over a new writer; that he is himself an excellent writer and can combine good criticism with good reading. On the debit side it must be said that Mr. Wilson is something of an intellectual snob, which leads him to be hard in his judgements upon many popular writers who are by no means bad writers; it must be said also that he cannot rid himself of a rancorous dislike of the British people, and that this sometimes appears to colour his judgement. It is a curious fact that Mr. Wilson himself, though much superior to all but two or three of the best living English critics, resembles them in his literacy and his standards of excellence far more than he does his easy-going brethren in the U.S.A.

In "Classics and Commercials" he has reprinted all his literary articles written during the 'forties, and the book may be taken as a survey of much of the most interesting work of that period. It is a fat little book, containing more than 500 pages, and I read it with the pleasure and sustained attention which I can give only to what I consider really first-rate. The range of Mr. Wilson's judgements is very wide: he writes about the School of Violence which has come into being around Hollywood; he writes about Van Wyck Brook's considerations of American literature; he writes about Evelyn Waugh and about Kafka; he knocks Louis Bromfield over the head and decrys the overpraised Arthur Machen; he explains better than any other critic that I have read why Thackeray is so good to read, and so unsatisfactory to have read; he attacks the modern tendency to regard Dr. Samuel Johnson as a mere eccentric who had the luck to know a nosey little Scotchman named Boswell; he shows what is really good about W. S. Gilbert, who has been so often treated with patronage; he writes with wonderful wit about Emily Post and etiquette books; he launches a full-scale attack upon detective stories, taking the line (which I have long taken myself in my quiet way) that they are unreadable not because they are ill-written but because they are infernally dull. He gives us a great feast of literary opinions which sometimes rivals the rich hodgepodge of George Saintsbury, whom Mr. Wilson admires.

As one reads this book one has the sensation, which so little criticism affords, of being in contact with a really first-rate critical mind. These are not the hasty judgements of a hired opinion-mill, gobbling books and spewing out reviews for a living. There are things in the book which are hard to swallow, but we need not swallow them. In one essay—that upon his friend T. K. Whipple—Mr. Wilson might almost be Marquand, writing one of his straight-faced caricatures of a Bostonian memoir; it is odd to find Mr. Wilson engaged in this sort of glorifying of dead professors. But the book is wonderfully stimulating and entertaining in the best sense of that word. I recommend it heartily to anyone whose interest in modern writing is more than superficial. R.D.

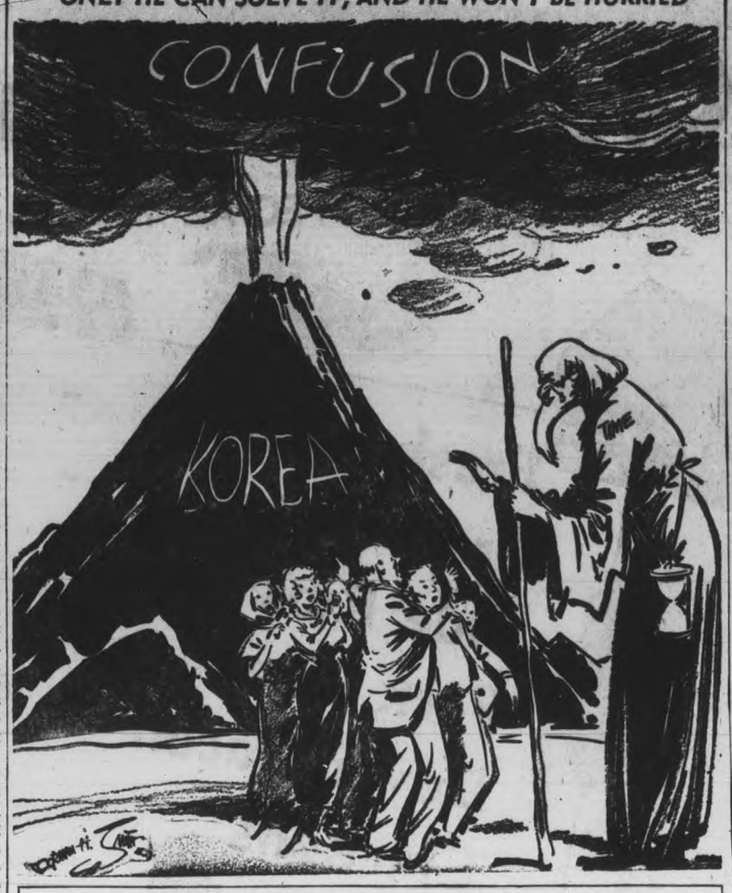
SOVIET STRENGTH AND STRATEGY IN ASIA: By Ivar Spector (McClelland & Stewart). This paper-covered booklet of fifty pages is published in Seattle. The author (his name is not, incidentaly, a pseudonym) is a Russian who has been living in the States since 1920 and has taught at the University of Washington since 1931. From 1946 to 1950 the author served as editor of "Soviet Press Translations", a publication of his university. This booklet is based on his reading of the Soviet press and is cogent and timely—it takes in the Russian press response to the war in Korea. It is a useful chapter on contemporary international problems, and the several Russian press cartoons included are particularly illuminating.



The author believes that "facing ultimate encirclement the Soviets will....as soon as they consider themselves ready, either precipitate a direct attack upon the U.S.A. or an indirect attack at one of the armed American satellites, which will just as surely involve us. Such a situation may well rise if the Soviet-Chinese Axis outflanks us in Southeast East and becomes dizzy with success. The fact that Molotov is the power behind the throne in the co-ordination of the Soviet-Chinese Axis is not reassuring."

It is a documentary booklet of value, but who in his right sense is going to pay $1.75 for something which, if it is important enough for wide reading, should sell at 25 cents? T.J.A.

A TEACHER LOOKS AT THE CURRICULUM: By John Diamant (Ryerson Press). This brochure is not, as might be supposed, a specific analysis of the new Ontario school curriculum; nor is it, as pamphlets usually are, an argument, a diatribe, or a thesis. It is quiet, discursive. The writer, Mr. Diamant, a teacher for the last twenty years at Napanee Collegiate, has summed up many of his thoughts about the nature of education and the methods of teaching in thirteen chapters. He presents no systematic philosophy of education and gives no radical criticisms. He is so quiet and unpretentious that often his remarks seem pointless. He is in favour of a liberal education without too much emphasis on training for earning a living. He is in favour of a fluid curriculum in high schools, to provide, among other things, for pupils in part-time jobs. He believes one of the major tasks of the schools is to inculate good habits of work. His three schoolmaster paragons are Socrates, Christ, and Pestalozzi. He warns of the "danger of meddling with the lives of the young" by means of vocational guidance. There is much wisdom of teacher-experience in this booklet, but little salt. It is good that an Ontario teacher can divest himself sufficiently of the cares of the classroom and the cant of pedagogics to think about and set down his thoughts on matters which should be of basic concern to all teachers. T.J.A.

Letters To The Editor

CHILDREN NO WORSE

Sir: Having read a letter in your paper Monday 22nd on the subject of "Bad Language Among Children" I wish to express two opinions on the subject.

First to the "Casual Observer" I would like to point out that All Saints Church on Rubidge St. is just as much, one of our Blessed Lord's Homes on Earth as anything at the corner of Brock and Rubidge St.; so why say "the latter so close to one of our Blessed Lord's Homes on Earth"? Let us not be narrow-minded about any of our Lord's Houses anywhere.

Second I am well past school age, and I believe I get around quite a bit, and comparing the present day school "kid" with those of about 20 years ago, I don't believe there is such a vast difference in either actions or words. Let us remember that many things are done much more openly now than they were then. But that does not necessarily mean these things are getting worse. We were all young once.

ANOTHER CASUAL OBSERVER.

DISCUSSES DISMISSED APPEAL

Sir: In last Friday's edition of your paper a news item appeared under the heading "Supreme Court Dismisses Appeal by City". This article gives the erroneous impression to the public that the ratepayers have suffered through the negligence of the Council in the O'Connell Arbitration proceedings. Also the article appears to be an "inspired" one in that it is most unusual for such a minor interlocutory proceeding to be even reported in a newspaper. It is the first time in my experience that I have ever seen a report of an appeal from a taxing officer's decision to a Judge in Chambers outside of the Osgoode Hall news.

In fairness to the Council and the public I think the facts of this Arbitration should be briefly reviewed. A claim was made on behalf of the late Mr. J. T. O'Connell to the City Council for $24,600 for 8.58 acres of land expropriated lying between Rose Ave. and O'Connell Street. Later a motion was made to increase this claim to $57,750.00. Messrs. J. C. N. German, K.C., Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C. and W. B. Gordon appeared on behalf of Mr. O'Connell on the Arbitration proceedings before His Honour Judge Smoke. The Arbitration awarded Mr. O'Connell $11,000 and his taxed costs. From this award Mr. O'Connell appealed to the Court of Appeal but later this appeal was abandoned.

The O'Connell Estate then brought in for taxation a Bill of Costs amounting to $5,940.56. Messrs. J. R. Kimber, J. C. N. German, K.C. and W. B. Gordon, solicitors for the O'Connell Estate appeared before the Taxing Officer in support of this bill. The Taxing Officer reduced the bill to $2,508.22. This decision was not reported by the Examiner nor mentioned in its article. The city sought to have this Bill further reduced and appealed to a Judge in Chambers. The Judge refused to reduce it further and dismissed the Appeal with costs which costs amount to $25.00 subject to increase to $40.00. This is the Appeal the Examiner reported.

The tenants of the lands expropriated claimed $6,174.70 and were awarded $1,500 and costs.

In view of the claims made I think the public will agree that the city did not fare so badly.

The conclusion of the reporter that a tender should have been made before Arbitration is open to grave doubt. It is very difficult in these times to arrive at true values of lands as any purchaser knows. In this case values of experts ranged all the way from $10,400.00 to the amount claimed, namely, $57,750.00. If the city tendered one dollar less than the value later found by the Arbitrator the property owner would still have been entitled to his costs. If the city tendered more than it considered the true value it would leave itself open to the charge that it was throwing the taxpayers money away. Moreover, an Arbitrator would be entitled to assume that a City Council mindful of its trust to the ratepayers would not and should not offer more than it considered the land was worth. The evidence of value varied so greatly that, I think, even your reporter would have experienced considerable difficulty in arriving at a proper amount to tender. In any event no mistake was made by the Council in the O'Connell Arbitration.

Yours truly,
T. J. CARLEY.

Rome Dispatch in The Manchester Guardian

A 31-year-old Christian Democrat deputy, Maria Puci, resigned her seat today "in order to devote herself to her husband and her first baby," which arrived a few weeks ago. She was elected by the provinces of the Marshes East of Rome, and has yet to make a speech in the Chamber.

The Communist press takes a poor view of her decision and writes: "She has taken a grave decision. She has preferred her baby in its cradle to several thousand citizens who gave her their votes, and this is unjust. What would happen if anyone who becomes a mother or father begins to shut themselves up in a cellar like a cat with kittens?...The road she has taken leads back to the primeval savage".

The Antique Nickel

(Kitchener Record)

The Winnipeg Free Press notes that this year marks the 200th anniversary of the discovery of nickel and that a commemorative nickel is therefore being minted in Ottawa.

But it warns those who expect the nickel to return to commerce to "ponder the fate of the groat"—a fourpence coined from the reign of Edward III to Charles II, which would give it a life span of roughly 300 years.

We suspect there is an analogy all right. All of us have fond memories of a day when we wheedled a nickel out of mother and dad and went down to the candy store with the world in our fist. It took a long time to decide what to buy—there were so many nickel items to choose from.

But those days are probably gone. The nickel has been fighting a losing battle ever since we stopped calling a "dime" store the "five-and-ten."

The Problem Of Controls

The United States has appointed a Defence Mobilization Director, Charles E. Wilson, formerly head of General Electric. Mr. Wilson is now czar of the entire American economic program. Under him is the Economic Stabilization Agency which has two divisions, one for price and the other for wage control. Until last week there was uncertainty about the rate of stabilizing prices and wages, and the extent to which controls would be applied. Now there is not. The Economic Stabilization administrator, Alan Valentine, whose policy was to go slow on controls, has resigned; he has been replaced by the former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S.A., Eric Johnston. Last Wednesday Mr. Wilson delivered his first important address since his appointment, and said:

"What about our economy * * *? How do we keep it from running away? There is only one answer—controls. I hate the word—so do you. But there is no other way. Voluntary methods will not work. That has been proven. The power of law must be invoked. It must be used for allocation of materials, for prices, rents and wages * * *. We must proceed with courage, speed and forthrightness."

It is clear that the U.S.A. is committed to prices and wage controls at least as rigorous and comprehensive as those under O.P.A. during the last war.

* * *

This is no easy road. Political and social pressure for and against various types of controls and regulations will be heavy. Commercial and industrial dislocations will occur. And there is the job of finding enough capable men to devise and administer the controls. Even before Mr. Wilson's speech, the Economic Stabilization Agency, with only 470 employees, was planning to expand by June to 15,000, and by June 1952 to 50,000. So, in this one department of controls, will be needed at least 50,000 employees. It is a drain on the available labour and technical force of the country at a time when men and women are needed in industry and the armed forces. Further, can the right men be found with sufficient economic training and sufficient experience in the special branch of the industry or business they are setting out to control?

• • •

Controls in the States will have a direct effect and an osmotic influence on Canada. The pressure for controls in Canada is already insistent in certain quarters. There are these considerations: First, that wage controls must come with price controls. Second, Canada is not involved in economic and military turmoils to the same extent or degree as the U.S.A. Third, controls worked fairly well in Canada during the war for a limited period. But now Canada is not at war, and to impose full controls now is quite a different matter from 1940. The present tension and drain on resources for military purposes may continue for twenty-five years or fifty. Is it proposed to put Canada under controls for a generation or two? Is that the way Canadians want to live and work?

• • •

Controls are an emergency measure, of a temporary nature. They do not cure a condition; they control it for a limited period. It is nonsense to believe that an economy can be bottled up for ten or twenty-five years and not burst the bottle. Controls will not work over a long period, except in the way they were made to work in Nazi Germany and now in Communist Russia, or, in the mildest form, in Socialist Britain.

How Do Loyalty Oaths Work?

The State of New York, we observe, now demands that all workers in the civil defence organizations within its borders must sign a pledge of loyalty. This document declares that the signer is loyal to the Constitution, is not a member of any group which advocates the overthrow of the Government by force, and will not join such a group while working for civil defence. People holding jobs of special responsibility are investigated more thoroughly, for they have access to information which could be of use to an enemy.

We are inclined to question the usefulness of such oaths. Most people who want to do unpaid civil defence work are moved by a wish to help their country which is in itself the best assurance of loyalty. Those who are trying to get into civil defence in order to do harm would not stick at signing an oath. Perjury is the first lesson that such a person learns.

An oath has no magic in itself which raises it above the ethical level of the man or woman who signs it. Deeply religious people will swear in the name of God that they will be truthful and loyal; irreligious people with a high ethical standard will swear simply by their own honour to do the same; both oaths will be carefully observed. But there are great numbers of people whose religion is of variable strength, and whose honour ebbs and flows, and an oath which they have signed is of slight value. In court the fear of a punishment for perjury keeps them in check; where there is no punishment, what importance can be attached to their oath?

To compell someone to swear that he is loyal to his country seems to us to be an ineffective procedure. Only the most honest and scrupulous dissenter will refuse to swear under such circumstances, and no country has much to fear from honest and scrupulous dissenters. Loyalty appears to be a matter which must be taken on faith, or proved by thorough investigation; the value of oaths as evidence of loyalty is slight.

St. Laurent Peace Move

While Canada is heart and soul in favour of measures to unitedly strengthen the western democracies to defend themselves against alien rule, Canada is also in favour of peace. It is said that to be in favour of peace is as effective an attitude as being in favour of fine weather. Mr. St. Laurent has shown otherwise. He has done something about it.

He examined the Peiping rejection of U.N.'s cease-fire proposal last week and with his keen, orderly mind, saw it to be not as blunt as the Americans did. He asked, through the mediation of the Indian Government and its ambassador at Peiping, that the Chinese explain certain ambiguities in their reply. Thus the door was opened again for negotiations.

The three ambiguities on which clarification was asked were: what Peiping meant by withdrawal of foreign forces from Korea; what it meant by negotiations to precede a cease-fire, and what it meant by its proposals for discussion of membership in U.N. The Chinese have made it clear that a cease-fire could be agreed on at the first meeting of the seven-power conference, and before political negotiations were made; that the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea would include the Chinese troops; and, as regards membership in U.N., what China wants is an assurance of "legitimate status" in U.N.

Thus the difference between the U.N. proposal for a seven-power conference and the Chinese proposals have been lessened to such an extent that a conference, and a cease-fire may occur. Canada is well-fitted to act as intermediary in these matters. She is western and closely related to the U.S.A., but sufficiently aloof to take a detached view. And she has an able Prime Minister, of great mental capacity and experience in external affairs.

How To Be Happy Though Stupid

Ever since Christmas we have been fiddling with a clipping from the Windsor Star which tells about a case encountered by a Windsor social worker at that season. We have not printed the story because we do not quite know what to make of it. However, here it is:

Prize story of the season—or of any Christmas season—concerns the member of a local union who, a bit down on his luck, applied to the local for relief. Groceries. Coal. So forth. He had six starving kids, all right—dirty, running around in unwashed underwear—also a brand new $400 television set. "You see," explained the Fond Father, who admitted paying $45 a month for the thing, "it keeps the kids at home. They don't have to wear anything but underwear."

This is a type of reasoning which drives social workers to an early grave. And yet it is by no means uncommon. It is encountered among people whose level of solvency is far above that of the Windsor economist. It is the type of reasoning which cannot distinguish between a luxury and a necessity.

How often, though, one man's necessity is another man's luxury! There are people who do not mind living in uncomfortable and poorly furnished houses if they can drive a better car than their income might seem to warrant. There are people who do not mind living very quietly and perhaps meagerly for most of the year if they can splurge on travel once in a while. There are people who buy more books, or gramophone records, or bottles of whisky, or flowers, or concert tickets than they can really afford, because they want those things more than they want some of the other and duller things of life. And everybody who sees another man spending money on things which he himself does not value thinks that his neighbour is stupid. It rarely occurs to him that this supposed stupidity is a way to happiness.

The Windsor man who gave his children television rather than clothes was carrying a human failing to an extreme length. But there is a kinship between this original economist and all the rest of us.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Tobacco products may rise sharply in price, we are warned, and the Ottawa Journal points out that, after all, nobody is compelled to smoke. Yes, but if they stop smoking, how is the Government to get any benefit from the increased taxes? When the Government taxes a commodity, it becomes the duty of the good citizen to use as much of it as he can.

ON THE MARGIN

Writing In The Forties

CLASSICS AND COMMERCIALS, by Edmund Wilson (Farrar, Straus). This book, described as "a literary chronicle of the 'forties" is the work of a man who is, in the opinion of this reader, the ablest literary critic now on this continent. I have been reading Edmund Wilson's criticism for a good many years, and think myself reasonably familiar with it. It is distinguished by the fact that Mr. Wilson's standards are very high, and that he permits no compromise with them; that he is not connected with any university or school and has no academic axe to grind; that he is a man of learning and true cultivation, and cannot be fooled by advertising campaigns or the excitement which lesser critics can whip up over a new writer; that he is himself an excellent writer and can combine good criticism with good reading. On the debit side it must be said that Mr. Wilson is something of an intellectual snob, which leads him to be hard in his judgements upon many popular writers who are by no means bad writers; it must be said also that he cannot rid himself of a rancorous dislike of the British people, and that this sometimes appears to colour his judgement. It is a curious fact that Mr. Wilson himself, though much superior to all but two or three of the best living English critics, resembles them in his literacy and his standards of excellence far more than he does his easy-going brethren in the U.S.A.

In "Classics and Commercials" he has reprinted all his literary articles written during the 'forties, and the book may be taken as a survey of much of the most interesting work of that period. It is a fat little book, containing more than 500 pages, and I read it with the pleasure and sustained attention which I can give only to what I consider really first-rate. The range of Mr. Wilson's judgements is very wide: he writes about the School of Violence which has come into being around Hollywood; he writes about Van Wyck Brook's considerations of American literature; he writes about Evelyn Waugh and about Kafka; he knocks Louis Bromfield over the head and decrys the overpraised Arthur Machen; he explains better than any other critic that I have read why Thackeray is so good to read, and so unsatisfactory to have read; he attacks the modern tendency to regard Dr. Samuel Johnson as a mere eccentric who had the luck to know a nosey little Scotchman named Boswell; he shows what is really good about W. S. Gilbert, who has been so often treated with patronage; he writes with wonderful wit about Emily Post and etiquette books; he launches a full-scale attack upon detective stories, taking the line (which I have long taken myself in my quiet way) that they are unreadable not because they are ill-written but because they are infernally dull. He gives us a great feast of literary opinions which sometimes rivals the rich hodgepodge of George Saintsbury, whom Mr. Wilson admires.

As one reads this book one has the sensation, which so little criticism affords, of being in contact with a really first-rate critical mind. These are not the hasty judgements of a hired opinion-mill, gobbling books and spewing out reviews for a living. There are things in the book which are hard to swallow, but we need not swallow them. In one essay—that upon his friend T. K. Whipple—Mr. Wilson might almost be Marquand, writing one of his straight-faced caricatures of a Bostonian memoir; it is odd to find Mr. Wilson engaged in this sort of glorifying of dead professors. But the book is wonderfully stimulating and entertaining in the best sense of that word. I recommend it heartily to anyone whose interest in modern writing is more than superficial. R.D.

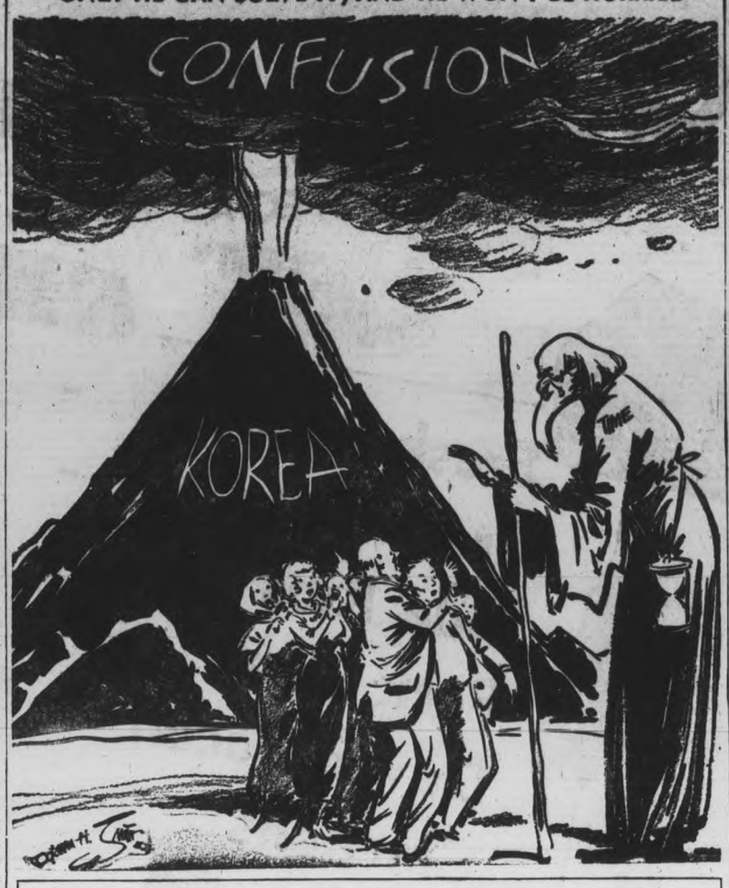
SOVIET STRENGTH AND STRATEGY IN ASIA: By Ivar Spector (McClelland & Stewart). This paper-covered booklet of fifty pages is published in Seattle. The author (his name is not, incidentaly, a pseudonym) is a Russian who has been living in the States since 1920 and has taught at the University of Washington since 1931. From 1946 to 1950 the author served as editor of "Soviet Press Translations", a publication of his university. This booklet is based on his reading of the Soviet press and is cogent and timely—it takes in the Russian press response to the war in Korea. It is a useful chapter on contemporary international problems, and the several Russian press cartoons included are particularly illuminating.



The author believes that "facing ultimate encirclement the Soviets will....as soon as they consider themselves ready, either precipitate a direct attack upon the U.S.A. or an indirect attack at one of the armed American satellites, which will just as surely involve us. Such a situation may well rise if the Soviet-Chinese Axis outflanks us in Southeast East and becomes dizzy with success. The fact that Molotov is the power behind the throne in the co-ordination of the Soviet-Chinese Axis is not reassuring."

It is a documentary booklet of value, but who in his right sense is going to pay $1.75 for something which, if it is important enough for wide reading, should sell at 25 cents? T.J.A.

A TEACHER LOOKS AT THE CURRICULUM: By John Diamant (Ryerson Press). This brochure is not, as might be supposed, a specific analysis of the new Ontario school curriculum, nor is it, as pamphlets usually are, an argument, a diatribe, or a thesis. It is quiet, discursive. The writer, Mr. Diamant, a teacher for the last twenty years at Napanee Collegiate, has summed up many of his thoughts about the nature of education and the methods of teaching in thirteen chapters. He presents no systematic philosophy of education and gives no radical criticisms. He is so quiet and unpretentious that often his remarks seem pointless. He is in favour of a liberal education without too much emphasis on training for earning a living. He is in favour of a fluid curriculum in high schools, to provide, among other things, for pupils in part-time jobs. He believes one of the major tasks of the schools is to inculate good habits of work. His three schoolmaster paragons are Socrates, Christ, and Pestalozzi. He warns of the "danger of meddling with the lives of the young" by means of vocational guidance. There is much wisdom of teacher-experience in this booklet, but little salt. It is good that an Ontario teacher can divest himself sufficiently of the cares of the classroom and the cant of pedagogics to think about and set down his thoughts on matters which should be of basic concern to all teachers. Letters To The Editor

CHILDREN NO WORSE

Sir: Having read a letter in your paper Monday 22nd on the subject of "Bad Language Among Children" I wish to express two opinions on the subject.

First to the "Casual Observer" I would like to point out that All Saints Church on Rubidge St. is just as much, one of our Blessed Lord's Homes on Earth as anything at the corner of Brock and Rubidge St.; so why say "the latter so close to one of our Blessed Lord's Homes on Earth"? Let us not be narrow-minded about any of our Lord's Houses anywhere.

Second I am well past school age, and I believe I get around quite a bit, and comparing the present day school "kid" with those of about 20 years ago, I don't believe there is such a vast difference in either actions or words. Let us remember that many things are done much more openly now than they were then. But that does not necessarily mean these things are getting worse. We were all young once.

ANOTHER CASUAL OBSERVER.

DISCUSSES DISMISSED APPEAL

Sir: In last Friday's edition of your paper a news item appeared under the heading "Supreme Court Dismisses Appeal by City". This article gives the erroneous impression to the public that the ratepayers have suffered through the negligence of the Council in the O'Connell Arbitration proceedings. Also the article appears to be an "inspired" one in that it is most unusual for such a minor interlocutory proceeding to be even reported in a newspaper. It is the first time in my experience that I have ever seen a report of an appeal from a taxing officer's decision to a Judge in Chambers outside of the Osgoode Hall news.

In fairness to the Council and the public I think the facts of this Arbitration should be briefly reviewed. A claim was made on behalf of the late Mr. J. T. O'Connell to the City Council for $24,600 for 8.58 acres of land expropriated lying between Rose Ave. and O'Connell Street. Later a motion was made to increase this claim to $57,750.00. Messrs. J. C. N. German, K.C., Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C. and W. B. Gordon appeared on behalf of Mr. O'Connell on the Arbitration proceedings before His Honour Judge Smoke. The Arbitration awarded Mr. O'Connell $11,000 and his taxed costs. From this award Mr. O'Connell appealed to the Court of Appeal but later this appeal was abandoned.

The O'Connell Estate then brought in for taxation a Bill of Costs amounting to $5,940.56. Messrs. J. R. Kimber, J. C. N. German, K.C. and W. B. Gordon, solicitors for the O'Connell Estate appeared before the Taxing Officer in support of this bill. The Taxing Officer reduced the bill to $2,508.22. This decision was not reported by the Examiner nor mentioned in its article. The city sought to have this Bill further reduced and appealed to a Judge in Chambers. The Judge refused to reduce it further and dismissed the Appeal with costs which costs amount to $25.00 subject to increase to $40.00. This is the Appeal the Examiner reported.

The tenants of the lands expropriated claimed $6,174.70 and were awarded $1,500 and costs.

In view of the claims made I think the public will agree that the city did not fare so badly.

The conclusion of the reporter that a tender should have been made before Arbitration is open to grave doubt. It is very difficult in these times to arrive at true values of lands as any purchaser knows. In this case values of experts ranged all the way from $10,400.00 to the amount claimed, namely, $57,750.00. If the city tendered one dollar less than the value later found by the Arbitrator the property owner would still have been entitled to his costs. If the city tendered more than it considered the true value it would leave itself open to the charge that it was throwing the taxpayers money away. Moreover, an Arbitrator would be entitled to assume that a City Council mindful of its trust to the ratepayers would not and should not offer more than it considered the land was worth. The evidence of value varied so greatly that, I think, even your reporter would have experienced considerable difficulty in arriving at a proper amount to tender. In any event no mistake was made by the Council in the O'Connell Arbitration.

Yours truly,
T. J. CARLEY.

Clark Offers Help Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 24 (CP) — Because of Korea, Gen. Mark Clark said Tuesday the American soldier is being taught how to fight better in the dark and in the mountains and he invited Canada to send her soldiers to learn whatever the U.S. army has to offer.

The chief of the U.S. army's field forces, in Canada on a four-day visit, told a press conference he has arranged to give all possible help to the Canadian army in its transition from British to American arms.

He said a schedule of visits to his Virginia headquarters has worked out at conference here through which the Canadians will be informed what schools and other facilities are available to help them.

Gen. Clark, a tall, tanned Texan, said he expects Canada will be getting "all kinds" of U.S. arms, including tanks, Gar- and automatic rifles, machine-guns, mortars and artillery pieces. Until better ones began to get into production, the available tanks were modernized Shermans and a new light tank.

He had been informed Canadian army headquarters is "working up a project of the problems involved" in the arms switch and that it "may involve some slight changes in the (Canadian) army's organization." The schedule of visits would emerge from that study.

HON. STANLEY WOODWARD, United States Ambassador to Canada, as he appeared before the Canadian Club in Montreal recently, when he declared that the free nations of the world will never submit to Communist blackmail tactics to secure universal peace, and urged all to do more to preserve the democratic way of life.

Irish Railway Strike In 6th Week, Spreads

DUBLIN, Jan. 24 — (AP). — The Irish railway strike—now in its sixth week—spread Tuesday, when 80 signal-system operators in Dublin refused to cross picket lines.

Railway union supporters predicted that signalmen throughout the Republic of Ireland will follow the Dublin lead. The strike began in December among 3,000 members of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union after a deadlock on their demand for higher wages and better working conditions.

Meanwhile, the country's banks were closed for the 32nd day. Settlement talks between bank workers' and management representatives demanded by Prime Minister John Costello, continued Tuesday with no indication of progress.

Escapes Before Blast

HULL, Que., Jan. 24 (CP). — Earl Robillard, 19, of Ottawa, escaped from a flaming storage shed owned by the Vipond Construction Company in suburban Wrightville Tuesday seconds before it was destroyed by an explosion. The explosion occurred when flames from an overheated woodstove touched off a four-gallon can of fuel oil. Flying wood, some of it still burning, smashed windows in two nearby homes and the ruins were spread over a radius of 50 yards.

Linotype Operator Dies

KINGSTON, Jan. 24—(CP).—John F. McQuoid, who retired last July after gaining recognition as one of Torontos best linotype operators, died in hospital here Tuesday. He was 73. A member of the International Typographical Union for 46 years, he worked for the old Mail and Empire here and later for the Globe and Mail. He lived in his home town of Consecon until his death.

Denies Testimony

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP). — William W. Remington vigorously denied Tuesday his divorced wife's testimony that he told her he was a Communist and that she married him on condition that he remain a Communist. Remington, former $10,000-a-year commerce department economist, is charged with perjury for telling a federal grand jury he never was a Communist party member.

Emergency Rescue Squad Guardian Angel To Climbers

VANCOUVER, Jan. 24 (CP).—A mountain backdrop can be a deadly lure in a crowded metropolis.

Alpine scenery across Burrard Inlet, only minutes away from Vancouver by automobile or ferry, entices reckless youngsters and tourists whose sense of direction seems to end when they step off city sidewalks.

But these amateur Alpinists now have a guardian angel organization, pledged to end needless deaths on mountain ledges and slopes.

It is the Mountain Emergency Rescue Squad, born of tragedy and composed of 80 trouble-shooters, all of whom have had at last five years' experience on the north shore slopes.

Professional skiers and climbers have joined, but its backbone is made up of business men, office workers and others who challenge the mountains for pleasure.

Exposure and panic lead to most deaths in the mountains which, at this time of the year, are covered with 15-foot snowdrifts and engulfed by winter mists.

Because of this, speed is the rescue keynote.

Sam Taylor, the organization's chairman, says this is how the volunteer group tackles a rescue job:

A distraught mother informs police a youngster is overdue on a hiking trip up the mountain. The law calls in MERS, and within an hour, as many as 40 men are on the trail. Using snowshoes and skis, equipped with walkie-talkie radios, they will comb the region until the lost hiker is found or there is no hope of his survival. The hunt will be on a 24-hour basis.

In a way, the organization is a memorial to Norman Fielders, a 12-year-old boy who loved hiking. He was found dead from exposure January 3 on 3,974-foot Grouse Mountain. His body was found huddled only one mile from safety. Formation of the rescue unit followd his death.

Cugat In Hot Water

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 24 (AP) —Xavier Cugat, 51, said Tuesday his estranged wife and a party of detectives "barged into" the Chicago Hotel suite of his pretty girl singer, Abbe Lane, 19, early Tuesday—surprising him and Miss Lane, who was partly disrobed. But, said the rhumba exponent whose marital difficulties have been anything but secret, there was nothing wrong. Miss Lane, he said, merely was changing her clothes in the bathroom before going to a midnight movie.

Ballet Dancer Wins Scholarship

HAMILTON, Jan. 24 (CP)—A diminutive Hamilton youth bent on making his career with one of the world's greatest ballet troupes sails for England from New York Friday aboard the liner Franconia.

Frederic Anthony, 21, who has danced in such Canadian cities as Winnipeg, Vancouver, Toronto and Hamilton, has been awarded a Sadler's Wells scholarship.

"I'll just be studying to begin with," said Anthony as he packed before leaving his home here. "With dancing you've got to work hard, and if I do well, I'll get a chance to join the second company (which will make next years Sadler's Wells Canadian tour)."

Anthony's dancing career started when he visited Nancy Campbell's Hamilton studio. "I went to take up taps. When I saw ballet class, I fell in love with it." That led to the Hamilton Ballet Co. and the second ballet festival in Toronto.

Anthony was dancing soloist with the Winnipeg Ballet last fall when Ninette de Valois, Sadler's Wells director, there lecturing, saw him do two numbers, "Visage," the modern Canadian piece by Walter Koffman, and "Bluebird Variations." She offered him the scholarship on the spot.

Gamblers Face Contempt Count

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) —The Senate Tuesday voted contempt of Congress charges against gambling overlord Joe Adonis and seven other gambling figures. All were involved in recent Senate Crime Investigating Committee hearings.

The citations go to U.S. district attorneys to be presented to grand juries. The penalty upon conviction ranges up to a year in jail and a fine of $1,000 on each count.

Those cited in addition to Adonis are Anthony J. Accardo, reputed heir to Al Capone's place in the Chicago underworld; Jack I. Dragna, Los Angeles gambler; Pat Manno, alias Patrick J. Manning, named by the committee as operator of a big numbers racket in Chicago; Walter M. Pechart, San Francisco gambling figure; and James Lynch, Arthur Longano and Salvatore Moretti, identified by the committee as members of a northern New Jersey gambling ring.

Defence Of West Supersedes Nationalization In Newspapers

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Jan. 24 — (CP) — Remember the dear, dead days when nationalization seemed pretty important political news?

Well, there's little space for it now in Britain. Defence of the west has become the main preoccupation.

War, rearmament and Communism are the key themes of the British press. Reflecting this trend, one newspaper recently gave over its feature columns to an imaginary Mr. Hopeful, arguing for and against the prospects of a major war. In the correspondence that followed, a majority of readers took a hopeful view.

Most of them somewhat dubiously based their good cheer on the thought that Stalin is happier the way things are now.

Another paper devoted a series to "My Plan for Peace," as outlined by various well-known personalities.

A Triple Task

Books are not lacking on the general theme of resistance to Communism. In one just published—"Policy for the West"—Barbara Ward of the Economist outlines a triple task—a system of joint defence, maintenance of stability and economic expansion in Europe, and a concerted program to raise standards among backward peoples, particularly in Asia.

Newspaper correspondence columns, recently engaged in a discussion on whether or not hatred is the chief appeal of Communism, have since found arguments for the theory that power, rather than hate or money, is the chief lure.

Some readers supported the idea that "Marxist-bred vanities" are an important factor. Another found it strange that the world should be obsessed with Communism "when there is hardly a real Communist left in it," and suggested that those professing Communism should be called Kremlinists instead

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Come early to Civic Arena tonight if you want a good rush seat. There probably won't be a sellout, but a whopping big crowd is assured at this senior "B" puck game. Because it's Eagles vs. the Petes again. The Monday meeting betwixt the old rivals resulted in a 4-3 win for Eagles in a sizzling encounter. With the Petes doing everything but scoring the equalizer in that hectic third heat. Tonight, a win for the Magee men would put them alone in top place by half a game. But a victory for the Jopling crew would put them out in front by a game and a half. Don't think they both won't hustle every second of the struggle.

* * * * * *

So far this season, the Eagles have had a pretty fair margin in these inter-club clashes. However, the Petes have been coming on fast in recent weeks—that's why they lead the group—while Eagles have hit some rough luck. Injuries to key players as well as having to meet the hot Nylons twice lately have hampered their drive for top spot, though they're mighty close to it. Both teams are most anxious to grab this game tonight and it'll mean another ice classic. Furious hockey action of playoff calibre with half the customers screaming for Petes and the other half yelling for Eagles. Don't pass it up.

Those Poor Referees

OHA refs have a tough time of it. Wally Wilson turned in a pretty good chore here the other eve, yet he was frequently in hot water with both teams. He decided to be tough early and threw 'em off for very minor offences. Yet he was bound to miss others in a tight tilt between well-matched and scrappy opponents. And a big crowd jeering him often. The trouble is that hockey is one sport where the printed rules are ignored as often as they're observed. Every game sees a whole lot of hooking, holding and interference with no penalties. Or when a two-minute sentence is handed out for this stuff, everyone yells "a cheap penalty". What can a poor referee do? Those things call for penalties.

* * * * * *

The blame can be laid on the doorstep of the NHL. Their style of play is followed by the amateurs. They, too, have these penalty rules, yet rarely observe them except in flagrant cases. Carl Voss, chief referee of the NHL, recently told a Detroit newspapeman that holding and hooking penalties were only being called about half the time—and he said they're not being called all the time simply because it's tough to change a pattern halfway through a season! Isn't that something, coming from the boss? Either call 'em all and thereby make the players behave, or else change the rules to suit the style of hockey now being played. Let's get some uniform officiating for a change.

Don Ashbee Gets Dues

Current issue of The Hockey News has a good article on "Digging" Don Ashbee of Buffalo, who may be voted the rookie of the year in the AHL. The left-winger now has 47 points in 44 games, having come up this year from Louisville of the USA loop and being with Barrie Flyers before that. He is on Montreal Canadiens' NHL list. One item in the article said: "He starred on the highest scoring line in Canadian lacrosse last summer with Arnold Dugan, Emmett Creighton and Bob Thorpe of the Peterborough seniors in the OLA." Ashbee had 88 points to be fourth top senior lacrosse sniper in the country. Don told his interviewer that he liked the Kawartha district where the fishing is good. Nice work, Don, give the district a plug—and come back and play again for the OLA Petes when the hockey wars are over.

Nope, there's never a dull moment at the pro grapples. Yukon Eric and Whip Watson wound up scrapping amid the seats of paid fans—said fans hurriedly stepping aside—to a draw in the main bout here last eve. They had previously tried to massacre each other in the ring, with Watson much the better wrestler but finding the Alaskan a powerful hunk of man. Just 276 pounds of bull strength. Whipper spotted him 40 pounds and showed him plenty about the mat game, but couldn't quite get the decision. Fred Atkins, the Aussie champ, had a bit too much for tricky Seelie Samara in the semi-final, but had to rough it a lot to win. The prelim betwixt Kaye Bell and Abe Zvonkin went to a draw. A hefty crowd on deck

Joe Louis, Jr., 3½, will be a ringside spectator when his famous father fights Omelio Agramonte in Miami Feb. 7. The former champion's son will come from Detroit Tuesday. It will be his first ringside view of his dad in action.

Frank Casone, accused Memphis gambler, was indicted Tuesday on a charge of bribery in the alleged fixing of prizefights here last November.

The Shelby county grand jury, sitting in extraordinary session, also indicted James A. Manley, referee and promoter of the "faked" fights, for the second time. He previously was indicted on four counts of bribery.

It was a joint indictment saying the two bribed Dallas heavyweight Russel (Buddy) Scott.

Sandy Saddler of New York City, the world's featherweight champion, took a unanimous 10-round decision Tuesday night from Sunny Dave Shade of Detroit before about 4,000 fight fans but he had a fight on his hands most of the way.

In a preliminary six-rounder Dave Mitchell, 131, Toronto, outpointed Terry Leblanc, 134½, Montreal. Tommy Reece, Niagara Falls, Ont., outpointed Dick Strano, 158, Utica, N. Y., in a four-rounder.

Doughty's Rink In Final Of 'Spiel Prize

By HERB MARTIN

After playing all day Monday and Tuesday, the finals in the two main events and the semi-finals in the Gordon K. Fraser Trophy were reached last night. These games are today, and it is expected that the bonspiel will be over by six o'clock.

The final in the Ostrander Trophy will be T. Doughty's rink and W. Mark's Bobcaygeon rink.

The Curling Trophy finals is an all Peterborough affair and Dr. R. Clark and R. Williamson will fight it out.

Ostrander Trophy final: Peterborough (T. Doughty) vs. Bobcaygeon (W. Mark).

Carling Trophy final: Peterborough (R. Williamson) vs. Peterborough (Dr. R. Clark).

Gordon K. Fraser Trophy semi-final: Lindsay (J. Beal) vs. Peterborough (D. Charlton); Chatham (P. Gilbert) vs. Peterborough (Dr. C. McKee).

Grand Curling

It is doubtful if the spectators will witness better curling than they saw last night in the semi-finals of the Ostrander Trophy.

On ice No. 5, W. Mark, Bobcaygeon, and C. Edy, Sudbury, fought it out tooth and nail from beginning to end, and skip Mark had to make his last shot count to win the game.

On the next ice, No. 2, the two veteran skips of the local club—R. Best and C. Giroux—were having a fine battle, never more than one shot difference. Best was one up coming home and fighting hard to hold the advantage with the Giroux boys making every stone count. The skip himself made a beautiful T-high draw with his last stone to win the game.

As usual a large crowd stayed right up to the finish.

Ostrander Trophy, second round: T. Doughty won from P. Skitch; R. Best won from H. Baptie; C. Edy won from Dr. Spellman; M. Mark won from G. Braund.

Eric and Whip Go To Draw Mixing It Amid Big Crowd

Yukon Eric and Whipper Bill Watson wrestled to a draw in the main pro mat bout here last night, winding it up in a tangle out of the ring amid many of the 2,000 fans present. Both were counted out in 17 minutes of the final round. The Whip had all the best of the final round, using a punishing wristlock—though Eric broke it several times with punches — and finally applying his Commando grip. Eric staggered to the ring side and both fell out, mixing it then during the count.

The 236-pound British champ (who spotted the Alaskan 40 pounds) won the second and equalizing fall in just seven minutes with a flying Commando hold (an unconscious grip) after the powerful Eric had twice shaken it off. Yukon roughed it up a lot in this session and Whipper got peeved and showed him some of his ring lore, including judo, to have a big margin on the round. He even solved Eric's shaking chest slams in ring corners. The referee had to warn Eric at times and was pushed around by him once.

A Crushing Hold

Eric took the opening fall in slightly more than 12 minutes with his "Kodiac Krusher"—like a shoulder back-breaker — after slowing Watson up with chest slams in the corner and slugs on the back with his huge fist on the end of a beam-like arm. He was too strong for the Whip, though clumsy and not nearly as fast. They started it off quite cleanly, with the crowd evenly divided in cheers, but a hard headlock by the Whip irked the big lumberjack and he later began to rough it up and draw warnings. It was a good match between two opposite but powerful and popular grapplers.

Had Too Much

Fred Atkins, Australian heavy champ, at 252 pounds, won the semi-final over the 245-pound African, Seelie Samara. He took it with a half Boston crab hold in 17 minutes, locking the legs over his shoulders in an upright position and pinning the shoulders. He first softened up the popular colored wrestler with some hard punches. Sturdy and short-tempered Fred roughed it plenty, but found the sly Seelie his equal in the rugged going. Samara was tricky to get away with a lot, though warned several times for using head butts — he even used one on Referee Sammy Gotter—which he did to offset punches, knees and chokes applied by the strong Australian. It was a lively bout with the big crowd pulling for Seelie, but he was in against a tough and experienced matman, who had a little too much for him.

Slugged It Out

Kaye Bell, Washington 237-ponuder, and Hamilton's Abe Zvonkin (former senior gridder at 234 pounds) slugged it out roughly to a 30-minute prelim draw. Bell was the better wrestler with much more science than his opponent, but the latter used a lot of illegal stuff, and they both mixed it with hard blows, using closed fists, even after the bell. Abe was dirt from the go-in, but found Kaye ready to play it his way, too, as the referee looked helpless in hot travelling. Bell straddled Zvonkin on the ropes once and really let him have it as the fans cheered loudly. They were in and out of the ring at times in a hot scrap.

Lethbridge Leafs Fritter Away Lead

KREFELD, Germany, Jan. 24 (CP).—Lethbridge Maple Leafs Tuesday night frittered away a four-goal lead in the final period against Krefeld's Preussen hockey team, ending up in a 6-6 tie with the Germans.

It was the first tie for the Canadians—Canada's contenders for world hockey honors—on German ice. They racked up five straight wins last week in the midst of their 60-game tour of Europe.

Only during the second period, when they poured in three goals, did the Leafs show the whirlwind tactics that enabled them to trample Germany's best and to pull out of their earlier slump. They now have eight wins against five losses, with one game tied.

Tell Campanella Eye Undamaged

BROOKLYN, Jan. 24 (AP). — Roy Campanella still shudders when he thinks of his close escape from serious eye injury when a hot-water heater exploded in his face two weeks ago.

A series of eye tests prove the Brooklyn catcher's sight is undamaged. It fact it's 20-15. But it was a close call.

"It wasn't the littlest thing that ever happened to me," said Roy. "It had me worried. Funny thing. It never damaged the basement at all. Just me. But it's all right now."

Campanella signed his new contract Tuesday, calling for a salary in the $15,000-$20,000 neighborhood. Roy is ready for the gun.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

AN ideal sport for this time of the year is the ancient and honorable game of 'tree-chumping.' Almost anyone can play it; all you do is select the tallest tree in your locality, climb it, and, when you reach the highest limb, ease yourself carefully out to the end. Then, facing in toward the trunk, you pull out a heavy whittling-knife from your belt and gouge out the names of the three hockey players in the NHL whom you think should win this year's Hart, the Lady Byng and the Calder trophies.

If you have chosen the right players and avoided digging too deeply into the branch on which you perch, the chances are your name will be remembered along with those of the prophets of old. However, should you misjudge the signs of the times or your whittling ability, you will undoubtedly learn that 'tree-chumping' can be highly dangerous. Want to play? Okay. We'll lead off.

Lady Byng Trophy

For the Lady Byng Trophy (1950-51) we nominate Max Bentley of the Maple Leafs. Low on penalty-minutes, Max should be able to maintain his pace in the scoring-race and thereby take the trophy. The colourful centre of the Leafs has won the Byng Trophy once already in his career. And that, in his third season in the NHL (1942-43), with the Chicago Black Hawks.

The idea of Max Bentley's retirement was kicked around in the rumor-mill at the end of last season but the way the "Weaver" has been going throughout the current year, we will likely hear that he plans to retire not before 1972-73. Besides, Max and brother Douglas have always intended to retire together from the hockey wars and we can't imagine both Conn Smythe and Bill Tobin going soft simultaneously. Tobin and the Major could likely never decide on who thought of retiring their Bentley first—so both Max and Doug will probably have to play on for years and years and years!

Calder Trophy

Undoubtedly, twenty-one year old Terrence Gordon Sawchuk of the Detroit Red Wings will win the Calder Trophy of 1950-51. A red hot goaltender, young Sawchuk has the added advantage of being a genius.

He won the "Outstanding Rookie Award" of the USHL in 1947-48, while completing his first pro season with Omaha; previously, he had starred as an amateur with the Windsor Spitfires. In his second pro year, Sawchuk again won a rookie award (the "Dudley Red Garrett") with Indianapolis of the AHL in 1948-49. Now he is doing his talented toe dance for the Red Wings in championship form and will likely have to make room on his fire-place for both the Calder and Vezina trophies.

Hart Trophy

We call on Gord Howe, the whipping right-winger of the Red Wings, to walk off with the Hart Trophy for 1950-51. With the Abel, Lindsay and Howe line going like a three-headed rabbit through the NHL turnip patch, it is not likely that the experts will overlook twenty-two year old Gordon Howe.

So, now you can easily see how the rarified atmosphere of the high 'tree-chumping' game can affect the so-called mind of a sports-writer. We had intended to pick only the Lady Byng, Calder and Hart trophy winners but a second ago we decided to use an axe on our extended branch up the 'chump-tree.' So, for the STANLEY CUP winners of the 1950-51 season ... chop, chop, chop ... we pick the Otnorot-Tiorted-Sregnar to win Lord Stanley's cup! We've made our play. Now it's your turn. But careful with that axe.

This Week a Year Ago

This week, a year ago, in Earl's Court, London, Joey Maxim of Cleveland stunned a record indoor British boxing crowd by hanging a K.O. on the world's light heavyweight champ, Freddie Mills. Joey is now back in the news as a likely contender for Ezzard Charles' heavyweight crown—despite the difference in weight. Might be an interesting scrap at that!

Red Wings Paste Hawks In Lopsided 8-2 Victory

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Of all the teams in the National Hockey League, you'd think Detroit Red Wings might be the one to show a little consideration for Harry Lumley.

After all, the beleaguered Chicago Black Hawks goaltender played half a dozen brilliant seasons with Detroit and helped the team to its Stanley Cup victory last season before being traded.

However, the Red Wings appear to have forgotten. Tuesday night, for the second time in a week, they turned back the cellar-dwelling Hawks—this time by a lopsided 8-2 score.

The pasting left Lumley with 147 goals scored against him so far this season. That's in 44 games and is only one less than the number sent past him in the 63 games he played for Detroit last season.

If Lumley, a veteran in experience although still young in years—he's 24—has any bitterness for his old mates, he has good reason for directing much of it at Gordie Howe.

Shows No Mercy

The star Detroit right winger shoved three goals past Lumley in Chicago last night, duplicating a feat of the previous Wednesday when the Red Wings beat Chicago 4-2. Howe's line mate, Ted Lindsay, picked up four points, a goal and three assists.

A meagre crowd of 7,488 was on hand to watch the Black Hawks go through their 18th consecutive game without a win. The last time Chicago won a game was in Toronto Dec. 16, more than a month ago. Since then the best they have been able to do is three tie games.

Goals by Howe, George Gee and Jim Peters gave Detroit a 3-0 first-period lead before Gus Bodnar got Chicago's first goal on a passing play with Lee Fogolin.

Things got steadily worse for Lumley and the Hawks as Howe got his second goal at 15:19 of the second period, followed slightly more than a minute later by Lindsay. Lindsay helped Sid Abel and Howe on their third-period goals after which rookie Ed Leier got Chicago's second goal with Doug Bentley and Ernie Dickens assisting.

Poor Defence

The game demonstrated the difference a defence makes to a goaltender. Terry Sawchuk, with protection from such rearguard stalwarts as Red Kelly, Leo Reise, Bob Goldham and Eugene Martin, has had only 90 goals scored on him this season, second only to Toronto's Al Rollins-Turk Broda team.

Lumley, on the other hand, had good protection this season until Jack Stewart and Bill Gadsby, two keystones of the defence, were put out of action with injuries. Since then things have been going from bad to worse and there's no sign of any improvement.

Tuesday night's victory increased the first-place lead of the Red Wings to 10 points over Toronto. The Leafs will get a chance to get the two points back tonight, however, when they play host to Montreal, a third-place team that has been badly weakened by the loss of high-scoring Maurice Richard, out of action for about a month with an aggravated charleyhorse.

Want 2 Games Played For Grey Cup

TORONTO, Jan. 24 (CP)—The Big Four Football Union wants a two-game total-points east-west final for the Grey Cup next fall, with one game in Toronto and another in Montreal.

A Big Four source said Tuesday the proposal was discussed Saturday at its annual meeting. Support will be sought from Western Canada with a view to putting the plan before the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union.

For years the Grey Cup and the Canadian championship have been settled in a sudden-death game between representatives of the east and west. The CRU constitution provides that the game be played in Toronto's Varsity Stadium on the last Saturday of November.

Take Western Trip

The two-game plan was linked with an announcement that two Big Four representatives — President C. C. Lawson of Hamilton and past president Eric Cradock of Montreal Alouettes — will go west to discuss "mutual problems" with officials of the Western Interprovincial Fooball Union. They will also talk over possibility of joint action for greater control over their affairs in the CRU.

Lawson and Cradock will make their trip early in February. They may lay the groundwork in earlier telephone talks with western officials.

The Big Four official who confirmed talk of the two-game plan said that one aim was to provide bigger gates for the competing teams. He saw it as a boon to the western clubs who depend on sale of programs and other money-raising schemes to bolster their attendance receipts.

Ralph Misener president of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Tuesday night declined comment on the Big Four proposal for a two-game, total-point, East-West final for the Grey Cup next fall.

The Bomber president said it would take a great deal of study.

Quipped Misener: "Wonder how they'd like to play one game in the West?"

Al Anderson, manager of Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, said he doubts a two-game Grey Cup series would have the attraction of the present sudden-death final.

Penalties Cost Windsor 4-2 Win To Dukes

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Marlboros are back in sole possession of the Ontario Hockey Association's Junior A division No. 1 spot today because Eldor Thomas wasn't there where he should have been Tuesday night.

Thomas, high-scoring winger for Windsor Spitfires, sat out a couple of minor penalties during the third period. Before his penalties Windsor led the Dukes 2-1. After the former western player finished serving them Toronto was in front 3-2 and Marlies added another one later for good measure.

Prior to Tuesday night's three junior contests, Marlboros, Windsor and Barrie were tied atop the 10-team loop with 44 points apiece. Dukes went a game in front when Barrie Flyers were upset 6-0 in St. Catharines by the Teepees.

In the Toronto-Windsor contest, Marlboros rallied for three successive third-period goals. John Lumley, Eric Nesterenko and Danny Poland got the last period markers with the earlier goal being scored by Parker MacDonald. Will Haas and Al Arbour were Windsor marksmen.

Edge Through

In the second game of the Toronto doubleheader, St. Michael's climbed within a point of the eight-place Stratford Khroehlers with a 4-3 win over the fifth-place Oshawa Generals.

Lou Jankowski scored Oshawa's three goals to tie his linemate Alex Delvecchio for the loop's scoring leadership. Toronto goal-getters were Bob Sabourin, Murray Costello, Willie Marshall and Tom Fyles.

At St. Catharines Teepees ended a five-game losing streak with its lop-sided victory in a game which was marred by 74 minutes in penalties. The win boosted them into sixth place. St. Catharines' scorers were Don McCoombs, Skip Teal, Pierre Pilotte, Frank Martin, Frank Toyota and Wayne Brown.

In the only OHA major series contest, the league-leading Toronto St. Michael's were sparked to a 6-4 victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen by veteran Bill McCracken. He scored three goals and provided an assist on another.

The Dutchies outshot the Monarchs in every period but goalie Phil Hughes was extra good between the pipes.

Toronto's other goals were tallied by Pat Wilson, Jack Meldrum and Gord Hannigan. Billy Flick, the league's leading point-getter, and Art Hurst scored for the Dutchies.

Council Urging Dispersal Plan To Avoid Bombs

LONDON —(CP)— A plan to disperse part of Britain's population and essential armament industries through Commonwealth territories that are relatively safe from atomic attack is proposed by Sir Clifford Heathcote-Smith, deputy chairman of the Council for the New Era of Emigration.

Sir Clifford in a letter to the Times described the problem as one of the gravest and most urgent for the Commonwealth to decide.

The council contends that the strength or even the survival of the British Commonwealth may depend on swift action in transferring the nation's industrial strength from target areas to the chief European-settled countries of the Commonwealth.

"This is far from being a crisis measure," he writes. "A better distribution of industry and population would strengthen Britain and all the Commonwealth nations, both economically and as a matter of defence."

With migrants from Britain, he adds, should go some of the many refugees and displaced persons at present scattered throughout Western Europe. In the younger countries overseas, they would become an incalculable asset to the whole free world.

Has Opponents

Brinley Thomas, professor of economics at University College, Cardiff, described Sir Clifford's proposal as "unconvincing and unrealistic."

"This is an extraordinary policy to recommend at the very moment when everything depends on a situation of strength being rapidly built up in Western Europe," he said. "In other words, our particular contribution to the defence of the free world would be to stage a gigantic Dunkerque."

The proposal, he added, would undermine the very foundations of the Atlantic Treaty.

"Imagine the effects on the United States and the nations of Western Europe," said Prof. Thomas. "Does anyone seriously think that the rulers of Russia would hold back because the British Commonwealth was redistributing its population?"

Britain's destiny, he insisted, was bound up with the world-wide group of free nations, of which the United States was the corner-stone. Any plan treating Britain's security as a mere Commonwealth problem would be "unconvincing and completely unrealistic."

New Zealand 18-Year-Olds Begin Military Service

By J. C. GRAHAM

WELLINGTON, N.Z. —(CP)— Thousands of 18-year-old New Zealanders entered camp this month to begin military training.

They are the first intake for the new year under the dominion's compulsory service law, the only conscription scheme operating in the Commonwealth outside the United Kingdom.

But some military authorities are asking whether the country is training the right men, and whether a change should be made to meet the urgent needs of the times.

The present scheme is a long-range one. Under New Zealand law men are not eligible for military service abroad until they are 21. The first of the 18-year-olds under the present scheme began their training last year and hence will not be available for service overseas until 1953. Those now going into camp will be available correspondingly later.

Want Men Immediately

Some distinguished New Zealand soldiers of last war are urging that the scheme be changed to train men who will be at once available for an expeditionary force if need arises. The men most suitable for such a force have had no training at all. They are the men who have become 21 since the war and are now aged 21 to 27. These men would be the cream of any expeditionary force as a large proportion of veterans of the Second World War are already past the best age for military operations.

The New Zealand compulsory service scheme was planned at a time when there seemed likely to be at least several years of peace before any call came for active service. It has worked extremely well. The training has been modern and well-planned so that no time is wasted. Recruits do 14 weeks' continuous training in their first year and shorter periods in the following three years.

Basic Training

The object is by that time to have them sufficiently trained to be able to take their place in a field formation and form the backbone of a force which could be mobilized at short notice. Judging from the enthusiasm shown by both instructors and recruits there is a good prospect of this aim being attained if there is sufficient time.

Meanwhile, however, New Zealand has no troops available for active service abroad. The time taken to raise and train a force for Korea showed the difficulties involved. New Zealand's contingent did not reach Korea until the beginning of January, although a prompt start was made in raising it after the United Nations' call for ground forces. It consisted of a mixture of war veterans and men who have become 21 since the war and had no military training.

Consequently it was necessary to undertake a complete course of training from first principles. Any larger force raised to meet an emergency would inevitably consist of the same mixture of experience and inexperience and it is doubtful if it could be made ready for service any more quickly.

The government has so far not agreed that there is any need for a change in the present system of training 18-year-olds, but says the situation is constantly under review with a view to making any changes that the international outlook demands. Should it become necessary to raise forces for overseas service New Zealand at least has an experienced and highly efficient training cadre ready to operate immediately.

Indoor Ferns Thrive Near Sunny Windows

By HENRY PREE.
Written for NEA Service

One indoor gardener, worried because her ferns were dying, wrote in for help and was most surprised to learn that ferns want a sunny window and frequent watering of both soil and foliage.

She reasoned that because they grew unattended in the out-of-doors that they would tolerate neglect indoors. Had she realized that most types of ferns are woodland plants and, as such, want a moist atmosphere, she would have lowered the room temperature and given her ferns a weekly shower bath.

Since not all ferns make suitable house plants, one must select those that can take house conditions and then give them proper attention.

Recommended for indoors are several dwarf varieties of the old-fashioned Boston fern. These ferns are low growing and compact. Some have plain leaves, undivided, while others have leaves very finely divided.

Holly ferns will take the dry atmosphere of our homes better than any other fern. The pointed holly-like leaves, which give the name to this tender fern, are a pleasing addition to your foliage plants.

Although not the easiest fern to grow indoors, one feels repaid for the care given the bird's-nest fern. This is so different that many folks will not believe it is a fern.

The leaves are large, undivided, all of which arise at the ground level and diverge to form a bird's-nest-like clump.

SET YOUR FERN in a bright, sunny window and give it plenty of water.

For a cultural aid I quote from a letter from Prof. Victor Ries, horticulturalist, Ohio State University. "A good fern soil may be made by mixing equal parts of garden loam, humus in the form of peat moss or rotted leaves, and sand.

"This gives them a loose soil in which the roots can grow easily, and at the same time have good drainage. Mix a level teaspoon of a complete commercial fertilizer with each quart of soil mixture.

"Ferns do not require the amount of sunlight that many other plants do, in fact, during the summer, direct sunlight may be harmful. However, they do need adequate light, so they may be put near a sunny window or in a north window, but not too far away from the window."

Next Goal Of UAW Guaranteed Wage

DETROIT, Jan. 24 (CP)—The next goal of the United Automobile Workers (CIO) is a guaranteed annual wage for its 1,250,000 members, Walter P. Reuther, president of the international union, said Tuesday in his annual report.

Reuther proposed establishment of a labor-industry commission to study the question.

He said the guaranteed annual wage was "next on our schedule." The union had already won pensions, wage escalators geared to the cost of living, and annual wage improvements based on technological advances in the industry.

He also said that the UAW would seek authorization to set up its own non-profit insurance company to handle its members' own insurance and save money for the workers.

Catching Cold Proves Tough Job On Scottish Isle Scientists Find

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON

LONDON —(CP)— A call has gone out for 300 volunteers, aged between 18 and 40 willing to accept a free holiday with fare, board and lodgings, as well as pocket money thrown in.

All they have to do is spend 10 days in isolation and risk the chance of catching a cold.

The appeal for human "guinea pigs" comes from the research unit of Harvard Hospital, Salisbury, Wiltshire, whose scientists for the last five years have been seeking a cure for the common cold.

So far the research workers have succeeded in producing artificially-induced colds and devised a firm technique for studying their baffling symptoms. But the specific cause of a cure for this universal trouble-maker has eluded them.

Still Searching

Lastest disclosure of failure came as one of the worst epidemics of colds and influenza spread across the land and millions went around sniffling, sneezing and coughing and praying for quick relief from the miseries.

The setback to the government investigators centred on an experiment with a group of 12 students on the uninhabited island of Eilean Nan Ron, (Isle of Seals) off the northern coast of Scotland.

The students were taken to the island with camp equipment, stores and other necessities for a three-months' stay. Divided into three separate groups for experimental purposes, they settled down in the solidly-built stone houses evacuated about 12 years ago by families unable to eke a livelihood from the barren moorlands.

No personal contacts with the outside world were permitted. Even letters were banned. Only communication was by radio. Members of the three groups were forbidden to trespass in each other's territory.

Took Every Risk

The volunteers were exposed to every risk, normally known to bring on a cold. They took steaming hot baths and then stood in wet socks in a draught. Later they mingled with subjects inoculated with artificially-propagated virus—all to no avail.

The scientists discovered it isn't so easy to catch a cold when you try.

After the students had been on the island for 10 weeks, Dr. C. H. Andrewes and Dr. J. E. Lovelock, of the research unit, joined one of the groups. Their purpose was to find out if normal, cold-free people could be infection-carriers.

Nothing Happens

Some days later, their colleague, Dr. T. Sommerville, brought in a party of "cough commandos," all suffering from violent colds. They coughed, sneezed and deliberately spread artificial germs on every article the volunteers were likely to touch. They then called on a second group, using snuff to stimulate sneezing. The germ-conveyors finally paid an anti-social visit to the third group and remained in their hut for three days.

To their surprise not one of the students caught a cold.

It was not until a mainland farmer, with a rip-snorting natural cold, was brought to the island that three of the volunteers were laid low.

The scientists, however, are far from discouraged. In launching the drive for a new panel of volunteers, a spokesman said:

"Although we haven't been lucky enough to discover an effective way of warding off the cold, we have learned a tremendous amount. We certainly feel it is worthwhile persevering."

Floods Harass Malaya

SINGAPORE, Jan. 24 (AP).—Malaya's road and railway communications are disrupted and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property and food have been destroyed by floods following the heaviest rains in 33 years. Eleven days of continuous rain caused rivers to overflow in six states, cutting roads and rail lines, washing away bridges and starting landslides.

Ask To Join Oakville Council Refuses

OAKVILLE, Jan. 24 (CP)—The more unusual variety of annexation controversy turned up here Tuesday night.

Contrasting with the common situation where a municipality is annexed by an adjacent municipality against its will is the case of the Kent Garden survey.

A petition from 95 per cent of the survey residents asks that the survey become part of Oakville. The town council doesn't want them, however, because annexation would mean extra expenditure for roads, sewers, a school and other municipal projects.

No Loopholes For Athletes Says Marshall

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Defence Secretary George C. Marshall said Tuesday that athletes who fail their physical examinations in a draft call might still be used in non-fighting military jobs.

The point came up at a hearing by the House of Representatives Armed Services Committee considering the drafting of 18-year-olds and the establishment of a universal (compulsory) military service and training program.

Representative Charles Elston (Rep. O.) asked Marshall whether any relaxations in standards are contemplated to permit men who are not physically qualified for combat to serve in administrative capacity.

Elston recalled complaints during the Second World War of baseball and football players being deferred from service on the basis they could not pass physical examinations, yet could still play ball.

Marshall replied he didn't think the same situation would develop again and that such men would be used in non-combat capacity if possible.

SIR BENEGAL N. RAU (left), India's delegate to the UN, discusses Communist China's limited Korean cease-fire plan which he read to the UN Political Committee meeting, at Lake Success recently, with Canada's chief delegate Hon. The Reds said a cease-fire could be arranged at the first meeting of a proposed seven-nation conference on Korea, Formosa and other Far East problems.

90 Days Of Prayer In Peace Quest

AMBALA, India, Jan. 24 — (Reuters). — India's Sikhs have begun a continuous prayer of 90 nights and days asking their God to preserve world peace.

In the Temple of Abdullapur, near here, hundreds of barefooted Sikhs kneel daily while divines chant verses from their scriptures.

Behind the constant chant rises the thin, eerie strain of Indian music played on Oriental stringed instruments.

The Sikhs—there are 5,500,000 of them in India—are "invoking God's blessing for a dawn of peace on the war-torn world," a temple priest said.

Begun two weeks ago, the constant prayer will continue until April 14, the Hindu New Year.

The Sikhs are a religious sect which long ago broke away from the central Hindu religion. They worship a single spirit god similar to the Christian God, and condemn the old Hindu caste system and idol worship.

Village Solves Boundary, Liquor Problems

GRAND BEND, Ont. —(CP)— A geographical problem involving liquor law administration that has agitated residents of this attractive Lake Huron resort centre appears to be solved.

The trouble arose because of a dividing line that split the 20-foot wide main street into two sections. The line placed residents on the south side in Bosanquet township, Lambton county, and those on the north side in Huron county's Stephen township.

Now the matter has been resolved by action of Lambton county council in giving third reading to a bylaw authorizing incorporation of the village into Lambton county. The only snag lies in the fact that three months must elapse before the bylaw comes into effect and Huron county can object.

People on both sides of the boundary got along famously for years. Then it was discovered that Huron county came under the old Canada Temperance Act which prohibits sale of liquor or keeping for sale.

Lambton county residents—under the Liquor Control Act of Ontario — can buy liquor, wine or beer at government stores, but they are liable to prosecution if they consume these drinks outside their own homes.

Situation Reversed

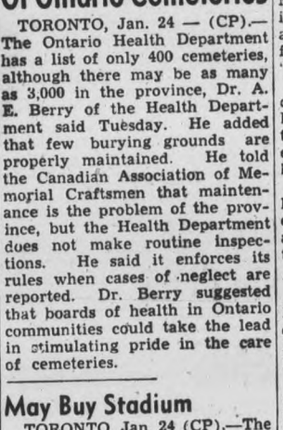
A few feet away, in Huron county, the situation is almost reversed. The CTA does not ban liquor consumption so residents can imbibe in public, but they cannot legally buy liquor in person in Huron. Instead, to be within the law, they must order from a vendor outside Huron county and have the beverage shipped to their home by a duly licensed delivery service.

Law enforcement officers have been thwarted frequently by these conflicting liquor regulations, and scores of Stephen township residents, on the north side of the line, complain that too much public drinking is permitted by the antiquated Canada Temperance Act.

Residents of the village—which has a permanent population of 750 and a transient population of 15,000 at the height of the tourist season—feared that a continuance of present liquor laws in Stephen township would discourage "desirable" tourists and boomerang against the lush summer trade, especially from the United States.

The move for incorporation followed and last November residents petitioned to be taken into Lambton county.

Have Small List Of Ontario Cemeteries



TORONTO, Jan. 24 — (CP).— The Ontario Health Department has a list of only 400 cemeteries, although there may be as many as 3,000 in the province, Dr. A. E. Berry of the Health Department said Tuesday. He added that few burying grounds are properly maintained. He told the Canadian Association of Memorial Craftsmen that maintenance is the problem of the province, but the Health Department does not make routine inspections. He said it enforces its rules when cases of neglect are reported. Dr. Berry suggested that boards of health in Ontario communities could take the lead in stimulating pride in the care of cemeteries.

May Buy Stadium

TORONTO, Jan. 24 (CP).—The Board of Education is considering a proposal that it buy Oakwood Stadium as a playing field for school children, rather than let it be sold and sub-divided for a housing project. Trustee Blair Laing today suggested that the board meet with the parks department or board of control to discuss whether the sport centre should be preserved.

Praises Co-operation

McCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash., Jan. 24 (AP).—John Foster Dulles, en route to Japan for peace treaty conferences, Tuesday praised Canadian and U. S. Air Force co-operation. "From your co-operation here," said the ambassador-at-large, "it would seem that the two units are functioning as one air force." RCAF planes stationed at this air base are participating in the Korean airlift.

MONTREAL'S FIRST MURDER of the New Year turned out to be the 3rd tragic death in the family of the grieved Mrs. Sloan shown in the above photo looking at a recent portrait of her husband, 65-year-old William Sloan, who was shot and killed by two youthful would-be hold-up men who have not yet been captured. Mrs. Sloan's sister was killed last Monday in a traffic accident, and a nephew, Alexander Beaton, was killed last Sunday when his car went out of control. William Sloan, a one-time Russian Army soldier, (inset) died en route to hospital after the two unidentifned gunmen attempted to rob his combination grocery-candy store and shot him through the lung with a single bullet.

Nazi Sterilization Victims Demand Compensation

By HANS NEUERBOURG.

MUNICH, Germany, (AP). — Thousands of Germans sterilized by the Nazis have organized to demand compensation and to fight any future attempt at compulsory sterilization law.

The organization claims 3,500,000 people were sterilized by Hitler in his efforts to "purify" the "master race."

There are more than 2,000 in the new "Central Association of Sterilized People in West Germany" and more are joining every week. Chairman Bruno Koeniger says thousands of others are deterred from joining by feelings of embarrassment.

Koeniger's association demands equal recognition with concentration camp prisoners and war veterans as deserving public assistance. It asks a lifetime pension of 80 marks ($20) a month, and lifelong free medical care for all sterilization victims.

At its first public meeting in Munich, the association declared its intention to oppose any future attempt to compel sterilization for any reason — even though "medically justified."

"Who could control the application of such a law?" asked Koeniger. "The Nazi sterilization order claims to be based on eugenic reasons, too. But what became of it?"

He charged the Nazis used the law brutally to punish or wipe out "undesirables," and that its application was more political than medical.

A Half-Jew

Koniger, 31, was sterilized in 1933 when the Nazis accused him of hereditary feeble-mindedness. Actually, Koeniger says, he was known to the Nazis as a half-Jew.

He spent the last years of the Second World War in a concentration camp.

Koeniger estimates 60 per cent of the 3,500,000 men and women sterilized by the Nazis between 1933 and 1945 were women.

Many couples were divorced because one partner was sterilized, Koeniger said.

There have been reports of some cases where fertility was restored, but Koeniger said he opposed personally any new operation performed on him—even if it would lead to "refertilization."

Indian Medical Team Working In Korea

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, Jan. 24 — (AP). — Close behind the front, in an average Korean village of mud huts with fire-spotted thatched roofs, there is a clean, neat and efficient surgical operating room run by a detachment from Calcutta.

There are 304 men in the Indian medical group and 27 officers, including 14 doctors and one dental specialist.

Lt.-Col. Ranga Raj, the commanding officer, doesnt think the situation is strange at all.

"We believe in the United Nations," he said, "and we believe that in war the surgeon should go to the patient—so that's why we are here."

Eighty per cent of the unit's personnel was trained as paratroopers. Some made jumps in Burma as a medical team.

Study Cadet Training In Port Arthur School

PORT ARTHUR, Jan. 24 (CP) The board of education last night shelved pending further study a resolution urging that compulsory cadet training be re-introduced at city secondary schools.

Cadet work has been on a voluntary basis since the Ontario Education Department abolished compulsory training four years ago.

Trustee E. T. Whiteley, who moved the resolution, said he was "very perturbed at student disinterest in the Air Cadet organization in these critical times."

Principal E. A. Miller of the collegiate institute said there is also a lack of interest in cadet work in other Ontario centres. "People throughout the province are also perturbed," he told the board.

See Red Move In Indo--China

HONG KONG, Jan. 24 (AP) — Several straws in the wind in the last few weeks seem to point toward some early action by Chinese Communists in Indo-China.

These, coupled with Communist Ho Chi minh's campaign against Hanoi in northern Indo-China, have stirred up new worries that the Chinese are ready to try a new adventure before their Korean gamble is ended. Possibly they already have started it.

Jan. 15 Pravda in Moscow charged that the United States and France were arming Chinese Nationalists in Indo-China for an invasion of South China.

The Pravda report sounds to Far Eastern ears like the propaganda buildup for Communist China's intervention in Indo-China—a move which has been feared since the Reds came into power in China. But Pravda is not the only mouthpiece whose doubletalk adds up to an invasion threat.

The Vietminh's own propaganda transmitter somewhere in the Tonkin jungle put out a broadcast recently which sounded as if Ho Chin minh was trying to condition his people for "liberation" with the help of Chinese Reds.

Detailed Defence Plan

TORONTO, Jan. 24 (CP). — A detailed civil defence plan was presented to York township council Tuesday by Col. F. L. Nicholls, onetime commander of the Royal Regiment. The plan calls for establishment of a 15-member control committee and formation of a planning committee. Col. Nicholls estimated that more than 2,000 persons will be required to complete the organization in the Toronto suburbs.

Apprenticeship Program Given Stress

QUEBEC, Jan. 24 (CP)—The Canadian Construction Association today concludes its 33rd annual convention when reports of convention committees including the resolutions committee will be handed down, followed by elections of officers.

During the four-day convention, problems dealing with co-operation by management, labor and government to improve efficiency and reduce costs were discussed by some 800 delegates.

Among the ways suggested to attain this double purpose were increased productivity in the manufacturing plants and on construction job sites; increased apprenticeship and immigration programs to enlarge the supply of skilled craftsmen; better vocational guidance and training facilities, and participation in a national joint conference representing construction, labor and management.

The convention heard Col. Willard Chevalier, New York publisher, discuss the world-wide struggle between Russian Communism and the Western world, Tuesday night.

The executive vice-president of McGraw Hill Publishing Co. Inc., New York, said the peoples of the west must unite against "the yoke of a power that already has proved to the world its arrogant intolerance of any culture or any way of life other than its own."

Now that the Marshall Plan has helped Western Europe rebuild its economy, the way ahead lies in military preparedness against Soviet aggression, he said.

"If it should come to pass that we are forced to stand up against the Soviet might, we cannot in all reason expect other peoples to risk their existence in order to preserve the so-called 'American way of life' . . .

"It is our responsibility and our task to convince the peoples of the world that we are asking their co-operation and support in this emergency, not so that we can impose upon them our way of life."

Material Shortages Bring Big Layoff

DETROIT, Jan. 24 — (CP): — Material shortages on Tuesday brought layoffs of 9,000 workers at Hudson Motor Cam Company here while a wildcat strike kept another 10,000 idle at the Briggs Manufacturing Company and the Packard Motor Company. Hudson employees were told to report for work today. A production dispute at the Briggs Corporation, now in its fifth day, has caused a series of wildcat strikes which have affected supply of auto bodies to the Packard Company.

Engineer's Plans Underway For Monaghan Rd.

Plans for the expansion of visibility approaching the C.N.R. crossing on Monaghan Rd. which were prepared by City Engineer Chalmers were halted last year by an impediment raised by the owner of adjacent property.

At the board of works meeting Monday night it was said that permission was received to reduce the grade of the bank along the north side of the railway both east and west of Monaghan Road.

That property on both sides of Monaghan Road is owned by the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation. It was a parishioner's gift to the church many years ago.

The board of works intention was to remove the earth from this operation to Central Mortgage houses down Monaghan Road for their final grading. At that stage, a representative of the owners of the property asked that the displaced soil be moved across the street to the southwest corner of Lansdowne St. and Monaghan Road.

Flasher Lights

Mr. Chalmers has recommended flasher lights at the C.N.R. crossing, removal of the board frame along the railway between Monaghan Road and Lansdowne St.; also the reduction of the earth bank on the north side of the railway.

Mr. Chalmers has listed other improvements for Monaghan Road including sidewalks, sewer, storm drain, relocation of the electric pole line of Utilities Commission.

A motion by Ald. Herbert Young proposed that a new agreement with the owners of the property be sought by Ald. Gillespie, Mayor Swanston and Mr. Chalmers.

The Monaghan Road program, as now being considered, was revived by a recent letter to the council from W. A. Richardson of Peterborough Canoe Company, whose property is on the south side of the C.N.R.

Bachelor Killed Walking On Highway 7

A 67-year-old bachelor was killed instantly Tuesday night when he was struck by a car on Highway 7 east of Marmora. He was James O'Reilly, of Madoc township.

Driver of the car was George Dunning, 29, of Toronto, who told police he did not see O'Reilly until he was almost on top of him. It was snowing heavily at the time.

Dunning was driving east on the highway, and O'Reilly was walking along the south side of the road. Dr. S. R. Beatty, Madoc coroner, pronounced the man dead. Provincial Corporal Jack Hatch of Madoc investigated.

Plan To Build 4 Rooms To Grove School

Dr. Russell Morgan isn't sure that local architects are getting a square deal when it comes to awarding Board of Education building contracts.

Tuesday night the Board approved a recommendation from G. Wilson Craw, chairman of the Accommodation Committee, that John B. Parkin, Toronto architect, be asked to prepare preliminary plans for a four-room addition to Grove School.

Dr. Morgan voted against it.

Mr. Craw presented the recommendation of his committee, and then Dr. Morgan asked: "Is this matter of such magnitude that we shouldn't consider a local architect?"

Working for Board

Mr. Craw said that Mr. Parkin was already working with the Board on building the second collegiate, and it would eliminate expenses of a second architect.

"Besides," he said, "we feel much better satisfied with the work that Mr. Parkin has done at Queen Mary School and Confederation than we did with the previous work of a local architect."

"We are living in Peterborough," replied Dr. Morgan, "and if we can secure things locally I think we should do it."

W. B. Gordon said he thought it didn't make much difference so far as expense goes. Architects generally get a fixed fee, a percentage of the total cost.

Stanley Adamson said in this case it was "a matter of expediency."

"I suggest we proceed without delay," said Mr. Adamson. "I see Dr. Morgan's point, but I feel we must go ahead."

Teased Woman Set Dog On Girl Court Warns Her

A 25-year-old married woman, who plays with dolls and was described by her lawyer "not quite 100 per cent mentally," Mrs. Vera Burly of the Nepheline Mines settlement in Methuen township was found guilty in police court of assaulting a 13-year-old girl and sicking her dog on the girl.

She was placed on suspended sentence for one year. Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, warned Mrs. Burly not to have anything more to do with the girls of the area. He also warned the girl, Laverne Dugan, Nepheline Mines and her friends not to tease the woman anymore.

The 13-year-old girl said that on her way to Stony Lake to skate with her younger sister, Frances, and a friend Doris Davis, the morning of Jan. 2, they passed Mrs. Burly's house.

Mrs. Burly was in the yard feeding her dog, Poodles. "His name is Brownie. I call him Poodles for short," said Mrs. Burly).

Laverne called, "Come here, Vera!"

"You're going skating, eh?" Mrs. Burly asked.

"No, Vera."

Mrs. Burly swore at the girls and called Laverne a liar.

"Don't call me a liar because you're one yourself," Laverne said.

Untied Dog.

With that Mrs. Burly ran back, untied the dog and started it after Laverne. The girl said Mrs. Burly knocked her down and pounded her on the back while the dog grabbed her leg, but did not bite through her snow slacks.

Laverne said she turned over on her back and tried to fight off Mrs. Burly. The dog then bit her arm.

She had the wound dressed by Jimmy Creighton, first aid man at the Nepheline Mines.

Laverne and the other two girls admitted they were teasing Mrs. Burly to some extent.

Claimed No Liens On Car Jailed 3 Months For Fraud

Found guilty of false pretences in selling a car with a lien on it without telling the buyer, Glenn Northey, 165 Fradette St., was sentenced in police court today to three months in the county jail.

Nick Peconi said Northey came to him a week before Oct. 5 and asked him what he would pay for the car, a 1940 model Peconi offered him $400.

Oct. 5 Northey said he would sell it for that amount. In the kitchen of Peconi's house, Peconi had his wife make out a cheque to Northey and he signed it. On the back of the cheque his wife had written "1940 Ford coach" and below it "paid in full."

Peconi asked Northey "You're sure this car is clear?"

Northey said it was.

Peconi then told his wife to endorse the cheque on the back "No liens or mortgages" and she did.

Peconi said about two weeks later the Colonial Finance Co. came after him asking for $495 on the car. He didn't pay it, but tried to get in touch with Northey about it.

He said Northey's mother assured him if her son owed money on the car, it would be paid.

Maitland Carter testified he was a witness to the signing and corroborated that Peconi asked Northey if there were any liens against it and Northey said not. Carter has since started to work for Peconi on a commission basis as a car salesman.

Mrs. Peconi quoted her husband as saying, "You're sure this car is clear?" And Northey said it was.

Northey took the stand on his own behalf and said he had a conversation with Peconi outside the house in which Peconi asked him if there was anything against the car and Northey told him there was.

Peconi asked "How much?"

Northey told him "pretty well the whole thing."

He said they went into the house and Peconi said something about making out two cheques, one for the amount owing on it and one for the amount. Northey told him there wasn't much point in that because about the whole amount of the cheque was owed.

As he was leaving, Peconi said "You'll see that's paid off, will you." Northey said he would.

He said he didn't see the writing on the back of the cheque before.

Mrs. Northey, the accused's mother, said Peconi came to her house asking for her son. Peconi told her about the sale of the car and Mrs. Northey asked him "Did Glenn sell the car without telling you there was a lien against it?"

She said Peconi hesitated and she repeated her question and Peconi admitted Northey told him there was a lien against it, but not how much it was.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, said he accepted the story told by Peconi and Mrs. Peconi partly because the writing on the back looked as if the line about the liens was put in after the other two lines, just as they had described it.

Salary Increase Of $400 Given Teachers

The Peterborough Board of Education on Tuesday night brought in revisions to the existing salary schedule that apparently satisfied everybody but the men teachers from PCVS.

Because of the high cost of living the Board decided to double the increment to principals and teachers this year. Instead of the scheduled $200 they will all get $400.

Maximum salaries for all categories of full-time teachers and principals in both elementary and secondary school have been increased $400.

The principal of "equal pay for equal work" has been restored at PCVS. Maximums will be the same for both sexes. The schedule calls for these maximums: $4,500 for a graduate non-specialist; $4,600 for both a non-graduate and a graduate specialist, and $4,800 for heads of departments.

Miss Margaret McIntosh, representing the women teachers at PCVS, said she thought the others would be "perfectly satisfied."

Objection Raised.

At the request of the teachers the salary distinction between graduate and non-graduate specialists has been wiped out. But this brought an objection from David Brown, representing the PCVS men teachers.

"This means that the graduate non-specialist has $100 less than the non-graduate specialist," he pointed out.

After consultation, chairman Dr. Ralph Honey said the matter had been considered.

"It was intentional then?" asked Mr. Brown.

"Yes that's the feeling of the committee," said Dr. Honey.

"As far as I'm concerned this matter merits further study," said Mr. Brown. "It's a long way from the figure we set."

Besides the usual $200 annual increment the PCVS men teachers wanted a $600 cost of living bonus. Instead of the $600 they got $200, similar to the other groups.

Public school women teachers now start at a bottom figure of $1,600 with an extra $400 depending on experience. Maximum is $3,400. Public school men teachers start at $2,000 with an extra $400 depending on experience. Maximum is $3,800. Public school vice principals get $4,000 and principals $4,800.

Now that equal pay for equal work has been re-introduced at PCVS, both men and women teachers will start at the same salary.

Graduate non-specialists start at $2,500 with a bonus of up to $500 depending on experience. Maximum is $4,500.

Both graduate specialists and non-graduate specialists have a starting salary of $2,600 with the possible $500 bonus depending on experience. Maximum is $4,600.

Department heads get $4,800.

A teacher on the PCVS staff who holds a degree in education from a recognized university, or a Doctor's degree, will receive an additional $150 a year.

In fixing the starting salary of vocational teachers, allowance from now on will be made for length and type of trade experience, as well as teaching experience.

For 1951, the salaries of caretakers in both the public schools and PCVS will be the 1950 figures plus the double increment of $400. Starting salary for caretakers is now $2,000 and the maximum $400 above the present schedule.

The maintenance staff will also receive an increase of $400 on their 1950 salaries.

The nursing staff and dental assistant receive an increase of $200.

Other boosts: Dr. Graham $150, Albert Croasdale $200, art supervisor $200, superintendent $400, school inspector $400, and Mrs. Asling 10 cents an hour.

Other salaries: attendance officer $3,100; office assistants — Miss Galbraith $1,660, Miss Cameron $2,150, Miss Gough $2,150, Miss Lane $1,960, and Miss Hodgens $2,750.

Victoria Will Pay $40 Wolf Bounty

LINDSAY, Jan. 24 — Victoria County Council has authorized the payment of $40 bounty on wolves in seven townships in the county. This decision was reached following a statement to the council by William Newman of Lorneville describing the great amount of damage done by wolves in the province.

The county will now pay a bounty of $40 for wolves killed in the townships of Bexley, Carden, Dalton, Laxton, Digby, Longford and Somerville.

The council also passed a resolution urging the provincial government to dispose of wolves in the entire province and particularly in Algonquin Park. This resolution will be presented to all the counties in the province for their opinion before it reaches the provincial government.

Indian Defence

NEW DELHI — (CP) — If the revenue of the states is included, the government of India now is spending between 25 and 30 per cent of the national budget on defence, said Finance Minister Chintaman Deshmukh. He said that on this basis India is not more "extravagant" than any other country.

Tenders Asked For Repair Depot Heating

Calling of tenders for a heating system for the city's repair depot on Townsend St. was authorized in a motion by Alderman Braund and Miller at a meeting of the board of works Monday.

This depot is emerging from the alterations to the vacant horse barn of the sanitation department. The contract was let to J. K. Sheehy Construction Co. who have the work underway.

With the transfer from horse-drawn wagons to motor trucks in the collection of garbage, the horses and other equipment were sold last year. Only the stalls are left, and Ald. J. E. Gillespie, chairman of the board, suggested that they should be sold, probably in a block. One proposal was that they might be of use to the Exhibition board.

Heating of the transformed building which is to be used in repairing the municipal motor equipment may require a separate boiler room, constructed apart from the barn. It was understood that the Sheehy Company would be asked for a bid on that proposed work.

Lowering of the roof of the barn exposes seven courses of brick on the east and west wall. Because they were concealed by the eaves of the roof, those layers were laid with secondary bricks of different colors.

City Engineer Chalmers was asked to estimate the cost of replacing them.

Nickel Banned As Car Trim

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) —The government today banned the use of nickel in automobile trim and in nearly 400 other civilian products.

The purpose is to conserve the short nickel supply for defence and essential civilian uses.

One of the most important defence uses of nickel is to make jet airplane engines resistant to great heat and corrosion.

The National Production Authority made public a long list of products for civilians in which nickel silver or nickel plate may not be used in new manufacturing on March 1 and thereafter.

It issued another long list of civilian products in which nickel-bearing stainless steel or high content nickel alloys may not be used, beginning April 1.

However, the NPA allowed manufacturers two months to complete articles started before the effective dates.

Price Freeze Expected In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) —Price Stabilizer Michael Disalle said today he has given Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston recommendations for a general price freeze.

He made the statement before the joint Senate-House of Representatives Economic Committee.

Disalle did not make public details of his recommendations but said that an announcement probably would be made within a couple of days.

His testimony followed word from other officials that a price roll-back may be expected Thursday, possibly to be followed by a wage freeze on Friday.

An over-all price ceiling at levels of Jan. 2 was reported by informed government sources to be in the works.

The wage action, it was understood, will put a lid on wages as of the day announced.

Cabbie Bailed For Trial Charged After Woman Knocked Down By His Taxi

Floyd Michels, 690 Frank St., was today bailed for trial by a higher court in a preliminary hearing on a charge of dangerous driving involving an accident in which his taxi knocked down Mrs. Edward Edwards, 63, River Road. The accident occurred at Brock and George Sts., Sept. 13. She died in St. Joseph's Hospital Dec. 10, and had not left the hospital in the interval. The crown asked that the charge be taken as an indictable offence and Michels chose trial by a higher court.

Traffic officer Claire McGillen said he went to the scene about 10:30 p.m. He found Mrs. Edwards lying on her side in the south crosswalk about eight feet from the east curb and 25 inches south of the north line of the crosswalk. She was lying toward the northeast.

Drizzling Rain

Michel's car was about eight feet north-west of the woman facing south and slightly to the east. It was drizzling rain and skid marks on the wet pavement went north from the car 42 feet six inches.

Later traffic made it impossible to tell if the skid marks were any longer. The skid marks were parallel to the east curb of George St. and 20 feet west of it. George St. at that point is 43 feet, four inches wide.

There was nothing on the road to show where the woman had been hit.

When the constable examined the car he found the brakes and horn good, but the steering in "very poor order." He could turn the steering wheel three-quarters of the way without moving the car wheels.

Road Slippery

He said the asphalt surface was slippery to some extent. He added that the woman was wearing a dark coat.

He talked to her once about two weeks before she died, but the woman said nothing about the accident or how it happened.

Albert Pacey, 59 Edgewater Blvd., testified he came out of the cigar store on the south-west corner of the intersection and started across the south cross walk to the east side of George St.

As he stepped off the curb, he looked north and saw the headlights of a car north of the YMCA, a block away. He thought he had time to cross and started to walk.

He kept the car more or less in his sight as he walked to make sure he was safe and he estimated its speed as between 35 and 40 miles an hour.

Heard a Thump

When he was three feet from the east curb, he heard a thump and saw Mrs. Edwards skidding to a stop on the pavement to his left. He looked around and saw the car sliding to a stop, about three-quarters of the way from the north curb of Brock St.

He had seen two or three people standing on the north-east corner of the intersection when he started across. But he did not see Mrs Edwards walking at all.

Bert Garside, 980 Western Ave., testified as he came out of the Mohan-Hunter Dairy south of the YMCA, he waited for traffic to pass before getting into his car.

He said three cars passed him travelling close together. He said all three were going "35 to 40 miles an hour easy."

He said he got in his car and drove south to Brock St. and then saw that an accident had taken place. He stopped and helped ambulance men to put Mrs. Edwards in the ambulance.

Michels made no statement in court and was remanded on $1,000 bail. The next sitting of the Supreme Court is in June.

City Increases Capacity Of Incinerator

A tender of $8,408 of last September from Francis Hankin Co., Toronto, for repairs and improvements to the incinerator is being accepted by the city in a recommendation of the board of works.

This company built the incinerator from their own designs. Proposed changes in the preheating equipment are expected to increase its capacity by 50%.

City Engineer Chalmers put a little emphasis on the fact that the bid expires next Monday.

"Well, I think we should accept it at once," said Ald. E. C. Braund.

Repairs to the arches in the interior of the fire box, changes in the loading area for protection of the employees and also to increase the space for the garbage before it is burned, are several details of the job.

Court Acquits Fountain Of Manslaughter

Melville Fountain, 27, an employee of the Canadian Packers, Peterborough, was acquitted in York County court Tuesday of charges of motor manslaughter and dangerous driving in the death of Bernice Ruth, 20, of Emily township.

Miss Ruth was a passenger in the car, driven by Fountain which was in collision with a truck driven by George Hamlin of Green River, Ontario, on Highway 11 north of Toronto, August 5, last year. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Ruth of Emily township and was employed at the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Co.

Also killed in the accident was Mrs. Hulda Gosplin of Wayne, Michigan, a sister of Fountain who was returning with them from Michigan to spend a holiday in Ontario.

Fire In Straw Stack Almost Fires Barn

DOWNEYVILLE, Jan. 24. — Fire in a straw stack caused by spontaneous combustion Monday afternoon almost fired a barn owned by Cecil O'Neill. Neighbors and the Omemee fire department were able to get the fire under control before the barn caught fire.

Chief Stephenson of the Omemee Brigade reported that no damage was done to any of the property except the stack.

Special Oven Dinner Menu With Accent On Vegetables

Albertan Corned Beef or Ham Patties (see notes)
Baked Hubbard Squash
Spinach Souffle (see notes)
Salad Bowl of Celery Hearts and Sliced Tomatoes
Dutch Apple Pie (see notes)
Coffee

Directions

This is a hearty meal and lamentations about cost from Father or quantity from your hungriest child, will be nil.

Albertan Corned Beef or Ham Patties

These are a kind of pinched-up tart.

Sift together 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt. Cut into them 6 tablespoons shortening or clear bacon dripping, then stir in 1 beaten egg and 1-3 cup milk. Roll out to 4½-inch squares ⅛ inch thick, and fit each one of these into your large tart or muffin tins. Fill with Corned Beef Mixture: Two tablespoons melted butter, 2 tablespoons chopped or grated onion, 2 tablespoons flour, 1¼ cups chopped corned beef (canned or home boiled) or leftover ham or baked smoked shoulder, 1½ cups canned or peeled raw tomatoes. Add the chopped onion to the butter and saute until just soft, and blend in the flour. Add the corned beef and tomatoes and simmer gently for 10 minutes. When tarts are filled with the meat mixture, fold edges of pastry to centre and pinch corners and edges together. If desired, brush tops with beaten egg or milk. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 deg. Fahr. Bake about 25 minutes in all. It is a common practice to serve hot chili sauce with this among the folks who invented it.

Spinach Souffle

Make a small amount of white sauce by melting 1 tablespoon butter, adding 1 tablespoon flour and stirring in ¼ cup milk. Stir in 1½ cups chopped and drained cooked spinach. Add 2 tablespoons grate old cheese, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 2 beaten egg yolks, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and shake of cayenne. Fold in two stiffly beaten whites. Pour into buttered casserole and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 25 minutes. Serve at once. If no meat is served at a meal where this is used, it is good to pass Hot Tomato Sauce.

Dutch Apple Pie

Three tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 cup brown sugar, 3 cups well-packed sliced apples, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 3 tablespoons cream or top milk, enough pastry for 1 bottom crust.

Mix together the flour and sugar and blend in the butter with a pastry blender. Line a deep pie plate with pastry and fill this with the apples. Sprinkle with cinnamon, and pour the cream over. Cover with crumb to make a complete top. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 40 minutes, when a rich syrup will form. This is good with rich pouring cream or white cream cheese.

'38 Aquatic Star Now Missionary

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Pretty Marie Sharkey was one of the athletes who 13 years ago boarded the wind-raked ship bound for Australia and the British Empire Games.

For the quiet, Calgary-born swimming star, it was the "chance of a lifetime." It changed her life.

But the story isn't in her feats at the famous games.

You see, Marie always wanted to become a missionary sister. And travelling aboard the big ship with Marie were two nuns, bound for leper colonies in the Solomon Islands.

She didn't chat with the sisters. Instead, when she arrived at the games she got booklets about the religious order. She joined.

Shortly after the games—she placed third in the springboard event—Marie entered the Marist convent in Vancouver.

She studied hard for five years. Then she boarded the same boat—the Aorangi—on another wintry day. This time she ended up in a leper hospital. Later she was posted to an outpost in the Solomons and then to the new leprosarium.

Marie—now Sister Ambrose—wrote home recently. She said: "I'm so happy."

Helen Hayes To Make New Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24 (AP)— If the climate is a little sunnier here this week, it could be because Helen Hayes is in town.

The great actress of the stage dropped into town to complete final arrangements for her first picture in 16 years, "My Son John." As part of the ceremonies, she met with the press.

Miss Hayes shook hands with each newspaperman and sat down to answer their questions in a frank manner—except when director Leo McCarey shushed her on matters concerning the nature of the script.

Why had she waited so long to return to the screen?

Nothing Offered

"Simply because nothing I had been offered up to now had excited me," she replied. "But when I heard Leo's story, I had to come out here and do it. It appealed to the ham in me."

And what was so appealing about the role? She gazed at McCarey, who shook his head, admonishing silence. He explained that too many ideas had been stolen by other studios when he spoke about them.

"I had always said I would return to Hollywood as a character actress, when I wouldn't have to worry about makeup and camera angles," Miss Hayes said in a laugh. "I used to have only one good side to photograph now I have two."

Her favorite role? The nurse in "A Farewell to Arms."

How About Television?

Miss Hayes, who has done several television shows, was asked how she thought the new medium would affect the theatre.

"I don't know," she answered. "The theatre is a fabulous invalid that seems to survive everything.

"But I think perhaps television will do for the movies what the movies did for the theatre. When the movies came in, the theatre could no longer send out bad shows; it became smaller and better. Only the best shows could survive. That might be a good thing for the movie industry".

What's Right

Someone does you a special favor and you buy a gift for the person by way of expressing your appreciation.

WRONG: Say when you give the gift that it is in return for what the person did for you.

RIGHT: Realize that the person will understand you are giving the gift to show your appreciation. If you make a point of the fact it will seem more like payment of a debt than a gesture of friendship and appreciation.

City Red Cross Unit Ready To Handle A Major Disaster

One of the most interesting reports presented to the annual meeting of Peterborough Branch of the Red Cross Society on Tuesday was of the Disaster Service. Prepared by the chief organizer Mrs. C. J. Ray, it outlined reasons for the service, what it is equipped to handle and the methods devised to test the service and results of same.

An Act of Parliament of the Dominion Government empowered the Red Cross Society to "organize and maintain an emergency service to render immediate assistance to victims of disaster or epidemic that affects more persons than can adequately be assisted by the municipal authorities or by other established relief agencies".

Four primary material needs of disaster sufferers are Shelter, Food, Clothing and Medical care, and Peterborough's Disaster Service Unit is geared to meet these needs. The plan for giving these services was worked out by this Branch and has been accepted by Ontario Division.

Agreements to give workers the necessary materials and aid have been made with merchants—for clothing, equipment, food, industries—for trucks and men and help in setting up a hospital or any other work, doctors, public health department staff, VON nurses, St. John's Ambulance Corps, owners of commercial ambulances. Provincial Police have offered use of their cars as guides, City Police and Firemen their co-operation, and Lt.-Col. M. E. Clark has promised use of the Armouries as an emergency hospital should the need arise. A carefully organized telephone scheme has been devised to speed accomplishment.

Several simulated disasters were arranged in the past year and victims were cared for in record time. The Boy Scouts were thanked for lending themselves as victims on these occasions.

Mrs. Ray advised that the only real tests of the service were for Manitoba Flood Relief, involving collecting and shipment of supplies, and helping out several families who had suffered losses through fire.

She said the plan is to be further organized under the headings of Registration and Shelter. Also that enlistment of more trucks with drivers is necessary to have sufficient ambulance service.

Seventeen Committees

Seventeen commitees are organized under the Branch in this city and have done excellent work as well as making careful adjustment of activities outside the regular program which arrested attention.

There was deep regret expressed in the remarks of president Mrs. C. J. Ray and the report of secretary Miss E. Dix on the deaths of three outstanding members of the executive, Mr. R. M. Glover, Mrs. J. Sharp and Miss M. Ross, and also Dr. A. G. Howson who looked after the doctor's service in the Blood Donor Clinic.

Six members of the Branch were honored with Badges of Service and the Junior Red Cross presented a badge to Miss D. Burgess last year.

A new class in Home Nursing started in November with an enrolment of 43 and an average attendance of 38, Mrs. S. O. Shields reported.

Workers On Call

It was noted that those workers handling the loan cupboard, relief for veterans and dependents and civilian welfare are on call at all times. The cupboard especially requires considerable time for giving out and receiving supplies and seeing that all are completely disinfected and made ready for use again. A total of 193 patients used the equipment in 1950. Forty-five families were helped by the relief committees. Many sick and shut-in persons were visited during the year and small gifts of fruit, flowers or candy taken. The visiting committee also assisted the relief committee in buying necessary clothing and purchasing Christmas gifts for veterans of this district now in hospital. It also followed up a number of cases for the Civilian enquiry service of Toronto.

An appeal for knitters was made by the wool committee which is now busy on children's garments. Sewers who came to the Red Cross rooms each Monday afternoon for a period last year were guests of the social committee for afternoon tea each time and this committee also served refreshments after all disaster rehearsals, and to the home nursing and first aid classes at their closing meetings.

Outside Services

Mrs. E. J. Purvis and Miss Eva Brown were mentioned for their dependable aid in driving blood donors to the hospitals and Mrs. Purvis for transporting Miss Joan Fitzgerald to the YWCA for water therapy treatments each week. The packing committee reported 268 articles shipped to Toronto, 48 hospital supplies and 220 civilian clothing.

Apsley Red Cross Hospital committee reported the services of a full-time doctor and nurse have been engaged, and figures indicated this service is being well used by citizens of the area.

Junior Red Cross working under the parent society and carried on in the classrooms is teaching children to develop and carry through their own programs and to follow health rules. By its own funds work for handicapped and crippled children is carried on. Gifts for hospitals, soldiers and the blind were made by the Peterborough children last year. Rural schools are affiliated in this branch of Ontario Division.

Financial statement of the Peterborough Branch showed a balance on hand of $4,859.91. Miss Whalon's records were examined by Mr. F. J. A. Hall, auditor, and found correctly kept. Mr. Hall was re-appointed auditor of the Red Cross books.

Music Teachers Given Advice On Problems

Members of the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association were privileged this week to hear a lecture by Mr. John Ferris Toth. Mr. Toth, who is a noted piano teacher, composer and editor of many books for piano students, spoke on "Some Problems of the Music Teacher." He dealt with such common problems as missed lessons, collection of fees, lack of interest on the part of the student.

Many difficulties, he thought, could be overcome by the practice of teaching by the term instead of by the individual lesson. He showed the members copies of a printed sheet on which he stated his policies in regard to teaching. These, distributed to the parents of his pupils, prevent misunderstandings which might arise. He advocated compromising, to a certain degree at least, with the musical tastes of the students in order to hold their interest. He believed that a good music teacher should be willing to go to a great deal of trouble and work to help his or her pupils.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Toth was moved by Mr. Charles Allen.

Two charming piano solos, the Harmonious Blacksmith Theme and Variations by Handel, and Toccata by Paradies, beautifully played by Miss Lois Holman, added to the enjoyment of the evening.

A short business meeting, with President Mrs. D. Flett in the chair, preceded the lecture by Mr. Toth.

Refreshments were served by the social committee.

Blood Is Given Without Charge By Local Service

The fact that blood donations are given and received without any charge whatsoever being made, through Peterborough Red Cross Blood Donor Service, was emphatically stressed by Mrs. C. J. Ray in reporting to an open meeting of this branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society Tuesday.

All patients in Civic Hospital or St. Joseph's Hospital get the blood they need free of charge and they are under no obligation to replace it, although it is appreciated if relatives volunteer their help in return since it is hard to make the demand meet the supply. Whether the patients' friends contribute or not, however, the patient receives the blood free in any case.

Situation Different

The situation is much different in any hospital in any other Ontario city, except Hamilton, patients having to pay around $20 per unit for blood unless they can produce donors to replace the blood on a two donations for one basis.

Thus, on a commercial basis, in 1950 the citizens of this district saved in actual cash $39,180. because of the Blood Donor Service which is contributed to by the citizens themselves when in good health.

Voluntary Staff

No member of the Red Cross Blood Donor staff in Peterborough is paid; neither the hospitals nor Red Cross make any money out of this scheme—rather it is an expensive service which Red Cross maintains.

Files on hand show a record of every donation of blood given by the donors since the service began in 1942 with the date of each, to whom it was given and the amount. Many have given 20 to 25 donations and this year Mr. Jack Smith made his 30th donation. No donor has reported any harm caused by contributing the blood.

Mrs. Ray concluded her report with the comment "Our Blood Donor Service is proof that generosity and unselfishness still exist in a troubled world. Our donors all come with the same desire—to help their fellow men—and we are proud to be associated with them."

Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society starts another year of work today with a new secretary (extreme left), Mrs. G. C. Tollington, and a new president (centre), Mrs. F. E. Hooper, and treasurer Miss Moira Whalon, (extreme right) is continuing to look after finances for another year. Retiring from the executive as of the annual meeting Tuesday were Miss Ethelwyn Dix (second from left), former secretary, and Mrs. C. J. Ray (second from right), former president, to whom high tribute was paid. Mrs. Ray organized and extended services of the branch during a three-year term as president.—(Parks Studio Photo)

Patient Insists She's 111 Yrs. Old

NORTH BAY, Jan. 24.—(CP).—Sometimes when she is alone in the darkness in her bed at St. Joseph's Hospital here, night nurses say Mrs. Isabella Sharow becomes sad. Then she murmurs a request for God to take her, that surely he must have forgotten her to let her live so long. But these moods quickly pass. Generally she is happy.

Mrs. Sharow's birth certificate is not available, but she claims, and her sons and daughters also insist, that she was born Oct. 16, 1839.

"I am certainly 111 and the oldest person in Canada," she firmly informs disbelievers.

She was a resident of the Home for the Aged here until 1947 when she broke her hip in a fall and was brought to hospital. The home's records give her age at that time as 108. A hospital official says the woman, who declares she is "Scottish to the backbone," is in excellent health.

Select Officers At Harwood Meet

HARWOOD, Jan. 24 (ENS)—At the annual vestry meeting of St. John's Church, with the Rev. A. W. Smith presiding, the following officers were elected for 1951: rector's warden, William Baker; people's warden, Walter Johnston; sidesmen, Whitney Regan and Wallace Young; secretary-treasurer, Lottie E. Drope; synod representative, Walter Johnston, alternative, Wm. Baker; Sunday school superintendents, Mrs. A. W. Smith and Mrs. Walter Johnston; auditor, Earl T. Shearer.

A resolution was read by the Rev. A. W. Smith with regard to lay women, that they be admitted as delegates to the synod with the right to vote. The meeting went on record as sponsoring a woman representative to the Anglican synod with the right to vote.

Considerable discussion took place regarding the establishment of a rectory fund for the Gore's Landing rectory. This was left in the hands of the wardens, who agreed to collect the necessary funds.

New Head Servicewomen Urges Support Civil Defence

"This is the first time that I have had the pleasure of installing a complete ladies' branch of the Legion," was the comment made by District Commander Frank Threadgold at the annual installation of officers for the Elizabeth Smellie branch, 452, of the Canadian Legion, held in the Armouries Monday evening.

During the short business meeting preceding the impressive initiation ceremony and installation of officers, Vice-President Comrade Irma Allen, who presided, urged the co-operation of all members in the matter of civil defence. A letter was sent to the committee concerned pledging the support of the branch. A letter from provincial command was read commending the branch for their efforts in drafting and submitting the resolution re the enlistment of women in the services. This resolution was unanimously passed at the Legion's Dominion convention and was contained in the brief submitted to Ottawa. The girls were thanked for their keen interest and follow-up in this matter.

Before turning the meeting over to the installing officers, Comrade Allen reminded the members of the lecture, sponsored by the branch, by Miss Rachel Young on "Child Welfare," to be held at the YWCA green room, Tuesday, January 30.

In his address to the newly installed officers and members, District Commander Threadgold urged "never to forget the widows and children of the servicemen who paid the supreme sacrifice." He also stressed the need of a children's program and the work to be done for the hundreds of new recruits who will shortly be entering the services. "You are ex-service women and know their needs, plan your program now to include them. Study their problems now and be ready to act when the time comes," he urged.

During the installation of officers, the Rev. Walter Gilling, always a popular visitor to the branch, was installed as chaplain.

The following officers were installed for 1951:

President, Irma Allen; 1st vice-president, Edna Rule; 2nd vice-president, Beatrice Curtis; treasurer, Esther Might; corresponding secretary, Grace Simpson; recording secretary, Irene Vivash; chairman welfare committee, Barbara Waters; sick and visiting, Alice Morin; entertainment, Dorothy Grady; ways and means, Helen McFarlane; bulletin editor, Pat Vaisey.

Comrade Irma Allen, newly elected president, spoke briefly following her installation. She praised members for their wonderful efforts during the past and asked for their co-operation for the betterment of the branch and of the Legion as a whole in the year ahead. She stressed particularly, as did the chaplain in his address, the need of the members' support in the matter of civil defence.

Following singing of several solos by Miss Joan Wilson, accompanied by Miss Eileen Jackson, dainty refreshments were served under the supervision of Refreshment Convenor Mrs. Kate King.

Guests from out of town included the District Commander and Mrs. F. Threadgold, Mrs. J. Wilson and Miss Joan Wilson and Mr. G. Wood, all of Whitby; Miss Eileen Jackson, Pickering; Mr. and Mrs. F. Grant, Oshawa; Mr. S. Hopkins, Lakefield; and from Peterborough, Rev. Walter Gilling and Mr. J. Rogers, secretary-treasurer of branch 52.

DOROTHY DIX

How Much Wife Know About Husband's Business?

DEAR MISS DIX: How much should a wife know about her husband's business? How persistent should she be in seeking this information if her husband does not seem to want her to know of his affairs?

MRS. THOMAS W. G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It depends upon the wife's intelligence and discretion; upon what kind of business or profession her husband is engaged in, and upon her husband's attitude in the matter.

Dorothy Dix

There are some women who have good business heads, sound judgment, and who know how to keep their tongues silent, whose husbands can confide to them every detail of their affairs. There are other women whose meddling in their husbands' business is always disastrous. They stir up jealousies and break up partnerships and they spoil every pie into which they put their fingers.

Can't Keep Secrets

There are other wives who are such leaky vessels that they blab everything that happens in the office. A man who has a wife who is a meddler or a talker does well to keep his business affairs secret.

If a man is a lawyer, a doctor, a preacher, or engaged in any business in which his relations with his patrons are confidential, his wife has no right to know anything whatever about his business. He knows other people's secrets and he has no right to tell his wife just what ails Mrs. X., or whether or not Mrs. B. is thinking about getting a divorce. Nothing will queer any professional man so quickly as having his wife hanging about the office all the time spying and eavesdropping on what goes on there.

Also, a woman's right to know about her husband's business depends very much on how much he wants to tell her. There are men who enjoy discussing every detail of their business affairs with their wives and telling them of all their hopes and plans.

But there are still other men who want to lock their business in their desks when they quit work, who want to forget all about their problems and the things that have vexed them during the day. They find that by never discussing their business at home they come back to work the next day rested and refreshed and able to bring a clearer judgment to the decisions that they must make.

DEAR MISS DIX: What is your opinion of a man who allows his 18-year-old daughter to be put out of his house by her stepmother without, at least, investigating to find out why she did it? The girl has always been home-loving and gentle and one who seldom went out. The stepmother has told the father that the girl left home of her own accord. Wouldn't you think he would take enough interest in his own flesh and blood to try to find out the truth in the matter?

NEIGHBOR.

ANSWER: I certainly should, but the callous indifference of so many men toward their children after they marry a second time is one of the curious and inexplicable vagaries of human nature with which we are all familiar.

All of us have seen men who were devoted fathers as long as their first wives were alive, but when the wife died and the man remarried apparently all of his affection for his children vanished into thin air. Why men do this, I do not know, unless it is because they are afraid of their new wives and would rather be unkind and unjust to their children than have a fight with their wives.

Certainly any man who lets a little 18-year-old girl be put out of his house, or even go of her own accord, without finding out what faults she has committed that justified her stepmother in putting her out, or what treatment had been accorded her that made her so unhappy at home she could not stay there any longer, is failing in his most sacred obligation, which is to guide and care for the child he brought into the world.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 19. Going to marry a young man of 24. I only like to see him every other night so I can have all my other time to myself, but he insists on seeing me every night, afternoon and evening and even in the morning. He doesn't like to dance, I love it. He insists on our going to live with his parents, I don't want to do it. I really don't want to be tied down and am so undecided I don't know what to do. Is this true love or not?

UNDECIDED.

ANSWER: Decidedly not. If you were really in love with the young man, you wouldn't dread his visits. He couldn't come often enough to suit you. And you wouldn't think of marriage as tying you down. You would want to be tied down to your husband and home. All that is the matter with you is that you are too young to marry.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Says Caning Best Method At Times

CHELMFORD, England (CP)—The children's committee of the Essex county council believes that judicious use of the cane is still the most effective means of imposing discipline.

While banning corporal punishment in homes administered by the council, the committee insisted that those in charge would be deprived of the only means of enforcing discipline where it was most needed.

"We have therefore decided, that subject to suitable safeguards corporal punishment should be allowed," the report added. "It is our decision that a cane shall only be used in exceptional cases and that otherwise punishment shall be given by the hand. In no circumstances is any child ever to be struck on the head."

The committee agreed that the names of all those punished should be entered in a special book, available for inspection at all times.

"Might injure our innocent young minds—let's go and bust open a bank!"

Koreans Win Respect Of U.S. Troops

By HAL BOYLE

With U.N. Troops in Korea, Jan. 24 (AP)—The word "gook" has just about disappeared from the American soldier's vocabulary here.

And that is a good thing. It is an outward sign of an inward change toward the people for whose right to democracy he was sent here to fight.

When the Americans first arrived in force last July, they hardly regarded the Koreans as ordinary people as much as they did inhabitants of a country almost as strange and unknown to them as Mars.

They saw Korea only as an old and tired backward land, smelling of the "honey wagon" and filthy with ancient disease. And they thought of the Koreans chiefly as a race of dog-eating tribesmen given to child marriage and thievery and totally incapable of ever knowing the meaning of democracy.

Term of Contempt

And in their arrogance they began calling all Koreans—North and South—"gooks." It was a term of lumped contempt and it was uttered in contempt. It might have jolted the superiority of some of them to learn that the Koreans also had a word for "American" in their language. It was "megook." But there was no contempt in it. It meant only "foreigner."

If it has done nothing else, the extended police action in Korea has helped bridge the gap between the gooks and the megooks. They have been through much together and they understand each other better now.

This result may hardly be worth a war, but it is only one of many results. And it certainly is important in a narrowing world that Americans realize the vital need of understanding the peoples whose destiny will be linked with theirs.

Army Hardens Canadians To Heat, Cold

By BILL BOSS

MIRYANG, Korea, Jan. 24. — (CP).—Canadian troops, training under "freeze by night, burn by day" conditions, are becoming hardened to the extremes of Korean temperatures.

It is zero at night, sometimes as much as 50 in the daytime. The Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry are slugging up mountain, down valley, pausing frequently to dash into tactical exercises.

They have 'round-the-clock training now and there is seldom a night without one or more companies heading for the hills—sometimes for two or three days at a time. The men never were fitter nor their morale higher.

A company led by Maj. Jack George of Edmonton returned Tuesday, tanned by wind and sun, from a scheme on which they were not allowed to use slit trenches during night halts. The men bunked down on the ground with two blankets, ready to move off at a moment's notice.

Can't Get Overheated

To illustrate the importance of not becoming overheated during a night exercise, CSM Jim Coutts of Portage La Prairie, Man., and Victoria, awakened among several soldiers who found they had ice across their shoulders inside their parkas. The windproof parkas keep body moisture in, as well as the winds out. After showing the men when they awakened what happens, CSM Coutts shook off the ice and resumed the manoeuvre.

A platoon under Lieut. John Deegan of Vancouver led the company over difficult hill country right onto its objective and earned Maj. George's commendation for map-reading. Mortars fired under supervision of Cpl. Jack Shields of Grande Prairie, Alta., then shot up their targets bang-on in what Lieut. Jack Campbell of Edmonton, the battalion's only officer with Korean battle experience, called "extraordinary" skill.

"I've never seen mortars used before with such dead-on results," he said.

Campbell returned to camp to find a telegram informing him he had acquired a son in Edmonton.

A company led by Maj. George Flint of Montreal completed an uneventful road reconnaissance. It was part of the policy of Lt.-Col. J. M. Stone of Edmonton and Salmon Arm, B.C., officer commanding the Patricias in Korea, of informing himself thoroughly about the area in which he is operating. The company's only major discoveries were caches of Russian-type ammunition, apparently left there by Russian forces in 1945.

Don't be HALF-SAFE
by VALDA SHERMAN

Many mysterious changes take place in your body as you mature. Now, the glands under your arms begin to secrete daily a new type of perspiration containing substances which will—if they reach your dress—cause ugly stains and clinging odor.

You'll face this problem throughout womanhood. It's not enough merely to stop the odor of this perspiration. You must now use a deodorant that stops the perspiration itself before it reaches—and ruins—your clothes.

As doctors know, not all deodorants stop both perspiration and odor. But Arrid does! It's been proved that the new cream deodorant Arrid stops underarm perspiration 1 to 3 days safely—keeps underarms dry and sweet.

Remember this, too. Arrid's antiseptic action kills odor on contact—prevents formation of odor up to 48 hours and keeps you "shower-bath" fresh. And it's safe for skin—safe for fabrics.

So, don't be half-safe. Don't risk half-safe deodorants. Be Arrid-safe! Use Arrid to be sure. Arrid with Creamogen will not dry out, and it's so pleasant and easy to apply. Get Arrid—Canada's largest selling deodorant—today!

Police Uncover Big Drug Ring

VANCOUVER, Jan. 24 (CP)—Discovery of what they said may be a "large-scale narcotics distribution centre"—two blocks from a police station — was reported Tuesday night by police.

The announcement came shortly after city police and the RCMP narcotics squad staged their second raid here in 24 hours.

A Hastings Street cafe was the first raided. There police seized narcotics and addicts' paraphernalia and a quantity of goods identified as stolen property.

John Melina, the owner, and his three sons were arrested and charged with retaining stolen property. Officers said narcotics charges are pending.

"The exhibits are being analyzed and it is believed a large-scale distribution centre is being uncovered," said an RCMP officer.

The second raid was carried out at a house occupied by John Melina. Stolen property and a small quantity of narcotics were found in the house, police said.

New Zealand Hoping To Use Steam Gushers As Power Units

BY J. C. GRAHAM

ROTORUA, N.Z.—(CP)—Rigs like oil derricks and "gushers" that spout high above the treetops have appeared in a quiet valley in the centre of New Zealand's North Island. The gushers are man-made steam geysers as spectacular as those which have become famous tourist attractions.

Nearby is Wairakei, one of the world's most active thermal centres. Maoris once used the boiling pools and gushing steam vents to cook their meals. Then the area became a noted tourist centre where visitors marvelled at the tremendous hidden forces of nature which here burst through the earth's crust.

Now engineers plan to put these great forces to work for man by harnessing them to make electricity. So far the work is purely in the prospecting stage. Along the valley engineers are boring at quarter-mile intervals to depths of 600 to 1,000 feet. Usually between these deoths they strike the underground steam cavities. From the bores artificial geysers roar skyward unceasingly day after day.

It is dangerous work, for the steam is imprisoned below the earth at temperatures of over 230 degrees centigrade and at pressures of about 90 pounds to the square inch. Special drills and techniques must be used to cap the bores and keep the great power in check.

Progress Reports

Results so far have been described as "fair to fine," but the work is still in the early stages. Geologists, volcanologists, mining engineers and scientists are gradually building up a picture of the underground steam supply. As well as by the direct method of boring, they are using complicated scientific instruments to find the shape and extent of the supply here and in other areas.

If a steady permanent pressure can be assured with a sufficient number of bores the basis will be established for a great electricity source. But even then many problems will have to be overcome. The steam is heavily impregnated with chemicals, some of which are highly corrosive. Scientists are examining methods of removing the chemicals or of providing plant which is resistant to them.

Provision of power from underground steam would have a profound effect on New Zealand's economy. The Dominion has not sufficient coal supplies to provide economical power from coal-burning plants. The north island is at present largely dependent on hydro-electric power. But though a great hydro-electric works program is in progress, the available sources of supply are limited. Within a few years at the present rate of expansion the demand will outstrip all available supply. Thermal power can also be provided much more cheaply if a steady supply can be found.

If the present exepriments are a success they could assure New Zealand of power for expanding industries for many years to come.

MARMORA, Jan. 24 (ENS) — Annual vestry meeting of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, was held Monday evening in the parish hall. Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie was chairman.

The chairman touched upon the need of a new parish hall and said: "Now that a start has been made, I trust we shall not cease until a new hall arises on the church property. He further touched upon the task before the active members of the congregation of the planning and execution of an "every member" canvass of the congregation to be undertaken this Lent.

He mentioned that for the first time since he had been rector there had not been a marriage. There were three baptisms, nine burials and five candidates for confirmation. He had made 49 hospital visitations and 103 sick calls.

He drew attention to the fact that St. Thomas' Church, Rawdon, had been put under the pastoral care of the rector of Marmora.

George Kerr gave the report of the general account of the parish, showing a small deficit. The organ fund statement was presented by Don Robertson, and now stands at $242.40.

The report of the Ladies' Guild was given by Miss Jennie Gray. Their receipts were close to $1,600 and enabled them to pay $855 into the general account as well as to donate $75 to the organ fund. The year closed for them with a balance on hand of more than $100.

For the missions fund, Don Robertson showed receipts to be $352.75 and a balance on hand of $46.03.

Mrs. W. D. Lavender presented the statement of the Guild's decorating fund now standing at $204.49.

The best year financially in the history of the Women's Auxiliary was seen in the report given by Mrs. R. G. Winters. It finished the year with a balance on hand of $44.62.

In the absence of Mrs. G. Hewitt, the rector read the statement of the Guild's flower fund.

The appointment and election of officers for 1951 next engaged the attention of the vestry. Rural Dean Brownlie appointed Don Robertson as rector's warden and Carl Heath was re-elected people's warden. George Kerr was re-elected treasurer and Don Robertson missions treasurer.

Lay delegates to synod were chosen as follows: three years, R. E. Bonter; two years, C. R. Whittemore; one year, C. H. Buskard. The vestry council was chosen as follows: The rector, Don Robertson, Carl Heath, R. E. Bonter, C. R. Whittemore, C. H. Buskard, Everett Barrons, Arthur Pordham, Percy Gray, William Lavender, W. J. Cottrell, George Brown, H. R. Pearce, Mrs. F. Leal, Mrs. W. D. Lavender, Mrs. W. M. Regan, Mrs. E. Hewitt, Mrs. P. Gray.

The chairmanship of the sidesmen's body was accorded W. D. Lavender. William Simmons was reappointed vestry clerk. Arthur Pordham and Miss Jennie Gray were appointed auditors. Votes of thanks were tendered the Ladies' Guild, the warden, treasurer and missions treasurer, concluding with a vote of thanks moved by R. E. Bonter to Rural Dean and Mrs. Brownlie for their fine leadership again given in 1950, which was carried with applause. Members of the Ladies' Guild served refreshments.

James T. Seeney Freed On Charge Careless Driving

A charge of careless driving against James T. Seeney, Tweed, a truck driver, was dismissed in police court Tuesday on a motion of his lawyer W. J. Arthur Fair, KC.

Mr. Fair argued, and the court agreed with him enough to dismiss the charge, that no evidence of negligence had been offered by the crown.

He admitted that Seeney was stopped on the travelled portion of a highway, but the evidence of Provincial Constable Jack McKendry was that Seeney said he intended to turn left into lane leading to a gravel pit.

Constable McKendry testified he investigated an accident Nov. 25 on Highway 7 six miles east of Havelock in which a light English car crashed into the rear of the Seeney truck.

Driver of the light English car, John T. Ward, Langstaff, a University of Toronto student, was found guilty earlier the same day of a charge of dangerous driving for running into the rear of the truck.

Little damage was done to the truck, but the front of the car was badly damaged.

Ward testified he only remembered seeing the car stopped about 150 feet in front of him on the highway as he was driving west from Otawa. He said he immediately slammed on his brakes and swung his wheel to the right, but the car skidded straight the whole 150 feet into the truck.

He said a slight film of clay on the wet highway made the surface very slippery.

Progress Reported At Trinity Towards Building Church Hall

Reports presented to the congregational meeting held in the Sunday School room at Trinity United Church Tuesday night indicate a year of progress and accomplishment during 1950.

A slight decrease in church membership is noted, greater support for the Missionary and Maintenance Fund has been given, Sunday School enrolment has increased, a new organization known as Trinity Women's Federation has been formed as an auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society. Preliminary estimate indicates that the total congregational givings during 1950 will exceed $40,000, a new record in the history of the congregation.

In his pastoral report the minister, the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, drew attention briefly to these matters. He expressed appreciation of the services of so many individuals and organizations whose labors had made such progress possible. He noted that Trinity United Church had fittingly participated in such wider activities as the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the United Church of Canada and of the Peterborough Centennial anniversary. "Trinity United Church faces 1951 expectantly," Dr. Gordon concluded.

Sunday School Progresses

The superintendent of the Sunday School, R. M. Elliott, reported that the membership of the Sunday School is steadily increasing and that the enrolment now exceeds 300 members. The average attendance is the highest it has been since 1939. "The Sunday School's greatest achievement is to be found," declared Mr. Elliott, not in numbers enrolled but rather in the number of those who have voluntarily sought church membership through the influence of the Sunday School. Give us better accommodations and facilities and our teachers will improve their record."

J. E. Girven, chairman of the Building Committee, reported progress toward the erection of a new church hall on the property to the southwest of the church. He intimated that the architects have almost completed detailed plans and specifications, and that tenders for the erection of the building will be sought shortly. B. V. Moore, treasurer of the Building Fund, reported that during 1950 the congregation had contributed $15,500 toward the erection of the church hall. He outlined the plans by which the Building Committee expect to finance the project.

Reorganize Congregation

During the meeting the official board was authorized to proceed toward the reorganization of the congregation to conform with the constitution as outlined in the manual of the United Church of Canada. Another meeting of the congregation will be held on May 28 next at which time it is expected that resultant changes in congregational government will be implemented.

The minister of the congregation, Rev. Gordon, presided and conducted the devotional exercises. In the absence, through illness, of R. F. Downey, who thus missed his second congregational meeting in more than thirty years, F. B. Smitheram acted as secretary. The father of the pastor, the Rev. D. L. Gordon pronounced the benediction at the conclusion of the business meeting.

Members of the Women's Missionary Society entertained the congregation in a social hour before the gathering dispersed.

The nominating committee's report, presented by Wm. Fanjoy, was adopted. In addition to filling vacancies on the various committees, the report re-elected R. F. Downey as recording steward, R. J. Kidd as treasurer, and J. E. Girven as chairman of the finance committee. C. C. McIntyre was re-elected as chairman of the Missionary and Maintenance Committee and C. S. Cummer becomes assistant treasurer.

Shows A Loss

LONDON, Jan. 24 (Reuters)—Every meal served in a diner on Britain's state-run railroads last year lost about one shilling of taxpayers' money, but profits made from sale of liquor in the dining cars cut the actual loss to about sixpence, the railroads' catering and hotel chief, Lord Inman, said today. He did not expect the dining car service to show a profit in the future.

Six Autos Tangle In 3 Minor Accidents

Six cars tangled fenders in three minor accidents late Tuesday afternoon and evening.

In the first one about 5:15 p.m., Mrs. S. C. Warne, 466 Gilmour St., driving north on George St. met in collision with a car pulling out from the east curb a short distance south of King St. Driver of the other car was Evan Blewett, RR 3, Lakefield. Both fenders on the right side of the Warne car were dented. Constable Donald Mackay investigated.

About 8:30 p.m. two cars met in collision at Aylmer and Perry streets. One, a taxi driven by Gerald Turner, 414 McDonnel St., was travelling north on Aylmer St.

Robert J. Steele, 506 Patterson St., was driving west on Perry St. Traffic Officer Harold Mesley said Steele admitted not stopping at the stop sign. No serious damage was done.

Slippery fresh snow was given as the reason for another accident later. Mrs. Allison Cook, Lakefield Hotel, slid into the rear of a car slowed down on Water St. about to make a U turn at Hilliard St. Driver of the other car was Garnet Cox, of the Liftlocks.

He had pulled to the east curb and started to drive out when Mrs. Cook, who had put her car in low gear behind him, slid into him. Constable Donald Mackay investigated.

3 Street Allowances Cross School Site

COBOURG, Jan. 24 (ENS) — Efforts of the public school board to get the town to authorize purchase of a $10,000 site for a new school, on what is known as the W. J. Carey property, struck another snag at the council meeting when council deferred action pending word from the town solicitor on the status of three unused street allowances which run through the property.

Mayor Jack Burnet was of the opinion that since it would be necessary to close the street allowances if the property were purchased, council should first ascertain the legal status of these street allowances.

Savings are Savings are Savings

Many people in our time have laughed —  at the sentence, "A rose is a rose is a rose." It was written by a modern writer named Gertrude Stein. She explained her "most-quoted" sentence like this: "If you say 'a rose is a rose is a rose' only once, you become aware of roses —  and that is all I want you to be — aware of roses."

So, if we say: "Savings are savings are savings" —  you will understand we are trying to make you  aware of savings. It seems that, if we say a thing often enough, it will register — upon our minds. And so we say again, "Savings are savings are savings."

Savings will buy you the house —  you should have for your family, the car —  to get you to work — your promise of business opportunity —  and pleasure —  in time of health, your security in time of sickness.

Captain Says Alertness Vital Handling Liners

NEW YORK —(CP)— Capt. George B. Young of Bergenfield, NJ, has one inflexible rule: when he has a date with a "queen" he gets to bed early the night before.

As a docking pilot with a big tugboat firm, he has regular dates twice a month with the two biggest queens in the world, the liners Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary. He is entrusted with bringing the big ships into their berths in the Hudson River and of course must be completely awake when he's on the bridge.

Young, who has had his first-class pilot's licence since he was 21 and has been a docking pilot for 15 years, boards the Queens near Battery Place at the lower end of Manhattan Island, relieving the harbor pilot who has brought the ship in from Ambrose Light.

"Make sure you say that the ship's master is always in charge," he says. "He doesn't turn that Queen over to us until he's confident we know how to handle her."

The world's biggest liners are coaxed into their docks with a whistle. Young's signals from the bridge have to be picked up by a sailor and relayed to tugs on the starboard bow. Stern tugs, far out of reach of the whistle, get their signals from the ship's mighty air horn. Tug pilots repeat the signals before following them so there will be no mistakes.

Carefully calculated

Everything is figured in advance—wind, tides, weight of the ship, the number of tugs needed, the pilots who handle the tugs.

"I consider the pilots as much as I do the tugs—they really know their business," says Young.

Young's business is varied. One Sunday he docked the 80,000-ton Queen Elizabeth. The next day it was a 4,000-ton banana boat.

All jobs are the same to him but he considers his toughest was when he put the big Dutch liner Nieuw Amsterdam into dry dock in Erie Basin in 1946.

"A very tough job," he recalls. "She had clearance of only 50 feet and when she swung in that dropped to 25 feet. There was no room to play. We warped her in, though, and when the gates were dropped the Nieuw Amsterdam's stern stuck out over the gate. That's how tight she was.

Refugee Believes Russia Wants War, West To Win

TORONTO —(CP)— A former Hungarian economist says he feels a long and costly war between the Western powers and Russia lies ahead. But he is sure the West will win.

Ladislas Joseph Timar, 50, former member of the Hungarian Social Democratic party's economic department, said in an interview recently upon his arrival here:

"It will be a long and costly war. It will commence, not because the Western powers want it, but because they don't want it. The feeling that the West does not want war has made Russia eager and hungry. The tension will not relax; it will break."

Budapest-born Timar and his wife, a former newspaperwoman, escaped from Hungary in 1948 after the Russians tightened their grip on Hungary. They waited in Austria until they got permission to come to Canada.

A Sad Country

"Hungary is a very sad country today," Timar said. "It exists on a five-year plan in which I was forced to participate, despite the fact I was opposed to it. Actually, it is nothing but a plan of military preparation. I wanted no part of it."

He said the work of laborers has been intensified and their hours are long, rounded out with lectures on Communism.

"The Russians have good weapons. But the people in Hungary have no boots or clothing. Hungary is a rich country that now is turning to ruin. People are not getting proper food. It is all being sent to Russia."

Profits to Russia

The Communists have nationalized everything in Hungary but the factories once owned by the Germans. The factories are under Russian ownership now and their profits are sent to Russia.

Timar said he had undergone the hardships of two occupations of Hungary, first by the Germans and then by the Russians.

After the German breakthrough in France in 1940 cut off business links between his homeland and the West, Timar became a translator of English and French books and started to study economic research and planning. In 1942 he took part in an anti-Nazi clandestine intellectual movement as an economic adviser.

Parents Killed

"In 1944 after the Germans overran Hungary, my parents were killed by the Nazis. My wife became lost to me and I did not find her again until 1945. I had to hide but during the days of the Budapest siege, I was found. I managed to escape from a German firing squad and went over to the Russians."

After the war, he resumed his job with the Social Democratic party's economic department and remained with it until it ended in 1948 with a Communist coup d'etat. Prior to that, he had become vice-president of the Hungarian state coal mines and production had been almost trebled.

"When the Communists transformed the coal mines from my business model into a Soviet model, I resigned."

Then came his flight to freedom.

Plan To Develop Potash Industry

SASKATOON —(CP)— Saskatchewan has cleared the way for private capital to develop Canada's first potash mining and processing industry.

Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank recently announced regulations under the Mineral Resources Act for leasing Crown-owned potash rights to private concerns.

The regulations provide for issuance of exploration permits; leasing of mineral rights on a 21-year renewable term; reservation of areas as mineral reserves; and royalties.

Potash, used mainly in chemical fertilizer, is also used in the manufacture of explosives, matches, medicines, paints, soaps, glass, dyes and paper.

Canada has had to import all her potash—an estimated $4,000,000 worth annually—from the United States and Europe. Most of the world's supply now is produced in the Soviet zone of Germany.

Saskatchewan potash was found during oil drilling in the Unity, Biggar and Yorkton areas. All discoveries so far have been on Crown-owned land.

Under the regulations, a maximum of two exploration permits for up to 100,000 acres each may be issued to one applicant. Requirements include a deposit of $20,000 as a guarantee and completion of $60,000 worth of work the first year and $80,000 worth in each succeeding year.

Australian Government Shuts Down Only Domestic Fuel Oil Sources

By L. L. LECK.

SYDNEY (CP). — The Australian government has shut down this dominion's only domestic source of fuel oil because, it says, it has "wasted millions of public money by glaring and wasteful under-production."

This source was the Shale Oil Works at Glen Davis, Little Hill township behind Sydney, where for the last 10 years a refinery has been producing gasoline.

The decision to close it created a storm of protest from labor leaders and unions, as well as persons who looked to the refinery to provide a domestic source of gasoline in national emergencies.

But the Glen Davis works, opened in 1940 in the hope it would produce 30,000,000 gallons of strategically valuable gasoline a year, never produced more than 3,000,000 a year compared with present requirements of about 500,000,000 gallons.

More to the point in the view of the present government is that this gasoline cost 5 shillings 3 pence a gallon, compared with the 1s 3d cost of imported gasoline.

Observers claim the plant never had a fair trial. Successive governments, after the company was nationalized, never installed modern retorts nor did they exploit the Shale field as fully as might have been done.

In 1943 a United States government mission including top-ranking oil men recommended that Australia put in a modern retort and open a new shale field to produce 44,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year. The U.S. government promised to supply all the machinery within 15 months under lease-lend. Despite the urgent war situation and the American offer the government however never completed the proposals.

Since then the plant is estimated to have lost about $12,000,000 in operating costs.

Native Sex Crime Higher In Africa 14 Rapes In Year

JOHANNESBURG — (CP) — Lawlessness among certain sections of the natives employed in the Rand mining townships has assumed "alarming proportions," said Mr. Justice C. A. Malan recently when he sentenced a young African to death for attacking a 57-year-old white housewife.

His Lordship said there had been 14 cases of rape by natives against white women and children in the past year. Police Chief U. R. Boberg testified that "murder and sexual crimes are on the increase and the nature of the crimes is becoming more and more appalling."

Problem Increased

The problem has increased since large numbers of natives moved into the towns and townships of the big Rand mining area in search of employment. The man sentenced by Mr. Justice Malan was the fourth native to be given the death penalty for offences against white women in the past eight months.

Rape has always been one of the most serious crimes to the tribal African, as well as to the white man. The reason, so far as the natives are concerned, is economic, as well as social and moral. Some native women still are sold as brides, and the laws of many tribes call for the supreme penalty in cases of violation of women.

Courts therefore regard seriously offences by whites against natives when such cases come to trial. A 42-year-old white man convicted of outraging an African girl recently was sentenced to three and a half years in prison, to be followed by deportation to his own country, the United States.

Report Red Army Vanishes Along South Korean Front

Had Permission To Tell UN Plan For New Meeting

LAKE SUCCESS, Jan. 25 (AP).—Authoritative sources said today that the Asian-Arab bloc got a go-ahead signal from Peiping before it submitted to the United Nations the proposal for an immediate seven-power conference on the China-Korean problem. These sources said this word came from the Indian ambassador in Peiping who expressed the belief in a message to India's Sir Benegal N. Rau that such a proposal would be welcome by the Chinese Communists.

The Asian-Arab plan, in fact, conforms closely to the demands that Peiping has made from the beginning — that a conference on far eastern problems be called without waiting for a cease-fire in Korea. This has been bitterly opposed by the United States and many other countries.

The new Peiping message was received by Rau Wednesday afternoon, but Indian sources insisted that it contained only the personal impressions of the Indian ambassador and therefore would not be made public.

One Concession

The Indians did say, however, that the message indicated the Chinese Communists would be willing to hold the proposed conference outside China, perhaps in New Delhi. They previously had demanded that any such meeting be held in China.

Rau was scheduled to address the U.N. political committee this afternoon in support of the proposal put forward Wednesday by the 12-country group.

The resolution ducks specific mention of a cease-fire.

The Indian delegate was also ready to argue that the group resolution—its fourth peace move—should take precedence over the United States demand that the UN brand Communist China as an aggressor in Korea and consider what steps should be taken against Peiping.

Discounts Move

The United States delegate, Warren Austin, underscored the American demand when the committee came back Wednesday after a 48-hour recess. He revived old charges that Russia, as well as Red China, was responsible for the Korean aggression. He largely discounted the newest Arab-Asian group move.

His statement also was considered a direct answer to Prime Minister Nehru of India, who in a broadcast from New Delhi on Wednesday criticized the American resolution and said Communist China should long ago have been made a member of the UN, supplanting Nationalist China.

"You can't shoot your way into the United Nations," Austin said in detailing Communist China's fight against UN troops.

Austin added that the question of UN membership was one for all 60 members of the UN to consider, not just seven countries.

He emphasized that in the face of Communist actions and demands—which he called blackmail—the UN had to "give some thought to the issue of collective security."

Cost-of-Living Index Hits New Peak

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—The United States cost-of-living index today was reported at a peak and the economic stabilization agency's top trio called final parleys on the imminent freeze of prices and wages.

The twin orders may come late today but more probably Friday—depending on the outcome of today's conferences between ESA administrator Eric Johnston and his price-and-wage chiefs.

Well-placed officials predicted prices would be pegged at Jan. 2 levels and pay cheques at current wage rates—but with leeway for some workers to do more bargaining.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that its cost-of-living index hit a peak Dec. 15, when it stood at 178.4 per cent of the 1935-39 average. The Dec. 15 index was 1.6 per cent higher than that of Nov. 15.

Most Items Hit

A climb of 6.5 per cent in consumers' prices occurred during 1950 up to mid-December, all but 1.6 per cent of it after the beginning of the Korean conflict. Higher prices were reported for all the major groups of items which make up the budget of the moderate-income family.

The rise between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15 was led by a 2.8-per-cent advance in food prices. That was the greatest move in the index in any one month since September 1947.

Even before imposition of the projected price-wage controls, Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep. Vt.) said the wage plans, as outlined Wednesday by chairman Cyrus S. Ching of ESA's wage stabilization board, are not strict enough "by any means."

Flanders called for "just as much rigidity in controlling wages as is being planned with respect to control of prices."

Ching told the Senate-House of Representatives Economic Committee yesterday that the policy being drafted now would permit "quite a bit of flexibility for collective bargaining." Some pay boosts, he indicated, probably will be allowed on the basis of rises in living costs."

Workers Refuse To Be Evacuated

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—Relief workers in the jungle graveyard around volcanic Mount Lamington today refused to abandon their task of rescue despite signs of new eruptions from the rumbling crater.

No word of major volcanic activity came from the area of devastation, although a report reaching Australia said there had been a new explosion of scalding lava early this morning.

The evacuation order was issued Wednesday. Everyone within a 16-mile radius of Mount Lamington was ordered out of what has become a dust-covered burial ground from some 4,000 persons.

J. K. Murray, in charge of an emergency hospital where hundreds of burned survivors have receiver first aid, radioed that doctors and nurses will stay on the job as long as they can.

He said the stench of rotting bodies fills the blasted jungle around the eruption scene.

Search parties were burying them as fast as they could by throwing pumice ash over them. About 530 were buried in this way Wednesday.

Cabinet To Report On UK Rearmament

LONDON, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—The cabinet is expected to make a definite statement on Britain's rearmament and military call-up plans before Gen. Eisenhower reports to the United States Congress next Thursday on the state of the Atlantic nations defences, observers here said today.

This was disclosed after the cabinet conference met today with armed service chiefs.

Observers said Britain's new rearmament program would stress production rather than manpower. And considerable emphasis will be placed on air strength.

Garson Says Provinces Blundered

Offer Made In 1945 Won't Be Duplicated Brandon People Told

BRANDON, Jan. 25 (CP).—Justice Minister Garson said Wednesday that as a result of international developments it it doubtful if the Canadian Government will be able to repeat offers made at federal-provincial conference in 1945.

In a speech to the Brandon Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Garson said the refusal of some of the provinces to accept the proposals six years ago was possibly the worst blunder in Canadian political history.

At the conference, which broke up in failure in 1946, the federal government had offered to improve old-age pensions, to extend social welfare and health services and to co-operate with the provinces on public investment programs.

"In one of the worst, if not the worst, blunders in all of Canadian political history, certain provinces turned down these proposals," he said. "While I have not made any detailed comparison, I would hazard the guess that they probably were the most generous set of proposals that have ever been made by a federal government to the provincial or state governments in a federal state . . .

Lost Opportunity

"The provinces not signing these . . . proposals lost an opportunity of establishing their financial position, an opportunity which, in view of the international developments of the last few years, it seems doubtful whether any federal government of Canada, no matter how well disposed, will ever be able to provide again."

Mr. Garson, who entered the federal cabinet in 1948 after serving both as provincial treasurer and premier of Manitoba, dealt extensively with the results of the taxation agreements between the province and federal government.

He said Manitoba's taxation agreements with the federal government have transformed the province from one with the highest taxes and the biggest debt to the one with the lowest taxes and the smallest per capita debt.

He recalled that at the recent federal-provincial fiscal conference the federal government had offered to renew existing taxation agreements and to boost the guaranteed minimum payments.

The federal government also offered to inaugurate a contributory old-age pension program that would provide $40-a-month pensions to all 70 and over, regardless of means. It offered to share with the provinces the cost of $40-a-month pensions to the needy between 65 and 69.

Every Weapon In Battalion In Action For Big Workout

MIRYANG, Korea, Jan. 25 — (CP)—Under a full moon, Canadian troops Wednesday night took part in a lengthy exercise employing virtually every weapon in the battalion.

It was described as one of the Canadians' most colorful manoeuvres since their arrival in Korea and emphasized that the training of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry is looking more and more like the real thing.

A company commanded by Maj. Vince Lilley of Hamilton and Edmonton returned to camp early today after the exercise in which it underwent actual fire.

Support-company elements under Capt. Andy Foulds of Vancouver, with one of Lilley's platoons headed by Lieut. Harold Ross of St. Catharines, participated as "enemy" troops.

Their mission was to reconnoitre the company's position, bring it under machine-gun, mortar and flame-thrower fire and then try to take out individual platoon positions. The mortar unit under Capt. Floyd Hill of Kentville, N.S., lobbed bombs within 100 yards of the company's position.

Fould's machine-guns, under St. Alex Shearer of Watrous, Sask., sent tracer fire within 75 yards of the company, which for the exercise was under Capt. E. E. L. Harrison of Calgary.

While beating off assaults, Harrison's company used their own mortars, which CSM. Glen Laird of Winnipeg and Calgary has made his own responsibility.

Laird landed bomb after bomb in the same crater and prompted Lt.-Col. J. M. Stone, battalion commander, to exclaim "never in my life have I seen such excellent mortar fire."

The exercise taught the defenders the value of utmost silence in slit trenches and the attackers to exploit the means of concealment in which the Korean countryside abounds.

CURVE LAKE DEATH CAR of Charles Martin which plunged through the Reservation Narrows in Tuesday evening's dusk, was recovered with the body today at 12:20 p.m. The car was winched 100 yards under water from the spot where it originally crashed into the water. A ginpole rig and tow truck hauled the car to the surface and 50 Indians (background) hauled the vehicle sideways onto the ice. The mud-filled cab revealed Martin's body. Cpl. Lloyd McClure, Provincial Police, and Indian Agent Allan Adams directed the recovery operation—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Body With Car Lifted From Lake

At 12.20 noon today provincial police recovered the body of Charles Martin, 58, of 203 Crescent St. He was drowned Tuesday evening when his car plunged through the thin ice at the Curve Lake narrows.

Martin, an electrical contractor, was returning to Peterborough Tuesday night after working at the Indian reserve. He started out over the regular car track between Curve Lake and Selwyn where the ice is thick. Either he changed his mind or he became confused in the dusk because he left the track and headed northwest up the narrows between Buckhorn and Upper Chemong Lakes.

Strong Current, Thin Ice

Because of the strong current in the narrows the ice is never strong enough to bear the weight of a motor vehicle, Curve Lake residents say. In places the ice is only an inch thick and it is hazardous for even experienced Indian guides to walk across it.

Gordon Taylor, returning from hunting, saw the glow of the car's headlights Tuesday evening and then he heard the crash as the vehicle broke through the ice. He and his cousin Oswald Taylor found the hole.

The submerged car was pulled up by block and tackle a hundred yards from the original hole.

Ottawa To Pay For Equipment

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP). — Defence Minister Claxton said today that the federal government will pay for civil defence equipment and will invite provincial authorities to confer on the division of other civil defence costs.

He told a joint meeting of the Empire Club and the Canadian Club that the primary responsibility for civil defence operations must rest with the municipality.

"The question outstanding is how much financial assistance the federal government is going to give for local civil defence activities," he said. "We will certainly pay for what is essentially and exclusively civil defence equipment."

To deal with the division of expense and further strengthen co-operation, provincial authorities would be invited to meet federal officials again at "a very early date."

Canadian Ships Help Pour Tons Of Shells On Inchon

TOKYO, Jan. 25 (Reuters).—United Nations Naval units tonight stood off Inchon, west coast Korean port, crashing tons of shells on the city and dockyards. Canadian and other British Commonwealth warships were taking part in the operation but there were no details of any supporting ground action. It was not known immediately how many Canadian ships were taking part in the operation. Canada has three destroyers in Korean waters—the Cayuga, Athabaskan and Nootka.

Inchon, held by the Communists since United Nations forces fell back there at the beginning of January, was the port at which Gen. MacArthur threw in his vast seaborne invasion force Sept. 9 last year to split and crush the original North Korean offensive.

It is 20 miles west of Seoul, Communist-occupied South Korean capital. United Nations forces evacuated the port Jan. 4.

Two of the Canadian destroyers Cayuga and Athabaskan, have been in Korean waters since the summer and have seen plenty of action. They have shelled Communist-held shore points, carried out screening duties with larger U.N. units and some of the Canadian crews have been part of

Ottawa Raises Wheat Payment

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP)—Trade Minister Howe today announced that the government has boosted the initial payment on wheat delivered to the Canadian Wheat Board by 20 cents a bushel and made comparative payment increases for oats and barley. The new payments become effective Feb. 1.

The initial payment on oats is raised by 10 cents a bushel and on barley by 20 cents a bushel.

The increases apply to all grades of wheat, oats and barley delivered or to be delivered to the board during the 1950-51 crop year.

With these increases, the new initial payments are:

Wheat—$1.60 a bushel, basis No. 1 northern wheat in store at Fort William, Port Arthur or Vancouver.

Oats—75 cents a bushel, basis No. 2 Canada western oats in store Fort William or Port Arthur.

Barley—$1.13 a bushel, basis No. 3 Canada western 6 row barley in store Fort William or Port Arthur.

Mr. Howe said he hoped to be able to make an announcement regarding the long-awaited final payment on the five-year 1945-49 wheat pool "before long."

He estimated that the step-up in payments will add about another $100,000,000 to producers' income.

Bevin Reported Seriously Ill

LONDON, Jan. 24 (CP) — Foreign Secretary Bevin's physician today said the elderly cabinet minister suffering from pneumonia, maintained a "slight improvement" Wednesday night but is "very ill."

The doctor, Sir Alexander McCall, is visiting Bevin every four hours. The 69-year-old foreign secretary, who has heart trouble and asthma also, is under treatment at his London home.

Commenting on his chief's condition today, a foreign office spokesman said:

"He remains seriously ill. The word serious is used because, for a man of Mr. Bevin's age, pneumonia is a serious thing. He is not dangerously or critically ill."

15,000 People Still Cut Off From World By Avalanches

VIENNA, Jan. 25—(AP)—An estimated 15,000 Austrian villagers and foreign tourists remained cut off from the world today in Alpine villages isolated by avalanches which have killed about 250 persons.

Scores of villages in the Austrian Alps still were without power and water.

Despite warm winds from Italy that presented the peril of new avalanches, the country remained free of major snowslides to add to the five-day disaster that has taken a toll of possibly 124 lives. Others died in week-end snow slides in Switzerland, Italy, France and Germany.

For the first time, avalanche reports came from Southern Bavaria where five avalanches have crashed down the steep slopes of the Hochries Mountain, south of Rosenheim, to injure one man severely and bury another.

Italian rescue teams were in constant danger from possible new slides as they labored in the lonely valleys to extricate bodies of victims.

In addition, parts of Austria's Salzburg province were menaced by floods from mountain streams piling up behind avalanche piles that dam the valley river beds.

A Swiss six-man rescue team failed today to break through to the hospice belonging to the famed St. Bernard Monastery at the top of the Simplon Pass.

Believe Chinese Trying To Create Cease-Fire Without Actual Words

Prisoners Tell Allies Troops Suffering From Cold And Lack Of Food; London Sees Way For Chinese To Save Face

LONDON, Jan. 25 (Reuters).—The mysterious stalemate in the war in Korea may mean the Chinese want to create a cease-fire without actually saying so, military sources said here today. Latest official information reaching here from the front indicates no Chinese attack seems likely for at least a week. United Nations reconnaissances in force are meeting little opposition. Chinese taken prisoners say their troops are suffering severe hardships. Up to 50 per cent in some areas are reported to have frostbite.

All prisoners speak of shortage of supplies, including food, and it has become almost impossible now to live off the land.

Military experts here assess the Chinese army in Korea as a force with a good "cutting edge" of armor and seasoned troops in front—but men and material of inferior quality behind.

Can't Follow Through

When the edge is blunted after a full-scale attack the Chinese have difficulty following through.

If the Chinese decide to end their unannounced "cease-fire" in the next week or so it is probable United Nations forces will again start retiring and allow them to expend their strength.

The feeling is that it is not at the moment worth risking heavy losses by trying to hold a fixed line.

Tokyo reports allied armored patrols probed the central Korean war front today amid mounting speculation that the quarry has quietly pulled out.

There was no enemy contact Wednesday night except for a minor patrol clash near Yogu, 40 miles southeast of the abandoned south Korean capital of Seoul.

A few Korean, Reds were encountered in the same general area, north of Kumyangjang and Ichon.

United States intelligence officers said the apparent absence of Communist troops in force south of the Han river, which twists around Seoul, may mean the Chinese have made a large-scale withdrawal to the north.

There is speculation that the Chinese are awaiting political developments in the United Nations, meanwhile using North Koreans to patrol the no man's land into which UN patrols have been poking all week.

Injures Race Horse Driver Fined $100

BRANTFORD, Jan. 25 — (CP). —Charles Huntington 23, of nearby Middleport, Wednesday was fined $100 for leaving the scene of an accident in which a racehorse valued at $2,500 was fatally injured. Charges of drunken driving and dangerous driving were dismissed.

Police said Huntington's automobile struck the horse and injured it so badly it had to be shot. They said Huntington drove the badly-damaged car for five miles after the accident.

Magistrate J. Kirkpatrick of Kitchener said he made the fine larger than usual for the offence because Huntington had done nothing to put the animal out of its misery.

Board Reserves Decision On Freight Hike

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 — (CP). — The Board of Transport Commissioners today reserved decision on a railway application for a general freight rate increase of five per cent.

The $23,000,000-a-year increase is sought to meet the cost of the seven-cents-an-hour wage boost obtained by railway employees last year.

Argument in the case was completed today by railway counsel and Wednesday by lawyers for seven provincial governments — all except Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia—which are opposing the application.

For the Canadian National Railways, Counsel Hugh O'Donnell said today the rate increase was justified by rising costs. Expenses were "very definitely" on the uptrend.

Mr. O'Donnell said the financial position of the railways should be maintained so they could give the service they had to provide. Other businesses were receiving adequate returns.

John L. O'Brien, Canadian Pacific Railway counsel, said that company would not have enough revenue in 1951, even with the proposed new increase.

He took issue with a claim of provincial government opposing the increase, to the effect that increased rail traffic resulting from the defence preparednss program would overcome additional expenses.

Actually, he said, as the result of expected losses of some forms of traffic, the CPR would have to find about $39,000,000 in new business this year if it were to overcome its revenue "deficiency" at current freight rates.

The CPR lawyer also disagreed with a provincial contention that a pending six-per-cent increase application by United States railroads might boost considerably the Canadian railways' revenues from international traffic.

School Building Razed By Fire

GRAVENHURST, Jan. 25 (CP) —A four-hour $90,000 fire today destroyed a High School building and its contents which included musical instruments of a civic band and thousands of irreplaceable Public School records.

A heavy snowstorm hampered volunteer firemen, but they succeeded in preventing the fire spreading from the old building to a new $300,000 High School 20 feet away.

Caretaker John Rusk told firemen that the blaze broke out in the furnace room shortly after he had lit two furnaces.

Says No Price Freeze Planned For Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP)—No immediate general wage and price freeze is being planned for Canada, Finance Minister Abbott said today in an interview.

He added that this policy likely will not be changed even though the United States launches a general freeze within the next few days.

Mr. Abbott said government's policy is to attack inflation at its roots by fiscal means and by selective controls.

"We don't consider that there is any immediate need for price and wage ceilings. However, if the government feels at some future time that they are needed, they will, of course, be made effective."

Top Scientist Reveals Air Research

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP)—Canada is quietly going ahead with experiments on guided missiles, trans-sonic flight and other problems facing advancing military science, particularly in the field of aviation.

This was disclosed Wednesday night by the country's top military scientist, Dr. O. M. Solandt, in a speech to the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association. The director of the defence research board briefly lifted the secrecy curtain before the association's closing banquet for a brief glimpse behind the scientific scene.

He declared that creation of a National Aeronautical Establishment, announced earlier by Defence Minister Claxton, as a "major step forward in the history of Canadian aviation." It was needed so Canadian scientists could have the facilities they needed to keep abreast of the problems of a modern air and military age.

The establishment, expected to become in time the heart of Canadian advancement in aviation science, will be set up at Uplands airport just outside Ottawa, where a new fighter squadron has just been established.

It is hoped construction will start in the spring and the flight research section of NRC at Arnprior, Ont., will be moved to Uplands, as well as the RCAF's experimental and proving establishment.

First To Introduce It

In the field of research, Dr. Solandt indicated Canada was the first to develop a long-range, all-weather fighter—the CF-100 Canuck—and he predicted this jet plane will be in demand abroad.

She had done work on de-icing, on radar, communications and navigational aids and on new instruments for flight research.

In the field of air armament she had passed over "the more-conventional weapons" and the Canadian Armament Research and Development establishment at Valcartier, Que., now was engaged in work on guided missiles. Chemical and biological warfare work was going on in establishments in Ottawa, Kingston and Suffield, Alta.

"It is a melancholy thought that so much of this effort is directed towards the problems of war," Dr. Solandt said. "But fortunately research in military aviation is one field in which a very high percentage of the work that is done will ultimately pay dividends in the improvement of civil aviation".

Won't Meet In Paris

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 24 (AP)—United Nations officials indicated today they had dropped their plan to hold the 1951 general assembly in Europe and decided to keep it in New York. An announcement is expected within the next few days. The assembly voted last fall to hold its next session in Europe. It was tacitly understood that Paris would be chosen.

Dollar Rate

MONTREAL, Jan. 25 (CP) — The market rate for United States funds as reported by the Bank of Canada at noon today EST, was $1.05 13/32. Wednesday's noon rate was $1.05 15/32.

The pound sterling was $2.95¼ against $2.95 5/16 Wednesday.

EYE TOPICS

FRANCIS JENKINS

First to Make Movies

Francis Jenkins lived in Washington, a stenographer employed by the government. He invented the first practical motion picture projection machine — an invention for which he received $2,500.

Movies depend on the principle of persistence of vision. This means that the brain retains an object's image unchanged for a fraction of a second after the object is removed or changes its position. The first "movies," as a matter of fact, were toys of this kind. A big advance was made by Thomas Edison, who invented the first flexible "film" and devised a machine by which photographs taken on it could be viewed. He called his machine a kineoscope. But only one person could view them at a time.

Jenkins, the amateur, bridged the gap between movies for the individual spectator and movies for an audience. In 1894 he demonstrated his first crude machine. The Jenkins principle is embodied in all present-day movie projectors. The film itself consists of a series of small pictures, each advancing the action very slightly. These pictures are projected on the screen, one at a time, but at the rate of 16 or more per second, thus creating the illusion of motion. In the average two-and-one-half-hour show, the eye is called upon to view about 200,000 separate pictures—a major chore for the eyes.

Queen's Economist Rouses Anger Of Farm Delegates

CALGARY, Jan. 25 (CP).—Canadian farmers have no inclination to sell their wheat on the open market if Wednesday's session of the annual Canadian Federation of Agriculture convention was any yardstick of their opinion. This was evidenced in the heated reaction of delegates to arguments advanced for the open futures market by Dr. J. L. McDougall, economist at Queen's University. They were given during a CBC National Farm Broadcast recorded for Monday night and staged before the convention audience.

The farmers barely managed to control their tempers during the recording when Dr. McDougall said arguments against the open market "stunk" and that the wheat pools had operated for many years "not on their real value to you, but by frightening you with this bogey man (low farm prices in depression years)."

Scathing Remarks

He was spared constant interruption, and undoubtedly some lusty booing because complete silence had been ordered until the end of the broadcast. The only applause recorded came at the end—after the professor's summation of his argument.

Shortly after Mr. McDougall left the convention hall a motion was passed unanimously instructing the directors to have the CBC cut the applause out of the recording, lest radio listeners interpret it as farmer approval of the professor's contentions. The applause was intended for the broadcast as a whole, it was emphasized.

Dr. McDougall, who said he was born on a farm, "escaped" to catch a plane, but not before some delegates had delivered scathing denunciations of his views. They told him that farmers know more about agriculture than economists and that they (the farmers) should be left to decide their own affairs.

He was opposed in the debate by George Robertson of Regina, secretary of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Producers Limited. Mr. Robertson enjoyed support of the convention when he said price stability for producers in food exporting countries such as Canada is not possible under the open market system.

Make No Progress On Overdue Russ Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP)—State Department officials reported "no progress" Wednesday in their efforts to negotiate an over-due settlement of Russia's $11,000,000,000 wartime lend-lease account.

An American negotiator said after a third meeting with a Russian delegation that "prospects for settlement don't look any better than they have for the last five years."

The United States is proposing that the Russians, headed by Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin, agree to pay a reasonable price for the lend-lease items of peacetime value.

Juin To Head French Forces

PARIS, Jan. 25—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower left by plane today for Iceland, continuing his survey tour of Atlantic Pact countries and their plans to defend western Europe against Russian communism.

As Eisenhower flew homeward after his hurried two-week tour of West European Atlantic Pact signers, France marked the end of his visit by naming a top military man to head all of her armed forces—a move the new supreme Atlantic Pact commander is reported to have urged.

Gen. Alphonse Juin was appointed to the new post of inspector-general of French armed forces. He also keeps the post to which he was appointed in 1947—French resident-general in Morocco.

There has been strong pressure at home and abroad to put a single officer at the head of the key French defence system. Juin will be responsible directly to Premier Rene Pleven with his job to "supervise the training and employment of the armed forces," the official journal said. He also will represent France on the military committee of the North Atlantic treaty organization.

The 62-year-old Juin worked with Eisenhower in the Italian campaign of the Second World War and was chief of the French national defence general staff from 1944 to 1946.

Need United Action

"If any one of us is attacked, each of us would in that situation desperately ask the United Nations to provide the unified support of every other government in the world to meet the attack. How can we bring that about for our own countries? Only by a determination to take united action to support each other faithfully and vigorously when an act of aggression occurs."

The 12-power proposal was circulated among the members late Wednesday. Some delegates said they would have to ask their governments for new instructions.

Rau declined to explain the proposal's provisions to reporters before his speech.

Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, was expected here for today's meeting to tell how Canada stands on the United States demand. Pearson was one of the members of the Assembly's three-country cease-fire committee which reported failure in its task.

He is alleged to have operated with Aubrey Hancock, now serving a two-year term in penitentiary for a used-car swindle. Hancock pleaded guilty. Imming has made no election or plea.

Ex-Crown Attorney Col. J. Grierson Dies

OSHAWA, Jan. 25 (CP)—Col. J. F. Grierson, K.C., 90, former crown attorney and the oldest barrister in Ontario county, died today.

He joined the Queen's Own Rifles while a student at the University of Toronto and went to the Northwest Rebellion in 1885 as a member of that unit.

He served five years on city council, was city solicitor 25 years and spent more than 50 years on the Oshawa library board, including 20 as treasurer.

Asks Maximum For Gambling

WINDSOR, Jan. 25 (CP).—E. A. Duchesne, assistant crown attorney, demanded Wednesday that all convicted betting house keepers be given the maximum penalty of six months in jail.

He made his plea before Magistrate Angus W. MacMillan following the conviction of Stanley Tymczak for keeping a betting house.

Mr. Duchesne urged the maximum penalty because of what he termed evidence of widespread syndicate gambling in Windsor.

Magistrate MacMillan said he would not commit himself to setting a jail term. He said he wouldn't become a "rubber stamp" to the crown attorney's office. Mr. Duchesne said trained investigators had proven to the crown's satisfaction that a "very large syndicate was still operating and supplying Detroit."

Tmyczak was remanded to Jan. 31 for sentence, when John Rewakowski will also be tried on a charge of permitting a betting house to operate. During his trial Tmyczak said Rewakoski was the actual keeper of the betting house where he was arrested.

Hamilton Group UE Support Visit

A group of 12 Hamilton Westinghouse workers visited the city today as a gesture of support for members of Local 524, United Electrical Workers, now negotiating for a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase.

The group, headed by three vice-presidents of Local 504, UE, paid a flying visit earlier today to the Davenport works on a similar mission. Recently the Hamilton local signed an agreement with Westinghouse that included a general increase of 10 cents an hour and an additional three cents for skilled day-rate workers.

Besides the 25-cent boost, the CGE chain of UE locals are asking for an extra 10 cents for day rate and other skilled workers. A reduction of the work week from 43 to 40 hours is sought in Peterborough, and from 42 to 40 hours in the Toronto plants.

William Walsh, UE district representative who accompanied the Hamilton group, said the purpose of coming to the Peterborough and Toronto plants was, firstly, a gesture of unity and, secondly, to urge the CGE workers to press for wage rates more in line with those at Westinghouse.

"Average earnings at the Westinghouse plant are at least 34 cents higher than at the Peterborough plant," he said.

Get No Rest

But Allied air power today gave the Reds no rest far behind the lines. Planes plastered military targets throughout North Korea. The town of Chunchon was wrecked.

More Russian-type planes were thrown into the fight, with Yak night fighters attacking American B-26s on night intruder missions Wednesday night. It was one of their few appearances in the Korean war. No damage was caused by the enemy planes.

A strong Allied patrol yesterday powered its way through slight enemy opposition to retake the town of Hoengsong, 10 miles north of rubbled Wonju and 33 miles south of the 38th Parallel, but withdrew a little afterwards.

American planes made a heavy attack on the town Thursday, indicating the Reds had reoccupied former positions. Strongest Communist forces in the Hoengsong area at last reports were North Korean Reds.

AP Correspondent William J. Waugh at Eighth Army headquarters reported 3,000 North Koreans and Chinese 11 miles northwest of Yoju. He said these troops were digging in, evidently for a fight.

Spot Entrenchments

Air observers reported seeing civilians digging entrenchments on a hill three miles south of Kumyangjan. Air strikes disrupted their work.

One Allied patrol took high ground northeast of Yongwol, tungsten-mining town 14 miles east of Chechon on the central-eastern front. Yongwol was retaken Wednesday by United Nations forces, likely U.S. 7th Division troops who have been previously identified in that area.

Scattered enemy guerrilla forces were reported by agents and patrols throughout the area.

In line with the speculation the Chinese have withdrawn, U.S. airmen during the day dropped leaflets over the Red lines bearing a cartoon advising the North Koreans that the Chinese are using them for the heavy winter fighting while they stay behind in the comparative safety and warmth of back-area cities.

The pamphlet said:

"The Chinese are always talking about fighting beside you, but actually you and your comrades are doing the heavy fighting while most of the Chinese take things easy in cities far behind the lines.

"You are the ones facing sub-zero temperatures and deep snow, not the Chinese. Why should you be the ones to suffer from frostbite?"

J. T. Wood's Son Joins Mounties

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP).—John Taylor Wood of Ottawa, 20-year-old son of RCMP Commissioner S. T. Wood is following the family tradition.

He's joining the Mounties.

Within the next day or two he will be sworn into the force his 61-year-old father has headed since 1938 and will depart with other rookies for three months initial training at Regina.

He will be the second son of the commissioner to don a Mountie uniform. Herschel, 25, was killed in an auto accident near McLeod, Alta., last year while serving as a constable in the force.

Another son, D. Z. T. Wood, was killed while serving in the RCAF during the Second World War.

The swearing in will take place at Ottawa headquarters and will be performed by Inspector E. H. Stevenson of Vancouver, whose father is a long-time constable in the force.

Western Oils Drop Sharply On Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP) — Western oils dropped sharply as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The group which was firm at noon suddenly turned lower with a wide list of losses that ranged to $1.50. Calgary and Edmonton was the $1.50 loser. It was down to $10. Pacific Petroleum was off 90 cents, Federated Petroleum, 60 cents, Home Oil $1 and Anglo-Canadian 55 cents.

The western oils index of 15 selected stocks was down an unusual 4.51 points at 88.48 at 1 p.m. Base metals were off 1.75 at 1.79.33, golds were down .45 at 91.88 and industrials were off .42 at 308.52.

Callinan Flin Flon in the base metal group accounted for about 700,000 shares of the extremely heavy volume. As it did yesterday it traded extremely actively. It climbed to a new high at 46 cents, and then settled with an 11-cent gain at 38 cents.

Base metals as a whole were close on the heels of western oils with declines over a broad front. Losses ranged to 65 cents and Steep Rock, International Nickel, Noranda, Labrador and Quemont paced the group downward.

Eritrea Moslems Wary Of Future Under Copt Rule

By OSCAR RAMPONE

ASMARA, Eritrea — (AP) — The 500,000 Moslems of Eritrea look with some suspicion to future rule by Haile Selassie, the coptic Christian emperor of Ethiopia.

The United Nations' General Assembly voted last month to federate this former Italian colony along the Red Sea coast of East Africa with Selassie's kingdom of Ethiopia.

The federation plan is a compromise between demands for independence and demands for outright union with Ethiopia.

The assembly thus disposed of the last of Mussolini's pre-war African colonies. Libya on the Mediterranean is to become fully independent by 1952. Italian Somaliland, down the east coast of Africa from Eritrea, is under a 10-year Italian trusteeship pending its independence.

An UN commissioner will help the 1,000,000 Eritrean blacks get ready to run their own administration under a federation with Ethiopia.

The British have been governing Eritrea since its capture in 1941. The British administration will continue until the turnover date in 1953.

Moslems not Satisfied

Moslems, forming half the Eritrea population, have accepted the UN decision although they are not satisfied with it. The people split down the line, and the commission split, too. That accounts for the compromise.

The Moslems were the backbone of the Independence group. Some wanted to unite part of Eritrea with the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, also a Moslem country.

The Unionist group was composed chiefly of Coptic Christians. They were sympathetic to Ethiopian claims for unity.

The Moslems argued that Eritrea is far more civilized than Ethiopia because of 70 years of Italian rule. Moslem fear that they will not enjoy the same rights as the Copts in an Eritrea dominated by Ethiopia. The Coptic religion is one of the oldest Christian sects.

Eritrea is a poor country, with some agriculture and limited mining activities, badly disturbed by bandit terrorism. The people vary widely. There are 12 racial groups, each with its own language and customs.

But federation of Eritrea with Ethiopia will satisfy one of Ethiopia's most pressing demands—a free outlet to the sea through the Red Sea ports of Massawa and Assab. Ethiopian official opinion appears satisfied with the compromise solution as at least partial justice.

Under the federation plan the central Ethiopian government is expected to control foreign affairs and trade, finance and defence. In all other matters Eritrea is expected to have full home rule.

Island Faces Serious Economic Crisis

By SIDNEY WEILAND

STORNOWAY, SCOTLAND, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—With Production geared to the highest pitch almost everywhere else in Britain, this island of Northern Scotland is saddled with a grave econocic crisis.

For generations, the islanders have earned their living by fishing and weaving. But this year their livelihood is endangered.

Fish have been slow coming to the bleak, rocky coastal swarming grounds where once they were caught in thousands. And a worldwide wool shortage has drastically cut weavers' business.

Already 1,200 of Stornoway's 13,000 inhabitants are hunting new jobs. Many others are planning to leave for the mainland, 180 miles away across choppy seas, to seek work in Scotland's industrial cities.

"The position is extremely grave," says the chief citizen, provost A. J. MacKenzie.

"Unless we get to grips with the two monsters of unemployment and depopulation, the island will be ruined."

Only Tiny Catches

Normally the winter fishing season begins in January. But so far only tiny catches have come in from the trawlers.

About 400 fishermen are unemployed and scores of little boats are tied up at the quayside.

The weavers—most of them with one-man businesses—complain that what little wool they can get costs too much. And then the finished product—with 66 2-3 per-cent sales tax added by the government—has a limited market, although the island produces some of Scotland's best tweed.

Local citizens, inured to the many hardships of this desolate outpost, believe the threatened crisis is so serious that they have asked government experts to come and see for themselves.

They hope plans will be devised to bring work to the island.

AVALANCHES BRING DEATH to Swiss village. This is how the little hamlet of Vals in the Swiss Alps looks from the air after being the worst hit place in the series of avalanches which have brought death and destruction in mountains of Austria and Switzerland. The avalanche swept down on village from left and buried buildings in its path. The bodies of seven more persons were dug out yesterday in Vals, bringing the death toll to 16 so far. New avalanches occurred in Austria yesterday as danger lessened in Switzerland.

Canadian History Topic Of Principal's Address

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 25 — (ENS) — George Keith, supply principal of Campbellford High School, was guest speaker at the Kinsmen Club meeting Monday evening.

Mr. Keith gave the members a very interesting and enlightening talk on the history of Canada, with particular emphasis on the development of the western portion of the country. He used a map to illustrate his talk, and told many humorous anecdotes.

He described the founding of the Hudson Bay Fur Trading Co., in 1670, which was mostly of English personnel at the outset, but later being composed to a great extent of Scottish traders.

Fort Nelson and Fort Churchill were the chief ports by which early fur traders transported their wares to Great Britain. It is actually a much shorter route than the Montreal-St. Lawrence waterway, the main highway for the French fur trade.

Campbellford Lodges Honor IOOF Founder

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 25 — (ENS).—No. 248 IOOF Campbellford Lodge and the Loch Lomond Rebekah Lodge honored the memory of the founder of Oddfellowship recently, when about 140 members of both lodges and their guests assembled at the close of the regular lodge session.

Bro. Oscar Campbell, Noble Grand of the Campbellford Lodge presided for the evening.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the presentation of 25 year veterans' jewels to four members. Bro. Percy Sherwin introduced the District Deputy Grand Master Bro. Walter Warren of Stirling, who presented the jewels to the following: Bros. Grant Anderson, Ralph J. Locke, W. R. Loucks and George B. Phillips, the latter coming from Toronto for the event.

A musical program followed the presentation, with instrumental numbers as well as vocal solos and duets. Dances were also presented.

Mrs. Howard Hogle and Miss Anne Nicholls were the piano accompanists for the evening. Mrs. Effie MacDonald moved a vote of thanks to the artists taking part in the program, and to those in charge of the evening's entertainment.

The Examiner Refuses To Be The Goat

On Thursday last, January 18, this newspaper reported that the Crown Attorney had referred critically to the city's traffic bylaw in the magistrate's court. That is news, and of interest to the public, for the public has to abide by that law. In some circles it may have appeared that there was implied criticism of the work of the City Solicitor; if that were so, it is one of those professional disputes among the gentlemen of the long robe with which the public is not especially concerned. Our reporter reported what he heard, as was his duty; we have complete faith in his report and he is ready to take an affidavit at any time as to its accuracy. But the implication has been made in a meeting of the Board of Works that The Examiner had reflected upon the City Solicitor. Alderman Miller is quoted as saying that "every once in a while The Examiner gives someone a raw deal, and I think in this case it was a raw deal." Just how the quixotic Alderman thinks that we have given the City Solicitor, with whom this newspaper is on excellent terms, a "raw deal" was not explained.

* * *

The remarks of Alderman Miller, however, reflected the unpopularity which this newspaper at present enjoys at the City Hall. The Mayor, at the same meeting, said that The Examiner had killed the deal for the expropriation of the Hughes property; the suggestion was that we had done so by printing what was said in confidence at a committee meeting. That suggestion has no foundation; we had the information, and several other people in the city had it, two full days before it was ever mentioned in committee; a newspaper can scarcely regard news as confidential which has already enjoyed a considerable circulation. Are we supposed to have given what Mr. Miller calls "a raw deal" on this occasion? If so, we should like to ask the Council, and the members of former Councils, how many times anything which was said in confidence at a Council meeting, or in committee, and which was not otherwise known, has ever been printed in The Examiner during the past fifteen years—the term of its present publishers? The record is one of which we are proud, and we do not think anyone who knows the truth of these matters can disturb it.

* * *

When something goes wrong in official circles it is always easy to blame a newspaper. There are many people who would be unhappy if they could not think that newspapers are dishonourable institutions, published by venal and devious men, and employing chronically untruthful and stupid persons as reporters. Newspapers, however, like public officials themselves, are fallible things; they do their best, and their best is often far from despicable. The Examiner has no intention of being the goat for the errors or indiscretions of others—though it has no particular objection to being the occasion of Alderman Miller's entertaining outbursts, which we enjoy as fully and value as lightly as do our readers. But when it is suggested that this newspaper is knowingly untruthful, or that it persecutes men in the public service, we give warning that we will not tolerate any such nonsense. If the Council needs a goat, it would be wise to find another.

Peterborough Teachers' Increased Salaries

After hearing teachers' proposals and setting up a special committee on salaries, the Peterborough Board of Education granted every public and high school teacher under its jurisdiction an immediate $400 increase, instead of the $200 provided for earlier, and increased the maximum salaries of every principal and teacher by $400. From the teachers' point of view, and also from that of citizens anxious to deal fairly with their teachers in these times of mounting living costs, the salary adjustment should be very satisfactory. The $100 difference between vocational school specialists without degrees, and other teachers who are not specialists but are university graduates, is perhaps the only item which we would criticize adversely. So few graduate non-specialists are affected that there seems little point in maintaining the difference.

Salaries in Peterborough schools continue to be the equal of, or better than, salaries paid in other cities, for the new increases are in line with increases granted elsewhere and the Peterborough schedule was already good. Starting salaries in the Collegiate are higher than in Toronto; maximums in both Collegiate and public schools are as high or higher than in most other cities. With the new $400 increment retroactive to January 1st, and thereafter the annual $200 increment, new teachers without experience who were engaged last September will all be able to reach their maximums in eight years. The rate of rise in pay is unusually rapid in the province's schools.

These new maximums are:

Public School teachers, women	$3,400
Public School teachers, men	3,800
Public School vice-principals	4,000
Public School principals	4,800
Collegiate, graduates, non-specialists	4,500
Collegiate, specialists	4,600
Collegiate, heads of departments	4,800

An extra $150 annually is paid teachers who hold post-graduate degrees in education, or a doctorate. There are other favourable aspects besides salary schedules. Peterborough has a special retiring allowance plan, over and above the usual provincial pension plan, accumulative sick leave, and an insurance plan, partly contributory.

The new adjustments meet the demands of the women teachers and public school male teachers; the increment is $200 less than the collegiate male teachers asked at the first of the month. The immediate cost, annually, of this new schedule will be about $85,000. This will not be entirely an additional levy on the local tax rate, for provincial grants and county levies are being increased. Not until the extent of these grants and the various assessment increases are known will the effect on the tax rate be determined. It will not be overwhelming.

The Squeeze On Goods

The Department of National Defence has placed, in the last nine months, orders for $700 millions of armament construction and supplies. That is twenty times as much as ordered in the nine months before the last war broke out; it is six times as much as the total of such orders placed during the first year of the war. Defence orders of such magnitude are bound to squeeze the productive capacities of Canadian industry and to limit the supplies of civilian goods. That is only the beginning of the story. Defence spending in 1951-52 is likely to be at least twice as great as the present rate, even if full war does not come.

In addition to Canadian orders for armament, orders are now coming in from other North Atlantic Treaty nations. They are expected to reach a total of $150 million very soon.

In addition to the pressures these put on the Canadian economy there is the pressure of capital expansion plans. Industry, the trades, government bureaus and the like are all expanding, requiring more building, more materials and more labour. The capital expansion plans for 1951 reached the highest peak ever, 22 per cent. of national production. Added to all this is the unparalleled demand for civilian goods. Wages are high, there is little unemployment, and there is money for buying household goods, personal goods and service and the like.

The squeeze on the Canadian productive capacity, the demand for goods, is already severe. When the full impact of present and impending defence orders is felt, at the same time that there are armed service demands for more men in uniform, a critical point will be reached which will require extraordinary effort and regulations if the goods are to be produced and the economy of the country not wrenched out of all control by inflation. The critical period is around the corner; some trained observers believe it will come as early as March.

Old Age In The Yukon

Last year (as of March 31st) 282,584 persons in Canada were receiving old age pensions. This compares with 251,865 at the end of March 1949. The chief reason for the increase was the entrance of Newfoundland into the Canadian federation, adding 10,296 to the number of Canadian pensioners. The Yukon Territory was also included in the scheme for the first time, but this added only 108 old age pensioners. It is remarkable that in an area of 200,000 miles, bigger than all of Europe (not including Russia) there are only 108 people old enough and sufficiently poorly heeled to qualify for old age pensions.

We suspect that the people of the Yukon are not really better-off financially than the rest of Canadians; after all it has been a long time since the Yukon gold rush—which really did not pan out too well for most rushers. The reasons for the few pensioners are that there are few people in the Yukon—only 4,914 when the last official census was taken; and that long life and the Yukon do not go hand in hand. The same census shows that in all the 200,000 square miles of the Yukon there were only 328 people aged 70 and more.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A new portable pocket-radio calls people to the telephone wherever they may happen to be. Now, to make life completely unbearable, we only need a telephone equipped with television.

A Connecticut policeman was arrested for dancing nude on lawns recently; upon examination he was found to be wearing a pink brassiere. A little too colourful to remain on the Force, perhaps.

The People Who "Don't Know"

An American Conversation Piece

by

KENNETH HARRIS

"HULLO" said Reilly. He took down another glass and began polishing it. "How's things at U.N.?"

I sat down at the most famous bar in America—"118 feet of hospitality" the advertisements call it. "Well," I said, "apparently American public opinion thinks that U.N. is appeasing the Chinese and wants to stop all that and give them the 'aggressor treatment.'"

"Uhuh!" said Reilly. He began on another glass. "Who says that?"

"The American delegation."

"Them guys don't know," said Reilly. "They may be right, but if they are it's just luck. What do them guys know about American public opinion, sitting in a committee room with a bunch of foreigners?"

"I suppose somebody in Washington tells them," I said.

"Sure," said Reilly. He put the glass down. "This is how I figure it; the guys at U.N. talk to reporters; the reporters write, then the guys in Washington clip it 'n' send it up to the guys at U.N. 'This is public opinion' they say. 'You better get busy!' Public opinion," said Reilly. "You ever seen a cat chasin' its tail?"

"The point is it gets in the papers," I said, "and the papers influence public opinion."

"Sure," said Reilly. "Sure. Like they did in the last presidential election. Seventy per cent. of the press 'n' radio said Mr. Dewey couldn't lose. Boy! that's reel influence."

"So you think most Americans mightn't be so keen to pitch into China."

"I didn't say that" said Reilly, with severity. "I reckon it depends on how you put the question to 'em. See, when this Korea business started folks over here were told 'We gotta back U.N. against aggression.' 'O.K.' they said. Well, we get right in and clean up them North Koreans. They're little aggressors. Then we comes up against the Chinese. But they're big aggressors. Now a lot of British and Commonwealth guys get up and say 'U.N. gotta negotiate. Hey! You Americans quit getting so tough.'"

"And the Americans get a bit sore?"

"Yeah. But don't figure that everybody in the States thinks like that about U.N. 'cos a lot don't think about it all. Lot don't think about anything, however much them papers play it up. You remember that fuss they kicked up over sacking Acheson? You know they said he was a Red. Well, some guy took a poll. You'd a thought with all that fuss about the Reds 'n' everything that everybody'd take sides. Huh!" Reilly took down another glass. "Forty per cent. the guys they polled never even heard of Acheson!"

"After what you said about the 1948 election," I said "I'd have thought you wouldn't have paid much attention to opinion polls."

"Them polls is always right about one thing," said Reilly. "The number of people who say 'don't know.'"

HE bent down and picked up his dish-cloth. He began to mop up his broad polished counter in long thoughtful circular sweeps. "It depends on the question you put," he said. "Suppose I polled a hundred guys here tonight. If I said 'Bud, are you for or against telling these Chinks to quit aggressing—or else?' ninety of those guys would say I'm for.' But supposing I put a diff'rent question? I say 'Now, look, bud. If we tell these Chinks t'get the hell outah Korea, or else, we're going to land United Nations in the hell of a big war before they're ready. But if we negotiate with 'em we'll have time to get so we can get really tough with 'em, or the Ruskies, next time. See? Supposing I say that, and then ask them which they wanna do. What'd they answer then?"

"Don't know," I said.

"That's right," said Reilly. He went on mopping the bar.

"What's right?" I asked.

"That's what they'd say," said Reilly. "'Don't know.'"

I felt a bit angry. "What's the use of having a lot of people who 'Don't know,'" I demanded.

Reilly stopped mopping and looked at me paternally. "When people get as far as admitting they don't know," he said, "you can do something with 'em. It's when they think they do know that they're so kinda stubborn."

Functions Of The Press

(Guelph Mercury)

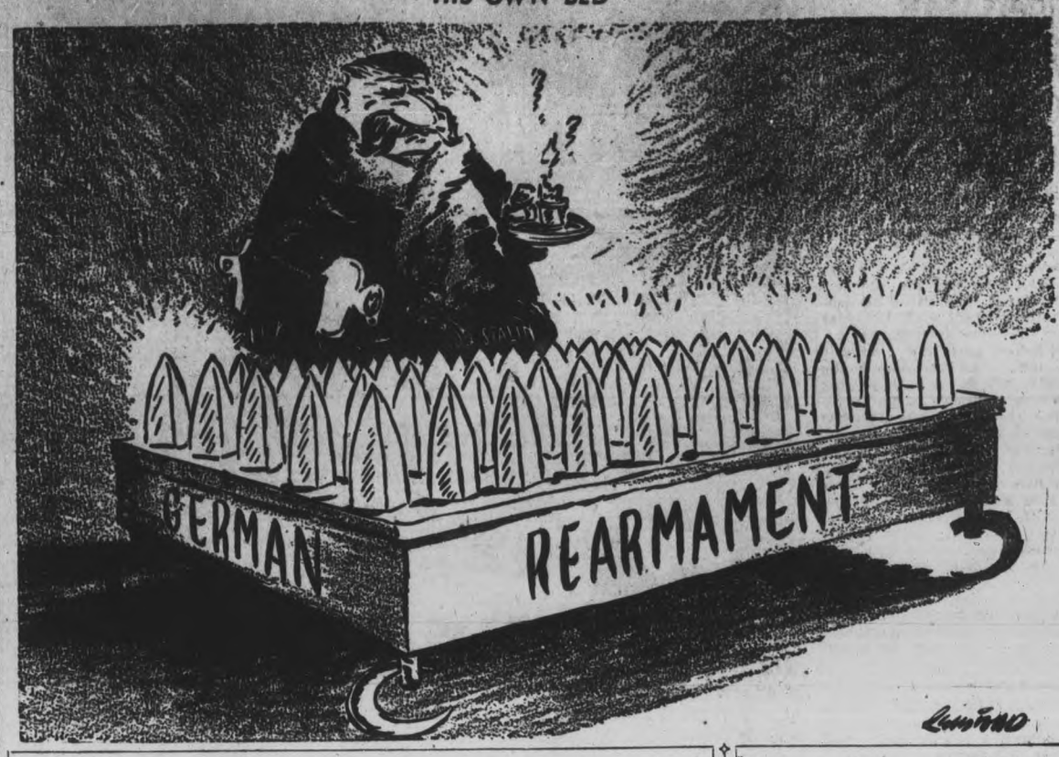
Every once in a while someone gets elected and one of the first things he tries to do is to carry on the town's business behind closed doors. After all, the town's business is the public's business and any ratepayer has a perfect right to attend council meetings, or committee meetings, and hear all that goes on.

The council which tries to exclude the public or the press usually has something to hide, is trying to put across something which would not bear close scrutiny, or to work a favor for a friend, in some manner.

The press is the only agency in the world that is a true custodian of the public's interest, if it fulfils its public obligations, and because of this 99 per cent of the residents of any community look to their local paper to keep them informed on all topic of general welfare, and to give guidance in movements of public welfare.

Could Bring Red Faces

(Fort William Times-Journal)



Two items of news have reached Fort William which should cause some embarrassment, make us sit up and take notice.

A story from the old country points out that in a small Glasgow factory a manufacturer is making and exporting dozens of pairs of Indian moccasins to Canada and the U.S.A. He is under the impression that these are being worn on the reservations by Indian "braves", but as a matter of fact they are being bought by holiday-makers as curios.

The second item comes from Japan. It tells us that the Japanese are manufacturing a hand-warmer for sale in Canada. They used naphtha or high-grade gasoline to make a preparation which can be placed in pockets or in gloves, and which will keep the hands warm at 25, 30 or 40 degrees below zero.

Why are these mocassins and hand-warmers made in Scotland and Japan instead of Fort William? Could it be that there is more imagination and initiative in Glasgow and Tokyo than there is in Fort William and Port Arthur?

HIS OWN BED

The Case For Optimism

FRANCIS WILLIAMS

in

THE LONDON NEWS CHRONICLE

TO look 1951 in the face and declare oneself an optimist is not easy, I admit. As the "New Statesman" remarked magisterially in its Christmas message to its readers, this is not a time for singing "Let nothing you dismay."

Yet, like the young gentleman who proposed himself as a leader-writer on the grounds that he was good at invective and when pressed to particularize replied, "just invective in general," I am an optimist in general. Not necessarily in particular.

I admit that the crises to which we awake each morning from whatever dreams have troubled or uplifted us during the night are dark, dangerous and intractable. I agree that, whatever point on the compass one looks towards, 1951 has every appearance of being a year we shall be glad to see the back of only too grateful if it leaves the world no worse than it finds it.

But despite all this I find myself an optimist.

Despite all the arguments for pessimism, I refuse to let the case for optimism—optimism as a general attitude to life even in the darkest times—go by default.

✧ ✧ ✧

THAT is not our fortune. Like the men and women of the Renaissance, like our own Elizabethans, we are recruited to live in dangerous and magnificent times.

To say that a new world is struggling to be born is so clearly true that it has become a commonplace. Yet it sometimes seems to me that even when we are aware of this we are sometimes not fully conscious of what it is that is striving to be born.

In the past the fight for political democracy, for the freedom of Parliament and the liberty of the individual was part of a general struggle of ordinary men and women for a better life and for social control of the instruments of economic power.

Now over a large part of the world the regimentation of opinion and the suppression of political liberty is done by those who claim, and sometimes genuinely claim, that what they seek is the harnessing of economic power for common purposes and the ending of privileges of birth and wealth which in the past have too often seemed to bar the progress of the ordinary people.

The struggle has thus become—or, rather, seemed to become—a divided struggle. This is especially so in the emergent nationalisms of the East which face this new half-century with what is at once its greatest problem and its most immense opportunity.

Too often it is those who speak in the name of political tyranny who have been believed when they claim to have history on their side—because they have also been able to claim that they speak in the name of economic emancipation.

But it is in fact the appearance of the struggle not the reality that has changed. For the real struggle is one of freedom, of which economic emancipation is only a part, although an important part.

And although that struggle has been going on for a long time it is worth while remembering, I think, how short is the period of mankind's history in which the belief in democracy as the most potent of all the instruments of freedom has had power over men's minds.

IT is this democratic concept which is the really revolutionary principle in the world. And it is this which is still struggling to be born against the massed opposition of traditional authoritarianism—which are not the less traditional and retrogade in their basic precepts of government because they can now wear a suit of clothes cut from a more common cloth.

All authoritarianisms need some cloak to hide the reality of their purpose—which is the refusal to allow the right of ordinary men and women to govern themselves—whether the cloak be the divine right of kings, the inalienable privilege of property or the inspired wisdom of a Communist priesthood.

We sometimes permit ourselves to believe that the struggle of democracy against the philosophy and power of Communism is the struggle of an old system to defend itself against the challenge of a new. The contrary is the case.

It is democracy which is the new philosophy. Startlingly new as a practical instrument of human organization when one considers how long authoritarian governments have occupied the world's stage.

So startlingly new, indeed, is the conception of democracy, not just as an idealistic philosophy, but as a practical system of government for great communities, that it is only about 40 years older than the steam engine. For only for about .03 of the total recorded time during which community government has existed on the earth has the daring, exciting and revolutionary system of democracy been tried.

IT does not, therefore, seem to me a matter for surprise or despair that it should still have to struggle for the minds and spirits of men against the challenge of old and new oligarchies.

Nor does it seem to me a matter for pessimism that we should now find ourselves confronted with a new and dangerous challenge to it. Rather, as I look back—as one is entitled to at the start of a new year—on the magnificent journey so far accomplished in so short a time do I find cause for optimism.

Thanks

The Women's Christian Temperance Union, which has been sending fruit juices to Korea in an attempt to wean the soldiers from beer, reported today it has received the following letter from Korea:

"Dear Ladies of the WCTU: We, the men of the 78th Engineers Combat Battalion really do appreciate the juices you are sending over here in place of beer. It doesn't quite take the place of beer, but you get a better buzz on with it. We just add a little yeast and sugar to it, heat it on the stove and get some of the finest wine we ever brewed. As yeast and sugar are scarce over here we would appreciate it very much if you would send some with the next shipment. Thank you very much and keep the juices coming our way".

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Thou therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shal be able to teach others also....

Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. (II Tim. 2: 1, 2, 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves. For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass: for he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed. (James 1: 22-25.)

And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not. (Gal. 6: 9.)

"Othello" has been rewritten by the Hungarian poet George Somlio "in a way in which Shakespeare would have written the play were he alive today," according to Yugoslav newspapers

The new version opens with members of the Communist Youth discovering the intrigues of Iago. The Communist party calls a public meeting at which the virtues of Communist self-criticism are preached to Othello and Iago. Othello is converted, publicly denounces his error and forgives Desdemona. Iago, however, persists in his intrigues, is brought before a court, and duly punished.

Tigers Give Marlies 5-2 Beating

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Marlboros, last season's Allan Cup champions, started off this season in championship form, giving Toronto St. Michael's a battle for the top spot in the Ontario Hockey Association's major series. But the Dukes hockey machine appears in need of lubrication.

It didn't run smoothly Wednesday night at Hamilton when the Tigers spotted Marlboros two goals and then beat them 5-2.

The win lifted Tigers into third place. And almost for the first time this season the Bengals are breathing on the necks of the 1950 dominion champions. They're three points behind Marlies who trail St. Mikes by 11 points.

Though they trailed in scoring the Dukes got most of the penalties, five to Hamilton's one. Murray Comfort, Clarence Shillington, Tom Smelle, Ab Conick and John Conick got Hamilton's goals while Toronto marksmen were Bobby Hassard and Don Rope.

Blank Kroehlers

In the OHA's junior division, Windsor Spitfires rejoined Toronto Marlboros atop the 10-team league by breezing to a 6-0 victory over Stratford Kroehlers before a hometown crowd of 2,500. Stratford remains in eighth place.

Goalie Glenn Hall, stopping 27 shots, racked up his fifth shutout of the season. The game was marred by a free-swinging melee involving eight players in the final period. Majors for fighting went to netminder Al Bennett, Bob Armstrong and Terry Matheson of Stratford and John Daniilovich, Al Arbour and Chester Koneczny of Windsor.

In the other junior contest, Waterloo Hurricanes continued to live up to their reputation as a rejuvenated team by defeating Galt Black Hawks 4-2. It was Hurricanes third consecutive victory.

Hurricanes spotted Galt a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by George Gosselin and Tony Poeta but they swept back in the second with four goals and no reply. Paul Oliver, Fred Pletsch, Doug Warner and Charlie MacDonald scored for Waterloo.

Referee Tries Rewriting Football Rules

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP)—One of Canada's top football referees is rewriting the rulebook in an attempt to eliminate misunderstandings and misinterpretations that have arisen since it last was revised in 1922.

"I got weary of listening to the gripes of coaches, players and officials," said Hec Crighton, "and I resolved to try and bring order out of chaos."

With the blessing of the Canadian Rugby Union rules committee, he set out six months ago to untangle the mass of amendments, exceptions and archaic terms of the football "bible."

Crighton hopes to reduce each of the 21 basic rules to three divisions—section, article and notes. The 1948 revision of the U.S. football rule-book—which has 13 basic rules—ran to 436 paragraphs so Crighton expects the Canadian book to go to 500 when presented to the CRU rules committee for approval next month.

Examples of the confusion he must overcome include the fact that forward passes and 10-yard interference have been introduced since 1922. In the present rule book, a touchdown is called a "try."

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The excitement over drafting 4-F athletes into the armed services today simmered down to this:

Athletes will get the same treatment everyone else does, no better and no worse.

Furthermore, a spokesman for the Surgeon General's office said that's the way it was in the Second World War. He said athletes who were classified in 4-F then definitely belonged there.

Under the present law, only those who are from 19 to 26 years old are eligible. The field is further cut down because those who are married are veterans or have dependents are exempt.

William J. (Bill) Klem, dean of National League baseball umpires before his retirement, was reported in "critical" condition Wednesday at his Venetian Island home.

His doctor said he was "definitely worse and might live three days or three weeks."

Klem, who will be 77 Feb. 22, has been suffering from a heart and kidney ailment for more than a year.

David Driscoll, 75, a former business manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team, died Wednesday in Jersey City Medical Centre.

Driscoll was business manager of the Dodgers from 1920 to 1933.

Omar Amundsen, 75, well-known racing driver, died Wednesday following a heart attack. Amundsen ended a 50-year career in the sulky in 1948 and since had served as assistant paddock judge at races in Chicago.

Fighters would be forced to rest eight seconds after a knockdown in a boxing match, under terms of legislation introduced in Albany, N. Y., Wednesday.

Republican Senator Stanley J. Bauer of Buffalo introduced a bill to require a referee to halt the match for that period of time in case of a knockdown.

Fights now are interrupted only until the contestant regains his feet.

A sell-out crowd of 3,800 at Toronto's Mutual Street Arena saw University of Western Ontario Mustangs defeat University of Toronto Blues 51-45 Wednesday night in the opening game of the Intercollegiate Senior Basketball League.

The game at the larger arena was a successful experiment intended to revive interest in the game in this city. The Varsity Blues have scheduled four more games — all exhibitions — with United States colleges. The remaining intercollegiate games will be played at the regular court in Hart House.

Walter R. Eaves of the Montreal Caledonia Curling Club scored 51 in a points competition Wednesday night for what is believed to be a new record for the district. A veteran of 25 years of curling, Mr. Eaves bettered a previous high of 49 points and experts said they could not find any higher score in the files.

UCC Clips TCS By 9-4 Margin

TORONTO, Jan. 25 — Upper Canada College blanked Trinity College School for two periods to win a prep school league game 9-4 Tuesday at Maple Leaf Gardens. It was UCC's third win in as many games.

UCC centre, John Thompson, opened the scoring at 5.20 of the first period. UCC had the edge over TCS and the hard-checking defencemen kept the opposition out of scoring position. Two more goals were tallied by Wahrolth and Hogarth.

The second period saw UCC click for four more goals. The action was fast and rough and at 17.60, four players were banished for fighting. Lindsay's goal at 3.00 was a hard slam-shot from the blue line which caught Arklay unawares.

TCS came back to score two goals within 19 seconds of each other while UCC was one man short. Their third goal was also tallied while UCC was short. The Blue and White regained the goals five minutes laer. Long, of TCS, scored the last goal of the game at 14.32. TCS, near the finish started to press the homesters, but the great netminding of Carl Chamanay kept the invaders at a distance.

Church, with a hat trick, was best for TCS, while Chris Wahrolth with two goals and three assists was UCC's sparkplug.

Main Bonspiel Event Taken By Mark Rink Of 'Caygeon

By HERB MARTIN

W. Marks' rink of G. Devitt, H. Devitt and O. Woollard, from Bobcaygeon, won the Ostrander Trophy here on Wednesday, with the C. Giroux local rink runners-up.

Dr. R. Clark, Peterborough, won the Carling Trophy with F. Green runner-up.

The Gordon K. Fraser Trophy was won by Peter Gilbert's rink from Chatham with D. Charlton runner-up. And the consolation event went to Dr. Laidley, Lindsay, as Gar Braund's rink took second place.

Thus it will be seen that the visitors took three of the four events.

High Calibre

All games played yesterday were of the same high calibre that has been so prominent throughout the bonspiel, and especially so was the case in the final game of the Ostrander Trophy. The rinks were all square coming home and skip Giroux played just a little too heavy, his stone passing right through the rings. But it was a dandy game and well played.

The bonspiel drew rinks from all parts of Ontario. Those coming for the first time were C. Edy, Sudbury, and Peter Gilbert, Chatham. They were so well pleased with everything that they will be back again.

That the bonspiel was a success, there is no doubt, and Dr. C. McKee and his bonspiel committee are to be congratulated; they had a big job on their hands and they did it in a big way.

The ladies, too, came in for their share of praise for serving hot meals which made a big hit. Mrs. J. Fanning, Mrs. F. Hall and Mrs. L. Bearne, with the assistance of many of the ladies, handled everything in fine style.

Present Prizes

The presentation of prizes is always an important part of a big bonspiel and this, too, was ably handled by the committee.

It was three days of good curling, good fellowship and good sport.

Many have signified their intention of coming back next year.

Hold 2 Tourneys To Find Champs

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (CP) — Tournaments will be held in Eeastern and Western Canada this year to determine the Dominion finalists for the non-professional baseball championship, it was announced here Wednesday.

Lloyd Douglas of Toronto, a delegate to the National Baseball Congress session here, said the western champion will be determined in a tournament in Saskatchewan or British Columbia early in August.

The eastern playoff will be held in Ontario at the same time.

A five-game series for the official dominion crown has been tentatively set to start Aug. 25. Where it will be played has not been decided.

Eastern champions last year—because there was no east-west final—were Oshawa Merchants. They defeated London, Ont., Majors, 1949 winners.

The touring Lethbridge Maple Leafs edged the Krefeld Preussen hockey team 5-4 Wednesday night before a crowd of 8,000 at Cologne.

The Preussens, leading team in West Germany, again gave the Canadians a stiff battle before bowing in the third period. They held Lethbridge to a 6-6 tie Tuesday night. The triumph gave the Leafs a record of nine victories, five losses and a draw in games against European teams.

Dick Gray, Don Vogan, Bill Gibson, Nap Milroy and Bill Chandler were the Lethbridge marksmen.

Grove Victorious

Grove blanked Queen Mary 5-0 in their school hockey league, the game being closer than the score indicates. It was 2-0 in the first and 4-0 going into the third. Geraldi got six for the winners, with Ferguson clicking for three, and Kilpatrick and Sellars getting one each. McGill led the losers with four goals, as Smith got two, and Wright, A. Marmora Boys Win

MARMORA, Jan. 25 (ENS). — Tweed juveniles were visitors to Marmora in the OMHA on Wednesday evening and lost a good clean game by 5-1. Petes Move Ahead In Race With 9-4 Win Over Eagles

The Petes roared back from a 3-0 first-period deficit to wallop the Eagles 9-4 before a big crowd last night at Civic Arena and lengthen their lead to one and a half games in the OHA Senior "B" group race. It was their second last meeting of the schedule and turned out to be an odd, though exciting game, with the Eagles easily dominating play the first frame, and the Petes much better the last two heats. The score was 3-0 in the first for the Magee men, but tied at 4-all in the second, with the Jopling bunch having a 5-0 margin in the third.

Play again was speedy and interesting throughout, as it always is between these teams. It was a bit rugged in spots but not too rough, the Eagles drawing four of the seven penalties. Johnny Godfrey got a nasty accidental cut by the eye in the first frame and was through for the game. This partially, but certainly not altogether, accounted for the sudden change in fortunes the rest of the route.

Led the Way

Jake Wade and Arn Dugan led the Petes' scorers with three points apiece, while Chum Fryia, Curly Mason and Drake Jopling were each in on two. Single points were gained by Junior West, Don Floyd, Earl Leonard, Honey Tompkins and Jack Mortimer, as the whole team clicked well the last two heats, with Harding good all the way. Jopling was solid on defence. For the Eagles, Sixty Coombs and Doug Mortimer led the snipers with a pair of points each, Joe Rochetta, Andy Milne, Reg. Stewart and Bill Crowley getting one apiece. They all toiled hard but seemed to have lost their spark after the first period.

Horton drew an early boarding penalty that cost a goal, Milne cuffing in Stewart's rebound. Later, Doug Mortimer made it 2-0 from Coombs with a slap shot at the crease corner. Greenlaw was gated for interference, followed by Collins for tripping. Then Montgomery got it for high-sticking but all were back with no damage done. Eagles pressed plenty and Rochetta made it 3-0 from Crowley on a fast passing play just before the frame finished.

Struck Hard

The Petes struck hard in the second, Wade scoring early on a hot shot from defence with Mason's pass. Dugan rapping in Jopling's rebound with Nicholls down on the ice from one hard stop. Play was up and down fast for a space and Doug Mortimer showed nifty stickwork to go in close and score with Coombs' pass. Fryia got that one back from Tompkins with speedy stepping and a close range shot. West went over for kneeing but Harding held off the Eagles as they drove in hard. Just before the finish, West scored on a deflected shot off an Eagles' stick to sew up the count at 4-4.

Dugan zig-zagged in around defence fast to open the third and backhand one into the twine. Fryia smashed one home right after from Jopling and Mortimer in a scramble. Floyd got another when he dug a puck from under a sprawled defenceman and hit the mark. Burns was chased for tripping and Earl Leonard scored from Wade on a screened shot as the Petes poured in hard. With Burns off, Mason got the final tally in close, with Dugan and Wade aiding on it neatly. Burns came back on and the Eagles pressed hard, with Goalie Harding on the hop to turn aside the rubber. Crowley drew a late penalty for cross-checking and the game was over.

Teams:

Eagles Goal, Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and Burns; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Milne, F. Mortimer, Stewart, Coombs, D. Mortimer, Greenlaw, Montgomery and Munroe.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Horton and Tompkins; centre, Wade; wings, Dugan and Mason; alternates, Fryia, J. Mortimer, Collins, Garvey, West, Floyd, E. Leonard and Jopling.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Apart from school basketball, there'll be some interesting tussles here this weekend. A girls' twin bill at the YW tomorrow night starting at eight. Neill's go against Black's in the opener, with Normals meeting CGE-ers in the nightcap. Also two men's melees at the YM on Saturday p.m. with Cobourg Grads going up against Marines in the first fray. These Grads recently upset our "A" cagers, so the "B" Marines — atop the lakeshore loop now — will have to hustle. The second scrap sees Toronto East York Grads tackle the local intermediate "A" crew, Clapper's Bruins. The Grads are senior, and that means a hot time in the old gym.

* * * * * *

Mat fans up this way will recall Hi Lee, the huge shaggy-maned Texan with the rough methods. Clayt Browne of St. Kitts tells of an incident last summer where Lee was tossed from a Syracuse ring into the lap of a fan. Clayt writes: "Lee rose and maybe the fan swung or cussed. Anyway, Lee did and split the lip of the ringsider, who promptly sued Ski Hi. On Jan. 19, the case came up in an Auburn, N.Y., court where the judge awarded the fan $2,549 damages. So Robert E. (Ski-Hi) Lee needs lots of work to pay off the claim, or you know what." And wouldn't Lee be in vile humor in his next bout after that judgment!

Bees Play IOOF-ers

Oshawa Bees and the local IOOF junior "B" puckists clash at 8.30 p.m. tomorrow in Civic Arena in what should be a battle royal. The upsurging Oshawans are making a determined bid for top place but have to hurdle three bunched teams in the Oddfellows, Lindsay and Belleville — all in a tight tangle near the top rung. As the schedule hasn't too much further to go, and the boys are all right in the pink of condition by this time, every game in the hot junior race is a dandy. This one rates a big Friday night crowd at the Civic.

* * * * * *

Last night's 9-4 win over Eagles puts the Petes a game and a half in front of the senior "B" puck pack, with Eagles in second slot yet by a comfortable margin. A big crowd saw a fast, fairly clean tilt, but 'twas an odd one, in a way. Eagles had a big margin on play in the initial inning, earning a 3-0 lead. Then the Petes struck back for a 4-1 edge in the middle chukker to sew it up. And they went on in the third for a 5-0 difference to win with ease. Just their second win of the season over the Eagles, but they certainly looked impressive in the last two frames to earn it. Johnny Godfrey got an eye injury in the first frame and had to retire—a serious blow to the injury-riddled Eagles, minus Parnall and Hill, too, (though Gus Leonard of Petes is also out)—but that alone wasn't the difference.

* * * * * *

Really Roared Back

The league-leading Petes really roared back after looking quite mediocre at the start. While the Eagles suddenly faded, just couldn't click, the last two stanzas, though they never quit trying. An odd and sudden change in the fortunes of war, reminding one of that Korean puzzle, eh? The scoring was well spread around for the Jopling squad, while Coombs and Doug Mortimer proved most effective for the men of Magee. Dugan, Wade, Fryia, Mason and Jopling had most points for the victors. They'll meet once more later in the schedule, and possibly in the group playoffs, though that depends a lot on what the hot Nylons and in-and-out Redmen do from here on in.

* * * * * *

This is the second last night of play for the bantams and midgets in the PMHA and the third last for the juves. Standings are in this evening. The minors go from six on this p.m. thusly: Empress vs. St. Peter's bantams, Martin-Hewitt vs. St. Peter's midgets, Clapper's juveniles vs. Trojans, the bantam Trojans vs. Otonabee Wolves, Trojan midgets vs. Marines, and the juvenile Oddfellows vs. Lakefield Lions. They'll all be hustling as the schedules draw to a close, with playoffs looming, and OMHA playdowns for some of the better squads. Drop around and give the boys some encouragement, eh?

Basketeers Go In Frays Over Weekend

Exhibition basketball games Saturday night at the YMCA and the PCVS gyms are expected to help highlight the weekend cage activities. Altogether there will be eight games on Friday and Saturday night at the YWCA, the YMCA and the Collegiate.

Coach Bev Goulding's "A" team will try Saturday night at PCVS to even the score in the win and loss column with Eaton's Junior Executives fro Toronto. This is the fourth annual exhibition meeting, the Eaton team having two wins and a loss. Last year they won their second straight over the PCVS colors 37-34.

St. Peter's senior "B" team will finish their lakeshore group play Saturday night before the PCVS-Eaton game when they play the PCVS senior "B" cagers. This game was scheduled for Feb. 5.

East York Grads of the Toronto senior league (Tri-Bells provide opposition regularly for them) will be guests of the Clapper Bruins, intermediate "A" finalists in 1950, Saturday night in the YMCA gym. This game will be the first real test of strength for the local team in spite of the showing made last week against Cobourg Legion.

After Fourth

The Marines, intermediate "B" entry in the lakeshore, will be after their fourth straight home victory against the Cobourg team in the other game of the double-header at the YMCA. Their coasting may be stopped by the Cobourg cagers who have the reputation of battlers whether in collegiate or OABA competition.

The Garnet and Grey lasses of PCVS will be hosts to the Cobourg High girls Friday night in the PCVS gym in the lakeshore girls' league. Last week, the seniors and juniors opened the schedule with one-point wins over Bowmanville, who according to pre-game prediction, were supposed to take at least the senior fray. This could easily be PCVS' year in girls' basketball.

Neill's, with seven straight wins, are expected to make the streak eight Friday night at the YWCA in the girls' city league. They meet Black's in the opening game of the doubleheader. The Normalites follow up in the second game with the CGE team, which has improved greatly since Christmas.

Central Triumphs

Central trimmed King Edward 4-1 in a senior school hockey encounter at the K.E. park yesterday. Gardner got two goals while Brooks had two and an assist for the victors, MacInnes and Patterson each drawing one assist. D. Sutherland got the only goal for the other side, he, J. Sutherland and Hobart going best for them. Gardner and Brooks stood out for the winners, all of whom went well. Teams:

Central: Gardner, Patterson, Brooks, MacInnes, Butler, Craymer, Martyn, Tranter, Williams, Dunford, Grey, Woodward.

King Edward: J. Sutherland, Tarkington, D. Sutherland, Orr, Rusaw, Hobart, Robins, Chalmers, Curtis, J. Phillips, A. Phillips, Allister, McArthur, McIntosh, Mills, Hill.

Referee: M. Anderson.

Campbellford Gets Win Over St. Peter's Outfit

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 25 — (ENS).—About 200 fans watched the Campbellford TVL team defeat St. Peter's by a one-sided 10 to 2 score here Wednesday.

The game was rather loose, although Peterborough played a much better brand of hockey than they did the last time they played on local ice. The visitors just could not click around the nets, whereas the Campbellford boys were able to make more of their passes near the goal pay off.

The game was cleanly played, with only three minor penalties handed out. Teams:

St. Peter's: Goal, McGrath; defence, Marshall and Foster; centre, Byrnes; wings, Russelle and A. Basciano; alternates, Boyle, J. Basciano, Forestall, Parsons, White, Menzies, Scriver.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Max Bentley of Toronto picked up a goal Wednesday night as the Leafs shaded Montreal Canadiens 4-3 to take over second place in the National Hockey League's individual scoring standings.

Detroit's Gordie Howe continues to pace the pack with 22 goals and 31 assists, highest in the league.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts.

AIDS ON TWO—Drake Jopling aided the Petes in their win over Eagles here last night, assisting on a pair of goals and playing a solid game at the blue line all the way.

Marines Too Strong For Oshawa Cagers

With only five players, the Peterborough Marines, intermediate "B" entry, invaded Oshawa successfully Wednesday night for their fourth straight victory. These players were powerful enough to smear the Oshawa Grads for the second time 58-30.

At 6.30 the Marines were still trying to form a team to make the trip. Only Jim Thorburn, Ted Payne, Fred Plato, Bill Trim and Bill Dadson accompanied coach Gord McIntyre.

The Marines took the lead early in the first half and kept adding with Plato, Thorburn and Payne virtually controlling play. The half score was 33-13 for Marines.

Defensive Play

Oshawa started to pour the substitutes into play in the second half to tire Marines. For a while this succeeded but Marines changed their style from an offensive spread to a strict defensive game, used by the intermediate "A" through the past several years. This change stymied the Grads.

Ted Payne, who had a 16-point average per game prior to the Wednesday night game, more than equalled it with 17 points. Jim Thorburn, who also had a 16-point average for the three games, equalled it with 16. Fred Plato, playing with a sprained ankle, matched Thorburn's effort. Bill Trimm and Bill Dadson teamed up at guard effectively as well as scoring points, Trimm getting five and Dadson four.

Penalty Box Popular Spot Leafs Edge Canadiens 4-3

By The Canadian Press

Though their National Hockey League meetings are usually marked by fist fights and plenty of hard bumping, Toronto Maple Leafs have a distinct fondness for Montreal Canadiens this season. And well they should.

In the nine games against their "cousins" so far, the Maple Leafs have won seven, tied one and lost one.

Toronto added its latest victory Wednesday night, edging the slowed-down Flying Frenchmen 4-3. Canadiens have yet to win a game on Toronto ice this season in five attempts.

The win pulled the second-place Leafs to within eight points of the leading Detroit Red Wings and left their opponents in the No. 3 spot, 15 points behind Leafs.

Teeder Kennedy, Joe Klukay, Johnny McCormack and Cal Gardner scored for the winners. Montreal marksmen were Kenny Mosdell with two goals and Elmer Lach.

Referee Red Storey handed out 10 penalties including two majors, two misconducts and a match misconduct.

Popular Spot

Kennedy and Tom Johnson, big rookie Montreal defenceman, spent the most time in the penalty box. Both picked up major sentences for fighting in the second period, and were hardly off the ice when the brawl broke out again. They earned themselves misconducts.

They had just entered the box for the start of the final period when Johnson started slugging again and wound up with the match misconduct.

Montreal and Toronto were the only teams in action Wedesday night.

Buffalo Bisons Trim Providence Reds 6-4

By The Canadian Press

In other games, Pittsburgh Hornets scored a 3-1 victory over Cincinnati Mohawks; St. Louis Flyers edged Springfield Indians 5-4 in overtime, and Cleveland Barons decisioned Hershey Bears 4-3.

Air Cadets Set $150,000 1951 Objective

TORONTO, Jan. 25—The Air Cadet League of Canada, Ontario Group, following a financial meeting, presided over by the treasurer, A. Cousins, announced that the annual drive for funds would co-incide with Air Cadet Week, which this year will be observed from April 15 to 21, inclusive.

An appeal will be launched with an objective of $150,000 to cover the activities of 50 Air Cadet Squadrons located in most of the major communities in the province; scholarships, exchange visits, summer camps, flying and ground training. The League is primarily interested in promoting air-mindedness amongst teen age boys, and through the Air Cadet training program, designed in conjunction with the RCAF, to hold the boys' interest and teach them to practice the rules of being a good Canadian citizen.

The meeting was attended by a number of out-of-town representatives, including J. R. Beaton, Waterloo; W. J. Miller, Sarnia; Col. Robert Inch, Hamilton and Harold Garner, Peterborough. In addition to the treasurer, who acted as chairman, Toronto was represented by Dudley Roden and Hardy Small.

Barrage Of Heckling Greets Thomson After Speech

TORONTO, Jan. 25—(CP)—A barrage of heckling greeted Walter Thomson Wednesday night as he wound up his 38th address since being elected Ontario Liberal leader last year.

Mr. Thomson had just concluded his address to the Greenwood-Woodbine Liberal Association when the heckling began. It continued for a half hour before the meeting was terminated.

In his speech, the Liberal leader, who still retains his parliamentary seat for Ontario Riding, promised government subsidies for all industries or persons who needed them. He also promised security for civil servants in the event of a liberal election victory in Ontario.

As Mr. Thomson's address finished, one heckler shouted: "I've heard your Liberal promises before."

Another referred to a "cost-of-living schedule" mentioned in Mr. Thomson's address.

Don't Like Schedule

"Is that the same cost-of-living schedule the federal government has instituted now, and which has shot the cost of living higher than it has ever been before?" the questioner asked.

Mr. Thomson replied: "But wages have gone up, too, haven't they?"

The man retorted: "I'm just quoting the Bureau of Statistics. And I know you voted against price controls."

"You don't know how I voted," Mr. Thomson replied.

"Yes I do," said the heckler. "I read a copy of Hansard and I know you voted against price controls."

"I didn't think we needed them," said Mr. Thomson.

Set Power Records

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP). — Primary power demands in Ontario set records during December. In the southern Ontario system, during a 20-minute peak, the demand reached 2,360,864 kilowatts, an increase of 18.8 per cent over last year's high. Northern Ontario properties showed an increase of 18.4 per cent, with a demand of 258,411 kilowatts.

List 50,000 Occupations In Great Britain

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Jan. 25—(Reuters)—Boys who can't make up their minds about the choice of a career might consider the advantages of becoming a mudlarker, a hoveller or a rubber-outer.

These are just three of the 50,000 different occupations—everything from conjuring to cobbling—to be found in a bulky, blue-blacked volume called "Classification of Occupations, 1950," just published by the stationery office, the government publishing house.

The mudlarker is the man who combs the Thames for valuable flotsam and jetsam.

The hoveller helps barges negotiate bridges along the river.

The rubber-outer destroys the work of wall artists who drew moustaches on poster girls, or append monkey tails to pictures of well-dresesd men. His job is to save paper for the London transport executive by preserving advertisement posters in railway stations.

The occupations book suggests unlimited opportunity for the enterprising boy. He can either aim high and become a company director or be content with small and quick returns as a peanut vendor or a hot-potato man.

Strange Jobs

Or he can, if he chooses, follow the ancient calling of an Xmas pudding worker (listed under X).

Then there is the "knocker upper"—a human alarm clock who rises before dawn and makes a house-to-house round of industrial areas to rouse factory workers from their beds. His tool is a long pole. At the top of it is a wire brush used to scratch the sleeper's bedroom window.

One of Britain's oddest practitioners is the bee doctor. He carries bees with which to sting his customers as a cure for rheumatism and neuritis.

The bogey man—that terror of childhood—still exists, but not to scare naughty children. He is employed in oil and gas works to fill coke bogeys from the stacks and take them to the charging floor.

Apsley Red Cross Names 1951 Officers

APSLEY, Jan. 25 — (ENS) — Annual meeting of the Apsley branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society was held in the public library Tuesday evening with N. Wilson in the chair and Mrs. W. Lean, secretary.

A review of the work of the year showed good progress with a balance on hand of $1,156.45.

Nurse Bremen gave a report of years work at the hospital: hospital patients, 68; out patients, 158; births, 10; X-rays taken, 87; free chest clinics, 10; district calls, 58; treatments, 252.

Officers for 1951 are as follows: honorary president, Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Fraser; honorary members, Mrs. James Downing, Rev. C. A. G. Spence; president, Herbert Tucker; 1st vice-president, Mrs. T. H. Lean; 2nd vice-president, Dan Whitmore; secretary, Mrs. Roland Tucker; treasurer, Mrs. M. C. Tucker; directors, mesdames C. Ray, W. C. Church, J. Northey, W. Lean, S. Brown, D. Newberry, N. Reddick, Ray Harvey, R. Edwards, Miss E. Dix; Messrs. N. Wilson, J. Walke, W. Lean, C. McColl, C. Alphy, Earl Trotter, Clive Hoard, Joseph Tucker, Micheal Mahoney, A. Wilson, Theo Post, S. McCauley.

Auxiliary Meets

APSLEY, Jan. 25 — (ENS) — The Ladies Auxiliary to Canadian Legion Branch 381 held the January meeting at the home of president Mrs. Charles Smith. The new secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Martin Reddick, was installed by the president, having been absent at the installation meeting. At conclusion of meeting Mrs. Smith served lunch.

Made A Mistake

WINNIPEG, Jan. 25 (CP). — "This is a good place for a stick-up" said a burly ex-convict who pushed his way into a grocery warehouse Wednesday. But Fred Fraser, the 65-year-old watchman who stands five feet four and is slimly built, didn't think so. "I pounced on him and grabbed him by the throat," said Fraser. A few hours later George Sidney Pritchard, 30, was sent to penitentiary for two years.

Favor Conscription

MONTREAL, Jan. 25—(CP)—A definite majority of McGill University students favor compulsory military service in Canada, a poll among the students showed Wednesday. With 52 per cent favoring compulsory training, there were 39 per cent of the students against and nine per cent undecided. Similar pools taken at the University of Manitoba and the University of Western Ontario also supported the conscription plan.

Draw The Line

TORONTO, Jan. 25 — (CP)— Toronto's Yonge Street subway now under construction, will be modern and fully-equipped in every respect except one—the publicly-operated Toronto Transportation Commission doesn't intend to install lavatories. The commission feels that it's up to the city to provide such facilities, the Civic Property Committee was told Wednesday.

Rotary Directors Stand Pat On Statements

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 (AP)—Directors of Rotary International reported Wednesday that they have studied the Vatican decree barring Roman Catholic clergymen from membership in Rotary Clubs and will stand on the statements already made by the organization's president, Arthur Lagueux of Quebec.

The board of directors, holding its semi-annual meeting here, issued a three-page statement to the press.

The statement contained an English translation of the decree published Jan. 11 in Rome, and the texts of two statements made by Lagueux.

A spokesman told a reporter the board would have nothing more to say on the subject.

The Lagueux statements repeated in the release, included these points:

"Rotary is a world fellowship of business and professional men. Rotary's universal appeal is that it offers a practical means of enlarging one's friendships, participating in community-betterment undertakings, promoting high standards in business and professional life, and advancing international understanding, good will and peace."

"By convention action, each Rotarian is expected to be faithful in his religion and loyal in his citizenshp."

"Rotary has absolutely no connection with masonary or with any other organization."

Knox Sets Plans To Renovate At $10,000 Cost

Plans for church alterations at an estimated cost of $10,000 were passed at the annual church meeting at Knox United Church Wednesday night. The plans were presented by Harold Murduff, chairman of the committee appointed to report on structural alterations to the church.

Church alterations will include the building of a new kitchen, rest rooms, a small auditorium, hall, cementing and partitioning the church basement, partitioning rooms for meetings and rewiring.

The members appointed to the building committee were: S. Adamson, R. Hanscom, G. Morrison, H. Murduff, J. Sinclair, Mrs. J. Donaldson, Mrs. C. Gertley and Miss Phyllis Kidd.

Board of Management

Elected to the board of management were: C. Weldon, E. McIlraith, C. Gardner, W. Logan, R. Williamson, H. Murduff, F. Watson, D. Rose, and L. Mahood. Donald Hill who was absent through illness was created a life member of the board.

Arthur Pitchford was re-elected church secretary. Miss Susan Summers was appointed as church representative to Anson House and Mr. and Mrs. Wright were appointed representatives to the Bible Society.

David Potter, who is studying for the ministry of the United Church was appointed Sunday school superintendent assistant.

Highest Income Yet

Printed reports of the various church activities had been sent to all members and were adopted after a short discussion. A financial report showed that the church had a very successful year. The income was the highest ever recorded. Membership totalled 675 and there were 19 baptisms and 16 marriages performed in the church during the year.

It was decided to place a plaque in the church bearing the names of the members of the first building committee.

McCannan Presentation

H. J. McCannan was presented with a hymnary on behalf of the congregation to mark the 40th anniversary. The Rev. H. G. Douglas explained that Mr. McCannan had been secretary-treasurer of the original building committee. Mrs. J. S. Londerville, Mr. John Allen and W. G. Locke spoke of his long and faithful service to the church in many capacities. Tribute was also paid to Mrs. McCannan who was presented with a bouquet of spring flowers.

Special music was provided by Mrs. Jackman, soloist, and vocal duets by Margaret Hughes and Dorothy Mitchell.

The meeting was followed by lunch.

Heavy Notes

EDMONTON — (CP) — Too much time is wasted by students in taking notes during lectures, says Prof. George M. Dunlop, professor of psychology at the University of Alberta. He says that unless the notes are reviewed within 24 hours students forget half the lecture.

Quebec Plans To Freeze Rents Until August 1

QUEBEC, Jan. 25 — (CP). — Rent ceiluings applied by Federal controls will be maintained until August 1 by a Bill laid before the Legislative Assembly Wednesday by the Quebec Government. Federal controls expire at the end of April.

The Quebec Governments rent control plan, announced earlier in January and appearing in the Legislature as a government Bill, will provide:

Maintenance of controlled rents at their present levels until August 1.

Regulation of rates after August 1 by agreement between tenant and landlord or by judgment of provincial rentals administrators to be appointed in different provincial districts.

Revision of rates at present uncontrolled and considered abusive.

A ban on evictions until August 1 to permit renegotiation of leases under the provincial system of control.

Quebec's system of rent control will be administered by a three-man commission, to be appointed, and will be in effect from May 1 for two years.

Towns where the housing situation becomes normal before May 1, 1953, will be released from the control provisions.

Direct Activities

The commission will direct the activities of administrators who will be appointed for each district with a population of more han 100,000 and who will have assistants in cities with a population of more than 100,000.

The $9,000-a-year commission chairman will be appointed by Quebec's chief district magistrate, Judge Joseph Bilodeau of Quebec.

The two $7,000-a-year commission members will be appointed by the Quebec Cabinet, one representing tenants and the other representing landlords.

Apart from supervising the work of local administrators, the commission will hear appeals against local decisions in rentals cases and will draw up general rental scales.

The scales will be fixed according to types of housing, their age, condition, normal rental value, and situation.

Decision by the local administrators will be final in cases in which rates of rental are less than $30 monthly.

No court proceedings will be permitted to hold up decisions either of the commission or of administrators.

Polio Control Reported Near

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 (AP) — Control of poliomyelitis "is not too far off," Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said Wednesday.

O'Connor said research now is concentrating on five main goals:

A preventive vaccine for polio.

An anti-serum to increase resistance to paralysis.

A chemical agent to prevent the polio virus from damaging nerve cells.

A diagnostic test for the disease.

The typing of all polio virus groups.

Major victories so far included discovery of a way to grow the polio virus in test tubes containing other tissues than nerves. Another was discovery of three different groups of polio virus, and a project now was trying to classify all groups as a starter toward a vaccine. Monkeys had been protected by vaccines against one or more types of virus.

Landslide Blocks Trans-Canada Road

VANCOUVER, Jan. 25 (CP) — A landslide Wednesday night spilled tons of rock and mud over the Trans-Canada Highway near Flood, B.C., 93 miles east of here. Public work crews went out in force early today to unblock the road.

The slide also tore out B.C. telephone and Canadian National Telegraph wires. Some of the circuits were restored late Wednesday night.

In Burnaby municipality, adjoining Vancouver, a combination of heavy rains and melting snow flooded scores of basements. In North Vancouver, where winter floods struck last winter, culverts were blocked.

UAW Accepts Board Proposal

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP)—Officials of the United Auto Workers (CIO) Wednesday accepted proposals from a provincial board of conciliation for settlement of the six-day strike at the New Toronto plant of the Anaconda Brass Company.

Paul Siren, international representative for the union, said the settlement between the union officials and the company was reached after an all-day meeting before Louis Fine, chief conciliation officer.

The 960 employed who walked off the job Friday morning have been asked to approve the settlement at a special meeting today.

Meanwhile, workers at the Toronto and New Toronto plants of the Continental Can Company voted to continue their wildcat walkout pending reports on negotiations in New York on a master agreement covering employees of the firm's plants in Canada and the United States.

Protracted negotiations for an interim wage increase for the company's employees led to walkouts in eight plants in the U.S, and the two in the Toronto district.

Some 500 workers here walked out Tuesday for the second strike in the plants in seven months.

BBC To Extend Lessons In English

LONDON, Jan. 25 (Reuters)— The BBC is going to extend its language lessons which have taught English to millions on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

In charge of the drive is Sidney Stevens, who spent his life growing flowers until the wartime staff shortage brought him to the BBC. Though he makes no claims to being a teacher, he has become the unseen principal of the world's biggest language school.

Already the Netherlands, Turkey and Greece are rebroadcasting his "English by Radio" series on their own networks. France began Wednesday, Switzerland is due to start in a few weeks, and plans are well under way for Stevens to start up his lessons on the Yugoslav radio.

The lessons are broadcast direct to all Communist countries in Europe except Russia, whose "jamming" campaign makes lessons inaudible there.

Plans are being considered for broadcasting to Communist China from the transmitter in Hong Kong.

Had Small Beginning

When it began "English by Radio" in 1943, the BBC had no intention of becoming the world's English teacher. The present vast service of 200 lessons a week in 25 languages grew from small experimental beginnings because of a world-wide appetite for learning English.

Sale of locally-printed textbooks, issued in many countries to accompany the broadcasts, illustrate the scale of the demand. In Germany, soon after the war, 160,000 copies were sold every six weeks. In Czechoslovakia and Hungary, before these countries turned Communist, the books broke all sales records, the BBC said.

Methods of teaching are simple. Each lesson aims at getting across a few basic words of the English language by repetition in a number of forms such as "my name is John," "this is my book." In elementary lessons, sentences are explained in the pupils' own language, but later they are wholly in English.

Forum Discusses Market Problems

HAVELOCK, Jan. 25 (ENS) — W. G. Barrie was discussion leader at the meeting of Trent River West Farm Forum held at the home of the secretary, Miss Lillian McLaughlin, when the subject of the radio broadcast for discussion was "what can marketing boards accomplish."

A better marketing system for milk is essential as farmers cannot plan ahead unless they know what they are going to get. The present cheese marketing board is not functioning as it should.

The solution is to change to federal marketing boards for products that might be marketed in various provinces.

The local forum have submitted the following question to the National Farm Radio Forum for discussion: Why not simplify income tax forms, as now they are more complicated than ever.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Gardner Gawley and Miss McLaughlin.

Stamp Trading Said Booming

MONTREAL, Jan. 25 (CP) — Foreign nations are wooing stamp collectors in Canada and the United States in an attempt to get much-needed Canadian and U.S. dollars.

Stamp collectors claim they are being offered scores of new stamps issued by the governments of Russia, Hungary, Roumania, Bulgaria and Red China. These are being channeled by the millions through international dealers in North America.

Sets of these stamps will be among 250-odd sets displayed at a huge stamp exhibition here March 16-18 to mark the 100th anniversary of the appearance of the first Canadian postage stamp. The exhibition is sponsored by the Union Philatelique de Montreal.

With a few reaching collectors through the usual medium of letters, most of them are said to find their way here fresh off the presses of foreign post offices.

Philatelists in Montreal say they can get complete sets of Russian stamps without difficulty and Red China lately has come into its own in the stamp world with several new issues.

TOSSES BOMBSHELL—Actress Hedy Lamarr shocked Hollywood by declaring she's quitting movies for good. "I just feel like retiring . . ." the Viennese beauty said. "I want to lead a simpler life." Hedy splashed to fame in "Ecstacy," which showed a bare Lamarr swimming in a crystal-clear pond.

UK Entertainers Complain On Tax

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP)—The manager of the d'Oyly Carte Opera Company complained Wednesday that Canadian income tax laws discriminate against English entertainers.

Bruce Worsley, who leads the famed Gilbert and Sullivan troupe said that while American artists may earn up to $1,500 in Canada before they are taxed, members of his company and others from the United Kingdom are taxed on the full amount of their Canadian earnings.

"The British entertainers should be given the same $1,500 exemption as American artists," Mr. Worsley said in an interview at Royal Alexander Theatre where the d'Oyly Carte Company is appearing this week.

He added that this discrimination and the Canadian government's refusal to deduct travelling expenses, would discourage British companies from playing in Canada.

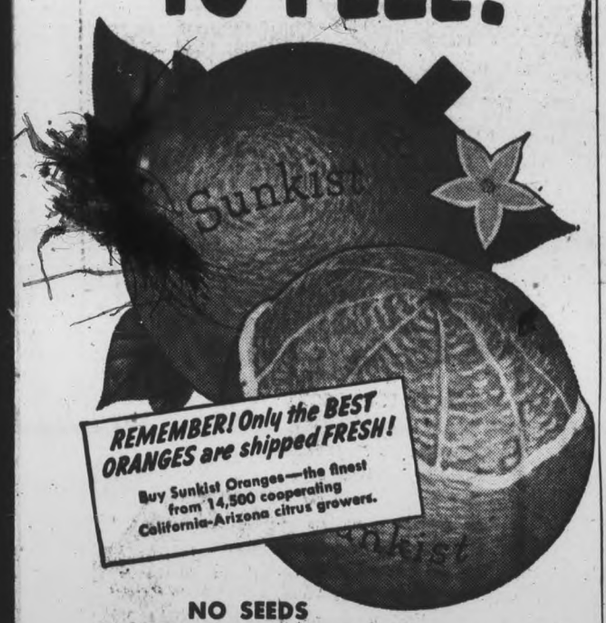
Springville YPU Plan Ice Skating Party



SPRINGVILLE, Jan. 25 (ENS) Harley Cathcart was in charge of the program on Christian Fellowship at the Springville Young People's Union meeting in the basement of the church Sunday evening. Assisting him were Myrna and Lila Seymour. Marie Hooten read a poem and Howard Johnston the scripture selection. At the close of the meeting, Harley Cathcart led the group in an interesting game of "Bible Lotto." Seventeen young people were present.

Hazel McIntosh conducted the business part of the meeting. A skating party for Feb. 3 was planned. The YPU of Bethel have been invited to be guests of Springville YPU Feb. 9. Myrna Seymour and Eleanor Bowles were chosen to assist the recreation committee, Lois Paddock, Raymond Kelk and Carl Preston, for that special occasion.

Israel Offers UK Doctors Busy Practice

LONDON, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—Any doctor who emigrates to Israel is sure of a job. A thriving practice is certain if he is willing to ride to his patients on horseback over desert paths.

The two-year-old state's search for professional workers has led its government to focus a full-scale recruiting campaign on the black-coated section of Britain's 400,000 Jews.

So great is the shortage that Israel has established a special office in London in an effort to persuade highly trained British Jews to emigrate. Other "recruiting" centres have been opened in Quebec, New York, Los Angeles, Johannesburg, Paris, Brussels, Bombay, Sydney and Buenos Aires. Doctors are in great demand, particularly if they are prepared to "rough it" in the outlying collective settlements on which Israel's agriculture is based. They must often resort to horseback to reach otherwise inaccessible areas.

Though the number of emigrants from Britain has been comparatively small, Israel's main hopes for skilled key men are centred on the Jewish communities in London, Manchester and Leeds, which produced many administrators and technicians for Palestine when that country was under British mandate.

The bulk of Israel's immigrants now comes from the less-developed countries of the Middle East.

Since the London office was opened last summer, 54 professional workers have been sent to Israel.

Happy Days

EDMONTON —(CP)— Lieutenant-Governor J. J. Bowlen, ex-rancher, has a permanent reminder of his days in the saddle. Brands registered in his name in Alberta livestock records are reproduced on the floor of the "rumpus room" in his home here, 16 brands set inside a diamond on the floor.

MOOSE JAW, Sask. —(CP)— Police Chief Alex Bell has warned that boys under 16 caught smoking will be prosecuted under the Juvenile Smoking Act.

No Extra Taxation For Hamilton Defence

HAMILTON, Jan. 25 (CP) — Mayor Lloyd Jackson said Wednesday Hamilton's civil defence plans do not at present provide for increased taxation.

He was commenting on a statement in Toronto Tuesday by Provincial Secretary Arthur Welsh who said that Hamilton would be a major atom bomb target in the event of a war and would have increased mill rate for defence.

Mayor Jackson said the city would not consider increased taxation until the federal government clarified the division of responsibilities in the whole matter of civil defence.

New Jet Engine Passes Tests

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (AP). —The United States Navy announced Wednesday a new jet engine described by its builder as the worlds most powerful now qualified for production.

The engine is the Westinghouse J-40, big brother of the J-34 which has been used in several air force and navy aircraft types.

W. B. Anderson, manager of the Westinghouse Aviation Gas Turbine Division at Philadelphia, said in a statement "the J-40 packs more potential speed into less space than any previous rotating engine ever built."

There was no indication of how the new engine will be used, but it is a likely prospect for the still unannounced Grumman F10F, a swept-wing successor to the Grumman F9F Panther now in service on carriers off Korea.

Anderson said control of the new engine is entirly automatic so that the pilot needs only to move a single control for all conditions from standstill to top speed. He said the engine "simply burns its own way through ice," indicating a highly-developed anti-icying system.

Producer Scalded

LONDON, Jan. 25 — (AP). — Sir Charles Cochran, 78-year-old theatrical producer, was scalded Wednesday while taking a bath in his home. He was taken to Westminster Hospital where his condition was described as "rather serious." Sir Charles has been a leading figure in show business for nearly 50 years. He went on the stage in New York in 1891 and subsequently played throughout the United States with touring companies for three years.

APPEALS AGAIN—Defense Secretary George C. Marshall (right) talks to Rep. Carl Vinson (D., Ga.), chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, before renewing his appeal for an 18-year-old draft. Marshall testified that such a move was necessary, as the war is draining trained men out of military units in this country faster than they can be replaced.

Movie Column

Says Romance Has Expired In 1951 Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 25 (AP)—Shed a tear, folks; the traditional screen lover is dead.

This coroner's report comes from Robert Ryan, who observes that romance has expired in the movies. The cause?

"Maybe this isn't the time for people to think about love, what with the war, atom bombs and other things to worry about," the actor concluded.

Whatever the reason, it appears that Ryan's analysis is correct. Today's movies are concerned with crime, prejudice, greed, valor and almost everything but love.

"See for yourself," Ryan remarked, "you never hear the simple words 'I love you' on the screen anymore. They have disappeared. Instead, the guy just takes the gal for granted or slugs her for good measure.

Slap The Girls

"Take a glance at some of our top personalities. Cary Grant never lays his hands on a girl in his movies. (Exception: with Ingrid Bergman in 'Notorious.') Spencer Tracy has nothing to do with them. James Cagney? He slaps 'em."

This is a long cry from the movie lover of yore, as epitomized by Rudolph Valentino, Roman Novarro, Antonio Mareno, etc.

"Ah, but there never was a lover like the roles they played," Ryan added. "It's silly to think that a sheik such as Valentino played ever existed. Fans might have sighed over him then, but his pictures are merely laughable now.

Out With Romance

"Sound eventually did away with romance on the screen," he said. "When lovers began to talk, they became unbelievable. I don't think people talk much when they make love and it looks silly to see lovers on the screen tossing endearing phrases at each other."

Ryan thinks perhaps the male audience has done away with romantic films.

"The women like romance in their soap operas and magazine fiction," he reasoned. "That's because their housework isn't engrossing enough to keep them busy. But the men have to work and have no time for such things."

Out Of Danger

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 25 (CP).—Charged with manslaughter in the bludgeon death of her husband, George, 42, early Sunday, 41-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Lawrence Wednesday night "seemed to be out of danger," hospital authorities reported. She has been under police guard since she was found Sunday with both wrists slashed in her home along with her husband's body.

Report Recruiting Up 50% In December For 3 Forces

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP).—Bolstered by pay raises and the prospect of foreign service, armed forces recruiting went up 50 per cent in December, the Defence Department reported Wednesday.

However, nearly three-fifths of the increase was wiped out by discharges. The forces, in other words, took in 1,526 new men, but their net gain for the month was 663.

At the end of November they had a total of 61,116 men. At the end of December, the total was 61,779. The ceiling is 69,000, but Defence Minister Claxton has said it will go up whenever the time comes.

Defence officials expressed pleasure at the rate of recruiting in December, traditionally a poor month, and hoped it means that the drive for expanded forces is really rolling.

The monthly rate for some months past has been around 1,000.

At the end of June, before the drive for expansion aroused by Korea, the forces had a total of 46,899.

Give Breakdown

Here is a breakdown by services of strengths at the end of June, November and December:

Navy: 9,246; 10,184; 10,199. The navy took in 149 men in December but the net gain was 15.

RCAF: 17,284; 18,476; 18,865. The RCAF took in 477 men in December and had a net gain of nearly 400.

Army (regular): 20,369; 22,065; 22,447. It recruited 665 men in December.

Army (special force): In June, nothing; November, 10,391; December, 10,268. This decrease of 123 occurred despite the recruiting of 235 new men in December. The special force still recruits small numbers for special jobs. Its wastage or loss of men is above normal, but still less than 1 per cent, officials said today.

Legion Meeting On Compulsory Training Drive

Albert Hultz, first vice-president of the Ontario Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion, will be the guest speaker at an open meeting to be held by the Peterborough Branch of the Canadian Legion Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Legion Hall.

Meetings open to the public will be held by branches of the Legion across Canada during the next two weeks. The purpose of these meetings is to bring before the public eye the program recently released by the Legion asking for compulsory part-time training in the reserve forces.

For Mobilization

The remaining two parts of the Legion's three-fold program is to also gain public support for national registration and mobilization of industrial resources for defence production.

This program will be treated by Mr. Hultz in his address on Sunday. His address will be followed by a discussion period.

The following have been invited to be platform guests at the meetings: Gordon K. Fraser, MP, Harold Scott, Minister of Lands and Forests, Lt.-Col. M. E. Clarke CO of the 50th HAAA Regiment, RCA, and Col. J. A. Dewart, chairman of the executive committee of the local Defence Committee.

Seven Elected YM Directors

Seven men were elected to the Board of Directors of the Peterborough YMCA at an annual meeting Wednesday night.

Two of the men are new to the board. The others have served previous years. The two new directors are George Scott and Jack Richardson. Ken Kingston was elected to the board to fill in the vacancy left by Al Clark when he transferred August 31. He was re-elected.

The men who were re-elected were P. M. McCarrell, Gordon Matthews, Ian McRae, and Marlowe Banks. Charles Cummer, chairman of the nominating committee, put their names before the meeting.

The Y's new general secretary, Charles D. Forsyth, made his first annual record of the activities of the various departments of the YMCA for 1950.

Membership Down

Chairman of the membership committee, Stanley Payne, reported that membership had dropped some 400 from last year's more than 1,100 to 756.

He said the membership was going to start contacting all those who did not renew their membership to try to build up a large active membership again.

Punch On Nose Cost Wrestler $17 After Game

LINDSAY, Jan. 25 — (CP) — A right-hand punch to the nose cost professional wrestler Clarence (Toar) Morgan $17 costs in court yesterday. He was also placed on suspended sentence for two years.

The 260-pound wrestler was charged with common assault following an argument at a hockey game here when he struck Lindsay druggist, Lloyd Reeves.

Morgan, manager of the municipally-owned arena, resigned his position following the incident.

"Heck of a Game."

Morgan testified that he told Reeves, a member of the Kinsmen Club which sponsors the Lindsay OHA junior B team, that it was a "heck of a game" and that the players were too rough.

"He told me I shouldn't talk this way as it was my bread and butter. I hit him on the nose. If I had hit him hard, I would have broken his nose. I am sorry it happened but this Kinsmen clique has been trying to run the arena. I made it pay."

Ask Tenders For Mail Route

Posters have been circulated calling for tenders for the mail route, R.R. 11 Peterborough (River Road). This is the second call for tenders for mail collection and delivery in this area.

The first call expires January 26 and is for the collection and delivery of mail from the post office to the railroad stations. This work has been done by the Reid Transfer for 20 years and the contract will expire in March. Reid's will not submit a tender. All tenders should be in Ottawa by January 26 at the Postmaster General's office.

The latest call for tenders for mail collection and delivery involves the R.R. 11 Peterborough route in Otonabee township. These tenders will be accepted until March 2 at the Postmaster General's office in Ottawa.

Deer Out Of Season Two Men Fined $154

Two Cardin township residents have paid a total of $154 for shooting a deer out of season.

George Young, 37, a tourist operator on Lake Dalrymple, pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession of venison and he was fined $50 plus $14.50 costs.

Marshall Campbell, 38, a trucker who also lives on Lake Dalrymple, pleaded guilty to shooting a deer out of season and he was fined $75 plus $14.50 costs.

Both men appeared in Lindsay police court and were fined by Magistrate E. A. Gee. The shooting took place on New Year's day when the two were out fox hunting.

Young said he mistook a doe for a fox and shot it. The carcass was later divided between the two hunters.

The case was presented by Inspector Buie and Provincial Game Warden Fred Walton.

A TESTIMONIAL DINNER for former secretary of the Peterborough YMCA for the past 36 years, was tendered to George H. Roper and Mrs. Roper on Wednesday evening. G. H. Roper Life Member For 36 Years Of 'Y' Service

More than 150 men and women gathered Wednesday night in the YMCA to honor George H. Roper in a testimonial dinner following his retirement after serving 36 years in the Peterborough branch of the YMCA, most of the time as general secretary.

Mr. Roper was presented with an honorary life-membership, the second such honor given in the history of the Peterborough Y. He was also given an illuminated scroll of appreciation of his work for the Y in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Roper were presented with an engraved silver tray and Mrs. Roper was handed a bouquet of red roses as a token of recognition of the role she played in her husband's years of service.

Guest speaker of the evening was R. S. Hosking, general secretary of the national council of the YMCA of Canada, who spoke on the need of Christianity and the principles on which the YMCA is built in the world today.

Announce Scholarship

A scholarship for some member of the YMCA attending first or second year university who would enter YMCA work after graduation was announced. Ross Dobbin, who announced it, asked Peterborough president Alex. L. Elliott, KC, to appoint Mr. Roper chairman of the committee which would manage the fund.

Mr. Dobbin said $1,000 had already been collected for the scholarship, and so far he had heard from only 25 per cent. of the people to whom he sent letters about helping finance the scholarship.

William Richardson, a retiring director, gave a brief outline of Mr. Roper's association with the YMCA in Peterborough. He said Mr. Roper first came to Peterborough in 1905 as boys' secretary and junior physical education director. He left to return to Toronto after about a year. In 1915 he returned to Peterborough as physical director and has been here ever since.

Mr. Roper in thanking the assembly and the Peterborough YMCA for the honor they were doing him and his wife, said when he came to Peterborough, he also had an opportunity to go to Halifax in a similar capacity.

Chose Peterborough

He and his wife chose Peterborough "and we have never regretted that choice".

Mr. Roper said he was particularly pleased that many of the men with whom he had made friends when he first came to Peterborough, were in the gathering last night. Two of them were Ross Dobbin and Dr. Max Yelland. A third whom he liked and admired, Stanley Fife, was killed in World War I.

Mr. Roper said probably the highlight of his work with the YMCA was the building campaign of the early 1930's in which $135,000 was raised to build a new wing to the building. The new wing housed the swimming pool and allowed for increased accommodation for residents among other things.

He said Doug Loomis was the man most responsible for starting the campaign.

"This is really a proud night for Mrs. Roper and myself", the veteran Y man said.

Danger Would Pass

Mr. Hosking told the audience that if people would live as Christians and follow the principles on which the YMCA was founded, he had no doubts the present peiod of danger, confusion and distrust would pass and "in God's own good time, there will be a just and lasting peace".

Mr. Hosking said the mid century mark offered an opportunity to men to stop and look around to see what the world climate was.

It looked, he said, bleak and sombre. But he said last summer he was in Germany and other countries of Europe where he visited DP camps and talked with people who had escaped from behind the Iron Curtain.

And he came back with the sound conviction that the Russians were not going to march in Europe—at least in the immediate future.

Discontent In Russia

He said he talked to a young Russian army officer who had escaped from Poland. The officer told him there was a great atomic bomb of discontent in Russia ready to explode against a small fanatical group of conspirators.

The young officer told him that 40,000 of his unit deserted when the unit was moved into Poland. Mr. Hosking said the Russian leaders didn't dare invade foreign soil for fear of desertions. And they didn't dare provoke an invasion by other nations because of the feelings of the Russian people.

But he said "we have our backs to the wall and we might as well realize it".

World Of Secularism

He said the youth of today was growing up in a world of secularism in which God was taken out of the centre of life and "things" put in His place. People are worshipping too much at the shrine of material things he said.

He said people cannot attain security through money. The only real security, he said, was spiritual security.

He said youth was growing up feeling frustrated, feeling that there was no use preparing for a future when the threat of World War III overshadowed the world.

Canada and North America needed to return to the old sense of values, he said. What was needed was a belief in young men, in fellowship, and a belief in Jesus Christ.

Mr. Hosking was introduced by Ian McRae and thanked by Ken Kingston.

40 Years For Knox

When Knox Church was built 40 years ago, H. J. McCannan was secretary-treasurer of the building committee. Wednesday night at the congregational annual meeting at which extensive alterations to the church rooms and hall were planned, Mr. McCannan was presented with a hymnary in recognition of his long service to Knox Church. Mrs. McCannan received a bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. McCannan live on Walkerfield Ave. Mr. McCannan is a former alderman and a well-known retired realtor.

Home Disposal Grinders No City Worry Until 1970

City council doesn't have to worry about that new kitchen gadget, the Disposal, which grinds up refuse from the table and floats it down the sewer; maybe not until 1970 or beyond.

This is a C.G.E. product, but information obtained about the council as to effect on sewer capacity indicated that there are seventeen manufacturers of different types of this machine.

Prospect for Peterborough, somehow guaged, does not anticipate one Disposal for every house until 1970. Present cost is $172, and with installation the total is around $225 to $250.

A young agent of the C.G.E. was given a hearing some months ago, and the council decided to get the opinion of their sewerage plant advisers, Gore and Storrie, Toronto. Their report was read at the board of works meeting this week, which held out no likelihood of excess consumption of water for flushing the ground-up garbage down the sewer.

Eventually there would be more sludge to be disposed of, but that content of the sewer is definitely a long way off. Installation of the Disposal would require purchase of a new sink to go with it.

City council sent the report on to the Utilities Commission, the partner in the civic business of laying sewer and water mains.

Took 30 Pills Of Strychnine, Baby Recovering

Thirteen - month - old Leonard Sedgwick is recovering in Civic Hospital today after accidentally taking a lethal dose of strychnine Wednesday about noon.

The child took some 30 patent medicine pills which had a small dose of the poison in each of them. One or two of the pills would have no harmful effect. But the amount of poison he took in the 30 pills could easily have killed him, Dr. A. R. Atkinson, of Norwood said.

Good Feed Saved Him

What saved him, the doctor thought, was that he had just had a good feeding of pablum. The pills mixed with the pablum and the poison was not absorbed by the child's system.

Dr. Atkinson rushed the child to the hospital here and with the help of another doctor, washed out the youngster's stomach. He is now recovering satisfactorily.

The child somehow got his hands on the bottle of pills and had eaten about 30 of them. When his mother found him, there was one pill left in the bottle and there was one in his mouth. So she knew immediately what had happened.

The parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Sedgwick, R.R. 3, Norwood.

As many students took part in the second PCVS square dancing class Wednesday afternoon as at the first a week ago. Nearly 400 rural and urban students packed the school gym to swing to the old time music under the direction of the Students Council.

This new extra-curricular activity was primarily for the rural students who miss most of the school activities through the week, but the city students seem to be as square-dance conscious as the rural ones.

Wednesday the student organizers had 21 sets spinning to the students' old time orchestra. Last week they tried 25 sets on the large gym floor but conditions were too crowded for good dancing. The students not dancing were squeezed along the walls.

"Down The Centre"

One new dance was taught Wednesday noon, "Down the Centre, Cut off Six." Two others were reviewed, "Life on the Ocean Wave" and "Nellie Gray" which were taught at the first class.

Barry Wilson was caller with the assistance of Miss M. A. Bailey. The orchestra included pianist Donald Barrick, violinist Robert Hutchison, John DeNure and Robert Ross, mouth-organist Neal Owles and guitarist William Frisken.

Once again there was confusion in the lunch rooms which have the capacity only for the rural students. The urban students who brought lunches crowded into the rooms and the overflow had to eat in the corridors.

Federation Plans To Invite Fieldman

Cecil Belyea, fieldman for the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, is being invited to Peterborough for the annual meeting of the county Federation at the YMCA, Tuesday Feb. 13.

Directors Wednesday night endorsed that suggestion of the chairman, W. W. Dawson.

The program was left to James Gifford and Milton Clark, and wives of the directors are given the responsibility of refreshments.

Mr. Dawson, Norm McConkey, John Kitney, secretary, and Harold Lewis were appointed a committee to consider the question of Federation publicity.

Car Jolts Child From Mother, Skull Fractured

Jolted from the arms of his mother sitting in the back seat of a car in a collision with another car Wednesday afternoon, Roy James Jollymore, 17 months, had his skull fractured and was still in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital at noon today.

The youngster was thrown head-on between the two front seats of the Jollymore coach car.

The child's father, Roy James Jollymore, Sr., 215 Braidwood St., was driving east on McKellar St. His car met in collision with a car driven by Mrs. Claude Millard, 518 Monaghan Rd.

Brakes On

Mrs. Millard told police she was driving north. Approaching McKellar St., she saw the Jollymore car nearing the corner from the west. She slowed down and saw the driver of the other car put his brakes on to try to stop. He slid on into Monaghan Rd. into the path of her car.

Mrs. Millard put on her brakes but she too just skidded on the slippery surface of the street. Her car hit the Jollymore car on the right side.

The Jollymore car skidded north and hit a hydro pole on the north-east corner on the left side. The left door was jerked open and Jollymore thrown out. He bruised his head.

Mrs. Jollymore suffered a bruised left shoulder, a bruised forehead and a skinned left knee. Mrs. Millard, who was alone, was unhurt.

Considerable damage was done to the front of the Millard car and the right side of the Jollymore car.

When Constable John Morrow arrived, the child was being examined by Dr. Leslie J. Calvert in 600 McKellar St. The doctor then drove the baby to hospital.

2 Youths Jailed For Rowing In Restaurant

Two youths were jailed, one for 30 days and the other for 45 days when they were found guilty in police court today of causing a disturbance in a restaurant by fighting with the proprietor and throwing plates and glasses at him Saturday night.

Roy Hotts, 675 Donegal St., described by the magistrate as the ringleader of the affair, was given 45 days. Floyd Michels, 22, 690 Frank St., was sentenced to a month.

Hotts had a police record of robbery with violence. But, said Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, he was not letting that influence him.

Serious View

"This is a serious thing from the point of view of ordinary good manners and common decency," said the magistrate.

Yee Shung, proprietor of the Hollywood Cafe on Charlotte St., said he did not allow Hotts and Michels into his restaurant because they always caused trouble and never bought anything, but merely hung around.

He said after midnight Saturday night, he saw the two of them come in and walked over to stop them. He told them to leave, but Hotts pushed him. They scuffled for a moment.

He went to phone the police and Michels kicked him in the back and tried to trip him with his foot. He said he had a plate in his hand and turned and hit Michels over the head with the plate.

Dishes Upset

Mr. Yee ran behind the counter and the two upset all the dishes on the counter and threw some plates and glasses at him. Then they left.

About 20 minutes later they came back. They upset the dishes and glasses again and then threw plates at Mr. Yee again.

Tom Hoy, assistant manager, said the youths never bought anything in the restaurant, but spent their time fooling around "trying to pick up women".

He described the fight, saying that on the second occasion, Hotts "grabbed everything he could get hold of and threw it at the boss".

Michels, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, said the manager pushed Hotts and Hotts pushed back and swung at Mr. Yee. He said he was standing watching the scuffle when the manager hit him with the plate. He denied ever striking Mr. Yee at any time.

However, after the manager had hit him and run behind the counter, Michels "threw a couple of glasses at him".

On the second time in the restaurant, Michels said, he threw a rubber mat from the counter at the manager.

Asked why he had done these things and why he had gone back a second time, Michels shrugged his shoulders and said "I don't know".

Michels was placed on suspended sentence in 1949 when found guilty of theft.

Dangerous Driving Charge

Wednesday, Michels was bailed for trial on a charge of dangerous driving in connection with an accident in which his car knocked down Mrs. Edward Edwards, River Road, September 13. Mrs. Edwards died three months later in hospital.

Douglas Urges Soviet Talks

NEW YORK, Jan. 25 — (AP)— Lewis Douglas, former Ambassador to Britain, Wednesday urged the Western Powers not to be too timid about having frank dealings with Russia.

He suggested it might be worth while to hold a meeting or meetings "with a responsible and high official of the Soviet under circumstances which permit of frank conversation."

"To permit matters to drift, relying solely upon the development of force, is to engage in a practice hazardous to our peaceful purpose." he told the annual luncheon meeting of the Pilgrims of the United States.

Douglas said the keystone of US policy should be "intimate association" with the United Kingdom, the British Commonwealth and other members of the Atlantic community.

But he warned that "to accept the responsibility of defending every part of the world is more than even our great ingenuity and capacities can discharge."

Bar Coogan Touching Liquor For Year

BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif., Jan. 25 — (AP). — Jackie Coogan, the kid of the silent movies, must not touch liquor for one year under terms of probation imposed Wednesday. Judge Charles Griffith also ruled that Coogan, now 36, can drive his car only on business for the next 90 days. A 90-day sentence was suspended after Coogan pleaded guilty to drunk-driving charges. He also had to pay a $150 fine. Judge Griffith ordered Coogan to pay the damages on a parked car into which he crashed last January 18.

German Police Get More Arms

BONN, Germany, Jan. 25 (AP) —The Allied High Commission Wednesday announced changes in its regulations to permit West Germany's proposed mobile police force to be armed with light infantry weapons.

The Allies reserved the right to define what weapons might be used and placed the procurement of arms and ammunition under supervision of the Military Security Board.

The formation of the 30,000-strong force, to be armed with the light infantry weapons, now is under discussion between the Federal Government and the authorities of the 11 laender (states) who will provide the men and money. The Western Allies authorize the force to combat possible Communist attempts to overthrow the Bonn regime.

OPTIMISTIC WORDS—Gen. Omar Bradley (left) chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, confers with Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, chairman of the U.S. Senate Preparedness Committee, before testifying before it. Bradley said there is "little danger now of the continental U.S. being invaded and overrun," but urged drafting of 18-year-olds.

Report 1950 Big Year Of Service At St. Paul's Church

At the annual meeting of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church held on Wednesday evening, and presided over by the minister, Rev. C. G. Boyd, reports showing a year of progress and increased endeavour were heard.

It was with a deep sense of satisfaction that the session reported a large increase in the number of children attending church-school and increased numbers of older boys and girls being found every Sunday in the Sunday school. The sincere thanks and appreciation of the congregation was expressed to James Davidson, superintendent of the Senior School, Max Kaye, superintendent of the Junior School, Mrs. Lionel Monk, the Beginners' School, Miss Mildred Rowan, the Nursery School, and Miss H. Davidson, the Primary School.

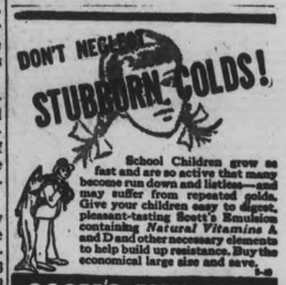
The session also commended the work being done among the young people and appealed for men and women to dedicate their lives to the Christian ministry. Mention was made of Mr. Don Warne who is attending Knox College and Miss Ann Bain, now serving as a deaconess in Winnipeg. Another St. Paul's boy, Rev. William Moorhead, is a recent graduate of Knox College.

Work Of Ladies' Aid

Appreciation was expressed of the work of the Ladies' Aid, the most active organization in the congregation. The ladies during the year raised more than $3,000, gave $1,000 to the Board of Managers to fire and soundproof the oil furnace, purchased new chairs for the Guild Room, and also new carpets, and made many other smaller contributions to the work of the church both in money and in supplying banquets to the various organizations. Sincere appreciation of the ladies' work was moved in a motion by James Dutton and T. H. Taylor.

The four missionary societies of the congregation all made valuable contributions to the greater work of the church and all more than surpassed the allotments given them to raise.

The remainder of the 17 organizations reporting all showed that in every way St. Paul's congregation had just passed one of the greatest in the 117 years since it was established in Peterborough.



It was reported that 73 new members were added to the church roll for a total membership of 1,264. There were 46 baptisms, 23 marriages and 38 funerals.

The contribution to church missions was the highest in many years and the financial statement of the Board of Managers showed that the surplus this year will exceed $2,600. There was almost $30,000 raised by all the organizations in the congregation.

Elected to the Board of Managers were A. E. Chalmers, Leslie Reid, John Steinkraus, Donald Hill and John Stevenson. Wilson Gemmell and John Buckley were appointed auditors.

Send Umbrella To Mr. Attlee

NEWARK, NJ, Jan. 25 (AP)— An umbrella, as a symbol of appeasement, was sent to Britain's Prime Minister Attlee Wednesday by leaders of Newark Veterans of Foreign War Posts.

"Dear Mr. Attlee Just in case Mr. Chamberlain did not leave you his, we are forwarding you an umbrella. It may come in handy in Peiping," an accompanying cablegram read.

Edward Simandl, commander of the Greater Newark VFW Post, explained: "World War II would not have been complete without Munich and Prime Minister Chamberlains umbrella, so we feel someone should make sure Attlee has an umbrella for support in his appeasement of the Chinese Communists."

Cartoons of Neville Chamberlain before the Second World War always showed him carrying a black umbrella. The umbrella became the symbol of appeasement of Naziism, especially at the Munich conferences where Hitler was given a free hand to move in Czechoslovakia.

REGINA, Jan. 25 — (CP). — Provincial Treasurer C. M. Fines Wednesday said the estimated loss in operation of the Saskatchewan government's compulsory automobile insurance plan for the 1950-1951 licence year is approximately $200,000.

Mr. Finess aid future policy for operation of the insurance plan will be presented at the coming session of the Legislature. It had already been decided there will be no increases in premiums during the coming year.

A representative of the New York State Insurance Department, who examined the Saskatchewan scheme, reported January 20 that the plan makes a sizable profit on commercial vehicles but loses money largely because of heavy losses on private cars.

There's A Booklet Called "Personal Planning" I mentioned last week that every "Harried Housewife" should know about! It's a "blueprint" for showing you how to run your money — instead of your money running you! It takes a bit of "doing" on your part — but it certainly seems to be very much worth while in the end. You see, Personal Planning is a new, personal budget-planning system designed by the BANK OF MONTREAL to enable you to work out a budget that will really give you control over your money. After you've worked at it for a while, you'll find your money problems really shrinking. You'll find, too, you can enjoy life and still live within your income. Sounds good, doesn't it? Be sure to ask for your copy of PERSONAL PLANNING at your nearest branch of the B of M! As "MY BANK" says, "There's no obligation, except to yourself".

Thank You For All Your Grand Letters! They've been coming in ever since I asked you for your favourite BOVRIL uses or recipes. So many marvellous ideas — I wish I could include all of them in this column. But I'm afraid space doesn't permit — so I'd like to give you just a few of my favourites this week and in the following several weeks. Here's a delicious Bovril recipe from Mrs. W. Hammond, 36 Chesterhill Rd., Toronto, Ont.—

CASSEROLE LIVER

1 lb. Beef Liver
Flour, salt and pepper
2 carrots, cubed
1 onion sliced
2 potatoes, sliced
1 Bovril Cube
1 cup hot water
1 cup cooked tomatoes
1 Bay Leaf

Cut liver in small pieces, roll in flour with salt and pepper. Brown in shortening. When brown remove liver and put carrots, onion, potatoes in pan and brown them very slightly. Remove the vegetables and blend in a bit of flour, with Bovril Cube dissolved in the hot water and cooked tomatoes. Combine all ingredients, adding Bay Leaf and pour into casserole. Cover and bake at 350 deg. F. for 1 hour. Serves 4. The above can be varied by the addition of other vegetables, sweet peppers, a bit of turnip, to suit taste.

There's Something SPECIALLY Exciting about a chocolate cake . . . particularly when it's flavoured with the real, rich flavour of BAKER'S UNSWEETENED CHOCOLATE! You see, Baker's is all pure chocolate with nothing added, nothing taken away.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE CAKE
(1 egg)

1¾ cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
1¾ tspns. Calumet Baking Powder
½ tspn. salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate, melted
¾ cup milk
1 tspn. vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well; then add chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased pan, 8 x 8 x 2 inches, in slow oven (325° F.) 1 hour, or until done.

And your youngsters need that extra energy, for research shows that a normal, healthy child burns up almost twice as much energy per pound weight as a hard-working man! Britain Finds Employment Service Success

LONDON — (CP) — — Women over 35, young ex-servicemen without civilian experience and former members of the regular forces are the three headaches of Britain's Appointments Service.

A special branch of the ministry of labor, it's job is to place applicants seeking advice on job-hunting.

About one in every nine applicants is a woman, and the number of letters from women who have never worked before is increasing. Applicants mainly ask for welfare work, where they can meet people, but few have the necessary social science diploma.

For the youngster without previous experience, the service has a seven-point plan. Questions cover physical make-up, attainments, general intelligence, special aptitudes, interests, disposition and personal circumstances.

Road To Success

"The system has proved one of the most successful and valuable," a ministry official said. "It has meant starting young men and women on the right road at the beginning of their careers."

Of the 29,000 people interviewed last year, excluding technical and scientific students, young people comprised half the register.

The service, however, is seeking to break-down the employers' prejudice against the "over 40s". This is found to be lessening in the case of older men.

Among two recently-placed were a 50-year-old disabled ex-naval commander who became a personnel officer and a 46-year-old general-manager appointed to a £4,000-a-year post. Officials say more older people are seeking major changes in their careers.

Urge Immunization

MONTREAL — (CP) — Dr. Adelard Groulx, Montreal health director, warned that "far too many" Montreal babies are not yet immunized against diphtheria and whopping cough. He said every baby at six months should be immunized.

BIG ONE THAT BOUNCED—Flagpole sitter Erma Leach of San Francisco claims she got this big, $7500 check—which the bank wouldn't honor—and little else for sitting on a 60-foot pole from August 1 to January 1 this year. Erma filed suit against her former employer, "Horsetrader Ed" Shapiro, charging he failed to make good on his promises of $7500 cash, a 1950 Cadillac and a mink coat if she broke world's flagpole sitting record—which she did.

Chevrier Urges Preparedness

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP). — Transport Minister Chevrier warned Wednesday that the potential enemy of western democracy "is trying to draw us out to the ends of the earth and then create strife and dissension at home."

He did not elaborate on the statement in a luncheon address to the annual meeting of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association. But preparedness was the keynote of his address.

The western world is living under the threat of war and "anyone who thinks these are normal times is badly mistaken," he said. "Our potential enemy — I don't have to name the potential enemy—is out to destroy us."

Democratic governments must meet this challenge with a three-point preparedness program. First they must prepare "for and against war." Second, they must strengthen their economic position. Third, they must "propose ways and means to fight inflation." Of these points the first is the most important.

Canada remembers the part played by the flying clubs in producing 41,000 pilots during the Second World War. If world conditions deteriorate the training potential of the flying clubs in building air power again will be called upon.

Russians Push Friendship Drive In Germany

By KARL HEINZ SCHWAB.

BERLIN, Jan. 25 (AP).—Under the guise of "German-Soviet friendship" the Communists are trying to make 18,000,000 East Germans love Russia and Stalin more than their own country.

Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl and his Communist colleagues are doing everything to promote the idea of "friendship with the great Soviet Union" among Russian-zone Germans.

They made it the No. 1 slogan in public life. It is painted on house walls, factory chimneys and streetcars throughout the zone.

They created a "Society for German - Soviet Friendship" which spends thousands of marks every day to feed East Germans with Soviet propaganda. The society boasts a membership of more than 2,000,000 "Friends of the Soviet Union."

Nothing Voluntary

But there is nothing voluntary or spontaneous about that friendship. Anti-Soviet ideas, carelessly expressed in public, result in long prison terms under the "law for the protection of peace" recently passed by the Communist government.

Amidst all this, East Zone Germans keep cool and cynical, as this joke, imported into allied West Berlin, shows:

A Russian occupation soldier robbed an East German at the point of a gun one night. Said the German: "You can take everything, but please leave me two marks."

"Two marks? What for" inquired the Russian.

"To pay my friendship fee to the Society for German-Soviet Friendship."

THE ALL-SEASON SUIT in lightweight wool is a highlight of spring's fashions. This practical suit may be made of wool. The advantages of whisper-weight 100 per cent virgin wool fabric are readily seen. It makes a suit do a full-time rather than a seasonal job in a wardrobe. It's protection against the whimsical ups-and-downs of the mercury reading. It drapes beautifully.

Designer Philip Mangone uses such wool for a town suit (left) in darkest navy blue lighted by touches of white in a polka-dot scarf-neckline and cuffs. The collar is rolled, cuffs are flared and hipline is arched. This suit has a slim-lined skirt with easy-to-wear lines.

Maurice Rentner cuts polka-dotted British wool into an all-season suit (right) with trim linen. He uses a small, detachable linen collar at the neckline, nips in the waist with a narrow leather belt, and marches buttons straight down the front of the jacket. The skirt is slim and simple.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Stewing Beef Not A Cut To Be Slighted Today

Can plain housewives cope with the ever-climbing H.C. of L.?

At least we can try to get on top of the price peak and push it down with sheer will power.

In which case stewing beef is not a cut that can be slighted.

If you want to make the best of this cut of beef an dif you are going to profit by today's cooking gossip you must be interested enough to take time. Approach the subject as the French do; cooking is an art and you are the artist who creates little master-pieces—every day.

Are you in the right mood? Are you angry enough about high prices to do it? Are you eager enough for good food well cooked to take the time?

Call it shin or shank beef, cut it from the front or hind quarter. It is tough, but it has plenty of flavour. It is our job to make it tender and retain and accent that flavour.

Braised Beef

Ask the butcher for a compact piece of beef that will slice when you have finished braising it — about 3 pounds. Using a Dutch oven or an iron frying pan for which you have a tight- fitting lid, sear the solid piece of meat in ¼ cup butter or margarine or bacon fat or cooking oil, on all siles, until it is light brown. Lift the meat to a hot plate while you saute some vegetables; one-half cup each finely diced raw celery, carrot and onion. Stir these around over medium heat until they are transparent—about 5 minutes. Stir in 3 tablespoons flour. Remove from heat and stir in 1 tablespoon of catsup or thick tomato paste, 1½ cup meat stock or leftover vegetable liquid or boiling water until well mixed, then put back over heat and stir until thick. Add 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, shake of cayenne and paprika, and 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Return meat to pan, reduce heat, coven tightly and simmer over as low heat as possible for 3 hours —or bake in oven of 300 deg Fahr. for 3½ hours. No matter which way you cook it. do so until the meat is tender. Remove the beef and cut enough from it for the first meal, onto a hot platter in thin slices overlapping. Pour the hot vegetable sauce over it.

This is delicious and looks attractive surrounded with hot cauliflower flowerets sprinkled with fine buttered crumbs and garnished with parsley.

Beef Bordelaise

For this you buy a flank steak and pound it with your steak pounder until it is about ½ inch thick. This will take about 5 minutes good pounding. Mix together one mashed hard-cooked egg, 1 finely chopped or grated onion, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1-16 teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ cup chopped parsley, 1 tablespoon finely chopped suet or raw bacon fat (or butter). Sprinkle this mixture over the pounded flank steak and roll up the flank steak and tie it tightly or fasten with rounded wooden toothpicks. Roll in flour and brown on all sides in ¼ cup drippings. Season with a little salt and pepper and add 1 cup hot water. Cover and simmer 3¼ hours, adding water and turning over meat at 1 hour intervals. It must cook slowly. Lift out onto hot platter. Make liquid in a pan up to 1 cup by adding hot water. Stir into this ½ tablespoon cornstarch made to a paste with 1 tablespoon water. Cook until thick and clear and taste. It may need pepper and salt. Pour over the rolled flank steak. Garnish with hot potato croquettes alternated with Brussels sprouts or slices of raw tomato.

If our readers have other good ideas for preparing stewing beef we would be glad if they would share them with us.

Queen's Toque Sets London Spring Styles

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Queen Mother Mary helps to set the fashion pace in Britain's spring hat styles.

Flower-trimmed toques, which sit straight on the head—a style favored by the Queen Mother for many years—head the list for all ages. Colors also follow the royal preference.

There are soft mauves, lilac and violet, clear blues, deep purples and bright royal blues. A typical example is a pale violet restaurant toque covered in tiny pink rosebuds. Rosebuds also decorate the matching gloves.

Fitting snuggly to the head the toque styles are expected to be in big demand for windy, early spring days. They are also useful to brighten dark winter suits and dresses. There are no bunched trimmings this year; the flowers are scattered singly, with or without pattern, over the entire hat. Sometimes single petals radiate from a centre posy stitched flatly on the crown.

This year's hat-tilt varied between the forward sweep, cutting the hairline, and tiny cap-shapes sitting well back on the crown with futuristic spirals and cones rising from small brims.

The forehead sweep is achieved in demure tricorne-shaped beret styles such as the midnight blue velvet scattered with white marguerites. Tiny marquerites dot the fine beekeepers' veil.

Beret Styles

Novel forward-tilted beret styles are found in oblong-shaped models representing sole or plaice lying i na thick-rimmed plate. The eyes and markings of the fish are picked out in jewels and the tail waves jauntily over the collar.

Big hats this year are flat, large coolie types in bright candy stripes or small-crowned straws with wavy front brims turned up at back. A wide-brimmed garden party hat by Aage Thaarup, the Royal Milliner, is made from layers of black tulle and has a pleated visor brim with turned-up back. The only decoration is a single flame-red rose set low on the back brim.

Another winner for windy days is this year's version of the boater. Deep crowned with tiny brim it sits squarely on the head with front crown spiked by cones and spiral pins.

A sudden Chinese influence to loose coats and jackets is carried to the head in pointed-crown mandarin hats of varied styles.

Among the year's choice of materials are white lace, fishnet straw, transparent straw and grosgrain. New Festival of Britain colors are festival gold, pink '51, hangover green and rocket blue.

Feel Showing Of Good Films A Public Service

The discriminating people of Peterborough are expressing today their appreciation to Mr. H. M. Yudin who on Wednesday brought them a treat in the line of good music. Films at the Centre Theatre for matinee and evening audiences showed some great concert artists at work and presented Beniamino Gigli, tenor singing parts of immortal arias.

Among the artists in the cinema concert which preceded the feature picture were Jose Iturbi, pianist, who also demonstrated the harpischord, Vronsky and Babin, duo pianists, Emmanuel Fuermann, 'cellist and Mildred Dilling, harpist, who appeared in this city in November. Also the Coolidge string quartet.

Commenting on the pleasure which this type of film can bring to a music-loving public, Mrs. W. B. Brown, president of the Community Concert Association, said today, "It is a marvelous thing for the citizens bringing to their own theatre what they could not otherwise see without making a special trip to Toronto. The films are very refreshing to see and we are all looking forward to the next one."

It is felt that people of Peterborough are getting to be quite critical of music and art. They know what is good and what is bad, and appreciate opportunities to form their own opinions. There was a stage when they did not know nearly so well and such films are definitely helping to improve the situation.

The suggestion that students of the High Schools and Normal School would appreciate a "students' matinee" was made by Mrs. Chester Carson, member of the Music Study Club of the Women's Art Association. She said "Young people are now more interested in this type of thing because they are getting better training. I think a great many of the students would have appreciated these films." Mrs. Carson had seen the concert film at least eight times before and the feature picture several times.

Others of the musical circles of this city also voiced today their appreciation of Mr. Yudin's efforts. They feel it is a public service in which interest will continue to grow.

Approves Using Women In Army

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 25—(CP)—The woman who helped organize the Canadian Women's Army Corps during the last war says she thinks it would be a good idea to get the women in uniform once more.

"Canada is the only one of the Allies which did away with wartime women's branches of the services entirely," Col. Joan Kennedy, now living in Victoria, said Wednesday

She said nursing sisters always were part of the service and that she was referring to the other women's sections.

On the recommendation of the Army, Navy and Air Force, Defence Minister Claxton is expected to put the matter before the Cabinet for a decision shortly. The subject may be brought before Parliament at the forthcoming session.

In the Second World War, 47,000 Canadian women were in uniform.

Indian Costumes To Be Displayed

VANCOUVER, Jan. 25 (CP).—A white wool wedding dress and deer-hide costumes will form part of a unique fashion show here Friday, when a $50,000 collection of North American Indian attire will be modelled by co-eds from the University of Columbia.

The collection was gathered during 20 years by Eric Douglas, curator of the Denver, Cala., Museum of Native Arts. It includes costumes dating back to 1800.

Mr. Douglas has shown the exhibit in 30 American cities, but this is the first time it has been brought to Canada.

Among the collection are ceremonial necklaces with dentalium shell and brass motifs, shell-studded and grass hats, bead belts and elaborate shawls.

The some 50 costumes include every style from the quilted skirts of the Florida Seminoles and white wedding garments of the Navajos to the beaded deer-hide dresses of the plains tribes and shell-studded clothing of the Pacific coast areas.

The models require two to four hours to dress because the accessories, such as winding leggings, take a lot of time to don.

Mr. Douglas is also well known for his techniques of cleaning and restoring old costumes and jewelry.

Good Prospects On Year's Work Shown By Circle

New year meeting of Jean Wagar Mission Circle of St. James' Church held promise of a successful year's work with its inspirational program and large attendance. President Miss Gladys Langton was hostess to members and conducted an impressive opening worship service based on the theme, "Giving." A new year poem was an effective call to worship, and the theme was developed in prayer, music and scripture, read by Miss Ethel Menzies.

Special music for the occasion was contributed by Misses June and Daphne Northey, who sang in duett "Sweet Hour of Prayer" and "He Cared For Me," with guitar accompaniment.

The offering was received by Miss Jean Hammond, Christian stewardship secretary, who also brought a challenging message in her talk on the stewardship of "time."

Prayers for peace and for our missionaries were offered in sentence petitions by various members. The installation of officers for the new year was conducted by the Rev. F. W. Craik, who chose as his topic, "The Whole Armor of God," urging members and officers to a deeper spiritual life.

Study for the evening took the form of news items presented by various "reporters" telling of "Headlines on Relief to Japan." The work of the United Church through relief and reconstruction in Japan was outlined, as well as the gratitude of the Japanese people for these efforts.

During the business session places of meeting were planned for the next six months. It was decided to hold a supper meeting on February 5, when a panel will conduct "Twenty Questions on Japan." Announcement was made of the Presbyterial meeting, January 30, and the world day of prayer on February 9, and members were urged to attend.

During the social hour tea was poured at a lace-covered table by the advisory president, Miss Constance Wagar, and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Earl Ephgrave.

Prizes Cut Grocery Costs Cooking School Gives Hints

Nearly 700 women took advantage of the opportunity to learn some tricks about getting meals in a hurry and attended the first class of a two-day cooking school Wednesday evening which was given the over-all title "Jiffy Meals."

The school has been brought to the city by the Major Bennett Chapter, IODE, and the members were ushering and looking after delivering prizes to the lucky people and gave each attendant a door prize of a menu calendar and a mold for margarine.

The teacher suggested menus for a busy day that can be set out in record time. She whipped up a "jiffy casserole," made a chocolate cake, cinnamon rolls and a lemon pie and baked them during the class. The cake was iced with a "jiffy icing."

Winner of a big ham was Mrs. Russel Huggins. There were 12 grocery bags given away to Mesdames A. W. Spencley, W. N. Earle, J. Carnegie, M. Weir, H. Hinds, K. Kemp, J. Buchanan, Richard Doran, D. House, W. Cuppy and Misses Mabel Jackson and Doreen Wells.

The six winners of 24 pounds of flour were Mesdames S. A MacLaren, B. Britnell, C. Cox, R. Colmar, L. Jackson and Gordon Dobbin. Mrs. W. Hardwicke won two cartons of beverages. Miss Olive Marshall was winner of a permanent wave. Miss June Lowther and Mrs. M. Belch got cans of floor wax and Mrs. W. Bennett a case of drinks.

Mrs. R. Davies was the lucky winner of two pounds of butter and Mrs. Blythe Burns and Mrs. W. G. Shaw each got two packages of marshmallows. Mrs. John Buckley received some baking supplies, Mrs. Howard Hall also two pounds of butter and Mrs. W. A. Taylor is to receive copies of "Health" magazine.

Draws were also made for the cooking done in the class and winners were: Miss Rhoda Wilson, the jiffy casserole; Mrs. M. R. Kearns, the chocolate cake; Mrs. A. Elliott, the cinnamon rolls, Mrs. A. R. Stephenson, the lemon pie.

Misses Ruth Kingan, June Fraser as co-conveners have worked hard to have stage equipment and prizes in place. Mrs. Donald Worboy helped with equipment. Mrs. H. McDonald, Mrs. T. Gaskell, and Mrs. H. James assisted with the prizes and Mrs. R. M Elliott looked after the boxes in which favorite recipes were dropped by guests, from which a winner will be chosen. Mrs. Leslie Dyer was in charge of tickets for the two nights and Mrs. S. Gledhill looked after advertising, and Mrs. W. Van Atter distributed the posters.

This evening's class goes under the title "Happy Bake Day." There will be another fine lineup of prizes for the attendants as well as handy hints on baking.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"I finally found a way to keep them from knocking off so many prizes!"

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Needs Patience of Job Handle Hot-tempered Man

DEAR MISS DIX: The man I am going to marry in the near future has a very high temper, which he has never learned how to control. After he has flared up in a rage and said things to me that cut to the quick he is deeply sorry for it. Can you give me any advice in dealing with this problem?

S. J. P.

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: Only not to marry him unless you have the patience of Job, the meekness of Griselda and a sense of humor that will enable you to laugh at his tantrums instead of being hurt by them.

The thing that counts most in making or marring the happiness of a woman after she is married is her husband's diposition. Personally, I consider a high temper that a man has never learned to control just about the worst drawback that he could have as a husband. No matter how much he loves his wife, it will never keep him from abusing and insulting her when he goes in a rage. It will never make him spare her feelings. She will always go in terror of saying or doing something unwittingly that will rouse the devil in him. A woman can get mighty tired of walking on eggs, thinking before she speaks, and having to gumshoe around a man's prejudices lest she bring on a scene.

They Make Excuses

Of course, high - tempered people always claim that they do not mean what they say in their furies, which is just about as good an excuse as saying you didn't mean to kill someone you stabbed. Also, high - tempered people always think that they have wiped out a wrong by saying they are sorry. They seem to think that obliterates all memory of their unkindness from the mind of their victim.

But this does not happen. The high-tempered say and do the mean things that are in their minds when they let themselves go in their hysterical outbursts, and the husbands and wives who have to stand this sort of treatment soon find their respect and their love gone. I am not denying that many high-tempered people have many fine and noble qualities, but they are poor matrimonial material, and only the foolhardy would risk marrying them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am an interested reader of your column, but I have yet to be convinced that women, as a class, are physically, mentally, spiritually or intellectually equal to men. I don't think they amount to much.

E. G. B.

ANSWER: Well, perhaps not, but God had to make 'em the poor creatures they are, full of faults and weaknesses, to equal men. What would men do with perfect women? Who could stand it to live with a woman who was a paragon of perfection, who never made a mistake, who never did anything foolish, who would be an awful contrast to a poor, mlundering husband?

Certainly nobody can deny your assertion that women are physically weaker than men, but leaving aside the women athletes, who seem to give a pretty good account of themselves, just the plain or ordinary common or garden variety of women seems to be able to stand just about as much exertion as her husband. In the average family Mother works about six or eight hours a day longer than father does. It is Mother who can stand the long vigils over sickness without breaking. It is Mother who can look after the children and take it in her stride, whereas just taking care of them on one Sunday afternoon reduces Father to nervous prostration.

We all admit that in the higher brackets, when you come to the geniuses, men are intellectually superior to women, but taking them by and large on a lower plane, girls and boys and men and women do not seem to differ much in mentality. More women than men keep up with the new books. And when it comes to having good, hard, horse sense about the everyday affairs of life, men and women break about even.

I don't know how anybody gauges the spirituality of either men or women, but when we think of all the saints we have known, we can name more women than men.

Maybe women don't amount to much. But who would bear the children, who would make the homes, who would take care of the old, who would comfort the afflicted, who would care for the weak and helpless if we didn't have them? It is a pretty big chore when you come to think of it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Can two people who are stubborn make a go of marriage?

STUBBORN

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Not if they are going to be stubborn about the same thing.

Cooking Expert Gives Tips On How To Win Fair Prizes

SASKATOON (CP) — If you you want to win a cookery prize at some summer fair, take a tip from an expert who knows what makes the judges tick.

A butter cake, for instance, should be golden brown, evenly risen, with texture looking like a good sponge.

And a loaf of home-made bread should have a crust not more than one-eighth of an inch thick, be tender and crisp, of a creamy color, free from cracks and bulges.

That's what Miss Margaret Pattillo of the University of Saskatchewan's extension department told a meeting of women fair exhibitors.

First she explained the general baking score card used by the judges. This shows that points are given for shape, crust, texture, mixture, color, lightness, flavor and odor.

Butter Cake

A butter cake, she said, should be slightly rounded, fairly light and moist. It should be tender but must not crumble, and there should be no "tunnels" in the mixture.

There should also be no sugariness and if the crust is crisp and shiny it is a sign that too much sugar has been used.

On the other hand, angel food is expected to be level and not risen in the centre. The crust must be tender but must not crumble. It must be more elastic than a butter cake.

Muffin Making

A stern test of a cook's ability, she said, is in making muffins. Appearance and shape of these is important. There is a danger of overmixing, causing them to rise in peaks.

Bran muffins are a cinch compared with straight muffins, Miss Pattillo maintains.

Biscuits are tricky, too, and she stressed that they should not have a coating of egg when put into fairs. This did not meet with the favor of judges since it could hide evils.

Biscuits should be evenly risen, flat on top, flaky, with top and bottom crusts thin.

"What you don't get the flavor of baking powder or salt," Miss Pattillo warned.

Discussing bread, she said a good loaf should have not more above the tin than in it. Judges looked for an even golden brown color, lightness, a sweet and nutty odor, and a fine grain with no big holes.

If pastry is cooked quickly enough the lower crust of a pie should not be soggy, she said. A fruit filling should not be too thick, and a cream filling should bulge slightly.

Good pastry must be flaky, and she had a word of advice about meringue. If drops of syrup appear, it has been cooked too quickly. For best results she recommended beating the sugar with the egg.

Milk Cheese Good For People Over 60 Years

TORONTO, Jan. 25 (CP)—Persons past 60 need foods that rebuild tissue and bones and they should avoid the "bread, jam and tea" type of meal, Dr. E. W. McHenry, professor of public health nutrition at the University of Toronto, said today.

All too often, older persons neglect to eat enough meat, cheese and milk to give them the protein they need, he told the annual meeting of the Associated Milk Foundations.

Many of them had a mistaken belief that meat was harmful to persons of their age and that cheese was indigestible. In addition, they had grown up in an age when the value of milk was not appreciated.

Dr. McHenry said milk is especially good for older persons, because it is easily digested, and they should have at least a half-pint and preferably a pint a day.

A recent investigation in the United States had suggested that poor nutrition, particularly with regard to the B vitamins, may hasten senility.

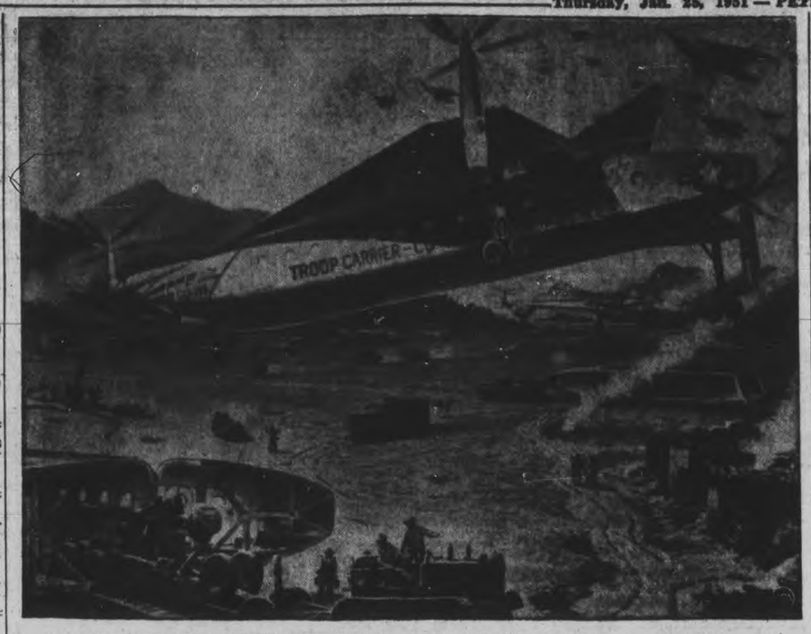
Say Ex-King Peter Involved In Plot

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Jan. 25—(Reuters) — A plot to overthrow Marshal Josif Tito, headed by ex-King Peter and organized in Paris, was alleged today when 17 Yugoslavs were charged with espionage and revolutionary activities.

The public prosecutor told the federal military court that this organization—"with the support and direct participation of certain foreign organs abroad"—co-operated with other anti-Yugoslav spy centres in Rome, Trieste and Austria.

Former King Peter, 27, fled Yugoslavia in 1946 shortly after the country became a republic and Tito took over as government head. King Peter now is living in Paris.

The prosecutor claimed the spy organization led by the King planned to assemble "hostile elements from former bourgeois parties" and take over the present government "at a suitable moment expected in the near future."



Miss Stella Snelgrove Dies In Manitoba

Word of the death and burial of the late Miss Stella Gertrude Snelgrove of Swan River, Man., has been received by relatives in this city. Miss Snelgrove died in hospital on Monday following a short illness in her 64th year. She was born in Chandos Township, daughter of the former Mary Hales and the late John Snelgrove, and moved to the West more than 35 years ago. She was a teacher in Manitoba for many years.

Miss Snelgrove leaves her mother and one sister, Mrs. Daniel Fraser (Lizzie) of The Pas, and two brothers Lance and Graham of Swan River. Miss Mildred Hales and Mrs. A. W. Lean, cousins, both live in Peterborough and a third cousin, Mrs. I. W. Lean, lives in Apsley. Miss Snelgrove was a member of the United Church.

Have Tough Luck

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Jan. 25 (AP)—One man burned to death as fire and 53-degrees-below-zero temperatures struck Fairbanks again Wednesday. Sorely-pressed firemen battled four fires which broke out almost simultaneously, just two days after a $500,000 blaze had destroyed three downtown business houses Monday. Victim of today's fires was George Burmeister, about 50, who died in a fire which destroyed a two-storey log boarding house.

COMING CARGO CARIER—THE "CONVERTAPLANE" — A dream plane, with the speed of an airliner and landing qualities of a helicopter, is the "Convertaplane," envisioned by the editors of Mechanix Illustrated magazine. The craft, as visualized in the sketch above, would be able to land wherever a helicopter can — eliminating the long, expensive runways where 90 per cent of all air crashes occur during landing and take-off at high speeds. Pioneers of the new craft, the magazine says, are already perfecting it, with backing of the US government.

Habitual Drunkard Gets Six Months

Percy Crummey, 36, 565 George St., pleaded guilt in police court today to four third offence drunk charges beginning in September and ending in January, and was sentenced to six months in reformatory.

Reading the charges and reports of previous convictions contained in them Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, commented: "It doesn't appear that we even have to duplicate these, they're so frequent".

A man may be charged, for instance, with two third offences in which two of the offences appear in both of the charges as long as each set of three occur within a year.

The magistrate said he hoped Crummey would get and take advantage of treatment while in reformatory. He said if Crummey came back under the same set of circumstances, he would not make the sentences concurrent as he had in this case, but would make them consecutive.

"I don't think I'll be back," said Crummey.

The first three of the third offence charges were adjourned repeatedly to try to give Crummey a chance to straighten himself up.

Lawyer Dies

OTTAWA, Jan. 25 (CP). — Douglas Watt, K.C., prominent Ottawa lawyer, died here Wednesday night. He was 47. A graduate of Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and Royal Military College, Kingston, he served with anti-aircraft and anti-tank regiments in the Second World War, commanding the 6th Anti-Tank Regiment of the 2nd Corps which crossed the Rhine in 1944. He participated in trials for treason of Canadian servicemen overseas and resumed his law practice in Ottawa later.

Acquit Constable Of Assault

ST. CATHARINES, Jan. 25 — (CP)—A policeman has the right to tap a citizen on the shoulder to attract his attention, Magistrate T. G. Street ruled here when he acquitted Constable Joseph Sagloski on a charge of assault.

The charge was laid by Mackenzie Haroutunian of nearby Port Weller after an incident Jan. 14 when the constable dispersed a crowd in front of a cafe here.

Haroutunian testified that Sagloski had grasped him by the shoulder and pushed against his jaw. The officer refused to listen to his explanation as to why he was standing on the street, Haroutunian said.

Sagloski told the court that he had twice asked Haroutunian and another man to move along. As they walked down the street, he said, he heard a remark about "cops getting too damn smart." The officer called to the two and when they paid no attention to him, he went over and tapped Haroutunian on the shoulder. He denied striking Hartoutunian.

Underworld Busy

CHICAGO, Jan. 25 —(AP)—A crime occurred once every 12½ minutes in Chicago in 1950. Police records disclosed that burglars, robbers and automobile thieves stole at the rate of $45,000 a day, with the year's total loot in cash and goods listed at $16,356,504. This was an increase of 11 per cent more than the 1949 total.

Tutt (Irene) and two sons, Ossie and Carman, all of Toronto; one brother, Edward of Peterborough, and one sister, Mrs. Howard Dafoe (Myrtle), of Havelock. Burial was in Park Lawn cemetery.

Norwood Club Hears Home Economist

NORWOOD, Jan. 25 (ENS)—On Monday night the Norwood Happy Gang girls' club, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Andrews, held their regular meeting.

Miss Jean Noble, home economist, was the guest speaker. She outlined the art of being well dressed and emphasized the essentials of good grooming. She demonstrated how to make up an exhibit for achievement day. She also answered the girls' questions regarding their sewing.

There were 13 girls present and 14 members of the senior Women's Institute. Lunch, served by the members of the senior branch, brought an end to the evening.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. —(CP)— A majority of merchants here voted to continue the 9 p.m. Saturday store-closing hour. They rejected a proposal that stores close at 6 p.m. Saturday during the first three months of the year.

No Turning Back In Asia MacArthur Says

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, Jan. 25.—(AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, confident on the eve of his 71st birthday, said today "there can be no turning back" from war against Communism in Asia.

"Once American arms have been committed to battle in defence of moral principles," he said, "the Rubicon has been crossed. The die has been cast — and there can be no turning back.

"However long and difficult the road, we must fight on with all the power we can mount until victory is achieved."

He made it plain he was speaking of the broad fight against Communism in Asia, rather than the specific campaign in Korea.

Nevertheless, he reiterated that the Chinese "will never drive me into the sea" from Korea.

MacArthur's remarks were made to me during a lengthy conversation in advance of his birthday Friday.

Hasn't Changed Opinion

The substance of his remarks emphasized he has not changed his opposition to Communism nor altered his estimate that it must be fought wherever it arises throughout the world.

"I will fight against it for the rest of my life if necessary," he said.

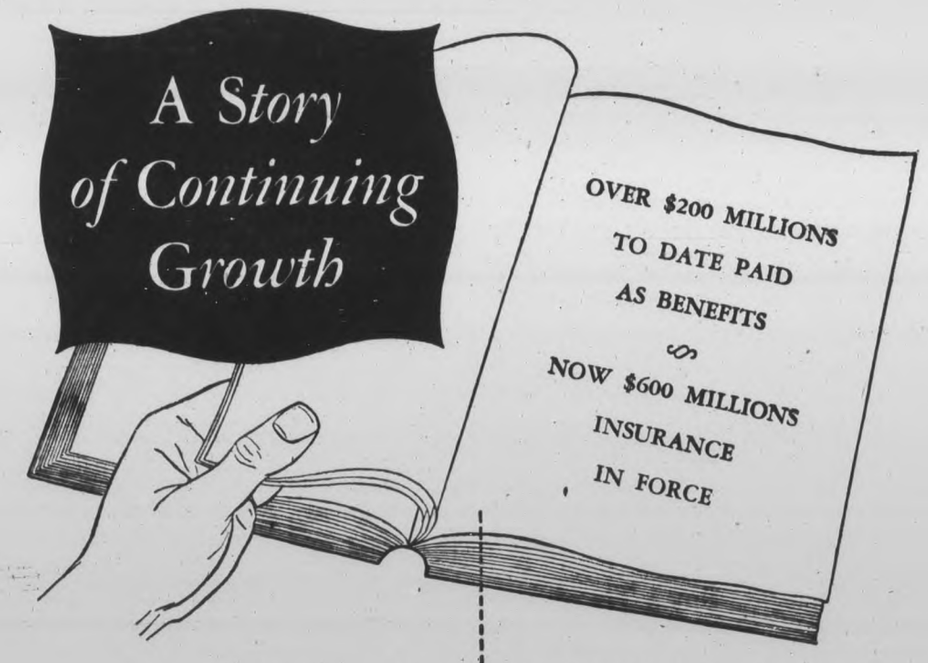
He will spend his birthday at headquarters—his 366th consecutive working day.

MacArthur re-emphasized his statement last week that the Allied forces could remain in Korea as long as they were ordered to do so. This, he said, was based upon enlarged Communist supply problems.

The Chinese, MacArthur added, "can supply around 1,500,000 troops at the Yalu River" from Manchurian bases. "But they lose 50 per cent. of their equipped front-line strength by the time they cross the 38th parallel. They will lose maybe another 10 per cent. 50 miles farther south."

"He (the enemy) will reach a point where he cannot put any more equipped troops at the front than I have—and that will be bad for him. We're going to give the Chinese a bloody nose somewhere in the south."

It is apparent he is awaiting an international decision on how vigorously to fight this "new war" against the Chinese.



He expects Chinese air activity to accelerate, but predicts it will be no more than a "nuisance" for highly-trained Allied pilots.

Engineering Adviser On Way To Canada

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—Dr. William Abbott, British government engineering adviser, left here for Canada Wednesday night to help Canadian universities select engineering students for work in Britain.

The government - sponsored scheme to give the Athlone Fellowships was announced recently by the president of the Board of Trade, Harold Wilson.

There will be 38 students in the first batch, representing every branch of engineering, and they will stay in Britain two years.

GeorgeSt.United 25% Increase Over '49 Funds

The 115th year of George St. United Church was marked by a substantial over-subscription to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund and presents happy augury for the ministry of Rev. Arnold Mathews, B.A., B.D., who came to George St., last September. The congregation raised the sum of $7,234. during 1950, with approximately $1,700 over its allocation and a 25 per cent. increase over 1949.

This encouraging information was contained in the report of the treasurer of this fund, Reg. Kingdon, at the annual congregational meeting last evening.

It was pointed out that though many major projects in the church plant were found necessary during last year, such an increase in missionary givings was realized without any appeals by the pastor.

The minister gave a brief summary of the vital statistics of the congregation, prefacing this with his statement that his ministry had opened most pleasantly for him and his family and he was looking forward to a continuation of the loyal support already accorded him. His summary showed that the present membership of George St. United Church was 1604, a net increase of 97 members during 1950.

Property of $269,000

G. D. Carlisle, treasurer of the Trustee Board reported a healthy condition of the church's assets and liabilities. Property of the congregation was recently appraised by a local authority as worth over $269,000. Mr. Carlisle also paid a tribute to the church auditor, Arthur H. Lewis.

P. M. McCarroll, clerk of session, spoke of the warm place that the minister and his family already occupy in the hearts of his congregation, and mentioned many ways in which the congregation can assist the pastor in his great task of visiting and caring for such a large and wide-spread membership. Mr. McCarrell gave due credit to the various organizations of the church, mentioning especially the Sunday School, the Young People's Union and the choir.

E. L. Sackville moved a vote of thanks to all the loyal servants of the church, including Charles Allen organist and choirmaster, Mrs. Dorothy Goldie, soprano soloist, the caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. Lowes, and others who made the successful year of 1950 a notable one in the church's long history.

W. J. Hardill, chairman of the Committee of Stewards, gave a brief report regarding the future of George St. Church and its financial condition.

Repair Expenditures

Orville Roseborough, retiring after three years' service, reported the finances, which showed that, despite expenditures of over $5,800 for additions and repairs to the church plant during 1950, the year closed with a deficit of only $179. Two special offerings alone realized the sum of over $3,200.

The report of the Sunday school given by Charlton McBride, general superintendent, stressed the healthy condition of the membership and the faithful service of the large staff of teachers and officers. He spoke of the satisfaction felt by all concerned in the choice of a George St. Sunday school member, Jack King, as a representative of Peterborough to the Ontario Boys' Parliament, and the valued services of William Ford who had developed a splendid orchestra. The Sunday school year was finished with a cash balance in the bank of over $100.

Other Reports

The report of the Women's Association was presented by Mrs. Arthur Nelson. The WA contributed $600 to the Civic Hospital. The Women's Auxiliary Society report was given by Mrs. J. P. Bickell. She informed the audience that nearly $1,500 was sent to the Presbyterial treasurer during 1950.

Other reports were given as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. Club" by Donald Hamblin; Benevolent Fund by Art Bacon; Mission Band by Mr. Walter Burns; Trial Ran-Miss Marion Brown; Bible Society by Mr. Walttr Burns; Triai Rangers by Don Kingdon; Cubs and Scouts by Quirt McKinney; CGIT by Joan Smith; Young People's Union by Doreen Samis; Junior Congregation by Charlton McBride; Baby Band by Mrs. Effie Rowe; Nursery School by Miss Myrtle McKeown; "Invictae Mission Circle" by Miss Mary King; Evening Auxiliary by Molly H. Outram; Bowling Club by T. Stenton.

In a brief intermission two solos were sung by Mrs. Dorothy Goldie, accompanied by Mr. Allen. A committee under the chairman P. M. McCarrell, conducted the election of members of the Board of Session and Committee of Stewards.

The ladies of the church provided refreshments after the formal meeting concluded.

TOO COLD FOR THE NAVY — It was so cold when a Navy band played the destroyer Huron away from Halifax that the instruments froze. As this Navy photo shows, a solution was found. The band moved into a warm Navy bus parked on the jetty and played nonchalantly while the Huron set out for Korea to relieve HMCS Cayuga.

Say Flu Epidemic Nearing Peak In Many European Countries

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON, Jan. 25 (AP)—Millions in Europe are sneezing and running temperatures, and some thousands—mostly the feeble and aged—have died in an influenza epidemic which appears to be reaching its peak in a number of countries.

The United Kingdom and Ireland seems hardest hit by the highly-infectious disease, which sweeps through communities with startling suddenness, laying low a large proportion of the population.

In some continental countries—notably Belgium, Germany, Denmark and Sweden—the illness appears on the wane. But it is flaring up in Czechoslovakia and Poland and is reaching epidemic proportions in Spain.

In many regions of Britain schools are closed, theatres are empty, and transportation and industry have faltered. Health officials fear the disease may spread and that it may sweep into the populous southern half of England which has, unaccountably, been relatively free of influenza.

The "influenza belt" in England extends from Tyneside on the northeast coast, where the disease is believed to have made its entry from Norway, to Merseyside on the west coast, including the city of Liverpool.

Hospitals Overcrowded

Almost universally, hospitals are overcrowded and doctors overworked. Sufferers are being told to go to bed and cure themselves with remedies offered by drug stores.

Health officials everywhere are emphasizing that it has been a mild form of the disease, despite so many cases. Robust persons usually have a few days of aches and raging fever, then recover.

In Britain, Scandinavia and Spain, the virus responsible has been identified definitely as being of the "A" type. But it is an "A" with peculiarities of its own which scientists call "A prime."

Not much progress has been made in combatting the disease with vaccines. In most continental countries it is not even being attempted. But the development of a suitable vaccine is the most urgent project at Mill Hill, London district known as the influenza research centre of the world. There Dr. Christopher Andrews, directing the work of the Medical Research Council, has produced a vaccine which promises to be effective. Controlled mass experiments with it are being arranged.

May Be Over First

But many physicians believe that this particular epidemic may run its course before an effective means of immunization against this special virus has been perfected.

British health officials have no exact information on the number of current cases but in the week ended Jan. 13 in the so-called 126 great towns of England and Wales, including London and covering a population of 20,000,000, 890 persons died of influenza. For the previous week the total was 458.

About 85 per cent of those who died were more than 55 years of age.

Mrs. W. D. Lavender Heads Marmora WA

MARMORA, Jan. 25 (ENS).—Mrs. W. D. Lavender was re-elected president of St. Paul's Women's Auxiliary at the January meeting held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. W. M. Regan. Election of officers by ballot was conducted by Mr. J. M. Brownlie. Other officers are vice-president, Mrs. R. G. Winters; treasurer, Mrs. W. M. Regan; recording and corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. Leal; living message secretary, Mrs. J. W. Hickey; Dorcas secretary, Mrs. D. Ross; assistant Dorcas secretary, Mrs. R. Frost; delegate to diocesan WA, Mrs. W. D. Lavender; alternate, Mrs. E. Hewitt.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. W. D. Lavender. In the absence of Mrs. F. Leal, Mrs. P. Gray acted as secretary and Mrs. Brownlie acted for Mrs. J. W. Hickey as treasurer. Mrs. P. Gray gave the Bible reading and the treasurer's report for the year was presented by Mrs. Brownlie.

Mrs. Gray read the bulletin letter from the diocesan board. It was moved by Mrs. Brownlie and seconded by Mrs. Regan that the auxiliary send for the study book slides "Islam, Our Neighbor," to be shown at the home of Mrs. H. R. Pearce at the next meeting.

Mrs. J. R. Reynolds read a letter of thanks from the Mohawk Institute, Brantford, for the bale sent them. The Dorcas report for the year was presented.

Mrs. Brownlie and Mrs. Lavender were appointed to meet the ladies of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society to arrange for the World Day of Prayer to be held at St. Paul's February 9.

Then came the election of officers following which members were reminded that in line with the regulations of the W.A. the constitution will be read at the next meeting. Mrs. R. Frost handed out wool and other material for the making of articles for the 1951 bale.

The members then pieced together quilt blocks which they had brought. Refreshments were served.

Coal Miners Will Defy Gov't Order

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 25 (Reuters)—Coal miners of New South Wales today served notice that they will defy a government ban on work stoppages in the coal industry.

Their decision threatens Australia with one of the gravest industrial crises in its history. The government has promised drastic counter-action if the miners persist in protest strikes.

Strikers are likely to face jail sentences and troops and volunteer labor may be used to keep the mines going.

The final step toward peace or strife will be taken Friday when the coal industry tribunal meets to consider an application by the joint coal board to prohibit work stoppages if recent wage increases are to rkemain in effect.

Will Defy Order

The Communist-led miners have said they will defy such an order and call one-day weekly strikes. Today's meetings in New South Wales endorsed this plan and left little doubt that the rest of the country's miners would follow suit.

Miners all over the country knocked off work to attend the meetings, costing Australia 75,000 tons of badly-needed coal.

The miners have the support of Australia's dock workers who have declared a ban on overtime and weekend work because a recent arbitration court granted them only half the wage increase they had demanded.

Keeping Watch

PRAGUE, Jan. 25 (AP).—Two western diplomats had encounters with plain-clothes policemen outside the United States embassy here. Richard G. Johnson, U. S. Consul, and Ole Aalgaard, Norwegian Charge D'Affaires, were required to show identity papers. They did so and the police let them go. The incidents were the latest in a check on visitors to the embassy that Czechoslovak police started before Christmas.

Ask Supreme Effort

LONDON, Jan. 25 (Reuters).—Leaders of 8,000,000 British trade unionists Wednesday night called for a supreme effort to beat the threatened fuel crisis. Issuing a clear-cut appeal for extra production, top executives of the Trades Union Congress warned that some industrial dislocation during the next two months is almost inevitable.

New Zealand Gov't Reverses Labor Policy Of State Control

By J. C. GRAHAM.

AUCKLAND, NZ — (CP). — New Zealand is taking stock after a year under National Party government. Prime Minister Sidney Holland's administration took ofifce a little more than a year ago after 14 years of Labor rule.

Under the late Rt. Hon. Peter Fraser long steps were taken toward state control and the new government has a lot to do before its program of free enterprise is fully realized.

State controls and restrictions have been among the chief Labor measures to go by the board and government supporters claim there is far more freedom today than there ever was under Labor. On the other hand, Labor members maintain that many of these measures were wartime controls which would have been removed with improved conditions.

The new government has abolished all remaining forms of rationing. It has also wiped out many price controls, among the most important being control over sales of most types of land, houses and buildings. Until now real estate prices have been pegged to 1942 values, and properties sold brought in many cases, big under-the-table payments in addition to the officially-approved prices. Houses now are on the market at prices higher than the former official levels, but not so greatly above the black market rates.

Abolish Licensing

Largely as a result of high prices for wool which have boosted overseas funds, the government has abolished import licensing on a wide range of goods from soft currency countries. This has brought into New Zealand many items not seen since Labor imposed import control in 1938. The Dominion now has a surplus in trade with dllar countries, but its undertakings with the sterling area have so far prevented relaxing of controls on goods from dollar sources.

Some tax reductions have been made, but further substantial cuts will be necessary before the heavy tax burden built up during the war is markedly eased.

Housing Policy

In housing the government has pushed ahead vigorously with its policy of "own your own" in contrast to the Labor policy of providing state houses for rental. It has abolished many building restrictions, has made loans available at favorable rates for home builders, and has offered state houses for sale to present tenants at very advantageous terms. At the same time it has raised rentals on new tenancies of state houses.

The most direct reversal of socialist policy has been the government's steps to return state enterprises to private ownership. Workers compensation insurance, which became a state insurance department monopoly under Labor, has been reopened to competition by private firms. The National Airways Corporation, which controls all internal air services, has been offered for sale to private enterprise.

There has been no move to dispose of the railways, which have always been state-owned. Most road transport remains under government ownership. Coal deposits not yet opened up have been restored to private hands, although most coal mines are still government concerns.

Retain Interest

Another state enterprise which has been passed over to a public company is fruit importing, but the government will retain an interest for the present.

Government critics claim that its greatest failure has been its inability to check the rise in prices and "put value back into the pound." Many of the controls it has abolished have resulted in price increases and it has raised rates for many government services in an effort to check losses in state departments.

The government, however, maintains that it has so far been unable to do more than check basic causes of inflation and has not yet had time to attack prices. It claims that one of the main causes of inflation was the former government's use of reserve bank credit to finance state enterprises by the use of paper money. The new government has stopped resource to the reserve bank and has instead successfully raised a big internal loan.

THERE IS LITTLE PROTECTION from the elements, other than the clothes they are wearing, for officers and men standing watch on the bridge and at other upper deck positions on board the Canadian destroyers serving in Korean waters. Typical of the outfits worn by the Canadians to combat the cold they have encountered on their long Yellow River sea patrols are those pictured above. On the right is Cdr. Paul D. Taylor, of Victoria, commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Sioux, and beside him on the destroyer's bridge is the officer of the watch, Lieut. Robert Peers, of Victoria and New Westminster. Each watchkeeping officer stands two four-hour tricks out of 24 on the bridge. The photo was taken during the final patrol made by the Sioux prior to her departure for Canada. It lasted 43 days.—(National Defence Photo).

The president Walter Gallagher presided over the business period with Mrs. Ivan Thackeray as secretary.

Two families were present from the north end of the township for the purpose of organizing a new forum in that community.

For the recreation period Bingo was played and twelve prizes given. Lunch was served by the hostesses assisted by a lunch committee.

UK Shipyards Enjoying Boom

LONDON (CP)— British shipbuilding yards are enjoying their greatest boom since the war. Already heavily engaged on carry-over contracts, they have booked new orders of more than 1,500,000 gross tons, three times the volume of business undertaken during the previous 12 months.

With the new commitments, the industry's total tonnage under construction and still to be laid down is about 3,500,000 gross tons, said J. Ramsay Gebbie, president of the Shipbuilding Conference. The estimated volume of the contracts at current prices, he said, would run to approximately $900,000,000.

Half the new orders are for oil tankers, with the remainder divided between cargo liners, freighters and other specialized types of ships.

The new business, Mr. Gebbie said, had been stimulated by the strained international situation, the current high level of freights and a realization on the part of shipowners that the trend of building costs is likely to continue upwards.

"The employment outlook for the industry in the year immediately ahead and also for 1952, is definitely set for fair," Mr. Gebbie added. "It is greatly changed since a year ago when completions of new ships were three times the intake of new orders."

Barred From Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Jan. 25 (CP).—Immigration authorities Wednesday barred Dumarsais Estime, former president of Haiti, and his family from residence in Jamaica, ordering him out of the colony within a month. Estime, who arrived here Wednesday from France aboard the liner Colombie, was promised police protection during his stay in Jamaica. The government of Estime, said to be a Communist, was defeated last year. Reports said he has a fortune of $6,000,000.

Fly Out Fish For Market

THE PAS, Man. —(CP)— High prices prevailing for fresh fish have brought important changes in northern Manitoba's lake-fishing operations. Frozen fish are taking a back seat.

Tractor trains which haul the frozen fish from northern lakes are being progressively replaced by aircraft which whisk fresh fish to heated railway cars.

It's cheaper that way, too. Fish companies have found it saves money not to have to move men and equipment into remote lake areas in late summer and maintain camps until ice fishing starts.

Use of aircraft also eliminates the necessity of cutting portages through the bush for tractor trains. Fuel caches are eliminated.

Aircraft fly the fishing crews in after the freeze-up and return in two or three days for their first catches.

About a dozen of northen Manitoba's lakes being commercially fished have been opened for the first time this winter, with aircraft used exclusively.

"I never saw anything like it," said one dealer of the transformation in methods. "The spread between fresh and frozen fish prices means everyone is concentrating on fresh fish to practical exclusion of land hauls and established fishing procedure".

Rawdon Church Report Shows Finances Sound

MARMORA, Jan. 25—(ENS)—The annual vestry meeting of St. Thomas Church, Rawdon, now under the pastoral care of the rector of Marmora was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Colden. Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie presided. Mrs. Ted Preston was appointed vestry clerk.

Harry Green, rector's warden, presented the stipend account and John Courtney, people's warden, gave the general fund report. Both showed funds to be in good shape with all obligations for 1950 met.

The missions report was given by Miss Edna Tanner showing that the apportionment had been fully remitted to Synod.

W.A. Report

Miss Tanner also gave the WA report. This also showed the meeting of the apportionment and also the cost of a bale being met with a balance left on hand.

John Courtney gave the cemetery report showing an increased balance on hand. At this point the rector extended congratulations on the good balances shown on all funds.

Rural Dean J. M. Brownlie appointed Harry Geen as his warden and John Courtney was re-elected people's warden. William J. Tanner was appointed lay delegate to Synod for three years.

Votes of thanks were accorded the wardens, the organist Miss Edna Tanner and the firemakers.

Rural Dean Brownlie was given a vote of thanks for the oversight given the congregation since his appointment.

In reply, he thanked all on behalf of himself and Mrs. Brownlie for kindnesses shown at Christmas time.

Following the meeting a social hour was spent and refreshments served.

Hundreds Forced To Flee Homes In Montreal Flood

LONGUEUIL, Que., Jan. 26 (CP).—Flood waters from the St. Lawrence River struck swiftly early today at this little south-shore city, drove several hundred persons from their homes and caused untold damage that will reach many thousands of dollars. Scores were rescued from their homes in rowboats. In some river-front places the water reached a depth of six feet or more. It was the worst flood suffered by the community, directly across the river from Montreal's east end, since the spring of 1945 when a spell of abnormally-hot weather caused a sudden break-up of river ice.

Today's flood was believed by Longueuil authorities to have been caused by a fast-forming ice jam a mile below the city.

The flood water swept almost a quarter mile up cross-town streets that dip down to the river and reached across St. Charles Street, the main thoroughfare, for more than 100 yards.

Whole Section Flooded

Practically the whole slice of the city bordering the river was flooded.

Huge cakes of ice—some three and four feet in diameter and a foot thick—were swept against houses and carried floating into the business section. There they were left piled helter-skelter as the water slowly receded.

The flood struck so quickly many families had only the briefest warning of the newest rampage of the St. Lawrence that almost every year either threatens or invades Longueuil.

Around midnight the river was making threatening gestures. The water crawled into the streets, hesitated and moved back. Several times this was repeated. Residents thought it was the usually tricky performance of the St. Lawrence.

Then at 1 a.m. the flood broke loose with a sweep. Some families seeing the water moving steadily up their streets were barely able to don clothes and escape, often wading through a few inches of the gradually-growing push from the river.

Siren Sounds Warning

Many waterside residents own rowboats, pulled up by their houses during the winter. The boats were launched quickly and the rescue work began as the town's fire siren wailed to warn the people.

Police Chief J. Brossard called out his entire force of 20, and police, firemen and street-maintenance workers spearheaded the rescue teams.

Some of those driven out in the 15-degree temperature were taken to the homes of relatives and friends. Others—between 60 and 70 — spent the night at the city hall and a dozen more at fire headquarters.

Increase Quota For Indians Entering Canada

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (CP)—Canada today agreed to relax immigration restrictions against India by throwing open her doors to 150 citizens of India each year for permanent residence in this country.

The agreement was reached in an exchange of notes, signed by Prime Minister St. Laurent and P. K. Banerjee, acting high commisioner for India. Today is India's national day.

Officials said similar arrangements now are being negotiated with the governments of Pakistan and Ceylon and if these negotiations bear fruit further announcements will be made soon.

The new immigration deal for India's people became effective Jan. 1 last.

Previously, under an order-in-council passed 21 years ago, citizens of India were barred from emigrating to Canada, with the exception of the husbands, wives and unmarried children under 21 of those who already are Canadian citizens.

The 150-a-year quota is in addition to those who can comply with these provisions.

Volcano Makes New Island

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea, Jan. 26 (Reuters).—A new island, apparently thrown up by a great underwater disturbance, has appeared in the coral sea 34 miles southwest of Mount Lamington, killer volcano that shows signs of new eruption.

All search patrols and rescue squads were withdrawn today from an area within 16 miles of the rumbling peak that killed at least 4,000 persons when it blew up last week.

An airliner pilot spotted the new-born atoll halfway between Port Moresby and Cairns on the coast of Queensland.

Experts said a second major eruption of Lamington would be felt over a wider area than the first. The dense jungle which absorbed some of the earlier shock has disappeared.

A mighty bubbling of steam and gas Thursday night sent emergency squads hurrying from the danger zone but they returned temporarily today to their task of burying the dead.

At Poendetta, main first aid base near the mountain, planes are standing by to whisk away the weary medical staff at the first sign of another major eruption.

Forbid Aussie Miners To Carry Out Strike

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 26.—(Reuters) — The Federal Coal Industry arbitrator today forbade miners to carry out their plan to strike one day a week and the government backed up the order by threatening to call a state of emergency in the event of a strike.

Invoking a state of emergency would empower police to arrest strikers and agitators not only in the coal industry but also on the waterfront and among railmen. Dockers and railmen have also voted for partial strikes by banning all overtime work.

Unions embracing all three groups are Communist-led, and the government has labelled their slow-down decisions the first steps in a highly-organized Communist plot to dislocate Australian industry.

Two Young Gunmen Grab $5,300 Payroll

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (CP)—Two youthful blonde gunmen snatched $5,300 from a fur company employee on downtown Richmond Street today.

Mischa Allen, 40, accountant for Reliable Furs and Dresses, told police he had come from a bank and was about to enter the firm's, Richmond Street office when the youths approached.

One jammed a gun in his stomach and the other grabbed a briefcase containing the money.

Allen got the licence number of the automobile in which the bandits fled. It was believed stolen.

May Appeal Board's Award

WINDSOR, Jan. 26 — (CP).—Mayor Arthur J. Reaume said today he is considering an appeal against the Ontorio Municipal Board's arbitration award of $24,945 to him for land expropriated by the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

The land, a 33¼-acre block bordering the Hydro Commission's steam generating plant, was expropriated by the Commission in 1949. Mayor Reaume, who bought the land in 1947 for $19,790, asked $40,000 for the property.

"Although it may appear otherwise on the face of it," the Mayor's statement said, "the award will not actually reimburse me for the investment which I made."

Truman Talk On China Reassuring

Will Condemn Reds But Won't Take Any Strong Action

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 — (AP). — Diplomatic officials expressed hope today that President Truman's latest policy statement on Communist China will reassure other countries about American aims in the Far East.

Although the president personally branded the Chinese Communists as aggressors, he also in effect ruled out any hasty punitive action against them.

"Obviously," Truman told his press conference Thursday, "this is no time for rash or unwise action. This is a time for clear thinking and firmness."

Britain particularly and the European allies of the United States generally have been apprehensive lest the U.S. take, or insist upon the United Nations taking steps against the Chinese Communists which would bring on a general war in the Far East.

Backed By People

Along with his note of caution, which administration officials said would apply to Americans favoring drastic measures against the Chinese Reds, Truman also sought to remove any doubt which might exist here or abroad about the firmness of American policy for branding the Communist Chinese as aggressors in Korea.

He said the views of the United States on this point "have the solid support of the executive, the Congress and the people.

"Each member of the United Nations must make its own decision on this issue," he said. "For my part, I believe in calling an aggressor an aggressor." But the question of "what can and should be done about the aggression in Korea of course must be discussed with all other friendly nations."

He pointed out that the American resolution now pending in the United Nations, while branding the Chinese Communists as aggressors, would leave the way open for further efforts to end the Korean fighting and reach a "peaceful settlement of outstanding issues."

The refrence to discussions with other countries on what may be done about the aggression in Korea is generally hoped to lessen British concern over the possibility of United States insistence that severe sanctions be used against Red China.

Earth Tremor Shakes Connecticut Valley

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 26—(AP).—An earth tremor shook the Connecticut river valley Thursday night, leading a number of alarmed people to call police and inquire whether there had been an explosion.

The jolt was felt in towns all along the river valley, from Old Lyme at the mouth of the river up to East Hartford adjoining this city.

It came shortly before 10:30 p.m. EST and lasted only for a brief period.

Europe Begins To Relax As Flu Epidemic Waning

LONDON, Jan. 26 (Reuters).—Europe, spared the deadlier British form of flu, breathed more freely today—its own mild epidemic is on the wane.

It claimed few deaths and never seriously worried the authorities though they fear a return of cold weather might bring new outbreaks.

But Britain's influenza wave showed no sign of improvement. Ministry of health promised a detailed statement tonight tracing the course of the epidemic and giving latest information about the number of deaths.

London, Bristol and other southern cities are among the worst affected. On Merseyside and Tyneside, where the outbreak began, the peak appeared to be past.

Reports from various capitals gave this picture:

Paris: Influenza was on the retreat in France, leaving behind a "small number" of dead.

Rome: Italian authorities recorded 500 mild cases. Some deaths were reported.

Brussels: Officials said the number of cases now was hardly above average for this time of year. The influenza wave was clearly decreasing, they added.

Geneva: No deaths reported in the past few days. Most present attacks appear to be mild.

The Hague: Health authorities reported influenza "spreading slowly northwards" but the epidemic in the Province of Zeeland was receding rapidly. Most cases are mild.

Stockholm: Hard, dry frost has ended Sweden's epidemic of mild, two-day flu. Earlier this month there were 15,000 cases a week. No deaths were reported.

Hamburg: The outbreak in Hamburg, worst hit city in West Germany, ended a week ago. The epidemic killed six persons and contributed to the death of 52 others.

THIS BRAILLE SWITCHBOARD, latest and most modern in Canada and the first to be used in Montreal, went into operation recently at the executive office and service centre of the Quebec Division of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The board has the usual plug set-up, with the addition of a horizontal board containing indicators numbered in Braille.

Report Gales Bringing End To Slides, Floods In B.C.

VANCOUVER, Jan. 26 (CP).—Moderate and welcome gales today were bringing an end to the flood-and-slide threat in British Columbia. Heavy rain which crumbled walls in the Fraser canyon and caused flooding in the lower Fraser Valley was retreating before the northwest winds. The unseasonal thaw appeared to be ended.

Repair men faced an arduous schedule, however. The Canadian National Railways' transcontinental line was still out, slashed by a slide near Hell's gate, 120 miles east of here. CNR trains were being rerouted over Canadian Pacific Railway tracks.

Drifting snow and slides blocked the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, which runs from Squamish, at the head of Howe Sound, to Quesnel, in the interior.

A rock slide in the southern interior blocked the CPR's Kettle Valley line in the Coquihalla Pass. Trains were re-routed north through the Fraser and Thompson canyons and then south through Merritt.

May Take Few Days

It was not known when service on all these routes would be restored. CNR officials said Thursday night it would likely be a "couple of days" before repairs could be completed in the canyon.

A number of families were evacuated Thursday from the Fraser valley communities of Hatzic and Haney when torrential rains washed up flood waters. All were planning to reoccupy their homes during the night.

"The worst is over," said a public works officer. "The waters are going down."

But dangerously-high rivers and lakes, goaded by heavy rains, were threatening a widespread rampage today on Vancouver Island.

The danger peak was expected to be reached at high tide today when additional water would be pressed inland.

Shawinigan Lake, which feeds the Cowichan river, yesterday rose to its highest level in 10 years and water cascaded down the Cowichan and Chemainus rivers at a terrific pace.

Five families fled from their homes at the north end of the lake, which is 28 miles north of Victoria.

The Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway agent at the lake said Thursday night that if the water rose another foot it would cover the track.

France Asks 11 Lands To Special Conference

PARIS, Jan. 26 — (AP) — France today invited 11 European countries to meet in Paris Feb. 4, to form a single European army out of their present and planned armed forces.

Caada and the United States have been invited to send observers.

The countries are the 10 European members of the Atlantic Pact plus the Western German Federal Republic, a Foreign Office spokesman said.

Traffic Deaths In Ontario 792

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (CP). — Traffic accidents in Ontario during 1950 took a toll of 792 lives and caused damage of more than $10,000,000 Highways Minister Doucett disclosed Thursday night.

Though traffic was the heaviest on record, there were fewer fatalities last year than in 1949 when 830 persons met death on provincial streets and roads.

The lower death rate was the only bright spot in an otherwise dark picture. When final figures are released they will show a marked increase in the number of accidents, persons injured and property damage loss, he indicated.

However, there were many more registered vehicles travelling on Ontario highways and they covered roughly 1,000,000,000 miles more than in 1949.

"Our present traffic volume which is still increasing rapidly has enormous potential killing power," Mr. Doucett told a press conference.

Final figures are expected to show a total of more than 34,000 accidents during the year and 15,000 injuries. Oddly enough, most of the accidents reported occurred during daylight.

Want To Split Social Studies

TORONTO, Jan. 26 — (CP).—Teachers here want a return to the teaching of history and geography as separate subjects.

Since 1937 they have been combined as "social studies" in the classes up to Grade 8. In High School they are usually taught separately.

The teachers, considering revision of the social studies course in Grades 7, 8, 9 and 10, took a vote on a proposal to split the course back into history and geography. Among the 250 teachers who voted, the separation plan was favored three to one.

Those who want the combined history-geography course say it can do much to develop good attitudes and a sense of responsibility. Those who oppose it claim that in the teaching of history and geography as one subject, important facts are neglected.

Cripps Improving

ZURICH, Switzerland, Jan. 26 (Reuters)—Sir Stafford Cripps, under treatment in a clinic here for atubercular infection of the spine, is "steadily improving," Lady Cripps said today.

UN Patrols 10 Miles From Seoul

Push 7 Miles Ahead Of Task Force After Taking Suwon

TOKYO, Jan. 25 (Reuters).—United Nations patrols tonight were reported to be within 10 miles of Seoul, South Korean capital. They pushed seven miles ahead of a UN task force which earlier recaptured Suwon.

Front-line reports said UN planes began using Suwon airstrip shortly afterwards.

They took and then went beyond Suwon, 17 air miles south of the burned-out South Korean capital, and Kumyangjang. Kumyangjang is 15 air miles southeast of Suwon. It was a "one-two punch" by battle-tested and renowned outfits. They found the streets of Suwon virtually deserted. The walled city was a head of smoking rubble.

There was no resistance inside the city. But the patrol aimed at Suwon had some trouble before it got there.

The patrol, inching through what once was strong Communist territory, ran into varying opposition two miles from the western front town. It was looking for the main Communist strength in that sector.

Pulling Back?

The United States 27th regimental combat team fought into and out of Suwon last week. But since then intelligence officers suspect the 90,000 Chinese Communists reported south of Seoul have pulled back.

AP correspondent Jim Becker on the western front reported the allied entry into the rubbled, walled town.

For 36 hours, all news of allied activity in the western part of Korea had been blacked out by the U.S. Eighth Army, but the curtain was lifted enough today to show that at least two U.N. patrols were working their way into the Red territory south of Seoul.

One patrol beat off a Red Chinese attack with bayonets. Tanks drove the Reds off a hill in another sector.

Will Decide Hockey Penalty

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 (CP). — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said today he will be in Boston on Saturday to deal with the match-penalty battle staged by Bill Ezinicki and Ted Lindsay.

The two wingmen—Ezinicki of Boston Bruins and Lindsay of the Detroit Red Wings — slugged it out in a bloody fight Thursday night during the game at Detroit which ended in a 3-3 tie.

The match penalty is the heaviest a referee can assess and last night's was the first in the NHL in two seasons. It calls for immediate suspension until the league president considers the case.

20% Reduction Announced In Tiny UK Meat Ration

LONDON, Jan. 26. — (AP). — The Government today announced a 20 per cent. cut in each Briton's tiny ration of fresh meat —from 10 pence (about 10½ cents) worth a week to eight pence worth.

Each person will continue to receive two pence worth of corned beef each week in addition to the fresh-meat allowance.

The new ration, effective Feb. 4, was announced in the House of Commons by Food Minister Maurice Webb. In British butcher shops, it will buy about six ounces of lamb chops, eight ounces of chopped beef, some 4½ ounces of beefsteak or nine ounces of roasting lamb.

The consumer is allowed, in addition, four ounces of bacon a week.

Webb blamed the belt-tightening move on Argentina's refusal to ship meat here at what the Labor Government considered a reasonable price. London and Buenos Aires has been haggling for months over a new meat contract to replace the one which expired last year.

Webb said the allotment of meat for manufacturing purposes—such as sausage and bologna—will be cut by one-third at the same time the individual ration is reduced.

Webb did not believe it would be necessary to drop the ration any lower this year, even if Argentina ships no meat here at all.

High goverment food subsidies make what little meat is available unbelievably cheap by North American standards, except for imported cooked ham which is not rationed, but is out of the reach of the average British wage earned. It costs and average of 9s 3d a pound.

Railways Running

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 26 (Reuters).—Argentine rail services returned to normal today after president Juan Peron had "mobilized" striker s under the national defense laws. Small detachments of soldiers guarded stations but almost all trains were running again for the first time in four days. Several thousand strikers dismissed during the three-day stoppage were reporting back to work tonight on a "conditional" basis — subject to confirmation after investigation of their part in the strike.

Korean Events Will Determine Canadian Aid

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—(CP)—The government goes into the Eisenhower talks today thinking broadly in terms of a 1951 manpower contribution to Europe of a 5,000-man army brigade and a wing of fighter aircraft plus arms.

Gen. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the Atlantic Powers in Europe, arrives this afternoon on the last lap of his fact-finding tour of European defence preparations.

Authoritative quarters said today no hard and fast decisions have been reached by cabinet on the Canadian contribution to Europe, but that Prime Minister St. Laurent and his ministers and chiefs of staff are prepared to discuss just what Canada has or will have available to help.

The contribution is expected to involve a further vote for arms beyond the present $300,000,000.

Informed sources said just what Canadian forces go to Europe may depend in large measure on developments in the United Nations and Korea within the next week. Defence Minister Claxton stressed the crucial importance of that week at Toronto Thursday.

It is expected that the talks here today will cut two ways. They will give cabinet an opinion of what Europe needs and thus help formulate Canadian decisions. And they will help Eisenhower to know what Canada has to offer for his talks with the pact organization's standing group, the key military body.

Communist stickers bearing anti-Eisenhower slogans appeared on downtown buildings today, a few hours before the general was due in the capital. Angry store keepers tore them off.

One blue and white sticker said: "Young Canada says to Eisenhower—no conscripts here for Yankee generals."

Report Whitby Girl Now Safe With Father

WHITBY, Jan. 26 (CP)—Object of a 100-man search when she disappeared on her way to school Jan. 18, a nine-year-old girl is safe with her father, it was learned today.

Mrs. Harry Hartwig said her daughter Norlene had written in a letter postmarked Bond Head, Ont., that she was with her father. The parents separated eight years ago.

Police called off the manhunt two days after the girl vanished. Although unaware of the father's whereabouts, they assumed she was with him.

Pearson Sets 48-Hr. Limit For Peiping

Proposal Real Test Of Sincerity Of Chinese Leaders

LAKE SUCCESS, NY, Jan. 26 (CP).—Canada today called for a seven-country conference within a week to be held here or at New Delhi to work out a quick cease-fire in Korea.

L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs minister, told the 60-member political committee of the UN that Communist China should be asked to reply—perhaps within 48 hours after a request is made —whether it would attend such a conference.

Pearson said his program would be a conclusive test of the real intentions of the Communist Chinese government in Peiping.

He proposed that the political committee give Communist China 48 hours to answer whether it would take part in the conference. He did not present a formal resolution, merely outlining his plan.

The Canadian plan differed from the Arab-Asian resolution in specifying that a cease-fire must precede any other discussion and in putting a time limit on negotiations. It also made plain that withdrawal of all non-Korean armed forces from Korea should include all Chinese.

Once a cease-fire is arranged, Pearson said, the seven-country conference could go on to consider a "peaceful solution of the Korean problems."

Consider Program

The leader of the Canadian delegation did not put forward a formal resolution but said the Dominion delegation believes the political committee would be wise to consider "a specific program for a negotiated settlement" in the light of recent messages from Peiping clarifying Communist China's stand on U.N. cease-fire proposals.

Pearson indicated that his interpretation of the paragraph of the U.S. resolution which calls for study of sanctions against Communist China, is that the major object of such study should be to reach a peaceful settlement with Communist China.

He said Canada reserves her position—indicating the Dominion may abstain—on the paragraph of the U.S. resolution which declares that Peiping has rejected "all" U.N. proposals to end the war in Korea.

"Canada has fought in the past to the limit of its military strength and resources, and we seek now a firm and honorable foundation for peace, to the limit of our political and diplomatic strength; without illusions about

Taft Suggests Leaving Korea

CHICAGO, Jan. 26 — (AP) — Senator Robert Taft (Rep., Ohio) told a press conference today he favors pulling American forces out of Korea if this country can't get backing from other members of the United Nations.

"If they're not going to back us up, I would favor withdrawing from Korea. We're there as a result of UN action, and if the UN doesn't back us up, I think we should pull out."

Taft said he is opposed to declaring war on Communist China but favors turning Chiang Kai-chek loose to carry the fight to the Chinese mainland.

Hits Mother-in-Law Jailed For 9 Years

TORONTO, Jan. 26 — (CP) — Lloyd V. Morgan, 30, today was sentenced to nine years in penitentiary for causing grievous bodily harm to his mother-in-law by striking her with a three-foot length of pipe.

Morgan was originally charged with attempting to murder the woman, Mrs. Pearl King-Parkes, of nearby Aurora. A jury reduced the charge.

Police quoted Morgan as saying he went to the woman's home the day of the attack to try to see his estranged wife and to "get revenge."

Hint A-Bombs For Use On Battlefield

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) —Is the United States stocking up enough atom bombs to be used as battlefield weapons instead of husbanded for use only on vitally-important target cities of an enemy?

There seems to be accumulating evidence pointing in that direction, although no one has announced any official figures regarding the top-secret size of the A-bomb stock pile.

This includes some new and interesting, if oblique, references by men who should be quite qualified as authorities—including President Truman and David Lilienthal, former chairman of the atomic energy commission.

Tucked away in the budget message the President sent to Congress earlier this month was a little line about "industrial-type production of weapons of the latest approved design." That gave a distinct impression that no longer is it necessary virtually to hand-make each atom bomb from an inadequate supply of raw materials.

Another Angle

Then there is Lilienthal's discussion in the current issue of a magazine about the national "fixation of the big A-bomb" with little interest in "any lesser or more-limited kind of warfare" than the mas destruction use of the weapon.

Lilienthal speaks of "the very real usefulness of atomic bombs so engineered that they could be used in the field for the function that artillery is now used, or by air drops in support of our own or against enemy troops, or to destroy particular military targets such as oil fields, marshalling yards and posts of entry and supply."

Then there was the reference last fall by Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, to the atomic bomb having "definite application as a tactical weapon supporting ground troops."

Actually, a considerable amount of detailed study already has been given to use of A-bombs on a battle front.

Draft Standards To Be Cut In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) —Draft standards will be cut to take in perhaps 150,000 men now barred for physical and mental reasons, a United States Defence Department official said Thursday.

Reporting this to Congress, Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defence, told reporters that draft boards might recheck all the 799,000 already rejected for these reasons.

Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem., Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee said he had heard reports $10,000-a-year athletes had been turned down. Mrs. Rosenberg said occupation was not the criterion in passing on a man's ability to serve.

Mrs. Rosenberg testified that physical requirements of selective service were down to Second World War standards, and that mental requirements were still higher but would be lowered.

Chapter News

MUNICIPAL CHAPTER

Municipal Chapter, IODE, met in the YWCA Green Room, Wednesday evening. Highlight of the meeting was a talk by Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser on "Women and the United Nations."

As an introduction, Miss June Fraser, film convener, presented the film "Searchlight on a Nation." Mrs. Fraser, who has attended United Nations meetings in New York was able to give the members an idea of the work being undertaken by this group, and a glimpse at the part women are playing in it. She spoke of Madame Pandit Nehru and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as two particularly outstanding personalities. Mrs. Fraser was thanked by Miss Mary Medd.

Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, regent, presided for the business meeting. Mrs. George Groombridge, post-war convener, reported that since November 36 food parcels, 176 knitted and sewn articles and 429 used clothing articles have been sent overseas. It was reported that the Provincial Chapter is sponsoring a pictorial art competition for persons between the ages of 16 and 25, with scholarship awards in the amounts of $150, $75, and $25. Entry forms are obtainable from Provincial Headquarters, Hamilton.

Mrs. Hall as general convener of the Queen Mary carpet display reported that close to $1,000 has been realized. She thanked all conveners and members who helped make this project a success.

Lunch was served by the Jeannette Scott Chapter members.

Prices Advancing On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 26 — (CP) — Prices continued to advance as the session progressed on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Following Thursday's decline they opened ahead and then climbed strongly.

Callinan Flin Flon, a zinc-copper-gold mine, was again a one stock show. The penny issue more than tripled yesterday's closing and jumped 58 cents to a new high at 85 cents. A big rise from its five-cent price last Thursday. Callinan was responsible for more than a third of the sales of all stocks on the board. Its volume for the first three hours was about 1,500,000 shares.

Industrials advanced with gains up to $1.

Western oils bounced back from Thursday's declines and climbed over a broad front.

Base metals advanced strongly. United Keno Hill, Sherritt Gordon, Quemont, Steep Rock, Labrador and Golden Manitou were leading issues ahead.

Senior golds added fractions. Junior producers were mixed with gains and losses limited to pennies.

Iran Gets Arms Gift

TEHRAN, Jan. 26—(AP)—The United States embassy announced Thursday the arrival of the first substantial military aid shipment for Iran—15 Sherman medium tanks and eighteen 175-millimetre Howitzers. There is a lack of enthusiasm in the press and among public officials over receipt of American weapons, although recently loud complaints had been voiced because Iran had not received aid comparable with Greece and Turkey.

Plan Furniture For Old Folks

LONDON.—(CP).— Furniture especially designed for old folks is envisaged here.

A welfare research group says in a report that more than 4,000 elderly persons are killed in or about their homes every year as a result of accidents. Thousands more are injured.

"These accidents can be curtailed by greater attention to the design of accommodation," said a research official. "Furniture and domestic equipment must be tailored to the needs of the old people."

The group will investigate suitable designs with a view to possible improvements.

the difficulties ahead and without weakening our defences, indeed while strengthening them, in the process," Pearson added. "There is nothing of what is called 'appeasement' in such a course."

Chinese Try Patience

"The response of the Peiping government to the attempts made so far has been enough to try the patience of us all," Parson said. "Nevertheless, we are ready to hold the door open for further negotiations, if the People's Republic of China gives us reason to believe these negotiations can be successful. They cannot do this, however, by issuing ultimatums which the United Nations cannot and will not accept."

In his 5,000-word statement, Pearson also announced Canada will support "as a whole" the U.S. resolution branding Communist China as an aggressor. He added, however, the Canadian delegation thinks that putting such a resolution at a time when possibilities of negotiation are "not completely exhausted," to be "premature and unwise."

But Canada would vote for the resolution as a whole because the main purpose of the resolution, as understood by Canada, "is to condemn the Chinese people's government for the assistance they have given the aggressors in Korea.

Too Vague

Pearson said he would not support the Arab-Asia proposal because it was too vague about a cease-fire as a condition to other negotiations.

At Thursday's meeting Sir Benegal N. Rau of India, chief spokesman for the Arab-Asian group, demanded priority for the seven-power conference proposal. He argued that a reported lull in hostilities on the Korean front should be seized as a peace-making opportunity.

He won immediate support from Britain's Sam Gladwyn Jebb.

Introducing his "specific program for a negotiated settlement, Pearson said such a program would "be a conclusive test of the real intention of the Chinese government in Peiping."

The program:

1. A conference should be convened at Lake Success or New Delhi "within a week, consisting of the U. S., Britain, France, Communist China, Russia, India and Egypt.

2. The first order of business of the conference should be to refer to a cease-fire committee the "responsibility for arranging an immediate cease-fire on the basis of the Jan. 11 cease-fire plan." This part of the work of the conference would be completed before other items on its agenda were considered. The cease-fire committee would consist of the U.S., Communist China and the members of the U.N. commission for Korea along with any other members the political committee wished to appoint.

Then Peaceful Solution

3. Once arrangements for a cease-fire were completed the conference should consider a peaceful solution of the Korean problems and then consider arrangements for the withdrawal from Korea of all non-Korean armed forces, including specifically all Chinese nationals and forces.

4. The conference would then discuss far-eastern problems. The first item would be Communist China's request for a "definite affirmation of the legitimate status" in the U.N. The conference itself would not decide whether Communist China should be in the U.N. but it could express its view on the subject. Pearson said there has been a trend in the U.N. before the Korean war to accept Communist China into the U.N.

5. In discussions of the conference on far-eastern problems any government specially concerned should be invited to attend.

6. "This recommendation should be transmitted by the political committee to the Central People's government at once, with an indication that a reply was required within a brief period, perhaps 48 hours after its receipt in Peiping, in order that the committee might know whether it would be possible to proceed with arrangements for convening the conference on the date proposed."

Canada had not accepted anything like "the prospect of inevitable war with Russia and the Dominion was still ready to accept genuine conciliation with members of the Soviet bloc but the western world could not close its eyes to Russia's part in the aggressive action of the North Koreans and the Chinese Communists and other acts.

"It is for these reasons, for purely defensive reasons, that we must remain on guard and not allow ourselves to be deliberately distracted into weakening skirmishes or open war with a country with which we have no basic grounds to quarrel."

Watery Brakes Win Dismissal For Taxi Driver

A charge of driving with inadequate brakes against Norris Dafoe, 547 George St., was dismissed in police court Thursday when it was learned his car had been pulled out of a water hole only a short time before an accident, and the brake lining might have been saturated with water.

The charge was laid following an accident in which Dafoe's taxi hit Thomas Parker, 212 London St., walking across Brock St. on George St. half an hour after midnight Jan. 4.

Mr. Parker said he remembered walking north on George St. and getting about three-quarters of the way across Brock St. The next he knew, he was in St. Joseph's Hospital. He said he was wearing a dark overcoat and a dark cap. He was in hospital 13 days with a head injury.

Emmett Moloney testified he saw Parker hit by the car. He was driving east on Brock St. About 100 feet from George St. he saw Parker walking across. He also saw the car, going north on George St. make a left turn into Brock St. When Parker was six or seven feet from the north curb, the taxi going about 15 miles an hour hit him from behind.

He said as soon as the taxi hit Parker, it stopped.

Traffic Officer Claire McGillen said the taxi was stopped about 16 feet from thes pot pointed out to him as the point where Parker was hit. When he arrived Parker was lying unconscious on the sidewalk. He said it was drizzling at the time of the accident and slightly foggy.

He said he tested the brakes and got no pressure at all on the brake pedal. He tried the brakes by driving south on Water St. about 20 to 25 miles an hour. He disengaged the clutch and put his foot on the brake opposite J. K. Hughes' garage. The car went on through Charlotte St. and finally came to a stop opposite the Peterborough Canoe Co. building.

He said the brakes were useless until pumped five or six times. He added that Dafoe had been drinking but was "a long ways from being drunk."

Sherman Graham, chief mechanic at Hughes' garage, said he tested the brakes. There were no brakes on the first pump. On the second pump of the pedal, there was a little braking pressure. On the fourth pump the brakes were fair.

Dafoe said he had driven the taxi all day on Jan. 3. He made about 50 calls and an estimated 300 or 400 stops and found no difficulty in stopping. He said his brakes were fair and a few minutes later described them as "very good."

About midnight he became stuck in a water hole on the track of the Exhibition grounds. He had a tow truck pull him out because his motor became wet and refused to start.

Off duty, he drove north up George St. and stopped twice without any trouble. Turning left into Brock St. he hit Parker. He said he didn't see the man until he hit him. He stopped his car quickly and got out to help the injured man.

The reason he gave that the brakes did not work later, was that the brake lining by that time might have become saturated with water and slipped on the brake drum.

Lorne Smith, operator of the Kawartha garage, who pulled Dafoe out of the water hole, said the brakes of his truck didn't grip when he arrived back at the service station although they were in good order when they dried out again.

Bevin Maintaining Slight Improvement

LONDON, Jan. 26 —(AP) — Foreign Secretary Bevin, ill with pneumonia, is maintaining the slight improvement shown yesterday, it was announced this morning.

The Foreign Office issued the report after the ailing Bevin's physician, Sir Alexander McCall, examined him early today. Last night's medical bulletin reported evidence that Bevin's congested lung was clearing. McCall later said Bevin spent a "rather restless night."

Thursday lighted up the Inchon harbor and silenced Red batteries on Wolmi Island, off Inchon.

Planes pounded the whole Seoul area.

A Busy Day

Air, in fact, had a heavy day, blasting 33 towns in the Seoul area and hammering at two huge enemy road convoys winding down through the mountains in the Kumchon-Kaesong sectors, north of Seoul.

The naval shelling of Inchon harbor was marked by the firing of shore batteries on the St. Paul from Wolmi, the island where the U.S. 1st Marine Division landed Sept. 15 to start the Seoul invasion.

A helicopter from the St. Paul later reported the Red batteries on the island were silenced by the guns of the cruiser and the Canadian destroyers Cayuga and Nootka, a part of the naval raiding force.

(The Cayuga and Nootka are part of the three-destroyer Canadian contribution to the U.N. fleet. The other vessel is the Athabaskan. The Nootka recently arrived in the Korean theatre, replacing the Sioux, which sailed for Canada a few weeks ago. A fourth Canadian destroyer, the Huron, sailed from Halifax Monday to replace the Cayuga, but is not expected to join the allied fleet for several weeks.)

Bayonet Fighting

The bayonet and hand-to-hand fighting took place in the vicinity of Suwon, 17 miles south of Seoul. After the doughboys drove off the attacking Reds, a Chinese bugle sounded a charge, but no charge came.

It was a wary, deadly game of hide-and-seek all along the front for ground troops. Western area intelligence officers Thursday expressed the opinion that the Red Chinese had made a large-scale withdrawal because of supply shortages, the cold weather or possibly for political reasons—hoping for a U.N. cease-fire order.

Must Promote Steadiness Editors Told

QUEBEC, Jan. 26 — (CP). — President D. B. Rogers told the Canadian Managing Editors' conference today the most pressing new challenge facing newspapers is the need to "promote steadiness and inspire fortitude."

Mr. Rogers, managing editor of the Leader-Post, Regina, Sask., addressing the opening session of the three-day conference, said newspapers have a "very great deal to do with promoting steadiness, or its opposite, encouraging confusion and hysteria."

"In these deadly dangerous days," said Mr. Rogers, "it is terribly important that we play fair with the multitude—that in catering to the many we do not mingle too freely with the mediocre and that we do not stoop to the level of the weak. In an era like the present mediocrity and weakness can lead only to doom."

Speaking briefly in French, Mr. Rogers said newspapers can contribute to the growth of understanding between English and French-speaking Canadians by presenting news and information accurately.

Schools of Journalism

First conference business was a discussion on schools of journalism and their graduates, conducted by Alex Givens of the Toronto Star. Speakers were George McCracken of the University of Western Ontario, London, and Wilfred Eggleston of Carleton College, Ottawa.

An afternoon discussion on handling of salacious and sordid crime news was conducted by John Gordon of the Wininpeg Tribune. Speakers were Robert Poulin of Le Petit Journal, Montreal, and R. W. Southam of the Ottawa Citizen.

Blair Fraser, Ottawa editor of Maclean's Magazine, gave a talk on events in Asia.

Tonight the managing editors will be dinner guests of the Quebec Government and will hear an address by Solicitor-General Antoine Rivard.

Former Mayor Of Cobourg Dies At 89

COBOURG, Jan. 26 (ENS) — The death occurred Thursday of Daniel Denton, former mayor and for many years a merchant of Cobourg. He was in his 89th year and until a short time ago had enjoyed good health and was very active. Mr. Denton was born in England but came to Canada when he was 18, first taking up residence in Toronto where he married Louisa Thompson who died last year, and then moving to Cobourg in 1885.

When Mr. Denton came to Cobourg it was as a florist in the private greenhouse of Judge J. D. Armour, later Chief Justice Armour. In 1889 he bought the seed business of the late J. D. Roberts, later going into the florist trade too. He operated this business for many years, finally selling out to his son, Harold, in 1937. After he sold out he continued to put in several hours each day at the greenhouse in order to keep busy.

Mr. Denton was for ten years in municipal life, during the period of 1910 to 1920 and served as mayor in 1919 and 1920. For 25 years he was a warden in St. Peter's Church and was also a past master of the Masons and Oddfellows. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. George Taylor (Mae) and Miss Agnes Denton, both of Cobourg, and two sons, Harold of Cobourg and Dr. George Denton of West Hartford. The funeral will be on Saturday from St. Peter's Church with interment in St. Peter's Anglican cemetery.

DANIEL DENTON

MRS. JEANETTE WILSON, the lady superintendent of a pulp and paper mill, the only woman in Canada to hold such a job, is demonstrating that this is not the exclusive domain of brawny males in the Paul Bunyan tradition. The mill, located on the outskirts of Thorold, Ont., on the Niagara peninsula, is the smallest wood pulp mill in the dominion. She is the lone woman delegate among the 1,500 male representatives from all parts of Canada attending the 27th annual meeting of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association in Montreal.

Horse, Truck Collide, Horse Wins

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 26 — (ENS)—An accident involving a milk wagon and the local garbage truck early Thursday morning resulted in considerable damage to the truck, while the horse which was drawing the milk wagon escaped almost uninjured. The two vehicles met almost head-on in the early morning light on Kent Street.

James Parcels, driver of the garbage truck, claimed he did not see the horse and wagon, until he struck it. He was driving along the edge of the road on his early morning pick-up.

The horse reared up on its hind legs when it saw the truck approaching, and received the impact on the chest. The horse was knocked out by the blow, but was able to regain its feet shortly afterward. Charles Shaw, who was driving the wagon at the time, was knocked into the back of the vehicle amid cases of milk bottles, and outside of a shaking up, escaped uninjured.

The accident happened about 6:45 a.m. The truck was damaged considerably, the shafts of the wagon being driven through the front of the truck by the impact. The radiator, hood and fenders of the vehicle were extensively damaged.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy investigated.

Hobby Painters Have Good Show

TORONTO —(CP)— Persons who paint during weekends and other spare hours as a hobby and pastime had their hour of glory when an exhibition of their work was staged at a downtown art gallery.

Fourteen "weekend painters," each representing a different profession, contributed five paintings apiece.

Art critic Pearl McCarthy of the Toronto Globe and Mail called it "an extremely interesting show." She wrote that poet Robert Finch turned out painting that was "calmly analytical and precise," while some of the scientists showed canvasses suggesting that they are "romantically inclined."

The painters who exhibited in addition to Prof. Finch, were: Dr. Gordon Pearson, dentist; Colin Sabiston, journalist; Judge Frank Denton; Dr. Harvey Agnew, physician; D. I. McLeod, finance; F. Bruce Brown, architect; F. Erichson Brown, barrister; Alberto Guerrero, musician; D. C. McArthur, radio executive; Dr. Charles H. Best, physiologist; Prof. Edmund Walker, zoologist; and Dr. H. A. Clowes, research surgeon.

MAIN ELEMENTS

Ancient chemists recognized only four elements—fire, air, water and earth—of which all others were thought to be mixtures.

A Thought For Britain

The British Parliament is back at work again this week, and it faces a cheerless prospect. There has been no progress in the attempts to make an agreement on meat supplies with the Argentine, and the British ration of meat remains at eleven cents worth for each person, per week. Coal production has not come up to expectation, which makes heat and electricity scarcer than ever. The importation of food is more costly than ever, and the cost of importing raw materials for manufacture is the highest it has ever been. The British people are still paying a basic Income Tax of 45 per cent., the highest in the world. Britain has an epidemic of influenza. Britain has inflation. Under these circumstances which of us cannot spare a kindly thought for this overburdened and courageous country?

* * *

These domestic burdens are complicated by the necessity to spend more on defence. Britain has decided to raise her army to twenty-two divisions; she has troops serving in nineteen different parts of the world at present, including Korea. She has raised her period of compulsory military service from eighteen months to two years. She is keeping up her military obligations at a time when the economic improvement which 1950 had brought in sight is fading from her view.

* * *

This hard-set country was, fifty years ago, the greatest of world powers. Britain is still a great power, though not the greatest. But her present greatness rests not on wealth or irresistible might of arms, but simply upon the determination of her people to win that most inglorious and difficult of all conflicts, an economic battle.

Belated Departmental Report

There came to hand last week direct from the King's Printer for Ontario, the annual report of the Department of Lands and Forests, of which the Honourable Harold Scott is Minister. It is a well-printed, illustrated report, but before we take time to examine it properly, we want to remark on the lateness of its appearance. This report covers the period from April 1st, 1948 to March 31st, 1949, a period of history now, two years ago. Yet the report of 183 pages is available to the public only in January 1951. Why?

It seems that the King's Printer for Ontario is to blame, more than the Department of Lands and Forests. This report was tabled in the Legislative Assembly in February, complete in typewritten form. That was ten months after the events it records, but it had to wait legislative sanction before printing. The printing itself was apparently not completed, and certainly not distributed, until this month, eleven months after it was tabled, 21 months after the events it records. Why is the official Ontario government printing office so slow? If the report is valuable enough to print, it is valuable enough to print while the statisitcs and statements in it are valid and of timely use.

There Is A Difference

A few weeks ago we commented on a report which had arrived from South Africa that there had been a great increase in the number of rapes committed by Negroes upon white women during the past few years. We said that such offences were to be expected in a country which had increased its severity toward the black population. Rape is a type of crime which is aggravated by racial injustice.

A new despatch from Johannesburg seems to bear out our assertions. A Mr. Justice C. A. Malan has complained of the "alarming proportions" which rape is assuming; he made his remarks when he sentenced a young Negro to death for the rape of a white woman. In 1950 there were 14 cases of this kind.

Now let us look at the other side of the picture. There are also many cases of rape of Negro women by white men. The report says that courts take these offences seriously "when such cases come to trial." But they do not always—or often—come to trial. It is not easy for a Negro to seek redress in law against a white man.

What happens when such a case does come to court? Recently a white man who had raped a Negro girl was sentenced to three and a half years in prison.

Three and a half years is not a light sentence. But it is not the sentence of death. When Negroes are convicted of rape, they are sentenced to death. There is a difference.

A Good Palate Is Needed

The hotel keepers of Ontario held a convention recently, and they were urged to pay more attention to details if they hoped to draw tourists and make them happy. It was suggested, for instance, that they take more pains in making good coffee.

And how is that to be done? If we may be permitted to offer a suggestion, we think that every hotel which hopes to give good service should see that it has at least one good palate on its payroll. If that palate belongs to the proprietor or his wife, all the better. But there ought to be somebody around every hotel whose job it is to test the food, as part of his job, every day.

It is easy to get used to bad food. It is easy to think that food which is made according to a tested formula must always be good. It is easy to think that visitors who do not like a hotel's food are cranks. But fine food is produced by good cooks and great vigilance, and not by making excuses.

Not everybody has a good palate and a knowledge of how food should taste. Nobody who smokes or drinks too much has a good palate, and nobody who eats many candies or drinks many soft drinks can aspire to one. A good palate cannot be debauched with nicotine, alcohol or sugar. It is a maxim of French cookery that women, upon the whole, have not such keen or trustworthy palates as men. And very few people over sixty have first-rate palates, for increasing age dulls the taste.

A hotel which hopes to serve first-class food must have somebody whose job it is to keep up the standard. He must taste, taste, taste, all day long. He must say when the coffee is too weak or too strong. He must say when there is enough seasoning, or sugar, in every dish. He must condemn desserts which are merely sweet (our national weakness is for too much sugar); he must call a halt when cheap materials begin to make the food taste cheap.

There must be, in Canada, hundreds of hotels and restaurants in which nobody connected with the management has a palate. But without that guide there can be no first-rate food.

The Queen Of Battle

Senator Paul Douglas of the U.S.A. made the observation last week to his Senate that "Infantry and artillery are still needed, as Korea has shown, and all the scientific push buttons and military gadgets have not made them obsolete." Wars are still won by men on the ground. The last war proved it, in north-west Europe and in Italy.

In Italy many attempts were made to take Cassino, the monastery town and hill. The place was bombed to smithereens. Tanks tried to take it. The U.S. air force repeatedly bombed, but from the debris out came German infantrymen and their small arms. American attacks with supporting infantry who expected to ride in on the backs of tanks following terrific artillery barrages failed. After four months of mechanized effort, Cassino fell to Polish infantrymen making a full infantry attack.

So the role of infantry is still being played. Three days before Cassino was captured the neighbouring town of Pignataro "fell to a twilight charge of Pathan frontiersmen supported by tanks of the Calgary regiment," so Colonel C. P. Stacey relates in his one-volume story of the Canadian Army overseas. Whether it is Canadian infantry or Indian infantry or Chinese infantry, it is the infantry who take and hold the ground; not a tank, or a plane or an A-bomb. The Americans are re-learning the principle of war that the infantry is the Queen of Battle. They can bomb with the fury of hell, but it is the infantryman behind a blade of grass or in an ill-fitting slit-trench who spells victory or defeat.

When the British Eighth Army was secretly massing for its attack on the Gustav and Hitler lines in May, 1944, the attack which led to the capture of Rome, the whole army, its supplies, its supporting aircraft, its field hospitals, its big guns, its transport, its artillery, its signals, its tanks, were assembled along Route 6. Then, at the last moment the infantry were brought forward, past all this display of the army's might in front of which the infantry would fight. All waited on the foot-soldier. All was poised for him. At dawn the next day the great attack began.

It is significant that the only Canadian regiment now in Korea is the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry (P.P.C.L.I.). Famed in two wars, it is carrying into battle now the Canadian reputation. This regiment which bore much of the brunt of the attack on the Hitler Line in May, 1940, stands for Canada in Korea. P.P.C.L.I. is infantry, the Queen of Battle. Canadian infantry has always been prized. In the P.P.C.L.I. Canada is giving the United Nations of her best.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Controller Innes says that Toronto's city hall is infested with rats. Is that a statement of sober fact, or is he just being provocative?

An English paper says that African big game hunting is now open to the middle class. Thanks, but speaking as a member of the middle class, we are happy to leave it to the upper class. We have nothing against tigers that a crisply worded editorial won't fix.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

DEAR ALPHA: A couple of weeks ago or so an enquiry was made about the cut stone used in St. Joseph's Church, Douro.

The stone was taken from the quarry at Quarry Lake, on the Indian River, just above Warsaw. The church was built, I believe, about 1892, Rev. Father Keilty then being parish priest. The stone was hauled some six or seven miles, mainly by sleighs, parishioners with teams giving their services. Stone from the same quarry was used, I believe, for the C.P.R. bridge at Peterborough and other structures.

About 1899 the quarry was the scene of a tragic accident. "Buffalo Jim" Kidd, a member of Dummer's large Kidd family, was working alone striving to load a large stone when his pee-vee slipped and he was crushed fatally. His body was found by a boy, Roland Calder, who lived nearby. Visitors in recent years to the beautiful little lake, with its environment of stratified limestone, have been moved to indignation over the defiling of the quarry area.

RESPONSE: Thanks to my Toronto reader for this information.

DEAR ALPHA: What about Original Sin? What is it? What's the shame of it?

ANSWER: Your last question presupposes you know something about the answer to your second question. And the first question, I guess, rose out of an Examiner editorial which had that heading: 'What About Original Sin?'. Well, it's a big question, one of the biggest and that is partly the reason I have delayed three weeks before trying to answer it.

The Examiner seems to have used the phrase for exactly the same reason that the ancients did in referring to Adam and Eve. The phrase "Original Sin" is a catch-all, an ambiguity. To fall back on it is as an explanation of the misdeeds of men is to fall back on no explanation at all, or an explanation either too specific to be believable, or too general to be useful. But it is comforting to have some generality, as all the sons of Eve have found out.

Original sin, specifically, refers to the time the snake tempted Eve to eat the apple from the tree which God said she should not eat. Eve ate, and immediately began to know both good and evil. She gave a bite to Adam. He ate, and knew both good and evil. And they both realized for the first time that they were naked. God said to them: "Who told thee that thou was naked? Has thou eaten of the tree where of I commanded thee that thou shouldest not eat?"

I have always thought God was rather unfair about this. If God is all-knowing, he knew without asking that Adam and Eve had eaten the apple off the tree of knowledge, and he was just nagging the poor creatures, who were then running around the garden of Eden trembling without any clothes on, and probably blushing too.

THE SHORTER CATECHISM asks (Question 18): "Wherein consists the sinfulness of that estate whereinto man fell?" and answers: "The sinfulness of that estate whereinto man fell, consists in the guilt of Adam's first sin, the want of original righteousness, and the corruption of his whole nature, which is commonly called Original Sin; together with all actual transgressions which proceed from it." The Shorter Catechism is a book version of questions and answers for little Presbyterians; a supposedly simple version of the Westminster Confession of Faith, which is the catechism for big Presbyterians. But I confess the answer to Question 18, on original sin, is beyond the capacities of this adult to understand.

The proposition that there is such a thing as sin is very important in human history; the theory of Original Sin is very profound. The idea seems to be that knowledge is at the root of sin. Animals know nothing, so they cannot sin. It is the ability to understand, to know things, which is a chief distinction between men and animals, but in order to know things, man (in Adam and Eve) sinned. Therefore (a) all knowledge is evil (b) man is man only because he is a sinner.

I could go on like this for hours; sin is a fascinating study, both theoretically and practically....Jeremiah says: "Every man is brutish in his knowledge."

By the way, and apropos of logic, how can God be both perfect and all-powerful? If he is perfect he is denied the power to make himself more perfect.

The reason children cannot understand much or anything about sin (until it is foisted on them by their elders and betters in their attempts to transform them from animals into civilized beings, and they learn to feel it—or to feel ashamed—by the reproaches they hear from their elders) is that their knowledge is small; they are in a state of innocence like animals who have no knowledge. The theory that children are born in sin and carry sin in their loins may be due to the fact that they are born to become knowledgeable people, if they have any human wits at all.

Sin, by the way, is one of the most useful propositions of theology. Nietzche went so far as to say in 1888 that "'Sins' are indispensable to every society organized on an ecclesiastical basis; they are the only reliable weapons of power; the priest lives upon sins; it is necessary to him that there be 'sinning.'"

One of the better statements about sin comes from St. Augustine: "We sin from two causes: either from not seeing what we ought to do, or from not doing what we see ought to be done."

ALPHA: Who orders an inquest into sudden or somewhat mysterious death?

ANSWER: The Crown Attorney, not the coroner.

✧ ✧ ✧

A DRUGGEST told me the other day that he remembered seeing, in the middle of the quiet night, rabbits scampering across the corner of Charlotte and George Streets. He said that was only 25 years ago, when the monument works was at the south-west corner and there was a livery stable behind. Other people have told me about seeing peacocks strutting on the lawns of the stately homes of Peterborough and of horses tethered on the grounds of St. John's church during services. I wish more readers would come forward with these impressions of the town. They are part of its colour and should be recorded. So if kind readers have such memories, please communicate them to Alpha. For instance, I wish somebody would tell me about the toboggan slide at Jackson Park, to which the trams used to run.

✧ ✧ ✧

TWICE FOR THE RECORD: Alpha had a "For the Record" note a couple of Fridays ago about Ashburnham's progress from taverns to churches. Unfortunately a whole line of typescript was dropped, so what was intended to be a pert remark came out merely incomprehensible. Here's what it should have been: In 1870 Ashburnham had two hotels, two taverns, one brewery and no churches. Now it has no hotels, no taverns, no brewery and three churches. In this civilizing process it has acquired the name of East City.

THREATENING OR ASKING FOR A PAT?

Letters To The Editor

DEFENDS AMBULANCE SIRENS

Sir: Re your editorial in Saturday's paper (January 20th) headed "Sirens On Ambulances".

May I personally apologize for having caused the cold chills in your spine which must have awakened some of the Examiner staff on Friday afternoon when I went by in the ambulance whose siren you undoubtedly were criticizing.

Without a doubt the writer of the "Sirens on Ambulances" has never seen people in great pain or gasping for oxygen, or whatever else may be their trouble when the ambulance picks them up. Nor has he (or she) ever driven an ambulance with a dying person on the stretcher at which times speed may mean 'saving a life'.

Of all the assinine things I have ever heard of, your suggestion of putting chimes that sounded out "See Him Smiling" on an ambulance—in place of a siren, was the worst. Does it not occur to you that even the siren, which is one of the most efective means of drowning out other sounds and ringing through to the human ear a block or two away, still does not make too many drivers pull over to the side of the street to let us go by. Also, that is why you very often hear a siren open full blast when the ambulance is moving at a moderate speed—waiting for people to pull over so they can get through, nine times out of ten trying to save a life.

The answer to your siren chills is not to be found in the suggestion you make but rather a spot in your paper telling the driving public that when they see a red blinking light on an ambulance to please pull over and save the driver having to wake up people such as you by using the siren.

Now, for the editor's information, I would like to express my sincere sympathy to the family of the patient who was in that ambulance at the time your critcism was hastily written—perhaps had she been admitted to any oxygen tent a few minutes sooner she might have gained consciousness.

Respectfully,
J. J. MACDONALD.

ONLY THE WISHBONE SURVIVES

Sir: I had read the article "How Far, Sir?" in "Time" just before the Saturday issue of the Examiner arrived and I was pleased to note your comment on the slant and cant of some of Times writing, in your Editorial, "As The U.S. Sees Us."

When the so-called, Free World, mobilized during World War One for the avowed purpose of destroying militarism and to make the world safe for Democracy I wasn't fooled to the point of approving the means employed to accomplish such a worthy job by the writing of anyone. In the meantime I have seen Democracy come back from the front after two wars as a "Basket Case" morally, with only its wish-bone intact—a victim of its own booby-trap; while militarism grew more bold and boisterous, and dictatorships multiplied, flush and furious.

Militarism and Politics are not strange bedfellows and, serving them, the regimented intellect of a cockeyed economics is clearly outside the bounds of reason, and still straining at its tether trying to sniff and drag in other stinking bones-of-contention to amuse and confuse humanity and prevent it from expressing any desire for a decent deal.

The "Land Question" has been an important economic problem, or theme, for the dictator and the imperialist alike, yet Christian and Communist seem to have in mind about the same method for its solution: turning every acre of land into a real or potential battlefield, with bomber squadrons in the air above, and battle fleets in the offing. A modern Themistocles at the helm on the Ship of State.

Yours truly,
W. H. ROSEBUSH.

Confusion Confounded

(Answers, London)

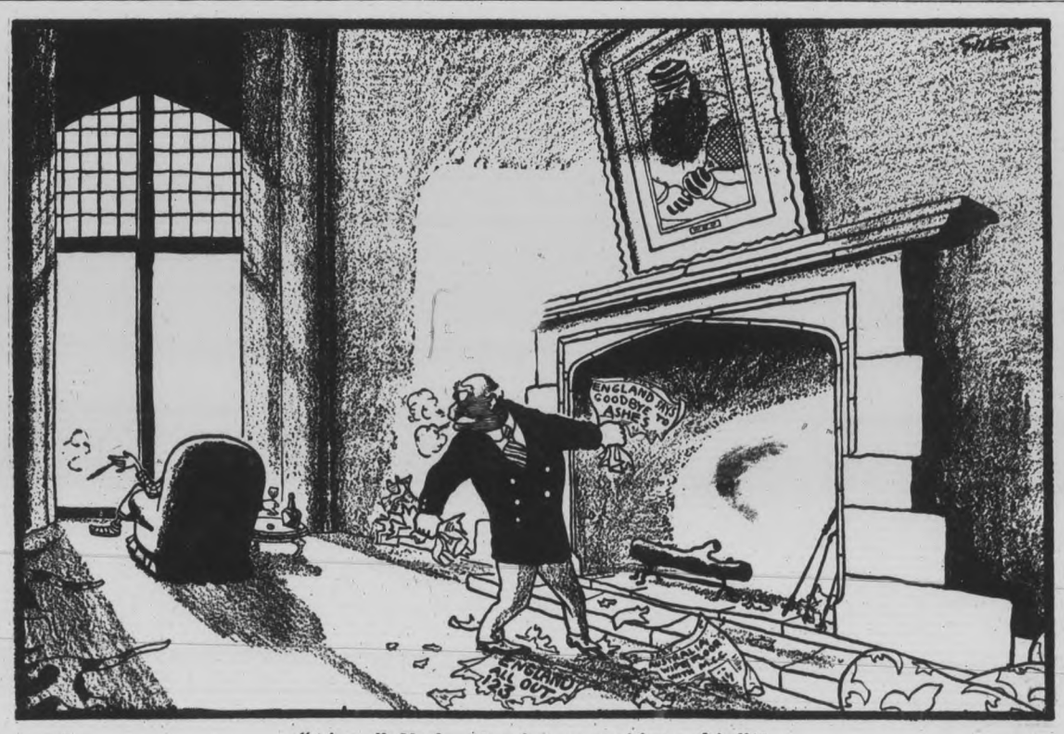
In the art of verbal blundering, the palm must go to Sir Boyle Roche, handsome, suave politician who was a member of the Irish Parliament from 1777 to 1801. He may even have been the first of whom it was said that he could never open his mouth without putting his foot into it.

If he were alive today he would probably deny at least half the sayings attributed to him. He might even use the words of the famous retort he once rapped out in the old Irish House of Commons: "Mr. Speaker, half the lies our opponents tell about us are not true."

"A man could not be in two places at the one time unless he were a bird," is one of his most frequently quoted sayings, as is "Single misfortunes never come alone, and the greatest of all national calamities is generally followed by a greater." And this one: "Why should we beggar ourselves for posterity? After all, what has posterity ever done for us?"

Another time he declared that he would never be satisfied until the "rocky mountains of Ireland became cultivated valleys". It was Sir Boyle who created the famous: "I smell a rat; I see him floating in the air; I will nip him in the bud."

Speaking on the union of Great Britain and Ireland, he declaimed: "Anyone who wishes to diminish the brotherly affection of these two sister countries is an enemy of both fatherlands."



On more than one occasion he declared, "I answer in the affirmative with an emphatic 'No'." And hear this solemn warning to his constituents: "All along the untrodden pathways of the future I see the footprints of an unseen hand."

Just Tory?

(Brantford Expositor)

This newspaper has often argued that to call Conservatives Progressive Conservatives is tautology. In real conservatism progress is implicit. And all newspapers, regardless of their political stripe, and most emphatically all newspaper editors whose job it is to write headlines, have practical and justifiable cause to deplore and detest any handle with 23 letters in it.

To be blunt in the matter, even "Conservative" is clumsy, typographically and, for some, in meaning. What is the matter with Tory? If such eminent Conservatives as Winston Churchill do not disdain it, why should the rank and file?

"After all, Uncle—it's only a game of bat and ball."

Betty Grable Prepares For Second War

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 26 (AP)—A few pounds heavier but still as well-proportioned as ever, pin-up queen Betty Grable is gearing for her second war.

Betty's pictures were posted in more barracks and ship lockers than those of any other film star during the Second World War. Today she remains top gal in the pin-up parade, as evidenced by a recent poll of a national magazine.

Betty is ready to take care of the new demands of mobilization. She maintains a fan service of her own, headed by her mother, who keeps two secretaries busy answering the mail and dispatching pin-up pictures.

This service is a large expense, even though it's tax deductible.

But the outlay has paid off for Betty's career. She is still the No. 1 girl at the country's box-offices.

"I haven't had any bathing suit pictures taken in some time," she admitted. "I guess I'll have to take care of that soon."

Most Noted Photo

But no matter what the new pose, it is doubtful if she (or any other glamor girl) will top her most noted photograph—the rear shot of her looking over her shoulder. It is still the most popular of her photos; her studio estimates 2,500,000 copies have been dispatched to mooning males.

Posing comes easy to Betty, who has been doing it for lo these many years. I asked if she had any secrets and she replied: "Not that I can think of—all I do is hold in my stomach."

Now in the middle of "Meet Me After the Show," she has been working steadily for 13 months. That's no fun for a gal who likes to follow her string of race horses and play with her two kids.

TWO CHILDREN, a three-year-old boy and a nine-month-old girl, died recently in their one-storey frame house in the north end of Montreal while their mother, Mrs. Robert Desjardins, was next door having a cup of tea with a neighbor. Frantic efforts by the mother to rescue the children proved fruitless although Mrs. Desjardins brought the dead body of her son from the flaming building. She suffered multiple cuts and burns in the rescue attempt. The above photo shows a tiny stream of water being poured on the smouldering ruins of the Desjardins home.

B.C. Hop Output 9,000 Bales Year

VANCOUVER — (CP) — British Columbia's Fraser Valley now produces enough hops to supply 55 per cent of Canada's brewery needs, Clinton L. Jennings of New York, vice-president of Canadian Hop Growers Limited, said during a visit here.

He said that BC produces about 9,000 bales of hops yearly. Ontario produces several hundred bales of hops a year. Remainder is imported from the United States.

The Company operates a 447-acre field at Sumas, 60 miles southeast of Vancouver, said to be the third largest individual hop farm in the world. This farm has grown 3,000 bales in one year.

Picking has been partly mechanized. A machine, something like a cotton gin and operated by 18 men, is used. Mr. Jennings says this does the work of about 1,200 pickers.

Air Jubilee

STOCKHOLM — (CP) — The Swedish air force this year is observing its 25th anniversary. Started with a small number of French and German planes in 1926, it now has at least 1,000 modern planes, mostly purchased from Britain and the United States.

Takes New Church

REGINA, Jan. 26 (CP).—The Rev. Ian G. Hind, has resigned as minister of Cameron Memorial Baptist Church here to accept the pastorage of First Baptist Church, Goderich, Ont. Mr. Hind will also attend McMaster University Divinity School at Hamilton to complete his training for the degree of Bachelor of Divinity.

To Discuss Status

HAMILTON, Jan. 26 (CP) — Board of control Thursday decided to meet with health department dentists Monday to settle their employment status. The denists served notice they would stage an indefinite walk-out Feb. 1 if quick settlement was not made.

St. Pete's Use Aptitude Tests In Cage

Aptitude tests have crept into Peterborough's sporting world. The senior cage team from St. Peter's High which will represent the school in the Ontario Catholic Athletic Conference this year, has been chosen from the results of an American basketball test.

Coach Fred Allore learned this method of selecting a team while at Colby College in Maine during the summer. The one test is composed of six small tests which the player for perfect marks has to complete satisfactorily in 77 seconds. The work the player must do includes 10 lay-up shots, wall bounce 15 times, penny cup for co-ordination, dribble maze, stop and pivot, and finally dribble shot test.

John Jones completed the test in 81.2 seconds and after considerable calculation led the class with 94.82 per cent. All the players on the team must have at least 75 per cent.

In Cage Play

This is the first time that the OCAC has undertaken basketball since it was formed last year. During the fall the schools, De LaSalle of Toronto, St. Michael's of Toronto, St. Jerome's of Kitchener and St. Peter's, had two football leagues of "A" and "B" senior teams. St. Peter's chose the "B" calibre of football.

Coach Fred Allore has as centres, Frank Farley, Tom Cavanagh and Jack Richardson and as forwards, John Jones, Doug Galvin, Harry O'Neill, Fred Legros, John Armstrong and Bob Fitzgerald. Derek Holme, John Cupoli, Terry O'Leary and Claire Crowley will fill the guard positions.

St. Peter's have two games away before they meet St. Michael's at the PCVS gym on February 14. On February 2, SPS will open the league in Kitchener against St. Jerome's College, probably the strongest team in the league, and on February 9 will meet De LeSalle in Toronto.

February 16 will see St. Peter's again away to Toronto to play the St. Mike's cagers. They will finish the schedule at home with games against De LaSalle on February 26 and St. Jerome's on February 28.

Whip And Eric To Settle Issue

It just had to happen! A rematch between Whipper Billy Watson and Yukon Eric. At the insistence of mat fans and a hefty cash guarantee, the British Empire Champion and the huge Alaskan Lumberjack will hook up in the main event at the Brock Arena next Tuesday night.

With an unsatisfactory draw in this week's match the Whip demanded another chance to prove his superiority over Eric. He says he will make no mistakes next Tuesday and he has Eric's number. Most fans are of the same opinion.

Eric admits Whipper is the toughest opponent he has met, but figures he can subdue him with his tremendous strength. He claims the champ will get very few openings to trap him with his speed and ring knowledge.

Earl McCready, always a great favorite here, will make his first appearance in over a year, taking on tough Abe Zvonkin in the semi-final.

Popular George Scott meets Jack Wentworth in the opener. A nifty card.

King Edward Wins

King Edward nosed out a 3-2 school hockey win over Prince of Wales in a fine game between well-matched teams. Jim Murphy scored two for the winners, with Alex Beggs—who looked good throughout, also—getting the other marker. Lester, Scarfe and Ken Hawthorne tallied for the other side in nice efforts. Teams:

Prince of Wales: Scarfe, Johnston, Hawthorne, Ashby, Coombs, Peel, Huffman, Smillie, Francis, Johnson, Jay, Aulbrook, Douglas.

King Edward: H. Meredith, Stevens, Rowe, Beggs, Murphy, Collins, Byers, Hutchison, Rowes, Park, R. Meredith, Riel.

Ford And Arnott Deny Argo Contract

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 26 (CP).—Bill Ford and George Arnott, two members of last year's University of Western Ontario football team, Thursday night denied reports from Toronto that they had signed with Toronto Argos of the Big Four.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Two girls' city league basketball games go tonight in the YWCA, starting at eight chimes. They're into the second half of their schedule now and hustling along. Four men's melees on the morrow after supper. At the Collegiate, it's St. Peter's and the senior "B" PCI-ers first, followed by an exhibition between Toronto Eaton's and the senior "A" PCVS pack. Over at the YMCA, Cobourg Legion meets the intermediate "B" Lakeshore League Marines, and this one is followed by an exhibition between Toronto East Yorks and the intermediate "A" Clapper Bruins. Good hoop play likely.

Bunny Morganson writes in the Tely: "Senior clubs of the Ontario Lacrosse Association are meeting early next month for a pre-season briefing. There has been a rift between Owen Sound Crescent players and management over disbursement of last year's funds. Already Jack Mason has moved to Peterborough for future lacrosse action. Brampton Excelsiors are scouting Wallaceburg, Huntsville and Peterborough for solid checking defence players. The OLA annual meeting has been set for Saturday, April 14." The Petes' officers haven't been idle and will issue some real good news in the near future.

Junior Puckists Tonight

But this is hockey weahter, and an OHA junior "B" joust is on tap tonight in Civic Arena at 8.30. It brings together the scrappy Oshawa Bees and the speedy local Oddfellows. The race is plenty heated and close with all teams, except Port Hope, right up there is a bunch around the top. Just a game or two difference among the four stronger squads, Belleville, IOOF, Lindsay and Oshawa. Bun Kingdon's crew will be stepping fast this e'en in an effort to push Oshawa back and improve their own standing, but the Bees don't push too easily. A swell fray assured and it ought to draw a fine Friday night crowd.

* * * * * *

Up to Wednesday, the official junior standing had Lindsay atop with 23 points, one more than Belleville and two more than IOOF, Oshawa coming up fast with 18, while Port Hope only have four. Fred Maybee has compiled the Links' scoring marks for 18 games this way: Wyatt 30 points, West 26, Morrow 17, B. Robinson 16, Buckton 14, Doris and Douglas 13, Stewart and Armstrong 8, G. Robinson 7, Clapper and Wasson 5, Floyd 4, Shearer 3 and Bigford 0 in 10 tilts. Wasson is the bad man to date with 78 minutes in penalties, with Wyatt next with 48 and then Morrow with 24. The latter will be back in action tonight, 'tis expected, after his recent injury. Stewart hasn't drawn a penalty in 16 games and Floyd has been guiltless in 13 tussles.

Keen Play In The PMHA

There was but one PMHA game here last p.m. which was really one-sided; that was when the undefeated midget Marines rolled to a 13-1 triumph o'er Trojans. Other midget melee saw St. Peter's and Martin-Hewitt in a 2-2 tie. The bantam Trojans had to hustle to yank out a 2-1 decision over Otonabee Wolves, who had but two alternates in the lineup. Empress bantams earned a 4-2 victory against St. Peter's. Lakefield Lions finished a trifle stronger than Oddfellows for their 5-4 win, we mean stronger defensively as they were pressed plenty. Clapper's juves rapped three home without a reply in the third chukker to gain a 5-2 verdict against Trojans.

The former president of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, Percy Douglas, has written an interesting book "My Ski-ing Years". It is sponsored by the CASA and is recommended by the association prexy, Fred Urquhart, to all skiers. We've looked through it and find a wealth of information on the sport, as it's a factual history of the start and development of the sport in Canada in the 1880s. And it is brought right up to date. The CASA as such was founded as late as 1921, the provincial zones coming into being later. We recall when the Peterborough Ski Club was but a fledgling, but it has come a long way in two decades. The book may be had through Whitcombe & Gilmour Ltd., 1040 Bleury St., Montreal.

Say Sonja Henie Nearly Tennis Champion

By WILL GRIMSLEY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP). — Maybe you didn't know it, but Sonja Henie might have become the world's greatest tennis player instead of diamond-studded queen of the ice rinks.

It was touch and go for a while, the blonde Norwegian skater said Thursday night as she discussed her big decision.

"I was still in my teens when I went to Germany to learn the language," Miss Henie said. "I began playing tennis under the famous Czech professional, Karel Hozeluh.

"Later I played in our own Norwegian nationals and gained the ranking of No. 2. I won the doubles. But I had to make a decision. I couldn't both skate and play tennis. I chose skating, although Mr. Kozeluh said I could be world champion in tennis."

The 38-year-old Pavlowa of the ice certainly has had no reason to regret it. She won every top honor in existence in skating before turning professional to reap millions of dollars.

Top Record

She was Norwegian figure skating champion at 11, champion of the world at 14 and at 15 she won the first of her three Olympic titles. She turned professional in 1936 and came to the United States to turn her talents to show business—in the movies and on the ice.

Asked whether North American girls could ever match the Europeans in figure skating, she replied:

"They should be better. So many are skating and there are so many rinks. But whereas the Europeans spend endless hours working on the school (fixed) figures with the idea of winning the amateur titles, the American girls spend all their time on free skating with the idea of getting into show business."

Miss Henie let her eyes wander over her lavish wardrobe, probably counted the evening's house in her mind and added:

"And I don't know whether I can blame them."

Hockey's 'Voice' In New Field Has Own Station

TORONTO — (CP) — Foster Hewitt, internationally - famous hockey broadcaster, opens his own radio station in Toronto on Feb. 21. But his National Hockey League broadcasts every Saturday night will still go over the CBC.

The new station is CKFH, the initials standing for the owner's name, and it is Toronto's sixth radio station. The studio is in downtown Toronto and the transmitting towers are on the island across the bay, which Hewitt thinks is "the finest location in Canada," directly south of Toronto's downtown section and facing Lake Ontario.

Hewitt's Saturday night hockey broadcasts have made him known to millions. He may broadcast midweek games through his own station where his son Billy is in charge of special events broadcasting.

The station staff has been recruited from points across Canada, including a man each from Vancouver, Regina, Timmins, and Moncton, NB.

"One thing we're aiming at is new voices for Toronto listeners," Foster Hewitt explained. "We will have no dramatized make-believe broadcasts. If we can't do them 'live' we won't do them at all."

First Broadcast

Hewitt did his first hockey broadcast 28 years ago in the old Mutual Street Arena, an OHA senior amateur game. In those days he broadcast over a telephone from a tiny glassed-in booth. At the Gardens, home of the Toronto Maple Leafs of the NHL, he works from a gondola high over the seats, and he climbs 265 steps to get there.

Many a celebrity has declined to make that climb to Hewitt's hockey booth. Ben Bernie, the late American bandleader, was one who turned back, while George Raft, the movie star, had to be helped across the catwalk.

Hewitt himself still gets butterflies in his stomach before each broadcast and he's a nervous wreck by the time the playoffs start. His broadcasting booth is open to the roar of the crowd and the Gardens' loudspeaker announcements and when some incident on the ice brings an uproar he has to be careful. "If I stray as much as an inch away from the mike my voice, even at a scream, would be lost," he said.

"This means you're constantly thinking of two things: what's going on down there on the ice and where is the mike?"

His new station is of 250 watts power, designed to cover Toronto and district 24 hours a day.

White School Gives Money For Charities

WARKWORTH, Jan. 26 (ENS) —The regular monthly meeting of the White School Women's Institute was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Arthur Meneilley.

Mrs. Clifford Skinkle, the vice-president, conducted the meeting. Donations were made to the Campbellford Hospital, $15; the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, $10, and the March of Dimes $10.

It was suggested that scrap books be made of Christmas cards and other pictures for sending to a children's hospitgal.

Mrs. Martin Peterson was program convener and presented a question box. A guessing contest was won by Mrs. Carmen Nelson.

Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by the lunch conveners, Mrs. W. Poole and Mrs. C. Skinkle.

Mounties, Not FBI To Guard Eisenhower

OTTAWA, Jan. 26.—Both plainclothes and uniformed RCMP constables will guard Gen. Eisenhower on his visit here.

There were reports he would be guarded by the FBI, but RCMP Commissioner Wood said the RCAF had requested the Mounties to provide guards as well as motorcycle escort. Such precautions are the usual order for distinguished visitors to the capital.

Reaume Gets $24,945 arbitration ruling by the Ontario Municipal Board has awarded Mayor Arthur J. Reaume $24,945 for land bordering the Windsor steam generating plant, it was learned here Thursday. The land, 33¼ acres, was expropriated in 1949 by the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission. Mayor Reaume bought the land late in 1947 for $595 an acre. He asked $44,000 for the parcel.

Billy Reay, Montreal Canadiens centre, will miss Saturday night's game with Chicago, it was learned Thursday. He is in Winnipeg to attend the funeral of his father who died Wednesday.

Les Vickery, a defenceman who played 25 games with Glace Bay Miners, Thursday night signed with North Sydney Victorias of the Cape Breton Major Hockey League for the remainder of the season. The switch was approved by Sydney Millionaires, third team in the loop. Also signing a playing card for Vics was coach Gordie Drillon, who has not yet seen action this season.

The vanguard of an expected 2,500 delegates for an international snowshoe convention opening at Sherbrooke, Que., today arrived—by snowshoe.

Roland Gauthier, 37, and Roland Croteau, 27, both members of the Alpin Snowshoe Club of Manchester, N. H., puffed wearily into Sherbrooke after covering the 217-mile distance in eight days.

The third arrival was veteran Joe Michaud, 50-year-old member of Quebec's Frontenac Snowshoe Club, who made his 140-mile journey in about 4½ days.

India's new 30,000 capacity stadium was dedicated at New Delhi, Thursday and put into shape for the Asian Olympics scheduled March 4-11. The United States and Britain will be asked to send representatives to the games in which teams already are entered from: Afghanistan, Burma, Ceylon, India, Indonesia, Iran, Israel, Japan, Nepal, The Philippines, Singapore and Thailand.

Four more Detroit Tiger baseball players signed their 1951 contracts Thursday, bringing the total to 14.

The latest to agree to undisclosed salary terms were outfielder Pat Mullin, catchers Aaron Robinson and Frank House and pitcher Paul Calvert of Montreal.

Charley Johnston, manager of featherweight champion Sandy Saddler, said Thursday he had received a $10,000 offer for Saddler to fight the winner of the Al Phillips-Ronnie Clayton bout in London next June. Phillips and Clayton were to fight Jan. 29 but the bout was set back until February.

Bobo Newsom is still setting records.

Bobo set a number of marks in the major leagues. He is probably best known for making 13 different stops around the majors during his colorful career.

He set a course record Thursday at Orlando, Fla.'s Dubsdread Country Club when he banged out a double eagle, first ever scored at the course, according to professional Denny Campagne.

On the 471-yard par five fourth hole, Bobo hit a lusty drive and then used a two iron to send the ball the rest of the way to the cup to beat par on the hole by three strokes.

Sam Snead, golf's leading money winner last year, will have his broken left hand put in a cast today and probably will be out of action for four or five weeks.

Dr. Ralph B. Ferguson X-rayed the hand Thursday and reported Snead has a broken carpal bone.

Snead broke the bone in the third round of the Miami open tournament last December but did not discover the break until the Los Angeles open early this month.

Alcoholics Form Medical Problem MP Tells Meeting

WARKWORTH, Jan. 26 (ENS) —In one of 20 alcoholics part of the problem is medical but research work is necessary to find the cause of his reactions, Major J. W. Foote, V.C., M.P.P., and Minister of Reform Institutions, told the Warkworth Business Men's Association on Monday night. It was holding its annual banquet in the town hall.

Major Foote said that it was part of the work of the government to help that type of person who is a failure in the eyes of the world. Everyone, he added, needs a richer home life in which the church has a great part. The happier people were those who had religious faith.

In closing Major Foote commended the work of clubs and organizations for children. He thought, however, that children need to be taught to obey and that they need companionship and understanding to help them. They should be taught respect for the church.

The Rev. J. M. Ritchie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church thanked Major Foote.

Dr. F. G. Robertson, M.P., stated that people of this country have now become accustomed to all the pleasures and enjoyments of life and now moral re-armament is needed. He said that the country would be wise to organize to meet the threat of aggression.

C. O. Dudley introduced Dr. Robertson who was thanked by chairman Harold Butters. Other speakers were Eldon Ewing, president of the Canadian Legion branch and Major Toombs of Campbellford. The dinner was prepared by the Women's Institute.

Stationed At Chatham

MILLBROOK, Jan. 26 (ENS)—Roy Dawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Dawson, who recently became a member of the provincial police, has been stationed at Chatham. At the end of the month Constable Dawson and Mrs. Dawson are moving to their new home in Chatham.

JEAN GAUREAULT, A HOT CONTENDER for the Canadian figure skating championship. His father, the late Leo Gaudreault was a fast man with Canadiens and other professional hockey teams not too long ago. Niagara Project Details Outlined THOROLD, Ont., Jan. 26 (CP) —Chairman Robert H. Saunders of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission cited facts and figures Thursday to indicate the size of Ontario's planned $157,000,000 power-development project at Niagara Falls.

In an address to the Board of Trade, he said:

A cement-lined routing tunnel, 45 feet in diameter and 5½ miles in length, will take water from above horseshoe falls to the whirlpool below the cataracts.

Work has started on a 2½-mile open-cut canal to carry the water from the whirlpool to the forebay of the generating station at Queenston, at the outlet of the Niagara river.

The development will produce 600,000 horsepower by 1954.

Three railway sidings will be built to handle the flow of materials to the building area.

A 30-bed hospital and a cafeteria seating 600 persons will be built near their construction camps to be set up at Chippawa, whirlpool rapids and Queenston.

A two-lane road down the face of Niagara gorge will be built to truck materials to the construction sites. This will be used later as a scenic drive for tourists to obtain a close-up view of the turbulent lower rapids.

Wings Tie Bruins Hawks Bow To Rangers

By STEWART NEBBS, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks, although at opposite ends of the National Hockey League standing, have something in common—both are consistent.

The Wings are pretty steady winners but they don't pass up a chance for a split of the spoils as evinced by Thursday night's 3-3 stalemate with Boston Bruins.

On the other hand, the Hawks are setting something of a record, but they aren't happy about the situation. They ran their string of winless games to 19 Thursday night, dropping a 2-1 decision to New York Rangers.

The standing wasn't changed much by the games, Detroit strengthening its hold on first place and Rangers creeping to within a point of the fourth place Bruins.

At Chicago, the smallest crowd to attend an NHL game in 16 years—6,112—turned out to see the Hawks drop their sixth straight game.

Eddie Kulman shot the Rangers into the lead early in the first period and the teams battled scorelessly until the 0:28 mark of the final session when Bep Guidolin brought Chicago up on even terms.

Grab Victory

Don Raleigh gave the New Yorkers the victory at 14:35, converting relays from Pentti Lund and Ed Slowinski.

At Detroit, there was more brawling than hockey playing, the main bout being a bruising, bloody battle between Ted Lindsay of the Wings and Bill Ezinicki of the Bruins. Both drew match penalties.

More than 10,500 fans saw the two battle for three minutes. They were pulled apart but immediately got into action again.

It ended with Ezinicki prone on the ice, bleeding profusely from a cut above the right ear and badly-split lip. Lindsay was cut above the right eye and on the right hand.

Leo Reise, Clare Martin and Red Kelly counted for the Wings and Moe Henderson, Bill Quackenbush and John Horeck got the Bruins' goals.

Glass Roofs On Cars Futuristic Trend

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Automobiles with glass roofs may be the thing of the future.

In a discussion of present research, David J. Wilkie, Associated Press automotive editor, mentions this possibility, and says in part:

Compared to pre-war cars, later models use as much as one-third more glass. They have larger windshields and enlarged rear windows.

Many millions of automobiles were built before the ordinary plate-glass windshields gave way to safety glass. Development of this type was perhaps the greatest advance in car design of its time, although it consisted merely of sandwiching a layer of plastic between two pieces of plate glass. . .

Research into possible future adaptations of glass are going on constantly. Dr. George B. Watkins, research director of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company, says considerable thought is being given to the possibility of a satisfactory glass roof. Dr. Watkins adds:

"We are experimenting also with electrical conducting glass to prevent fogging and icing of automobile glass in winter, as well as to reduce heat loss from the interior of the car."

Researchers also are trying to develop a satisfactory means of overcoming headlight glare. The problem has been approached from several directions, including the combination of special headlight lenses and glare-reducing windshields.

Still Opposed To Subsidizing College Sports

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (CP). — Opposition to subsidization of athletics in any form at University of Toronto was renewed Thursday in the annual report of president Sidney Smith.

Dr. Smith said his concern during the last two years about the theat of professionalism in intercollegiate sport now had turned to fear.

"We of the university," he said, "must never forget that this is an educational institution devoted to the development of the intellect and the strengthening of character. Playing the game for the game's sake is an important part of the educational process and that ideal must be the very essence of the university's athletic program."

He promised that football, an accepted part of college life, would continue to receive the best possible coaching and students with liking and aptitude for the game would be given an opportunity to play, providing they succeed in their academic work.

"Good high school players from Ontario communities must be certain that they always will have a fighting chance to make a university team," he said. "That is their right and nobody should try to take it away from them. Those amateurs must never turn out for their first practice only to find that many of the places on the team have been filled with pros, semi-pros or subsidized players carefully picked beforehand."

E. ARTHUR DAY

CNR Supervisor Of Fisheries

TORONTO, Jan. 26—Appointment of E. Arthur Day as supervisor of fisheries for the department of research and development, Canadian National Railways, was announced at Montreal today by M. W. Maxwell, chief of development for the railway. Mr. Day will have his headquarters at Montreal.

Mr. Day, who for the past six years was industrial representative for the railway's Atlantic Region, with headquarters at Moncton, was born at Port Rexton, Newfoundland. During World War I, he served overseas with the Royal Newfoundland Regiment and following the end of hostilities, joined the Canadian Bank of Commerce in whose service he came to the mainland. He joined the CNR in June, 1941, as assistant railway agent, at Moncton, and in 1944, was made industrial representative for the Atlantic Region, the position he has held until his new appointment. During World War Two he also represented the Federal Department of Transport, National Defence and Munitions and Supply in the handling of land properties in Eastern Canada and in Newfoundland.

The new section of the Department of Research and Development is being formed to study Canadian sea and inland fisheries. "The studies will bear more especially on the features affecting transportation as the Canadian National has been increasingly impressed with the importance of the nation's fisheries and the growing part that this resource must play in our country's economy," Mr. Maxwell said.

Only A Few People Know Extent Of Roman Catholic Church Wealth

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 26 (Reuters).—Only the Pope, three cardinals and a few other individuals know the extent of the Roman Catholic church's wealth.

Even they can have only an approximate idea of the value of one of the world's greatest patrimonies, spread over five continents in innumerable forms.

Although the Vatican maintains complete secrecy concerning its revenues, it is evident that only the most careful budgeting enables it to meet its enormous expenses.

Vast numbers of clergy must be supported; thousands of churches, monasteries, orphanages and colleges must be maintained.

Each of the world's 400,000,000 Roman Catholics is aware, when giving his mite at the Sunday collections, that it will not go far toward meeting costs such as these.

The rest is met from the immense accumulation of wealth through the ages, ranging from the one-acre lot from which many an Italian parish priest supplies himself with his daily bread to shares in Imperial Chemicals Limited or the National City Bank.

Started Under Constantine

The basis of this wealth was laid down by the Roman emperor Constantine in the fourth century, when he recognized the church's right to own property.

The enormous growth of church lands in the 16 centuries that followed came to an end in 1870, when the Savoyan King Victor Emmanuel, in uniting Italy, liquidated the Papal states. Since then, apart from small bequests of land, the church has bought most of the sites it requires for religious buildings.

The Vatican's finances are handled by a commission of three cardinals, plus selected men in key departments such as accounting, auditing, banking and law.

Allowed More Money

China Imitating Russians Wants Ring Of Satellites

BOMBAY, Jan. 26 (Reuters).—Communist China, like Russia, considers her security can be guaranteed only by having "friendly" governments in the neighboring countries.

Her strategy, therefore, follows the Russian strategy of having a string of satellite states around her.

Red Chinese leaders want Communist regimes in Korea, Formosa, Indo-China, and Tibet as starting points in their master plan, I found during a stay of several weeks in Peiping.

They also consider that Thailand and Burma should be taken from their present rulers, described as "running dogs of the imperialist aggressors" and that Malaya should be rid of British "imperialist exploiters."

Chinese propaganda has consistently denounced the Philippines as a "tool of American imperialism." It has not yet turned its attention to Indonesia.

Approach Changes

Until six months ago, official Chinese Communist propaganda included India, too, in the list of countries to be "liberated." But the approach now seems to have changed, probably in view of India's persistent efforts to sponsor the cause of Red China in the council of the world.

After Korea, observers in Peiping believe, the Chinese give top priority to Indo-China, where there may be direct military intervention on a large scale, followed by Thailand and Malaya, where infiltration tactics and the use of large Chinese minorities may figures in Communist strategy.

Chinese propaganda has made scant reference to China's neighbor, Burma. But diplomatic sources in Peiping believe Communist infiltrators are already active in Upper Burma and that an official claim for the restoration of the mountainous northern hump of Burma—claimed even by the Nationalist Government three years ago—may follow the Tibetan campaign.

Neutral observers in Peiping think that while Communist China may not attempt an all-out attack on India, the strategy is aimed at weaning India from the non-Soviet power bloc by military threats from east and north.

With the "liberation" of Tibet already under way, aimed at planting the Red flag on the Himalayas, the next move is expected to be to infiltrate into Nepal, Bhutan and Sikkim, and to extend Chinese influence in the vital buffer zone.

Mission Circle Holds First 1951 Meeting

NORWOOD, Jan. 26 —(ENS)—The Baptist Mission Circle held their first meeting of 1951 Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. O. Bannon with Mrs. Roy Nevins' group in charge of the program. Mrs. Annie Sedgwick opened the meeting with a poem, "The Changing Years". Prayer was led by Mrs. Sedgwick. Mrs. Bannon gave the scripture reading and Mrs. Roy Nevins read the highlights from the "Link and Visitor". Mrs. Wm. Chamberlain gave a solo "God's Tomorrow."

The Circle has forwarded a gift of money to Dr. Dorothy Timpany in India and a food parcel will also be packed in the immediate future.

Lunch was served and the hostess given a vote of thanks.

Grandfather Killed Charge Manslaughter

SOREL, Que., Jan. 26 (CP)—Donald Paul Watso, 24-year-old Indian charged with murdering his grandfather, was found guilty Thursday on a reduced charge of manslaughter.

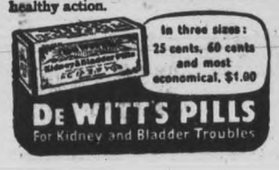
A 12-man jury deliberated more than two hours before reaching the verdict.

Watso, a former United States army private, was charged with beating his grandfather to death in June, 1949, after robbing him of $16 as he slept in his home at the nearby reservation of Odanak.

Oshawa Resumes Buicks

The manufacture of Buick automobiles was resumed in Oshawa Thursday by General Motors after an interval of almost exactly 10 years. The pilot model which came off the assembly was the first of a substantial volume of Buicks which have been scheduled for production in 1951. The new models will be introduced to the public within a few weeks. Buicks were manufactured continuously at Oshawa from 1907, when R. S. McLaughlin, now board chairman of General Motors of Canada, entered the automotive field, until early 1941 when all passenger car production halted to make way for war orders.

Smoking Fire Hazard



TORONTO. Jan. 26 (CP) — Smoking remains the biggest single factor in causing fires the Ontario Fire Marshal's office reported Thursday. This universal habit was responsible for more than 1,600 of the 18,663 fires throughout Ontario last year. The second greatest factor was electricity which caused 608 blazes. The report also said 113 lives were lost due to fires in 1950 and 291 persons were injured.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Dairy Farmers Blossom Into the Glamor Business Ernest McWilliams Discusses Imported Alfalfa Seed. . . Teenage Boy From Holland Winner of Quaker Oats Prize. . . . Infra-Red Lamps Recommended For Brooding Pigs and Chicks.

The dairy cow becomes a new agency of glamor in the first milk "ad" of the dairy industry, which appeared in print this week. Its pictorial background features a girl of radiant femininity. At first glance she looks like one of the soap sisterhood in all her glory of grooming, long familiar in the slick magazines. But, that lady now has a rival in claims to freshness and beauty, and "her complexion secret," to quote the "ad," is "milk," set out in arrestingly large letters.

The layout man has done a neat and attractive job for the dairy farmers of Canada, and though it is his hand, still, the voice sounds like the voice of Gaylord Hauser. It extols the content of vitamins, minerals and proteins, just as the Milk Foundation publicity did, but when it turns to this them: "Just what you need to build a clear skin, a lovely figure," there is the gospel of Mr. Hauser in that famous book of his entitled: "Live Longer, Look Younger."

This "ad" might possibly be the beginning of a new era for the dairy cow, under attack from two sides lately, magarine on the one hand, and high-price beef steaks on the other. Many of her calves throughout the land have been heading for the meat counters to cut into the booming business of the Hereford, Shorthorn and Angus breeders. Their roasts and broils are the stock stuff of proteins, and not to be discounted, but for trimness of figure and so on, Hauser has put the emphasis on milk, and literally millions of folks are harking to his old wine in its new bottle.

This milk publicity was forced on the dairy industry by margarine. Some dairy cattle men have been glumly talking about folding up. Margarine put the emphasis on the uses of butter, and that means fat whether in the richer milk or in the ingredients of margarine against which the dairy men are full of wrath. Cows of low percentage of butter fat have been getting sour looks. Some of them have been fingered for culling.

That attitude overlooks the "slim figure" appeal. If rainy cattle breeders are as smart as the circumstances appear to invite, why shouldn't they go in more for skim milk?

Against that tactic of finesse is the fact that milk standards are fixed and the fluid milk trade demands that collar of cream at the top of the bottle. But, you could lay odds that girl in the milk "ad" isn't keen about fat.

Maybe some of the milk producers did not notice that statement of D. B. Goodwillie, chief dairy products inspection and grading services, Ottawa ,at the convention last week of the Dairy Farmers of Canada in Winnipeg. He said the consumption of evaporated and dry skim-milk in 1950 showed a "sensational" increase. Use of evaporated milk jumped 18 per cent and skim-milk use 23 per cent. Some of it went into the manufacture of bread. More of it will be used when the Hauser missionary work gets around.

The women's page of a leading Ontario daily recently devoted a column and a half to what some people deride as the trend to "food fads." At the top of her list was milk powder, followed by molasses, brewer's yeast and wheat germ.

Her advice was to keep milk powder (25c a pound) handy, "add half a cup to cocoa; the milk powder gives it more nutrition, and that's what we are after," she says . . . "Add milk powder to cereal, muffins, custard mixes, cream sauces, scalloped potatoes or a la king mixtures. In other words, anything that milk may be used in." That is part of the powder story.

The irony of this old idea which Mr. Hauser has put into attractive form is that most skim milk has been fed to calves and pigs.

Anyway, the dairy farmers have taken to advertising their product. Some day, possibly, even skim milk, so long scorned, might become a broader channel of their business volume. "Fortified milk," recommended by Hauser, is nothing more than the milk powder mixed into the pint or quart bottle of the fluid milk trade:

So much for that pep talk to the Holstein, Jersey, Aryshire and Guernsey men. They have to put a foot forward in the glamor business even if they are disposed to be dubious about its relation to their fields of alfalfa.

Average price in four figures was paid for 29 Holsteins comprising two plane loads bought by Guillermo H. Villa, Medellin, Colombia. Four are for his own herds, and the other for neighboring breeders.

These purchases were the direct result of the favorable impression made on Colombian breeders by Spring Farm Sovereign Supreme which J. M. Fraser, Streetsville, sold to Herrara Bros., of Bogota, after winning the Grand Championship at the Royal Winter Fair in 1949. He was then named grand champion at the leading Colombian Exhibition at Bogota, and a son took the reserve grand award.

Included in the recent sale were two sons, thirteen daughters and one granddaughter of Sovereign Supreme. C. J. Cerswell of Beeton supplied six head, including a son and two daughters of "Marksman". J. M. Fraser contributed four daughters and a son of Sovereign Supreme and G. W. Fraser, Streetsville, two of his daughters. J. D. Innes, Woodstock, supplied two daughters and one granddaughter of Montvic R. A. Sovereign.

Sovereign Supreme daughters were obtained from Alex McKinney, T. H. McGee, Russell McKechnie and T. O. Dolson.

By ERNEST McWILLIAM Of Dewart Milling Co.

Canada, a land that usually exports alfalfa seed, finds herself in the position of an importer this year. This condition was brought about largely by two factors.

1. Prospects for a bumper alfalfa crop throughout Western Canada were evident during entire growing period of 1950. Just before harvest disaster struck in the form of killing frosts and deep snow, largely ruining the seed crop.

2. Based on crop estimates, many Canadian seed firms booked orders in the United States to sell alfalfa seed. These were firm orders and had to be filled, and had the crop been harvested would have proved a boom to Canadian seed growers.

The combination of these two items—a very poor harvest and outside commitments for what seed was harvested—left Canada facing a severe shortage of this type of seed.

On the other hand, France and California harvested bountiful crops of alfalfa and held large stocks as exportable surplus.

Many Canadian seed firms have imported this seed and it is now being prepared for sale to Canadian farmers.

Dr. G. P. McRostie, head of the Field Husbandry Department, OAC, Guelph, stated that in his opinion this imported seed, while being seemingly very cheap compared with Canadian grown seed, will prove very costly. It entirely lacks the hardiness needed to survive our Canadian winter, and will prove a costly experiment for those willing to try it. In his opinion a grower would be advised to drop alfalfa from his seed mixtures if the only seed available was imported seed.

Is Stained Red

This seed can be recognized by the fact that it must be stained 10 per cent bright red in order to be released for sale in Canada. All purchasers of alfalfa would be well advised to check all seed obtained for such stains. This will be particularly true in hay and pasture type mixtures where a certain percentage of red clover is also used. The stained seed will be difficult to observe, hence lies the danger.

It would be disasterous to our farm economy if through the use of such inferior seed we were to lose the vigor and hardiness of our Canadian alfalfa. This hardiness was only obtained through years of selection and breeding and we would be well advised not to destroy it thoughtlessly for a saving of a few cents per acre.

If this imported seed is as satisfactory as some importers say it it, why do the Californian growers have to sell it in Canada when the Northern United States are clamoring for hardy seed? Would it not be logical for them to market it within their own country and escape the duty, staining costs and extra shipping charges? The facts speak for themselves; and all our Peterborough farmers are well advised to purchase their requirements from existing Canadian stocks.

AN EXAMPLE FOR JUNIORS

Here is a little story of the ambition John Vreman, a teen-age boy, brought from Holland to Canada in May, 1949, as told by James D. Moore, Ottawa, of the Canadian Council of Boys' and Girls' Club Work.

Since his arrival in eastern Ontario, John has been employed by P. C. Eligh, of Finch, a director of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. As a member of the Newington Junior Calf Club he won first prize with his calf in a class of twenty at the club's achievement day last fall, and also the same award in the open class at the Newington Black and White Show.

John Vreman was top in showmanship at the local calf club show and again at the Ottawa championship show in competition with 56 other members of District No. 2.

And that's not all! When the general proficiency scores were compiled for the members of the four calf clubs in Stormont county in 1950, John had accumulated the greatest number of points—833 out of a possible 1,000, for which he won the Quaker Oats scholarship of an all-expense trip to the one-week short course at OAC early this month. This boy from Holland is a member of the local tractor maintenance club, and last fall won third prize in one of the tractor classes at the local plowing match.

Some day he hopes to own a farm and dairy herd. His employer, Mr. Eligh, reports that John is keen about farming in Canada, and already has made many friends in the community. When he reached Ontario in May, 1949, he could not speak English, and had no experience in junior club work.

That sounds like the first chapter or two of a Horatio Alger story, and should be a stimulus to boys and girls of Peterborough county (and their parents) who are planning to join the calf clubs which will soon be organized. Here is a young handicapped stranger of eighteen months who walked off with a scholarship in competition with the other members of four clubs in Stormont. Bob Bell, assistant agricultural representative, has probably read the Moore letter, and could do worse than tell his clubs this year the story of that boy from Holland.

Eight boys and girls from Holland were members of the 1949 Williamstown calf club in Glengarry. One of them, Andrew Diepstraten, 17, came to Canada three years ago, has been a club member each year, and in 1950 exhibited the first prize calf at the Holstein calf club achievement day.

HEAT LAMPS IN PIG PENS

Now it is heat lamps for brooding pigs and chicks. It must be a nimble minded farmer who can keep up with all the innovations that are projected into his business.

Prof. H. W. Kitching of the agricultural engineering department of OAC says: "Infra-red lamps are coming into general use for all brooding purposes, and are considered to be about the most satisfactory type of equipment." The CGE infra-red lamp retails around $1.55.

LeRoy Brown, agricultural representative in Victoria county, quotes a survey at Purdue University which found that in the loss of baby pigs 53 per cent occurred in the first 24 hours and 93 per cent in the first three days.

"The greatest hazard is death by crushing, with chilling during cold weather a close second. A young pig is unable to control body temperature for the first two or three days, and if exposed to cold temperature will die of exposure unless given some assistance. Heat lamps have reduced death by crushing to almost nil. The young pigs spend all their time in the brooder except for feeding, and they are perfectly safe there.

The lamp attracts pigs by light and heat. They have to be shown only once or twice where the brooder is located. The best place is in the corner of the pen. Nail two pieces of 2 x 4, about five feet long, diagonally across the corner. A wooden floor is desirable as it helps cut down the chill.

The lamp is hung above the centre of the brooder, and initially about 20 inches above the straw bedding. It is important that the lamp does not get in contact with, or close to, the bedding.

The young pigs will pile up directly under the lamp when there is not enough heat, and will spread out from under it if there is too much.

Twenty inches above the bedding at the start, the lamp should be moved up two or three inches a day, hardening off the pigs as they get older. The height of the lamp depends on the age of the pigs and weather conditions. Baby pigs and cold weather conditions combined naturally require the most heat.

In The Poultry House

In tests at the University of Delaware, baby chicks were placed in a refrigerated room 12 degrees below zero. With infrared lamps as the only source of heat it was found the chicks thrived under the heat of the lamps.

As a result of these tests, a large poultry farm at Milsboro, Del., installed a lamp heating system in its new 20,000 chicken brooder house, using 228 lamps placed 19 inches above the floor. As the chicks grew and required less heat, the lamps were raised. This method eliminates firing and stoking of stoves, provides a constant heat and chicks do not crowd and hurt each other since they do not have to huddle for warmth.

Production of Guernsey cattle increased in Canada by 46 per cent in the last five years, but Ontario statistics for the same term showed 86 per cent increase, said Dr. Roy Campbell, at the convention of the Ontario Guernsey Cattle Breeders in Guelph, Wednesday. There were 250 delegates, the largest attendance in the association's history.

SOLD TO CURTISS CANDY

Curtiss Candy Company of Illinois paid $11,200 to Elgin county breeders for two Jerseys and two Ayrshires. The average was $2,800. They were delivered by truck last week.

Choice Ayrshires were bought from Stansell Brothers and John L. Stansell of Aylmer district; and another lot of 15 selected young Jerseys were acquired from Frank H. Silcox at Iona. It is also reported that Curtiss Candy paid $10,000 to George Bagg of Edgeley, Ont., for the grand champion Jersey bull at the 1950 Royal, where he was successively champion for the last three years.

HEAVY SOIL LOSSES

Indicating the necessity of soil erosion control practices where intertilled crops are produced, 51.2 tons of soil per acre were lost on a corn plot cultivated up and down a 10 per cent slope from May to October, 1950, on the plots of the Department of Agriculture's Field Husbandry Division at Ottawa. Where grain, or especially hay crops were grown, the loss during the same period was found to be insignificant.

NEW ASSESSMENT QUESTION

Is the new suburban dweller getting residence advantage at the expense of the practical farmer, is a question suggested by Farm Radio Forum for discussion at group meetings.

Forum says: "We hear comments that a house in a rural area with one-half acre of land, which sold for $10,000, is assessed for 35 per cent of value; and farms being sold in the same area for $10,000 are assessed for 75 per cent of their value. We wonder why."

Ontario assessors have been observing that this extent of inequality is fairly common throughout the province. It is receiving attention, but approach to effective solution is necessarily slow, for the reason that municipalities are switching from an old to a new practice. The gathering of information, followed by its study, does not lend itself to speedy action.

Farm Forum is not merely suggesting a group session of complaints. The implication is that farmers should strive to acquaint themselves with whatever developments are available, through municipal officers, members of the township council, local and county assessors.

This is a Forum quotation: "The majority of those moving out to small holdings are trying to find lower family living costs; which means the farmer has to pay the extra unfair burden of taxation. Many areas report such an influx of small holders that schools are overcrowded, police and fire protection has to be increased, but the total contribution from those increased numbers, which are usually assessed very low, is so little as to put a burden on the rest of the ratepayers."

That sounds like a question of who is subsidizing whom? It also happens as with North Monaghan in recent years that population of a suburban fringe outnumbers the farm community, and virtually assumes administration of both rural and suburban area. Monaghan farmers ultimately found themselves out on the end of the limb.

INSTALL MOW DRIERS

The Experimental Farm at Ridgetown will install next fall hot air driers to dry green feed in the mows, Prof. J. C. Steckley, director of the western Ontario farm, said in a Farmers' Week program talk.

Grass and silage are cut too late by most farmers, he said. The farm will experiment with green grass cut early, dried in mows and dried in the fields.

Red clover should be cut in full bloom, alfalfa in quarter bloom, and grasses before they begin to mature. Grass silage should be fed during hot summer months when stock needs feed to supplement dried pastures.

The rotary type hoe is "one of the most important implements on a large acreage farm," Prof. Steckley said. The Farm in 1950 had outstanding success with the rotary hoe in keeping fields free of weeds, and with the forage harvester in gathering hay, but the hoe did not work so well in wet weather.

Cash croppers in Western Ontario, he continued, waste more feed than can be grown in some parts of the province.

"We are neglecting the by-products of cash cropping which could be used in livestock feed. Tons of corn cobs, often burned as waste or fuel make excellent feed for dairy and beef cattle."

A mixture of 60 per cent corn, 27% oats and 13% soybean was found to be just about as satisfactory as when only shelled corn was used. But, results were not quite so good for hog feed.

BUY WESTERN CATTLE

United States buyers of dairy cattle are reported very active in the Calgary district, one lot of 20 purebred cows selling for an average price of $510, and cream shippers were being offered up to $300 for grade cows, according to a report recently issued by the Canada Department of Agriculture's Marketing Service at Calgary.

SPEAKER ALSO PIANIST

Milton Clark and James Gifford drew an easy assignment at the meeting of Federation directors Wednesday night. They are expected to line up some musical or other entertainment to intersperse the business of the annual meeting February 13. Probably they know that Cecil Belyea, Ontario Federation fieldman, who will be the speaker that night, is an accomplished pianist.

CANADIAN EGGS TO USA

Preferring to sell rather than to store at present prices, which are generally 7 to 8 cents above support levels, for the past few weeks Canadian producers have been exporting between 15,000 to 20,000 cases of eggs to markets in the United States. Normally at this season, Ottawa officials say that surpluses start to move into storage to be withdrawn in the short production period in the late summer and fall. Unless there is some substantial pickup in chick orders over that indicated at present by the hatcheries, marketing officials fear that there may be a scarcity of eggs during the last half of the year.

FRANCE IMPORTS BUTTER

The French government has authorized the importation of 9,000 tons of butter to be retailed at about 96 cents a pound, to check the sudden rise in the retail price which in December had reached a high of approximately $1 per pound, according to a special report issued by the Department of Agriculture's Economics Division at Ottawa.

Refuse To Hear New Application

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP)—The Federal Power Commission Thursday declined to rehear its denial of an application by the power authority of the state of New York for a licence for part of an international power project on the St. Lawrence River.

The commission said the reasons advanced in support of the petition for a new hearing were "very largely along the same lines heretofore suggested by the power authority and were given full consideration in the Dec. 22 order."

In the Dec. 22 order the commission recommended to Congress that the United States develop the St. Lawrence resources in the International Rapids section, both for navigation and power, at the earliest possible date.

New York State wants to join with the province of Ontario in developing the power portion of the power-seaway project.

President Truman has asked Congress to give the green light to the federal agency to develop both phases. A similar request from the president was sidetracked at the last session of Congress.

Canadian Flier Best Test Pilot

OTTAWA, Jan. 26—(CP). — A Canadian — Flt.-Lt. Gordon A. (Bud) Heck, 26, of Stettler, Alta., has ben awarded the McKenna Trophy for the highest standing during 1950 at the Empire Test Pilots' course at Farnborough, Eng.

Air Force headquarters said today that Flt. Lt. Heck was one of two Canadians on the course, held annually since the school was established eight years ago by the British Ministry of Supply.

The other Canadian was Flt.-Lt. Douglas E. Biden of Ottawa and Moncton, NB.

The school provides qualified pilots for the test flying of prototype aircraft and other experimental and development work. Open to service and civilian pilots from Commonwealth and North Atlantic countries, the course runs 10 months.

Flt. Lt. Heck joined the RCAF in 1943. Discharged in 1945, he attended the University of Alberta before re-enlisting a year later and was posted to North West Air Command. He returns to Canada from Britain this month and will be attached to the winter experimental establishment at Edmonton.

Westwood United Annual Meeting

WESTWOOD, Jan. 26 (ENS)—The annual congregational meeting of St. Andrew's United Church was held on Wednesday with a short devotional period with the pastor.

The Rev. N. Cole, minister, in his report of the session, stated he had officiated at twenty baptismal services, fourteen marriages and at six funerals during the year on the Westwood-Hastings charge.

The reports of the church treasurer, Women's Missionary Society and Sunday school were given and showed that good progress had been made during the year. R. J. Douglas reported an increase in the M and M fund; in the general income and donations made to several special objects.

Allocation Met

The WMS report by Mrs. E. W. Sargent showed the allocation of $250 had been met.

The superintendent of the Sunday school, Bruce Warr, gave the financial report and made a strong plea for increased attendance of children and adults.

The stewards for 1951 were appointed as follows: Ernest Warner, Clayton Brackenridge, Aubrey Wood, Neil Cameron, S. C. Warr, Rendle Dickson, Herman McColl, Wilbert Graham, R. J. Douglas, Victor Dickson and Hilliard Neilson. Parsonage committee: Mrs. A. Wood, Mrs. E. Warner, H. McColl, R. Dickson, and E. W. Sargent.

Floral committee: Mrs. F. Neilson, Mrs. V. Cummiskey, Mrs. W. Graham, Mrs. H. S. Neilson and Mrs. J. Sargent. Auditors: Mrs. C. Brackenridge and E. W. Sargent. Superintendent of Sunday school, Bruce Warr; assistant, Ronald Warner; ushers, Hugh Neilson, William Hazlitt, Leslie Sargent, George Cardwell and William Warr.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Cole by William Breckenridge on behalf of the congregation for his faithful service in 1950.

Education Program Needs Curb—Thomson

PARIS, Ont., Jan. 26 (CP). — Economy could be achieved in Ontario by halting the education program, Walter Thomson, provincial Liberal leader, said Thursday night.

He told a Brant Liberal Association meeting that he felt enough had been done on education for the present. Under a Liberal government such spending would be curtailed.

Economy must be practiced to ease the burden of taxation, he said. One of the main projects of a Liberal program would be the development of industry to process Ontario's natural resources. "It is ridiculous," he said, "to be shipping raw materials out of the province to be fabricated elsewhere."

Fate Of US Plane With 44 Still Mystery After Year

SNAG, Yukon, Jan. 26 (CP)—One year ago tonight a radio operator at this lonely outpost deep in the frozen Yukon wilderness picked up a routine radio message.

An American C-54 transport with 44 persons aboard was winging its way eastward across the lofty St. Elias mountains en route from Anchorage, Alaska, to its home base at Great Falls, Montana.

That was the last ever heard of it.

For the next three weeks one of the most intensive combined American-Canadian air searches in history was carried out, but nothing was found of the missing craft.

And today, one year later, the fate of those 44 persons—34 military personnel, eight crew members and a 23-year-old expectant mother and her two-year-old son—remains as big a mystery as ever.

Not even a trace of the silver, red-marked Skymaster has ever been discovered, although hundreds of "clues" have been investigated thoroughly by both Canadian and American authorities.

Aircraft of all types were mustered into the search and two planes crashed while looking for the missing craft.

No one, however, was badly hurt in either of these two crashes although 10 survivors were stranded on a bleak mountain top for three days before being rescued by a combined helicopter and ground-party operation.

Air Force officials believe the C-54 might have gone down almost anywhere in the trackless Yukon wastes, but the search was concentrated between here — where the plane was last heard from—and Whitehorse, about 250 miles southeast.

No clue, however, was overlooked, and reports of a plane crash and bits of wreckage sighted in places as far distant as Cranbrook, in the southeastern corner of British Columbia, and Vancouver Island were all checked.

All proved to be false alarms but "Operation Mike"—so tagged in honor of the commander of the missing craft, Lieut. Kyle E. McMichael, of San Antonio, Texas—was carried on in gradually-diminishing strength until March when it finally petered out.

Spiritual Resurgence Needed Spry Says

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 (CP). — Maj.-Gen. D. C. Spry, chief executive commissioner for the Boy Scout movement in Canada, said in an address Thursday that if democracy, as we know it, is to survive, there must be a spiritual resurgence.

Addressing the Young Men's Canadian Club of Montreal, Gen. Spry said that this resurgence "must be sufficiently strong to give us all confidence with which to face confusion; stability with which to oppose sugar-coated 'isms,' and fortitude with which to combat the growing sense of futility.

"It is sound and sensible for all the western powers to devote greatly-increased proportions of their national efforts to the rebuilding of defence forces. Without such organization, equipment and training, we present an open invitation to aggression. . ."

Not In A Hurry

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (CP) — Firemen from three municipalities debated Thursday who should answer a call to extinguish a blazing gasoline truck which exploded, overturned, shooting flames 30 feet into the air. The driver earlier had leaped to safety. Firemen from Toronto and the suburbs of North York and Leaside discussed the fire, which occurred at the junction of their territories. Finally, Toronto and Leaside put it out.

Plan To Hear Ruest Appeal

QUEBEC, Jan. 26 — (CP) — Appeal of Genereux Ruest from a murder conviction and sentence to be hanged for his part in the time-bombing of an airliner that killed 25 persons, will be heard at the February term of Court of King's Bench, Appeals Division, it was announced Thursday. The term opens Feb. 1.

Ruest, 54-year-old crippled watchmaker, was found guilty Dec. 13 of helping manufacture a time-bomb that blew up a Canadian Pacific airliner in mid-air at nearby Sault Au Cochon, Sept. 9, 1949.

J. Albert Guay, 33, a former Quebec jeweller, was hanged Jan. 12 as the master-mind in the plot to kill his wife, Rita Guay, a passenger aboard the plane the day of the crash.

A third person charged with murder in the plot, Mrs. Arthur Pitre, Ruest's 42-year-old sister, is awaiting trial Feb. 20 as a murder accomplice.

13 Years Married, He Gives Wife Cat: Fur Anniversary

By JACK SCOTT

Today my wife and I are celebrating our 13th wedding anniversary, a festival observed with a magnum of champagne (the real Okanagan stuff) and much wishful nostalgia.

Gee, it doesn't seem 13 years ago. I remember that wedding morning as if it were yesterday. On my way to the church I stopped and had the first barber shop shave of my life, a luxury which caused my face to break forth immediately in a lurid and painful rash.

On arriving at the church with my parents I discovered we were about 15 minutes early for the ceremony. My mother and father went into the church, but I strolled to a nearby confectionery store and bought an ice cream cone. It was a bitterly cold day, but I seemed to be running an awful temperature.

Parents Nervous Too

I walked back to the church and found my parents waiting for me outside. They seemed almost as nervous as I. My mother daubed at my face with some cold cream to try to take down some of the high color. My father took the cone from me and began licking it himself. Every two or three minutes we would have frantic searches for the wedding ring, which I kept putting in different pockets.

When we all emerged at last from the church we found that it was snowing heavily. This complicated matters considerably since the canvas top of my 1931 Ford roadster had blown off a few days before.

My new wife brushed the snow from the leather seat, sat down primly, pulled a Hudson Bay blanket up around her neck and put up her umbrella. After nervously flooding the carburetor two or three times I pulled away.

My folks had given us a small bottle of champagne. We pulled around the corner from the church and drank the champagne from the bottle, like pop, and then set out for Seattle. It was January, 1938. Everything was a delight.

First Five

When married couples reach their silver or golden anniversaries they are sometimes besieged by reporters for advice on the complicated subject of matrimony. Since this is only our fur anniversary (gave my wife a kitten) I suppose my qualifications are kind of shaky. I'm eager, none the less, to air my theories on how to make a go of it.

Seems to me the first five years are the toughest. That is because hardly anybody ever realizes what a difficult proposition marriage really is. No commercial enterprise ever had the pitfalls of monogamy. In effect, those wedding vows fling together two people who do not really understand each other, whose temperaments and habits and outlooks are rarely the same.

It often takes five years or more to realize that biology alone isn't enough to make a happy marriage, that a lot of realistic adjustments and compromises are necessary.

I think the romantic aspect of marriage has to exist if its to be a success. I go right along with the pundit who said, "The trouble with a lot of marriages is that too many wives are secretly in love with their husbands." But romance, alone, isn't nearly enough. Its the sacrifices in individuality, on both sides, that make the happy marriage.

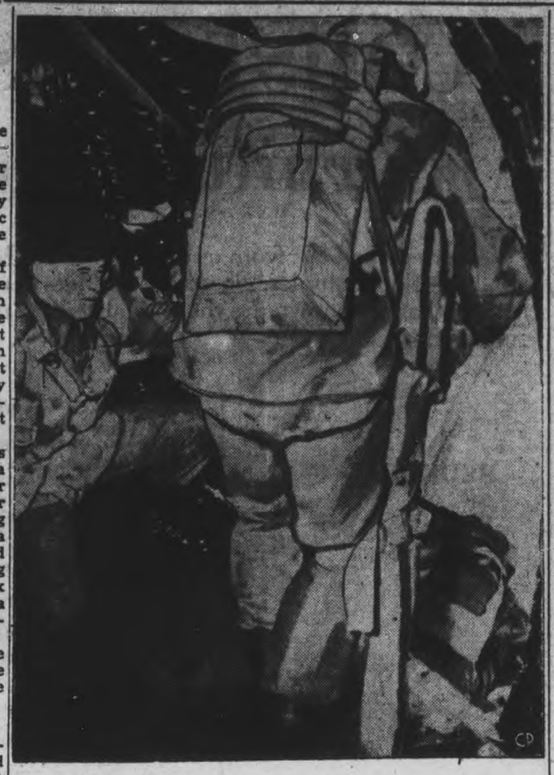
One of the greatest fallacies about wedded bliss is that a marriage thrives best under hardship. Baloney! We had our tough years, too (I was hauling down the princely sum of $18 a week when I made the leap) and I could never agree that living in one dark room, with a box nailed outside to serve as a cooler, was any guarantee of happiness.

Fact is, if you read the divorce court news you know that the majority of cases come from the lowest income group.

Look Around

After 13 years in the institution, with no time off for good behavior (and no visible scars) I'm convinced that you can't generalize about marriages too much.

One married couple we know, for example, fight like tigers a good percentage of the time, yet have a marriage that's as solid as a rock because its built on an almost classic love affair. Another couple who smugly claim they've never exchanged verbal blows after 15 years in the ring seem to live in permanent boredom.



Not Too Young

The only theory I hold to strongly is that its a mistake to marry too young. In my court house reporting days I saw many a couple splitting up, often with youngsters, simply because, when it came to the responsibilities and realities of partnership, they didn't know what time it was.

If I could offer any advice to a young man or woman contemplating marriage it would be this: Take your time. Get out and see something of the world. Sow some of those wild oats. Find out what makes people tick. Get dry behind the ears before you tackle an adventure that needs maturity and understanding to succeed.

The trouble with this advice, of course, is the shining example of many of our friends who married at tender ages with nothing more tangible than the conviction that they couldn't get along without each other . . . and are still going strong.

We are still going strong at our house which shows what can be done with a blanket, an umbrella and a small bottle of wine.

Double Salary Schedule Plan For University

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (CP)—The University of Toronto may be forced to adopt a double salary schedule in which professors in the professions would be paid more than those in faculties of arts, president Sidney Smith said Thursday in his annual report.

Disclosing that the university's board of governors is considering salary increases for all members of the academic staff, Dr. Smith said it is becoming increasingly difficult to attract first-class teachers in the professional schools. Reason was that industry and government were clamoring to employ them at higher wages.

Dr. Smith admitted that a double schedule is not ideal. But, he added, if the university couldn't get enough money to maintain the higher rates for all professions it must accept the situation and pay more for those for whose services there was greater demand.

Diamond King Gives Up Part Of Empire

LONDON, Jan. 26 (Reuters)—Sir Ernest Oppenheimer, 70-year-old "king of diamonds," has relinquished control of part of his fabulous kingdom of gold and jewel mines.

He has resigned from the boards of seven companies included in the Anglo-American Corporation which he built up to dig wealth from the blue clay of the South African Rand.

But this sturdy little giant among millionaires—his personal fortune was last estimated at £4,000,000 (about $12,000,000)—will still be chairman or director of the main units within the group, and he still keeps his chairmanship of the vast De Beers Company.

Sir Ernest rose to fame and fortune on the South African boom in gold and diamonds. Abounding energy and acute business foresight, hidden under a modest, unflurried exterior, brought him early recognition among South African diamond traders.

Mayor At 25

Emigrating from London to South Africa at the age of 16, he became mayor of Kimberly at 25.

Insight into his cool business methods came in 1934, when he bid £75,000 for the world's fourth largest diamond, the 726-carat "jonker" which had just been discovered on a farm at Elandsfontein. Sir Ernest wrapped it up and despatched it by ordinary parcel post to London. In the United States it realized £150,000.

Diamonds are his first and abiding love. He can still sort a shipment from prized collectors' stones to Boart (diamonds used on the cutting face of drills).

Throughout his life he has stuck rigidly to certain basic principles. He believes in maximum production of commodities by planned grouping, organized output and rationalized construction. Though he has no time for cut-throat industrial war, he wants his plans carried out by a free political economy.

Only Attack On This Centre By Air Or Sabotage--Dewart

Indifference is the "only thing" that would let western civilization down at present, Ald. J. A. Dewart, chairman of Peterborough's civil defence committee, told the Kiwanis club Thursday. Col. Dewart was outlining the organization and plans of the committee to members of the club and he told them that people should not wait for the government to do things for them.

"We must do what we can ourselves," he said. "Then we can ask the government to do the things we cannot do."

He said that the only way of attacking Ontario in event of a global war would be by air. The object of such an attack would be to confuse citizens, and to split attention between the real war and the war close at hand.

Peterborough Not Target

Another object of raids against Ontario would be to strike at industry.

"It is hard to believe that any nation would put Peterborough on the list of major targets," Col. Dewart said. But the service this city would do would be to Toronto and other major targets.

However, he went, on, Peterborough might be attacked without warning, or by sabotage, and the civil defence committee's job would be to protect the city against these.

Five Committee Divisions

The defence committee would be split into five divisions—welfare, protection, utilities, warden service, and administration—each of which would have its director. The divisions would be under the central committee.

In the welfare division, there are four sub-groups — medical, public health, emergency and refugee, and evacuation—each of which will be in charge of an assistant director.

The protection division will have five sub-groups—warning, police, rescue, fire, special services. The utilities division will have four groups—public utilities, communications, transportation, supply.

The warden service, Col. Dewart estimated, would have between 300 and 400 members.

The administration divisions would include press, broadcasting, accounting, legal, records, military, headquarters, and government personnel.

Members of city council, the board of education, and the separate school board were guests of the club at the meeting and introduced by William Ovens. T. T. Rodger introduced Col. Dewart and he was thanked by Norman Armstrong.

Defence Plan Directors Named To Act

At the regular meeting of the Peterborough Committee for Civil Defence 5 Directors were appointed to head the 5 divisions of the City's Defence Plan.

Mr. George R. Melton was appointed Director of Warden Services; Mr. H. I. Bradburn, Director of Protection; Mr. R. J. Bolton, Director of Welfare; Mr. Gordon Hodgson, Director of Utilities; and Mr. Clarence Neal, Director of Administration.

Mr. George R. Melton, the Director of Warden Services, has had a varied business and military career. He served in both Great Wars, and held the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in World War II. He is associated with J. K. Hughes Company, and has long been active in local affairs.

In appointing Mr. H. I. Bradburn as Director of Protection, the Committee felt there was probably no one more familiar with the city departments which will come under this Division. Mr. Bradburn was an Alderman of the City for 9 years, and his experience in civic administration will be invaluable in this work. Mr. Bradburn is Managing Director of Bradburns Limited and is a lawyer.

Mr. Clarence Neal, President of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company of Canada Limited, is ideally suited for the position of Director of Administration.

The Director of Welfare, Mr. R. J. Bolton, is a well known Peterborough citizen, who has been particularly active in civic and municipal affairs, Mr. Bolton is chairman of the Peterborough Recreation Committee, and is the Principal of Prince of Wales School. During World War II Mr. Bolton was a Lieutenant-Colonel and he held administrative and staff appointments.

As Director of Utilities, the committee feels that in Mr. Gordon Hodgson they have an administrator well qualified for this planning and co-ordinating position. Mr. Hodgson is Assistant Works Accountant of the Canadian General Electric Company, and, prior to coming to Peterborough, was travelling auditor for the C.G.E.

R. R. Faryon, in charge of publicizing the Peterborough defence measures, say that "at the next meeting of the co-ordinating Committee Peterborough's general Defence Plan will be discussed with these new directors, and work will begin immediately in extending the general plan to each of these Divisions. As soon as possible Sub-Directors will be appointed to the various sections under each Division of the Plan."

Wartime Houses Burnham's Pt. PermanentPlace

Concrete sidewalks for the community at Burnham's Point recall the concern of the council for assurance that the first block of wartime houses would be removed when peace returned.

These walks were recently authorized by the council for Edgewater Boulevard, Wallace Point, Bruce St. and Burnham's Point, also a lane on the east side of Edgewater Boulevard. As improvements they give more permanent effect and facilities to the community overlooking Little Lake.

That project was approved by the council in 1940 in co-operation with the Dominion government when it became evident that Peterborough industries were to be switched to war production with largely increased payrolls and consequent need of houses to accommodate incoming families.

To Have Been Temporary

War Time Housing Corporation let the contract for that project to Eastwood Construction Company and there was an understanding that with the restoration of peace the houses would be dismantled.

They were regarded as temporary in their planning and building, and it was feared that eventually they might become delapidated and recede into slum conditions.

Meanwhile, housing developed into a separate problem, and the council yielded to the necessity of maintaining the Burnham's Point subdivision. Gradually, the original owners, Peterborough Lumber Company, whose lumber mill used to overlook the lake from the cove on the south shore, passed out of possession, and the properties were sold to tenants. Permanent basements were excavated under most of them.

Kept In Repair

Generally, the buildings have been kept in repair. About all that is lacking is some paint treatment here and there. In fact, if there is any place in the city that should go in for some of those bright colors of present day decoration it is the Burnham's Point colony with its enhancing setting of Little Lake.

The sidewalks are a further reinforcing of the group residence and the whole area will probably be as sound ten years hence as they are today with their first ten years of occupation behind them.

Truck Overturns Blocks Traffic

Motor traffic was held up for five hours late Thursday night when a large transport overturned on Highway 7, a half mile east of Havelock. Provincial police from headquarters in Peterborough directed single-car traffic around the truck until a Cobourg wrecking crew removed it at 3:15 a.m. today.

The accident occurred at 10:15 p.m. when the Motorways Transport truck, driven by Charles Baumhauer, 36, of Carleton Place, collided with the rear end of a small panel truck driven by Charles McLean of Trent River.

Both eastbound vehicles went out of control. The panel truck shot off the highway to the right, ran through the ditch and plowed into a wire fence. Damage amounts to $300.

The transport, carrying an 11-ton load of cardboard packing, was attempting to pass the panel truck when the collision occurred. After going out of control it overturned on the right shoulder of the highway and slid 100 feet along the paved surface, blocking normal motor traffic. More than $1,000 damage was caused to the transport.

Both men were shaken up. Baumhauer received a badly-bruised right leg and other body injuries. McLean was uninjured except for a bump on the head.

Provincial Constables W. E. Mohns and L. H. Stinson investigated the accident and directed traffic until the highway was cleared.

Truck Driver On 2 Charges After Accident

Following an accident Thursday night, Stewart Harding, 2 Princess St., faced two charges in police court today.

Charges of careless driving and having liquor in an illegal place were adjourned to Feb. 1.

Harding, driving a truck north on Armour Rd. about 9.25 p.m. attempted to make a left turn into Hazlitt St. The truck went into a spin on the icy surface.

K. R. Whitaker, 11 River Rd., driving south on Armour Rd. tried to stop when he saw the truck spinning, but the rear of the truck platform crashed into Whitaker's car, smashing the left front fender, the hood, windshield and radiator. No one was hurt, despite flying glass.

Constable Donald Mackay reported that as he and Constable Louis Rodreque drove up to the scene, they saw Harding walking into a lane with a bottle in his hand. Constable Rodreque followed Harding and found a partly-filled bottle of wine in the snow from where Harding was walking back.

The constables could smell alcohol on the man's breath.

Imming Given Three Years In Penitentiary For Part In Big Car Fraud

Paul Imming, 25, of Lake St., Thursday afternoon was sentenced to three years in penitentiary for his part in a $100,000 car-finance swindle. He pleaded guilty to a total of nine charges—five of forgery and four of false pretences. His alleged partner in the swindle, Aubrey S. Hancock, 35, also of Peterborough, is now in Kingston penitentiary serving a three-year term after pleading guilty to 25 similar charges. He was sentenced last May.

Victim of the pair was the Colonial Finance Co. of Toronto. According to police they conducted the swindle by using the licence and serial number of actual cars. Then they invented a fictitious car and owner and made an equally fictitious sales agreement.

The phoney sales agreements were turned over to the Colonial Finance Co. who unsuspectingly sent along money-loans to the fictitious third party. The money, after being picked up at a convient address or a post office, came back to Hancock or Imming.

"Careless Corporation"

Monthly payments were made by them in the name of the fictitious borrower. And this satisfied the company which W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, described as "a rich and careless corporation."

Imming was committed for trial November 16 and Thursday afternoon elected trial before Judge S. L. Smoke, without a jury, in county court. He pleaded guilty.

Mr. Fair asked the mercy of the court for Imming. He pointed out that Imming had no previous criminal record.

"There was no violence, nobody was harmed," said Mr. Fair. "It was a mean transaction toward a rich and careless corporation."

Asks Reformatory Term

He asked Judge Smoke to take these matters into consideration before passing sentence. And he suggested a reformatory term where Imming could learn a trade.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw observed that Imming could learn a trade in Kingston. Hancock, his alleged partner, has already completed his senior matriculation while in prison and is now taking a Queen's University course in accounting.

Mr. Bradshaw said that Imming had swindled the company out of about $50,000 and he had made no restitution. There were a long list of other charges that might have been read, he intimated.

Regretted

Judge Smoke said he regretted having to pass sentence on so young a man and a first offender, but it was his duty to protect the public from such offences.

"I'm not disposed to heed the plea of your counsel that you should not go to penitentiary," he said. "A crime of this nature requires a penitentiary sentence."

The Judge sentenced him to three years on all nine counts, to be served concurrently.

Imming, neatly dressed in a blue double-breasted suit, seemed to accept the sentence philosophically. After court adjourned he smiled and shook hands with his defence counsel and Crown Attorney Bradshaw. Then he stepped briskly from the prisoner's box and headed for the cells below.

Mr. Fair later told the Examiner he would appeal the sentence because of Imming's youth and the fact he had no previous criminal record.

Canal Engineer A. W. Spence Dies Here At 85

Civil engineer on several of Ontario's large waterway projects, Alexander W. Spence, 21 Benson Ave., died Thursday in his 85th year. While with the old department of railways and canals, Mr. Spence worked on the Peterborough lift lock, the Kirkfield locks, the Sault Ste. Marie ship canal and several other divisions along the Trent canal. He retired in 1933.

Mr. Spence was born in Jordon, Ont., the son of the late James Bruce Spence and Annie Wattie. Besides his wife, the former Gertrude Burden, surviving, are a daughter, Mrs. G. E. West (Jessie), of Sorel, Quebec; a sister, Mrs. Mary Ketchum of Ottawa, nephews, Jesse Ketchum and James Bruce Spence of Ottawa and one grandson, Eric West of St. John's, Newfoundland.

Mr. Spence has been living in Peterborough since he came here as engineer for the lift lock project in 1896. He is a member of St. John's Anglican church and a charter member of the Spry Lodge, AF & AM, Fenelon Falls.

The funeral will be Saturday at 2:30 p.m. from the Comstock funeral home, Archdeacon W. P. Robertson officiating. Burial will be at the Little Lake cemetery.

Book Fair Show Through Ex-City Men

Grandstand attractions for the Peterborough Exhibition next August may be booked through two former Peterborough men, Wm. Steer and Wm. Widdess of Toronto. They met members of the board of directors this week, and were asked to submit a program with costs for a further conference with the committee.

From their experience in arranging dinner concerts and other programs, Messrs. Steer and Widdess are branching out into the circuit of the larger fairs.

Clarence Bacon, chairman of the amusement committee, and G. A. Gillespie, secretary-manager, with authority from the board signed a contract for return of the Bernard and Barry midway Thursday.

Directors are proceeding at once to prepare the 1951 prize list. Directors in charge of the cattle section are meeting Saturday, and the sheep and swine committee Monday. An early meeting of the home department is being called by Mrs. G. K. Fraser.

Homemade Rinks

Skating Space Provided For Youngsters

Home-made rinks are the order of the week in Peterborough. All formal city rinks are fully occupied, of course, but the thawing and freezing and lack of snow have made natural rinks all over the city where youngsters are having the time of their lives, from after school until bedtime. Then the elders take over.

Dads and lads have put their wits and muscles together to make backyard rinks. Icy parks and lots provide tots who can barely stand up and their older brothers and sisters with skating space. Poof! to those closed, crowded rinks for them in these good skating days.

The canal, of course, is still a favorite gliding-ground for those who want freedom to wield hockey sticks, others who want freedom to skate away from hockey sticks, and the host of people who infinitely prefer outdoor skating on natural ice, when it can be found.

But the traditional skating spree from the city to Lakefield is out. While the canal is pretty free of snow, it is not free of water. In fact, there are only a few spots where the ice is really sound and safe.

Since early in the winter, a Charlotte Street wartime house resident has kept a front-lawn rink for children of the neighborhood. This area has not a city rink within eight or nine blocks, the closest being the Turner Park or the Stewart and McDonnel Streets rinks. Skating and hockey games are held in the evenings under lights, two spotlights beaming from the house's front windows.

On Water Street, George Street United Church's minister has a large rink on his lawn for skating. This rink has been kept in smooth condition and well-cleared of snow since early this winter for the small children.

In the South-end several fathers have built rinks in the backyards to teach their children to skate and play hockey. But the dads take advantage of them, too.

The rainfall over the past week-end provided outdoor rinks at the foot of Victoria Park hill and on several private lawns. About eight boys, ranging from 8 to 15 years were playing hockey in the park Thursday night in the semi-darkness.

While skaters will be able to breeze along this week-end, the local ski enthusiasts will have to dream for their fun. Snow conditions are poor.

May Reopen Mercury Mine At Pinchi Lake

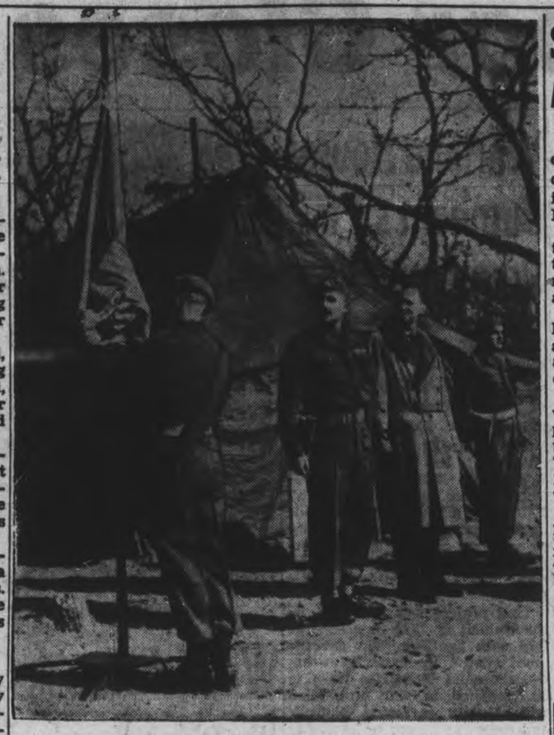
PINCHI LAKE, B.C., Jan. 26—(CP)—The ghosts of war are lurking around this deserted village in northern British Columbia.

An all-time high price for quicksilver may mean reopening of North America's only major mercury mine here.

During the last war, Pinchi, owned by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Trail, B.C., was the only large supplier of the vital metal to the Allied cause.

When the war ended and mercury prices slumped sharply, it was unprofitable to mine mercury from the big but thin-grade deposits, and the operation was shut down.

Mercury, used in the manufacture of explosives, now has hit a record price in world markets. Pinchi may be reopened as the tempo of defence preparedness accelerates.



Plan To Expand

Consolidated has not made any announcement about the property but the company recently allocated 15,000,000 for expansion projects in B.C. Some of this may go toward a new start at Pinchi.

Pinchi Lake, located northwest of Prince George, was a "hush-hush" project during the war because it was the major source of quicksilver for explosives for the Allies.

After the war, mercury prices skidded to $70 a flask of 76 pounds. Company officials said it cost $108 a flask to produce it. However, the price now has risen to $233.50 for a flask. It jumped more than $43 a flask in one day at New York.

Since the war, the village of Pinchi, which had modern stores, hotels and movie theatre, has been all but deserted.

Sentiment, Steaming Haggis Mark Burns Day Over World

EDINBURGH, Jan. 26—(Reuters)—Scotland feasted Thursday on noble sentiment and haggis in honor of the birthday of poet Robert Burns.

The genius of the bard was extolled at celebrations in every town and hamlet of the land by many of her greatest orators — and some of her worst.

The Burns devotees of the highlands, of modest suburban clubs and the great societies of the cities all joined in the annual torrent of words of praise of "Rabbie".

And fire by the spirit of universal brotherhood which he preached, they proudly toasted their "brithers" — the Scottish "exiles" who were honoring the poet at gatherings all over the world.

The spirit of Burns night companionship glowed alike in the humble pie supper of the villages and the opulent banquets of the Burns cult upper-crust.

For even the poorest celebration had its ample supply of these two great Scottish levellers — the rich Doric dialect of his stanzas and the mountain dew which southerners vulgarly call whisky.

And proudly dominating every festive board was the "great chieftani o' the pudding race", the haggis itself.

Played to the table by skirling bagpipes, to the table by skirling bagpipes, the fabulous minced offal of mutton, meal, suet and seasoning, enclosed in a sheep's stomach, gave the celebrations their remaining necessary touch of headiness.

Growers Take Vote

AYLMER, Jan. 26 (CP). — Seventy-six tobacco growers voted here Thursday night in favor of organizing under the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Act in preference to the Ontario Flue Cured Tobacco Marketing Board. Ten voters voted in the negative, and three abstained. The vote was taken by the executive of the Elgin Flue Cured Tobacco Growers' Association, as a guide for future action. In Rodney recently 55 growers favored the marketing act and only one opposed.

Living Costs Must Be Curbed President Gill Declares

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (CP). — E. C. Gill Thursday was elected president of the Canada Life Assurance Company, succeeding Edwin G. Baker, who becomes chairman of the board. A. N. Mitchell, formerly chairman, is continuing as a director.

Mr. Gill, a native of Kingston, is the company's 12th president in its 104 years, and has been with it since 1923.

In his address to Thursday's annual meeting as vice-president and general manager, he said in part:

"Living costs have reached the point where grave injustices are being inflicted on many people, and a very heavy financial burden is being imposed on a still greater number.

"The dangers of rising price levels are just as great in relation to the future purchasing power of the soundest investments in the country. Government bonds, saving deposits, annuities, pensions, and life insurance are all expressed in terms of dollars. . .

"We should clearly understand the dangers. At the same time we should be thankful that our government has pursued the policy of budget surpluses throughout the postwar period—failing which there would have been an even higher price level today. However, the most important duty we have is to urge the government to enforce their promised program to protect the present purchasing power of the Canadian dollar against a further decline."

India Stands On Firmer Ground Entering 2nd Year As Republic

By STEPHEN V. DAVID

NEW DELHI, Jan. 26 (AP)—India stands on firmer ground as it enters its second year as a republic. Many of its growing pains are behind it.

Much has been done by Prime Minister Nehru's government since the constitution of the Republic of India was inaugurated Jan. 26, 1950—2½ years after independence. No one claims the long period of strain has ended, but the feeling is general that a good start has been made.

One of the most striking accomplishments was the restoration of communal peace. A year ago, Hindus and Moslems were fighting in West Bengal, India, and East Bengal, Pakistan. But Nehru and Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan concluded a pact guaranteeing the security of the Hindu minority in Pakistan and the Moslem minority in India. Thousands who had left their homes for safety across the border began to return in a movement that gathered momentum as the year progressed.

Fight Against Reds

The Nehru government can also claim to have strengthened internal security by its unflagging fight against Communism. Terrorist activities persist, but the government says it had broken the back of the movement in the worst-affected area, southeastern Hyderabad state.

Indians find encouragement, too, in the improvement in this counry's economic health. It is still far from robust, but two important indicators—foreign trade and sterling balance—are looking up.

Not all aspects of India's economy are a source of satisfaction.

1. Inflation is still strong, although the government finds comfort in the fact that prices have not risen as sharply since Korea as they have in many countries.

2. The shortage of food has necessitated big imports from both sterling and dollar countries, draining away foreign exchange that might have gone for projects designed to raise the standard of living. Natural catastrophes have hampered the government's "grow more food" campaign.

3. The rate of industrialization is slow, and millions remain jobless because domestic capital continues shy.

And India's most pressing international problems—its arguments with Pakistan—remained unsolved.

What does the next year hold? Only an Indian astrologer would venture to guess. Given peace, Indian officials hope to hold the first general elections, whip the food problem, expand exports further and do what they can to raise the standard of living of 350,000,000 people.

The Retail Merchants' Association Thursday made public a motion passed by the directors of its foods division. Letters Threaten Toronto Veteran

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (CP). — "Poison pen" letters threatening to burn down the modest home of a Second World War veteran have led him to seek police protection for his wife and seven small children.

Chief constable Garnet McGill of Toronto township Thursday said the mysterious letters have been arriving at the home of salvage collector Charles Hannah during the last few months, threatening to burn the frame home the veteran built and paid for himself if it wasn't "cleaned up." Building inspectors said the structure meets all construction regulations.

The letters are signed "the ratepayers of Hicory Drive," the street on which Hannah lives. There are seven other homes on it some of whose owners have complained about the looks of Hannah's home and about the number of children the Hannahs have.

WOMAN BRAVES BLAZING HOUSE TO SAVE NEIGHBOUR'S CHILDREN

Mrs. Violet Cox, Oshawa, Ont., dashes into burning home to rescue neighbour's children.

1. The sound of laughing children was not new to Mrs. Violet Cox. So, at first, the sounds she heard did not seem at all out of the ordinary. Then, suddenly, she detected a new note in the young voices. These were really screams — screams of terror! Quickly she put down her work and frantically ran out her front door.

2. A fearful sight met her eyes. The entire front section of the house next door was on fire! For a second she stood speechless — but the screams of the three trapped children roused her to action. Racing to the rear she opened the door to be met by clouds of hot, choking smoke. Taking a deep breath, Mrs. Cox plunged inside.

3. After groping through the smoke, she found them in a back room. In an instant she had the two younger ones in her arms and, with the third clinging to her skirt, she got them all out to safety. We are proud to pay tribute to Mrs. Violet Cox through the presentation of The Dow Award.

Rubber Supply Greatest Yet No US Tire Shortage Seen

By JOHN L. COLLYER
President, B. F. Goodrich Co.

AKRON, O. —(NEA)— Barring an all-out war or a substantial reduction in crude rubber shipments to the major consuming countries, there should be enough crude and man-made rubber available to meet all military and essential civilian needs in 1951 in the United States.

The world supply of new rubber in the coming year should reach nearly 2,800,000 long tons —by far the greatest in history— unless there is a major outbreak in the Far Eastern rubber-growing areas. This figure would be made up of 1,860,000 tons of crude rubber and 940,000 tons of man-made rubber, of which 880,000 tons would be produced in the United States.

World consumption of new rubber in 1950 totalled about 2,240,000 long tons, which also established a new record. The United States alone consumed 1,240,000 tons of rubber in 1950, approximately 80 per cent more than in 1940. In 1951 this country should use slightly less rubber than in the previous year, despite higher military requirements.

Since last fall, when the standby government-owned rubber plants were ordered reactivated, the rubber supply situation has improved somewhat. Six months ago, all the government-owned, industry-operated plants were producing American rubber at the rate of about 43,000 tons each months. Approximately 61,000 tons were turned out in January, 1951, and by April this output should reach approximately 880,000 to 900,000 tons a year, compared to 525,000 consumed in 1950.

New Plants

On Jan. 15, the giant Institute, W. Va., plant started production of man-made rubber after being in standby status for several years. The task of reactivating the first of three units in the world's largest rubber-producing plant was completed in approximately 70 days. Full production will be achieved early in April. At that time Institute should be producing at its rated capacity of 90,000 long tons a year, almost equal to one month's rubber consumption in the United States.

A chemical plant at Port Neches, Tex., is producing considerably in excess of its 60,000-ton rated capacity. The combined production of American rubber from both plants is greater than that of any other company.

As Many Tires

The rubber industry expects to produce as many passenger car tires in January and February of this year as in November and December of 1950, despite government cutbacks in the consumption of new rubber for use in civilian products.

Total passenger car tire production last year in the USA was more than 77,000,000 units, an increase of 12,000,000 over 1949. In addition, about 2,000,000 more replacement truck and bus tires were sold in 1950 than in the preceding year, largely as the result of "scare buying" during the third quarter.

Although fewer tires will be sold to motorists and new car manufacturers in 1951, increased military buying is expected to partially offset this reduction. Last year only two per cent of the rubber industry's production went to the armed forces. The government has not yet placed any heavy military orders, but we understand large defense orders are contemplated.

Scare Buying

Unless there is a full-scale war and another round of "scare buying" the rubber industry should be able to make enough tires to meet the demands of the motoring public.

The United States' rubber stockpiling program and its industry's production have reached the point where they can sustain a major defense program. In fact the government's and industry's rubber stockpile now is as high as it was in the pre-Pearl Harbor days.

The tire price outlook for the remainder of the year still is up in the air. However, since more man-made rubber will be used in the manufacture of tires and since it costs less than crude rubber, we hope to be able to hold the price line.

We want to emphasize that last year's tire shortage was entirely man-made and caused by the buying of tires by some unpatriotic persons who did not need them. If Americans buy tires and other rubber products only when they really need them, there should be sufficient supplies available to meet all military requirements and all essential civilian requirements.

Youth's Tip Sets Spurring Search

MONTREAL, Jan. 26 (CP)—A 21-year-old youth's claim that he knows the identity of the killers of William Sloan Thursday sent homicide-holdup squad detectives into several Ontario cities to establish whether his tip is founded.

Chief of Detectives Wilfrid Bourdon and his assistant, Inspector Ernest Francoeur, announced that they had sent men to Ontario during the night and this morning after the detained youth was quesioned for several hours.

"It is too early yet to know whether there is any foundation to the story," Bourdon said. "We may know later today."

Sloan, 65-year-old one-time Russian soldier, was shot to death by one of two youths who attempted to steal from his cash register Monday night in his general store.

Police said the detained youth was taken into custody following an anonymous telephone tip. He broke down under hours of quizzing and implicated two youths who as yet have not been located.

MILLINERY CATCHES THE SPIRIT OF SPRING—The side-swept bicorne, left, in Skinner white satin is trimmed with self roses poised over either ear. The sweet curves and high shine of pure silk satin makes a hat that catches the spirit of the late-day dress or the spring dressmakers suit. The silhouette-broken brim "Shell Beret" right, with the flair for the side-swept look, has straw top in a warm sun-lit tone that the designer calls "Yellow-Rose". The under brim is faced wtih navy velvet and there is a wide-meshed veil.

Women Doctors Given Chance

TORONTO, Jan. 26 (CP)—The Toronto Women's College Hospital is giving a limited number of women doctors from Europe and Asia an opportunity to resume their medical careers.

Immigrant doctors find it difficult to gain permission to practice in Canada—openings for internship are few, and men and women long out of university find examinations on theory set by the medical profession here a big hurdle to clear.

Since 1946, six doctors have interned at the Women's College Hospital and now are established in practice. Four are in Toronto, one is in Western Canada and the other returned to China.

Three others now are interning at the hospital. When they pass their medical council tests they will join the 446 other women doctors in Canada (3.4 per cent of the total).

The three are Dr. Helen Glawdan and Dr. Naida Iwachnuik, natives of the Ukraine, and Dr. Gertrude Freund, from Czechoslovakia.

Dr. Iwachnuik and Dr. Glawdan estimated Thursday that in Canada are 50 doctors from the Ukraine alone who have so far found no opening to interne at a Canadian hospital, a regulation which must be met before they are able to try examinations and practice. Some of them, they said, are doing menial work to make a living.

Training In Surgery Aids Newest of Top Designers

LONDON, Jan. 26 (Reuters).—When it comes to cutting a gown there is nothing like a year or so in medical college with an ambition to be a surgeon.

This information, which will be little use to the girls who make their own, comes right from the cutters mouth—the mouth of the newest member of Britains big-10 fashion group.

He is tall, distinguished looking, and his name is Michael Donnely.

Before the war he was a medical student and hoped to be a surgeon. Today he told in an interview how the experiences he got during the student years were paying off now in a different way than was intended. It must be true, ast the loveliest 2-piece suit in London today was by Lachasse—the name in front of Donnely—who was elected to the big-10 only a few months ago to fill the place left vacant when Molyneux retired.

The suit, appropriately named Cherie, is in cream-colored lace, covered with black chiffon. Collars and cuffs are in black taffeta. Secret of the attraction is the contrast between the severe, tailored line and the glamorous luxury fabric.

Like the rest of the models in this house, this suit featured set-in shoulders, narrow waist with stiffened basques, pencil-slim skirt and bracelet length sleeves.

Throughout the Lachasse collection attention is paid to detail and color. Sophisticated handling of color is reminiscent of Paris fashion king Christian Dior — famous for his neutral shades and introduction of rich color in accessories such as hats, scarf and gloves.

The house of Lachasse, picturesquely situated in a converted stable in Mayfair's well-known Farm Street, has already cradled two members of the Big 10—Digby Morton and Hardy Amies.

Bake Class Draws Smaller Crowd To Cooking School

Fewer women of this city are interested in baking than in jiffy meals, it appears, as attendance at Thursday evening's cooking school was just over 500, members of Major Bennett Chapter report. In this class the demonstrator made a bride's cake and iced it and it was given to the most recent bride in the audience, Mrs. Max Marshall.

She also prepared a topsy turvy mince meat pie which was drawn by Mrs. J. Twigg, orange petal muffins that went to Mrs. R. Wilde, ham biscuits won by Mrs. D. Wyatt, and cookies which went to Miss K. Weese.

Mrs. J. Wardlow won a prize on her favorite recipe which was selected from those handed in at the door.

The grocery bags went to Mesdames F. S. Atkinson, G. Coleman Sr., A. J. Pacey, J. P. Bickle, D. Metheral, J. Yarn, A. Lacey, N. S. Courtney, J. Willey, Misses S. Harrison and M. Armitage, and a 12th was unclaimed but will go to holder of ticket 1727.

Other Winners

Winners of bags of flour were Mesdames W. Hardwicke, P. R. Castle, J. Hickey, H. Kitchen, R. G. Allan and J. L. Evans. Cases of beverages went to Miss Betty O'Brian and Mrs. E. J. McDonald. Mrs. May Dormer won a hamper of Canned goods; Miss Ada Rose, "Health" magazine; Mrs. R. Watson, a permanent wave. Cans of floor wax were drawn by Mrs. Bert Mortlock and Mrs. W. Bennett, and Miss Mary Greer and Miss Betty Meacher each won two pounds of butter.

The major prize, an electric blanket, was drawn for at close of the school and won by holder of a ticket from Wednesday night, No. 157. This lucky person may claim her prize by applying to Miss Ruth Kingan, convener of the cooking school.

Mr. L. W. Copp Addresses WCTU

Regular meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held Thursday in the YWCA with Mrs. W. A. Poast presiding. Mrs. S. D. Carver and Mrs. J. H. Rowe had charge of the devotional period.

Mr. L. W. Copp spoke of his studies of the United Nations organization. Having visited Lake Success, he gave a clearly instructive description of the workings of the economic and social council division of the U.N., stressing the aid given to the destitute and undernourished children of the world through the International Children's Fund. He told, too, of the many aids to world economy, which fall under the direction of this council.

Two delightful solos were contributed by Mrs. V. Whittington.

Mrs. A. A. McIntyre was chosen as this Union's representative to the World Day of Prayer service on Febraury 9th.

Experts Praise Refugee's Art

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C.—(CP) — Parsala Gulbis paints neckties for a living but she is rapily becoming known for her portraits and murals.

The slight brunette, in her early 20s, arrived in Canada two years ago from her native Russian-dominated Latvia to find the freedom to give full expression to her artistic ambition.

Gradually she learned to speak English and took up tie-painting in a New Westminster factory to earn a living, always keeping in mind her goal of becoming a recognized artist.

Her portraits and compositions, painted in her spare time, have been declared by experts to possess lifelike qualities, with natural beauty and richness of coloring.

She painted a large mural of an English hunting scene and has done a large-scale original composition depecting Christ's journey to Calvary.

She is planning to stage an exhibition of her work this year and is spending every spare minute completing new compositions for the show.

Retring president Mrs. J. Adams was elected convener of the sewing group and representative to the Civic Hospital Auxiliary Mrs. G. Penhall was re-elected representative to the parish council.

The meeting was led in open prayer by Mrs. J. Morley and Mrs. P. Burnham read the scripture lesson. Mrs. H. G. Hartle contributed to the program with a piano solo.

A gift was presented to Mrs. J. Adams in appreciation of her nine years' service as leader.

The meeting closed with prayer and refreshments were served by Mrs. F. Dunford and assistants.

Success Depends On Home Training Speaker Says

"The aim of any individual is to be useful and happy. To what degree he succeeds in this, depends on his ability to fit into a society."

Mrs. Donald Whyte spoke these words in introducing her lecture "Children in the Happy Home," one of a series in the Marriage Counselling Course sponsored by the Mr. and Mrs. Club of Trinity United Church. She continued:

"A home is society in miniature. A home presents most of the problems and situations to be found anywhere. So, home is a training ground, and because this is true, the making of a home is a challenge and a great responsibility. The job of guiding the development and growth of human personality, is the most difficult job of all."

One of the fundamental needs for every person is to feel secure. "The home can provide this security for each of its members" said Mrs. Whyte. She quoted Dr. J. E. Laycock as saying "You might not think it to talk to them, but adolescents do need parents. They want them as counsellors and friends, not as supervisors and dictators," to emphasize need of guidance and love of sympathetic and understanding parents.

Speaking of the operation of a home Mrs. Whyte said "Parents must be certain of their own philosophy. If they have a sure and certain faith in worthwhile values, their children are likely to acquire it, both by their example, and also by their guidance."

On handling children Mrs. Whyte quoted Angelo Patri, "The rod is the emblem of parental ignorance and incapacity." She said "Undoubtedly, spankings judiciously spaced, do pay dividends but as a general rule, use your imagination in meting out punishment. Make the punishment fit the crime."

When asked what she thought of comic books, Mrs. Whyte replied:

"Investigating committees have reported that there is no harm in comic books. I am willing to take their word for it. But they do not go so far as to say that there is any good in comic books.

"There is such a wealth of wonderful literature appealing to children of all ages, and only a limited time each day for a child to read—that time spent on comic books is not time invested," she remarked.

"Also, reading comic books promotes bad reading habits. A child does not read with any intention of retaining what he has read. It is just for the momentary pleasure. Unfortunately there is a carry-over when he comes to reading school texts and books which are well worth remembering."

Mrs. Whyte was introduced to some 30 parents in attendance by Mrs. John Pierce. She was thanked by Rev. Dr. Gordon.

Kinsmen Entertain Their Ladies At Supper Dance

Colored slides and commentary of his 40-day world trip by James Wharry, was the entertainment at the Kinsmen Club supper dance Thursday night at the Kawartha Country Club. In addition Mr. Wharry showed colored slides of the lake district north of Peterborough. He was introduced by Harley Weir, Kinsmen's president and chairman for the evening, and thanked by Clarence Boorman.

Following the supper a sing song was led by Bill Godson with Stan Gilmour at the piano. Mr. Gilmour proposed the toast to the ladies which was replied to by Mrs. Howard Powell, president of Kinettes.

Mrs. Joe Burns won the lucky draw prize which was a huge basket of articles donated by Kinsmen.

New members of the club who were introduced by President Weir were Eric Johnston, Don Grills, Gordon Farquharson, George Ball, Bud LaPlante, Earle Toole and George Stone.

The Kinsmen entertained the ladies for cocktails before dinner and provided orchestra music for dancing the latter part of the evening.

NO TRIMMINGS

The entire population of Japan drinks tea, mostly green, without milk or sugar.

President of Kinsmen and president of Kinettes, Mr. Harley Weir and Mrs. Howard Powell were pictured last night with Mr. James Wharry, also a Kinsman, at the club's annual party for the ladies held at the Kawartha Country Club.

Land Reform Puts Mayor To Task of Providing Brides

BONFELD, Germany —(Reuters)— Land reform has made Mayor Reinhard Volpp turn cupid, and he's not happy about it.

"I am no marriage agency," says the jovial Volpp. But thanks to him 30 young local farmers soon may have more land and a wife apiece.

The role of marriage agent was thrust upon the unwilling mayor last October. That's when he was dividing among Bonfeld farmers part of the estate of the local lord of the manor, the Freiherr von Gemmingen, in accordance with West Germany's land reform law.

Almost 200 acres were to go to the smallholders around the village. There was only one condition—recipients had to be married.

And despite a severe man shortage in West Germany, 30 of the farmers had managed to stay single.

Tragic Position

"It's a tragic position," Mayor Volpp explained.

"The local girls don't want to marry farmers. They prefer industrial workers—its an easier life."

The mayor's problem was partly solved for him when a small report on the village appeared in the local newspaper.

This brought first of all a drove of reporters descending on the peaceful village. Then, from all over Germany, letters began to arrive from would-be farmers' wives.

So far there have been more than 60 letters, Volpp said.

They came from unmarried girls, widows and refugees. Some were from farmers' daughters, many from town girls tired of living among ruins and fighting alone the rising cost of living.

Slow Process

At first the mayor did not know what to do. But finally he decided to distribute the addresses of the "marriage candidates" among his bachelor farmers.

He knows the farmers, and their tastes.

"None of them can put anything over on me," he said. "I just tell them 'come off it, I knew your father.'"

He talked each letter over with his secretary. Finally each bachelor got one or two addresses of suitable girls.

"Then I told them to get on with it," Volpp said.

No Hurry

Asked whether any of the farmers had married his "candidates," he replied:

"Oh no, no. It does not go as quickly as that.

"But a lot of letter writing is going on, and one or two of the girls have been down here. One couple might even get engaged soon.

"When the first five marry, I've told them we will have a village feast."

Only one thing worries Mayor Volpp. He is a little anxious about becoming the father-in-law of the village.

"If things turn out badly, they might start to say 'we have that old so-and-so of a mayor to thank for this,'" he said.

DOROTHY DIX

Anyone Who Can Read Can Learn to Cook

DEAR MISS DIX: Can you tell me where I can go to learn to cook? My mother is a good cook, but she never taught me. Always said that I would learn how when I had to and that she didn't know how to cook when she married. Now I am married and I am ashamed of the kind of food that I give my husband. I want to learn how to cook and make him comfortable. How can I do it?

A BRIDE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Buy a cook book and follow directions. Read the newspapers. Almost every one of them runs a culinary department that tells not only how to prepare food but also how to buy it, and that is invaluable to every housekeeper.

Any woman who can read and has even ordinary intelligence can make herself an expert cook in three months if she is determined to do it. There is nothing esoteric about cooking. It is an exact science. The women who are always hoping that their bread will be light, or that their cake won't fall, or that their meat won't be overdone or underdone are just cooks who are too careless or too ignorant or too lazy to have ever taken the trouble to master their profession.

The best cook I know is a woman who went from the schoolroom into business, and who had hardly ever had her foot in a kitchen until she married at middle age. Her husband was a man who was by way of being an epicure, and so she set herself to learn how to please his fastidious taste. Today her dinners are famous.

You are quite right in realizing the importance of learning how to cook, because your happiness and the success of your marriage depend more upon that than upon any other one thing. The best recipe ever given for holding a husband's love is the old one: "Feed the brute."

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am engaged to a young man and we are to be married next month if I do not decide to break the engagement. Here is the trouble: He says he cares for no one but me, but he is constantly petting about girls, regardless of who it is or where we are. He has to put his arms around every girl he meets. When I get peeved over this he says he doesn't mean a thing by it, it is just a habit of which he can't break himself. What chance of happiness do you think I will have married to a man like this?

ANSWER: None at all unless you are able to take a much more philosophical view of a husband's philandering than most wives seem able to attain. Unfortunately women are monopolists by nature and want to keep their husbands' caresses for themselves alone.

There are some men who never can concentrate their affections on any one woman. While this promiscuous petting probably doesn't really mean anything serious, it shows the wife just where she stands. She is also just one among many and, in reality, he cares no more for her than he does for Sally or Mary or Jane. And it also shows exactly how far his wife could trust him and how faithful he will be to her, which would be just as long as there was no other skirt on the horizon.

The man with the petting habit is a bad bet for a husband, and the worst of it is that it is pretty sure to grow on him after marriage.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What is a person to do when a friend comes to visit her and brings along children who wreck the house? Before my guest arrived I locked everything lockable and hid everything hideable. I gave the child toys galore to play with, but did these amuse her? Not at all. She took the cushions off the davenport, wrecked my house flowers, mussed my best dress, pounded the piano, burned the rug, stood up in her chair at the table and reached across and filled her plate with the entire contents of a dish. And all that her mother said was: "Oh darling!" What on earth is a hostes to do with such guests?

MRS. B. W.

U.K. Gas Board Fixes Kitchens

LONDON —(CP)— Many British housewives with old-fashioned kitchens wish they lived in the North Thames area.

There a regional gas board sponsors a scheme, free of charge, whereby advisors are sent to any house in the district to examine kitchen equipment. If suggestions for improvements are too costly, the advisor will make alternative plans.

"We might be able to save a housewife miles of walking just by shifting tables and cupboards around," said one advisor. "Or it might be just a small job of carpentering, moving shelves or changing lighting."

Since the service began a month ago, six kitchens have been completely replanned and more than 100 housewives have saved steps. A typical change is the shifting of a sink situated to close to a boiler that the housewife had almost to crawl under the sink.

"When the people found it was an inexpensive job to shift the sink a little way along the wall, they could not think how they'd put up with it so long," said the board.

What's Right

You have a date with a young man who sits out in his car and blows the horn for you to come out.

WRONG: Run out to the car.

RIGHT: Stay in the house until he comes to the front door for you. If he asks why you didn't come out when you heard the horn, tell him you expect your date to come to the front door for you.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Banana Pie Creamed Worthy Dish

My family is as crazy about banana cream pie as Blondie's, so whenever I have time and crave a little praise I make one, and I think it is worthy of this Friday column, and that is why I am going into such careful details.

I like to think that the recipes such as banana cream pie and other perennial favourites that I give you are so dependable as to become an indispensable part of your cookery files.

I have worked on this recipe for many years, so the version I am printing today is no take-a-chance thing. It is sure-fire.

Emem's Banana Cream Pie

This filling fills one crust made in a glass pie plate that measures 8½ inches inside measurement at top rim.

Put on to heat in top of a double boiler over boiling water 1½ measuring cupsful of whole milk. In a bowl mix together 2 tablespoons cornstarch (level and exact measuring spoon measures, of course), ½ cup sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt. When mixed add 3 egg yolks, putting the whites in a bowl in which they can be beaten when you are ready to make the meringue. Mix the yolks into the dry mixture thoroughly, then pour about half of the hot milk over this mixture stirring fast. Then dump the whole business into the reamining hot milk in the double boiler. At this point I beat it until it starts to thicken with the rotary beater, then I take that out and stir with a spoon because it gets very thick. Remove from heat. (This does not need 15 minutes further cooking at this point to cook the cornstarch because it gets that when you bake the meringue.)

Now stir into this while it is very hot ¼ cup cream or rich top milk and exactly 2 measuring teaspoonfuls of lemon juice—yes, lemon juice—and it does not curdle. Have ready your freshly baked pie shell, filled with one large sliced banana or two small sliced bananas. I cut one big banana in halves lengthwise and holding these together in my left hand made each slice into 2 small half rounds. This made an evener distribution over the bottom of the crust and kept the pieces from being so big when a fork was used to eat the pie. Pour over the lovely rich custard and spread it evenly.

Meringue: Beat the leftover whites until nearly stiff then add 6 tablespoons (level) of granulated sugar and beat until stiff and creamy looking. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Spread attractively over the filling.

Put in oven of 200 deg. Fahr. to give the meringue a lovely biscuit tinge and to cook it. This takes about one-half hour.

It is at its best if served about one hour after it has cooled to room temperature.

Cocoanut Cream Pie

Make filling same as for banana cream pie, but do not put bananas in crust. Before putting filling in crust add ½ to 1 cup dessicated or freshly grated peeled cocoanut. A cocoanut cream pie made with freshly grated peeled cocoanut is an eating experiece you should treat yourself to before you leave this world.

Red Cross, St. John Ambulance Sign Pact To End Duplication

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 — (CP) — Two of Canada's largest welfare organizations today defined their spheres of action to prevent possible overlapping of effort. They are the Canadian Red Cross Society and the St. John Ambulance Association, which during the years have taught first aid to more than 1,000,000 Canadians and home nursing to many thousands.

The 19-point pact was signed at Rideau Hall in the presence of the Governor-General, prior of the St. John Order in Canada and Honorary President of the Red Cross.

C. A. Gray of Ottawa, sub-prior of the Order, and another official, Thomas Guerin of Montreal, signed on behalf of St. John. L. A. Winter of Toronto, honorary treasurer of the Red Cross, and P. Vaillancourt of Montreal signed for the Red Cross.

Terms of the agreement cover services offered by both organizations and call for appointment of a joint operational committee to study matters affecting both bodies.

Gradual Withdrawal.

Under the agreement, St. John will encourage members to participate in the Red Cross blood transfusion service. The order will withdraw its blood "grouping" service in areas where the Red Cross is progressing with blood transfusion.

While the Red Cross service encourages voluntary donors with an eye to setting up a blood bank system across Canada, St. John's service is confined to keeping a record of the type of blood of would-be donors on file until an occasion arises when their kind of blood is necessary.

The pact recognizes the widespread nursing services offered by the two bodies, both of which agree that "confusion in the public mind can best be avoided by adequate joint publicity clearly defining the role of each."

Belongs to Red Cross.

St. John, which provides standardized courses in home nursing and child welfare, recognizes the organization and operation of sick-room supply services as a prerogative of Red Cross. The Order untertakes not to enter this field except on assurance from Red Cross that it does not wish to operate in the area concerned.

St. John will be responsible for the teaching of first aid in industry and for the training in first aid in municipal uniformed employees such as police and firemen.

St. John also will continue to operate first-aid posts and patrols at public gatherings.

Highway first aid posts will be operated jointly each organization sharing equally in operating costs as well as in the provision of training and of technical supervision.

Bishops Decide Locally About Rotary

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 26—(AP)—L'Osservatore Romano said today Roman Catholic bishops must decide locally whether "to exhort" Catholic laity to withdraw from the ranks of the Rotary Club.

The Vatican newspaper said that in some countries, "in practice", Rotary had shown itself to be "tolerant and well-meaning towards religious interests".

The comment, described by the Vatican press office as "an authorized article" and by other Vatican sources as having been prepared by the supreme congregation of the holy office, which issued a decree concerning Rotary on Jan. 11, reiterated that Roman Catholic clergy cannot be members of Rotary or attend its meetings.

The comment was issued, it said, because of various requests for clarification and because of published interpretations of the decree some of which 'minimized' and others 'amplified' the import of the decree.

The comment did not detail minimizations or amplifications but said it was "an error" to attribute to Rotary all the qualifications of canonical code 684—cited by the decree—which exhorts Catholics to guard themselves from "associations that are secret, condemned, seditious, suspected or that seek to draw away from the legitimate vigilance of the church".

$4,400 Maximum Set For Suburban Teachers

TORONTO, Jan. 26— (C P) — Representatives of 10 of the 11 suburban Toronto school areas Thursday night approved a salary schedule calling for a $2,000 minimum and a $4,400 maximum for teachers.

It was a move to standardize salaries of teachers in the greater Toronto area.

The $2,000 minimum will be a starting salary for public school teachers who have had no summer school training or university degree. Yearly increases of $200 will be permitted along with an experience allowance of $100 a year up to $600.

The only suburb not represented at the meeting, Forest Hill village, has agreed to pay its teachers on a scale ranging from $2,800 to $5,800.

4 Months Reformatory On Drink Charges

Pleading guilty to two third offence drunk charges, John Whaley, 45, 272 Westcott St., was sentenced to four months in Guelph Reformatory in police court today.

One charge had been adjourned several times previously. The other was laid today when Whaley was picked up drunk by police officers Thursday night.

No More Flogging

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 26 (AP)—There'll be no more whippings in Alabama's prisons. Governor Gordon Persons issued a blunt order Thursday to all wardens and road camp superintendents to turn in their straps and never flog or give corporal punishment to prisoners again.

Woman Shoplifter Gets 10 Days

Pleading guilty to a charge of shoplifting, Miss Ada Clements, Princess St., was sentenced in police court to 10 days in the county jail.

"I did it and I might as well own up to it," the accused woman said.

Detective-Sergeant W. A. (Bud) Clarke said Miss Clements was caught in the T. Eaton store with a shopping bag containing two towels, four pillow slips, a woman's slip and a screw driver which she had stolen in the store.

The detective said he obtained a search warrant and in her house found two towels which she admitted taking from Eaton's and Stedman's.

He said there were many other household articles in the house which appeared to have been stolen, but the accused didn't know when she had taken them or from what store.

Advertising Booms

NEW YORK, Jan. 26 (AP). — National and local advertising in 1950 reached a record dollar volume of $5,684,700,000, Printers' Ink magazine reported on Thursday. The estimate, prepared by the Central Research Department of McCann-Erickson, Incorporated, represents an increase of 9.3 per cent over the $5,202,200,000 invested in such advertising in 1949. National advertising increased 10.3 per cent to $3,281,000,000; local advertising gained 7.9 per cent to $2,403,700,000. Newspaper advertising accounted for 36.2 per cent of the over-all total; direct mail for 14.7 per cent, radio for 11.6 per cent and magazines for 9.1 per cent.

R. F. Carnegie, Newsman Dies In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 (CP)—R. K. (Andy) Carnegie, 66, one of Canada's best-known newspapermen and one of the two correspondents chosen officially to accompany the King and Queen on the 1939 royal tour, died today.

He formerly was chief of the Ottawa Bureau of the Canadian Press and, since his retirement from the CP in 1949, had been writing editorials for the Ottawa Citizen. He began his newspaper career with the Citizen 45 years ago.

Mr. Carnegie was in apparent good health until two weeks ago, when he suffered a severe heart attack. He was taken to hospital, but did not recover. He died at 6.10 a.m. today.

Though his Christian names were Robert Kenneth, Mr. Carnegie was known almost universally as "Andy." The nickname stemmed from his surname and the fact that the opening of the Andrew Carnegie library in Ottawa was one of his reporting assignments.

Knew Leaders

Mr. Carnegie spent many years reporting the political scene of this capital and knew—sometimes on a close friendly basis—every prime minister from Sir Wilfred Laurier on.

On the Royal tour, he accompanied the King and Queen at all times from their departure in the United Kingdom to their return home.

Mr. Carnegie covered some of the best assignments open to Canadian newspapermen of his time and won a popularity enjoyed by few of his profession.

He covered or directed the coverage of most general elections in the last 25 years, travelled in Canada and abroad with former Prime Minister Mackenzie King on many occasions, and spent one summer on the Arctic patrol of the government supply ship Nascopie.

He was born in Toronto in August, 1884, but his parents moved at once to Rockport on the St. Lawrence river, where his father, Capt. John Carnegie, operated a fleet of ferries and other craft through the Thousand Islands.

On CP Staff Early

Mr. Carnegie became a reporter on The Ottawa Citizen in 1905 and was night telegraph editor when he joined The Canadian Press in 1919. Just two years after that organization began operations.

In 1921, he was transferred to Toronto, where he helped organize the political reporting at Queen's Park, and later became night editor of the coast-to-coast news gathering agency.

In 1927, Mr. Carnegie was moved to Ottaaw where he became head of the bureau the following year. He remained in that post until his retirement in May, 1949.

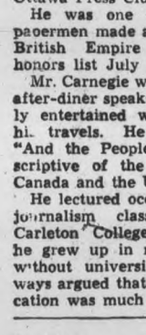
Not content with idleness, he at once began a weekly series of reminiscences and comment by a mythical "Daniel Surely," published in his old newspaper, The Ottawa Citizen. At the same time, he began a regular stint as an editorial writer.

Press Gallery Head

Mr. Carnegie was president of the Parliamentary Press Gallery the term of 1943-1944 and was an honorary life member of that organization as well as of the Ottawa Press Club.

He was one of those newspapermen made an Officer of the British Empire in the King's honors list July 1, 1946.

Mr. Carnegie was an interesting after-diner speaker and frequently entertained with accounts of his travels. He wrote a book, "And the People Cheered," descriptive of the Royal tour of Canada and the United States.



He lectured occasionally to the journalism class at Ottawa's Carleton College and, although he grew up in newspaper work without university training, always argued that the higher education was much to be desired.

Big Bag

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP).—Ray Mustard collected bounties on six big timber wolves he shot on his trap line on the Ram River. He encountered a pack of 20 which had killed a cow moose and bagged six of them before they fled.

Grey Owls Plentiful

SUDBURY (CP).—Reports indicate that the grey owl has invaded parts of northern Ontario in unusual numbers this winter. One taxidermist in Kirkland Lake received 36 of these birds for mounting, while 17 are reported from the lakehead. The large-type owl feeds mostly on mice.

Mrs. A. Orr reported a balance of $58.75 for the choir.

Rev. N. Cole, in his report, mentioned he had baptized 20 babies, performed 14 marriages, attended five funerals, 16 new members by profession of faith four transfers.

KITCHENER (CP). — The police department has completed tests on a new radio capable of covering Waterloo County and adjoining areas. Officials said the tower would prove invaluable in civic defence communications.

Fort Garry Presented To Canadians

OTTAWA, Jan. 26 — (CP) — Canada's last standing link with the historic figures who tamed and built the west, Lower Fort Garry has been deeded to the state as a national historic site.

Resources Minister Winters announced today that the 120-year-old stone fort 18 miles north of Winnipeg on the west bank of the Red River has been presented as a gift to the people of Canada by the governor and committee of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Built between 1831 and 1836, it once was the centre of the fur trade in the west. Canada's first treaty with the Indians was signed there and when Manitoba entered confederation in 1870 part of it became a jail. The last dog sled with supplies left its gate in 1911 and in 1913, with the sanction of the Hudson's Bay Company, it was taken over as headquarters for a motor country club.

The club, which has occupied the old fort since, is moving out, leaving it in good repair maintained mostly by the company over the years. It is the only fur-trade fort in North American remaining intact and unrestored.

In a letter to Prime Minister St. Laurent, Sir Patrick Ashley Cooper, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, said the company had long hoped the fort, so symbolic of the character and achievement of Canadians, would some day belong to the state. He was glad Canada would accept.

RCN Cayuga Helps Cover UN Landing

Allied Forces Resume Drive In Snow Along 40-Mile Front

WESTERN FRONT, Korea, Jan. 27 (CP).—South Korean sailors made a four-hour landing at the west Korean port of Inchon today under the protection of guns of United Nations ships including the Canadian destroyer Cayuga.

The South Korean sailors killed 40 North Koreans, captured two and left without casualties.

Besides the Canadian destroyer, ships giving protection to the landing were the US heavy cruiser St. Paul, and the American destroyer Hank.

The two destroyers poured shells into Inchon, port for burned-out former Republic of Korea capital of Seoul. The St. Paul's batteries were silent throughout the landing.

10 Ships Destroyed

The landing party went ashore in an 80-foot Korean navy gunboat.

AP Correspondent Bill Shinn reported from Republic of Korea headquarters that 10 Communist vessels were destroyed in the shelling.

He also said the bombardment destroyed Red military facilities in the port.

A steel-tipped column of two fight-hunting United States corps thrust today within 13 miles of Seoul. A U.S. Eighth Army spokesman called the advance along a 40-mile front through ankle-deep snow a limited offensive. Already nearly 700 Communists have been slain in two sharp engagements, some with bayonets and rifle butts used as clubs by the United Nations infantrymen. Most of the attackers were Americans. It was the first real Allied push since Chinese Reds jumped into the war late in November and reversed Gen. MacArthur's end-the-war campaign into a long retreat.

Bombarding warships, convoy-blasting planes and heavy concentrations of tanks and artillery aided the advance along a line extending eastward from Suwon through Kumyangjang, Ichon and Yoju.

One Allied force driving north reached a hill beyond Suwon and within 13 air miles of Seoul, the burned-out South Korean capital which the Reds took Jan. 4.

The tank-led drive, which jumped off under the eyes of the U.S. Eighth Army commander, Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, flushed out Chinese and Korean Reds in areas where it was thought they had pulled back.

Heavy Resistance

UN forces ran into heavy enemy resistance around Kumyangjang and near Ichon, two of four towns occupied in the first

Has Big Day

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (CP).—It was a big day for Ottawa's leading old soldier, the governor-general. Friday morning he shook hands and said goodbye to General Mark Clark, chief of the United States Army field forces and an old wartime friend. Friday evening the governor-general welcomed another old wartime friend to dinner —Gen. Eisenhower.

Can Stop Russia Launching War Eisenhower Sure

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (CP).—Gen. Eisenhower, on the last lap of a fact-finding survey of Atlantic Pact countries, too, off today for New York, on the way to report to President Truman and Congress.

"Goodbye and good luck to you" were his last words as he stepped into his plane.

An RCAF guard of honor was lined on the field for a good-bye salute to the supreme commander, Atlantic powers, Europe, who came here Friday.

In his report, Gen. Eisenhower will report that Russia can be deterred from launching war in Europe.

Has Confidence

He spoke with confidence—and with qualifications — of that conviction here Friday in conferences with the Canadian cabinet and military leaders.

His qualifications included that every member of the North Atlantic Alliance must contribute to the maximum possible, that Europe's first need is moral inspiration and that North America should do everything possible to convince Europe she is not alone, spiritually or physically.

In his only public statement, he told reporters he was "greatly encouraged" by his visit to Europe. Informed quarters said he carried this feeling into closed conferences.

Real Welcome

He arrived here from Iceland Friday for a day of contrasts—mild Communist demonstrations against his mission on the one hand, enthusiastic official reaction on the other. The largest police guard Ottawa has mounted for a visiting dignitary since the the war escorted him wherever he went.

His meetings with Prime Minister St. Laurent, the cabinet and defence officials were closed, and it is doubtful that anything will be said about them except in the broadest sort of generalities.

However, these are understood to have been among the developments:

1. He sent cabinet ministers away refreshed and inspired, but nevertheless aware of the momentus job ahead and of the need to treat the whole free world as one integrated spiritual whole.

2. He didn't suggest what Canada should do for Europe—officials say the pact organization has already been informed of what Canada proposes to do—nor did he suggest measures she should take, such as conscription. He did, however, discuss details of military matters, such as priorities for certain things over others.

3. Ottawa was put into the picture on what he found in Europe—impressions which he keynoted with this statement to reporters:

"I have been greatly encouraged by the growing realization all over (Western) Europe that the issues of peace and freedom are at stake and that they are willing and determined to do more to save those things."

U.S. Freezes Prices, Ask FBI Help

Using Highest Level Dec. 19—Jan. 25, Labor Heads Protest

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 — (AP). — The United States government ordered a long-expected temporary freeze of prices and wages Friday night, then turned today to the mountainous task of making the controls work.

The office of price stabilization, headed by Michael V. Disalle, flashed an SOS to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other agencies for help in enforcement.

One official said the OPS plans a "ruthless enforcement effort at the outset."

Oddly, at the same time, the OPS enforcement chief suddenly resigned. He is Rear Admiral John H. Hoover, retired naval officer. His reason for quitting was not clear, but another official somewhat hesitantly quoted Hoover as saying he had "completed his job of setting up the enforcement organization."

The twin freezes were welcomed by many men in Congress and in business, but labor leaders raised a big protest over the wage freeze. They want flexible controls that will permit lagging wages to catch up.

Renews Work

The wage stabilization board, which didn't order the wage freeze and took no responsibility for it, renewed its work today on a flexible formula to replace the freeze.

The price freeze does not apply to all prices. A long list of items, including many foods, will still have leeway to rise.

But most prices were frozen at the highest level of the period from Dec. 19 through Jan. 25. Since few things have dropped in price during that period, the general effect is to freeze Jan. 25 prices.

Wages and salaries were simply frozen as of Jan. 25, and no exemptions were listed in the order.

Thus, the wage board was under frightful pressure for speed.

Officials believe that the faster the board completes its general wage policy, the better chance of keeping labor-management peace. Board chairman Cyrus S. Ching told reporters: "Now we'll be forced to act as quickly as possible."

Only Stopgap

The price freeze is only a stopgap, and will melt gradually away as soon as separate orders can be prepared for various kinds of goods.

The only separate orders in existence now are on automobiles and hides, but plenty more are coming. Edward Phelps, assistant price director, said that within 30

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 27 (AP).—Samuel G. Logan, of Adamsville, Alabama, came through many parachute jumps without a single injury during four years as a paratrooper in the Second world War. But a fall during a friendly wrestling match near his home Jan. 13 proved fatal Friday. The 30-year-old coal miner died of a head injury.

Third Birdsall In 70 Years Fair President

Third generation of his family to be represented in the presidency of the Norwood Fair, Col. F. Everett Birdsall has been recommended by its directors and members to the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies for award of an Agricultural Service Diploma for meritorious service to agriculture.

Col. Birdsall is a past president of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society (Norwood Fair) whose annual meeting was held at Norwood Thursday night. His father, the late Col. R. E. Birdsall, and his grandfather, Frank Birdsall, were in turn presidents of the Fair during the last 70 years.

Col. Richard E. Birdsall received this award of an Agricultural Service Diploma some years ago.

The recommendation was embodied in a resolution passed by the directors and unanimously endorsed by the members.

At the directors' meeting, subsequent to the annual meeting, Thursday night, the following officers were re-elected for 1951:

President, G. A. Brethen.

First vice-president, Rod Webb.

Second vice-president, Bert Lochead.

Secretary - treasurer, Gordon Parker.

The audited financial statement, which was unanimously accepted, showed the society to be in a sound financial position.

1950 Receipts $9,428

Receipts for the year ending Dec. 31, 1950, amounted to $9,428; and disbursements $9,112.91, leaving a net revenue for the year of $315.43.

In addition, the society spent $908.29 on purchase of property for extension of the fair grounds,

THIRD BIRDSALL (Continued on Page 20)

Says Ottawa Won't Act At Present

If Find Stabilization Doesn't Develop May Get Controls

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 (CP). — Trade Minister Howe said Friday if the United States' action in freezing prices and wages does not have the desired stabilizing effect on prices in Canada the government may find it necessary to implement a similar system of wage and price controls in this country.

"We are watching the situation," said Mr. Howe, in commenting on the decision Friday to the US government to freeze prices and wages at the highest level they reached in the Dec. 19-Jan. 25 period.

Mr. Howe said the US action will be "helpful" in stabilizing prices in Canada.

Dictated Outside

"Our costs, through imports and exports, are dictated mostly by higher costs in other countries including the United States," he said.

"Insofar as prices are stabilized in the United States, they likely will be stabilized in Canada."

On the basis of that premise, there would be no immediate need to take similar action in Canada. At the moment the government is not considering implementing price and wage controls in Canada, Mr. Howe added, but if the United States action does not have the desired stabilizing effect it may be necessary to move into the field.

Cougar, Trapper Fight In Cabin

CAMPBELL RIVER, BC, Jan. 27 — (CP). —A battered and bruised 63-year-old trapper today told of a life-and-death struggle with a fierce cougar in his lonely, snowbound cabin.

Edward McLean related this harrowing tale from his hospital bed:

He was getting ready for bed Thursday night when a big cougar crashed through the window of his cabin—near this British Columbia town, 120 miles northwest of Vancouver.

He fought barehanded in the dark; punching and kicking the 60-pound cat as it went for his throat.

"The crazed cougar clawed and chewed at my right arm and throat, he said. "I managed to drag him to a corner of the cabin and grabbed a butcher knife. Using my left hand, I plunged the knife into his throat and stomach.

He managed to tear himself away from the cougar, but not before it had chewed his arms, shoulders and an ear.

McLean ran barefooted, and clad only in underwear, rowed in his boat to get help from a cabin six miles to the south.

Truck Sped On After Hitting Asphodel Man

William Scriver, 57-year-old Asphodel resident, was injured shortly before midnight Friday when he was struck and knocked down by a truck, within 150 feet of his home on Highway 28. The truck slowed and then drove away.

Mr. Scriver has an inner hemorrhage of the right arm and he is going to St. Joseph's Hospital later today for medical attention. The severe blow was believed caused by the overhanging rack of the truck.

A night worker, Mr. Scriver was walking home from the Hastings tannery. He was on the left-hand side of the road, facing oncoming traffic.

He noticed a truck coming down the centre of the highway behind him. Suddenly it swerved left. Mr. Scriver says he moved over onto the dirt shoulder but he was struck by the rack of the truck and knocked down.

Slowed Then Sped On

He was temporarily dazed, but he noticed the truck slow down for a moment and then suddenly pick up speed and head toward Norwood. Still groggy he was able to walk the rest of the way home. He lives 200 yards north of the village on Highway 45.

Medical attention was given by Dr. William Campbell of Hastings. He diagnosed the injury and recommended hospital treatment.

Police are looking for the truck driver to question him.

12 Stranded In Mountains As Blizzard Kills One Man

BANFF, Alta., Jan. 27 (CP).—A howling blizzard in the Kootenay Park district, about 35 miles west of here has claimed the life of one man, sent his wife to hospital and stranded 12 other persons in a tiny four-room cabin. C. A. (Pat) Patterson, 40, of Banff, was frozen to death when he became separated from the party which was on its way to Invermere, BC.

Mrs. Patterson is in hospital here suffering severe frostbite.

The other 12 persons, as yet unidentified, have been isolated in a small park warden's cabin 35 miles west of here for the last two nights.

All are reported to have suffered from cold, although they are not believed to be in any immediate danger.

One man had his nose frostbitten and two others, wearing only light shoes, suffered minor frostbite to the toes.

First word of the tragedy was received Friday at the park superintendent's office here over the single-line telephone to the warden's cabin.

It told of how the 14 persons left Banff Thursday in six cars for Invermere where two of the vehicles—new models—were to be delivered.

Blizzard Halts Trip

Some 30 miles from Banff, however, a blinding blizzard made the highway impassable and the "caravan" came to a halt.

A conference was held and it was decided to try for the tiny ranger station on foot.

Patterson apparently became separated from the others, although his absence was not discovered until the party reached the cabin of park warden Glen Brooks.

Brooks then set out on snowshoes and retraced their steps back to the stranded cars where he found Patterson's frozen body slumped across the seat of one of the vehicles.

A snowmobile from the Sunshine Ski Lodge at Banff brought Mrs. Patterson to hospital here. Her condition was not believed to be serious.

Russ Crabmeat Banned In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP) Reports of slave labor in Russia have caused the first United States import ban against a Soviet product since the two countries established diplomatic relations in 1933.

The Treasury Department Friday prohibited imports of Russian crabmeat on the grounds it is processed by "forced, convict and indentured labor." United States tariff law forbids import of anything produced by such means.

Like other Russian commercial activities, crabmeat production is a government-operated monopoly. In March, 1949, the United States asked for United Nations investigation of charges that vast numbers of Russian citizens were being held in forced labor camps. In July of that year the British delegation to the U.N. Economic and Social Council produced documents which, the British claimed, showed that 10,000,000 Russians were slave laborers.

State department officials said Friday action is not an "economic sanction," simply an application of the tariff law.

Union Doesn't Back Barbers Price Raise

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP). — Nelson Cox of Brantford, Ontario vice-president of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union (AFL) said Friday the union does not support the request of the Ontario Barbers' Association for a 25-cent boost in minimum prices for hair cuts.

A spokesman for the OBA said the association plans to ask Labor Minister Daley to approve the increase. He said it would probably bring most Toronto prices to $1.

Engineers Honor McNaughton

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP). — Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, soldier, statesman and engineer, was honored today by colleagues of the engineering fraternity for "outstanding accomplishment to the nation."

The 63-year-old wartime commander of the Canadian army overseas was presented with the gold medal of the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, the organization's highest award.

The presentation came after the one-time head of Canada's United Nations delegation addressed fellow engineers on the powers and work of the International Joint Commission, the United States-Canadian boundary body of which he now is Canadian chairman.

In a speech prepared for delivery, Gen. McNaughton told of the powers of the commission, set up in 1909 by treaty between the two countries. In its 38 years, the commission's members had divided but once, and this only on a point of procedure.

In references so far completed and sent back to the respective governments there was only one case in which the governments had not acted on the commission's recommendations.

Premier Of France To Be Feted In Ottawa

PARIS, Jan. 27—(CP)—Prime Minister Rene Pleven of France will leave on his visit to the United States and Canada from Orly airport, near Paris tonight, his office announced Friday.

He is due to arrive at New York at 1.30 p.m. EST Sunday.

Pleven will confer with president Truman Jan. 28 and 29 and return to New York Jan. 31. He will entrain for Ottawa Feb. 2.

He will attend a luncheon given by Governor-General Alexander, visit the Canadian parliament, and attend a reception at the French Embassy given by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

On Feb. 3 he will place a wreath on the Vimy memorial in the centre of Ottawa. After a press conference he will leave for France.

Says High Prices Killed Bacon Pact

WINNIPEG, Jan. 27 (CP) — Canada's high prices were blamed Friday for no bacon contract being signed this year with the United Kingdom.

Sir Andrew Cunningham Jones, food adviser to the British High Commissioner at Ottawa, said Britain offered 29 cents a pound for bacon. It could be obtained cheaper elsewhere than Canada's asking price of 32½ cents.

Fickle Drinkers

LONDON, Jan. 27—(Reuters)—Fickle British drinkers cut customs revenue by £37,000,000 (about $111,000,000) last year, the annual report of the customs and excise commissioners disclosed Friday. This land of supposed beer drinkers turned from heavily-taxed beer to wines and liquor—and drank more tea

Report Ernest Bevin Continues To Improve

LONDON, Jan. 27 (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, ill with pneumonia, "continues to improve and is slightly better," a foreign office spokesman said today.

Bevin's personal doctor, Sir Alexander McCall, reported earlier that the foreign minister had had a restless night. This is common in such cases and has no particular significance.

Bevin, who is nearly 70, developed a patch of pneumonia on one lung after catching influenza.

Big Liner Quarantined With 102 Flu Cases

FREEMANTLE, Australia, Jan. 27 (Reuters). — The 28,164-ton Orient liner Orcades was quarantined today when she reached this west Australian port from Britain with 102 influenza cases among the 1,521 passengers.

A launch carrying customs officials, immigration officers and reporters was kept 30 yards away from the ship while health officials made their inspection.

Passengers bound for west Australia will be taken to a quarantine station. Barricades were erected on the wharf to isolate the liner during her short stay here before sailing for Adelaide, south Australia.

Quarantine officers said that as far as they know there were no deaths from the flu, but one woman had died fro mpneumonia.

Canada Doing Big Business

PARIS, Jan. 27 (CP)—Canada's new immigration policy has resulted in an increased number of applications here even though France is not primarily an emigrating country, Canadian officials said today.

Odilon Cormier, chief of the immigration office at the Canadian embassy, said business is virtually on an assembly-line basis. Spokesmen predicted France will easily reach the 6,000 quota set for 1951.

Already 500 visas have been issued, about one-third of them to French Nationals. Last month the embassy received 8,000 letters asking about Canada's immigration policy. Cormier estimated that normally about 10 per cent of those enquiring ultimately emigrate.

Most French settlers prefer Eastern Canada, particularly Quebec, because they feel they have a closer affinity to the people, language, traditions and religion there. Few want to go west of Winnipeg, although Ukrainians, Hungarians, Poles and Nationals of other Iron Curtain countries now in France are among the exceptions.

Emigrants come chiefly from rural areas where farming and carpentry are among the leading occupations. Few miners or industrial workers want to leave, despite the low wages in French industry.

Coroner Supports Firemen Against Cowardice Charge

TORONTO, Jan. 27 —(CP)— Chief Coroner Dr. Smirle Lawson said Friday night that firemen who carried the bodies of Mrs. Pauline Nesker and her daughter, Brenda, from their burning home last December are "the bravest men I have ever known."

"There is no evidence that the firemen at this fire did not live up to the highest traditions of the department," he said.

Thursday night Hardie Nesker, husband of the dead woman, testifying before a coroner's jury, accused the fire department of "gross negligence and cowardice."

Nesker insisted that the firemen refused to enter the third-floor room where Mrs. Nesker and her youngest daughter were trapped. He argued there was nothing to stop them from entering.

The coroner's jury Friday night ruled Mrs. Nesker's death was accidental, due to shock, burns and asphyxiation.

"It was the most tremendous heat I have ever felt," said Fireman John Hastings who was the first up a ladder to the room and handed down the unconscious bodies of Mr. Nesker and his two older daughters.

"I could not stand the heat from the window sill," he said.

Other firemen also testified that heat from the room where the two were trapped was so intense that a rescuer could not live in it.

Hastings said it was not until he got Nesker to the grouud that the rescued man was able to gasp: "There are two more in there."

Not until a hose company had cooled off the rooms were the two bodies brought out, although firemen donned smoke masks and made an attempt to enter the room, the jury was told.

Report Young UK Nobleman Kicks Bevan At Ritzy Club

LONDON, Jan. 27—(Reuters)—Two London newspapers today splashed an account of a young nobleman kicking Labor Minister Aneurin Bevan in the pants in front of one of London's most exclusive gentlemen's clubs.

The nobleman was alleged to have booted the burly Socialist cabinet minister as he was leaving the club with R.A.F. Marshal Sir John Slessor, Air Chief of Staff.

The Daily Express identified the nobleman as John Fox-Strangways, 43, son of Lord Ilchester.

The Daily Mail carried no name but said "the attacker" was "no longer a member of the club."

The club is White's in Ritzy St. James Place in London's west end. The attack was said to have occurred last Wednesday night.

Both papers reported that Bevan has "acted with restraint."

They also agreed that Sir John, Bevan's host at the club, had lodged a complaint with the club's board. The Mail said the club had apologized to Bevan.

Fox-Strangways is a member of one of Britain's oldest families. The motto inscribed on the family crest is: "Faire sans dire," which means "deeds without words."

Sir John was in bed with influenza Friday, but Lady Slessor told Reuters:

"I don't know the member's name but I understand he's a man who suffered badly during the war."

Hungary Resigns

To Denounce Red China, US Stands Pat

Canada and Israel Offer Compromise it Will Support US

LAKE SUCCESS, NY, Jan. 27 (AP). — The United States stood pat today on its demand for a quick United Nations vote condemning Communist Chinese aggression in Korea, despite a new "peace plan" offered by Canada and Israel.

Backed publicly by President Truman and both houses of Congress, the United States delegation said it would oppose any substantial changes in its resolution which, as constituted now, tags Communist China an aggressor, asks the UN collective measures committee to consider the next step, and creates a three-man commission to seek ways of ending the Korean fighting and achieving UN aims in that country by peaceful means.

Both Canada and Israel offered new ideas Friday designed to bridge the gap between this view and a 12-country Arab-Asian plan for a seven-power conference, including Red China, to work out a cease-fire and decide other Asian problems.

These are expected to be the subject of debate in the 60-country political committee today (11 a.m. EST). If nothing else, this debate will delay any vote until after the weekend.

Sponsors of the Arab-Asian plan held private consultations Friday night and this morning to work out a way of adopting at least some of the proposals as formal amendments to their own resolution.

Compromise Offer

Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, made six suggestions for a compromise. These were:

1. A conference at either New Delhi or Lake Success within seven days. The United States Britain, France, Red China, Russia, India and Egypt would be represented.

2. Immediate reference to a group composed of the U.S., Red China and the U.N. Korean Commission of the task of arranging a cease-fire.

3. When these arrangements are completed, the seven-power group would consider a peaceful solution of Korean problems including the withdrawal of foreign troops.

4. The group would then proceed to a discussion of other Far Eastern problems.

5. During these discussions other governments would be invited to take part in those sections directly concerning them.

6. The invitation should be transmitted to Peiping and an answer requested within 48 hours.

Israel proposed enlargement of the U.N. Good Offices Committee to seek a cease-fire.

Both countries said, however, they would support the U.S. demand that Red China be named an aggressor now. India's Prime Minister Nehru has stated that such a declaration would end the chance for a negotiated settlement.

Unique Elevator On Prairie Farm

MOOSE JAW, Sask.—(CP) No railroad tracks lead to George Cooper's grain elevator. The nearest railway is five miles away.

There is no identification sign on the elevator; and no store, either, though the elevator is within a stone's throw of several farm houses, a church and a school in the Davey community, 12 miles northeast of here.

No grain company has a sign on the elevator because farmer Cooper owns it. It was built by his father, I. W. Cooper, who died in 1939. The idea was to save a lot of hand-shovelling in and out of storage bins.

Holds 14,000 Bushels

The building is about half the size of a grain-company elevator. It holds about 14,000 bushels.

Mr. Cooper says his father ran a commercial elevator before he turned farmer, and he thinks sentiment had something to do with the construction of the private elevator on the farm.

But he says he considers it the best building on the property.

"It seemed like hours but it was only about three miles. But we were falling down and struggling through drifts of snow every step of the way. It was a great feeling to se the cabin loom up and know we were safe."

Mr. Brooks reported his tiny cabin was a bit cramped by the unexpected visitors, but he said they were warm and comfortable.

Exported 2,608 Jersey Cattle During 1950

TORONTO, Jan. 27 — (CP).— Canadians exported 2,608 Jersey cattle during 1950, James Bremner, secretary of the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club, announced Friday.

He said export figures had been compiled for presentation to the clubs 51st annual meeting, to be held here January 30. Some 150 Jersey owners from across Canada are expected to attend.

Harold Butcher, secretary of the Ontario Jersey Cattle Club, added that more than 60 per cent of the Jerseys shipped out of Canada last year went from Ontario. He said Ontario breeders sold 1,642 cattle abroad during 1950, compared with 1,486 head in 1949.

Mr. Bremner said growing world-wide interest in Jerseys boosted Canadian exports of the breed.

The majority of cattle exported went to the United States, he said, with other sales being made in Mexico, Central America, and several South American countries. These export markets had replaced Australia and New Zealand, former customers, whose cattle population is now 85 per cent Jersey.

One-Day Convention

The national meeting will be preceded by a one-day convention of the Ontario branch of the club January 29, Mr. Bremner announced. Some 150 Ontario Jersey men are expected to attend.

One of the highlights of the national meeting will be the presentation of the constructive breeders certificate to Alfred Bagg of Edgley, Ont. Judging for this award is based on the average milk production and the classification of the contestant's entire herd. Mr. Bagg's herd of 36 head is one of the largest ever to win the award.

The county Jersey cattle clubs' delegations to the Ontario meeting will be led by their representatives on the provincial board of directors: Ford S. Papple, of Brantford; Harry Tanner, Walkerton; Arden H. Baker, Brockville; George Silcox, Shedden; J. W. Newman, Ruthven; Jack Featherstone, Oakville; E. E. Bennett, Elginburg; Clifford Sharpe, Sarnia; J. W. Batty, Brooklin; Harry Collins, Woodstock; Earl Vernor, Stratford; Haig Kelly, Peterborough; John Campbell, Stroud; J. Edgar Buck, Kitchener.

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP) — Mayor C. A. Curtis of Kingston conferred Friday with Lorne Cumming, chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board, and expressed dissatisfaction with the board's recent tentative ruling on a Kingston bid for annexation of certain suburbs.

The board gave the city permission to annex Portsmouth village and part of Kingston township. The city had asked permission to take over more of the township for housing and industrial expansion.

Mr. Cumming said that before a final decision, expected Monday, he would confer with C. D. Wight and R. C. Rowland, board members who studied the Kingston application.

days most retailers and some wholesalers will be under new orders controlling their sales margins.

The freeze order does not apply to farm prices of live animals and other raw, unprocessed goods. But certain foods, such as beef, veal, lamb, and pork, come under the freeze—that is, the processor, the wholesaler, and the retailer must keep the price as it is, at least for the time being.

On most foods, however, prices can be raised, all the way to the consumer, whenever necessary to reflect a rise in the farmer's price. Some examples: bread, eggs, poultry, fresh vegetables, peanuts, oranges.

Specific Exemptions

A number of items are specifically exempted from controls, for example, professional fees, insurance rates, freight and passenger rates, utility rates, real-estate prices, and the prices of newspapers, books, magazines, motion pictures, theatre tickets, and advertising rates charged by radio and television stations.

Rents are not controlled under this order, but many areas of the country are still under federal or state rent controls.

Disalle said there are plenty of goods in the U.S. and rationing is not planned in the near future, and maybe not at all.

For violating the price and wage orders, a person can be fined up to $10,000, imprisoned up to one year, or both. He is also liable to lawsuits.

two days of the operation. The others were Suwon and Osan.

Both Kumyangjang and Ichon are in rugged hill country which afford the Reds good defence positions:

Bugle-blowing Reds were repulsed Friday night six miles west of Suwon. Inside the war-wrecked town, Red infiltrators attacked with burp guns and small arms but were driven out.

Another 200 Reds were slain in the Allied occupation of Kumyangjang, 11 miles southeast of Suwon. Navy Corsair planes helped the attackers put down stiff resistance from grenade-hurling Communists.

Thirteen miles northeast of Kumyangjang, Ichon, was in Allied hands but a fight was in progress three to five miles southwest of that road hub. At last report, UN forces were eliminating resistance by two Red battalions.

Warships Help

Warship guns kept pounding away at Seoul's port of Inchon, 20 miles northwest of the Allied spearhead beyond Suwon. Thursday night and Friday, the U.S. heavy cruiser St. Paul and two U.S. destroyers shelled Inchon's harbor installations.

Allied patrols were on the prowl all across the Korean peninsula.

South of Yongwol in the central sector, AP Correspondent Tom Stone said the UN troops and planes have reduced three infiltrating North Korean divisions by 50 per cent. This force recently was estimated at about 20,000.

UN elements occupied Pyongchang, 15 miles north of Allied-held Yongwol. Hunter-killer teams reported little contact elsewhere in the central sector where they have pushed to within 33 miles of the 38th parallel beyond Hoengsong. Hoengsong is 34 miles northwest of Yongwol.

Other patrols reported increasing signs of Red movements in the east and east-central sectors.

Advises Surveys To Restock Trout Streams

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 27 — (ENS)—A rather large number of members of the Campbellford Fish and Game Protective Association turned out to hear two department speakers, Mr. Chas. Weir and Mrs. Geo. Buie, who were on hand from Toronto, on Thursday evening in the parish hall.

Mr. Weir, the district biologist, spoke on the re-stocking of trout streams, and also described "Fisheries Management." He said surveys should be made of all lakes and streams before re-stocking is undertaken. The old system of stocking any stream or lake the public requested was not a good idea, and resulted mostly in failure. In some cases, re-stocking merely feeds the scavenger fish already in the area. It also tends to over-populate one area with one species of fish, and these will all be small, whereas a well-balanced population will produce larger size fish, and make for better angling.

Trout Streams Bad

Mr. Weir said the trout streams in this area are generally bad, due to the fact most of the headland timber has been cut, and the banks of the streams have not been looked after. This results in no holes or protected spots for the trout to hide or spawn. Cottagers are responsible to some extent for the lack of fish in some areas. Lake shorelines have been denuded of trees to make way for sandy beaches. This also results in no secluded spots for the fish to lurk.

"The purpose of fishery management is to perpetuate fishing in this country," said Mr. Weir, but a comprehensive programme cannot always be carried out due to public opinion. "Public relations are very important," he said. While the department believes it has the solution to a particular problem, it cannot carry it out completely due to adverse public opinion to some portion of that idea.

Local fish and game clubs should take hold of stream management and improvement. In the United States, organizations are buying up portions of streams and reforesting them and stocking them. The government of that country, also, in some cases, turns over all the revenue derived from taxes on the sale of guns and ammunition to stream improvement.

Films on "Life on the Western Marshes," and "Fishing With Safety" as well as a film vividly setting forth what happens when out waters become polluted, were shown.

Close to 13,000 sewage disposal plants are needed to insure safe conditions of out waters at the present time.

Coldwell Raps Canada's Failure To Accept Mao

OTTAWA, Jan. 27 — (CP) — M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said Friday night the new session of parliament, opening Tuesday, should condemn the federal government for its failure to recognize the Communist Government of China long before the Korean invasion.

Mr. Coldwell said Canada's foreign policy must be subject to the scrutiny of parliament.

He believed parliament should commend External Affairs Minister Pearson for his work on the United Nations cease-fire committee, which attempted to halt the fighting in Korea.

'We should proclaim to the world that we will not compromise on the aim of a free and independent Korea, though we shall leave no stone unturned in an effort to achieve this through peaceful means by negotiation," said Mr. Coldwell. "We should work for peaceful and permanent settlement of all other Far Eastern problems".

Financial Aid

He called for financial and other aid to Asia and said Canada could also contribute to peace by helping India through the famine now threatening millions of people. Canada could offer whatever surplus grain was available because India was experiencing difficulty in obtaining large quantities from United States.

Mr. Coldwell said parliament would have to determine how Canada could best use her human and material resources in the light of the world crisis. To proceed without some kind of economic plan would be the height of folly.

He urged a careful appraisal of all Canadian resources so that they might be properly allocated to the various requirements of the national effort. He believed the job should be undertaken by a national committee representative of the major producers and consumer groups. These would include representatives of farmer, labor, industry and consumer organizations, including consumer co-opertaives.

IN FIVE HOURS, 100 DEGREES—When these two Montreal nurses left Tampa, Fla., the mercury was pushing past 85 degrees. When they arrived in Montreal recently after a five-hour TCA flight, they stepped into a snowstorm and temperatures 15 degrees below zero. Stock Markets Hold Ground

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Stock markets today had the United States freeze on wages and prices to think upon.

Such action has been anticipated. But it is actuality now, and people who are playing the market on a day-to-day basis may make some money or may lose some; but for the steady investor the situation is little changed.

As far as Canadian issues are concerned, the United States action should be helpful; for anything that controls inflation across the border makes our problem that much less.

In a general way the market this week has been a continuation of past weeks; it didn't advance much, but it was stubborn in holding its ground.

Seemed Uncertain

From last Saturday to Wednesday, for instance, it seemed somewhat uncertain, and one could be on the watch for the intermediate adjustment which many have long expected. Then, on Thursday, when the point of decision seemed to have been reached, unexpected buying power came in, just as it has been coming in all along.

Statistically, Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed the following changes in six days trading to Friday's close:

Industrials up 1.22 at 311.49; golds down .63 at 91.44; base metals up 3.54 at 182.93; western oils up 3.37 at 93.11.

Changes in Montreal averages were:

Banks off 0.36 at 32.70; utilities off 1.1 at 87.5; industrials off 0.9 at 211.8; combined off 0.9 at 170.4; papers up 1.70 at 708.48; golds off 1.02 at 67.70.

In New York the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down 80 cents at $92. Friday it gained 90 cents.

Only 3 Provinces Moving To Keep Rent Controls After Ottawa Quits

By The Canadiian Presss

Only three of the 10 Canadian provinces have taken action to keep rental controls alive when the Federal government abandons them April 30.

A fourth province—Newfoundland—is an exception since it had its own rental controls in effect before it united with Canada in 1949 and still has them in operation.

A survey taken by The Canadian Press in provincial capitals indicates that in only Quebec, Alberta and Saskatchewan have the provincial authorities taken legislative steps to continue rental controls.

The other provinces either have no intention of entering that field or appear to be waiting to see whether the federal government might decide to extend the life of its controls.

However, authorities have given no indication that they plan to seek a continuation of their ceilings, despite inflationary pressures building up in the wake of the country's expanding program of preparedness.

Would Give Notice

If the federal government plans to ask for such a continuation—and there is no ground to think it does — notice likely will be given in the speech from the throne at the parliamentary opening Tuesday next.

It was a year ago that the federal government announced intention to abandon the controls. The position now is that it can continue controls legally only if parliament declares that a state of emergency exists.

The present controls, largely reduced from their wartime status, constitute restrictions on eviction and unauthorized increases in rents. Newly- constructed dwellings are control-free, as are residences which become vacant.

Along with the government's announced intention last year to give up controls this year went a long-standing federal offer to pay for the first year of administration of rent restrictions by any province which wished to take them over.

One Accepts Offer

Only one province—Saskatchewan—accepted that offer. It installed provincial controls April 1, 1950, freezing rents at the rates then prevailing. Since then, a provincial mediation board has heard and acted on hundreds of applications for changes, both from tenants and landlords.

Alberta, though not actively entering the field, put rent control legislation on its statute books last year, providing for modified provincial restrictions if and when the federal government vacates the field. The legislation provides a system of rental referees to adjudicate rent disputes and fix rents if the disputants continue to disagree.

Quebec stepped into the field this week with the introduction of a bill in the legislature extending current ceilings to Aug. 1 and providing for regulation of rents after that date by agreement between tenant and landlord or by judgment of provincial administrators.

No Indication of Plans

Thickly-populated Ontario has given no indication of plans, though Premieer Frost urged in an address before the Ontario Federation of Labor earlier this month that the federal government continue ceilings.

The premiers of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island all have indicated they plan to allow rents to go control-free once the federal restrictions lapse.

British Columbia has given no hint of what it plans to do, though provincial officials say they feel ceilings are a federal responsibility and should be retained.

Manitoba has not indicated its stand recently. A year ago, Premier Campbell said he was opposed to the federal government vacating the rent-control field.

A New Weapon For Canada

A dispatch from Ottawa tells us that discussions are going forward as to how Canadian fighting men can be equipped with "ideological weapons for the war of ideas". The object of such instruction when it comes will be to give our men a coherent idea of what they are fighting for—just in case they should meet any Communists or have to spend time among Communist populations. This is a new sort of weapon for Canada and we shall watch its progress with the keenest interest.

* * *

The difficulty of preparing and imparting any such instruction will be very great. A simple "indoctrination," Nazi-style, is impossible and would not do even if it could be managed. It is not too difficult to define and defend a cut-and-dried political system, particularly if a big dollop of race-prejudice can be used to sweeten the mixture. But democracy, as we have it in Canada, is hard to define and can also be hard to defend in an argument. Democracy is very loose in its structure, and it is often clumsy in its action; it makes some foolish mistakes and it makes possible many injustices; we are not agreed as to how far it should go in its action, or to what degree it should penetrate every sphere of human activity. It is in this looseness and flexibility that the particular virtue of democracy resides; it creates a framework in which the best instincts of mankind can make themselves apparent if they are invoked.

* * *

It is an odd thing that Oriental peoples should so often call us materialist and crass in our outlook on life, for our western democracy comes nearer than any other governmental system ever devised to realising the ideal of Taoism — the creation of a society in which the spirit can be free. The essence of democracy lies in leaving people alone as much as possible, without permitting social chaos. Admittedly there are many times and places where we stray far from this ideal, but we never lose sight of it. Can the East show anything so widespread and so naively good in intention?

* * *

How is this to be explained to Canadian servicemen of widely different background and powers of understanding? We do not pretend to know, but we wish the Ottawa thinkers who have tackled the problem the best of luck. If they find any really good solution to the problem, we think that the benefits of it should be extended beyond the armed services. We can all do with a reminder of the nature, effects, strengths and weaknesses of democracy.

The Soviet Press

There are 7,200 newspapers published in the U.S.S.R., with a total circulation of 31 millions. That is a sizable press, and if it were as varied and independent as the press of, say, the U.S.A.—and if western observers could get copies—we on this side of the Iron Curtain could learn from Russian newspapers a great deal about the people and conditions and thought in the Soviet Union. But the Soviet press is not a free one nor is it a commercial enterprise; it is wholly controlled by the Soviet government and the Communist party. Further, only a small number of metropolitan papers is available for export. No foreign subscriptions are accepted for local or provincial papers.

The metropolitan papers set the key for other newspapers and periodicals. The two biggest are Izvestia, which is the official mouthpiece of the government, and Pravda, the organ of the Communist Party. Trud is the labour paper. The Literary Gazette, a weekly is the outlet for Soviet writers. Bolshevik, a biweekly, is the organ of the Politburo. Ogonyok is a popular illustrated weekly, a Russian mixture of Life and the Saturday Evening Post. Russia has its funny paper, too: Crocodile, which is a sort of Punch.

A recent cartoon in Crocodile (spelt Krokodil) shows a soft-faced, gently smiling Russian soldier with a cherub in his arms. Crouching in a corner are wicked-looking men, for instance, a big-nosed Bevin with a black cigar-mouthed Churchill, looking up at the noble Russian with—could it be awe? Under the cartoon is the caption: "Peace In Reliable Hands" and the verse:

The Wall Street gang
Would set the world on fire
If it had its way.
But it can't.

An earlier cartoon in Crocodile shows the U.S. delegate at his desk at U.N., his arm up to his head. Behind him is a chorus of delegates of other nations with upraised voting arms. A scowling monitor, beside the U.S. delegate is saying: "Gentlemen, what are you doing? Put your hands down: Mr. Austin is simply smoothing his hair." The cartoon is headed: "Zealous Majority; U.N. Assembly." The drawings are good, and the style Punchy, though the themes are disconcerting.

These then are the magazines and newspapers of the Soviet Press which reflect Soviet foreign and domestic policy. They are not reflections of public opinion, since the Soviet Press is primarily intended to mould and shape public opinion. An article appeared in Bolshevik last March entitled "Improve Party Leadership in the Local Press" which stated that "the newspaper educates the reader ideologically, and he takes its word as if it were the word of the Party. The newspaper tells the reader how to deport himself and act, how to live and work."

Thus the Soviet Press may be a reliable guide of what a dictatorship thinks the people ought to know and think, but not to what they do think and how they act. An analyst of the Soviet press may deduce from the way the public is handled the state of mind of the public. This is ably done by such writers on Russia as Edward Crankshaw, whose articles the Examiner carries on this page from time to time; and by an analyst of the Soviet Press such as Ivar Spector of the University of Washington, who relates some of the facts given above in a recent pamphlet Soviet Strength and Strategy In Asia.

Russian newspapers are thin, usually four pages. Even though literacy has come generally to Russia only in the last twenty years, the articles and stories are weighty, frequently scholarly. Speeches and analyses of principles, of agrarian and industrial production, are front-page stories. Accidents, crimes and weddings are not considered interesting or worthy enough for reporting in the press. Radio programs and theatre attractions are given brief listings, and occasionally football games and chess matches are reported. In a last May issue of Pravda two extra pages were printed so that a lengthy analysis of the principles of the late Soviet scholar, N. Y. Marr, could be made: the principles of Soviet linguistics.

Air mail subscriptions to Pravda and Izvestia normally reach this country on the fifth day following publication.

What, No Strings?

The world-famous viola player, William Primrose, said recently that it will not be long before there is a serious shortage of players of stringed instruments on this continent. Parents, says Mr. Primrose, are more likely to have their children instructed in playing the trumpet or the saxophone than upon the violin, viola, violoncello or double bass. The reason is that they imagine that there is more money to be made playing an instrument which has a place in a dance band.

We have nothing to add to what Mr. Primrose has said; he knows far more about the matter than we do. But one or two reflections arise from his warning.

The first is this: do parents really have their children taught to play an instrument in order that money may be made in that way? We thought it was usually done in order to give the child some idea of what music is and perhaps to provide it with a source of pleasure, to itself and others. Only a handful of those who learn to play an instrument become professional musicians.

Our second thought is this: if there is a shortage of string players what will happen about the other, less attractive instruments? For instance are there any parents who decide that their boy shall learn the bass clarinet? Where do all the trombone players come from? It seems incredible that parents should knowingly have their offspring taught to play that powerful instrument. What persuades a man to learn to play the tympani, and where does he do his practising? The flute has its charms, even when not too well played, but how does anybody persevere long enough with the oboe to produce a bearable tone? And the French horn! Even in expert hands it can emit the most embarrassing blurps and quonks; what must life be in a home where the Family Pride is mastering the rudiments of its management?

There must be, everywhere in the world, hundreds of unsung heroes and heroines — the parents of orchestral players.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A health note says that when you are doing sedentary work you should rise and stretch now and then, as a cat does. But we have never seen a cat doing work of any kind.

The Dutch Foreign Minister, a gentleman named Stikker, resigned recently and the whole Cabinet resigned in consequence. Which just shows that once your Stikker comes unstuck, nothing will hold together.

The Ottawa Journal has been accused of Hitlerian or Marxian gall" because it refused to print a letter to the editor. The Journal remarks calmly that "we need to remind our correspondent that the right we possess to print his letter involves also, and equally important, the right not to print it." Well said, messmate! We have these troubles, too.

Diary Of Winter Disillusion

by
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Dined with some friends and admired their seven-toed cat; upon each of its forepaws it has an extra toe. Did this, I pondered, make him a better clamberer than ordinary cats? I was reminded forcibly of the cat Jeoffry, who belonged to the poet Christopher Smart, and about whom Smart wrote what I consider to be one of the most remarkable poems in the English language, praising Jeoffry's excellence as a clamberer as an evidence of the glory of God —

For he keeps the Lord's watch in the night against the adversary.
For he counteracts the powers of darkness by his electrical skin and glaring eyes.
For he counteracts the Devil, who is death, by brisking about the life.
For in his morning orisons he loves the sun and the sun loves him.

My friend's cat was named Sydney, but like every good cat he bore a resemblance to Smart's Jeoffry.

MONDAY: Travelling upon the train today I sat next to a young Air Force man who wore more personal jewellery than is usually asociated with his calling. He was resplendent with bangles and glorious with tie-clips; his ring was much as I imagine the Seal of Solomon to have been. He was reading a newspaper which, from its bulk and content, I judged to be a product of our Great Neighbour below the Undefended Frontier. Now it is not in human nature to sit next to a man who is reading a paper without trying to read a piece of it; there is a spice of mild felony about reading what somebody else has paid for. I was equipped, as I always am on trains, with a book famous through the ages for solid worth and classic beauty; it is astonishing how readily one leaves such books in favour of somebody else's newspaper. Rolling my eyes painfuly to the left I filched an item about a man who called himself The King of the Hoboes; his picture showed him as a well-shaved man wearing a hearing-aid. Pah! I can recall a time when a hobo scorned the razor, and gloried in his humps, deafness, bad teeth, painful feet and other infirmities. This rascal was obviously an impostor.

✧ ✧ ✧

TUESDAY: To a concert this evening given by a group of choir boys from Vienna. It was an admirable evening's entertainment, which was more than I had expected for, all things considered, I am not an enthusiastic admirer of the Human Boy. In my reckoning boys range from Good Boys—that is, boys who can pass the Towers without upsetting garbage cans and throwing rubbish on the lawn, to the lowest dregs of humanity, depraved slubberdegullions who do the above things, and worse. But these Viennese boys were quite unusual in several respects: they were clean; they were well-behaved; their hair was brushed; they looked as though they might be trusted with whole rows of garbage cans...This was the first time I have ever heard choir boys who were not trained in the English tradition of fruity hooting; an English choirboy sounds like a lovesick owl, and although it is a pretty sound it moves me to a gentle melancholy—a kind of Sunday-night-and-another-week's-work-starts-tomorrow feeling . . . Sometimes people say to me; Were you never a boy yourself, Mr. Marchbanks? Answer: Yes, for several years I was a noble, dutiful, clean, respectful Super-Boy.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: Visited my medical advisor, Dr. Cataplasm, today for one of the half-yearly checks which he makes upon my feeble frame. I am always astonished by the brilliance of his technique; like a conjuror, he distracts my attention by entertaining conversation from whatever he is doing to me, which is often of an alarming or painful nature. He told me that it is thought in some medical circles that by the year 2000 surgery will be obsolete except as a means of dealing with amputations and desperate cases. (It seems scarcely necessary to say that Cataplasm is not a surgeon, but a specialist in internal medicine.) Will surgery, I wonder, like so many other lost arts, become a hobby among lovers of the past, like hand-weaving and tying sailor's knots? What does your husband do in his spare time? Oh, he's a surgeon; he and some friends get together twice a week and operate on one another. Recently he did the prettiest hysterectomy you ever saw on the vice-president of his firm; he's showing it in the Hobby Lobby next month. Of course he hasn't really been himself since a beginner tried to take out his gall bladder and didn't quite get it all, but what I always say about surgery is, it keeps them out of the beverage rooms.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: Pondered briefly upon the recent death of the actress Olga Nethersole, at the age of eighty-one. Q: Why do stage people live so long? A: Because the constant call upon imagination and deep resources of body and spirit to which they are subject is stimulating and renewing. Q: Why is beauty like Olga Nethersole's so rare today? A: It has always been rare, but it is particularly so today because modern women tend to be shrill and restless—two great destroyers of beauty.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: Chatted today with some children who were lost in admiration of a gifted dog named Knee-High, who gives a safety demonstration in their schools. It appears that he is a pin-up dog, and when they showed me his photograph I was depressed to find that he signs his name Knee-Hi. This sagacious animal apparently has the full support of the Board of Education, and is also an object of interest to a patent dog-food, though I presume that this latter concern only supports Knee-Hi because it loves little children and does not want them to come to harm, and has no thought of vulgar gain . . . Considering the success of Knee-Hi, I wondered if it would be possible to remove all the human teachers from the schools and replace them with animals—I have seen pigs which could count and spell; a parrot with a long memory could teach history; a monkey in a well-stocked lab, would probably whip up a hydrogen bomb in no time. And children like animals so much more than human teachers, and teachers like liberty so much more than their present servitude that everybody would be happy. Who can tell how far it might go? We might even see a gorilla in some future Cabinet as Minister of Education.

SATURDAY: To a concert tonight; concert-going, which most people look upon as pleasure, is part of my work, and it is surprising how one's pleasure in a concert is dulled when one knows it will be necessary to write something about it . . . The singer sang several songs in praise of the gaiety of Vienna; those boys on Tuesday did the same.

Was Vienna ever really so gay as we are asked to believe? I can find no evidence of it. Sigmund Freud lived in Vienna during its supposedly gayest period, and had a pretty solemn time among the foot-fetchists and undinists on the beautiful Blue Danube. Stefan Zweig in his autobiography tells us that the gay Viennese ate so much whipped cream and almond paste that they were all fat at thirty, and wheezed as they waltzed. The leading romance of the period was the Emperor's very dull and proper affair with Kathi Schratt. I have even heard it suggested that those parties at Sacher's were rather quiet affairs. There is plenty of evidence that Vienna in its heyday was about as gay as Toronto. But it was luckier than Toronto in having a handful of really good song-writers.

"YOU MY NEW SITTER?"

Letters To The Editor

CUT EXPENSES OF RECREATION COMMISSION

Sir: In the columns of a local weekly journal I perceived some comment on the usefulness and perhaps extravagance of the Peterborough Recreation Commission. Some of the older ratepayers may recall that during the heyday of the prowess of a certain powerful Central European nation, the adage was "Bismark the custodian of Spandau, the momentous war chest, kept sharpened the sword that it was Von Moltke's duty to wield". In like circumstances it would appear that the local chairman of finance has a prime duty to provide funds for the aforementioned, non-elective body, to disperse; at their discretion. This apparent attitude is quite contrary to the implicit wishes of sorely pressed taxpayers, who are not adverse to providing recreation and bathing facilities for the kiddies, if reasonably and scrupulously financed and administered but certainly resent any duplication of services already provided by the Parks Department or other similar organizations and also the financing of amusements or hobbies for the well-to-do and others, under the guise of craft training, adult education, etc. I have been informed that these two items cost the ratepayers over $1,500.00 annually, apart from free accommodation, at city expense and also that a day nursery is provided for the care of their children, under school age, during these dilly-dallying siestas; the total cost of all these uncalled for adult recreations and akin activities are evaluated at $6,000.00 and we are reliably informed that only approximately forty persons regularly participate in these classes or rather amusements, therefore the per capita cost per adult is at least $150.00. These craft classes could be embodied in the regular vocational courses at the P.C.V.S., at no additional cost to the taxpayers, thus creating a saving of at least $6,000.00 per annum but of course the adults would have to provide their own baby sitters.

The playground supervisors, who entail an annual expenditure of $5,500.00 could be largely dispensed with particularly as the Parks Department have college students and other well-qualified attendants in all parks, who could conduct and otherwise assist in these duties, without additional remuneration. With a speeding up of a program of industry for national defence purposes the supervisors, previously employed would be well taken care of in more lucrative and quite essential employment. It would appear also very prudent to assign the activities of the Recreation Commision to one of the present standing committees of the City Council, with a sub-chairman in charge and it is reasonably possible that the administration and other office work could be attended to by the deputy city clerk or other presently employed official. There are advertisements in all city daily papers for recreational directors and undoubtedly an economic move on authorization of the City Council would create no hardship to the present chief or his assistant.

A grant to the local Citizen's Band is worthy of approval but would have to be well within the ability of the paying public; perhaps $1,500.00 and after all there would be no justification in subsidizing them to an excessive extent when the Salvation Army regulate their own finances, largely, and are always available, when properly called upon. The most commendable expenditure of the recreation commission is approximately $1,000.00 per annum or about four per cent. of their levy to the various minor hockey, baseball and other kindred organizations. It is perhaps the duty to limit their appropriation this year to $8,000.00 and permit the organization to raise the balance, similar to the precedent of service clubs and others; failing in this the City Council should take over the administration, with the present recreation commission retained as an advisory committee.

Very sincerely yours,
WILLIAM D. COLLINS.

HIGH TAXES IN ASPHODEL

Sir: I would like to give my thought to the people of Asphodel that are always talking of high taxes and do nothing about it. We have spent fifteen thousand in a grader which is large enough to do a highway. It is too big to go through the cuts on our hills and also through the narrow swamps that we have. Also seventeen hundred on a truck to drive up and down the roads with gas and oil furnished. They also have a large truck which is no good for anything for when they want any work done they have to hire the county to do it. We have spent over $40 thousand in equipment and we still haven't got anything to load gravel or cut down our hills and put them in the swamps where we need it, to straighten them out so cars could meet or pass.

Now you ratepayers talk and grumble about taxes being so high but don't try to do anything about it. If things go on like this a few years longer they will have to take our farms and we will be working for them until the old age pension comes. There isn't much use trying to pay for a farm because your young people won't need them. I don't see why the tax collector, assessor, weed inspector, health officer and the rest that hold office also ask for a car for no doubt they would get two.

From what I can read we need more people like Mr. Griffith that can think for himself and the good of his ratepayers. The rule is that at the beginning of each year is to hire people to do our duties by tender, but all they do in most Council work if you are lucky enough to get a job you hold it for life, no matter if you are good or no good. So if you ratepayers have an interest where your money goes, why let things run on the way they are and watch your taxes still go up.

T. J. CARDWELL.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The preparations of the heart in man, and the answer of the tongue, is from the Lord... Commit thy works unto the Lord, and thy thoughts shall be established....By mercy and truth iniquity is purged: and by the fear of the Lord men depart from evil....

The highway of the upright is to depart from evil: he that keepeth his way preserveth his soul. (Prov. 16: 1, 3, 6, 17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage... Ye did run well; who did hinder you that ye should not obey the truth? (Gal. 5: 1, 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind, having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart....

But ye have not so learned Christ; if so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus: that ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind; and that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness. (Eph. 4: 17, 18, 20-24.)

NOW BREAK THE SECOND

As the train pulled up at the wayside station the guard noticed smoke pouring out of a compartment labelled "No Smoking." Opening the door, he eyed the six guilty-looking passengers seated inside.

"Gentlemen," he remarked, "there are two rules on this line which are repeatedly broken. First, that smoking is forbidden in carriages not set aside for that purpose. Second, that the company's servants may not accept bribes. You have already broken one of these rules."

"You had no right to let Grandma make you volunteer for ambulance work, Vera."

By latest count there are 733 Treaty Indians in the Kawartha district—423 in Mud (Curve) Lake, 234 in Alnwick (Roseneath) and 76 in Hiawatha. The Curve Lake people had hydro power laid on at mid-December and their towh hall, church and school are being wired this week. The oldest Indian of the total local population is James Jarvis of Hiawatha, who is 92 years of age, and blind. All this information and much more came from newly-appointed Indian Agent Allan Adams in his Barrie Building office.

One must not feel that he ministers to his Mississaugas from a desk, for, four out of six business days, he visits the various Reserves and tries his best to iron out native problems. They are varied and interesting but, to me, not half as interesting as the Agent himself.

For five years preceding the Second World War Mr. Adams was a hardrock miner at the Sylvanite Gold Mines in Northern Ontario. He knows of drilling, blasting and mucking in dark damp drifts and crosscuts and judging from his build, he was able to "take it."

Came the war, he joined up as an Air Gunner and with one year of service in Canada, five in England and 64 flights in the Pathfinder Force, he wound up as Wing Commander. Before leaving his British station, Mr. Adams put through 67,000 airmen on their way to demobilization and came back to Peterborough in '46 with an English war bride. Why Peterborough? He was Omemee born and bred and had his eye on a grocery business in the South End.

Adams the grocer carried on for four years, answered a civil service advertisement circular and received his appointment on Dec. 1st, 1950. That is the background of our district Indian Agent. Though still a young man, with thrills of high adventure both underground and in the air, he finds work with the Indians to his liking. He admits there is no excitement in it but an observer feels in his early grasp of their problems, a certain leavening of wisdom born of past high adventure.

Flower Catalogues and Sporting Goods

While my wife pours over new garden catalogues and plans for summer, I, too, at least dream of summer as ink-fresh sporting goods catalogues arrive in the mails. True, most of them are sneak previews of static types of equipment but special mention must be made of Heddon's of Dowagiac, Michigan. This is not only a splendid lure book of their latest products but a wealth of information on fishing tips and fresh and salt water specii charts, 72 of 'em.

At Portsmouth farm, R.R. 4, Omemee, the owner has located a pair of flying squirrels nesting in a dead tree near his house. He wants to cut the tree down and find a good home for the squirrels and is thinking of donating them to the Filtration Zoo. I do not approve of this. There they would be caged and since this type of animal must do his natural soaring from the tops of the tallest elms, it would be much better to let them find a natural habitat than coop them up to die. And anyway no one would know them from any dusty grey squirrel but in flight—what a sight. Leave them in the wilds, Mr. Portsmith.

Inhabited Beaver Lodge; No Telling!

Went beaver-seeking on Sunday with my neighbor. We found an inhabitated lodge on some swamp land and surveyed some of their wood-cutting operations in a poplar bush nearby. Since it was posted land, we looked for and found two traps which shouldn't have been there. Set them off, too. The only reason I am not telling where the Flat-Tails live is that this column has unwittingly been a signboard for poachers before now. It is too bad others cannot be directed to such sights. Sorry, I can't tell you.

He has in mind something like the ritual staged each summer with great success in one of Port Arthur's parks. Very attractive, too....So, Club Whitesands will not open this year. Oshawa owner-directors say it has operated at a loss. Just what I was telling you last week about the resort operators' plight....Six major mining companies are prospecting for iron in the old deposits near Marmora. Friend Tom the Guide tells me of a uranium deposit he and his brother staked west of Blue Mountain years ago. "When we uncivered the vein," said Tom, "she used to shine at night like as if she was plastered with them lightenin' bugs." If true, Old Timer, this bears some looking into....Victoria County Council have authorized payment of a $40 wolf bounty for any predators killed in the townships of Bexley, Carden, Dalton, Laxton, Digby, Longford and Somerville. TALLYMAN, The — Operator of a popcorn, peanut and candy wagon at George and Hunter Streets before potato chips and French-fries were invented.

TEN CENT STORE — Jack Butcher's, the prototype of stores in the vast chains of today. At Butcher's was a stock embracing every conceivable kind of ancient and modern merchandise piled and suspended in bewildering complexity. Even if equipped with a super-divining rod, a buyer might—or might not—find any given article at any given time.

SWOON — A state of quasi-consciousness into which the heroines of Victorian novels might lapse at any opportune moment. At about the same period an overwhelming access of modesty might vent itself in a strange mantling of the cheeks, known as a blush. Modern psycholo sts after prolonged dredging of psyches and conditioning of reflexes, have ascertained that a blush is an outward and visible sign of an inhibited female. And what could be worse than an old-fashioned inhibition in an age when an emancipated young lady may go directly to a liquor palace without pausing to let down her inhibitions?

SUFFRAGETTES—Ladies who battled with fire and sword, tongues and lungs, for their self-evident right to deposit voting papers in a tin ballot box, a container devised by inventive male tinkers which "stood four-square as the National Bulwark of Freedom and Democracy." Masculine guile having been put to rout, large numbers of women who deserved well of the party in power became franchise-conscious on election days, renting their living rooms and serving as DRO's, poll clerks and scrutineers. Hence arose the gem of modern critical philosophy: "Never underestimate the power of a Ladies' Home ROUND TRIP — Scenic tour (adult fare five cents) on open, cross-seated trolley-car, starting from any given point on George Street and returning after completing a circuit between Rye's boathouse and a point opposite the Auburn. While waiting at a switch on the single-track line for "the other car" to arrive and pass, passengers had time to catch their breaths. Oft of a summer night might be heard the cry "Bang goes another dime," as a gay young blade with Scottish abandon invited his beloved to enjoy a second or third round. If atop this spending bee other dimes were blown in on ice-creams (six for a quarter- at Long's or Potvin'cs, feminine public opinion began to crystallize in a conviction that Darby and Joan were now "keeping steady company" and that something serious was afoot—though, for goodness' sake, it was beyond understanding what she could see in one of those clotted Darbies (or vice versa). What if the more cynical young males did mutter that the Toonerville trolley was a regular "man-trap"? In any case it is to romantic midsummer night dreams on the round trip that many of the substantial Peterborough families of today may trace their genesis.

THE BELLEVILLE FLYER NO. 625, operating on the Grand Trunk Railway between Peterborough and Belleville before the turn of the century is shown loading wood. It was a newer version than those mentioned in the Pammett articles. (See this page's Progress of Peterborough). These were the days before coal was used in the engines. In addition to the engine the train has two box cars and a passenger car. Conductor Wm. Morris and Engineer William Pilling can be seen in the picture.

Progress of Peterborough: LV

Orgy Of Railway Speculation In 1870's As Politicians, Financiers Spawned Lines

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Railways and Politics: Montreal and Toronto financiers, who made fortunes from canal and railway contracts, especially after the 1850 Bank Act and the beginning of gov.-guaranteed loans, were greatly aided by the Reciprocity Treaty 1854-66 and Canadian protective tariffs after 1858. Some invested in long-term industries such as the new manufactories for farm machines, steam engines, textiles, boots and shoes, etc, where profits were slow and uncertain; these were hit hard by the depression of 1873-9, the worst in the century, when bankruptcy was common in Ontario. Thus they were the strongest supporters of Sir John A. Macdonald's National Policy, high tariffs to protect Canada's infant industries, which swept the Conservatives to victory in the 1878 election. Other capitalists who put their money into short-term "exploitive" industries like lumbering, where the turnover was quick, profits high, and the labour reserves (farm boys, French-Canadians and immigrants) limitless, were little affected by the depression. They complained about high U.S. tariffs and tended to favour (Liberal) free trade against (Conservative) high tariffs.

Thus the Kawarthas were torn between support of the Montreal-Quebec freetraders and the Toronto high-tariff party. Further, their ties to Quebec were decreasing as the square timber trade to Britain declined, but the Ontario Government (Liberal from 1871 to 1905) controlled issuance of timber licenses and railway charters within the province. These factors were important in deciding whether the rich Kawartha trade should be swung (by railway and canal) through Peterborough toward Cobourg, Trenton and Montreal, or through Lindsay and Uxbridge toward Whitby and Toronto. The fluctuating election returns of the period indicate this:

FEDERAL: Peterborough West: 1867-72, C. Perry (Cons.); 1872-8, J. Bertram (Lib.); 1878-84, G. Hilliard (C); Peterborough East: 1867-74, P. M. Grover (C); 1874-8, Jas. Hall (L); 1878-87, John Burnham (C); Victoria North: 1867-72, J. Morrison (L); 1872-4, J. Staples (C); 1874-87, H. Cameron (C); Victoria South: 1867-72, G. Kempt (L); 1872-4, G. Dormer (C); 1874-82, A. McQuade (C).

ONTARIO: Peterborough West: 1867-71, J. Carnegie (C); 1871-4, T. Fairbairn (L); 1874-5, W. H. Scott (C); 1875, Geo. Cox (L) won but the election was protested; at a new election, Scott was returned by one vote, serving until 1883; Peterborough East: 1867-74, G. Read (C); 1875, Dr. J. O'Sullivan (C) won but the election voided, and in new election J. Hogan (L) won, serving until 1879; 1879-1902, T. Blezard (L); Victoria North: 1867-71, A. Cockburn (L); 1871-5, D. McRae (C); 1875-9, J. D. Smith (L); 1879-83, S. S. Peck (L); Victoria South: 1867-71, T. Matchett (C); 1871-83, S. C. Wood (L); When voting by secret ballot was introduced in 1874 election corruption was reduced somewhat.

The 1870s ushered in an orgy of railway speculation on the national, provincial, and municipal stages, inevitably mixed with political corrupution; one leading financier stated bluntly "Railways are my politics". The Kawartha region was a valuable prize, and in the conflict the puny rivalry of the PHL and P vs. the CPMRM since 1850 was swallowed up. The Port Hope and Peterborough Railway, chartered 1846, was renamed the Port Hope, Lindsay and Beaverton in 1854 and then the Midland Railway in 1869, and was the subject of 11 Acts of Parliament up to 1880, involving bonuses, extensions and mergers. The line was extended from Lindsay to Beaverton in 1871, to Orillia in 1873, and to Midland on Georgian Bay in 1878. This railway absorbed bonuses of $920,000 from Durham, Peterborough and Victoria Counties (including $680,000 from Port Hope), as well as others from northern municipalities. The Midland was overcapitalized with bonds exceeding $4,000,000, and paid neither dividends nor interest on debentures. George Cox, Peterborough Insurance agent, became President of the Midland in 1878 as agent for the Grand Trunk Railway, and persuaded Peterborough town council in that year to pay $4,000 toward a new railway station on Bethune below Charlotte St.

The Cobourg and Peterborough Railway, chartered 1852, was reorganized in 1862 after bankruptcy, and reappeared in 1866 as the Cobourg, Peterborough & Marmora Railway Company (revived by Montreal interests which owned the Marmora Mines), with three years to reopen the line to Peterborough. A sporadic service was resumed to Ashburnham aided by boat service across Rice Lake. In 1868 the Company was authorized to build to Chemong within three years, and in 1872 to build to Bobcaygeon and Parry Sound on Georgian Bay, and in 1873 to build to Buckhorn with steam navigation on adjacent waters. Peterborough town in 1873 offered a bonus of $40,000 if the line was completed by Sept. 1874 to Bobcaygeon, and the next year raised its bid to $40,000 when the line reached Chemong, $20,000 more when it reached Bobcaygeon, and $20,000 more when it reached Fenelon Falls. Rails were laid to Chemong, but in 1877 its waterlogged debentures sank the CPMRM into bankruptcy again, and in spite of prolonged legal action the Peterborough bonuses were never collected. This Company also was the subject of 11 Acts of Parliament up to 1880.

The Toronto & Nipissing Railway was chartered in 1868 to build from Toronto via Uxbridge to Coboconk in Bexley township, to open up the northern timber limits and take the trade to Toronto. The line reached Uxbridge in 1871 and Coboconk in 1872, by way of a 478-foot bridge over a bay on Balsam Lake. The T & N tried 1875-9 to extend its line to Minden, but failed to obtain capital.

The Cataraqui & Peterborough Railway, chartered 1853 to build from Kingston to Peterborough, died stillborn. The Grand Junction Railway, chartered 1853 to build from Belleville to Peterborough, did not get beyond the survey and stock stage until taken over by the Grand Trunk and revived in 1870 with $1,000,000 capital. It was significant that among the new directors were the local members of parliament and legislature, the reeves of townships and villages along the route, the Warden of Peterborough County and the Mayor of Peterborough. The 1870 Act specified that the line to Peterborough must be completed within six years, and that it might be extended through Bobcaygeon to Georgian Bay. In 1878 Belleville was incorporated a city to help finance the railway, and the same year the line reached Hastings at last. Later the time limit for reaching Peterborough was extended to 1881, as a condition of payment of a bonus of $75,000 from Peterborough County, and others.

In 1858 the Marmora & Colborne and Marmora & Belleville Railways were chartered. The latter charter was revived in 1866 for the Belleville and Marmora Railway, and again in 1873 for the Belleville and North Hastings Railway, without any actual construction. The Trent Valley Railway was chartered in 1873 to build from Trenton up the valley, crossing the GJR and proceeding through Marmora and Madoc townships toward the Ottawa valley; not having done so, it was given a five-year extension in 1880. A Kingston group in 1875 planned to incorporate the Kingston, Madoc and Stony Lake Railway, Shipping, Iron, Mining and Manufacturing Company to build from Kingston through Marmora just north of Stony Lake and thence to Georgian Bay, but this fantistic scheme was never chartered.

The Peterborough & Chemong Railway was chartered in 1855 by a Peterborough group (J. Langton, Geo. Hall, W. S. Conger, Jas. Stevenson, C. Perry, S. Strickland, J. Walton, Wm. Lundy, Wm. Cluxton, E. Burnham, J. Harvey, Jas. Wallis, M. Boyd, D. Costello, etc.) It did not begin construction within the time limit of two years. In 1866 the charter was extended for five years, but the building of the CPMRM line

How Soon Will We Reach The Moon? Scientists May Launch False Moon Test

By PAUL GUTH
(Service d'Information Francais)

For many years men have been trying to go to the moon. Lucien de Samasate, in legend at least, attempted to reach it by throwing himself into a waterspout in the ocean. A Chinese mandarin, Wan Tou, had 47 rockets attached to his throne and 47 coolies ordered to touch off the rockets. Nothing was ever seen of the mandarin or the coolies afterwards. They may be already there to welcome the first official delegation to arrive by more orthodox means of travel.

Cyrano de Bergerac offered seven different plans for reaching the moon, but he personally favored the one of sitting on a thin sheet of steel and tossing a heavy magnet into the air. By quickly throwing it up again when the steel sheet followed, the steel sheet would eventually reach the moon in a leisurely fashion.

The adventurer Gonzales climbed astride a staff carried by wild geese, but unfortunately the geese died of pleurisy in the outer reaches of the rarefied atmosphere. Fakirs in India believed that the transportation problem could be very simply solved through mental concentration, while Jules Verne worked out any number of mechanical inventions guaranteed to provide quick transit to the moon.

Paris Conference

But never before in the history of man did the enthusiasts for such a trip meet in conference, never before, that is, until they held their first convention in Paris this winter. It was a very serious gathering of astronomy experts, presided over by the director of the Astrophysical Institute of Paris, Mr. Henri Mineur.

Aided by the head of astronomical research in Stuttgart, Germany, Mr. Gartmann and Mr. Cleaver, president of the British Interplanetary Society of London, the conference brought together the research and scientific knowledge of a number of countries interested in transportation to the moon. Films, graphs and special papers were exchanged. And the first international journal on interplanetary information was founded and named, "L'Astronef."

The men and women who attended this conference were serious and scientific in their approach. M. Mineur said that the idea of developing methods of interplanetary travel had grown and was now accepted everywhere, and it might be called a full-fledged science.

Some Problems Solved

Some of the problems that had puzzled men in the past have been solved. A means of travelling in space where there is no atmosphere is now known. Jet propulsion has solved this difficulty. How to maintain life in a small space over a long period of time has been partially solved by the submarine. The relationship between body weight and speed still requires some study. Body resistance to heat and cold provides one of the most difficult problems.

M. Mineur thinks that before serious effort is made to reach the moon, a false moon may be launched from the earth and set revolving about the earth at a much shorter distance. All it needs is to reach a point beyond the resistance of the air and it should remain at that distance from the earth for eternity. It is already possible to reach a point half way to the objective, and atomic power should provide the solution of time. It will then be possible to study all the conditions necessary with an attainable objective.

Designs for Cabin

The president of the association, M. Ananoff, is already amusing himself with designs for the cabin of the first "lunarship." A double wall, with ozone at atmospheric pressure, is suggested in order to diminish the harmfulness of the space rays. The periscope must be much stronger than the windows. The purification of the air of the cabin would be done by using oxidized lime, 200 grams an hour for each person.

Today described as dreamers and "illumines," who knows but what these men and women may be able to solve the problems and pacify this planet by offering Saturne to the USA and Mars to the USSR in the future? At least the First International Astronautic Conference in Paris promises that we will be able to take a trip to the moon within 30 years.

Spittoons Of Brassy Gleam, Elegant Enamel All Have Declined With Chewing Tobacco

By JIM ENGLISH

The spittoon has gone to glory. Just what its everlasting reward will be, we don't pretend to know. But the fact remains: the spittoon and the cuspidor, are gone and probably won't return.

For the past 20 years, the spittoon has been doing its disappearing act, and today, the only spittoons are found in pool halls and other places where only men go.

The spittoon has been gradually replaced in taverns, hotels, etc., by the ashtray, and large pottery urns filled with sand.

Everybody knows why the spittoon is almost extinct—because only a few men chew tobacco these days. But the most baffling question is how did the hotel keepers know when spittoons and cuspidors began to become extinct?

Theories about this have been advanced, and all centre on the janitor, the man who poked into the terrifying innards of a spittoon and extracted the day's collection. He then polished it until anybody who wished could see his face in it.

In Ratio To Chewers

Most popular among these theories is the Theory of Diminishing Spittoons which states generally that spittoons declined in number in a direct ratio ot the number of tobacco chewers.

Supporters of this theory believe that the janitor was first to notice the decrease in the day's collection from the spittoons in a hotel. Probably he cried Aha!, decided this would mean less work, and sat back with a most contented smile until one significant fact smacked him between the eyes:

The fewer chewers, the fewer janitors. And would he be the first to be laid off?

His heart bouncing uncomfortably, he reported the situation to the manager, who smiled, sold half his spittoons to a less observant hotel keeper and relegated some new sweeping duties to the janitor.

The less observant hotel keeper was not altogether lacking in shrewdness, and he sold the spittoons to a junk dealer. The junk dealer sold them to an antique shop and the first hotel manager's wife bought them for ornaments.

Spittoon or Cuspidor

Defined by the dictionary, the words "spittoon" and "cuspidor" are interchangeable. Wholesale hardware dealers who sold both articles by the dozens, made it clear in their catalogues that the cuspidor was one thing and the spittoon another. Both, however, were what Webster's dictionary inelegantly defines as a "spit-box."

The spittoon was a metal dish, usually about six or seven inches high and about nine inches in diameter at the bottom, tapering toward the top. The top, inside the rim, was funnel-shaped, with a three-inch hole for the chewer to aim at.

The cuspidor was usually higher than the spittoon and was the more graceful of the two articles. It was often ten inches to a foot high and had a wasp waist. The effect was the same—the chewer had to hit the same sized hole.

1921 Catalogue

A hardware catalogue of 1921-22 offered hardware retailers six

CALF'S HEAD MAY BE PLAINLY BOILED

Clean it carefully, and soak it in water, that it may look very white. The whiteness will be improved by rubbing over it a little lemon-juice. Take out the tongue to salt; or, if preferred to send to table with the head, boil and skin it, and dish with the brains round it. Boil the head extremely tender; then strew it over with crumbs and chopped parsley, or melted butter and parsley. The brains should be cleansed in cold water, and boiled; then mixed with melted butter, scalded sage, chopped very fine, pepper, and salt. When the head is dressed with the skin on, the ears must be cut off quite close to it; it will require three-quarters of an hour, or upwards, of additional boiling. To boil the brain, requires from fourteen to sixteen minutes. A cheek of bacon, some delicate pickled pork, or curled slices of bacon, or some sausages, should accompany calf's head. The head may be rubbed with egg, and sprinkled with breadcrumbs, and browned in a Dutch oven after boiling.

choices in cuspidors and four in spittoons, ranging from enameled models to polished brass.

One spittoon was made of "indurated wood fibre ware, moulded with no joints or seams." The catalogue said this spittoon would "not warp, shrink, swell, absorb, taint, rust water-soak or leak. It is impervious to liquids hot or cold; kerosene, benzine, naphtha, and all ordinary acids."

The color, said the catalogue, varied from light mahogany to dark mahogany. These tasty little items sold wholesale for $30.80 a dozen for the 5½-inch high model and $26.90 for a dozen 4½ inches high.

In enamel ware spittoons, there were only two choices: blue—nine-inch diameter $21.50 and 10-inch $27 the dozen.

Most expensive of either cuspidors or spittoons was a brass spittoon which sold for $112.50 a dozen wholesale. The brass was actually a cover which fitted over an enamelled steel cup. This model was nine inches in diameter and five-and-one-quarter inches deep.

Another spittoon, less costly, was made of stamped steel "beaded near the top with a rolled edge." It was 10¼ inches in diameter and 4½ inches deep. It sold for $26 a dozen.

The cuspidors were of greater number. They were available in blue enamel in two sizes, six and seven inches in diameter, and retailing for $11.20 and $13.20 a dozen respectively.

The blue enamel ones were the choice of the enameled spittoons, for they had three coats of enamel on them. In "greystone" enamel, only the cuspidor was available, in two sizes, seven and 7½ inches in diameter selling for $7.30 and $11 a dozen. Only one coat of enamel protected the steel in these.

The same was true of the "Royal Gray" models. Two sizes in this enamel (one coat) sold for $9 and $13 a dozen.

Cuspidor Mats

To protect floors, the catalogue offered cuspidor mats, which presumably could also be used for spittoons. These were made of "extra high grade grey rubber" and the 12-inch size sold for $4 a dozen, while the 18-inch model sold for $9.10 a dozen.

An all-brass cuspidor was available for $41.30 a dozen. This had a "beaded body, seamed and soldered, a self-righting weighted bottom." They were 7¼ inches tall and seven inches in diameter. Another brass one, with a plain body, sold for $30.80 a dozen, but was two inches shorter than the other, although of the same diameter.

Then there was a cast iron model in red with a bronze gold stripe, for $30.60 a dozen. Two cheaper ones—nickel-plated steel, and japanned in assorted colors with bronze gold stripes—sold for $8.30 and $4.20 a dozen respectively.

But they are all gone now. The spittoon and the cuspidor as they were once known and loved exist only in antique shops and collections.

The huge gleaming brass cuspidors in the hotels have disappeared. Seasoned Chewers will no longer be able to snicker at the novice who sidled up to one of them to slyly drop a half-chewed quid into the depths.

Janitors no longer have to polish them until they shine like stars. Only antique collectors seem to want them. Antique collectors and pool halls.

Love's Land

Oh Love builds on the azure sea,
And Love builds on the golden sand,
And Love builds on the rose-winged cloud,
And sometimes Love builds on the land!

Of if Love build on sparkling sea,
And if Love build on golden strand,
And if Love build on rosy cloud,
To Love these are the solid land! !

Oh Love will build his lily walls,
And Love his pearly roof will rear
On cloud, or land, or mist, or sea—
Love's solid land is everywhere! !

Petes Get Win By 6 to 5 Over Belleville

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 27—(ENS) — A well-beaten Peterborough Petes team flashed a third period surge to score three goals and edge the Belleville Redmen 6-5 in a senior "B" game here last night.

The high-flying Petes, leaders of the senior loop, met their masters for two and one-third periods, then taking advantage of the Red defence lapse rammed home a trio of goals to grab the verdict.

It was a heart-breaker for the fast-skating Redmen. They had the edge throughout and appeared to have the game in the bag when they led at the end of the second period 3-2 and increased their lead a goal in the first few minutes of the third period.

Then the Petes struck, and struck savagely. In less time than you can count, they had rammed home three goals from Wade, Leonard and Collins to give them a 5-4 lead.

That was it. The Redmen came back with a goal from Goyer to narrow the margin but the Petes surged back with Collins scoring the tie-breaker.

It was a Redmen game all the way. The Redshirts checked and backchecked the league leaders into submission through two fast periods. They well earned the 4-2 count until the disastrous third when the defense lapsed and the opportunist Petes rammed home the goals that spelled the difference.

Took The Lead

From the start the Redmen took over. They scored a goal after seven minutes of play from Johnny Green. But the Petes got that back on a close-in one from Wade, aided by Tompkins and Mason.

Fryia gave the Petes a one-goal lead in the second heat. Jerry Moher, took over on a sortie and shoved the Reds one goal up.

Keith MacDonald, speeding with his crew, took Tommy Schreider's pass to give the Reds a goal lead. Then it happened. The score was 4-2.

Wade, Leonard and Collins rammed home the rubber in less than a minute and the job was done.

The Redmen led by Vern Goyer flashed back to the attack and scored once to bring the Redmen within scoring distance, but Collins roared back with West to score the clincher.

It was easily one of the best senior OHA games seen here this season. The Petes were definitely stymied by the Reds, and were lucky to squeeze out with a win.

Keith MacDonald played an outstanding game for the Reds scoring two goals. The front line of Goyer, Green and Mulvihill were overshadowed by their second and third squads. Harding in the Petes' goal deserves mention. A trio of good player too were Fryia, Collins and Wade.

Millbrook Lads Lose At Opening Of Arena

MILLBROOK, Jan. 27 (ENS)—The official opening of the new arena here last night was spoiled for a big crowd to some extent when Orono defeated Millbrook 13-4 in an OHA junior "D" clash. There was a turnout of about 1,200, with a thousand seated, for the ceremonies and the contest.

It turned out to be a speedy fixture, and quite rough in spots, but the Orono squad had a good margin on play, despite lots of hustle shown by the homesters. Wright got two goals for Millbrook with Ginn and McGill each getting one. The Orono scoring was well spread around. Teams:

Orono: Goal, Bell; defence, Terwilliger, Armstrong; centre, West; wings, Hall, Lunn; alternates, Robinson, Schetler, Mercer, Gilmour, Schell, Collins, Jones, Carleton.

Millbrook: Goal, C. Smith, defence, A. Hutchison, E. Hutchison; centre, Ginn; wings, Wright, G. Smith; alternates, W. Lunn, Handley, McGill, Murney, Jamieson, Lowes, Ryley, Lowrey.

Brintons Lose Out To Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 27 — (ENS)—The largest crowd of the season, about 800 fans, saw the best hockey game of the winter in the arena here Friday, when the league-leading Peterborough Brinton team met the Campbellford puckists on local ice.

The final score of Campbellford 6, Peterborough 5, just about indicates the play. Peterborough took their goal-keeper out for the final 30 seconds of play, but the local lads held off the determined efforts of the best six forwards the visitors could put on the ice.

Chester Herrington, fast right-winger of the Campbellford team, received a serious eye injury about midway through the third period. He was removed to the dressing room and later to a doctor's office for treatment. A puck bounded off two sticks during a scramble near the base-line, striking the unlucky Herrington in the eye. Lawson, of Peterborough, was knocked out when he was sandwiched between two Campbellford men earlier in the game. He was able to return to the game later.

Lineups:

Peterborough Brintons — Goal, Byers; defence, Berardi and Richlark; centre, Eakins; wings, Lawson and Crowder; alternates, Reid, Evans, Huard, Anderson, Harris and Riches.

Campbellford—Goal, Laverne; defence, Tanner and Trumble; centre, Blake; wings, Herrington and Peake; alternates, Robinson, Mason, Cole, Dooher, Jeffs, Dohery, Smith, Pace. Spare goal, Nelson.

The summary:

First Period

Peterborough—Eakins (Berardi) 0:58
Campbellford—Mason (Robertson) 4:51
Peterborough—Crowder (Eakins) 5:45
Campbellford—Blake (Herrington, Tanner) 12:02

Stirling Triumphs

NORWOOD, Jan. 27 (ENS).—Stirling edged Norwood 6-5 here last night in a tidy TVL game before a goodly crowd. It was clean until out in the third when play roughened up. Norwood drew out their goalie with two minutes to go but couldn't tie it up.

Gilbert, Webb and Brown scored for the homesters in the first, Brown also assisting once, while Stapley, Hunter and Robson counted for Stirling, Harden helping twice. Stirling got three in the third, all by Robson, as Wanamaker, Harden and Stapley drew assists. Payne and Webb tallied for Norwood in the third, as they drove hard, Payne assisting on one. Teams:

Stirling — Goal, Bates, defence, Hunter, R. Donnan; centre, Robson; wings, Harden, Stapley; alternates, Bastedo, D. Donnan, McCrory, Wanamaker, Phillips, Goyer, Turner, Sills.

Norwood — Goal, Renwick; defence, Treen, Peterson; centre, Payne; wings, Brown, Thompson; alternates, Gilbert, Williams, Wilson, Webb, Whitnell, Ferguson, Fennell, Rogers.

Eagles Beaten By Queen's In Puck Upset

KINGSTON, Jan. 27 (ENS).—Queens' Combines sprang the biggest upset of the OHA Senior "B" group series when they defeated Eagles by 7-4 amid a scene of wild excitement in the Varty Arena last night. Later the Eagles announced that they will lodge a protest. The lid was off the powder keg in the last period when four major penalties, three misconduts and a minor sentence were allotted to combatants by referee Larry Parageau.

Nineteen penalties were served and another, a major sentence, was also inflicted against a Peterborough offender who had mixed matters with Sweetman of the Gaels late in the game but the said "culprit" escaped scot free when referee Parageau failed to identify him. Play was halted for an estimated 20 minutes with protests renting the air and no doubt more will be heard about the matter when the OHA executive receives the official protest from the aroused Eagles.

It was the Gaels' fifth victory in 22 starts and it enabled them to gain a full game on the fourth-place Belleville Redmen who were edged at home, 6 to 5 by the runaway Petes last night.

The Fireworks

Although trouble had been brewing through previous periods it wasn't until the last session that the real fireworks occurred. After Crowley and Latimer had been handed majors and misconducts and had been dismissed from further service for the evening, Sweetman and his unidentified opponent drew five minute sentences but only Sweetman departed. When play resumed the Eagles scored but the goal was erased when referee Parageau was informed that the visitors were using the services of five players whereas only four were eligible.

It was then that the Eagles soared to dizzy heights in eloquence, were over-ruled and decided that the OHA executive will be invited to untangle the entanglement. Incidentally both Latimer and Sweetman wore visible marks of battle after firing was concluded. Latimer, however, easily outpointed Crowley on the special "boxing" feature.

The Eagles got away to an auspicious start when Crowley took a pass from Vitarelli and scored fifty seconds after the game began. The Combines, however, rallied quickly and suffered not a whit in comparison to their more highly rated opponents during the swift going.

The teams.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Burns and Montgomery; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Crowley; alternates, Coombs, Greenlaw, Stewart, D. Mortimer, F. Mortimer, Munroe and Lalonde.

Queen's: Goal, Boivin; defence, Graves and eBnder; centre, B. Murray; wings R. Murray and McKelvey; alternates, Sweetman, Latimer, Dunn, Klym, Wagar, Wild, Ohlke and Shepherd.

Referee, Larry Parageau; linesman, Art Casterton.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Last week of January, huh? Hockey schedules wind up next month. Let's see what's on tap at the Arena Monday. Oh, the OHA junior "B" puckists hold forth again, Belleville Rockets and the local Oddfellows. Still in a hot scramble up around the top of the heap, so it'll be another speedy scrap. Those fellows just under 20 years of age are full of hustle and fight, and they play a lot of good hockey, too? Why not? They're all hoping to go places soon in hockey, senior amateur or pro. It makes for streamlined play every minute, and this game should be well worth viewing.

As we do a lot of scoring in games here — official scoring on paper, that is — it's interesting to learn that the NHL scorers are doing a capable and pretty fair job this year. Not leaning too heavily on the assists for home players. It is said of the NHD that the home scorer at the start of a campaign unconsciously gives a few more assists out to home players, as he's not so familiar with the visiting pucksters. But he soon gets to know the visitors and often leans over backward to be fair to them. OFA refs are supposed to call the scores and assists to the guy keeping track — even checking when he, the ref, is uncertain. That makes it easier, but refs often ask the official scorer his opinion, too.

Don't Be Too Serious

Scribe Baz O'Meara of The Montreal Star thinks Frankie Filchock will go to Edmonton as assistant coach to Annis Stukus this grid year and then take over the coaching job next year. He says: "Stukus wants to get back to newspaper work. We didn't think he could stay away from it long. The game takes a devilish possession of you and you are never really happy out of it." He says Stukus is a happy warrior around a news office, like Bill Westwick at The Ottawa Journal. "It is our claim," writes Baz, "that there are too many serious people among sports writers, so when a fellow like Stuke moves out you miss him a lot. Some of the boys treat sportive matters with the grim seriousness of editorial writers treating of economics." Well, we don't take our sports too terribly seriously.

Across the line, athletic bodies — especially major league ball — are worried sick o'er the prospect of so many good players being drafted, or likely to be, for the services. Well, that's war, and we can't do anything about it. Sports always continue to some extent even in a hot war, though the calibre of play drops as stars enlist. It gives minor leaguers a chance to move up for a time. Gates drop off, too, and this has been fairly noticeable the past year with no real war in progress — but the threat was there. St. Kitts' lacrosse officials say they had their worst financial year in history, despite having a good OLA senior team and good publicity. It's just a trend of the times, folks.

Whip And The Alaskan

The merry and colorful pro matmen roll right along, packing 'em in and dishing up heaps of action in every bout. And they'll be another sizzling scrap at the Brock Arena on Tuesday night when Whipper Bill Watson and Yukon Eric tangle again. This time, the champ says he'll definitely flatten the powerful Alaskan, and he rarely goes back on his word. But upsets in this game are pretty frequently, and the big guy might do just that to the champ. No doubt another hefty crowd on deck as these headliners stage an exciting show. Earl McCready makes a comeback here in the semi-final 'gainst rough Abe Zvonkin, while George Scott takes on Jack Wentworth in the prelim.

* * * * * *

A good-sized crowd (more than a thousand) at Civic Arena last e'en, and the customers saw a nice game. They were a bit grim as the IOOF-ers trailed early in the fray, but got highly excited as they fought back furiously and finally wound up on top by a 7-6 score. A neat junior "B" fray with the Kingston crew full of hustle to earn the narrow nod against worthy opponents. It was nice to see helmeted Jim Morrow back in action after his tough accident in Lindsay—and he showed his value to the team. But they all did, and they're gradually building up a fan following that should soon rival that of the senior "B" Petes and Eagles. No question about it, the kids give all they have and certainly serve up exciting hockey in every contest. Last night was no exception.

IOOF Edges Oshawa, 7 To 6 In Exciting Junior Contest

Oddfellows continued their winning ways at Civic Arena last night as they defeated Oshawa Bees 7-6 in another hard-fought, clean Junior B hockey struggle to stay in the race for top spot in the group. About 1,100 rabid fans cheered them as one thrill followed another in the hectic battle that gave the players of both teams no respite from start to finish. Oddfellows came from behind after their rivals took an early three-goal lead in the first as Johnson, Chiroski, and OConnor each found the range on opportune plays.

Links fought back hard and Bill Stewart combined neatly with Ray Douglas late in the frame to flip a backhander close in on the short side to start his team on the upgrade..

Battled Back

Fathers and sons cheered wildly as flying Oddfellows steamed to the attack in the second and Douglas. Gary Robinson and Wyatt scored three beautiful tallies in succession in the first half of the stanza as Ab Buckton, Ken Flyod, and Jim Morrow assisted. Play continued hard and fast, with the teams deadlocked as the period ended by virtue of OConnor's marker after Deeth and Stewart again tallied for their respective teams in a fine showing.

The men of Kingdon salted the game away with a masterful display both ways in the finale as they forechecked their rivals weary and fired home two more from the sticks of Morrow and Dean West. Deeths late talley came on a long blueline drive with seconds to go to make defeat less hard for the Motor City lads. But the better team won.

Morrow Back

The return of Jim Morrow sparked the team and his lamplighter mates Wyatt and West as the trio amassed six scoring points, each with a goal and an assist to bring their seasons total to 79. The Robinson brothers and Floyd worked well, as did Buckton, Douglas and Stewart, the latter potting two valuable markers, the others assisting. Brian and Gary each scored with Floyd getting an assist. The defence as a whole left little to be desired in a fine showing. For Oshawa, Gord Deeth, Jim Lawrence, Jim O'Connor, Chiroski, Rorabeck, Etcher and Hillman looked best.

Oshawa — Goal, Pallister; defence, Hillman, Johnson; centre, Etcher; wings, Chiroski, Lawrence; alternates Wilson, Deeth, Edwards, Keller, O'Connor, Haxton, Rorabeck.

Ezinicki-Lindsay Detroit Fight May Indicate What Puck Fans Like

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

If there is anything approaching a sell-out crowd in Boston Gardens tonight, National Hockey League officials may be forced to draw some sad conclusions.

For one thing, it will be a reasonable indication that the possibility of mayhem on ice can be more of an attraction for the customers than the promise of plain, ordinary well-played hockey.

Boston Bruins take on the league-leading Detroit Red Wings and it will probably mean another meeting between Bill Ezinicki and Ted Lindsay, who engaged in a bloody brawl in Detroit Thursday night.

The two forwards, among the toughest in the league, fought it out for three minutes—the length of a single round of a boxing match—but they inflicted more damage on each other than is usually seen in a ring.

Watching Closely

Ezinicki came out with eight stitches in his head and a split lip while Lindsay suffered cuts above his right eye and on his hand.

The brawl was the highlight of a game which ended in a 3-3 tie, and the resulting match penalty for the two players has been given considerable publicity.

It's probable that everyone in Boston interested in hockey will know about the affair by this time. Since Boston, like New York and Chicago, has been sagging at the box office this season, any jump in attendance for tonight's rematch will provide some evidence of what attracts the fans.

May Not Play

The whole experiment depends, of course, whether wild Bill and terrible Ted get to play. The match penalties mean they are suspended until their cases have been dealt with by the league president.

Since Clarence Campbell is flying to Boston for a meeting with the players today, it may mean he intends to deal with the matter immediately. In past cases, players have been fined $100.

Campbell may see fit, however, to avoid any possibility of renewed rough stuff between the two players by extending the suspension until after Saturday's game.

Christ's Way Of Teaching Differed For The Scribes

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

In Matthew 7:29, where the above words are found, it is added "and not as their scribes." The contrast is striking for the scribes were supposedly the authoritative and official teachers of religion.

Jesus, so far as we know, had no authority other than that inherent in His words and deeds. He was neither a priest, nor a Levite, nor a scribe. He had nothing corresponding to a modern diploma or credentials, and His "school" must have been almost, if not completely, unique in the annals of education.

He occasionally spoke in the synagogue, with which a school was associated in a remarkable system of Jewish education. But His teaching was given as He went about from place to place; from a boat cast out a little from the shore (Mark 4); from homes where He was entertained (Luke 7:36-48); and most of all as He sat on a hillside, surrounded by His disciples (Matthew, chapters 5-7).

The great fact of this supreme, but unofficial, Teacher, depending only on the inherent authority of the truth He uttered, is impressive. The lesson which it signifies should not be lost, or minimized.

There is, of course, another side to what I have said concerning authority and official sanctions. In our complex world standards are necessary.

Our schools would suffer, if anybody without some standard of qualifications should be permitted to teach; we should be at the mercy of quacks, if doctors did not have to have proper credentials; and shysters would probably outnumber honest and competent lawyers, if men and women were not "called to the bar" only upon fulfilling proper studies and requirements.

All that is plain. But what is important, and sometimes forgotten, is that such authoritative and official credentials, necessary as they are, do not by any means always guarantee what they are supposed to imply. An outwardly qualified teacher may in fact be quite incompetent, and I should like to make sure that the doctor or lawyer who serves me actually possesses what his credentials assume.

I have known incompetent doctors and untrustworthy lawyers. So authority does actually rest ultimately upon something more than official status and sometimes a teacher, a bone-setter, a preacher, comes along, who, without any official standing, reveals a knowledge and competency quite beyond that of many who are outwardly qualified.

Such a one pre-eminently was Jesus. But He has not been alone among the great unofficial teachers of religion. Many unofficial prophets have proclaimed God's truth, and won men to the truth they declared. And it ought to be so in the realm of religion, where values are inherent, or lacking, in actual word and action, and which ought to be the most free and untrammelled of all of life's areas.

I emphasize these things today, for there is a great tendency toward over-emphasis on organization and officialdom. In a former generation one used often to hear a distinction expressed between churchianity and Christianity. Now churchianity may be, and ought to be, Christianity, but there is always a profound need of going back to the orfginal sources and keeping near to the Christ. In Him alone can the fellowship of those who profess His name be truly Christian.

United Church Charge Of Omemee Raised $7,214

OMEMEE, Jan. 27—(ENS)—The past year's work was reviewed by Trinity United Church at their annual meeting Wednesday evening, which followed a congregational supper.

Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt was chairman of the meeting and Mr. Geo. Bannon secretary. Mr. Zufelt reported 3 members lost by removal and eight by death, three received on profession of faith and five by letter, resulting in a loss of three to the charge. He officiated at 4 baptisms, 10 marriages and 14 funerals.

C. R. Vaughan, for the board of stewards, G. Bannon for the trustee board, and Miss C. Connell for Women's Association all reported substantial balances after all obligations had been met. Miss Joan Whitmore reported for the Sunday school and Cyril Pogue for Young People's Union.

A well-received play, put on by the YPU, made it possible for them to advance $200 to put the Missionary an Maintainance Fund over the top.

Allocation Exceeded

M. and M. treasurer S. D. Vaughan reported a total of $1,595.80 raised on the Omemee Bethel charge which exceeded their allocation of $1,540 by $45.10.

The Women's Missionary Society, as reported by Mrs. R. E. Brooks, besides meeting their allocation of $370, had sent a bale of clothing valued at $278. Baby Band superintendent Mrs. H. Deyell reported 30 members, two promotions to the Mission Band and $9 sent to presbyterial treasurer.

Choir leader W. D. Weir reported a balance of $23.37 with Easter cantata music paid for. The new group of boys recently acquired brought the membership to 30.

A. N. Weir reported an addition of $1,227.50 to the building fund donations during the past year, making a total of $3,143.

$7,214 Raised

On the Omemee appointment alone $7,214 was raised in 1950 for all purposes, of which $1,277 was for missions.

Retiring stewards A. Lang, E. Rodman, C. Best and H. Deyell were re-appointed, while H. Bullock, E. Bradburn and G. Werry at their requests were replaced by J. M. Sandy and D. Hicks. Miss M. Rea and Miss C. Connell were re-appointed as auditors.

The need of better light where the church walk meets the street was discussed and the secretary authorized to write a letter to the village council to be forwarded to the hydro board. It was agreed that the church sponsor as many as five films for use at evening services during the year. While daylight-saving time is used, evening service is to begin at 7.30, otherwise the hour is to be 7 p.m. It was also agreed that evening services shall be withdrawn during July and August and the first Sunday in September.

There was hearty support to a motion of appreciation of the work of Rev. and Mrs. Zufelt in the church, also of the organist, Miss L. Rae, and of W. D. Weir and his choir.

Mr. Zufelt took this opportunity to thank the congregation for their wonderful support and also for their kind interest in his family, escepcially his young son, John Roy, who enjoys the distinction of being the first infant resident of the parsonage.

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CII. No. 23 — SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1951

MILLBROOK-CAVAN MEMORIAL CENTRE was dedicated and officially opened on Friday evening as hundreds of district people took part in the ceremony. The memorial tablet, Left Top Photo, was unveiled by mothers of Second World War dead, Mrs. James Bingham and Mrs. T. E. Park. The Honourable Leslie M. Frost, Premier of Ontario, Inset, cut the ribbon at mid-ice. An exhibition hockey game followed and team captains Ray (Gusty) West of Orono, his mascot Mary Jane Found, 5, and George Smith of the Millbrook Lions are shown in the Right Top Photo. Four pretty members of the Orono Figure Skating Club in Lower Left Photo, Left to Right, are Adele Cooper, Mary Ann Armstrong, Carolyn Jones and Rosemary Bostock. —Examiner Staff Photos

Premier Frost Opens $30,000 Cavan-Millbrook Arena

As a capacity crowd of 1,200 local residents looked on, the Honorable Leslie Frost, Premier of Ontario, Friday night cut the ribbon in the new Millbrook-Cavan Memorial Arena and declared it officially open. The streets of the village were deserted as whole families — the young and the old — crowded into the arena to see the well-planned opening ceremony. All speakers praised the enthusiasm with which residents in the Millbrook-Cavan district had supported the project. Total cost of the arena will be about $30,000. Most of it was raised through public subscription. The provincial government has yet to donate its grant of $5,000. Millbrook village council has already contributed $2,500, and Cavan township is going to have a vote on whether or not to give a similar amount and accept joint ownership with the village.

Residents are particularly proud of the fact that most of the work on the arena has been done by local people contributing free labor: Albert Cochrane, a builder from Douglas, was in charge.

The building is of pebbled aluminum with built-up arches of laminated wood. Overall dimensions are 208 feet by 90 feet, with a regulation size ice area of 175 feet by 75 feet. Seating capacity is 1000 with standing room for another 200.

Plaque Unveiled

Highlight of the opening ceremonies was the brief "dedication" with the Rev. Arthur Chote, St. Thomas' Anglican church, giving the dedication prayer. A plaque to the 12 men from the district who had died in the Second World War was unveiled by two mothers who had lost their sons— Mrs. James Bingham and Mrs. T. E. Park.

The last post and reveille were played by a bugler from the 20 piece Orono band under the direction of Bandmaster M. J. Tamblyn.

Union Jacks and multi-colored bunting lent a touch of color to the interior. Premier Frost and the other speakers entered the arena through two rows of veterans, members of Branch 402, Canadian Legion. And they spoke from a flag-draped platform placed at one end of the rink.

The Premier hailed the residents of Millbrook and Cavan as "old friends." He reminded the audience that it was a memorial arena erected to commemorate those men who had died during the Second World War.

He thought it was the wish of those who had "fallen" to provide the youth of the community with an opportunity for healthful recreation.

Community Vision

"We have this memorial rink because of the vision and enthusiasm of the people of this community," he said. And he added that the province would do its part by giving a grant of $5,000 when all the requirements for such a grant were met.

Undertaking such a project was typical of the community spirit shown by the original "Cavan Blazers," he said.

John James, MP for Durham, congratulated the residents on their arena and said he could appreciate the problems that arose in the financing and actual construction of it. Bowmanville, his home town, is now building an arena too.

"It's a grand thing for the youngsters and for the future," he said. "I hope you all enjoy it to the full."

Harold Scott, MPP, reminded his listeners that Millbrook was his old "home town" and he said he hoped the present generation would get as much pleasure from the new arena as he and his friends had got from the old curling rink.

Percy Hamilton, chairman of the construction committee and secretary of the Arena Board, gave a resume of finances.

Planned Two Years Ago

Millbrook-Cavan residents had finally reached their goal, he said. The arena was planned two years ago and construction began this June. He estimated total cost at $30,000. Only $4,000 of this amount remains unpaid and half of that is pledged. Within two months the arena should be debt free, said Mr. Harrison.

Other speakers were Delbert Olan, reeve of Cavan; Dr. John Wright, reeve of Millbrook, and Major the Rev. John Foote, V.C., who introduced Premier Frost. The master of ceremonies was the Rev. T. G. Husser, of St. Andrew's Church.

Orono Skating Club

Fourteen members of the Orono Skating Club were on hand to provide additional entertainment. They were under the direction of Dane Found.

Mr. Found's five-year-old daughter, Mary, was the hit of the evening. Dressed in figure-skating costume she curtsied to the premier as he cut the ribbon for the official opening. Then she curtsied again and snuggled up against the premier. Later she did a solo figure skating number.

Holding the ribbon for the premier to cut were two girls who were elected to that honor by their schoolmates at Millbrook continuation school. They were Anne Dawson and Marilyn Palmer.

The only disappointment of the night, so far as the hockey fans were concerned, was the 13 to 4 trouncing that Orono Orfuns handed Millbrook Lions in their scheduled junior "D" OHA match.

73 More Foxes Die Total Bag 111 Since Jan. 1

Hunters and trappers have killed 73 foxes in Peterborough county during the last two weeks. This brings the total bag up to 111 since the $3 bounty was introduced January 1.

The neighboring counties of Victoria, Durham-Northumberland and Peterborough are also paying $3 for each fox pelt brought in.

Trapper of the week is Leslie Crowe, Dummer township, who tarpped one fox and three wolves in Dummer near Crowe's Landing. This means he is $78 in pocket—$25 for each wolf pelt and $3 for the fox.

In Victoria county the wolf bounty is now $40.

Victoria Head At Trinity Church

At its anniversary services Sunday, Trinity United Church has as guest preacher the Rev. Dr. A. B. B. Moore of Victory University, Toronto. Dr. Moore was recently installed as president and vice-chancellor of Victoria. He came to this position last September from the principalship of St. Andrew's College, Saskatoon.

Dr. Moore, a Maritimer by birth, is a graduate of McGill University and did post-graduate studies for a year at Mansfield College in Oxford. He was for several years pastor of Westminster Church in Saskatoon. He is one of the leaders in the United Church ministry and scholarship, and a fluent speaker. Sunday will be President Moore's first visit to Peterborough.

Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, minister of Trinity, will be in charge of the services. Special choir music has been arranged under the direction of Donald Kennedy, and the noted Canadian soprano, Jeanne Pengelly, will be guest soloist.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

PAINTING EXHIBIT

The exhibit of paintings by Oscar Schlienger now on display at the Public Library will close on Wednesday.

FINED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Donald Mackay, Bridgenorth, was fined $15 and costs in police court today when he pleaded guilty to a charge of having liquor in his car.

NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Traffic lights at the corners of Hunter and Aylmer Streets and Monaghan Rd. and Charlotte St. which are now being installed will be in operation by the end of next week, according to R. L. Dobbin, manager of the Public Utilities Commission.

FELL THROUGH TRAP DOOR

Falling through a trapdoor and down some steps in her home, Mrs. William Strickland, Gilmour St., Friday fractured her collar bone and a bone in her hand and suffered shock. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment.

DEER BREAKS BACK

Provincial Game Warden Fred Walton of Lindsay Friday shot a deer near Cunningnham's Corners that had broken its back in jumping a fence. First persons to notice the injured animal were passengers on a Peterborough-Lindsay bus.

TREES DOWN—POLES UP

Utilities Commission men have already erected the new electric pole line on the west side of Park St., south of Lansdowne St. Meanwhile the city has been cutting trees which also bordered the old narrower road of township width. City hall has plans for extending the paving southerly, but they are not in the intentions for this year.

WINS CAR

Lawrence Olan of Millbrook was the winner of the English-model car at the lucky draw Friday night in Millbrook. The draw was made shortly after midnight, climaxing an evening of festivities at the opening of the Millbrook-Cavan Memorial Arena. Helen Wright, 10-year-old daughter of Reeve Dr. John Wright, drew the ticket.

LINDSAY EXHIBITION

Reeve Dick Butler of Lindsay was elected Thursday president of the Lindsay Fair for 1951. Financial statement showed receipts last year of $46,073.48, and cash disbursements of $45,322.05. The ledger balance showed $751.43 surplus. Some of the spending was on capital assets. The auditor's report placed the operating surplus at $4,523.08. Bert L. McLean, manager, said wet and chilly weather had brought the 1950 Exhibition too close to a deficit on operations.

NEW ARENA MANAGER

Art Corneil is the new manager of the Lindsay arena. He succeeds Clarence (Toar) Morgan. Morgan, a 260-pound professional wrestler hung a right-hand punch on the nose of Lloyd Reeves, a Lindsay druggist, after an argument at a hockey game. He was charged with common assault and fined $17. Later he resigned as manager of the arena. According to Morgan's version of the one-punch scuffle he had protested against the roughness of a hockey game and the argument with Reeves developed.

More Parked Cars

More parked cars were in evidence than vendors in the market square this morning. Some 25 cars were parked whereas the winter market has diminished to about 15 vendors.

The number of morning buyers was also small with approximately 50 people patronizing the market's produce at 10 a.m. Chickens and eggs were in the majority on the stands with some vendors offering honey, potatoes, meat, carrots, cabbage, turnips, apples, baking and wood.

Local Carriers Protest New Rule One Mail A Day

Years of schooling and sloganing in the idea and practice of service to the public leaves letter carriers sharply critical of the Postal Department's new policy of one delivery of mail a day throughout Canada.

As announced some time ago, this change will come into effect on April 1, and is expected to result in the retirement of 1,300 employees.

Letter carriers Friday afternoon decided to protest to the Department against this new order of service to the public which may not have any effect here on the number of men engaged on the walks.

It might be assumed by the public that the letter carriers would grab at the proposal to cut their foot work in half, one delivery of mail a day in the residential areas instead of two. But, that is not what they have become accustomed to. They have been "briefed" in the attitude of "service to the public" until it has thoroughly entered into their habits of thinking and doing. To them, as expressed Friday afternoon, the change is a retrograde step in the long established policy of the Post Office Department.

Wrong Economy

If the end and purpose is economy, these employees suggest that it is being applied at the wrong end, that the public is to be deprived of the second delivery of mail a day, while the new air mail service is costing the Department millions.

Furthermore, they ay, that the economy aspect if it is a major objective, should begin at higher salaried personnel of doubtful value to the efficiency of the Department and its service to the public.

17 Routes Under Order

There are twenty-eight 'walks' or routes in Peterborough. Seven of them, more or less on the fringe of the city, are now getting only one delivery a day; four others are in the business district, which will not be affected. That leaves seventeen of the local routes to come under the new order.

It was reported from the meeting that the Peterborough carriers were decidedly against this change. They say it follows a similar deterioration in United States postal policy but that Uncle Sam's postal department has been costing the country millions in yearly deficits whereas the Canadian department has been making money.

Driver Accuses Milk Cart Horse

A driver blamed a milk wagon horse for causing him to crash into a parked car on Romaine St. Friday.

The milk man, who saw the accident from a verandah opposite, said the horse was not to blame. He said the horse wandered out into the street after the accident.

Gordon Hayes, Leaside, told police that as he drove east on Romaine St., the horse walked out into the road. He put on his brakes and skidded on the city road into a parked car owned by James Moffat, RR 9, Peterborough.

Traffic Officer Harold Mesley investigated.

Dogs Dogged By Icy Streets

Icy streets are death traps for dogs, said Gerald Dunford, Humane Society Inspector, today.

He reported that Wednesday three dogs were killed on slippery roads. Motorists have no chance to slow down or stop to miss dogs when roads are icy.

Dogs too are not able to dodge oncoming traffic.

Many of the dogs are wandering about the streets, said Mr. Dunford, because children take them to school with them. When the children go into school, the dogs are left to wander back home through often busy streets.

$275 Damage As Truck Skids

A total of $275 was caused to a parked car and an out-of-control truck Friday night on Sherbrooke St., just west of Highway 8.

James Beddie, RR 3, Peterborough, was driving his three-quarter-ton truck west on Sherbrooke St. It skidded and went out of control, veering to the right and smashing into the car of Douglas Mitchell.

Mitchell's car was parked on his own lot, facing east. The truck received $75 damage to the front bumper, grill, and left front and rear fenders. The car received $200 damage to its left front wheel and left front fender.

Provincial Constable David Coffey investigated.

RT. HON. FRANCIS FORDE

Australian High Commissioner Visiting City

The Right Honorable Francis Forde, Australian High Commissioner to Canada, will arrive in the city at noon today, to be guest speaker at the second of the Christian Culture Series sponsored by the Knights of Columbus. The meeting is being held at the Knights of Columbus Hall Sunday evening. The High Commissioner will speak on "Australia as a Christian Democracy in the Modern World." This meeting is open to the public.

Accompanying the distinguished Australian is Mrs. Forde. He is the first Australian High Commissioner ever to visit Peterborough.

This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Forde are being conducted on a tour of Peterborough and surrounding district. At 5:15 Mr. Forde will give a fifteen minute address over CHEX.

Two Receptions

A small civic dinner is being held this evening at the Empress Hotel by His Worship Mayor M. J. Swanston and members of the council will attend.

Following the dinner, the High Commissioner will meet with the industrial members of the Chamber of Commerce at an informal reception also to be held at the Empress Hotel. A birthday cake commemorating the 50th anniversary of Australian Confederation, being celebrated this month, will be cut by the High Commissioner at the reception.

Earl Twa Knicks Car Ex-Magistrate in Skid

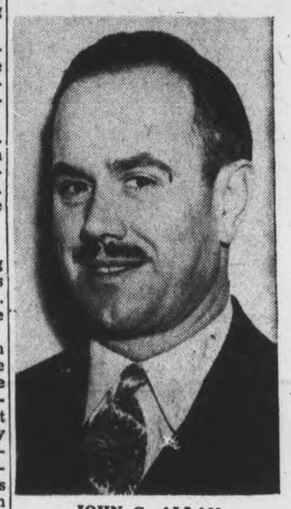
Passing another car on Water St., Earl W. Twa, Lakefield highway, skidded, nicked the car he was passing and banged into a tree Friday.

Driver of the car he passed was O. A. Langley, KC, former magistrate for Peterborough. Both were driving south. As Twa was passing, the rear of his car skidded on ice in front of Langley. The Langley car hit the Twa car lightly on the front left fender with his front right fender.

The trunk and bumper of the Twa car was damaged when it hit the tree. Traffic Officer Harold Mesley investigated.

To Grant $10,333 To Nursery Dep't Of St. Joseph's

Ontario government's grant of $10,333 to the enlarged nursery department of St. Joseph's Hospital will be announced Monday, Hon. Harold R. Scott informed the Examiner today.



Completion of the big addition to the hospital last year, which was formally opened by the Prime Miniseter, Hon. Leslie M. Frost, left the south wing available for remodelling as a modern nursery section. It provides 31 cubicles for infants, five of which are incubators in the premature room.

In Use Six Months

Sister Priscilla of St. Joseph's said the nursery has been in use nearly six months. It complied with the requirements of the Ontario Department of Health whose grant is supplementary to the assistance allotted to the major expansion of the hospital.

Germicidal lighting, acclimatizer and other equipment for the care and well being of infants have been in every day use for months. That includes the nursery show window for visiting fathers and other relatives.

Thursday's Review gave a rather distorted picture of our request to the City Council to establish a public cab stand in front of our office, so I am taking this means of stating our case:

1. We have parking space in rear we pay rent for.
2. We pay city taxes, business tax and license fees.
3. We are six owners and four employees with over $15,000 worth of cars to serve the public.
4. We are quite agreeable to paying any fee the City may see fit to charge for removal of ONE meter.
5. We are even more concerned with night parking than daytime parking as at night one car can be parked at our door, and often is, for six hours on a wet or snowy night and all passengers from our office have to walk out to the middle of the street, disrupting traffic, to enter a car to go home.
6. We load over one thousand people a week directly from our office into cars and are merely asking for the right to load them from the curb, the same rights as enjoyed by bus passengers in daytime hours.

Cage Victories Captured By PCVS Girls

Both PCVS girls teams, the seniors and juniors, decisively won their second games in the Lakeshore League Friday night at PCVS. The Garnet and Grey lasses impressed only a handful of fans as they won the junior game over Cobourg High 35-11, and the senior game also from Cobourg 29-7. Last week they won their first games from Bowmanville.

PCVS senior forwards followed up last weeks play with identical clicking passing Friday night. Nancy Mason and Peggy Estlick fed Mary Craw passes continually and her field attempts were good for 10 baskets or 20 points. She also had four points on foul shots out of a possible 11. Thus she surpassed her first game effort of 17 points.

Slipping around the Cobourg guards, the Garnet and Grey seniors were up 12-4 at the half. M. Craw having eight on two foul shots and three field baskets. Gwen Todd and Nancy Mason added a foul shot point, while Peggy Estlick scored a two-pointer. Barbara Thompson scored three of Cobourgs four.

Mary Craw in the second half scored 16 points, seven field baskets and two foul shots. P. Estlick added another point to her first half two on a foul shot. Kathleen Tunney netted two points and Adele McCuaig one point for Cobourg in the last half.

Juniors Coast In

The Garnet and Grey juniors had even less trouble with Cobourg as they smeared the lakeshore High 35-11. Teamwork throughout the game between the forwards and the guards sent the PCVS girls up 17-5 in the first half, and in the second helped outscore Cobourg 18-6.

Rosie McInroy got 13 points to lead in the scoring department. Three other forwards, Reta Naylor, Maisie Shearer, and Lorraine Derry each had seven points. Noreen Hart scored five to top the Cobourg team.

McInroy started off on her spree in the first half when she scored seven points. Reta Naylor had five, Lorraine Derry five, and Shirley Frost a single. Noreen Hart scored a field basket and a foul shot in the half.

Maisie Shearer took over for PCVS in the second with seven points, three baskets and a foul shot. McInroy came through with three field baskets, Lorraine Derry three foul shots, and Naylor a two-pointer.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

When manager Jake Mintz bellows that Ezzard Charles "will fight 'em all," the talkative little guy isn't kidding.

While Jake has been hollering the praises of the heavyweight champion, co-manager Tom Tannas quietly has been manoeuvering backstage to line up a record schedule of title clashes.

Right now Charles has been signed to make his seventh title defence against Jersey Joe Walcott in Detroit, March 7.

Before the year is out, Charles may put his title on the line in Chicago in June, in Pittsburgh in August, and in Detroit or New York in September. There's also a possibility of a winter bout in San Francisco and even the chance for that Reno, Nev., contest.

Light heavyweight champion Maxim is rated the likely opponent for the Chicago affair.

Norman Thompson, 146-pound welterweight from Dauphin, Man. Friday night won a technical knockout over Vince Scarpari, 146, Newark, N. J., in 1:58 of the seventh round in a scheduled eight-round co-feature. Thompson, using left jabs as his best punch, floored Scarpari for the count of eight in the sixth round and for the same count mid-way in the seventh round. When Scarpari went down for the count in the last of the seventh, the fight was stopped.

Cuban Kid Gavilan bolo-punched his way to a split 10-round decision over rough Paddy Young of New York's Greenwich Village Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Young, at 156, had a 10-pound weight pull on Gavilan, who came in at 146.

Although referee Mark Conn saw it a draw in both rounds and points and judge Joe Angello had Gavilan a slim 6-4 winner, judge Arthur Susskind came up with a surprising 9-1 card in favor of the Cuban keed.

R. S. Coleman of Hamilton, Friday won the Daytona Beach Baby Grand clay target title by breaking 185 of 200 and then scoring a perfect shoot-off.

Ray Burris of Jacksonville, (Fla.), tied Coleman, but lost in the shoot-off. He broke 24 of 25 to Canadian's 25 of 25.

Joan Pfleuger of Miami, Fla., won the women's crown with 183 of 200. Only five women competed Friday.

Ben Hogan withdrew from the $10,000 Phoenix open golf tournament Friday because of an attack of intestinal influenza, and Chick Harbert grabbed the second round lead with his second sub-par round and a 36-hole score of 133.

The illness brought an abrupt halt to the first 1951 competitive appearance for Hogan, golf's man-of-the-year.

Hogan had taken the 6,698-yard Phoenix Country Club course apart with a six-under-par Thursday to hold a one-stroke lead.

Vancouver's Stan Leonard shot a 71 Friday to go with his first-round 70 for a 141 total. The Marine drive pro is tied with six others for 16th place.

BACK TO TRY FOR MILLION $$ TURF EARNINGS—The Calumet Farm's mighty Citation gets a lump of sugar from groom Danny Barnette upon his return this week to Arcadia, Cal., from Kentucky to resume training for the $1,000,000 goal in purses that has been set for him. He has won $938,000 so far. He is not expected to race again until late spring or early summer.

Colleges Scrap Over Eligibility Of Athletes

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP). — How long should a college athlete be permitted to play for his alma mater?

That question, raised Thursday in a new explosion of rivalry between the University of Toronto and London's University of Western Ontario, brought varied reaction from intercollegiate officials.

It seemed a good bet, though, that the result of the furore might be a new ruling on post-graduate students' eligibility for college sport.

Right now there's no limit on the number of years a post-grad uate may keep his finger in the athletic pie.

Warren Stevens, athletic director of the University of Toronto, touched off the latest fireworks with a statement that he is considering recommending that the college sever athletic relations with Western.

Rivalry between the two universities came to a head when Stevens charged that Bob Phibbs was ineligible for Western's basketball team. Phibbs is working toward a master's degree in business administration at Western, from which he was graduated in 1948.

Not Full-time Student

Stevens said the 23-year-old Phibbs is not a full-time student and is paid for part-time lectures he gives on business administration.

Phibbs, who scored 10 points when Western defeated Toronto 51-45 here Wednesday night, also receives a salary as acting director of Western's Alumni Society and as acting secretary of the Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association.

Frank Tindall, athletic director of Queen's University, said Friday at Kingston, that Phibbs' eligibility is "strictly a matter to be decided by the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union executive."

In Montreal, Vic Obeck, McGill University athletic director, said the disagreement is "just one more reason why we should have a commissioner to rule on such matters."

(The Toronto Star quoted both Tindall and Obeck as saying they consider Phibbs eligible.)

Dukes Edge Dutchmen 4-3 As Spits Clip Galt 4-2

By The Canadian Press.

Coach Flash Hollett finally got his Toronto Marlboros clicking Friday night after the 1950 Allan Cup champions had gone down in five of their six previous starts.

The Dukes edged Kitchener-Waterloo-Dutchmen 4-3 in an Ontario Hockey Association major series game in which all the scoring came in the first two periods.

Hollett switched his forward lines and seemed to hit a good combination of putting starry Bobby Hassard with rookie Jack McKenzie and veteran Bus Wycherley. Hassard and Wycherley each rattled home a counter while Don Rope and Bill Johnson, from the other two re-shuffled lines, got a goal apiece.

The victory strengthened the hold of the Dukes on second place now five points ahead of Hamilton Tigers.

Put Up Scrappy Game

The Dutchies, who put up a scrappy game were best served by Bobby Bauer, who contributed two markers, Dinny Flanagan, who got one, and Billy Flick and Mickey Roth who were constantly dangerous.

All teams were in action in the 10-team junior "A" division. Windsor Spitfires became the No. 1 team all by itself by coming from behind with a three-goal spurt in the last seven minutes to defeat Galt Black Hawks 4-2.

The win moved Windsor out of a first-place tie with Toronto Marlboros who were beaten 9-7 by Stratford Kroehlers.

Eldor Thomas scored both tying and winning goals for Windsor. John Offidani and Erwin Grosse got the other Spits' markers while Garth Boyce and Don Hogan scored for Galt.

End Losing Streak

At Stratford, Kroehlers' victory over the powerful Dukes ended their 10-game losing streak without a victory and also dropped Toronto into a second-place tie with Barrie Flyers.

George Airken and Guy Henri each scored two goals for Stratford while their other goals were tallied by Bob Bailey, Ray Ross, Bob Armstrong, Roy Leckie and Johnny Wood. Parker McDonald and Bill MacFarland each got two goals for Marlboros with singles being counted by Ron Stewart, Eric Nesterenko and Earl Balfour.

Barrie kept its place in the runner-up slot by downing the last-place Waterloo Hurricanes 5-1. Forward Bill Hagan paced the Barrie shotmakers with two goals while Doug Towers, Chuck Wood and Jim White scored one apiece. Paul Oliver counted Waterloo's lone goal.

Ron Murphy turned in a four-goal effort for Guelph Biltmores to gain a 6-4 victory over the ninth-place Toronto St. Michael's.

Ken Laufman and Andy Bathgate scored Guelph's other markers while Willie Marshall, with two goals, and Art Clune and Jack Weldrake with singletons took care of Marlboro scoring.

Goalie Don Simmons marked up his second straight shutout when St. Catharines Teepees defeated Oshawa Generals 4-0 to move Teepees within one point of the fifth-place Generals.

Captain Wayne Brown fired three of his team's markers while Jim Robertson got St. Kitts' fourth goal.

PROMISING JUNIOR—Big Jean Beliveau, 19-year-old centre with Quebec Citadels, is a leading scorer in the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association, with 49 goals and 50 assists in 33 games. A great favorite of Quebec fans, he passed up an offer by Montreal Canadiens of the N.H.L. to remain in junior ranks one more season. He is expected to turn pro next year.

Bethany Boys Win

BETHANY, Jan. 27—(ENS)—Bethany junior hockey team got away to a good start with their first official game of the season, taking a 9-3 win over the Pontypool visitors on Thursday night.

Bobby Ryley was the star player with five goals to his credit. Barry Smith and Reg. Palmer scoring two each. Levi McGill and Jack Neals also played a good game, as did Charley McGill, goal tender.

Bethany community rink is an open-air one and the season has been discouraging for the committee in charge. With little chance of practice, due to mild weather, the junior boys show a lot of promise.

Nurses And CGE Take Wins In Lasses' Loop

Since Christmas, the CGE lasses in the girls' city basketball league have been making a desperate bid to climb into second or third place. Friday night they scored 10 points in the last quarter to best the Normals 15-8. In the other half of the double header, Nurses' nipped Black's 16-9.

The senior and junior nurses have combined to form one unit in the league, hospital duties forcing the change. The combines were on the short end of the score in the first half 5-2. These points came on foul shots by Joan Smith and Joan Plunkett. Ann Metheral and Rosie McInroy scored field baskets for Black's as Marj. McIlvena added a single on a foul shot.

Nurses rallied in the second half, first tying Black's seven-all in the third quarter on points by Bev. Pringle, Mary Braund and Joan Smith. Mary Knox scored the lone basket for Black's. In the final, points by Plunkett, Bev Pringle and Mary Braund decided the game as Nurses held Black's to two points by Rosie McInroy.

Close at First

The CGE'ers took a 3-2 lead in the first quarter on Normals on points by M. Perrin and D. Jackson. Carol Raper scored the field basket for Normals. Only two baskets were scored in the second quarter, Amy Curtis for Normals and D. Jackson for CGE.

Amy Curtis with two points and Joan Krogh with a foul shot point put Normals up 7-5 at the three-quarter mark. The CGE'ers swept the game away in the fourth scoring 10 points. Barb Luther, Pat Nixon, M. Hodgson, M. Perrin and J. Fletcher counted. Doris Reynolds scored the single for Normals. Lineups;

Ott And Foxx Elected To Hall Of Fame

By JOE REICHLER.

NEW YORK, Jan. 27 (AP).— Mel Ott, former New York Giants player and manager and all-time home run king of the National League, and Jimmy Foxx, mighty slugging first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox for nearly 20 years, today were elected to Baseball's Hall of Fame by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Ott, 41, and Foxx, 43, are the 59th and 60th players to have their names enshrined in Cooperstown, N. Y., home of the Hall of Fame. The last player to be thus honored was Charley Gehringer, former Detroit Tiger star second baseman who gained it in 1949.

Ott was named on 197 of the 226 ballots cast. Foxx received 179 votes. They needed only 170, or three-fourths of the total vote, to be elected. Ott missed making it last year by the narrow margin of 12.

Began Same Year

Oddly enough, both came up to the major leagues the same year, 1925, and both began as catchers. Whereas Foxx was sent down to the minors for another year of seasoning, Ott never played in the minors.

Foxx pounded big league fences for the next 20 years. When he called it a career at the end of the 1945 season, he had accumulated 534 home runs to finish second only to the immortal Babe Ruth.

Ott spent 22 consecutive seasons with the Giants. Switched to the outfield by McGraw, the little Gretna, La., larruper, developed into one of the finest all-round outfielders the National League ever knew. He also spent parts of several seasons at second and third base.

Marmora Church Boards Chosen For 1951

MARMORA, Jan. 27 (ENS)—Preceded by a pot luck supper served by the Women's Association of the church, St. Andrew's United Church held its annual congregational meeting in the hall on Thursday evening with the pastor, Rev. George D. Young, presiding.

The minister gave his report in which he referred to the past year as one of rich spiritual as well as of real temporal advantage. Cordova and Zion United Churches had also had a good year. He mentioned that he was now giving Bible instruction in four schools each week. He had 27 baptisms, 13 marriages and five burials. He made 493 pastoral calls. Sidney Sandham gave the report of the board of session. He said there were 20 members and then explained the duties of session. The membership of the church, he mentioned, had been revised. There had been 28 new members added, 22 by profession and six by transfer. Twenty-four had been lost by death of removal so that the church membership now stood at 278.

Mrs. H. Vanstone reported a prosperous year for the Women's Association in which the receipts were well over $1,500.

For the board of stewards, R. E. Neal expressed thanks for the fine financial support of the congregation. He mentioned the installation of the new oil burner, running water and the digging of the well on the church property.

A. W. Drew presented the financial report showing total receipts to be nearly $6,200. Owing to the capital expenditure being higher for the past year, there was a debit balance which it was anticipated would be met this year.

For the Missionary and Maintenance, James Sproul revealed a total of $826.21 as showing on the receipt side of his books. Thereby they were able to meet the allocation of 800 dollars.

Mrs. H. C. Barlow gave a resume of the 1950 activities of the Women's Missionary Society. She said there were 18 active and 12 associate members. Two bales of clothing had been packed and three WMS Auxiliaries visited during the year.

For the Mission Band, conducted by Mesdames E. C. Prentice and T. J. Bateman, the latter was the spokesman. There are 23 members. The amount of $5.20 was forwarded to Presbytery in the year just closed.

Mrs. Charles Sopha, secretary-treasurer of the Glee Club said the club has 19 on its roll, "young ladies" as she termed "of over 60."

For the Sunday Schol, the superintendent, E. C. Prentice, told the meeting there are 84 members and seven classes. The highest attendance on an individual Sunday last year was 69. The Sunday School with receipts of well over $200 last year was solvent.

The gift of 60 hymnals from Mrs. W. J. Pack was gratefully acknowledged as he closed his report.

Girls' work was reported by Mrs. G. D. Young who said there were 30 girls on the roll which embraced CGIT and two Explorer groups.

Boys' work was touched upon by Don Marett, who has Tyro boys numbering 12 of ages 10 to 12.

The report of the nominating committee of the Board of Session was given by H. C. Barlow and approved for the following to be members of the board for three years: H. O. Loveless, A. Sweet, J. Sproul, F. L. Grant, T. Hannah and W. Tupper. Three-year members of the board of stewards are: D. P. Marett, H. P. Nayler, C. Paranuik, W. Goodchild, R. Wright, V. Glover, H. Jones. Rev. G. D. Young pointed out that the installation of all officers would take place at the morning service next Sunday. The invitation to the pastor to remain as such for another year followed a vote of thanks to himself and Mrs. Young and was extended by H. W. Sabine.

Rev. Young intimated his pleasure to remain as wished. The final report of the meeting, that of the choir, was given by Mrs. H. C. Barlow.

A vote of thanks to the WA for the supper was given by D. Sanderson.

Strength And Weakness Evident In Europe

By BIP PARES

The strength and deployment of Russia's six Red Armies have been conjectured since the Iron Curtain descended five and a half years ago. Recently it was accepted that of her known 175 divisions a minimum of 100 are in the West, that is, in European Russia and Eastern Europe. To this must be added 68 satellite divisions and approximately 90,000 East German "people's police," armed, trained and organized as military units. The figures given in the map are based on the best authority available. At least 50 divisions of the larger Western type would be needed to stem a Communist assault at the Atlantic coast. At most 12 Allied divisions are available in Western Europe at present.

Experts Believe Fear Of Germany Behind Soviet's European Policy

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN. — (AP) — A foreign diplomat in Berlin tells this story of the days when he was stationed in Moscow:

Joseph Stalin, talking with several envoys of then friendly governments, commented with a sigh:

"Germany is the greatest problem in the world."

One of the diplomats, surprised, said:

"You can't mean that. This is 1947. Germany is beaten and ruined."

"That's the way it appears now" the generalissimo said. "But wait a while. It will not stay that way. Before long Germany again will be our worry."

The official who tells this anecdote prefers to remain unnamed but it can be said he is not prone to exaggerate.

He concludes:

"The entire Soviet policy in Europe is based on the fear of the Germans. Everything they do stems from that. The Kremlin knows how close the German armies brought it to disaster. Just about one more real blow and the Nazis would have destroyed the Communists, probably for all time."

Just Forbid It

He continues:

"The Russians never indulged much in the so-called de-Nazification after the war. Why not? Because they think Nazism in Germanism and you can't knock it out of a German. All you can do is forbid it. That's what they do in the East Zone.

"Now they see the moves to re-arm West Germans. To them that means re-arming Nazis."

For what? Against Communism.

This is why, in this diplomats opinion, the Soviet army's official newspaper Taegliche Rundschau often refers to the German problem as "the most burning question before the world powers.

Some other foreign diplomats share this reasoning:

1—By pinpointing on Germany, the Kremlin is directing all its guns against rearming the West.

2—By skirting Asiatic questions. The only losers in Korea are the United Nations forces and the numberless Chinese Reds.

These circles are pondering now whether Stalin's fear of the Germans in uniform is so great that he would trade Korea and Indo-China for security on his European doorstep.

Appears Contradictory

The picture of the giant Russian bear quivering over the divided, perplexed and embittered Germans appears contradictory on the surface.

But those who share that belief point out one curious fact:

The Soviets were the first to arm a police force of Germans. They built this quasi-infantry force quickly in 1949 into a 50,000-man force with light tanks and heavy artillery training. But since that time, Allied intelligence sources say, the figure of 50,000 has remained static.

One conclusion is that the Soviets are yet unwilling to create an effective German military force. Those who think so note that every company of these alert units is sprinkled with watchful Russians.

On the political side in the Soviet zone, the accent is constantly on Soviet-German friendship. It is a weird kind of enforced friendship.

The Soviet troops are barracked away from populous centres. There is a wall between the great bulk of the Russians and the Germans that has been put there by the Soviets themselves.

End Bad Cough Quickly, at One-Fourth The Cost

Thousands of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough syrup, they get a dependable, effective medicine. They use a recipe at only one-fourth the usual cost of cough medicine, but which really breaks up distressing coughs in a hurry.

From any druggist get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 ounce bottle and fill up with granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water, stirred until dissolved. No cooking needed. (Or use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) It's no trouble at all, and makes a splendid medicine. Keeps perfectly, tastes fine.

Its quick action loosens phlegm, helps clear the air passages and soothes away irritation.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat irritations. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

FOR EXTRA CONVENIENCE GET NEW, READY-TO-USE, PREPARED PINEX.

Another Year of Progress

Helping Canadians Build Security

★ $264,101,000 in new insurance purchased to meet expanding needs

Today, with living costs at new high levels, more life insurance is required to provide the income necessary for family support. In keeping with this growing need, the amount of life insurance purchased by Canadians from the London Life in 1950 was greater than ever before.

Today, one-seventh of all life insurance bought in Canada is issued by this Company.

★ Nearly two billion dollars of life insurance in force—Policyholders now number over one million

The life insurance in force increased during the year by over two hundred millions and now totals $1,979,361,000. People in all walks of life make up the more than one million Canadians insured under the London Life's Ordinary, Industrial, and Group policies.

Payments to policyholders and beneficiaries in 1950 totalled more than $21,800,000, with payments to living policyholders more than two and one-half times the amount paid in death claims.

★ New record in mortgage loans

Mortgage loans totalling more than $32,000,000 were made during 1950. This is by far the largest amount loaned on mortgages by the Company in a single year. A very high proportion of this money went to provide new homes for people across Canada. There are now more than 18,000 individual mortgage loans in effect.

The assets of the Company, principally mortgages and government, municipal, and industrial bonds, are now over $345,000,000. Of this amount, Surplus Funds now stand at $23,590,000, providing an additional measure of security to policyholders.

The combination of financial strength, low net cost to policyholders, and service by selected and skilled representatives accounts for the London Life's continued progress and its present outstanding position.

For a more detailed account of the Company's activities in 1950, write to the London Life head office, or call one of our branch offices, for a copy of the Annual Report booklet.

Lee Cobb Hopes To Play Role In New Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 27.—(AP).—Lee J. Cobb wants Hollywood to know he will have his samples packed and will be ready to travel when "Death of a Salesman" is made into a picture.

Cobb is the guy who created the leading role in the prize Broadway show. But, because he is not a top movie "name," there is a chance that he might be ignored when the film is cast.

However, he has his hopes. For one thing, the picture will be made by Stanley Kramer, who successfully starred a non-movie name, Jose Ferrer, in "Cyrano de Bergerac."

"And the success of Judy Holliday in 'Born Yesterday' shows that stage star can be used when a play is made into a picture," Cobb added. "It's not as though I was strictly a stage star. I have done as many pictures as plays."

Helen Hayes had some interesting comments on the state of the U.S. theatre at her press conference this week. She is active in the American National Theatre and Academy, which has put on some co-operative shows in an attempt to breathe new life into the theatre. She said she hoped to establish a branch on the west coast and elsewhere.

"We hope to decentralize the theatre and spread it out of New York," she remarked. "Also, we want to give chances to new actors and directors. The theatre is badly in need of new blood."

Veteran Of Four Wars Dies In Vancouver; Spent 48 Years In Army

VANCOUVER —(CP)— Sgt.-Maj. A. H. O. (Rattlesnake Pete) Freemantle, who spent 48 years and 54 days in the army, has died in Vancouver at 93.

He fought in four wars, starting with the Zulu War of 1879.

The veteran of many campaigns got his nickname in the First World War. In 1914, he was training recruits and when he found them doing something wrong, they received one warning and then he "struck."

"Forty-five, sir," Sgt.-Maj. Frein Somerset, England, in 1857. After the Zulu War, he set out for Canada. He served through the Riel Rebellion campaign in 1885 and in 1889 fought in the Boer War.

At 57, he re-enlisted for the First World War. Once on parade in England, he was asked by King George V how old he was.

'Forty-five, sir," Sgt.-Maj. Fremantle said.

"Your regimental age, I presume?" the King replied.

Sgt. Maj. Fremantle won the DCM in France and was seriously wounded later.

In 1939, at 82, he tried to get back into the army. He didn't make it.

Stage Exhibition Of 50 Paintings Writer's Hobby

TORONTO — (CP).—A newspaperman who paints during his spare time will stage an exhibition of 50 of his best oil paintings — mostly landscapes and street scenes—at a gallery here January 27 to February 10.

Roy Greenaway, 59, now in his 33rd year as a reporter for the Toronto Daily Star, started painting in 1932 after a trip to St. Pierre-Miquelon for a story on rum-running. He brought back some photographs, got help from an artist friend in putting some of the scenes on canvas and soon realized that he had found a hobby.

He was encouraged by painters from several other artists of his acquaintance, including Kenneth Forbes, Arthur Heming, Fred Haines, Manly Macdonald, and Archibald Barnes.

Now he goes down to the famous artists hunting ground around Portsmouth, NH, every summer and takes his oils and brushes on jaunts around Ontario.

New York Scenes

He painted many New York scenes during the Second World War, when he was assigned to meet troopships. Some of his best paintings show various elevated-railway stations in New York and McSorley's Bar, a landmark dating from pre-1900.

His painting ambition now is to do some canvases closely related to his newspaper work, such as a murder case or a fire scene.

"You should be able to get plenty of drama in one of those," he says.

Notable "Amateur"

As a "Sunday painter," Greenaway has gone farther than most other persons who choose painting as a pastime. His paintings have been hung in the Ontario Society of Artists exhibition for six consecutive years. He has had paintings selected by a jury of artists for showing in the Royal Academy exhibition for seven successive years. One of his paintings was included in a travelling show put on by the Royal Academy for a year's exhibition across Canada.

Kenneth Forbes, Canadian portrait painter, calls Greenaway "one of the very best 'amateur' painters in the world.'

Greenaway's painting of Toronto's Church of the Holy Trinity hangs in the Ontario Legislature office of Premier Leslie Frost, who says it is his favorite painting. Another, prized by Agriculture Minister Thomas Kennedy of Ontario, shows a swimming hole on Mr. Kennedy's farm at nearby Dixie.

Greenaway joined the Star staff in 1918, after completing a college course with the idea of becoming a teacher.

While working on a story on a prison fire in Columbus, Ohio, in which more than 300 prisoners died, he spent a day talking to "lifers" who captured a section of the prison in a flareup of violence.

He also covered the arrival at Murray Bay, Que., of the first westbound fliers to cross the Atlantic. Probably his most extended big story concerned rum-running in the Detroit area.

Give Soroptimists Knowledge Test In Dinner Program

A novelty in programs was introduced at the Soroptimist Club dinner meeting Friday evening. Each member drew a card giving a subject on which she was asked to speak for one minute. The subjects were varied from the ridiculous to matters of civic and worldly importance and were a good cross-section test of the knowledge which these business women have in resource.

President Florence Scott suggested it would be wise for members to take stock of the result and study the subjects on which they found themselves lacking. Miss Vera Johnson prepared the list of subjects.

With the subject "A cold in the head" Miss Grace Sargent was able to give a good speech. Miss Flora Leeper recalled statements by a speaker from Newfoundland in the city a year ago when she spoke on "The 10th Province." Mrs. Eva Brackenridge was called upon to speak of David Lloyd, the American tenor heard in this city last Saturday evening and she explained some confusion which had led people to expect a much older man, David Lloyd of English birth, also a tenor.

Miss Gene Clark used her subject "The March of Dimes" to make an appeal for all to support this cause, explaining she had done follow-up nursing care on polio victims for two years and knew well the sufferings endured. Mrs. May Thompson spoke of Queen Mary's Carpet and queried the manner in which it will eventually be hung since each half of the carpet is designed to face an approaching viewer. Miss Scott spoke of Winston Churchill mentioning highlights of his career and the hope that he will again be political leader of England.

The annual conference was announced for May 25 to 27 at Timmins and Miss A. L. Thomson was appointed to accompany Miss Vera Johnson and the president as voting delegates.

A letter to the club from City Clerk Outram asked for support in the publishing by the Centennial Committee of Howard Pammett's "History of Peterborough" in book form. This was approved.

The prize for this meeting was donated by Miss Margaret Wolstenholme and won by Mrs. May Thompson.

Crown Miss Mamie Sullivan Snow Queen of '51 At Ball

Miss Mamie Sullivan, voted 1951 Snow Queen by fellow members of St. Peter's Senior Sodality, was crowned before a crowd of 300 friends attending the "Snow Ball" on Friday evening. Coronation ceremony was performed by the queen of last year Miss Joan Hickey and vice prefect of the Sodality Miss Helen Hajnik presented a sheaf of red roses. Spiritual director Monsignor P. P. Butler addressed the assembly, speaking in praise of the Sodalists. The Rev. F. A. Marrocco of Ottawa, former director, was also present and extended congratulations.

The queen wore a lovely formal gown with bodice of white satin and skirt of filmy tulle with stole to match and for the ceremony had a white fur robe. Miss Hickey's gown was of black taffeta and Miss Hajnik's of black velvet with skirt of plaid taffeta. Miss Margaret Handley, chairman of the social committee, chose a gown of black silk velvet and Miss Margaret Caravaggie who assisted with the dance was in a ballerina length frock of velvet with very full skirt of bordered black net over blue taffeta.

Prefect Miss Helen Strano, becomingly gowned in pale blue, was receiving, assisted by her escort, Mr. Joe Moloney. Also assisting to receive were the patrons and patronesses, Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Young, Alderman and Mrs. P. J. Anglesey, and Mr. and Mrs. E. T. O'Brien.

The dance was held in the auditorium of St. Joseph's nurses' residence which was most attractively decorated with balloons and streamers in a blue, pink and silver color scheme. Tables and chairs were set out cabaret style to accommodate the guests. This was the work of a committee consisting of Misses Jerine Dorris, Gloria Graham, Louise O'Connell, Anne Zsammers and Sheila Condon. Miss Pat Eggleton was head of the lunch committee and members of the Junior Sodality who assisted were Misses Anne Ferren, Helen Sheehan, Frances Ryan, Roma Houlihan and Betty Strano.

Officers for 1951 for the Civic Affairs Study Group are as follows: chairman, Mrs. W. E. Fanning; vice-chairman, Miss Margaret McCulloch; sec.-treas, Miss Kathleen McCarthy; archivist, Mrs. John Hornal; executive, Miss Margaret Lees; (convener of observers), Mrs. D. B. Rogers and Miss Margaret MacIntosh.

A meeting of the group, held on Thursday night in the Green Room of the YWCA, with Mrs. Fanning presiding, heard comprehensive and interesting reports by observers. For Board of Education meetings in December and January: Miss May Grady and Miss Margaret Lees, who read a report prepared by Miss Margaret Stevenson. For the city council meetings: Mrs. H. C. Turner, Mrs. R. B. McWilliams, Miss M. Lees, Miss C. Mason and Miss C. McCarthy. Discussion followed.

Mrs. C. Pilon reported on the recent get-out-the-vote campaign and Miss Margaret McCulloch on the meeting of candidates for municipal office in December.

Mrs. Fanning congratulated Mrs. J. B. Bell on her successful candidature for the Board of Education. Mrs. C. Pilon on the splendid work done by herself and her committee in the vote campaign, and Miss Margaret McCulloch at the conclusion of the latter's report on the candidates' meeting held in December under auspices of the group. The smooth and efficient manner in which Miss McCulloch had managed all details in connection with the affair contributed largely to its success, declared Mrs. Fanning.

The chairman referred to the Good Government Week to be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce from February 4th to 10th and to an invitation to the study group to provide speakers for women's organization meetings. However, on motion of Mrs. D. R. McGregor, seconded by Mrs. J. Hornal, it was decided that, although anxious to co-operate in every way, the group members did not consider themselves as yet as authorities on subjects which should be outlined in connection with such a project.

Deck Rolling Till 2 a.m. With Gala 4th Naval Ball

HMCS Aragon's ballroom deck was rolling until two o'clock this morning as 600 dancers took a full evening of pleasure from the fourth annual Naval Ball.

Only the sound of lapping waves was lacking in the nautical set-up for this event. An artist designed the backdrop for the orchestra stand with the theme "anchors aweigh" and sketched rugged seamen in typical poses on the painted wings. Flags of the nation were draped at the front and signal flags hung along each side of the dancing deck. With all doorways clearly marked by ship's terms the transformation became complete, and the scene was like a luxury liner party in mid-ocean.

Peterborough branch of the Naval Association has 87 members. Andy Brown, chairman of the entertainment committee, was in charge of the dance this year, assisted by Bob Nattress and Jim Hamilton in charge of publicity. The boys are proud that they were again so well patronized and also honored by the presence of distinguished guests.

Mr. Harold Bailey, president of Toronto Association, and Mr. Jack Bouhm, club manager for the naval veterans of Toronto, came down to the ball, accompanied by Mrs. Bailey and Miss Edna Gough, also of Toronto. Ald. Dr. Herbert Young and Mrs. Young, the Hon. Harold Scott and Mrs. Scott, Mr. Gordon K. Fraser MP and Mrs. Fraser and Mr. Paddy Burke, president of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion, and Mrs. Burke were in attendance. They were entertained for cocktails by the Association with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kiff as host and hostess.

Winners of the door prize, drawn by Mr. Bailey, were Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gallagner. Prizes were given for three spot dances, the winners being Mr. and Mrs. A. Girard, Mrs. Vic Post and Mr. John Ridley, C. Cannon and J. Armitage.

Pipe Bandsmen Entertain Ladies At Dinner Dance

The CGE Pipe Bandsmen entertained their wives and guests at a most enjoyable dinner dance Friday evening at the Kawartha Country Club. About 65 were present, including the special guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ian McRae. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Girven and Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Hardie representing the CGE management and personnel office. Mr. McRae complimented the band members on the past year's work and Pipe Major Alex. Milne advised them of a busy season ahead.

It was hoped to make a presentation to Johnny Martin who had to leave the band when he moved to Toronto recently, but Mr. Martin was unable to be present so a silver cream and sugar set will be forwarded to him.

Favors for the ladies were in the form of pretty brooches which had been made by several band members' wives.

Some Highland dances delighted the entertainment and Pipe Major Milne and Pipe Sgt. Angus Munro obliged with the proper music. One of these dances was for men only. It is called "Riel O'Tulloch."

Drum Corporal Doug Taylor arranged this affair held in honor of the ladies.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Keep Letters to Soldiers Impersonal, Cheerful, Newsy

A young girl asks me if I will tell her how to write a letter to a boy friend who has been drafted and is in an army camp. She isn't in love with him or he with her so there is no sentimental interest involved as the movies say. Otherwise, the matter would be easy.

Dorothy Dix

But deprived of this source of inspiration the girl finds that writing letters to a boy towards whom she entertains only kindly feelings is rather hard going. After she has told Joe that she has received his last letter and is glad to hear that he is well, she doesn't know how to go on from there. Yet she knows how heartening a letter from home always is and how neglected one always feels when the postal clerk says, "nothing for you." Hence she wants to do her bit by cheering up the lads in the service but when she sits down to put pen to paper, she discovers that suddenly she has gone dumb.

There used to be a handy little volume called "The Complete Letter Writer" that contained form letters in which one had only to insert "Dear Mary" or "My Beloved Evalina" or "Tom" or "Dick" or "Harry" according to the name and sex of the one to whom you were going to send the missive and, presto, the job was done. There was a letter couched in the most eloquent language, expressing the most beautiful sentiments, varied to suit any occasion, a letter that anyone would be proud to write and pleased to get and no cudgelling the brain or sucking the pen handle involved. It must have met a long-felt want with many a youth and maiden, but, alas, this valuable help in a time of trouble is out of print now and boys and girls are left to flounder around in the epistolary quagmire as best they can.

Written Thoughts Final

To these I would glady hold out a helping hand but about the best advice I can give them is, first, not to write anything in a letter that they would not be willing to see published in their home paper, and secondly, not to write letters that are gobs of gloom. So daughter, if you cannot be cheerful in a letter, keep away from the ink pot. Remember that anything that is written seems ten times as fatal and final as when it is spoken. When our friends tell us about their troubles we pat them on the back and say, "There, there, forget it. Lets go and have a nice dinner" and over a good steak or lobster newberg we both put the matter out of mind.

But when the writers say their hearts are breaking and the world is full of woe, we brood over it and it poisons our days and keeps us awake at night. We think they mean it, and are not just talking and posing and bidding for our sympathy. It is literally true that what we read is seared in our memories.

Hence, girls, when you write to the boy friend in camp, just remember he has plenty of griefs of his own. Don't pass on any bad news to him.

Don't write him that his mother is looking terribly, or that his best girl is going around with a handsome stranger or that Tom Smith has got his place at the bank.

Give Soldier Home-Town Gossip

Write him all the jolly gossip you can pick up from home; he can find out from the newspapers what is being done in the United Nations. And don't forget to keep telling him in every letter how the crowd misses him, how they talk about him and how proud they are of him. Pat him on the back and blow the bugle for him.

Pad out your letters by sending your boy friends clippings out of papers and magazines. Cut out the clever little cartoons, and the articles about things that you know they are interested in and put them in the envelope and you may be sure that yours will be one of the letters they always look forward to and enjoy.

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

By MARY MOORE

Question: I missed your article on "Molasses from a Health Angle." Since I'm very interested in the "Live Longer, Look Younger" story I wonder if you would mind either sending me the article or letting me know the date of the paper it appeared in.

Will you be giving any further write-ups on the "Live Longer, Look Younger" theme. I do hope so as I and many others find them very educating. I would like to hear from you on the subject of powdered brewers' yeast and how to use it. Do you think brewers' yeast tablets are just as beneficial to take as the powdered brewers' yeast?

I would like to take this opportunity to tell you how very much I enjoy your column. As a matter of fact your column is one of the very first things I read. I did enjoy your comments and recipes on powdered skim milk.

I sincerely wish you and your column every success in the coming year.—Gladys L. T.

Answer: Well— I seem to have found another kindred spirit. A curtsy to you, madam, for such pleasant talk.

Now the molasses. Well, since writing that column a flood of articles has arrived in British publications saying, in effect, that on this continent we fall too hard for fads.

I quote: "Blackstrap molasses has long been a fovourite of the raw-carrot-and-yogurt-circles in this country." "Virtue is said to be due to the content of mineral salts . . . which indeed have a profound laxative action and for this reason may induce healthier conditions in persons requiring such treatment." These comments are from a physician writing for "The Practitioner," a British medical periodical—and he is complaining that there is a general assumption that all people have constipation—and hence everybody should take crude molasses.

Everybody seems to agree that the mineral salts in crude molasses are beneficial.

Two medical doctors tell me this: Brewers' yeast tablets are more economical and handier to take than powdered, and just as beneficial. I hasten to add that I am passing this on from them—because I do not know myself.

Every member of our family has been trying his best to find the ideal way to eat yogurt. To me it is "fresh-sour" and reminiscent of some cottage cheese and some cultural buttermilk, but is completely changed by addition of honey or jam. Yogurt is best with apricot jam, but many people prefer plum or strawberry jam or orange marmalade. I bought fresh frozen berries to try with it and I can honestly say with a little sugar over both it was a real treat. I have trained myself to enjoy yogurt.

I'll keep myself and you posted on these controversial "health" foods, so watch this space.

Question: With the new year I I would like to express my appreciation for your column. Your recipes are interesting and delicious.—Mrs. C. L. McG.

Answer: Thank you. Let me know if there is something in particular that you would like to see in this column.

Question: Throughout the past festive season I have followed with interest your column and have enjoyed many of the recipes you have given.

I hope you will continue to give us some new ideas and wondered if you had heard of the following dish which I had while visiting around and which caused much comment and — several helpings. I really don't know what it is called but you probably could give it a name:

1 cup rice, washed and dried, 2 tablespoons butter, melted in frying pan. Put rice into this and brown but be sure not to overcook. Into casserole put the browned rice, 1 tin consomme, and season with celery salt and table salt. Cook about 1½ hours adding one tin mushrooms when about ¾ of an hour is up. If it gets too dry water may be added. You probably can arrange the ingredients and directions—but it is good. Wishing you continued success.—Eva M.

Answer: Thanks ever so much, Eva. It reminds me of a variation of Turkish Pilaf—but in that you use tomatoes instead of mushrooms. It had better have a name though—for readers might lose their clipping and write to me for it, so as of now it is to be called Eva's Mushroom Pilaf. I reread your letter several times and wondered where you had been "visiting around."

What's Right

You are having a first date with a young man.

WRONG: When he comes by the house for you be waiting for him with your coat on so that you won't have to ask him in to meet your parents.

RIGHT: Ask him in long enough to meet your parents.

Woman Painter Off To Africa

VANCOUVER—(CP)—Painter Maisie Robertson is off to the wilds of Africa.

A noted painter and sculptor of animals, the dark-haired artist wants to paint lions.

"And Africa is the place to go", she says.

Miss Robertson, who "used to cut out paper horses when other children were cutting out paper dolls" has been painting and carving horses for years.

Annual summers spent in British Columbia's Cariboo district have given her plenty of material. Her animals and flower brooches and earrings are popular with tourists.

She will stay in Africa about six months. Then, "it's back to the horses".

Practical Watch Demanded By Busy Women

By ADELAIDE KERR.

NEW YORK (CP)—Lots of people think women haven't much regard for time. But a United States watch manufacturer says women are so time-conscious that their demands have changed the design of women's watches all over the world.

"The American woman is the busiest woman in the world," says Jacques Monod.

"Unlike the European woman, she works and plays with equal drive. She runs her home on a business-like basis, raises her children scientifically and often has a successful business career too.

"There are about 20,000,000 working women in the United States and millions more working in community affairs. They know where they are going and they have to get there on time.

"They want time-pieces — not jewelled baubles. Last year our firm made a survey of the watch preferences of 3,000 American women and thousands more in other countries. We found that before the Second World War, most women's watches were bought by men. They chose pretty jewelled decorations. Whether they kept time or not was incidental.

Careful Buyers

"Now many more women buy their own watches. And, for the most part, for their busy daily lives—they want nothing to do with the kind of watches men bought them. They are concerned with their practical needs. They demand excellent works and accuracy, as well as a smart up-to-the-minute look. They don't want their watches to be too small and they insist that the dials be distinctly marked. Busy women have to tell time quickly and often. Some of them want self-winding watches.

"Those demands are reflected in the way we make women's watches today. They have influenced the design of women's watches all over the world."

Monod, who is Swiss-born, is executive vice-president of Eterna Watch Co. of America, Inc. For the last 13 years he has worked with Swiss firms in the United States and is now an American citizen. Frequent business trips give him an opportunity to discuss women's watch preferences with jewellers over the United States and Europe.

Monod is convinced that American women will have still greater influences on the watches of women all over the world.

Woman Gains Gem Diploma

LONDON—(CP)—A 45-year-old grandmother recently received her diploma as a fellow of Britain's Gemmological Association—an unusual achievemeint for a woman.

Mrs. Joyce Thomas-Ferrand decided to take up the work after her husband, and RAF officer, was killed in the Second World War. Forced to earn a living she began lecturing on art and teaching French to the army.

Then she took a job "just by chance" with a London jeweler and found she had a flair for precious stones. But her daughter became ill and she moved to the country and took up other work. This prolonged her studies for the diploma, already begun, from two to three years.

She studied every night and on her day off went to London for practical lessons. She found the mathematical side most difficult. "I had to buy a child's arithmetic book to help me", she said.

Mrs. Thomas-Ferrand would like to see more women jewelers. She believes they are able to give much more understanding advice to customers.

Red Cross Society Of Stewart Hall Reports 1950 Work

Stewart Hall Red Cross Society met at the Hall, Tuesday to quilt two quilts with 15 members on hand for work. Mrs. E. Thompson, vice-president, took charge.

Although no meetings have been held during the year, the Society has been active and a report of its accomplishments was presented by the secretary, Mrs. S. Dawson. The sum of $67 and two quilts were sent to the Winnipeg flood victims.

Easter and Christmas boxes were sent to an adopted family in Britain. A baby's layette and basinette, one adult bed and mattress and a Christmas hamper were donated to a needy family on the outskirts of the city. Treasurer reported $25 on hand.

Diplomats Attend India's Party

OTTAWA, Jan. 27—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and several members of his Cabinet were among guests at a reception Friday night to celebrate the birthday of the Indian Republic, which came into being Jan. 26, 1950.

The party was held at the home of P. K. Banerjee, India's acting High Commissioner. It coincided with another reception given by Australia's High Commissioner, Francis J. Forde, to celebrate "Australia Day."

Several hundred guests, among them members of the Diplomatic Corps, government and civic officials, attended the party to celebrate India's National Day. Wives of officials in the India High Commissioner's office appeared in the costume of their country—brightly-colored silken saris with exotic eastern jewelry.

Mrs. Banerjee, who with her husband received the guests, chose a sari of black tulle with gold border. Her accompanying blouse was of pink silk, with hand-embroidered flowers. Heavy gold pagoda-shaped earrings and matching hair ornaments were her jewelry. The acting High Commissioner dressed in traditional long black coat and white leggings.

6—In Memoriams

DONNELLY—In loving memory of Mr. Jack Donnelly, who passed away Jan. 27th, 1946.
His smiling way and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day, we hope to meet him.
Some day, we know not when.
To clasp his hand in the better land.
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by son Ernest, daughter-in-law Norma and grandson Johnny.

DONNELLY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Jack Donnelly, who passed away January 27, 1946.
Beautiful memories are all we have left,
Of him we loved dearly and shall never forget.
His loving smile and happy face,
A broken link we can never replace.
Sad was the parting, no one can tell
So sudden on earth the sorrow fell,
Memories we treasure no one can steal
Death leaves a heartache nothing can heal.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife and family.

HANDLEY — In loving memory of John F. Handley, who entered into rest January 27, 1947, dear father of Mrs. Ira Lowe.
The garment of his soul has passed away
The shining spirit and the love light stay;
The echo of his voice, his eyes, his smile,
Just as they were are with us all the while.
—Lovingly remembered by his daughter.

MEEKS—In loving memory of our dear son, Paul who passed away January 26, 1948.
A silent thought, a secret tear,
Keeps his memory ever dear,
Time takes away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Mother, Dad, Joan, Jean, Cyril and family.

SANDIFORD—In loving memory of Mr. William Sandiford, who passed away one year ago today, January 27 1950.
We climbed the hills together. . . .
—Ever remembered by his loving wife Lucy.

Orgy Of Railway

to Chemong checkmated the P&C. Quite undaunted, another local group with some Haliburton aid (W. A. Scott, E. Burnham, W. H. Scott, Jas. Stevenson, P. M. Grover, J. Carnegie, Geo. Read, S. S. Peck, C. J. Blomfield, &c.) obtained a charter in 1869 for the Peterborough and Haliburton Railway, designed to bring the timber trade by a line south through Peterborough county to Peterborough town. Bylaws permitting the county to give $25,000 and the town to give $40,000 to the P & H were passed in 1870, but construction never started due to lack of sufficient capital. Peterborough also tried 1874-8 to revive plans for the Peterborough & Bobcaygeon Railway to offset the Victoria Railway. In 1878 Mayor Toole and Pres. Cox of the Midland campaigned throughout northern Peterborough and Victoria addressing meetings in halls, schools and stores, but got little actual financial backing except in Bobcaygeon and Verulam, which promised $20,000 each. Cox and the GTR therafter neglected Peterborough in their plans to tap the back-country trade, as we shall see. Possibly this was partly due to Peterborough's persistent attempts to collect from the Midland on its PH&P debentures, as well as Cox's failure to win election in 1875.

Plans Sponsor Bill Banning Communism

QUEBEC, Jan. 27 — (CP) — Wilfrid Lacroix, Liberal member of parliament for Levis, said Friday night he will sponsor a bill at the next session of parliament, opening Tuesday, designed to outlaw Communist activity in Canada.

Lacroix said in an interview that his bill will seek re-establishment of a criminal code article that defines subversive activity. It is Article 98, Chapter 36, which was stricken from the Canadian Criminal Code in 1936 by action of Parliament.

The member of the Canadian House of Commons said his bill will suggest a modified form of the article, which defines as subversive any group or association that advocates the overthrow of governmental, industrial or economic conditions in Canada.

Maximum penalty for participation in such a movement would be a $10,000 fine or 10 years in prison or both.

Will Hold Back $186 Till Bill Explained

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 27 (CP)—City council Friday decided to withhold payment of $186 to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission until some explanation is received for what the council considers an excessive charge.

The bill is for power used at the municipal quarry outside the the city limits. The council was told that a month previous the quarry machinery ran three times as many hours but it drew its power from the public utilities commission and the charge was only $60.

Suggests Defence Study

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP). — Trustee Harold Menzies said Friday he will suggest at the next board of education meeting that action be taken to train pupils in Toronto public and secondary schools to defend themselves in an air attack.

HUNDREDS OF PERSONS HAD TO FLEE from their home recently as the St. Lawrence River waters went temporarily berserk and flooded a large part of Longueuil, Que., on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River directly opposite the island of Montreal, and adjoining areas. Photo in top, father and son in Ville Jacques Cartier take leave of their inundated home in the family rowboat, a scene duplicated in street after street. In contrast to Longueuil further east on the south shore, damage in Ville Jacques Cartier was light. The photo below shows cottages along the south shore left strewn in these positions as the rampaging ice and water of the river began to subside. House at right was crushed beyond repair.

War Paintings Lent To Shilo

A number of original oil paintings, the work of Canadian war artists at the front during the Second World War, have been loaned by the National Gallery of Canada, Ottawa, to Camp Shilo for display in officers' messes at the camp.

Three of the paintings now hang in the Royal Canadian Artillery officers' mess and three more will grace the walls of a new mess to be opened this month for officers of the 1st Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery.

Probably the best known of the paintings is Major C. F. Comfort's "Casa Berardi," an Italian battle scene. A graduate of the Winnipeg School of Art and one of this country's most prolific war artists, Major Comfort has two other paintings hanging at Camp Shilo. They are "Canadian Field Guns Near Ortona," portraying the 2nd Field Regiment, RCHA, in action north of San Leonardo, Italy, and "The Hitler Line".

Other pictures loaned the camp by the Gallery include Capt. G. C. Tinning's "Coriano Ridge Undergoing Bombardment" and "Drifting Down"; Flight Lieutenant P. G. Cowley-Brown's "Air To Ground", and Capt. B. J. Bobak's "Sherman Tanks Taking Up Positions Under Artificial Moonlight".

Previously shown at major cities across the Dominion, the pictures are valued at several thousand dollars.

Says Atom Bomb Not So Dangerous

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 27 (CP)—Dr. A. D. Misener, one of Canada's top physicists, said Friday that the atom bomb "can't do half what most people imagine it can do."

At the same time, he said, he would not attempt to minimize the dangers of an atomic attack, because the atom bomb had increased the destruction range of long distance bombing.

He told the annual meeting of the London branch of Canadian Red Cross Society that an atomic attack on cities as far away as Chicago would have no immediate repercussion on London and cities in Western Ontario.

This area would have to be prepared to aid, and give shelter at least, to people from these bombed cities.

Contributions Up

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP). — For the first time in 22 years, contributions to the budget fund of the Presbyterian Church in Canada have exceeded the $500,000 mark, the church headquarters announced Friday. Funds collected for missionary and education works and administrative purposes have totalled $525,000. Amounts raised by congregations for local needs are not included in this fund.

Killed By Snowslide

MICHEL, B. C., Jan. 27 (CP)—Joseph Kudsielko, 72-year-old resident of the "ghost" town of Corbin, 18 miles from this Rockies town, was buried alive in a slowslide as he cleared a path beside his home. Report of the death reaching here Friday did not mention when the accident occurred.

Study Police Act

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP). — A delegation from the Police Association of Ontario, led by president John Cavanagh of the Toronto suburb of Scarborough, Friday met Attorney-General Porter to discuss proposed changes to the Ontario Police Act. The association is believed to be after a province-wide pension scheme and provisions for a hearing before a police commission for a dismissed policeman.

For Parents Only

The Vice of Nagging

By NANCY CLEAVER

"Nagging is the very worst vice of all in child training!" an outstanding authority said recently. Do you agree with this? Nagging is a fairly common procedure in many homes. A guest of one family invited for supper, counted 68 different nagging remarks made to a nine-year-old between six o'clock and his 8 o'clock bed time. Perhaps you occasionally resort to nagging yourself. If you never nag, you are an exceptional parent indeed.

There is no parent who would want to be given the label "a nagger'. Mothers especially, who are with their young children all day long, find this a frequent pitfall. Why is this the case?

"I have to make Jimmie 'mind', and that's why I speak to him over and over again about what he knows very well he should do", one Mother defended herself. But does nagging produce the results which are needed?

Most Ineffective Method

No—of all the ineffective methods of getting obedience, nagging rates among the lowest. Jimmie develops a sort of deafness as a protection against his Mother's constant flow of words. If Jimmie is an active, vigorous boy, nagging will often increase his resistance to parental control. On the other hand, if Jimmie is a quiet, introspective youngster, he may retreat into his own dream world and thus remove himself from his mother's unpleasant remarks. She may wonder later why he seems so unsure of himself. Nagging never yet helped a child think well of himself. One's own good opinion of one's self is essential to happy living.

Nagging is not conducive to an atmosphere where learning is easy. Instead of an eagerness to improve, the undesirable emotions of hostility, opposition, or evasion are the product of nagging. If parents would only recall their own childhood days, they would be able to describe very few changes in behaviour for the better or real accomplishments which came from their parents nagging them.

A critical, fault-finding attitude, on a Mother's part, creeps on her almost unawares when she is in poor health or toward the end of the day when she is weary. Sometimes a nagging mother is one who is too ambitious for her child, too eager that he should be "a shining light".

Mother's Daily Worries

The noise of children, the never-ending household tasks, worries about the rising costs of food and other necessities, tend to "get mother down". Her own tension, or anxiety, or annoyance is often a much greater factor in her nagging, than her child's naughtiness. She feels unable to deal capably with her child's actions, but is convinced that she should do something—so she "talks at him".

If parents are convinced that nagging is useless as far as the child's behaviour is concerned, and a mistake on their part, what should they do? They should agree on a consistent form of discipline, and instead of much talking, discipline themselves so there is less talking. What procedure should they substitute? Here are some practical suggestions:

Do not make so many demands on a child, so that he is always following directions. Cut down commands to a minimum, and make them brief and clear. Be sure you have your child's attention before giving him an order. Then and only then, tell him what you want. Expect obedience and insist that your child carries out your request. Don't repeat it. If he refuses to co-operate, isolate him until he is willing to comply with your wish. Last, but not least, fathers and mothers can help each other in their resolution not to "nag".

Lose Motion To Scrap County Police Force

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP). — A motion to disband Ontario's only county police force was defeated Friday by York county council.

The motion to disband the force was defeated when Reeve C. A. Scott of Sutton said he would also ask for the disbandment of the police committee, of which he is chairman, if the motion carried.

The council granted a $200-a-year increase to all constables and $400 to the chief of police. The department consists of a chief, two detectives, 11 constables and a police matron.

Name Tax Collector Civil Defence Head

BROCKVILLE, Jan. 27 (CP)—City council Friday appointed Charles Broadbent, Brockville tax collector and Second World War veteran, as civil defence co-ordinator. He assumes duties as head of Brockville's civil defence organization immediately.

Maj-Gen. Harold Brownfield, former senior artillery officer for Canada, was appointed deputy co-ordinator in charge of district wardens, block wardens, light rescue work, first aid, evacuation of casualties and liaison between committees.

Other divisional heads are Chief of Police W. F. Young, Fire Chief J. W. Hartley, Thomas Eland, chairman of the public utilities commission, Legion president Robert Gardner, Dr. A. E. Thoms, and Lt.-Col. C. V. Vickers.

Ignored Signals

TORONTO, Jan. 27 (CP). — Police blamed disobedience of traffic signals at the midtown intersection of Bloor and Yonge streets for a collision Friday between a fire engine and a coal truck. Two firemen suffered minor injuries. Witnesses told police that the fire engine, on its way to a minor fire in a garage, went through a red light and started a wide turn to the left off Yonge street, although there is a "no left turn" sign at the intersection. Police said it was hit by the skidding coal truck.

Choose House Style To Fit Plan, Purse

Have you chosen the architectural style you want for your new house? Most people start thinking about houses in terms of style—just as a woman thinks about a new dress or a hat—long before they consider its serviceability. Often the first choice, made this way, proves to be the best choice in the end, but it may lead to strange results.

For architectural styles are far different from fashions. They were not created by some popular designer, to become the vogue of the moment. Rather, they grew out of many trials to find the best design for the climate, the people and the construction methods which prevailed during the years when the style took shape. And so today, an architectural style is not something to pick off the shelf; it should be chosen to fit the neighborhood, the plan, the construction materials and the purse.

A Few Suggestions

Here are some suggestions that may help to choose a style suited to your house:

(1) Choose a style that fits your neighborhood. When a mortgage application is being examined considerable weight is given by the examiner to what is called "conformity to neighborhood". This means that a new house should look well in relation to the houses nearby.

This does not mean that a new house should copy its neighbors; far from it. But if the trend were toward Colonial styles, there might be any variation from formal Georgian to Cape Cod, for the underlying simplicity of line and detail would help the houses live well together.

(2) Let the plan influence the exterior. Each style in architecture grew out of characteristic room arrangements, and these in turn evolved from climate and social habits.

(3) Your preference for materials will exert a strong influence on the style of your house.

Brick is a universal material, used in all countries, in all periods. Only the manner of using it varied, according to the quality and color of the local brick and the skill of the masons. Wood shingles and clapboards and other form of board siding developed in countries where wood was plentiful and easy to work, notably right here in North America. Stone cannot be carried far, except at great expense, so it is always has a local character.

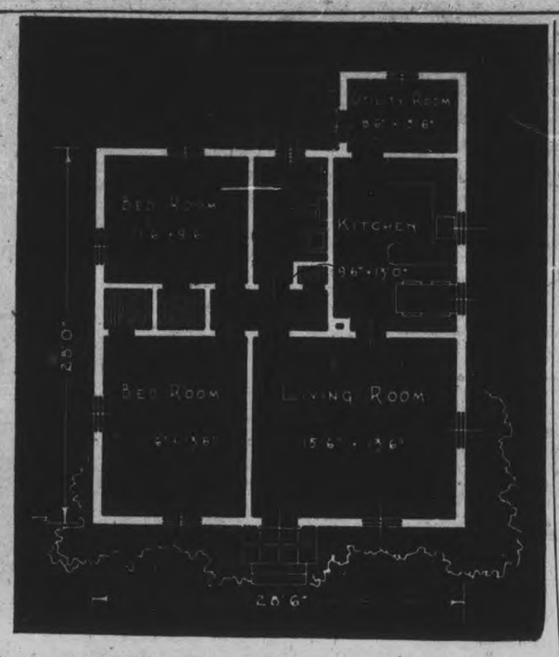
The thing to avoid is the misuse of materials in a style that calls for some well established corabination. To combine a Spanish clay tile roof with a siding of hand-split shingles would be something like wearing a silk top hat with pajamas.

Don't Imitate Style

(4) Don't imitate any style, unless the original you are copying is in excellent taste and really fits your lot, your plan, your preferred materials and your way of living. Rarely are present needs identical with those that governed the development of the original.

Good design is more important than faihtful adherence to an established style. Good design is a matter of taste, resulting in permanent attractiveness. Simplicity, proportion, unity, harmony, are elements of character that result of natural skill and long training.

Styles change in popularity, good design never loses its appeal. Inspired by the best that has gone before, they create new composition and new beauty when opportunity affords.



Long-Term Investments

Houses are long-term investments. They are durable structures. They must remain useful for many years, often long enough to shelter several generations. So when we build or buy today we must constantly think of tomorrow. Will the house be as good ten or twenty years hence as it will be when you take possession?

The two things that jeopardize most investments in property are depreciation—which means wear and tear — and obsolescence, which is to houses what last year's hat is to a woman. Depreciation is inevitable, but it can be controlled or offset to a very considerable degree. We can easily build well enough to make the need of repairs infrequent, and when they are needed, careful repairs, not patchwork, will usually restore the house to practically its new conditions.

When our ancestors built they had little fear their dwellings would be out-of-date in a few years. Changes were few. Many of those old houses survive because they were built well and beautiful; they have depreciated little.

HOUSE No. 422 — Out in the country is this little gem of a cottage. Its trim lines in sparkling white clapboard, with green roof and shutters, make an irresistable picture as viewed from the highway passing by. Every detail seems just right — there is no effort to catch the eye with meaningless architectural gadgetry which is so common today. A simple gable roof covers a floor plan that is almost exactly square, with the exception of the extension at the rear for the utility room. Every inch has its special use in this design — there is no waste space. Combination of kitchen and dining room is particularly happy. Both bedrooms have cross ventilation and are insulated from each other by closets. For working plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Peacetime Korea Treasure House For Those Seeking Lovely Plants

Written for The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

Plant hunters, the explorers who visit foreign lands to search for wild species of attractive plants for introduction to gardens in their homelands and elsewhere, have had no greater success than in the Korea of more tranquil years.

From Spring to Fall the Korean countryside is then gay with flowering plants, native to that land. Many of them have enriched the gardens of Canada and the United States.

Spirea, the variety that blooms like a floral fountain, is the Korean bridal wreath. At least two of the best forsythias originated there. So did the fragrant mayflower viburnum (viburnum carlesi) and our earliest blooming lilacs were introduced from Korea. Some of the loveliest rhododendrons that adorn gardens and waysides in British Columbia were carried many years ago from the land of morning calm, as the natives of Korea call their country.

It was a daisy growing opulently beside Korean waysides that became the dominant parent of many garden chrysanthemums, the hardy kind that in recent years have extended the flowering season in Canadian gardens. The list of wild plant species—now garden favorites—found by plant hunters in Korea, could go on indefinitely.

Like a prophet, a plant is not without honor save in his, or its, own country. An example is the flowering raspberry with non-edible fruit, but which blossoms like the loveliest wild rose. It grows wild in woodland fringes in many parts of Canada. In Britain it is imported to be cherished as a garden favorite by some discriminating gardeners.

Plant hunting in Korea began in 1854. Baron Alexander Schlippenbach was the pioneer hunter. One of the rhododendrons he discovered there has been named for him. Another rosy-purple species, found near Seoul in 1905, has flowers of great beauty.

Nova Scotia's tuna are the biggest and gamest found in any sea.

Years ago before the sport of tuna angling lured wealthy fishermen from many lands, the Bluenose name for the bluefin had the homely ring of "horse mackerel." Albacore was its name in conversation with the village pastor or the school 'marm who was a stickler for polite English.

By any name, bluefin tuna, albacore or horse mackerel, the giant fish is a plunging undersea tug with horsepower enough to tow small fishing craft at a lively pace—as it often does.

including municipal water supply. The society lacks sufficient buildings for its increasing requirements, a setback during the six years of suspension of the fair during the war period.

But, it holds full title to its lands and improvements, and other assets, with no outstanding obligations.

Mr. Brethen was chairman of the meeting which was attended by around 100 members and other well-wishers. The president, secretary and board were heartily commended for the progress of the Society since the Fair was revived, and by resolution the retiring officers were re-elected.

Reference was made to the encouraging increase in noteworthy exhibits in all departments of the Fair. In the grain exhibit, the Beaver Oat Derby with 66 entries, and 550 acres sown during their season, set an all-time record for such exhibits at the 260 Fairs in Ontario.

Favorable comment was made on the number and quality of the exhibits in the regional Hereford cattle show. It was announced as the third largest in the province this year.

Department officials visiting the 1950 Norwood Fair affirmed that the number of interested spectators watching the judges far exceeded that of any other fair in the province. An invitation was sent to the Ontario Hereford Breeders' Club to hold their regional show again in Norwood this year.

The meeting endorsed plans for promoting another standing field crop and commercial feature project in Beaver oats, demonstrating the value of the use of commercial fertilizer in producing spring grain.

Grateful reference was made to the goodwill shown toward Norwood Fair. The directors expressed their sincere appreciation of the splendid asistance, financial and otherwise, which was received from so many well-wishers in Peterborough, Havelock and Hastings, as well as those in the Norwood community.

Favor 50c Admission

Owing to the very largely increased costs of conducting an agricultural Fair in these times, in some cases the prize money being doubled to encourage exhibitors to face the high cost of trucking and other expenses, a letter was read asking the 50 or more fairs in Central Ontario districts 3 and 4, to standardize their admission fee at 50 cents for adults. This suggestion was heartily endorsed.

A unanimous vote of thanks was tendered the Rev. E. E. Pugsley and Mr. W. P. Forshee, local manager of the Royal Bank, for their exceptional service in the school and finance departments of the Fair.

The trophy was won in 1949 by No. 1195 Ecole Superieur St. Stanislas Cadet Corps of Montreal and was the first Canadian victory in the shoot for many years.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 27—(CP)—Plays to compete in the 1951 western Ontario drama festival, to be held in Kitchener March 8, 9 and 10, will be picked next week-end.

At a meeting of the executive of the Western Ontario Drama League, in London Saturday, Feb-3, the report of the preliminary adjudicator, Ben Lennick of Toronto will be presented. Mr. Lennick will, by that time, have completed his adjudication of the 22 plays from western Ontario little theatre groups offered as festival entries.

W. H. Hogg of London, W.O.D.L. president, will be in the chair for the executive session at which the four full-length plays for the festival bill will be chosen. At Kitchener these will be seen by Robert G. Newton of London, England, regional adjudicator for this season, who begins his cross-Canada tour of regional festivals in St. John N.B., on Feb. 7. Regional winners have a chance to be invited to take part in the Dominion Drama Festival in London next May.

Thirteen western Ontario little theatre groups entered one or more plays for the preliminaries. These were Elora, Galt, Grimsby, Guelph, Hamilton, Simcoe, Welland, Kitchener-Waterloo, London, Sarnia, Windsor (Theatre Guild and Civic Players) and Woodstock.

Mr. Lennick will see London little theatre's current play, "On Borrowed Time" at the Grand Theatre next Thursday evening and on Friday will adjudicate "Harvey" in Woodstock, last date on the extensive schedule which opened on Nov. 2.

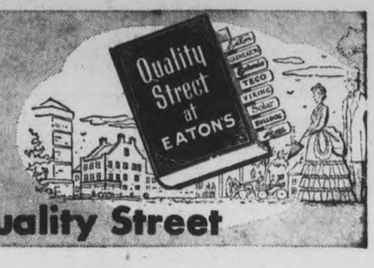
Reports of the ever-increasing popularity of Syntona Herbal Compound have come from many thousands of well-known men and women in this city and vicinity. People who suffered for years from common disorders of stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, rheumatic pain, nervousness, or general rundown condition are often heard to say they experienced their first real relief after taking Syntona.

Such a case is that of Mrs. Jean Buchanan, Room 30, Wright Building, Wellington Street, London, Ontario, who says:



"Several years ago I became troubled with stomach, kidney and liver disorders and after using a short treatment of Syntona I was feeling so well and had obtained such complete relief that I have never forgotten it.

Modify Peace Parley Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, NY, Jan. 29 (AP).—The Asian-Arab bloc today modified its Korean peace formula once more in an effort to head off United Nations approval of American demands for an indictment of Communist China as an aggressor. The revised plan was submitted shortly after the General Assembly's 60-nation political committee met this morning. It calls for an immediate seven-power conference on the China-Korea problem, but adds this important provision: The representatives will, "at their first meeting, agree upon an appropriate cease-fire arrangement in Korea and after it has been put into effect they will proceed with their further deliberations."

This provision was inserted after numerous delegates objected strongly to any far eastern discussions while fighting was in progress in Korea. The United States has beeen particularly emphatic on this point.

Seek More Support

The Arab-Asian group hoped the amendment would attract more support from "middle-of-the-road" delegations which had agreed generally on the advantages of holding a conference but had felt the 12-country resolution was too broad and should include a specific reference to a cease-fire.

The resolution provides that the date and place of the first meeting of the conference be fixed by the president of the general assembly. Canada has suggested that it be held in New Delhi or at Lake Success.

Meanwhile, it was learned the Chinese Communist Government has let it be known that if the UN accepts the American resolution branding it an aggressor it will not take part in any further Korean peace talks.

11th Atomic Bomb Test Jars Residents From Beds

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 29 (AP).—The 10th and 11th Atomic blasts in history having jarred the roulette wheels in gambling casinos, wide-open Las Vegas braced itself today for further nuclear fission.

The United States Atomic Energy Commission, operating a testing range 40 miles north of here, let go with another blast Sunday, about 24 hours after a lighter explosion Saturday.

The detonation unleased a wave of speculation as to the possible new atomic weapons scientists may be testing.

Hundreds of rudely-awakened witnesses saw a tremendous white flash in the sky followed closely by a dimmer orange one. The Civil Aeronautics Administration had ordered all planes out of the air for seven hours in the southwest Nevada area. One citizen said: "It looked like noon even though it was pre-dawn."

All the AEC would say immediately was that this was atomic explosion No. 11, and that a survey by its technicians indicated no radioactivity within a 150-mile radius of blast No. 10 Saturday.

The other nine nuclear blasts listed by the AEC:

1. The Alamagordo, N.M., explosion July 16, 1945.
2. Hiroshima, Aug. 6, 1945.
3. Nagasaki, Aug. 9, 1945.

4 and 5. Bikini Lagoon in the spring and summer of 1948.

9. Somewhere in Russia. Announced by President Truman Sept. 22, 1949.

The AEC said three weeks ago it was getting ready "to tickle the dragon's tail" on the new Nevada range. More experiments probably are due.

Before the weekend blasting, the atomic scientists had put on a "dry run" test last Wednesday which didn't cause too much commotion. Both the Saturday and Sunday punches were recorded on the California Institute of Technology seismograph at Pasadena, Calif., 300 miles away.

An AEC spokesman said that the experimenters are "all quite happy" with results of their tests. He denied that a hydrogen bomb was being tried out, but that still left other possibilities for speculation.

Shah Of Iran To Wed Feb. 12

TEHRAN, Iran, Jan. 29 (AP).—An Iranian court communique announced today that Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi will marry pretty 19-year-old Soraya Esfandiari on Feb. 12.

The wedding, orginally scheduled for last Dec. 27, was postponed because of the bride-to-be's illness.

Sorarya will become the 12-year-old ruler's second wife. He was divorced from former Empress Fawzia, a sister of Egypt's King Farouk, nearly three years ago.

2nd Volcanic Eruption Within 36 Hours

SYDNEY, Australia, Jan. 29 — (AP) — New Guinea's volcanic Mt. Lamington, which killed some 4,000 Papuans and 35 Europeans in a blowoff eight days ago, staged a second violent eruption today within 36 hours.

No further loss of life was reported in either explosion. A government expert said he believed the volcano had spent its main force.

For an hour Saturday night and Sunday morning a towering cloud of pumice dust was pushed 25,000 feet into the air. An eruption this morning sent another cloud up 12,000 feet for 15 minutes.

Foil Scot Plot Kidnap Morrison

LONDON, Jan. 29 (Reuters).—The tabloid Sunday Pictorial reported Sunday that Scottish Na-Nationalists planned to kidnap Deputy Prime Minister Morrison when he visited Glasgow Saturday. But the plot was called off because the police were tipped off, the paper said.

Morrison went to Glasgow with Hector McNeil, secretary of state for Scotland, to attend a football game.

The Sunday Pictorial says that it was warned of the plot by telephone. The caller described himself as a Scottish Nationalist and was quoted by the Pictorial as saying that Morrison would be "deposited" over the Scottish border.

"I am telling you now because it is too late for any one to interfere," the caller said, adding:

"Mr. Morrison will be treated with every courtesy and care. But he is not wanted here. It is all part of our campaign—like the theft of the Stone of Scone."

Big Naval Exercise For 3 Allied Powers

LONDON, Jan. 29—(AP)—The biggest naval exercise since the end of the Second World War, with three Royal Navy and United States fleets engaged, will be held Feb. 12 and 13 in the Mediterranean.

Announcing this today, U.S. Navy headquarters in London said the American fleet will be the Sixth, under command of Vice-Admiral John J. Ballentine.

The Royal Navy will be represented by the British Mediterranean Fleet and the Home Fleet.

Ontario Sportsmen Decide No Sunday Shooting

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 (CP)—Ontario sportsmen don't want Sunday shooting nor do they support suggestions for a $1 residential rod licence for Ontario fishermen—at least not immediately.

Moves to put these proposals into Ontario's fish and game laws were turned down as delegates of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and hunters got down to work at their 23rd annual meeting here. The sessions end Tuesday.

The association's executive council, considering resolutions from member clubs in the organization's six zones, gave the $1 rod-licence suggestion a 12-month hoist. It rejected a resolution proposing Sunday hunting and put over a resolution suggesting dogs be banned for deer hunting.

Changes in the fishing laws played a big part in the executive's discussions. They recommended:

1. That the size limit on bass be raised from 10 to 12 inches, the size limit on pickerel be raised from 13 to 15 inches and that a legal size limit of 20 inches be set on pike. At present there is no limit on pike in Ontario.

2. That the pickerel season be closed from Oct. 15 to May 15 each year. The closure now begins Dec. 31 and ends May 15.

3. A sliding scale of fines for illegal fishing, based on the number of illegal fish taken by an angler.

The executive also approved resolutions calling for amendments to the deer hunting laws to allow each hunter to shoot one door of any age or sex.

A resolution asking a game preserve 1,000 miles quare be established north of Lake Wanapitei in the Algonquin area was approved. The Algonquin zone said alternately a series of small wildlife and forestry sanctuaries might be set up in that zone.

Resolutions endorsed by the federation go to the fish and game committee of the Ontario Legislature for final approval before being submitted to the government.

UN Troops Smash Red Attack

Chinese Die Fighting In Foxholes As Allies Near Seoul

TOKYO, Jan. 29 (AP). — Chinese Communists died fighting in their mountain foxholes today. They resisted to the bitter end, a wary but seemingly-relentless Allied advance to within 10 miles of Soeul in Western Korea.

AP correspondent Jim Becker reported 130 Reds killed on one hill alone. Only eight were captured.

Air strikes and artillery raked the enemy positions, but UN infantrymen finally had to scramble up the frozen hillsides and blast out the Reds with grenades and rifle fire.

The US Eighth Army reported advances up to three miles along the 40-mile Western Front.

In the area north of Suwon, 38 P-51 fighter-bombers dumped 8,000 gallons of fiery napalm (jellied gasoline) in the heaviest Mustang mass attack of the war. Red troops and buildings were hit. Early estimates were that 100 Reds were killed and 240 buildings destroyed or damaged.

30 Miles Of Fire

Major Thomas D. Robertson, who led the attack, said:

"There was over 30 miles of fire burning when we left."

About four hours before describing the bitter hillsides battle, Becker filed a dispatch reporting an Allied advance of one mile, to a point eight miles north of Suwon.

The Chinese were supported by artillery. Ground troops called for an air strike to silence the enemy guns.

One Red company was chopped up on a hill in the Suwon-Seoul highway. After the fight 50 Chinese bodies were counted. The remainder of the company had been wounded or routed.

AP Correspondent Stan Swinton said UN forces by dusk Monday had gained 1½ miles and won high ground overlooking the Kumjang River valley, they drove Red defenders from another hill above Wonchon, a road centre.

"This is a delaying action with about one Chinese company to every hill," said an American regimental officer. "We just have to dig them out, because they stay in there and die fighting."

American, British, Turkish, Greek, Puerto Rican and South Korean forces, moving forward warily along a line 40 miles long, extending eastward from Suwon, were believed to be creeping close to the main Red Chinese defence line.

Intelligence officers estimated 60,000 Chinese Reds between the U.N. patrols and Seoul.

Slowed By Chinese

A grim game of hide-and-seek, played all along the western and central fronts by patrols from both sides, kept the Allied push alive. But it had been slowed by Red counter-attacks at several places, and by enemy ambushes on the central front.

An Eighth Army communique said that U.N. forces, with a line extending almost 100 miles from the west coast through the rugged mountainous central sector, felt they were in the strong position

Restrict Travel For Hungarian

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 (AP) The United States today forbade diplomatic representatives of Communist Hungary to travel beyond an 18-mile zone around the White House except by special permission.

The order is the second of that sort issued recently against a Soviet-bloc state. It is in retaliation for similar restrictions imposed Jan. 2 on movements of American representatives in Hungary.

For the same reason, travel in the U.S. by diplomats of Communist Romania has been re-restricted for the last eight months. They were directed last May to remain within 35 miles of the District of Columbia except for trips for which specific permission was obtained.

Sure Monty Chosen

PARIS, Jan. 29 — (CP). — Staff officers at the temporary Atlantic Command headquarters here said today they consider it "almost certain" that Britain's Field Marshal Montgomery will be appointed deputy to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. The officers said they are equally sure that Gen. Alphonse Pierre Juin of France will become commander of the Central Land Forces under Eisenhower.

$10,000 Fire Destroys Turnip Plant

CASTLETON, Jan. 29— (Special). — Fire shortly after 1:00 p.m. today destroyed a turnip-waxing plant and a bakery in Castleton, 20 miles south-west of Campbellford.

Nobody was injured, and damage has been estimated at about $10,000. The waxing plant, owned by Ted Quinn, is a total loss, as is the bakery, owned by Harry Pomeroy.

At 2:30 the fire was reported under control, with firemen from five neighboring communities playing lines of water on the smouldering ruins.

Hotel Saved

The Castleton Hotel and an adjoining barn were scorched by the flames, but did not catch fire.

The fire started shortly after 1 p.m., when a waxer in the plant caught fire. A Castleton resident said there was a "blast of flame" and the eight women and six men workers ran out barely in time.

J. R. Yardy, manager of the telephone office in the village of 300 to 400, said the turnip-waxing plant had "plenty of fire extinguishers" in it, but that the workers had no chance to use them.

Warkworth First

First to answer the request for aid was the Warkworth Fire Department. It was quickly followed by fire reels from Brighton, Baltimore, Campbellford, and Colborne.

"We got a wonderful response from our neighbors," said Mr. Yardy.

The fire, in destroying the bakery, burned the Pomeroy living quarters located above the bakeshop, and a shed behind the shop.

Castleton, mainly an agricultural village, is located on the road between Grafton and Warkworth, south of Rice Lake.

Bullet Stops Stolen Car

WINDSOR, Jan. 29 (CP). — A police bullet stopped a stolen car here Sunday night and police are holding three Windsor men for investigation.

Three police cars converged on an east side district when it was reported a stolen car had been sighted. A squad car manned by Constables John Welch and Larry Ouelette got close to the car and chased it for several blocks.

When the driver refused to pull over, one of the officers fired shots at the tires of the car. A punctured tire sent the car crashing into a parked car and a tree. William B. Rain, Fred Birthcall and Floyd King were arrested.

UK Defence Spending Boosted 30%

Call Up Reservists, Army To Total 800,000 In April

LONDON, Jan. 29 (CP). — Prime Minister Attlee announced today a vast British rearmament program envisioning a labor draft if necessary, a 30-per-cent boost in defence spending and a call-up of 250,000 reserve fighting men for training this summer.

In a speech before the House of Commons outling this country's plans to meet the threat of Communist aggression in Europe, Attlee forecast new demands on the British taxpayer — already carrying one of the free world's biggest burdens. He said as much of the program as possible will be carried out on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Winston Churchill, leader of the Conservative opposition, promptly called a debate on defence the week after next, saying such a debate should last two or three days.

Churchill demanded that the Commons members consider whether Attlee's estimate of British defence needs "corresponds with the realities we have to face," and he added that the Labor government was late in providing the estimate.

Attlee said the stepped up defence program would cost £4,700,000,000 ($14,100,000,000) during the next three years. Last September the government estimated it would need to spend £3,600,000,000 in the same period.

Have 800,000 Men

Attlee said the total strength of Britain's armed forces will be 800,000 men by April 1. This compares with 682,000 in April, 1950.

The Prime Minister said the government does not believe war inevitable but it believes peace cannot be ensured unless the defences of the free world are made sufficiently strong to deter an aggressor.

By 1953-54 Britain would have quadrupled her output of tanks and aircraft, Attlee said.

The army reserves to be called up this summer will be mainly class "Z" men—that is, drafttees who served between the start of the Second World War and Jan. 1, 1949.

Give Breakdown

The Royal Navy will call up about 6,000 enlisted men and 600 officers for 18 months of service.

Attlee said the army call up will include 40,000 men for the anti-aircraft command.

Another 80,000 will train with the Territorial units in which they would serve if war broke out.

The remaining 115,000 will go into already active army formations in the United Kingdom, Attlee said, "and in various technical, administrative and fighting units which would be required in the event of war to support the forces overseas and in this country."

The RAF reserves called up will, like the army men, serve only 15 days for training purposes.

Foote, VC, said today that the Beverley Jones cottage on the reformatory grounds was in the process of being renovated for the accommodation of prisoners who sought a cure for alcoholism.

Throne Speech Reviews September Laws

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 (CP) — A brief review of legislation adopted last September—but no hint of measures to come—was contained today in the speech from the throne read at the closing of the special session of parliament.

The speech, read in the senate chamber by Chief Justice Thibaudeau Rinfret, formally ended the special session, which sat for two weeks last September. It was adjourned in case world developments made it necessary for parliament to meet again. The new 1951 session opens Tuesday.

The 350-word speech briefly reviewed last September's legislation—the bill to end the nine-day railway strike, a measure placing the armed forces on active service, special legislation for the 10,000-man special force and bills to regulate consumer credit and to provide for allocation of essential materials.

It noted that a government arbitrator was appointed, as provided in the legislation, when the two parties in the rail dispute failed to reach an agreement themselves.

Called Over Strike

The special session was called early last fall to take legislative steps to bring the crippling railway strike to a halt and to approve the establishment of the special army force as a military instrument at the disposal of the United Nations.

Parliament at that time also endorsed a special budget authorizing additional expenditures for defence purposes. Some tax boosts, though none in personal income brackets, were announced.

A new and newsier throne speech will be read at the opening of the new session Tuesday. It will give notice of the government's legislative program for the 1951 session.

It may give a hint, too, of the probable trend of the 1951-52 budget, expected to produce a wider range of taxation increases in both personal income levies and in other tax fields.

Nehru Lauds Canada On Immigration Law

Canada has agreed to relax immigration restriction against India to permit 150 Indian citizens yearly to take up permanent residence there.

Blaze Razes Block In St. Thomas

Four Die in Cornwall, Three In Sudbury As Houses Destroyed

By The Canadian Press

Six children and one adult perished in two Ontario weekend fires and a third blaze caused damage of $500,000 as firemen battled against odds in zero weather.

An almost-blind father and his three small sons died early today in a fire that gutted the interior of their four-room frame home in Cornwall while the mother ran for help.

Three small children were burned to death and their father was seriously burned following an explosion and fire early Sunday in their home at Sudbury.

A $500,000 blaze destroyed the three-storey Masonic Temple block in St. Thomas early this morning with no loss of life.

The Cornwall victims were Samuel Cameron, 51-year-old laborer and veteran of the First and Second World Wars; and his sons, William, 5, Donnie, 3½, and Keith, 2.

Neighbors said Cameron, whose sight was said to have been impaired by war injuries, worked on the ship canal here during the summers and found winter employment at the Cornwall rayon plant of Courtauld Canada Limited.

Mrs. Cameron was the only member of the family to escape from the burning house on Sydney Street in the northern section of this Eastern Ontario industrial city on the St. Lawrence river.

Police and firemen said that, in her bid to get help, she ran in her nightdress from the upstairs in which all the family slept, through the smoke and flames downstairs. Heedless of the below-zero temperature that numbed her bare feet, she dashed across the street to arouse neighbors.

She suffered burns and severe shock. Officials at Hotel Dieu Hospital later said her condition was "fair."

Mrs. Cameron, 37, is the former Violet McLoughlin of Finch, 25 miles northwest of here. The Camerons were married six years.

Cold Blitzes Western U.S.

CHICAGO, Jan. 29—(AP)—A late January cold wave numbed wide areas of the western United States and the mid-continent today.

Forty below zero was the reading in Wyoming and temperatures tumbled to 30 below and lower over the Dakotas, Montana and parts of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The lowest readings of the year were reported in many areas. U.S. weather bureau forecasters said not much warming was in sight immediately.

The cold air covered most of all of the U.S. except the southeastern states, the far southwest and the southern tip of Texas. The northern tier of states from the Pacific northwest to Indiana were getting the worst of the icy blasts.

Ice and glazed highways made travel extremely hazardous in many states. Air travel also was curtailed in some cities.

The icy highways and streets resulted in injuries to scores of persons yesterday. In Pittsburgh, hospitals reported more than 30 persons had been treated for injuries suffered in falls on icy streets. More than 100 were treated in hospitals in Indianapolis.

Dies Of Head Injuries In Belleville Crash

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 29—(CP)—Suffering fatal head injuries when his car ran off the highway and crashed into a culvert, Anthony Hammill, 39, Toronto, died in Belleville general hospital today five hours after the accident.

Hammill was driving west on No. 2 highway when, on the Marysville flats 12 miles east of the city, his car left the road. He was alone in the car and no other vehicle was involved.

French Army Said In Very Weak State

Red Political Influence, Poor Morale Handicap At Present Time

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS, Jan. 29 — (AP)—The French army, expected to be the backbone of the Western Europe land defence force, still is an undernourished baby. Its growth is going to be slow.

There are many reasons for this.

One reason is moral. The French will to fight has been sapped by two wars in two generations. The memory of defeat in 1940, occupation by the Germans and a costly liberation is still deeply etched. Many Frenchmen would prefer peace at any price to a war.

Another reason is political. In the last elections in 1946 the Communists got about 30 per cent of the French vote, and now, are the largest single party in the national assembly.

There is no doubt that the Communists have lost strength since 1946, but they have worked hard to appropriate the idea of peace for their own purposes. The word peace has a powerful political appeal to a war-weary population, and elections are coming up this year. This makes it even harder for the government to push an all-out rearmament program with its attendant higher taxes.

Already Involved

Another big reason is physical. The French already are involved in a war against Communist forces in Indo-China. French officials say that the Indo-Chinese war has cost the country in the last five years just about the same amount it has received in Marshall-Plan Aid.

About 1,50,000 troops — 50,000 French and the rest Colonial fighters and Foreign Legionnaires —are tied down by this war. By comparison, France had 310,000 men in its home ground forces in 1950 and is increasing this number to 363,000 in 1951.

Official sources say that in five years 19,000 soldiers from France, have lost their lives fighting the Indo-Chinese rebels, in addition to "countless thousands" of North Africans and Foreign Legionnaires.

The French government has taken two steps to put more muscle into its fighting arm, but the results won't make the Kremlin quake with fright. The term for conscripts has been lengthened from one year to 18 months. The military budget has been given a boost but only a hefty slug of United States aid makes the increase appear impressive.

The planned increase tells only part of the story. The other problem is material. The divisions already in existence are only partially equipped or are using material that has seeen better days.

Morale is an uncertain factor. If war were to break out in the near future, the French army would probably put on a bad show or almost no show at all.

Hold 2 Suspects In Montreal Robbery Slaying

MONTREAL, Jan. 29 (CP) — Police said Sunday that two young suspects were being held as material witnesses for a coroner's inquest in the fatal shooting of a storekeeper last Monday night.

Detective-Lieut. Russell Senecal head of the homicide squad, said Thomas Luckie and Thomas Mullins, both 23, confessed to the shooting under questioning Saturday night.

He said the pair claimed they shot William Sloan, 65, in "self-defence" when the latter tried to stop them from taking the contents of his cash register.

Died In Hospital

Owner of a combined restaurant and grocery store, Sloan was shot with a .38-calibre bullet through the right lung, and died in hospital about 20 minutes later.

Senecal said that a telephone tip led to the arrest of a youth who told them he knew the identity of the alleged slayers. Subsequently a member of Canada's special UN force was taken off a westbound train at Ottawa and returned to Montreal.

After questioning the pair, police announced they had arrested two more suspects.

Senecal said charges of conspiracy in the robbery attempt may be laid against the first pair picked up.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Jan. 29 — (AP)—Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.) proposed Sunday that the United States load B-36s with propaganda leaflets and drop them on Russia. Train Derailed

EDMONTON, Jan. 29 —(CP)— Two women pasengers were slightly injured today in the derailment of the westbound CNR transcontinental passenger train near Ribstone, Alta., about 154 miles southeast of here. All of the train's nine cars left the rails. A broken rail was blamed for the accident.

Won't Be Humiliated

In its latest communication, which reached the Indian delegation here, Peiping is understood to have said that if it is "publicly humiliated" by being branded an aggressor in Korea, the UN should be left in no doubt that Communist China would not entertain any further peace negotiations.

Sir Bengal N. Rau, chief Indian delegate, is expected to intervene in the resumed debate today by the political committee. It is believed he might make a further appeal to the UN to keep the door open for negotiations and not to brand Peiping an aggressor until talks had been held in the light of the Asian-Arab resolution.

The new trimming to the old proposal was the addition of a clause, at Canada's suggestion, to make a Korean cease-fire the first order of business at the proposed conference. L. B. Pearson, Canada's Minister of External Affairs, put forth the suggestion Friday.

Exact wording of this qualification, studied by India's Sir Benegal N. Rau during the weekend, was expected to be agreed on at a conference of the 12 sponsors, scheduled for today. A spokesman said the group then plans to present it to the 60-country political committee.

The United States has said its opposition to the plan has not been—and will not be—modified. The U.S. view is that a cease-fire is a military matter, not one to be worked out by an international conference.

Other Items

The U.S. also said that any conference concerning Korea, the U.N.-recognized Republic of Korea should be represented and at any conference on Formosa the Nationalist Chinese government should have a seat. Previous Peiping communications on the seven-power talks excluded both.

A spokesman said U.S. delegate Warren R. Austin will continue to press for early adoption of the American resolution denouncing Red Chinese aggression in Korea.

There is virtually no opposition to this section of the American resolution outside of the Soviet bloc and such Asian countries as India, Indonesia and Burma.

The difficulties have been caused by the subsequent paragraphs which ask the collective measures committee to consider punitive action against the Red Chinese and would set up a "good offices" committee to try for a negotiated settlement with Peiping.

Austin's clarifying statement Saturday in which he said the U.S. intends both groups to work simultaneously and, if a peaceful solution appears possible, the punitive report will not be made, was widely hailed here.

Fire Destroys Army Ice Arena

CAMP BORDEN, Jan. 29.—In a spectacular fire that sent an enormous cloud of smoke billowing over the camp site, Camp Borden's largest building, the artificial ice arena, was destroyed by fire Sunday.

The huge frame structure known to thousands of troops during the war as the North End Military Theatre with a seating capacity for 5,000 men, was gutted. Artificial ice equipment valued at $35,000 was damaged. The equipment, purchased by public subscription, was only recently installed.

The fire started at 3 p.m. when five curling rinks, or 20 players, were on the ice. They fought the start of the blaze but it soon swept out of control.

Persons in the building at the time of the outbreak blame the fire on an overheated coal stove in one of the dressing rooms. They believe it ignited a wall or part of the flooring.

Army and Air Force fire departments battled the fire for several hours, but the tinder-dry building blazed fiercely for several hours.

No one was injured. A court of inquiry will open today.

Trio Burned Out In 25 Below Zero

GLADSTONE, Man., Jan. 29 (CP).—An elderly married couple the wife arising from a sickbed, stumbled more than a quarter of a mile to safety early Saturday in freezing temperatures when fire destroyed their farm home.

Their daughter aroused Mr. and Mrs. Gottleib Hoen, both more than 80 years old, and guided them to safety. The daughter was barefooted in the 25-below-zero weather and her mother and father clad only in night attire and stockings.

UN Troops

they had held since the Chinese entered the war last November.

Chinese and North Korean Reds mined roads and set up road blocks behind some of the forward U.N. units. One attack by 600 enemy troops six miles west of Ichon forced Allied units to fall back, but they later restored their lines.

The biggest clash started three miles northeast of Suwon, where an enemy battalion attacked shortly after midnight Sunday. The fight was hot and heavy for about two hours and then simmered down to skirmishing which continued long after daylight.

Going Rough

Later Monday, Associated Press correspondent Jim Becker reported, the Allies had punched eight miles north of Suwon, but the going was rough.

At one point Red troops believed to comprise elements of two regiments held up progress. These Communists were thought to be shielding the main enemy line of defence.

U.N. troops, participating in what was officially termed a "limited-objective attack," were scattered from Suwon eastward to Kumyangjang and Ichon, and had probed north of all the towns along this line.

Kumyangjang is 11 miles southeast of Suwon and Ichon is 13 miles northeast of Kumyangjang.

Northwest of Kumyangjang, 150 Communists were routed by an American unit after two hours of hard fighting. Allied units went ahead 3,000 to 5,000 yards in the Kumyangjang sector, an Eighth Army communique said.

Lt.-Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway reported to Gen. MacArthur at the front Sunday that his U.S. Eighth Army troops had accounted for 160,000 Chinese Red casualties this month, forty thousand of them killed.

Bombard Targets

The British cruiser Ceylon, the U.S. cruiser St. Paul and the destroyer Hank bombarded military targets in the Inchon area Sunday. A shore battery fired on the St Paul but the cruiser silenced the battery.

On the east coast, warehouses and road junctions were bombarded Sunday. The U.S. light cruiser Manchester attacked targets in the vicinity of Sokcho, north of the 38th Parallel. One power station was destroyed.

Fliers from the British carrier Theseus pounded four enemy-held villages on the west coast.

In east-central Korea, south of Tanyang, Allied forces cut off elements of five under-strength Korean Communist divisions, an Eighth Army communique reported. The communique added that the Korean Communists no longer are a threat to the Allied forces, and that about 50 per cent of the enemy troops have been cut down.

Blaze Razes

The Cameron family was soon to benefit from Mrs. Cameron's share of a $100,000 estate. Her sister, Mrs. Manson McGregor, said Mrs. Cameron was to inherit one-third of an estate left by her father, William McLaughlin of Finch. Her sons, William and Donnie, were to get $1,000 each at the age of 21.

Mrs. Cameron's hair was blazing as she ran from the blazing dwelling. She suffered severe burns about the face and arms.

The fire is believed to have started near the coal stove in the living room in the centre of the house.

Mr. Cameron's body was found on the stairs leading to the second floor. Fire Chief Cory Moore said the position of his body indicated that he was awakened by the flames and had been overcome by smoke while trying to return to the second floor to rescue the children.

Die In Beds

Bodies of the two younger children were found in their beds in a second-storey front room.

The older boy's body was found on the floor of the same room near the door. Firemen believed the older boy was overcome by smoke and that his younger brothers were suffocated.

The fire broke out at 5 a.m., and was fought for three hours.

Mrs. Welland James, a neighbor, said she was awakened by cries for help.

"I looked out the window and saw Mrs. Cameron standing in the front door of her house. I could see the flames and a lot of smoke behind her. She was crying for help."

"She started across the street, clad only in a flimsy nightgown, barefoot, in sub-zero weather. Then she turned suddenly and began running back towards her burning home."

Two policemen, who were passing in a patrol car, restrained Mrs. Cameron and took her to the James home. Later she was taken to hospital.

Dr. C. A. Stewart, coroner, said there has been no decision yet whether there will be an inquest.

How Mrs. Cameron managed to escape from her flaming dwelling remained a mystery several hours later. She was given sedatives and was not told immediately that the other members of the family were dead.

Couldn't Get Answer

Mrs. James, who talked to the mother for a few minutes before she was taken to hospital, told reporters:

"Mrs. Cameron told me she had called to her husband and the children several times but couldn't get any answer."

Mayor Aaron Horovitz said in a statement:

"The tragedy, the worst in Cornwall in many years, has filled the hearts of Cornwall citizens with sorrow. . . All citizens share the sorrow of the surviving wife and mother."

3 Children Die

At Sudbury, a 23-year-old father is reported "desperately in need" of blood donations today.

Hospital officials said that Jean Guy Mathieu had more than 50 per cent of the skin burned from his body in futile attempts to rescue his three children.

A fourth child was saved by Mrs. Mathieu, who was also badly burned.

Dead are Giles, 5; Gerald, 3; and Rita, 2. Their bodies were found in the bed in which they were sleeping.

Saved was Riger, 13 months, who suffered slight burns.

Pipes Overheated

Firemen said the fire which raged through the Mathieus' three-room home started when pipes became overheated by the large fire Mr. Mathieu built to keep his family warm in the 30 degrees below zero weather.

Mr. Mathieu was severely burned after he dashed through a wall of flame to try to save his children. His wife had earlier been forced back by the flames when she attempted to rescue them.

From her hospital bed Mrs. Mathieu denied earlier reports that the explosion and fire resulted from her husband's attempt to relight a stove which had gone out.

Pipes Fell

She said the first indication she had of the fire was when she and her husband were awakened by a piece of stove pipe falling on their bed.

Mr. Mathieu snatched the baby from his crib and ran out of the house while his wife ran into an adjoining room to rouse the other three children. When she opened the door, a sheet of flame prevented her entering, although her husband later tried to force his way in.

Rita was spending her first night at home after living with her grandparents for the past two weeks. Mrs. Mathieu said she had sent Rita to live with her grandparents while the child was recovering from an attack of influenza.

"Our home wasn't warm enough. It was too drafty," the young mother explained.

The St. Thomas fire broke out about 11.40 p.m. EST and burned out of control until more than two hours later when St. Thomas firemen, with the help of a pumper rushed from London, Ont., won the fight with the flames.

The estimate of damage was given by Arthur Gray, president of the Masonic Temple Association. He said damage to the building was about $200,000 and destruction of stock and equipment about $300,000.

Had Number Of Stores

The block contained a number of stores including Reward Shoes, Myer's Studios, Ashburn's Men's Wear, W. H. Phillips Electrical Appliances, Johnson Drugs, and Simpson's Mail Order Office.

The fire was believed to have started in the McPhillips store. Flames were worst at the rear of the building and considerable damage was caused when the second floor collapsed.

The intense heat broke all windows in the block. Firemen were unable to save the Masonic block and concentrated on preventing the fire from spreading. They managed to keep it from breaking through a fire wall on the east-side into A. M. Martin's paint store and Knapp's hardware.

Fire-fighting was made difficult by the zero temperatures. Large crowds gathered to watch the spectacular blaze, and residents nearby served coffee to firemen who quickly became covered with ice.

Hope To Tame Fraser River

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C.,— (CP)—Ken Morton wants to tame the temperamental Fraser river.

Canada's top authority on the Fraser, Mr. Morton is expected to put out about $8,000,000 this year in his attempt. He is chief of federal public works projects in British Columbia.

His ambition is to perfect a system of wing dams and jetties which will keep the lower reaches of the Fraser free from silt and open to deep sea shipping without the expensiva operation of dredging.

It will be tough. For years the Fraser has gone on the rampage, leaving wreckage in its wake. Last year it left a $30,000,000 damage bill before it receded.

Morton's battle started 11 years ago. He says he has "high hopes of being successful."

U.S. Relief Supplies Helping Hungry People In Yugoslavia

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BELGRADE, Jan. 29 (AP)—A mercifully mild winter has helped put into high gear the distribution of U.S. food relief shipments to stave off famine in this drought-striken country and to bolster Marshal Tito's tough anti-Cominform Army.

With only slight snows in the rugged mountains embracing most of this Adriatic country, Yugoslavia's tattered transportation system was able by mid-January to distribute to the hungry people and to the army a large portion of the 93,780 metric tons of foodstuffs which have already arrived.

These shipments, which started last November, are part of a total of 603,900 metric tons allocated by the U.S. to beat off the threat of starvation brought on by last summer's severe drought. The last of the shipments are expected to be completed by the middle of April.

Many an independent farmer can be heard to say openly that the drought was not the sole cause of the critical food shortage. Some contend that Tito's Communist-inspired collectivization program had a lot to do with it.

Even the controlled press has admitted that some peasants have revolted against handing over big portions of their crops to the government by not growing the required amounts.

One of Worst

Just how much of the current food shortage is due to the drought and how much to the government's agricultural policies is hard to determine. But there is no doubt that the drought was one of Yugoslavia's worst.

The U.S. allotted $70,000,000 in food aid to this country as part of its policy to keep Tito's independent Communist's regime going in the face of growing political economic and threatening military pressure by the Soviet Union and her satellites.

The whole program of shipment and distribution has been carefully watched by teams of U.S. observers, as part of the agreement whereby Tito's government gave full assurances the goods would be handed out equally and without prejudice.

West Europe Principal Danger Zone

The main danger zones in the world today are Korea, Southeast Asia, the Middle East and Western Europe, John Londerville, master at the Peterborough Normal School, told the Friday Night club, last week.

Mr. Londerville considered that of the four, Western Europe is the one area that must be held. He stressed that a major war in China at this time would be disasterous and warned of the dangers of isolationism in the United States.

Donald Whittaker introduced Mr. Londerville who was thanked by Bob Jameson.

President Bill King announced that Hartley Fowler of Toronto, secretary of the YMCA World Services, will speak at a joint meeting of the Y's Men's Club and the Friday Night Club on February 16.

Car Bursts Into Flame Along Highway 45

ROSENEATH, Jan. 29 (ENS)— A sedan owned by Rolland Thackery of this village and driven by his son William, 24, burst into flames on Highway 45 on Sunday evening, four miles south-west of Roseneath at Simpson's Hill. The driver noticed flames licking through the floorboards of the vehicle, skidded to a stop and assisted his passengers to safety. They were Mr. and Mrs. Thackery and his grandfather, Charles Thackery, age 71, who received minor burns.

The car was completely destroyed but was covered by insurance, and the incident was investigated by the Cobourg detachment of the Provincial Police.

Prices Show Slump On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Jan. 29 —(CP)— Prices slipped from early strong gains as the session progressed on the Toronto stock exchange today.

Following two days of strong advance prices climbed strongly in early dealings and then eased slightly. Trading continued its extreme activity and volume for the first three hours of 2,982,000 shares was 34,000 shares more than the same period last Friday.

Industrial advances ranged to more than $1 after earlier gains up to more than $2. Steels, papers, utilities, agricultures, constructions, foods, refining oils, manufacturing companies and retail stores showed majority of gains.

Base metals were well ahead. Consolidated Smelters, International Nickel, Labrador, Waite Amulet, Steep Rock, Sherritt Gordon and Quemont headed the group higher.

Western oils and junior and senior golds firmed in fairly mixed dealings.

Of 10 persons who died in accidents in Eastern Canada during the week-end, six perished in two fires.

A father and his two daughters died Saturday when fire destroyed a grocery store and residence in Corner Brook, Nfld. And in Sudbury, Ont., three children were burned to death in their home Sunday when fire believed caused by overheated stove pipes razed their three-room home.

Two traffic accidents brought Ontario's toll to five. Quebec and New Brunswick each had one violent death during the week-end.

Few Winter Sports

COBOURG, Jan. 29 (ENS). — Cold weather and a little snow over the week-end helped things a little for skiers, but a great deal more snow will have to fall before conditions for skiing are good. There have only been a few falls of snow and what little fell soon disappeared in the frequent mild spells that have marked this winter. About the only winter sport that has made any progress this year has been hockey and skating and this is due only to the fact that Cobourg has an artificial ice rink. There has been no curling, due to the mild weather.

Nature Pictures Interpret Migration Riddle

In the third of the series of the Audubon Screen Tours, the eminent artist and naturalist Roger Tory Peterson entertained a capacity audience at the Queen Mary School auditorium Saturday night with an illustrated discussion of The Riddle of Migration.

Mr. Peterson, whose home is in Washington, D.C., is best known to naturalists as the author of the standard textbook on field identification of birds, "A Field Guide to Birds." This book is considered the most important contribution to ornithological literature and art since Audubon's classic "Birds of America."

While he did not attempt to provide any solution to the riddle of migration, Mr. Peterson brought the audience up to date on the current scientific research concerning this phenomenon without once lapsing into a too technical discussion for the average nature lover.

"Weather Migrants"

He divided migrating birds into broad general classes such as the "weather migrants"—those whose spring and fall travels were governed by local weather conditions and what he called "the calendar migrants" — those birds whose spring and fall migrations seemed to take place at a given time every year; sometimes in spite of adverse local weather conditions.

In the course of his talk, Mr. Peterson pointed out that the phenomenon of migration had been complicated in early years by many ridiculous superstitions. One of the most general of these superstitions is the one that the smaller birds like the hummingbird are carried on the backs of larger birds during migration.

The colored motion pictures which Mr. Peterson accompanied his talk were the combined work of six nature photographers associated with the National Audubon Society. They were some of the best pictures both from a technical and illustrative standpoint that have been presented in Peterborough.

Mr. Peterson was introduced by J. McKeever, president of the Peterborough Nature Club, which sponsors this series.

Following the lecture, Mr. Peterson and the members of the executive of the Nature Club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Charles C. Pilon.

Youth Stuffed Pockets, Boots With Money

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 29 — (ENS)—His pockets, high rubber boots, and shirt stuffed with bills, a 14-year-old was arrested Saturday after the theft of $219 from a Front St. garage in Campbellford.

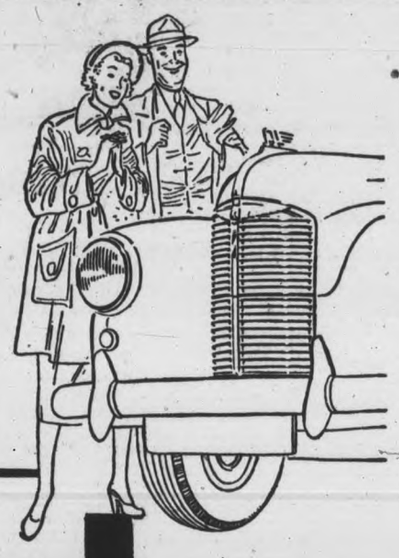
The boy had been reported earlier as loitering near the garage.

The money was taken from the unlocked safe in the garage, and the theft was not discovered uptil two hours later, when the proprietors notified police.

The proprietors described the boy to Chief Constable George Hardy and he and Provincial Constable Donald Erskine picked the boy up in a Seymour township home, where the boy had been visiting friends.

Taken to Cobourg jail, the boy was remanded for trial in Campbellford on February 1.

Money recovered from the boy amounted to a real hat-full. Chief Hardy returned the small denomination bills to the garage owners in his hat.



Watch Recovered

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 29 — (ENS)—A watch valued at $59.50, stolen from Downey's jewelry store here has been recovered and returned to the owner. Chief Constable Geo. H. Hardy and Provincial Constable Donald W. Erskine recovered the stolen property in the attic of a Campbellford home after investigating the case for some time. A juvenile girl, 14, has been charged with the theft, and will appear in court here soon.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING ABOUT Personal Planning

The B of M featured Personal Planning in a test area recently. Here are a few of the comments volunteered by Personal Planners there:

"... a very workable budget. Your service is much appreciated."

"... great prospects for low-income-bracket families."

"... up-to-date and practical for present living conditions."

"... have budgeted for years, but found Personal Planning interesting and different."

There's no money magic to it — it can't make $2,000 go as far as $3,000 — but it can give you complete mastery over your own money ... and put the facilities of a great savings institution at your service in attaining it.

Personal Planning is a completely personal thing. You will be the architect — with an assist from the Bank of Montreal. You'll tailor your plan to fit your income, your hopes, your dreams. The outcome will be strictly up to you.

Unemployment and Immigration

In this district, that is, in Peterborough city and county and parts of neighbouring counties, the number of unemployed is approximately the same as last winter. It is small in relation to the total of people employed. As of the middle of January, 1,454 persons were drawing unemployment insurance monies. The 1,454 people out of jobs are unemployed because the nature of their work is seasonal; for instance, fewer construction and road workers are employed in winter than in summer. Others are partly unemployed because three Peterborough factories are now operating on a part-time basis, owing to shortage of materials and lack of orders.

* * *

Why, when there are some tens of thousands of unemployed persons in Canada, are efforts being made to increase immigration? Why is Ontario arranging flight passages for industrial workers from Britain? Why is Ottawa doubling its immigration figures over those of last year, so as to bring 150,000 persons into Canada, chiefly from Europe? The reason is that Canada is being called on this year, and probably in the years ahead, to produce more goods than ever before in her history, and she needs men as well as machines to do it. There are not enough workers in Canada now, on farm, in factory, in office, to do the jobs Canada has committed herself to do.

* * *

There were 207,400 unemployed persons in Canada in the middle of this month. That is a large number, though 41,800 less than at the same time last year, and the number is small in comparison with the number of employed people. These unemployed are out of work because of the seasonal nature of their jobs, because there are always some people who never keep jobs or want them, and because there are shortages of materials and a lack of orders in some factories.

* * *

These last two items are the important ones. The shortage of materials (steel, for instance) will be righted when allocations are made to essential work, such as military goods, when great new developments are finished, and when more men are at work in the basic industries producing these commodities now in short supply. The factories without orders will have orders when they change over their production lines to military requirements. In the coming months there are bound to be dislocations of production schedules owing to new demands occasioned by the world re-armament.

* * *

The threat of war has put immense burdens on the capacity of Canadian farms and industries. These will shortly take up any unemployment slack and suck in all the new immigrants who can be found able and willing to work.

The Senator From Maryland

There has been considerable criticism in the United States of the procedure followed in the case of Senator John Marshall Butler of Maryland. He has been allowed to take a seat in the Senate, but the Senate Subcommittee on Privileges and Elections has now undertaken to find out whether he acquired that seat by legitimate means. Critics contend that it would have been better if the order of procedure had been reversed, since "it is generally considered bad form . . . to shoot a sitting Senator; nevertheless a most useful public service may be rendered by flushing one or disclosing the line of his flight before he came to rest."

The campaign in Maryland in the November election was characterized by the rabid anti-Communism which is the stock-in-trade of Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin, who supported Senator Butler against former Senator Millard Tydings. It appears that some of Senator Butler's supporters, deciding to improve on the McCarthy "smear" tactics, prepared and distributed a fake photograph. The picture showed Senator Tydings in friendly conversation with Earl Browder, former leader of the U.S. Communist Party. It was published in a tabloid called "From the Record," which was printed in the plant of The Washington Times-Herald and distributed shortly before the election.

There is no doubt about the picture being a fake; Senator Butler's campaign manager, Jon M. Jonkel, has admitted that it was, and says he takes full responsibility for it. He added, however, that he did not see it until it was already in circulation, and went on to assert rather naively that he "would not have used the composite picture technique. There ought to be some kind of control over that, as well as over the use of partial quotes and over quotations that are pulled out of context."

What effect this admission will have on the seat in the Senate now occupied by Senator Butler remains to be seen. It seems more than likely, however, that Mr. Jonkel will see the establishment of "some kind of control" to prevent or punish the distribution of fakes of this nature.

Dams And St. Lawrence Flooding

A leading Quebec forestry engineer, Thomas Maher, has warned that unless reforestation is carried out in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence valleys, catastrophic flooding may occur within the next decade. He even declared that the threat of disaster such as occurred in Winnipeg last year is now hanging over Montreal. While Montrealers have two small mountains to cling to should the St. Lawrence flood dangerously (it now floods every spring, setting cottages afloat) a million people in the flats of the city can take little comfort from the fact that some of them could stay high and dry on Westmount or Mount Royal.

Mr. Maher says: "In our province the forests of most of the St. Lawrence's tributary rivers have been razed; for years intense exploitation of the forests of the Ottawa basin, the most important tributary, has been going on . . . Every year the gap is enlarged and the danger of floods is increased." The experience of this section of Ontario is not without point.

The forests of Peterborough county, Haliburton, Hastings and Victoria were ruthlessly slashed before 1900, but there have been no significant floods, even though extensive reforestation was not undertaken and the cutting was unscientific. One explanation is that within a few years of this exploitation of the forests the Trent Valley canal was put through. It has numerous dams which control lake and river levels. In later times many more dams have been put in, to provide a steady flow for waterpower.

Along the upper Ottawa river where forest cutting has been done on a vast scale, dams for water-power have also been erected, huge ones. These help regulate the flow of water into the lower Ottawa and the St. Lawrence. It is doubtful if, over such a wide expanse, the dams compensate, as conservers of water, for the lack of tree cover. Certainly in the St. Lawrence below Montreal there are not enough hydro projects to fill the gap. Mr. Maher's recommendation that a national commission be set up to begin a huge reforestation project is worthy of consideration, although both the provincial governments, and the Federal, have active departments of lands and forests doing good work in this regard. Further, the private companies with timber concessions are themselves anxious to cut and reforest so as to have perpetual forests.

Man Will Prevail

Quick means of communication and travel and big weapons and wars in this century have made people calamity-conscious. They hear too quickly and too frequently about people ten thousand miles away toppling over precipices. They get the news of an international 'crisis' almost before the crisis occurs. In fact, their getting the news helps make the crisis. In slower centuries there were crises, people falling off precipices and avalanches covering villages, but the news arrived cold, weeks or months after the event. It was already a somewhat calm page of history. It was certainly nothing to get the wind up about, for the gale had passed.

The time-lag which cushioned disturbing news in other days has gone. Instead there is a continual sense of imminence. Something bad is going to happen. The fact is that something bad is always going to happen; and always has been going to happen. But people worry about it now and they did not a century ago. They forget in these days that the most important strand of life, time itself, has become neither more nor less imminent. It has not changed. An hour is an hour, a day is a day. And as time behaved centuries ago it is behaving today. Each passing hour is an hour nearer the grave for all people, as it was in the beginning and always shall be. That is the most calamitous thought of all; that each day we die. If people are so determined to worry, let them worry about something really important like that—the most portentous thing to themselves—that they are dying with every breath they breathe. Such a view on life might put Korea and alarm about aggressive China in safer and saner perspective.

The world and man in it have gone on for a long time. Men die, but man does not. A great view of life was taken by William Faulkner when he was receiving the Nobel prize: "Man will not only endure. He will prevail." He will prevail despite taxes, war and death.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Montreal taxi drivers will be photographed in future, and we regard this as fatal to the tourist business. Nobody can ride in a taxi so equipped without worrying as to whether his driver is the man in the photograph, and this prevents him from looking out of the window at the beauties of Montreal.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THERE are two kinds of editions of standard works. The first is the critical edition. The aim of this is to give the most authentic text of the music. Where the original manuscript is available this is a comparatively simple task, though erasions, errors and omissions can be assumed when reference is made to the composer's known style and habits. Explanatory notes are often advisable where terminology and notation has undergone a change with the passage of time. Where the original manuscript is missing the task is a good deal more difficult. Various copies, whether in print or in manuscript have to be collated, and where they differ it is necessary to weigh carefully the evidence. Even so scholars will differ, and their differences will be recorded in annotations. There is an old Latin tag which runs, "Difficilior lectio potior"—the more difficult reading is preferable. This sounds rather odd, but there is a good deal of truth in it. If the composer writes something at all unusual the copyist will often "edit" it by substituting something more conventional. Thus the true scholar will not be in too much of a hurry to throw overboard a reading that may at first sight seem rather outlandish. The critical edition is mainly of use to musicologists, those whose work is connected with matters of musical scholarship. Nevertheless it is becoming more and more the concern of conscientious performers to get back to the sources. Composers like Chopin have had their work so overlaid with extra notes, "corrections" and so on, that it can do nothing but good to the ordinary pianist to find out what Chopin actually did write and what has been added or subtracted by generations of editors. Scholarship is not necessarily a dry-as-dust affair; on the contrary it can be the means of leading one back to a more vivid experience of the music.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE other type of edition is the performing edition. Here the emphasis lies on fingering, phrasing, bowing marks, breathing, and so on. Very often preparatory exercises are given to help master passages of especial difficulty. For the student this type of edition is most valuable. A word of warning is not out of place. These performing editions frequently teem with deviations from the authentic text. It may be that many of the alterations are of a kind that make the music more effective, but the cumulative effect is sometimes like seeing the music through somebody else's spectacles. Again, the very exactitude with which every slightest nuance is indicated leaves precious little to the imagination and caprice of the performer. Moreover the plethora of directions and indications is apt to leave him as confused as the average motorist is by the mass of road signs in the city!

✧ ✧ ✧

MY witty colleague Samuel Marchbanks wonders in his diary (January 20) how the organist in the song "The Lost Chord" was unable to find the chord, which sounded like a great Amen. I suspect that the organist, like the authoress of the poem was an amateur who "played by ear". Every self-respecting organist knows that it takes at least two chords to play an amen. However, assuming that she meant the word "cadence" instead of "chord" and then ran into difficulties of scansion, the actual number of cadences in general use at that period was somewhat limited, though Gounod and others were inventing some rather fruity variants to the common-or-garden Plagal, Perfect and other cadences. Stephen Leacock has approached the matter from the mathematical angle. In his book "My Remarkable Uncle" he devotes three years of close-knit reasoning to it. He accuses the musicians of being too dreamy and unsystematic and then proceeds to tackle the problem by the use of the law of permutations and combinations. The results of his calculations show that by using up to ten notes at a time there are 5,156,227,011,439 possibilities. By working steadily through all these and keeping normal office hours (with a summer vacation) it should be possible for the player to find the result within 10,000,000 years. Of course he might find it the very first attempt, but I think that I would rather be content to trust to my intuition to find the chord again. Besides, think of all the hideous discords one would have to play—it would be ten million years of misery!

✧ ✧ ✧

IT is good news to lovers of Elizabethan music that Dr. Fellowes has edited the complete keyboard works of William Byrd, thus rounding off his great task of editing in twenty volumes the complete compositions of this great composer, probably the greatest English composer. It must be a source of great satisfaction to Dr. Fellowes, who recently celebrated his eightieth birthday, to be able to complete this monumental effort. He is recognized as one of the leading authorities on this period. He is a clergyman of the Church of England and a Minor Canon of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and his connection with the church undoubtedly stimulated him to resurrect some of the forgotten masterpieces of the Elizabethan age. Nor was this all. He was from the start a keen musician and excellent violinist, taking an active part in the musical life of Oxford during his undergraduate days. He became particularly interested in old instruments, and is a good judge of the craft of the violin maker. Besides editing a vast quantity of Madrigals, Anthems and other Tudor music he has written several books and monograms on the subject. He has also made several tours in North America, giving lectures on the English Madrigal School and the English lutenists. Some of the songs he sang himself to his own accompaniment on the lute, which is how they were sung originally. More recently he has come in for a certain amount of criticism for making too many alterations to the original text, but the magnitude of his achievement remains unaltered. He was a pioneer in the rediscovery of the treasure of Tudor music, and if at times judgement may have been unsound this is far outweighed by the fact that he has done so much of the spadework.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE of the difficulties of the work resides in the fact that there were no printed scores of the choral music made in Tudor times. Each part was printed or written by itself. Sometimes one or more vocal parts would be missing: they might sometimes turn up in some other library. All the parts had to be collected and written in score. They also had to be edited for performance, and a condensed piano score "for practice purposes" added. I once had the privilege of meeting Canon Fellowes, and I remember well the urbane wisdom of his conversation, which he also displays in his writings. It would be a good thing if some of us critics were to imitate his "sweet reasonableness": riding our pet hobby-horses we often get very quarrelsome, and to no purpose!

WELCOME GUEST

New Words For The Language

(NEW YORK TIMES)

AS is being widely pointed out in comments on the death of the distinguished novelist Sinclair Lewis, one of his accomplishments was to add a word to the English—at least the American—language. This is a rarer feat than might be expected. It may be that Lewis' contemporary, H. L. Mencken, has done so—although a glance at Webster fails to turn up "booboisie" or "Bible belt," two of the more famous coinages of this master of the American language. Recollection fails to find a contribution of the sort from F. Scott Fitzgerald or from Hemingway. The title of Erskine Caldwell's novel "Tobacco Road" is perhaps closest to Lewis' achievement. It has become a generic term, part of the language, but so far has not been generally crowned by the dictionaries.

In fact, Lewis twice won the kind of linguistic immortality which is involved in inclusion in the dictionary. Not only "Babbit" but "Main Street"—with special reference to the novelist's title—appear in Webster.

"Babbitt," indeed, not only appears in simple form but with no less than four variations. The first meaning is given as "The title and hero of a novel (1922) by Sinclair Lewis. He is a prosperous, vulgar, middle-class realtor who under business and social pressure conforms to the respectable materialism of his class." Then follows the secondary meaning: "Hence a business or professional man who strictly adheres to the social and ethical standards of his group—used derogatively."

Follow these strange accretions: "Babbittess, n."; Babbittian, adj."; "Babbittism, n." and "Babbittry, n." Among all, in proper alphabetical sequence, appear the several variants of the common noun "babbitt," a soft white, anti-friction metal christened for Isaac Babbitt (1799-1862), an American inventor whose pothumous misfortune it has been to find his name made famous by the egregious extrovert from Zenith in the State of Winnemac.

"Main Street" Webster defines: "a. In many American cities and towns the name of the most important street. b. The title of a novel (1920) by Sinclair Lewis portraying materialistic provincialism as a characteristic of American life in a small town. c. Hence, any place or class of such character."

There is no such formal way in English of crowning a new word as Cardinal Richelieu outlined for French when he founded the French Academy in the Sixteen Thirties with the view of regulating the language and incidentally compiling a dictionary. The Academy has been at it ever since. Frenchmen expect its next edition will appear early in the next century. With English the process is more eclectic. New words are constantly growing up, as with any living organism, and presently find themselves installed in the word-books. "Whoopee" is now so posted, and so is "ritzy."

Literature has furnished a rich vein of word novelties. Webster's secondary meaning for the name "Rip Van Winkle" is "A person who is very much behind the times." After mentioning who Simon Legree was, it is stated: "Hence, a cruel taskmaster; any brutal person." The American list could doubtless be much prolonged.

BRITISH authors have done sterling work in seeding the language with fresh and vivid terms. Bunyan and, later, Thackeray contributed "Vanity Fair," which the dictionary explains is "a fair held all year long in the town of Vanity; hence, the world as a place where vanity and ostentation obtain; also the world of fashion." Dickens, like Lewis, has seen a name of his turned into an adjective and into a common noun. One finds: "Micawberish, adj.," and "Micawberism, n."

The British playwrights have sowed well. A "boniface" is in the language, meaning an innkeeper, because of "the sleek, jolly landlord in Farquhar's 'Beaux' Stratagem.'" Sheridan gave our speech a luscious term when he invented Mrs. Malaprop in "The Rivals"—"a character noted for her blunders in the use of words." So one finds: "malapropism: a grotesque misuse of a word; a word so used"; and "malaprop: a malapropism," and even "malapropian.'

It is likely that Shakespeare leads all the rest in such contributions. Two come easily to mind. His "Benedick" in "Much Ado About Nothing" has turned into "benedict: a married man, usually a man newly married, especially one long a bachelor." "Falstaffian" is "like or characteristic of Shakespeare's Sir John Falstaff."

It is good to find, as here, that there is real longevity in such contributions to our speech. Not many of us, using the term "malapropism" or "boniface," could give any adequate precis of its origin. A "Legree" may well be one long after details of Harriet Beecher Stowe's novel are lost to mind. So it is unlikely for many years to come that the little appendage "ana." will appear in the dictionary after the words "Main Street" and "Babbitt." The essence of Sinclair Lewis' researches in Zenith and in Gopher Prairie will still be of current use, still reviving the attitude and the impact of this vivid and outstanding American writer.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And God spake unto Moses, and said unto him, I am the Lord: and I appeared unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, by the name of God Almighty, but by my name JEHOVAH was I not known to them. And I have also established my covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, where in they were strangers. (Ex. 6: 2-4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah: not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the day that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt; which my covenant they brake, although I was an husband unto them, saith the Lord: but this shall be the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel; After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my law in their inward parts, and write it in their hearts; and will be their God, and they shall be my people.

And they shall teach no more every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord. (Jer. 31: 31-34.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The eccentric man walked into the restaurant and sat down at a table.

"What will you have sir?" asked the waiter.

The customer shook his head.

"Not a thing," he replied. "I'm not hungry."

The waiter stared.

"Then what is the idea," he grumbled, "of coming in here?"

The customer shrugged his shoulders nonchalantly.

"It's very simple," he explained. "This is my lunch hour."

Monarchs Clip Hamilton In 5-3 Triumph

By The Canadian Press

Front runners have never been far ahead of the pack in the three months of hockey played so far this season in the Ontario Hockey Association's major series and junior A division. The juniors still have a far-from-settled battle but Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs lately have developed a hankering to run away on the three other major series teams.

Saturday they downed Hamilton Tigers 5-3 to give them a commanding 11-point lead over their nearest opposition, Toronto Marlboros. With only about one month of scheduled play left it is going to take some tall doing to knock St. Mike's out of the No. 1 slot.

The Irish got a lot of help from goalie Phil Hughes in their weekend victory over the determined Tigers. After the game Hamilton coach George Redding said: "Hughes is carrying that team. We were in on the goal all the time but we couldn't get the puck past him."

At the other end of the rink veteran Art Childs in the Tigers' net was slow on a couple of St. Michael's markers.

Paces Attack

Jack Arundel paced the Irish attack, getting a goal and an assist. Dusty Blair, Harry Psutka, Sam Kennedy and Frank Sullivan got St. Mike's other goals. Ab Conick counted twice for Hamilton while veteran Clarence Shillington fashioned a picture goal for the other counter.

Windsor Spitfires held their two-point lead in the OHA's junior circuit by defeating the last-place Waterloo Hurricanes 7-4. For the first two periods play was even-Stephen and then the tail-enders gave way.

Earl Johnson spearheaded Spits with three goals while Eldor Thomas, John Offidani, Erwin Grosse and Eddie Joee got a goal apiece. Murray Dunnette, Buddy Evans, Doug Warner and Warren Godfrey were Waterloo's marksmen.

Barrie Flyers took over sole possession of second place by defeating Oshawa Generals 7-4 while the Toronto Marlboros slipped into third when Stratford Kroehlers rammed in two goals in the last 2½ minutes for a 4-4 tie.

Flyers took the lead when centre Jack White scored off opening face-off and were never headed. White and Jerry Toppazzini scored two goals apiece and Chuck Wood, Real Chevrefils and Leo Labine completed their total. Rio Caron, Don McBeth, Harve Dejordy and Lou Jankowski were Oshawa's marksmen.

In the Toronto game, first of a Sunday doubleheader, Stratford got their tying goal when Ray Ross scored after goalie Al Bennet was pulled with a minute remaining in favor of a sixth forward.

Gord Myles scored two first-period goals for Stratford and Roy Leckie got Kroehlers' other goal. Marksmen for the Dukes were Wally Maxwell, Ron Hurst, Eric Nesterenko and Danny Poland.

In the second game the ninth-place Toronto St. Michaels held St. Catharines to a 2-2 draw until late in the third when the Teepees exploded for three goals. Marksmen for Teepees, whose win moved them ahead of Oshawa Generals into fifth place, were captain Wayne Brown, with two, Gord Lomar, Jim Robertson and Bob Taylor. Wilie Marshall and Bill Dineen scored St. Mikes' goals.

At Galt, Guelph Biltmores won their sixth game in seven starts by defeating Black Hawks 5-1 for Galt's sixth loss in seven games. Harry Howell led the fourth-place Biltmores with two goals while Ron Murphy, Herb Dickenson and Gerry Theberge tallied a goal apiece. Bob Carruthers got Galt's only goal.

Bowling Below Par

Cavanagh's made a clean sweep in the men's City Bowling League last week with the circuit in general making a poor showing. They rolled a slim 3335 total pinnage with high single of 1184 while whitewashing Ted Moore's men. Fashion-Craft blanked Esquires, too. Cavanagh's once more lead the league by a narrow margin. Four-two wins were rung up by McGillis, Swartz, Bond's, Shockey's, over Sunocos, Clapper's, Campbell & Best, and Dunn's respectively.

George Walton led his mates with a 341 single and a threesome of 788. Bill Miller of Moore's smashed out a 311 single, but as a rule the bowling was below par for this circuit.

Caps Wallop Fliers 8-1; Barons Victors

By The Associated Press.

Best comeback story in the American Hockey League this season is that of Ott Heller's Indianapolis Capitals.

The Caps, mired in the loop's western division during the first two months of the season, today held their highest standing so far—second place, one point ahead of Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Indianapolis capped its brilliant comeback Sunday night with an 8-1 pasting of St. Louis, the team which had ended the Caps' seven-game winning streak on Saturday. Johnny Wilson and Freddy Glover scored twice for the winners, who now have 50 points.

But Indianapolis still is a long way behind Cleveland, the western section pacesetter. The Barons tripped the slumping Cincinnati Mohawks, 5-2, to run their point total to 70. Young Walt Hergeshemer found the range twice for Cleveland.

S. Dummer Victors

COTTESLOE, Jan. 29 (ENS)—South Dummer won 3-1 over Burn's Bridge with W. Lobb scoring two and B. Bott one for the victors, T. Watts tallying for the other side. S. Carlo received a cut over the eye but was able to return to the game. Teams:

S. Dummer—Goal, Harnden; defence, Sedgewick, Cooper; centre, Bott; wings, Clements, Kelly; alternates, C. Lobb, Ivey, W. Lobb, Barnett, Jones, A. Lobb.

FOOTPROOF FORMULA—Wisconsin's Don Gehrmann started the indoor season by twice beating Fred Wilt, on outside, by taking the lead after one lap, holding it for three, falling in behind the G-Man to the backstretch of the last, then coming on. Sweden's Alf Holmberg, representing Tennessee, is second on the rail at this stage of the Knights of Columbus event at the Boston Garden.

The orders went out to Joey Maxim of Cleveland, the light heavyweight champion, and Ike Williams of Trenton, N. J., the lightweight title holder.

Port Hope Downs Lakefield By 6-4 Win

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 29 — Port Hope consolidated its hold on second place in the OHA Intermediate "A" standing here Saturday with a 6-4 win over Lakefield.

Norm Kelly was sparkplug of the winning attack with three goals. Bill Douglas, Len Ashby and Dave Casey each scored one. Joe Blewitt accounted for two Lakefield goals while Bill Birch and Ken Fawcett were the other marksmen.

UK Cricket Team Gets Winning Lead

ADELAIDE, Australia, Jan. 29 (Reuters) — England's touring cricket team set up a probable winning lead today in the second day of their four-day match with South Australia.

They dismissed the home team for 126 runs to gain a first-innings lead to 85. Then opening batsmen Len Hutton and Cyril Washbrook piled on the agony with an unbroken stand which reached QPI at close of play.

This left the visitors 193 runs ahead with 10 wickets in hand. South Australia will bat last.

Havelock Winners

HAVELOCK, Jan. 29 (ENS).—St. Peter's of Peterborough were defeated in the Havelock Arena on Friday in an encounter with the local juveniles by a score of 5 to 4.

Bill Laing accounted for two of the goals for Havelock, one of which he got unassisted with the assist on the other going to Reg. Pollock. The latter also got a goal with an assist from Jim Chase. The remaining two goals were scored by John Hurd unassisted and A. Patterson with assist from J. Ruttan.

Parsons was the top scorer for St. Petes' with two goals, one unassisted and one with the assist going to McDougall, who also scored a goal unassisted and got an assist on Foley's goal.

A Tied Game

The second game of the night was a spectacular battle between Campbellford All-Stars and the Trent River-Havelock Combines, which ended in a 6-6 tie. The goals were scored by: Campbellford All-Stars: Bennett, Erskine, Herd (3 goals), and one other player. Combines: L. Hamilton from Laton, R. Hamilton, J. Stewart (2 goals), Revoy and another player. H. Hunter was referee.

Hastings Wins Easily

HASTINGS, Jan. 29—(ENS)—Hastings stayed in the running for first place in the EPL Friday night, handing Keene a decisive 12-0 defeat at the Hastings arena.

Musgrave, in the nets for Keene, should have sued his mates for nonsupport, as Hastings ganged in on him continually.

Keene came up with a few threats, but McKenty refused to yield the goose-egg.

Hastings' front line of Crowley, Oliver and Greenley showed the most savvy, and Petticrew and Brown stood out on defence, while West stopped several break-aways with beautiful back-checking. Kempt and Heafield stood out for Keene.

Crowley got three goals, Oliver, Stevens and O'Rourke two each, Laver, Thomas and Stevens getting singles. Greenley had four assists. Crowley two, with one each going to Laver, Oliver, Brown and Stevens.

Hastings—Goal, McKenty; defence, Petticrew, Brown; centre, Crowley; wings, Oliver, Greenley; alternates, Lockhart, West, Stevens, Laver, Thomas, Cobbledick, O'Rourke.

Keene—Goal, E. Musgrave; defence, B. Heafield, Thomson; centre, Davidson; wings, L. Sallahy, G. Sallahy; alternates, Whalen, Kempt, Burns, Houle, B. Brown, D. Musgrave.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

It'll be Belleville Rockets and the local IOOF-ers at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena, an OHA junior "B" fixture. This, too, ought to attract a big crowd as the fans are finding some exciting puck play in every junior joust lately. The clubs are fighting it out for first place down the stretch, every game having a decided bearing on the standing. You may not realize it but the Links have only a few more home games in the schedule ere group playoffs commence. So, don't pass up these streamlined ice scraps as served up piping hot by the fast-stepping junior hockeyists.

* * * * * *

The Petes came through with a nifty senior "B" win in Bella Villa on Friday last, zooming up from behind to flabbergast the Redmen in the final frame. Those are nice ones to win. But the injury-riddled Eagles dropped a heartbreaker to Queen's in Kingston the same evening. Minus such stars as Bert Hill, Johnny Godfrey and Bob Parnall, the Eagles still felt they should have won—but claim they got a rough deal from the referee throughout. Not the first time that has happened to 'em, either, in the Harty Arena this semester. Too bad we can't get more competent arbiters around this senior "B" circuit. Games are tight enough without bad breaks from the refs.

* * * * * *

Eagles Won't Protest

There was talk of a protest, but Coach Mick Magee doesn't believe in protests. He'd sooner have the games settled on the ice rather than in committee rooms. But the Eagles are sizzling at the hard-hitting attack of the Queen's, who seemed to forget that they'd be coming back here to play the Eagles this Wednesday. Taking a page from the Nylons' book, Queen's played it plenty rough at the start, the idea being to soften up the opposition and then go on and ram home some goals. This leads to high-sticking and other nasty stuff. The Eagles have plenty of moxie as well as puck savvy, and they'll meet any team halfway if that squad wants a rough game.

* * * * * *

However, the luckless Eagles are having their darkest time of the long schedule right now, and will have to really hustle the rest of the way. Parnall, of course, is out for the season, and now it looks like Johnny Godfrey—a truly outstanding defenceman—will be out, too. Probably finished with hockey for life. The docs fear his eye injury is serious enough to halt his hockey activity from now on. That's certainly bad news as the veteran is still a real star on the defence, as well as an inspiration to his teammates. And a fine chap, personally. Also, Bert Hill may be out a week yet with his leg injury, and Bill Crowley is shelved for a time with a blood clot on the hip. If this injury list isn't mighty tough luck for a team fighting it out in the stretch, we don't know what is.

Arrange The Playoffs

The senior "B" clubs met in Belleville yesterday and arranged the playoff setup. Top two teams at schedule's end will stage a series (four in seven, if they've the time) to see which one steps up to senior "A" and goes into Allan Cup playdowns. The loser of this series then meets the winner of the group semi-final betwixt the third and fourth clubs in group finals to see which one goes into the senior "B" playdowns. Got it? Right now, it sort of looks like the Petes and Eagles might meet in that series for Allan Cup playdowns. But a winner must be ready by March 9. Mick Magee represented Eagles at the meeting, while Ed Foley and Curly Alberico were there for the Petes. Frank Buckland went as an OHA advisor to Convener Lorne Cook of Kingston, and Walt Smillie took it in as arena manager here. The setup sounds okay to us.

* * * * * *

Four basketball games were staged locally o'er the week-end by the male cagers. At the Collegiate, Toronto Eaton's downed Bev Goulding's senior "A" PCI-ers 58-40, while Jack Cullis' PCVS senior "B" pack took St. Peter's 41-27. At the "Y", Gord McIntyre's intermediate "B" Marines continued their winning streak by defeating Cobourg Legion 59-44. Joe Stewart's intermediate "A" Bruins surprised the strong senior East York Grads by slipping them the sour side of a 64-44 count. That was nice work and this squad may go places again by spring. Bill Timm of Marines got an elbow between the eyes and went to the hospital for an X-ray where it was found he had a slightly fractured skull.

The Western Football Conference favors a two-game Canadian final.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union at its annual meeting at Calgary during the weekend went on record as in favor of a two-game total-point battle between the eastern and western champions for the Grey Cup. The first game would be in Montreal Nov. 24 and the second in Toronto Dec. 4—earlier if possible.

If such a plan is accepted by the executive, the league will govern the price range of seats in each park.

It was stressed that the WIFU recommended this procedure only in 1951, however, as an experiment. It suggested that prices of the Grey Cup final will be doubled: a minimum of $4 and a maximum of $6, excluding taxes.

Don Gehrmann continued his mastery over Fred Wilt by winning the Wanamaker mile in 4:07.5 and Bob Richards, the flying parson, became the second pole vaulter in history to clear 15 feet when he soared 15 feet one inch in the Millrose games Saturday night.

Gehrmann opened up in the last lap to pass Fred Wilt and win by seven yards in the best time he has ever posted. Wilt crossed in 4:08.5, also his best performance. Invgar Bergtsson, the swiftie from Sweden, placed third and Len Truex of Ohio State fourth.

Cornelius Warmedam, now retired, holds the world mark of 15 feet 8½ inches in the pole vault set in 1943.

Hjalmar Henriksen, Norway's skating ace, was proclaimed European speed-skating champion Sunday night after a dramatic accident on the ice which for a time made it appear that he had been eliminated from the competition.

Henriksen, going well in the eighth lap of the 10,000-metre race fell, and his left skate was bent because, he said, he had been blinded by the flash of photographer's light.

Officials gave him a rest and he was allowed to skate against time. He won. He was winner of four classic events.

Nino Bibbia, Italian Olympic one-man bobsled racing champion, won the Baron Oertzen Cup race on the Cresta run Sunday, defeating a field of 13 racers from six countries.

Ken Bartholomew of Minneapolis successfully defended his United States senior men's outdoor speed-skating championship Sunday against the serious threat of Ken Henry of Chicago, thereby winning his sixth title.

Bartholomew, who will be 31 next month, finished the two-day events in the 52nd annual meet with 80 points, despite the fact he failed to place first in any of the seven races that make up the championship. Henry finished with 70 points.

Zeke Sinicola became Niagara University's first 1,000-point basketball scorer Saturday night as Niagara drubbed the University of Western Ontario 90-55.

In running his career total to 1,017, Sinicola also set a Niagara individual game mark of 33 points.

Eastern Ontario Loop In Allan Cup Play

BELLEVILLE, Jan. 29 (CP) — Teams in the Eastern Ontario Senior Hockey League decided Saturday to enter Allan Cup competition. At a special meeting convened by Frank Buckland of Peterborough, Ontario Hockey Association representative, team delegates decided the first two teams in the standing at the end of the season's schedule will play a best-of-five game series for the right to advance into Allan Cup play.

The series has to be completed by March 9.

PROBABLY THROUGH — Latest word is that Johnny Godfrey, star veteran defenceman of the senior "B" Eagles here, is likely through for the season and maybe for all time as a hockey player. He requires an eye operation following a recent injury received in a Petes-Eagles game.

PCVS Hoopsters Break Even In Two Tussles

Eaton's Junior Executives handed Coach Bev Goulding's Senior A basketball team a 58-40 exhibition setback Saturday night at PCVS. In the preliminary game, Jack Cullis' Senior B Garnet and Greys polished off St. Peter's High Seniors 41-27 in a Lakeshore League fixture.

Eaton's Execs are composed of cagers from all the Toronto and district High Schools for their scholastic and athletic abilities, and for character. Although their scholastic ability was not indicated in the game, their athletic ability was shown as they passed, shot and checked well. Several of the star Toronto players topped the PCVS tallest player by five inches.

PCVS took an early lead of seven points which vanished when Monnot of the Execs was fed continually under the basket. The Eaton's cagers took the lead 16-9 at the quarter on his five field baskets from underneath, Northcott, McIlraith, Evans, and Frise scoring for PCVS.

The second quarter featured the work of PCVS' Neil Thompson. He led the Garnet and Grey on the defensive and offensive by stealing passes while in zone defence and dribbling up the floor for quick breaks. This was PCVS' best quarter as they outscored the Execs 11-8 on points by Thompson, Northcott, Ash, McIlraith and Young. Two baskets by Baida and one each by Palermo and Garbut kept the Execs up 24-20 at the half.

Went To Work

Toronto sifted easily through and around the PCVS zone defence in the third quarter to score 21 points to PCVS' 12 to make the third quarter score 45-32. Monnot in this session rolled again with six points, but was forced to leave with a sprained ankle. Brown, Douglas, and Garbut each added two field baskets while Buckner sank a single two-pointer. The other point came on a foul shot by Garbut. Thompson topped PCVS with four points.

Garbut took over for Toronto in the fourth with four field baskets as the Execs outscored PCVS 13-8. Palermo added the other five points. Thompson had a field basket and a foul shot for three points, Evans a basket, Northcott two foul shots, and Frise a foul shot for PCVS. Monnot in spite of his injury had 16 points for Toronto and Garbut 15 points. Thompson led PCVS with 11, while Al Northcott had eight and Ted Evans seven.

The PCVS Senior B team ran up a 19-9 score in the first half to decide the preliminary game. Stan Facendi scored five points, Terry Brown four, and Dave Fortner three, while Frank Farlew had four and Fitzgerald three for SPS.

St. Peter's came back stronger in the second half with Harry O'Neill leading the attack with seven points. PCVS managed to outscore St. Peter's 22-18 on the strength of points by Terry Brown, Ted Sanders, Elcombe, Laird, Fortner, Facendi and Adams.

Terry Brown topped the scorers with 10 points, while teammate Stan Facendi had seven. Frank Farley led SPS with eight points and ONeill had seven.

Bruins-Marines Get Wins In Cage Games

Clapper's Bruins, last year's Ontario Intermediate A basketball finalists, proved Saturday night that they are potential finalists again and perhaps Ontario champions.

Coach Joe Stewart's Bruins easily victimized the senior East York Grads at the YMCA Saturday night 64-44. In the preliminary game, the lakeshore Intermediate B Marines built up an early lead to sweep Cobourg Legion for their fifth straight win 59-44.

In a wide-open first half, the Bruins managed to build up a seven-point lead 27-20, as all the players shared the points. Warren Smith led the attack with a display for 10, while Ab Stewart and Bill Edger each had four. Fries was all the East York Grads needed to keep them in the game by scoring 12.

Neat Passing

The Bruins went to work in the second half with a sparkling passing attack and fast breaks for which the East York cagers had little defence. Bill Edger sent in four field baskets and a foul shot for nine points, while Smith, Ab Stewart and Gord Burns each scored six and Joe Stewart five. The Bruins half score of 37 points was matched by the Grads effort of 24, Crang got 10 points on long shots.

Warren Smith's 16 points, his best showing this year, topped all the nights efforts. East York's Fries scored 15 points while teammate Crang had 12. Bill Edger, making a starry comeback this year, hooped 13 points, and Ab Stewart 10 before he left with five fouls.

Defensively Joe Stewart and Gord Burns stood out for clappers by grabbing rebounds and snaring the ball out of the Grads' hands. Stewart had seven points and Burns six on theor offensive play. Andrews checked well for the Grads.

Marines Win

Cobourg Legion provided the stiffest opposition to date for Marines in the Lakeshore League. Last week the same team surprised the Bruins with their work under the basket as they edged Bruins in the exhibition tilt.

Ted Payne, Fred Plato, and Jim Thorburn built up a 30-17 score for the Marines in the first half, while Doug MacPherson and Rocky Kidd warded off Cobourg's scoring attempts. Payne drifted in four field attempts and two foul shots for 10 points, while Plato had five and Thorburn four. Kidd besides his efforts at guard had five points. B. Jamieson held the Cobourg scoring punch with eight points on four field baskets.

Cobourg rallied in the second half with short, fast passing plays and nifty work under the basket to come within two points of the Marines on the half score 29-27. Jamieson matched his first half eight, while teammates Hircock had seven and Ball six. Payne whipped in eight points, Thorburn six, MacPherson six, and Plato five in the half.

Ted Payne kept his average intact with Saturday's effort of 18 points. He is now averaging 17 points a game in league play. Cobourg's Jamieson scored 16 points. MacPherson and Kidd starred on defensive plays for Marines, and Ball, Holman and Sprague for Cobourg.

The lineups:

The lineups: Exhibition game:

Gaels In Top Place

KINGSTON, Jan. 29 — Queen's University Gaels went into first place in the OHA Junior B group race when they edged the Kingston Vics, 3-2, in the Hart Arena on Saturday night. The game was as closely contested as the final score indicates. It was either team's verdict and even in adversity the Vics lost no lustre.

Eric And Whip In Main Bout

Those two topnotchers of the wrestling world, Whipper Billy Watson, the British Empire Champion, and Yukon Eric, the mighty Alaska lumberjack, will lock horns in the feature mat bout at the Brock Arena on Tuesday night. Both these rivals were counted out of the ring, ending in a draw, in their last meeting here before 2,000 fans. Whip figures he has solved the Alaskan's powerful methods, but Yukon believes he can offset Watson's science and speed with a new line of attack.

In the semi-final, Abe Zvonkin, the rugged ex-gridder, will oppose Earl McCready, the Regina star. Jack Wentworth, a hardy grappler, will meet talented George Scott in the opener.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Ezinicki, Lindsay Suspended Leafs Win 2, Wings Lose 2

By MEL SUFRIN,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Terrible Ted and wild William didn't get together Saturday night as scheduled but their hockey brawl turned out to be a potent stimulant for attendance figures at Boston Gardens.

Boston National Hockey League crowds have averaged well below the 10,000-mark this season. But, stirred by publicity given to Thursday's blood-and-thunder fight between Detroit's Ted Lindsay and Boston's Bill Ezinicki, fans turned out in such numbers for Saturday's return engagement that a season's crowd of 12,887 was registered.

While NHL president Clarence Campbell saw to it beforehand that neither Lindsay nor Ezinicki would be in the game, it proved to be no disappointment for Boston supporters who enjoyed watching their fourth-place Bruins defeat the league-leading Red Wings 3-0.

Three-game Suspension

Earlier in the day Campbell had suspended the pair for three games — three Boston-Detroit meetings, that is—and fined them $300 each. His action disposed of the match penalties which had been given to the two players when they tangled fiercely in the Thursday night game.

The shot in the arm for Boston attendance didn't hold for the Sunday night game when only 8,796 turned out to watch the Bruins play a 1-1 tie with the third-place Montreal Canadiens.

There was considerable weekend action on all fronts in the NHL, the six teams playing twice each.

Notable were the two victories registered by Toronto Maple Leafs and the two losses suffered by Detroit. That reduced Detroit's margin over second-place Toronto to five points.

The Leafs edged New York Rangers at home Saturday night 2-1 and then journeyed to Chicago to defeat the lack Hawks 4-3 Sunday.

Detroit, besides being shut out by Boston, dropped a Sunday night engagement to New York 5-3. That gave the fifth-place Rangers a split.

Chicago lost both weekend night encounters to Montreal 4-2. The two losses extended to 21 the number of games in which Chicago has been without a victory.

Despite all the action there were no changes in the standing. Detroit and Toronto are still bunched at the top, Montreal, Boston and New York are huddled in the middle and Chicago is at the bottom.

Gets Third Shutout

Boston's Jack Gelineau scored his third shutout of the season Saturday night when he kicked out 30 shots in turning back Detroit. He turned in a brilliant netminding performance, aided by the strong defensive work of Max and Bill Quackenbush.

Veteran Milt Schmidt scored a first-period goal for the Bruins and Lorne Ferguson and Murray Henderson added the other two in the third period.

At Montreal, 14,175 fans saw a French-Canadian kid line of Jean Beliveau, Bernie Geoffrion and Claude Robert almost steal the show. Beliveau and Geoffrion, juniors borrowed from Quebec Citadels and Montreal Nationales, each scored a goal. Norm Dussault and Elmer Lach got the other two for Canadiens.

Jim and Roy Conacher scored for the Hawks who, besides losing the game, lost centre Doug Bentley with a charley horse.

Close Checking

A crowd of 13,165 at Toronto saw the Leafs win a close-checking game from New York. Flem Mackell gave Toronto a 1-0 first-period lead which held until midway through the third when Sid Smith made it 2-0. Ed Kullman got New York's only goal at 14:31.

In New York Sunday night defenceman Allan Stanley scored twice as Rangers beat the Red Wings 5-3. A big crowd of 13,205 saw the Rangers take a 3-2 second period lead after a scoreless opener, and outscore the Red Wings 2-1 in the final frame.

Besides Stanley's two goals, Don Raleigh, Ed Slowinski and Reggie Sinclair beat Detroit's Terry Sawchuk. Vic Stasiuk, Metro Prystai and the league-leading scorer, Gordie Howe, tallied for Detroit.

Chicago's Sunday night loss was the eighth in the last 18 by a single-goal margin. The first period was scoreless but Leafs took the lead in the second on Danny Lewicki's first goal. Don Morrison tied it up and Teeder Kennedy gave the Leafs a 2-1 lead.

Defenceman Doug McCaig tied it up again in the final period, but then goals by Tod Sloan and Lewicki made it 4-2. Bill Mosienko got his first goal in 24 games for the final Chicago marker.

At Boston Sunday the fans booed loudly as referee Bill Chadwick nullified two Bruins tallies. Woody Dumart's goal 49 seconds after the game started was the only legal one. Doug Harvey tied it up for Montreal at 12.09 of the second period and it remained that way the rest of the game.

Hear Trautman To Get Post

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (AP). — A big league anti-Chandler faction, determined to carry on its tooth-and-nail fight to oust the commissioner, is reported to have come up with a strong candidate in George Trautman, head of the minor leagues.

Convinced that only a person, thoroughly versed in every phase of the sport, can fill baseball's top executive post satisfactorily, this group quietly but actively has been carrying on a campaign to elect Trautman commissioner. However, Chandler still is in the drivers' seat and may remain there since he appears to have gained some strength in the past six weeks.

According to one club owner, Trautman already has six sure votes with several more likely to be added before the four-man screening committee is prepared to submit names of candidates for consideration.

The 16 major-league owners, in a surprise move in St. Petersburg, Fla., last December, voted not to extend the $65,000 contract to A. B. Chandler as commissioner of baseball. Chandler could only muster nine votes, three short of the necessary three-fourths vote. The former Kentucky Senator, However, pledged a fight for retention of his job.

Professors Get Increase At University

TORONTO, Jan. 29 — (CP).— President Sidney Smith of the University of Toronto announced Sunday night a new salary scale for 1,100 members of the university's staff. The increases, effective July 1, will add $500,000 to the university's annual payroll.

The new scales with the present scales in brackets:

Professor $6,200 and up ($5,500 and up); associate professor, $5,300 to $6,200 ($4,500 to $5,500); assistant professor, $4,300 to $5,300 ($3,500 to $4,500); lecturer $2,800 to $4,300 ($2,000 to $3,500).

"The complicated task of working out an equitable system of adjusting salaries for teachers and investigators of various grades in University College and the faculties, schools and institutes, and for librarians, administrative personnel, secretaries, clerks, technicians, and many other groups was started by the Board of Governors early in September of 1950," Dr. Smith said.

Dr. Smith said the cost-of-living bonus of $144 a year, established in 1949, has been absorbed in the new scales. Members of the non-teaching, non-unionized staff would have increases of 8 per cent of their present salaries after adding the cost-of-living bonus.

"The new academic salary scales in the University of Toronto are larger than those that prevail in any other Canadian university, and it is expected that they will enable the university to retain on its staff first-class teachers and researchers....notwithstanding offers from industry and American universities," said Dr. Smith.

British Ballet Earns $450,000

QUEBEC, Jan. 29 — (CP). — The Sadler's Wells Ballet Sunday night concluded its North American tour of 153 performances and took back to the British exchequer "an amount in excess of $450,000 in United States dollars."

A spokesman for Sol Hurok, manager of the tour which began September 9 at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, called it "the greatest theatrical tour that has ever been produced."

It was the longest ballet tour in length of time and biggest in money involved, he said.

Hurok announced that the Sadler's Wells Theatre Ballet, a sister company of the Sadler's Wells Ballet, will start a 28-week tour in Quebec October 3. The tour will conclude at the Metropolitan Opera House.

The spokesman said an estimated 765,000 people in the United States and Canada paid about $2,500,000 to see the world-famed ballet group from the Royal Opera House, Covent Garden, London, England.

The troupe's approximate 21-week tour—its second and longest—was sponsored by the British Government and the Arts Council, a government body.

Circulation Manager V. Braceland Dies

MONTREAL, Jan. 29 (CP) — Vincent Braceland, 66, retired circulation manager of the Canadian National Magazine, died Saturday after a brief illness.

Born at Fallowfield, Ont., he gained prominence in sports at Ottawa College, where he played defence on the hockey team and with the Emmet hockey club from 1903 to 1911.

As controller of advertising with the government printing bureau at Ottawa, he handled the advertising campaigns for the first, second and third loans in the First World War. In 1917, he left government service to enter the advertising department of The Halifax Herald and Mail and, the following year, he returned to Ottawa to become superintendent of registration for Eastern Ontario.

Must Avoid Control

TORONTO, Jan. 29 (CP). — Francis G. Winspear of Edmonton, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said Sunday night over-all economic control by government must be avoided in Canada. Emphasis should be placed on decentralization both in investment and in administering the nation's resources. Speaking over a CBC network, he advocated business be left "to you and to me and to all the rest of us Canadians" with the government concentrating on running the country.

Cousins Fight

TORONTO, Jan. 29 (CP). — Police arrived in time Sunday to stop two elderly Chinese, cousins, 72 and 69, from beating each other. Their heads were bloody from the claw-hammer and pop-bottle battle. But after police took them to hospital for treatment the two elderly gladiators shook hands and refused to lay charges against each other.

Lose $15,000,000

LONDON, Jan. 29 (AP). —The government-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation lost more than £5,000,000 ($15,000,000) during 1950, Sir Miles Thomas, BOAC, chairman, said Sunday night. Sir Miles said the loss was £3,000,000 under the 1949 deficit.

Bus Knocks Car Through Two Store Windows

A bus smashed a car through two windows of the T. Eaton Co. about 7.15 a.m. today at Charlotte and George Streets, wrecking the car and causing some injury to two men.

Driver of the car, Claire Hill, Lakefield, his passenger, a police officer and a witness said the driver of the Fletcher bus went through a red light at the intersection.

The bus was driven by John Norton of Keene.

Hill was driving west on Charlotte St. He said he was three-quarters of the way across George Street when he was struck on the right door by the bus travelling south on George St.

Driving with Hill was Colin Campbell, Lakefield. John Conkin, 390 Parkhill Rd. (not the police officer) said the bus went through the red light. Constable Grant Gillespie, standing at Simcoe St. said the light changed to red before the bus entered Charlotte St.

Lost Control

When the bus hit the car, the driver lost control and the car was pushed sideways. It hit the curb and the front of the car hit one of the windows. The rear of the car was then struck again by the bus and was driven through both windows. One was five feet by nine feet and the other nine by nine feet square.

The car was nearly a complete wreck. Some damage was done to the front of the bus.

Hill and Campbell were taken to Civic Hospital to be patched up. Hill had a cut right hand and left knee and a bruised forehead. Campbell had a cut on his forehead; his left knee was bruised and his right ankle injured.

Traffic Officer Clare McGillen investigated.

Two City Skiers Qualify At Gov't School

Mrs. Mollie Craig and Miss Patricia Moyles, both members of the Peterborough Ski Club, are now official amateur ski instructors. Last week they attended the Canadian Travelling Ski School at the Beaver Valley Ski Club, Flesherton, and after a stiff series of tests became instructors through the school. Miss Mary Dodds and Thomas Ashby also attended the same school from the Peterborough club.

The school is sponsored by the Departments of Education and Travel and Publicity to improve skiing across Canada and to adopt a set of Canadian techniques.

Thirty-five skiers from Sudbury, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Huntsville, Collingwood and Peterborough attended. During the first part of the school the instructors taught skiing techniques to the students and how to teach the techniques to others. Each student received marks for skiing and ski instruction during the second half of the program.

Mrs. Craig reported that the school began in rain and fog but gradually improved, some snow falling each day.

Australia Helping Stability In Asia By Funds, Migration

Australia is a modern, thriving democracy eager to cooperate with the British Commonwealth and the United Nations to bring security and peace to the Far East and the whole world as one of the middle powers, the Right Honorable F. M. Forde, Australian High Commissioner told a meeting sponsored by the Peterborough Council of the Knights of Columbus Sunday.

Mr. Forde, a former deputy prime minister of Australia, was speaking in the second in a series of cultural nights sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

He said that as a nation vitally interested in south east Asia, Australia adopted a program recently outlined at the Colombo conference by Australia's Minister for External Affairs, P. C. Spender. Australia's aim was to help to promote both economic and political stability in south and south east Asia and to help attack poverty, social unrest and extremist ideologies.

"It was clear," he said, "that even with the combined resources of the area and the maximum possible financial assistance from the countries of the Commonwealth alone, the objectives could be achieved to only a limited extent."

He said help would be needed from other progressive and democratic countries.

25 Million Pound Grant

Australia has agreed to make available £25,000,000 sterling as a contribution to the six-year Colombo plan starting in June. His country was going to help with the things Asiatic countries needed: capital goods in the form of heavy industrial machinery, scientists and seeds for more foods.

Mr. Forde, who was an Australian delegate at the San Francisco conference which started the United Nations, said he believed still in the United Nations in spite of Russia's strangling use of the veto. But he said the machinery of the United Nations would have to be improved. He said the U.N. was one of the great hopes of the world.

But the real hope, he said, was a revival of religion in which people would return to the teachings of Christianity.

This year Australia was celebrating its 50th anniversary as a nation. In 1901, six colonies in Australia joined together to form a united federation.

Australia was a country of 8,000,000 people, 95 per cent of whom were descendants from men and women of the British Isles. That picture was being slightly altered by a new program of immigration in which the country was going to take in men and women from Europe in 1951. Already Australia has taken in many thousand displaced persons.

125,000 Jobs

Australia needs an increased population to develop the country. At present there are 125,000 jobs waiting to be filled.

The country's most important industry was wool. But the nation was growing more and more wheat. This year's crop will be about 220,000 million bushels.

Spurred by World War II, heavy industry developed rapidly in the country and is playing an ever larger part in the nation's economy. One million people are now engaged in these secondary industries.

Australia plans to begin decentralizing its peoples and its industries so that it will have more small cities like Peterborough in which there is a wide variety of important industry.

The Knights of Columbus, said Mr. Forde, "has always been noted for its foresight, wisdom and appreciation of the dangers of Communism." The Knights of Columbus' record during both world wars was an enviable one.

"In the World War I period Catholic army huts operated from 1916 both in Canada and overseas and assisted returned veterans and their families. In World War II no time was lost, because the war work started by the Knights of Columbus in October, 1939, eventually spread to five continents.

Mr. Forde was introduced by J. E. Sullivan and thanked by Bill Roche.

Child, 5, Struck Crossing Street

Tommy Worr, almost five, was struck down by a car and suffered a broken right collar bone while he was crossing the street near his home Saturday evening.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where he was reported today to be getting along satisfactorily.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Worr, 482 Cambridge St., the youngster had gone across to a corner store and was on his way back when hit by a car driven by Paul Clarke, 460 Hamilton St.

The youngster said he started across the street and saw a car coming and ran back to the sidewalk. He turned and started to run across again when another car following the first hit him.

Out From Curb

Clarke said he was driving east on Elm St. As he was approaching Elm St., he saw the small boy run out from the south curb.

He jammed on his brakes and swung his car to the left but the front bumper hit the child and knocked him down. He disappeared under the car.

Clarke jumped out of his car and pulled the boy out from under the car at the rear of the front right wheel and took him to his home. The parents, who had been out bowling, were called immediately by a sitter and came home.

Constable Donald Mackay took the boy and his father to Dr. J. M. O'Brien and then to hospital. Besides the fractured collar bone, the youngster had a gash behind his right arm and the righ side of his face was scraped.

Traffic Officer Clare McGillen investigated.

Gets 4 Months For Theft Of Suitcase

Two men were found guilty in police court today of stealing a suitcase containing $800 in registered bonds and some clothing. One, Harvey Windover, Trenton, was sentenced to four months definite and two months indefinite in reformatory. The other, Ernest Fenton, Bethune St., was placed on suspended sentence.

Fenton pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing the suitcase from Frank Sloan, a lumber camp cook on his way from Eagle Lake to his home in North Bay Jan. 10.

The bonds have not been recovered.

Fenton testified he was approached by Sloan one afternoon in a beer parlor and asked to join him and Windover at a table. He had met Windover the day before, but did not know Sloan.

Beer, Then Cognac

The three men drank four or five pints of beer and then moved to another beverage room and had four or five more. While there Fenton told them he had a bottle of cognac in his suitcase at the bus terminal that they could have.

They took a taxi to the terminal. Rather than open the bog in public and take out the liquor, the two accused took the bag to a rooming house on King St. where Windover had a room. Fenton said he would bring it back.

In the room they drank a good part of the cognac and then split the contents. Fenton said he saw nothing of the $800 in registered bonds. He took the suitcase, some underwear and a pair of shoes.

He sold the shoes to a garage man and the suitcase to a man in a Charlotte St. coffee shop

"I don't see why he should give the suitcase to me, a perfect stranger. It looked to me as if he was trying to get rid of the cognac," said Fenton.

Suitcase Recovered

Detective - Sergeant Clarke said he recovered the suitcase and shoes where Fenton sold them. He checked a hotel where Windover was staying and there was given a bag said to be Windover's. In it were the bottle of cognac, some socks, a shirt and a few other articles.

Windover said Fenton and Sloan left him at the first hotel that afternoon while they went to another. They came back and started out for the bus terminal, when Fenton asked him to come along.

At the bus terminal, he stayed outside while Fenton and Sloan went in. They went across to the rooming house with the suitcase. They drank some of the cognac and then Fenton split up the contents and Fenton put some in a box. He gave the box including the cognac to Windover and said he would pick the cognac up the next day.

He said he went back to the bush and didn't know anything more about it.

Windover had a police record of several convictions on false pretences charges and fraud in 1937, 1938 and 1939. Fenton has no police record.

Ice Cream, Chocolate Bars Up In Price

Rising costs of production and materials sent the prices of chocolate bars and ice cream soaring higher today in the Peterborough area.

Chocolate bars which previously sold for six cents now cost seven cents on nearly all the varieties, especially the large companies. A local wholesaler said that a few of the smaller bar companies have yet to increase the price. The 10-cent and 12-cent bars are not affected as yet by the increase. Gum and lifesavers were not included in today's rise.

The wholesaler reported that the increase was due to "the same old reason "—extra cost of freight labor and materials.

"If the present trend of rising costs continues as since August," said a local ice cream retailer, "today's increases will be only the beginning."

Several large companies increased the price of brick ice cream from 35 cents to 38 cents today. One local company's price on bricks remained the same until other companies reached a steady price.

All the companies raised the price of bulk ice cream to the retailers, the increase varying from nine to 12 cents a gallon depending upon the company. This means that the five-cent ice cream cone for Junior will now be six cents or 10 cents for the extra-large scoop.

Other ice cream products such as chocolate ice cream bars rose with today's increases. Some of these have been selling for seven cents and will now be 10 cents. Ready-made cones and other five-cent ice cream varieties will be six cents.

A local ice cream company reported that since the last increase in August to the retailers the manufacture of ice cream and the price of butter fat has gradually increased. The price of milk has increased since then 17 per cent and cream approximately the same amount.

Rumors are still circulating about an increase in the price of cigarettes. One store keeper said he expected a rise in the small 36-cent packages to 38 cents or 40 cents. The larger 45-cent package, he believed would rise to 50 cents.

A local tobacco wholesaler said that he has expected an increase in cigarette prices for the past two weeks but added that he didn't expect the rise to be as high as the store owner believed.

"I don't expect a change now until the next budget is brought down in parliament," he said.

Two weeks ago the price of bulk tobacco and cigars rose slightly.

Local Legion Units Urge Ottawa Speed Defence

Both Peterborough branches of the Canadian Legion on Sunday afternoon adopted a resolution from their dominion command that calls on the federal government to take immediate action on a three-point program of military preparedness.

The resolution was adopted at an open meeting in the Canadian Legion hall. Support to the preparednes program was pledged by Branch 52, Branch 452 (Women's), and the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Albert Hulse of Aurora, vice-president of the provincial command, was guest speaker.

Program Advised

"If we are to be prepared in any way to meet the immediate threat of aggression the government must take immediate action to implement a program which will provide for:

1—National registration.

"Nothing can be done to organize efficiently the resources and manpower of this country until a complete national registration has been carried out and proper assesment made of the information gained. It is therefore absolutely imperative that this be done immediately."

2—Mobilization of industrial resources for defence production.

At present supplies are inadequate for even the normal voluntary enlistment in the active and reserve forces, said Mr. Hulse. If this situation continues it could mean that "our hastily mobilized forces will not only be poorly trained but will be tragically lacking in equipment when faced with an enemy, possibly airborne, and certainly thoroughly prepared for war."

Compulsory Training

3—Compulsory training in the reserve forces.

"We are told that Canada's population cannot support a full-fledged program," said Mr. Hulse. "This may be true, but does not remove the need for Canadian citizens being given sufficient training to ensure that they will at least have a fair chance of survival in any major crisis.

"Training in the reserve forces provides the least dislocation to industry and our existing productive capacity.

"It also provides the framework and organization for orderly and efficient large-scale mobilization.

"A rapid expansion of armed forces in times of emergency has always suffered from an acute shortage of trained leaders and instructors. These cannot be created by an act of parliament, but must receive training and instruction themselves over a long period and have an opportunity to lead and instruct others."

Mr. Hulse said the Canadian Legion campaign was not an attempt to conscript servicemen for overseas service, but was a "preparedness program."

Present Strength

Legion figures on the strength of Canada's armed forces are as follows: active forces: navy 10,199, army 22,447 regulars and 10,268 in special brigade; air force 18,865. Total active forces 61,779. Reserve forces: navy 4,782, army 45,302, air force 3,000. Total reserve forces 53,084. Grand total for all forces 114,863.

A Legion brief points out that Britain, with three times Canada's population, has 800,000 regulars and 1,000,000 "national service men" who have received a year's compulsory training and are now in the reserves. By spring another 750,000 will be making munitions.

Using the British figures as a basis for comparison, Legion officials say Canada should have 265,000 men in the regular forces and 335,000 trained reserves. Instead Canada has 114,000.

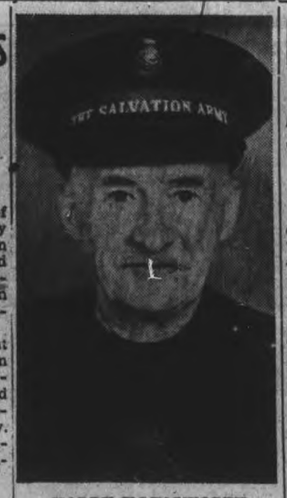
Mr. Tulse quoted these estimates of armed strength and then said "It was an astounding thing that when requested to send troops to Korea Canada took five or six months....we sent air-lift help and destroyers but it took us a long time to take our place with other UN members."

"It would seem we will never learn our lesson," he said. "Since 1946 we have known what Joe Stalin had in mind."

Benefit To Young

Military training would benefit young Canadians, said Mr. Hulse. "Young men who have never served in the forces must learn something about defending themselves."

Moreover service would teach them discipline, the benefit of comradeship, and "stamp out some of the teen-age gangs."



Mrs. Belle Merritt, vice president of Branch 452, pledged the support of the ex-servicewomen to the program of preparedness. So did Mrs. Albert Mason, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Similar resolutions have been passed in the other eight branches in this zone, Cyril Hopkins, zone commander announced. This includes Millbrook, Lakefield, Apsley, Havelock, Norwood, Hastings and Warsaw.

Clayton Bedore, president of the Marmora branch, was present to lend his moral support to the preparedness resolution.

Constable Resigns

HASTINGS, Jan. 29 (ENS)—Constable Robert Kemp of Hastings resigned his post recently, and his resignation was accepted at a special meeting of Hastings council. The village will advertise for a new constable. Application of F. S. Crate for clerk and treasurer was accepted by council and he will serve at a salary of $300. An application by C. S. Howse for the same position failed to get a majority.

HARRY ILLINGWORTH

50 Years With SA Badge Presented By Commander

A long service badge and five bars denoting 50 years of service in the Salvation Army was presented to Harry Illingworth, of 195 Rubidge St., at the Salvation Army Musicale, Sunday afternoon. The presentation was made by Commissioner Charles Baugh, territorial commander for the Salvation Army in Canada and Brmuda.

Commissioner Baugh made mention of the many years' service that Mr. Illingworth had given to the Salvation Army both in England and Canada and on behalf of the Army tendered his appreciation.

51,000 War Crys

Mr. Illingworth is well known in Peterborough through his selling of War Crys—a Salvation Army periodical. Since his 70th birthday, 14 years ago, he has sold a total of 51,000 War Crys. During the Christmas season of last year he sold 3,400 editions.

Residing in Peterborough since he came to Canada in 1920, Mr. Illingworth was employed in the wire department of the CGE until his retirement about 20 years ago.

He was born and educated in Yorkshire, England. In 1887, he married the former Annie Scarth who died 12 years ago. Previous to coming to Canada he worked as a shoemaker in Leeds, England, where he was a corps sergeant major in the Salvation Army.

Mr. Illingworth has two daughters, Mrs. Cecil L. Fowler, of Peterborough, and Mrs. J. B. Clarkson, of Leeds, England; six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

As well as Christmas editions, Mr. Illingworth sells Easter and weekly editions of the War Cry. His weekly total of sales usually amounts to 125. The remainder of his time is spent visiting the sick in the city hospitals or in their homes.

Hits Rail Fence Car Overturns

Vincent Heffernan, 26, of RR 7, Peterborough, crawled uninjured from his car Saturday afternoon after it had struck a rail fence and overturned.

The accident occurred on the Old Keene road, a half-mile west of Keene. Heffernan was driving his 1936-model sedan west when he started to make a turn. The car skidded on the icy road, ran onto the south shoulder, struck a rail fence and turned over.

Considerable damage was done to the car but Heffernan was only shaken up. He was alone at the time.

Provincial Constable Russell Pollard investigated.

Skid On Highway

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wannamaker of Campbellford also escaped injury early Sunday when their westbound car upset on Highway 7, three and a half miles east of Havelock.

The Wannamakers told police they were driving west along the highway when an eastbound truck forced them well over onto the left shoulder. The car wheels skidded in the wet snow and the 1938-model sedan upset on its right side.

Provincial Constable Russell Pollard and T. H. Armstrong investigated.

Drowned In Mud Lake Charles Martin Buried

Funeral service for the late Charles G. Martin, 58, of 203 Crescent St., who drowned on Tuesday when his car went through thin ice at the Curve Lake Indian Reserve narrows, was held on Saturday at the Kaye funeral home. The body and car were recovered on Thursday under direction of the Provincial Police.

The Rev. W. J. Gilling of St. Luke's Anglican Church officiated and the pall-bearers, all members of the Canadian Legion, were Edward Grose, Russell Findley, Robert Graham, Ivan Pakenham, Arthur Druse and George McNabb. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Defence Expert Addresses Two City Groups

One of Canada's top defence experts is in Peterborough today to give two addresses on science and warfare. He is Dr. O. M. Solandt, OBE, chairman of the Defence Research Board.

At noon today he addressed the Rotary Club and tonight at 8:30 o'clock he will speak to the United Services Institute in the officer's mess of the Peterborough Armouries. His subject will be "The Effect of Science On the Future of War."

His arrival in town was a spectacular one. Dr. Solandt has such a tight schedule to keep that he could not spare the time to commute between here and Ottawa by bus or train. Instead he flew to Trenton and then came the rest of the way to Peterborough by helicopter.

Chief of Staff

Besides being chairman of the Defence Research Board, Dr. Solandt is a scientific member of the chiefs of staff committee and defence council. He is also a member of the Industrial Defence Board, and an honorary director of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association.

Sometime today he will make a tour of the CGE plant, possibly to see how it can be converted to defence production.

When he speaks tonight to United Services Institute (made up of ex-commissioned officers from the three services) he is expected to touch on atomic warfare. Dr. Solandt was a member of the military mission sent to Japan by the War Office to evaluate the effects of the atomic bomb.

Col. John A. Dewart, chairman of Peterborough's civil defence committee, is also president of the institute.

Central Ontario Fall Fairs 3,300 Exhibits

Eighteen fall fairs in the central Ontario area brought out 3,300 exhibitors, spent $29,319 for prizes and agricultural projects, and $7,000 on horse races.

That summary was quoted by F. A. Lashley, assistant to J. A. Carroll, Ontario Fairs Superintendent, at the annual meeting of the Central Fairs Association at Belleville, Friday.

In 1950 there were 249 fairs in the province. Years ago the total was near 400.

"On the whole the agricultural societies are doing a splendid job," Mr. Lashley said. "The department is proud of its societies."

G. McCubbin of Warkworth was elected second vice-president, and Clarence Varcoe of Roseneath secretary-treasurer.

Worton President

Announcement of the election of Dr. Harold Worton of Peterborough as president of the Ontario Veterinary Association was published from Guelph during the weekend. He was first vice-president of the association last year.

First vice-president for 1951 is Dr. Orlan Hall, Assistant Veterinary General, Ottawa; and second vice-president is T. Lloyd Jones, acting principal of the Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph.

Dr. Worton is on the staff of Peterborough's department of health.

Mr. Cummer has been a bank manager here for 31 years, and in recognition of his valuable citizenship in many directions outside the business of the bank, he is being honored Wednesday night at a complimentary dinner at which he will be guest at the Empress Hotel beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Review Of Recent Night Exercise Shows Pats' Effective Training

By WILLIAM BOSS

MIRYANG, Korea, Jan. 29 (CP).—The cockiest company in Canada's Korean forces is that under Maj. Vince Lilley, of Hamilton and Edmonton.

They drew high praise in a recent training critique, capping a good series of exercises.

Critiques in training correspond to the combing-over that happens after every battle. Officers, NCO's and men get together to review the manoeuvre for lessons to be drawn, good points to be improved and poor ones to be eliminated.

Included in Maj. Lilley's training program was a bit of the real thing—a successful antiguerrilla operation in which four Korean Communists were killed and at least five wounded. The company also had an impressive night exercise.

It was the night exercise which occupied most of the critique, attended by Lt.-Col. J. M. Stone, commander of the battalion, the Princess Patricia's 2nd.

On Their Toes

Capt. Del Harrison, of Calgary, commanded the main body of the company, holding defensive position dug into a mountainside overlooking a valley. His platoons were led by Lieuts. Murray Edwards, of Kelowna, B.C., and Don MacLeod, of Vancouver.

The "enemy" under Capt. Andy Foulds, of Vancouver, included a platoon under Lieut. Harold Ross, of St. Catharines, together with machine-gun, mortar and flame-thrower troops.

Col. Stone was enthusiastic about the exercise.

Never have I been so effectively challenged, either during the war or in exercises since, as when I was nearing company headquarters Friday night," he said.

"I never saw the sentry who challenged me and when I did not know the exercise password he made me put up my hands and approach until he was satisfied that he knew me."

The efficient sentry was Pte. Keith Staples, Guelph, of the company's mortar section.

Ross, leading an "enemy" reconnaissance patrol of the defenders' position, approached within 10 yards of their slit trenches. With Ptes. H. V. Edgley of London, England, and Toronto, and Dr. D. R. Campbell of Edmonton he pinpointed Capt. Harrison's positions by listening for coughing, whispering and one commander's shout to his men to keep still.

Brought Out Points

Lilley, acting as chief umpire from a point of vantage on a mountain-top, said the exercise brought out these points:

1. The battalion's reconnaissance training is effective.

2. Its mortars are extremely accurate. Both supporting and "enemy" fire fell exactly where it was ordered.

3. The Patricias will be good at spotting and knocking out enemy mortar and machine-gun posts. Capt. Foulds' positions were spotted within seconds and could have been knocked out immediately.

4. The Patricias' attack drill is just right for this country. Ross was within 10 yards of Harrison's positions before he was detected.

5. Although Harrison's forward positions could have been taken out in actual combat, the position as a whole could never have been overrun.

Supplied by Air

"They could have supplied us by air till kingdom come," Lilley said.

For exercise purposes, Lieut. Edwards was designated a severe abdominal casualty and his signaller, Pte. Don Hutt of Winchester and Morrisburg, Ont., radioed a message to Capt. Harrison, who relayed it to battalion headquarters.

Headquarters took it seriously. Medical Officer Capt. E. D. Karpetz of Spiritwood, Sask., was routed out of bed and jeeped to the area with complete medical kit. Within 27 minutes after the original signal, he was examining his patient.

Maj. Lilley noted only one serious defect: his men talked too much. Even whispered conversation gave their position away and Lieut. Ross undoubtedly was able to map the defences accurately.

ROAD'S END—For this Korean refugee mother and her two children the flight from war ended on a frozen South Korean road. The mother, pausing by the wayside to nurse her child, was killed by Communist mortar fire. The children, remaining at her side, froze to death. One died in her arms, his head on her bosom.

Influenza Menace Recalls Ravages Of 1918 Epidemic

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA —(CP)— Will flu epidemics now spreading through Britain, Sweden, North Germany and Belgium eventually strike Canada where the disease caused untold suffering and close to 40,000 deaths in 1918?

That is a question Canadian medical authorities are asking while watching developments overseas. Influenza appears in different parts of the world almost every year. Each time doctors wonder if they can expect local epidemics or a pandemic—a world outbreak of the disease.

Ships from overseas carried the flu virus to Quebec during the 1918 pandemic and within a few months every province in Canada had felt the ravages of the disease. The disease continued during 1919, 1920 and 1921, but with greatly diminished force.

Today no one will claim that Canada can be isolated, but as a precaution a close check is being made on travellers from overseas.

Doctors in the federal government's quarantine service say that a traveller might pass a medical examination on arriving in Canada. A few days later, he might have the flu. The period of incubation of the flu virus is 24 to 72 hours.

Any traveller suffering from influenza on entering the country will be taken at once to hospital and placed in isolation until he has recovered and can travel again without danger of spreading the infection.

Information Centre

The Federal Health Department has established an Influenza Information Centre to keep Canadian merical authorities abreast of the developments in all parts of the world. The federal department's laboratory of hygiene has been equipped to identify quickly any specimens of virus sent to it by provincial health laboratories.

Medical authorities hope that these precautionary moves coupled with the use of new drugs developed since 1918 will help minimize any full outbreak in this country.

Although many Canadians remember what happened in 1918, a vivid description of the ravages caused by the disease is contained in the records of the late Dr. John J. Heagerty, former director of Federal Public Health Services and author of the book "Four Centuries of Medical History in Canada."

Started in Spain

The outbreak originated in Spain and quickly spread through Europe, hitting both allied and German troops. The first cases reported in Canada were found among the crew of an Indian ship examined at the quarantine station on Grosse Isle, in the St. Lawrence River below Quebec. That was July 9, 1918.

The disease appeared in Quebec. It hit Montreal in September. In October, November and December it spread along the lines of travel and struck at even the remotest sections of the country.

Conditions were such that it was impossible to obtain accurate statistics on the number of cases. Dr. Heagerty estimated that one-sixth of the Canadian population was attacked and that the death toll was 30,000.

Breakdown by Provinces

The Bureau of Statistics, on the basis of reports from the then nine provinces, has estimated the death toll at 37,665. It gives this breakdown:

Prince Edward Island, 86; Nova Scotia, 1,636; New Brunswick, 1,394; Quebec, 10,157; Ontario, 10,021; Manitoba, 3,121; Saskatchewan, 3,834; Alberta, 4,002; and British Columbia, 3,404.

No record is available of the number of deaths in outlying sections of the country, but it is known that in Labrador whole villages were eliminated.

In Montreal when the disease was at its height, there were 201 deaths in one day. Dr. Heagerty estimated that at least 100,000 persons in Montreal suffered from the disease.

Committees were organized in the city to make a house-to-house check on the number of sick and the need for assistance. At times whole families were ill in bed, unable to help themselves. In some cases the dead were in bed alongside the sick.

All types of vehicles were pressed into service to carry the dead to cemeteries. The vaults were soon filled to overflowing and the coffins had to be piled along the roads in the cemeteries.

What occurred in Montreal was repeated in Toronto and in other Canadian communities on a smaller scale.

Church Survives Despite Hell Trinity Told

The Christian Church is not just a page of history, a thing of society which will pass into recorded time. It will survive despite hell and humanity that would destroy it, for it has within itself the power to survive. That is the belief of the Reverend President of Victoria University, Toronto, Dr. A. B. B. Moore, and he gave persuasive expression to this creed in the pulpit of Trinity United Church Sunday morning. The occasion was the anniversary of Trinity.

An anniversary itself is a celebration of survival, Dr. Moore said; survival not only in the sense of holding on, but also of keeping going, with inherent vitality. The 1,900 years of the Christian church are witness of its vitality. The church survives not merely through force of tradition and habit, or large enrolments and wealth. The church survived when it had only an upper room and no money at all. "The secret of survival of the Christian church is to be found in Jesus Christ, who was not only its founder but its life and hope."

Gates Of Hell

Dr. Moore expounded Christ's words in the familiar text (Matthew 16, v. 18): ". . . My church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

The church's opposer, 'the gates of hell,' is not just physical. The greatest threat is not external, but lies within, in peoples who "cannot break the bonds of their own selfishness." There is "parochial selfishness," narrowness "at the root of our disintegrating culture today." There is selfishness to be found even among those who express piety. There is a cool indifference "that regards the church as a hobby that can be indulged in as an extra in spare moments."

"The church is in existence by Christ's call." It will endure because it is not devoted to itself but to "an eternal kingdom." The church is not an aspect of society of the moment which will move out of history as a page that is told.

Significant Music

A large congregation heard Dr. Moore and the special music for the anniversary. Jeanne Pengelly, outstanding Canadian soprano, and the choir gave the aria and chorus from Handel's Samson—'Let the Bright Seraphim' and 'Let Their Celestial Concerts Unite.' The soloist also sang 'The Ninety and Nine' (Campion) and the air from Handel's Messiah: "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth.' Donald Kennedy directed the choir of 45 voices and was at the console of the organ.

The anniversary celebrations were continued at the evening service and at an informal fireside hour subsequent to it. Dr. Moore again preached and Miss Pengelly sang. The Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, minister of Trinity, conducted both services. Collections were assigned to the new church hall building fund.

A bank of daffodils fronted the nave from transept to transept.

M. Mather, Wm. Atkinson To Honeymoon In Florida

The altar of Keene United Church was banked with spring flowers and ferns for the wedding Saturday afternoon of Marian Katherine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn P. Mather, Otonabee, to Mr. William Joseph Atkinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Atkinson of Toronto.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. B. Herrington. Mr. Walter Morrow played wedding music and Miss Mary Macfarlane sang "Through the Years" during signing of the register.

The bride's gown was designed with long torso bodice and long sleeves of white Chantilly lace and overskirts of nylon net, all over white satin. Her floor-length veil of French illusion was caught with lily of the valley and she carried a cascade of red roses.

Mr. Mather gave his daughter in marriage. She was attended by her sisters, Misses Lenore and Beverley Mather. The former as maid of honor wore a gown of grey taffeta with overskirt of pale green net, and the latter as bridesmaid was in rust taffeta, also with pale green net overskirt. Their headdresses were of violets and they carried cascades of violets, each centred with a white gardenia and trailing ivy.

Stricken with polio 11 years ago when she was living in the United States, the doctors "sent me home to die in comfort", she said.

But she fooled the doctors and tackled the problem of rehabilitation. She took her pracical course for the technician's job at hospital here.

Miss Rogers wears metal braces from hips to ankles. She swings along on crutches or rides in her wheelchair. She travels to work by taxi.

A native of Stratford, Miss Rodgers is a graduate of MacDonald Institute at Guelph.

Theresa Lashwa Married At Marmora

MARMORA, Jan. 29.—(ENS).—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, Saturday morning, when Theresa Hilda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lashwa of Marmora Township, was united in holy matrimony to James Mark Thompson, son of Mrs. Charles Thompson and the late Charles Thompson of Eldorado.

The Rev. J. A. O'Neill officiated. The church was beautifully decorated with daffodils and chrysanthemums. Wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. Joseph Murray. During the ceremony, Mrs. Hugh Brady sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Lord, Who At Cana's Wedding Feast."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a suit of beige gabardine with wine accessories. Her corsage was American Beauty roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Frances Lashwa as bridesmaid, wearing a suit of wine gabardine with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

Groomsman was Gerald Thompson. Wilfred Thompson and Frank McCarthy were ushers.

A wedding dinner was served at the Royal Hotel, Marmora. At the reception the bride's mother received in a wine crepe gown with matching hat and corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore black crepe with matching hat and corsage of American beauty roses.

The bride and groom left for a trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y., the bride wearing a navy dress with wine coat and hat.

LaBrash-Temple

In Kingston Road United Church, Belleville, marriage vows were pledged by Margaret Elva Temple, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Temple of Peterborough, and Mr. Lyle LaBrash, son of Mrs. Emily LeBrash of Belleville. The Rev. Mr. Steers officiated.

The bride was wearing a becoming pale blue dress with white and blue accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Mr. George S. Temple of Peterborough. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Edward Whatman, her eldest sister, who wore a blue dress with corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Arthur Jinks of Belleville was groomsman.

A reception for about 20 guests was held in the Golden Acres Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. LeBrash will live on Herkimore Ave., RR 4, Belleville.

Immigrant Makes New Cradle For Princess

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Jan. 29 — (CP) — A doll's cradle—one big enough to hold a large-size "mama" doll—soon will be on its way to the Royal nursery at Buckingham Palace and Princess Anne.

The cradle, gift of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Mothercraft Society, represents hours of painstaking work by one of Canada's newer citizens, Stefan Sczwediuk who came from the Ukraine two years ago and now lives in the capital.

As it is made from Canadian wood by a new Canadian, "we think this gift has a special significance," said Mrs. Mackintosh Bell of Ottawa, chairman of the Ottawa branch of "Mothercraft" whose organizations in many parts of the Commonwealth give instruction in pre-natal care.

The Canadian Mothercraft Society, with headquarters in Toronto, is under the patronage of Queen Elizabeth, to whom the gift will be sent for her first grand-daughter.

Fun For Future

It may be some time before five-months-old Princess Anne, daughter of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, will be able to play with the gift. However, she will have a lot of fun when she begins rocking dolls in it.

The cradle is about 2½ feet long—plenty of room to rock a "mama" doll—and is made of beautifully-polished walnut.

In addition, Mr. Sczwediuk, recognized as a master wood carver, covered the outside in a national Ukrainian design—colored woods and brass inlaid in lovely patterns.

How and when the cradle will be sent overseas has not yet been decided.

Australian Scene Is Outlined At Reception

At the reception tendered the Right Honorable Francis Forde, Australian High Commissioner, and Mrs. Forde, by the Chamber of Commerce Saturday evening, a 50th anniversary cake was cut by Mrs. Forde. This month is the 50th anniversary of the creation of the federated Commonwealth of Australia.

Mr. Forde brought movies relating to Australia's industry, commerce, people and development which were shown to the assembly by Mr. William Graff.

Following the film Mr. P. D. Scollard, president of the Chamber of Commerce, outlined Mr. Forde's part in the political, and social scene of Australia during the last two decades. Mr. Forde replied, with quick shafts of humor, giving his audience a cursory survey of Australian history, present conditions and future. He called attention to the similarities between Australia and Canada in devotion to the Four Freedoms and the Christian democratic way of life.

Among the guests at the Chamber of Commerce reception were Mayor M. J. Swanston and Mrs. Swanston, members of city council and their wives, Bishop Berry, heads of industrial concerns in the city and their wives.

Stage Director Solves Problem

TORONTO, — (CP) — The problem of choosing between marriage and a career has confronted many young women, but it was no dilemma for Eleanor Evans. The stage director of the world-famed D'Oyly Carte Opera Company has both.

About 30 years ago Eleanor Evans was an aspiring young English concert singer whose teachers had earnestly advised her to continue her studies in Vienna.

But Darrell Fancourt, who was rapidly making his name in D'Oyly Carte's productions of Gilbert and Sullivan operas, had other ideas, chief of which was a wedding ring for Miss Evans.

Voice and Vienna lost out if only temporarily. The new Mrs. Fancourt toured England with her husband until one day she, too, was asked to join D'Oyly Carte. Singing again, she managed to work in some concert work of her own between roles in Gilbert and Sullivan favorites.

During the Second World War Miss Evans decided to leave the company. The lure of greasepaint and footlights was too strong, however, and in 1948 she came back, this time as stage director instead of singer.

Miss Evans is charged with seeing that no modern nonsense creeps in to spoil the glitter of the beloved light operas. She drills the company chorus, trains understudies, overseas scenery and lighting and costumes and watches the troupe's speech for slang.

"It's just like having an immense family to manage," Miss Evans smiles.

Four Bridal Attendants Crawford-Atkins Wedding

St. John's Anglican Church was scene of the wedding Saturday afternoon of Fay Audrey Atkins to Mr. Brian Kaye Crawford solemnized by Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Atkins, 420 Rubidge St., and the groom is son of Mr. Fred Crawford of Lakefield and the late Mrs. Crawford.

The altar was decorated with daffodils, ferns and palms. The music was played by organist Mr. F. G. Mann and Miss Nicolette Humphries sang "O perfect love" during signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was wearing a gown made on princes lines of white corded taffeta with bodice draped with white net. Her full length veil was of Chantilly lace and was caught to a tiara of seed pearls and brilliants. She carried a bouqet of red roses.

Bridal attendants were Mrs. Robert Groombridge, matron of honor, Miss Jean Fowley and Miss Gwen Crawford, bridesmaids, and Susan Smith, flower girl. Mrs. Groombridge was frocked in pastel green nylon and the bridesmaids wore similarly styled frocks of yellow and blue brocaded taffeta. Each wore a halo hat to match her gown and carried a bouquet of varying shades of pink carnations. The flower girl was dressed in pink net. She carried a basket of spring flowers.

Mr. Jack Fowley was the groomsman and ushers were William Atkins Jr. of Sarnia and Gordon Blake of Lakefield.

The reception was in the Empress Hotel Kawartha room. Receiving the bride's mother wore a dress of intermission silk crepe with matching felt hat trimmed with black velvet and a corsage of orchids.

DOROTHY DIX

Bored Girl Finds Aiding Others Real Good Cure

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 18. In good health. Graduated from high school and a small college. Have spending money, pretty clothes, ordinary friends, a lovely home, but I am the most discontented and fretful girl in town. I am bored to death. I have no interest in anything. If I had cruel parents or was married to a brute, I would have the comfort of pitying myself, but I have no grievance. What can I do to cure myself of this unnatural state of mind?

Dorothy Dix

RESTLESS ONE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You don't need the cruel parents nor the brutal husband as an inspiration for self-pity. You have gone on a jag of it on your own. You are just as drunk on your own tears as any sot could be on liquor. More than that, you are having the time of your life wallowing in woe, and the last thing in the world you really want is to have somebody drag you out of the hell you have made for yourself and cheer you up.

Stupid Or Selfish

The trouble with you, my young friend, is that you are either stupid or monumentally selfish, or you are a poser. Maybe you're a combination of all three. Anyway, you had better find out what's the matter with you and do something about it. It isn't natural for any girl of 18 to sit down and spend her time counting her woes. That is a diversion for the aged.

Wake up. Get on your tiptoes. Give some parties and invite all the young people you know so you can get in touch with the gang again.

Try doing something for other people. You might begin on your mother and father and try to brighten up your home. Hunt up some people in your community who haven't any of the blessings you so despise and try to help them. Helping those who are worse off than we are helps us a lot more than we ever help them.

And don't pose. Think how silly and ungrateful it is for you to pretend to be a martyr. A blase young girl doesn't look as romantic and interesting as she thinks she does. She is just a figure of fun.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My home is a bedlam in which my parents quarrel continually over my father's attentions to another woman. They use the vilest language to each other and even come to blows. All the neighbors hear them and I am afraid to bring anyone to the house for fear my parents will start a fight right before them. All of this quarreling is making a nervous wreck of me and I'd leave home if only I knew any way to make a living. I could marry, but I am not in love and I have been so much disillusioned about marriage that I don't want to rush into it. What can I do? I am an only child.

ANNE

ANSWER: I think the best thing you can do is to have a frank talk with your parents and tell them that you want them to get a divorce if they cannot live together in at least decent peace. Tell them that they are not only killing your respect for them by the way they are acting and ruining your happiness, but that they are also wrecking your health, and that in a little while they will turn you into a nervous invalid for life.

Perhaps that will bring them up short and make them realize the enormity of the crime they are committing against you and cause them to use some self-control. For, curiously enough, when husbands and wives quarrel they never seem to think that the charges and countercharges they hurl hurt the children worse than they do each other.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Is a woman ever justified in going about with a married man? I have a friend who is an attractive widow and who has two fine boy and a nice home. For some time she has been receiving very marked attentions from a man who is living apart from his wife but not legally divorced from her. Since the man cannot free himself from his wife is not my friend risking her reputation by going about with him?

ELFANOR

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There is mall profit to any woman in having an affair with a married man. Inasmuch as he cannot marry her, his attentions only compromise her and keep other men whom she might marry away from her, and if she falls in love with him she eats her heart out with the weary waiting and the hope deferred that makes the heart sick.

What's Right

A friend takes you to a party or meeting in her car, and you notice that she seems ready to leave.

WRONG: Take your time about getting ready to leave, stopping to chat while your friends waits.

RIGHT: Don't hold up the person who has been kind enough to drive you to and from the party. Get your coat the minute she gets hers, and be ready to leave as soon as she is.

Use New Methods In Reform School For Texas Girls

GAINESVILLE, Texas (AP)—They've reformed the reform school for girls here.

Now the Texas State Training School for Girls is more like a private school than a reform school. But there will be no mollycoddling.

Help a girl help herself; give her back her self respect—that's what Mrs. Maxine Burlingham, the superintendent, and her assistants want to do.

"When I came here 18 months ago," said Mrs. Burlingham, "the girls wore blue denim uniforms. Those who were being disciplined had their heads shaved and wore shackles."

It's different now. Being disciplined means room detention.

Doesn't Take Long

"You put a girl in her room, allow her to see no one," Mrs. Burlingham said. "It may take two days, maybe four days, but that girl sends me a note saying 'Mrs. Burlingham, please come see me.' That's when you can talk to her."

An unco-operative attitude warrants disciplinary treatment. A committee of officials at the school decides when a girl has shown such an attitude. Room detention may run from a week to a month.

Normal Clothes

The 180 girls at the school live in three brick, two-story cottages, with a housemother and her assistant in charge of each cottage.

They don't march; they stroll normally. They wear clothes which their families have sent them. If they have no family, the school finds clothes any ordinary girl would wear. They wear lipstick and other makeup if their family sends it to them.

One mild, sunny day the campus in the oak grove on a hill outside Gainsville was as clean as an army camp on inspection day. The basketball team in their new bright blue uniforms were practicing in the gym. No supervision. The girls know if they don't behave they can't play on the team.

Classes On

Classes were on in the school building. Formal instruction is given from the third grade through high school. The school also offers classes in business, in cosmetology, in vocational nursing, in cooking and sewing, in metal and leather arts and crafts, in floristry.

In the auditorium, the 21-member glee club was practising. They sing on the radio station in Gainesville and are in such demand for civic groups there that the school has to limit their appearances.

The girls came together for lunch in the school cafeteria. They are allowed to talk just like any other bunch of girls, but "the girls shush themselves," Mrs. Burlingham explained. "If school officials decide they are too noisy, they can't have their after-lunch cigaret."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Tripe Can Be Beautiful Don't Drift In Butcher Shop

I'm dead serious today. (Well, almost dead.)

I think that the majority of Canadian cooks drift.

They drift with the tide when they buy food, and as a consequence do the same when they cook it.

Instead of going to the meat market with a definite idea in mind of what they are going to buy I think many women permit themselves to be sold what the butcher has plenty of or what the butcher stands to make the highest profit from.

It is very easy and comforting to be told by dieticians like me that meat is good for us and indispensable to good health—because we like it so much anyway.

But there are so many kinds of meat that this does not signify that it is all well and good for us to provide steaks every day. Not by a jugful. I'm here to tell you how to endear tripe to your family. What is your reaction to that? Are you horrified? Skeptical? Or willing to be convinced?

Stay right with me and I will lead you to such a delectable dish that I'll trap you as a tripe cook for the rest of your life.

An undeniable fact is that meat prices will stay high as long as we keep on buying it at our present rate. But one way to bring meat prices down is to substitute with "variety" meats such as tripe, kidney, liver, heart, tongue and brains.

It is my intention that as fast as it is in my power, to convert you to be not only conscious, but habitual users, of these variety meats. They contain some enzymes and vitamins other muscle meats do not.

Preparation of Tripe

Always ask for honeycomb tripe. It is the choicest and the tenderest. Cut it into 2-inch wide strips to shorten the cooking time. Simmer in boiling salted water until tender. Strips require 2½ hours. If boiled in the piece it requires 4 hours.

Drain and dry the tripe and cut it into suitable pieces for serving—about 2 x 2 inches. Add salt and pepper to about ½ cup of flour and dip the pieces in this; then dip them in beaten egg to which you have added 2 tablespoons water; dip in fine crumbs. Melt 4 tablespoons butter or margarine until it bubbles and saute the tripe in this, turning once or twice, until crust is golden on both sides.

✧ ✧ ✧

Curried Tripe

(This is the dish I am featuring today and with which I hope to win you.)

Cut the tripe in ½-inch cubes for this after it has been boiled until tender as directed above under preparation. Simmer the cut up tripe in:

✧ ✧ ✧

Curry Sauce: No. 1: In 4 tablespoons butter or margarine saute 2 tablespoons each finely chopped onion, bacon, celery and, if on hand, green pepper for about 4 minutes. Then add 2 whole cloves, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2½ teaspoons curry powder, 1 tablespoon flour, and when this is well stirred together stir in 2 cups of boiling water OR 1½ cups boiling water and ½ cup tomato juice, until thick. The cut up tripe is added to this sauce and simmered in it for 2 hours over a very low fire. The heat must be very low or this will stick. For a richer curry sauce stir in 2 beaten egg yolks and 2 tablespoons cream just before serving time.

Those who are familiar with curries know this is customarily served on points of buttered toast. If you have the courage to try it, you will have another dish to add to your permanent file.

Elevator Girl Says Men Most Courteous

TORONTO —(CP)— Whatever the critics say, most men are polite to women, according to a Toronto girl whose job brings her into contact with thousands of men every day.

In fact, Isabelle Bonnelli sometimes wishes that the average man were a little less courteous when meeting strange females.

As supervisor of nine girl elevator operators in the 17-story Bank of Commerce, it's Isabelle's responsibility to transport about 8,000 persons up and down every working day.

Although the four passenger elevators travel at 700 feet a minute, Isabelle during her 11 years on the job has found that polite men interfere considerably with a smooth flow of passengers.

Jangled Nerves

Gentlemen waste both time and space, she explains, by waiting for women to leave an elevator first and by taking off their hats in the elevator. The ensuing delays mean angry buzzing by waiting passengers and jangled nerves for the operators.

But Isabelle doesn't really want men to act brusquely when they enter her elevators. Although gentlemen are a nuisance, she's not really angry at them.

To prove it, she passes on this tip to men who want an expert rating on their appearance: "Watch the girl operator's toes; if they curl up when you approach, you rate as quite a hunk of man. And if they curl up and she bends over and pushes them down, your terrific!"

Parents Barred From Toyland

LONDON —(CP)— A toyland paradise exclusively for children will be part of an ideal home exhibition in March. Parents will be barred.

Staffed by six state-registered nurses and 70 trained assistants, "Playland" will be the most sumptuous public nusery of its kind in Britain, covering an area equal to three tennis courts and capable of taking 5,000 children weekly.

Attractions include a modern milk bar, movie theatres showing cartoons and a racing track equipped with midget automobiles, jeeps, scooters and tricycles. There will also be an enclosure for swings, merry-go-round, slides and sandpit.

The matron, Mrs. Beatrice Fletcher, expects only one kind of trouble—a sit-down strike when guests are asked to leave.

Idea of the playland is to give parents a chance to park the kiddies while the grown-ups take in the rest of the show.

Woman Pilot Going To Korea

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 29—(AP)—A woman fighter pilot is going to Korea to serve with the United Nations air force.

She is Maj. Sabiha Gokchen, 36-year-old adopted daughter of the late Kemal Ataturk—"Father of the Turks"—and possibly the world's first female warbird.

The Istanbul press reported Sunday that she volunteered recently for active combat service and that the Turkish Government approved, apparently with the consent of Gen. MacArthur's headquarters.

Graduated as a regular Turkish air force pilot, Sabiha in 1935 flew combat against rebellious Kurds in Eastern Turkey.

6—In Memoriams

BRINKLOW—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Charles Brinklow, who passed away January 29, 1949.
In our homes she is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to her name,
Those who loved her in life sincerely
Still love her in death just the same.
—Lovingly remembered by husband and family.

DONNELLY—In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Jack Donnelly, who passed away Jan. 27, 1946.
The pearly gates were opened,
A gentl voice said "come,"
And with farewells unspoken
He gently entered home.
—Sadly missed by son Jack, daughter-in-law Judy and grandchildren Jane, Donna-Marie and Michael.

POOLEY—In loving memory of Sam Pooley a wonderful grandfather, who passed away Jan. 29, 1950.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
—Always remembered by Jim, Rose and Jimmie.

POOLEY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Samuel A. Pooley, who passed away one year ago today.
Those whom we love go out of sight
But never out of mind,
They are cherished in the hearts
Of those they leave behind.
Not dead, but passed beyond
The mist that binds us here,
Into the newer, larger life
Of that unclouded sphere
—Ever remembered by his dear wife and daughters Irene and Nancy.

SUCEE—In loving memory of Richard Sucee, who passed away January 28, 1946.
A loving father, so gentle and kind,
What a wonderful memory he left behind,
Long days, long nights he bore his pain
To wait for cure, but all in vain.
—Ever remembered by Janie and Clarence.

Bayonet-Wielding Turk Troops Happy

TOKYO, Jan. 29.—A tough Turkish commander in Korea whose rugged, bayonet-wielding troops Sunday knocked Reds out of two hilltop positions and stormed the road junction of Kumyangjang, 25 miles southeast of Seoul, told newspapermen, "My men were happy to have their chance to kill so many Communists. . . . We gained a little revenge on them, but we are looking for much more."

Gen. Tahsin Yazicki, the Turkish brigade commander, is still sizzling from the retreat his men were forced to make last November after fighting their way through overwhelming numbers of Chinese with fixed bayonets.

Perth Firemen Battle Masonic Bldg. Fire

PERTH, Jan. 29 (CP)—Perth firemen battled a stubborn fire for 2½ hours Sunday in the Masonic building on Foster Street in the heart of the business district of the town, 60 miles southwest of Ottawa. Damage was estimated at $10,000.

The blaze, of unknown origin, started in the attic of the three-storey stone building. Volunteer firemen, who poured tons of water on the fire through a skylight and holes chopped in the roof, confined the fire damage to the upper portion of the structure.

The building houses a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia on the ground floor, Robert Simpson Company's furniture store on the second floor and law offices on the top floor.

Farmer Gored By Bull Freezes To Death

CROSSFIELD, Alta., Jan. 29 — (CP)—Farmer Evert Green, 48, froze to death Saturday after being knocked unconscious and gored by an enraged bull on his farm.

The body was found by his oldest son several hours after he had gone to the barn for his morning chores.

Green's body lay about 200 yards from the house and the barn would have hidden the bull's charge from view.

New Supply Line Set Up To Aid Troops

BERLIN, Jan. 29—(AP)—The western allies have decided their main supply ports of Hamburg and Bremen are too close to the Russians for safety.

Therefore, a new supply line through France is being created to feed the growing forces that will make up Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Atlantic Pact bastion against aggression from the East.

U.S. authorities disclosed the change in strategy Sunday. The move was decided upon at a conference held in Fontainbleau, attended by military experts of the U.S., Britain, France and the Benelux countries.

Since the war, the British Army of the Rhine, occupying Northwest Germany, has been supplied through Hamburg.

Use Overland Route

The new plan calls for the British forces to be fed on overland routes from Antwerp and the Americans by rail and road from the French port of Bordeaux.

Hamburg is only 25 miles from the Soviet zone of Germany, where the Red Army has maintained upward of 250,000 troops. Bremen is equally vulnerable.

British and American officers emphasize that the decision to shift the supply line does not mean fear of an aggressive threat. One officer said that it "is simply not militarily sound to put a staging area in front of the troops."

Sweep Three In Trophy Play

The Ants swept three games from the Fleas in the Lillico volleyball trophy play at the YMCA Saturday afternoon. They won 14-10, 13-8 and 15-11 to share the league's leadership with the Bees who defeated the Moths 15-5 and 15-8, losing the third 15-11. Both the Bees and the Ants have 10 points.

The Bugs, in seventh place with three points, split with the Mosquitos on Saturday's games winning 15-11, losing 15-10 and tieing nine-all. The Spiders took two from the Locusts 10-8 and 14-11, the Locusts winning 13-6.

The league standing now is Bees and Ants, 10 points each, Mosquitos nine, Spiders eight, Locusts and Moths four each, Bugs three, and the Fleas two.

Steele was regarded as the best swimmer and all-round athlete in Ottawa during the last decade.

Chambermaid Saves 100 As Fire Destroys Hotel

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 29 (AP). —A lucky break and a young chambermaid saved nearly 100 persons from possible death Sunday as fire destroyed the Earle Hotel, a familiar landmark in downtown Scranton.

About a dozen persons were taken to hospitals for treatment of injuries. Most of the injuries were described as minor.

Many persons escaped in freezing weather by crawling down hastily thrown up fire ladders. Two jumped from windows. Still others were rescued by Betty Barbour, 22-year-old chambermaid who stayed at her post on an elevator through flames and thick smoke.

Hotel Manager Richard Charette called Betty the heroine of the fire.

The fact that two patrolmen in a radio car had just stopped near the hotel for breakfast when Charette ran from the building yelling "Fire" at 4:20 a.m., gave scores of the guests a fighting chance for survival.

Otherwise many would have perished in their beds, Charette said.

The patrolmen—Willard Beynon and David Biggs—rushed into the blazing building, flashing lights, pounding on doors and howling to awaken the guests.

Charette awakened Miss Barbour and she dashed along corridors of the four-storey building to awaken the guests.

Then she began a repeated number of elevator trips, which ended only when police ordered her from the building.

$400,000 Fire Sweeps B.C. Waterfront

WESTVIEW, B. C., Jan. 29 — (CP)— The ruins of a $400,000 waterfront fire smouldered ominously early today in a westerly wind as firemen guarded against a further outbreak.

A 400-foot government wharf and its freight shed were destroyed Saturday by a fire of undetermined origin. A shift in the wind just as the fire was threatening gas storage tanks enabled firemen to get within fighting distance of the flames.

Two hundred spectators standing on the dock were ringed when flames and smoke broke through behind them. Some groped their way out of the dense smoke, while others waded to safety.

The fire—third major blaze in a year at this up-coast town— was fought in bitter temperatures. Sea water was sued in the fight after one hydrant froze over. A dredge was used as a fireboat.

Expensive Fire.

The $340,000 wharf wah built in 1946. Loss of the shed and its contents, including $20,000 worth of telephone cable, brought the total damage to $400,000. Two carloads of cedar shakes worth between $5,000 and $6,000 were destroyed.

Fire-fighters returend to the scene Sunday night after smouldering creosoted pilings threatened to burst into flames.

Fire Chief Jimmy Cant moved hoses into the dock area because he feared sparks driven by a west wind might spread from "home to home."

No one was injured in the fire.

Westview, which has a population of about 2,500 is about 75 miles North of Vancouver.

A Narrow Escape

US Bush Pilot Survives Night At 30 Below Zero

FLIN FLON, Jan. 29.—For nearly 48 hours an American bush pilot survived weather that skidded between 30 and 50 degrees below zero when his Aeronca aircraft made a forced landing on a lake 150 miles north of this last outpost of civilization in Manitoba.

The pilot, Francis Goodhall, was rescued Sunday by pilot Alex More, who spotted him walking around his downed machine.

The American pilot was forced down about 3:30 p.m. Friday on a flight from Island Falls, Sask., to an unnamed island near the eastern shore of Reindeer Lake. He and two other American fliers in Aeroncas started out Friday afternoon to deliver supplies to a group of men camped in the frozen north. The three aircraft left Island Falls together on a one-hour flight, but ran into bad weather with poor visibility.

Goodhall's two companions got through to their destination.

Pilot Unhurt

First reports indicated that Goodhall was unhurt.

More, the rescue pilot, is also head of the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Co's. air transport division. Three RCAF aircraft from Winnipeg and two from the Rivers station, in addition to smaller craft from Flin Flon, helped in the search.

Fear for Goodhall's life had been expressed by experienced northland pilots because of the extreme weather, although he had two sleeping bags, a tent, an axe, some matches and two sandwiches. His plane was not equipped with radio.

Choose Best Books

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 —(AP)— Book editors on more than 60 newspapers and a dozen magazines, plus another 20 independent writers, have selected John Hersey's novel "The Wall" and Marchette Chute's biography "Shakespeare of London" as the best American fiction and non-fiction published in 1950.

Czechs Finish 6-Month Purge

PRAGUE, Jan. 29 (Reuters)— A six-month purge of the Czechoslovak Communist party has ended and new party cards are being issued to remaining members.

The number actually expelled, struck off or reduced from full membership to candidate's grade has not been revealed.

Before the purge, the Czech and Slovak parties had a combined membership of 2,000,000 from a total population of 12,500,000. Membership now may have dropped by an estimated 300,000, or even more.

All that is definitely known so far is that the purge, which started last summer, has been carried out with great thoroughness in every town and village, in all government offices, in the railways and all other state enterprises, the civil administration, all nationalized business corporations and in hundreds of other institutions.

Officially, the clean-out is called a "screening," and is regarded as one of the regular, periodical features of Communist party life. Its avowed purpose in Czechoslovakia was to strengthen the party and turn it into a more-tightly-knit weapon of class struggle by ridding it of thousands of unreliable or luke-warm elements.

Hero Of Finland Mannerheim Dies

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Jan. 29 (AP)—Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim, Finland's national hero, former president and leader against the Russians in two wars, died Saturday night in a Lausanne hospital.

The 83-year-old soldier, who once was known as the uncrowned king of Finland, succumbed to heart failure following an emergency operation performed last Wednesday.

In Finland, the ringing of church bells preceded the news of the marshal's death in the first morning broadcast Sunday, and Finnish dirges followed the sombre bulletin. Soon the blue and white national colors were flying at half staff all over Finland. The average Finn was visibly shaken for the aged marshal was immensely popular.

Mannerheim's body was to be flown to Finland in a special plane Wednesday for burial.

In a special broadcast from Helsinki, President Juho Passikivi, who is 80, said Mannerheim "was not only a warrior tested on many battlefields, but also a statesman fitted for the task of peace. Endowed with the most excellent qualities as a leader, he performed deeds, both as a warrior and a statesman, of far-reaching influence on the destiny of his country."

James Wharry Speaks To Dairymen

Guest speaker of the St. Thomas Milk Producers' Association at their annual dinner at Union, Ont., James Wharry of Peterborough, was among the rural people of his youth Friday evening. It was held in the basement of Union United Church. A civic welcome was extended to him by his boyhood friend, Mayor E. C. Gliddon of St. Thomas, one of the head table guests.

St. Thomas Times-Journal reported that pictures of Mr. Wharry's world girdling trip, and his droll commentary, were greatly enjoyed by the large audience.

Explaining why he circled the world although he really went to investigate export possibilities to the Philippines and Hong Kong, Mr. Wharry said: "You know I work for a Scottish company. They found out when I got to Hong Kong that it was $15 cheaper to go on than to return the way I had come, so I went on around."

He reminisced, incidentally, about school days and the lesson in punctuality he learned from Ed Witty, veteran teacher at SS No. 9. Young Wharry injured a finger in Herb Johnson's woods when he and two companions on their way to school chased a chipmunk under a fallen tree.

Half an hour late at school, they were greeted at the door by Mr. Witty, with a rubber taw in his hand. The injured finger did not affect the impartial application of the rubber strap.

The major part of the address was a series of Mr. Wharry's impressions in the eastern world.

R. J. Churchill Heads ManagingEditors

QUEBEC, Jan. 29 (CP) — The 1951 Canadian Managing Editors' Conference closed Sunday after electing R. J. Churchill of the London Free Press as president. Winnipeg was chosen as 1952 meeting place.

The three-day conference concluded with off-record talks by Justice Minister Garson and S. T. Wood, RCMP commissioner, on preparations for dealing with subversive activity in the event of war.

Final event of the meeting was a luncheon for conference delegates from all parts of Canada given by Quebec City's newspapers.

Elections were held Saturday. Mr. Churchill succeeds D. B. Rogers of the Regina Leader-Post.

Other Officers

First vice-president, Irenee Masson, Quebec Le Soleil; second vice-president, Seth Halton, The Victoria Colonist; secretary, T. N. Morrison, The Welland Tribune; assistant secretary, Marjorie Budd, The Toronto Globe and Mail.

Directors are T. G. Lowrey, Ottawa Journal; Gilles DesRoches, Montreal Le Canada; Eric Knowles, Saskatoon Star-Phoenix; G. A. Morton, Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer; John Gordon, Winnipeg Tribune; Frank W. Doyle, Halifax Chronicle-Herald; L. N. Smith, St. Catharines Standard.

Use Sections

Vincent Jones, news director of the Gannett newspapers, suggested Saturday that daily newspapers organize their news presentation into sections.

The United States newspaper executive thought papers should try the idea of putting the best world, national and domestic news on their front pages and blocking out the rest of the paper into clearly-identified sections.

"I would make the reader habit work for me," said Mr. Jones. "I'd play ball with the subscriber by making sure he could turn instinctively to editorials, the women's page, the local section, the sports page, comics, the want ads, picture page or what have you."

Frank Starzel, general manager of The Associated Press, addressed the conference on security and censorship problems in Korean war coverage.

Date of the 1952 conference will be set by the new executive.

65-FOOT GEYSER PUTS ON SHOW—This spectacular sight was seen by thousands of Montrealers recently, when a water main was pierced by workmen laying feeder pipes on the corner of Sherbrooke and Guy streets. Backed by a pressure of almost 100 pounds per square inch, the geyser reached a height of 65 feet before city officials cut off the supply. It was the second major break in the water supply system within a week, but damage was not nearly as heavy as last Saturday when parts of the east end were flooded.

Tickets Weighed To Count Bus Traffic In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG —(CP)— Winnipeg Electric Co. doesn't count its bus and street-car passengers — it weighs them.

However, it's not the customer that is weighed, but the ticket he places in the fare box when he travels by street-car, bus or trolley coach.

Accurate scales make it possible for company officials to determine how many passengers travel on each route daily.

But there are some complications. Damp tickets, for instance.

"We have found a street-car ticket doesn't weigh the same every day," said F. S. Cook, assistant treasurer of the company. "The more moisture there is in the air, the heavier the ticket."

This difficulty is overcome by counting, weighing and calculating each day the number of tickets to an ounce. The number varies from 185 to 195.

The transit company also has machines for separating coins from tickets, and for separating and counting the coins themselves.

Officials have little difficulty these days with people who place phony tickets in the fare box. Occasionally, they get a street-car ticket from some other city.

Few Bad Fares

"I don't imagine we get more than 10 or 15 bad fares a day out of the more than 250,000 passengers we carry," said Mr. Cook. "But during the war, it was a much more serious problem with such a large floating population passing through the city."

A check of one day's receipts showed one theatre stub, a street car ticket from Montreal and another from Kingston, Ont. One person dropped a British sixpence into the fare box in place of a dime.

Winipeg's tickets, yellow for adults and purple for children, are not easily matched. Other cities tend to blue, white or red tickets.

And fare boxes on Winnipeg vehicles are lighted so the driver or conductor can see what is being dropped into the box.

No Longer Popular

The old dodge of dropping bread and milk tickets into the fare box is no longer popular. Bread and milk tickets are too expensive nowadays.

The complexion of public transportation in Winnipeg also is changing. In 1939, only four per cent of the traffic was carried by trolley coach. Last month the figure was 34 per cent.

Street cars used to carry 74 per cent of the traffic, but now convey only 35 per cent of the total. Motor bus travel has increased from 21 per cent in 1939 to 31 per cent today.

NeedImmigrants For Defence

GUELPH, Jan. 29 (CP).—Canada's expanding defence effort has placed a new priority on immigration, Walter Harris said Saturday night.

The Federal Immigration Minister, addressing the Guelph Board of Trade, said that while more than 150,000 children are graduated each year from Canadian schools and become available to industry, they aren't enough to meet the new burden of defence production.

"It is urgent that we augment our working strength," he said. "We must see we are prepared in the event that aggression should come within the next two years."

Doesn't Worry Keeps Young Pinza Formula

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 29 (AP)—Yipes! Here it is birthday time again and I am faced with the annual realization that "it's later than you think."

For a boost in morale, I wandered out to visit and get some advice from Ezio Pinza on how to stay young. The "some enchanged evening" guy is probably the United States' top expert on such matters. Didn't he make love to Mary Martin in his first Broadway show and to Lana Turner in his first big movie?

Right now he is romancing with Janet Leigh in "Strictly Dishonorable," which is not bad for a grandpa of 58. How does he stay so youthful?

"Worry is the thing that makes people grow old," he declared. "From it you get stomach aches, ulcers, wrinkles and all kinds of pains. You no longer enjoy life.

There Goes Pinza

"All my life I have gone by the theory that things will happen anyway, and no amount of worry will change them. I remember when I was 15 or 16, a friend asked me what I wanted to do in like. I told him I didn't know, but that some day I would do something so that people would say 'there goes Pinza' when I walk down the street."

And things did happen for the non-worrying Italian. First came bicycle racing. Although he admits "I didn't win a race," he was a colorful enough rider to win attention. Then came his triumphs in opera and, at an age when many men start thinking of retiring, his Broadway success.

Never Worries

"I never, never worry," he emphasized. "When I start to worry, I stop myself. Like yesterday. I was driving home from the studio and started to worry about the scene I had to do this morning. I didn't want to do the scene and I started to be concerned.

"I fretted about it until I was about a half-mile from the studio. Then I decided that was silly. I would wait until today and see what happened. Sure enough, when I came to work today, the scene had been cut out and I didn't have to do it."

As to his physical well-being, he said that he avoids eating fats and proteins at the same meal—"meat or spaghetti, not both." Exercise? "In the morning I bend over and touch my toes 10 times; that is all."

He had one last note of advice to men: "Make love to a woman—but not exaggerated."

TOUGHENING UP—Reserve and active force trainees take a breather during a routine trek, part of the winter indoctrination course at Camp Shilo, Man. Chief instructor Capt. William Harris of Port Arthur, Ont., gives the men a chance to cool off so they won't perspire too freely and freeze while bunking down in the open for the night.

Director Keene Sunday School 25 Years Honored

At the annual meeting of Keene United Sunday school a substantial balance was reported in the treasury. Good reports were given by the various superintendents.

A presentation was made at the meeting to the superintendent, David Edwards, who has held that position for a period of 25 years, of a lounging chair and a copy of the New Testament and Psalms combined. An address was read by Thomas Gall complimenting Mr. Edwards and thanking him for his long service.

"The boys and girls who are now young men and women will hold in their hearts many happy memories of you as their Sunday school leader, a friend and guide who loves God, and walks in the Christian path of life," Mr. Gall said.

The address was signed on behalf of friends and fellow workers by Angus Adamson and Thomas J. Gall. Mr. Edwards replied and thanked them for their kind expressions of appreciation.

"Maybe folks should look at security this way"

It seems to me that keeping yourself when you get up in years is something like keeping up a car.

You can't run a car on just gas. It's got to have plenty of oil and grease too. And I figure the same idea works with me and the money I'll need someday.

Suppose I get paid some kind of old-age benefit, the same as everybody else. I'll be mighty glad to get that money. But I'm going to want more money coming in. And that's just what I'm saving for now with my life insurance.

Even then I won't be living the life of Reilly. But at least I'll have most of the comforts I want. And right now it's mighty good to know that if anything happens to me, my life insurance will take care of my family.

Anyhow, don't you think a man should help provide for his own security? I do. And millions of other Canadians are doing it now — with their own life insurance.

Each year over 200 million life insurance dollars are invested for policyholders. Result: new homes, schools, roads, power plants and many other vital projects that promote progress and create jobs throughout the nation. Thus, while life insurance helps build security for you and yours, it also helps raise your living standards!

Scott's Mixed Bag Of Chat And Lord Advising Spanking

By JACK SCOTT

Nothing much in particular here today but odds and ends:

My favorite news story of the week, passed on by a reader in Ottawa:

LONDON — Weary parents whose slumbers are broken by junior's nightly howling might take the advice of a 36-year-old bachelor, Lord Mancroft.

"You hold the child upside down and give it a short, sharp jerk. This creates an air-lock and stops it crying at once."

The quicker you want to stop crying, the harder you jerk.

Lord Mancroft, speaking at a banquet, said he would not want it thought he did not like babies. He was fond of little girls—up to the age of seven.

Here is an inflation note:

Our office library has two lists of anniversary dates which I consulted recently on my thirteenth wedding anniversary. The older list, presumably outdated, rules that the appropriate gift for this anniversary is lace. The new list calls for furs.

Recent visit here of Oscar Levant brought out some lively stories of that charming, uncouth character.

My favorite is Levant's own story of his world's record as an unwelcome guest.

At one time Oscar spent so much time in the adjoining apartments of Ira and George Gershwin that he was known as "The Penthouse Beachcomber." Levant, himself, preferred Ira's digs because of a more abundant table and was there so much he once accused Ira of being in love with his own wife.

Levant tells of spending one night at George's apartment. As usual, his endurance exceeded the politeness of his hosts. Eventually, at six in the morning, when the conversation had been sustained for hours only by his garrulity, the Gershwins began openly yawning.

Levant marched out to the ice box, returned to the room with part of an apple in his hand and the rest in his mouth and mumbled, "Pardon me for eating and running."

The news that Paris is now making women's hats of wood, which means that women's hats have now been made of everything, recalls the delightful lyrics written by Sylvia Fine for her husband, Danny Kaye, to wit:

I'm Anatole of Paris,
I shriek with chi ,
My Hat-of-the Week
Caused six divorces,
Three runaway horses!
I'm Anatole of Paris,
My small frou frous
Cause headline news
From old back basements
To Fifth Avenue casements!
Let me get my paw
On a little piece of straw
And Voila! A chapeau!
At sixty bucks a t'row!

Will you hold still for a kid story?

This one's about the father who came home after a harrowing day at the office and found his two youngsters on a rampage through the house. To quieten things down he finally spanked them both.

The children, with their feelings more wounded than their hides, retired to their room. When the father went to bed he found a note pinned to his pillow.

The note read, "Be kind to your children and they will be kind to you." The note was signed, "Yours truly, God."

There's an excellent piece on General MacArthur in this week's Maclean's, written by Blair Fraser. (Blair provided the perfect defence for a column such as this one today. He once wrote, "Stealing from the writings of one man is plagiarism; stealing from more than one is research.")

There are a couple of paragraphs in Fraser's articles that are particularly revealing and may give a clue to the outlook of the Japanese under American occupation. Here is what he writes:

"I had dinner one night with a group of Japanese, one of whom had been a prisoner of war in Russia for two and a half years. I asked how they treated him. He said okay.

"'Of course,' he went on, 'we soon found out how to please the Russians. First we asked for Communist literature and read it. Then we put up pictures of Lenin and Stalin and big signs like "Down with capitalist imperialism" and "We want a people's democracy for Japan." The Russians thought we were converts. They increased our rations and gave us all kinds of privileges."

"He paused and giggled. 'You know, the minute we sailed for home, the very night our ship left Vladivostok, we tore up all that rubbish and threw it overboard.'

"During the rest of the evening," Fraser concluded, "he explained to me how much the Japanese people like democracy and how they admire General MacArthur."
